The magistrate ordered Williams to pay $100 of the amount owing to Dekker by Feb. 10 and the balance before Feb. 24. Failing this he ordered a distress levy against the farmer's goods and chattels and if this levy did not raise the required amount then Williams would serve a 10-day jail term.

Magistrate McAlister made a similar order in respect to an earlier conviction against Williams of failing to pay wages of $305 owing to another new Canadian couple he employed, Edward and Elena Lagys.

7 Die, 4 Missing Off China Coast

HONG KONG (AP) — Seven men were killed and four are missing in the loss of two U.S. military planes — one to Chinese Red ground fire — in the Strait of Formosa, the captain of a British frigate said today.

Ten airmen were rescued by the Halsey Powell, a U.S. destroyer. Allied warships Monday abandoned search for the four missing men. Red shore guns fired at a U.S. destroyer taking part in the rescue operations, but it was not damaged.

Cmdr. John A. Hamer, captain of the Royal Navy frigate Morecambe Bay, said two men were killed when Ped fire brought down a U.S. Navy Neptune patrol plane Sunday, six miles northeast of Swatow, a Red China port.

Hamer said the other 11 Neptune crew members were picked up by a U.S. Coast Guard Mariner with a crew of eight. But the Mariner hit a large wave while attempting to take off in rough seas, overturned, caught fire and sank, killing five more.

The British officer said 10 of the 14 were rescued by the Powell. He expressed belief that if the four missing had remained afloat, they would have been found in the intensive search during which his vessel remained 36 hours within sight of Communist shore batteries.

Hamer said tide and winds in the strait would keep survivors, if any, from drifting to the Communist mainland.

Allies Lay Down Shattering Barrage

SEOUL (AP) — Allied tanks, artillery and planes today unleashed another shattering barrage on Communist positions across Korea. It marked the fifth straight day of stepped-up bombardment.

U.S. Patton tanks, firing from front-line dugouts, blasted Red bunkers and trenches from Chorwon to Kumhwa in the Iron Triangle sector of the central front. The artillery joined in the thundering attack from farther back.

A heavy overcast blanketed most of North Korea, but the U.S. 5th air force said marine Skyraiders and South Korean Mustangs flew through the clouds in strafing and bombing strikes on the eastern front.

Sharp patrol fights flared on the eastern front and the U.S. 8th army said an estimated 105 North Korean Reds were killed or wounded.

Eleven U.S. B-29 Superforts unloaded 110 tons of bombs Monday night on two Communist supply targets in northwest Korea.

Have Dozens Red Airfields Near Japan

Two Air Forces Keep Close Eye On Each Other

TOKYO —(AP) —American and Russian jet pilots are fencing bloodlessly—and almost daily—over the frozen wastes of northern Japan, a U.S. general reported today in an interview.

Thus far they haven't tangled, but Maj.-Gen. Delmar T. Spivy called the situation "tense and explosive."

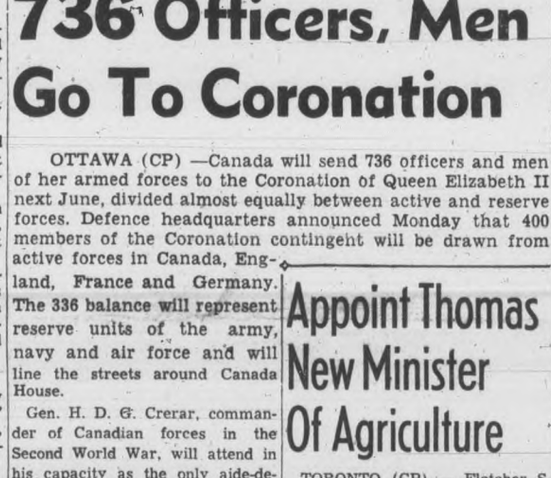
Spivy organized Japan's air defence—manned by U. S. pilots in U. S. planes and commanded it 2½ years. He left today to take command of the U. S. central air defence zone with headquarters at Kansas City.

DOZENS OF AIRFIELDS

He said the Russians have dozens or airfields on Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands—the closest only 13 seconds flying time from northeastern Hokkaido.

"We are watching them and they are watching us," Spivy said.

"When they fly we see them and when they head towards Japan that triggers off the air defence system."



U. S. jets streak into northern Hokkaido, Japan's snowbound, northernost island, on frequent alerts.

Sakhalin is separated from Hokkaido by 30 miles of Soya straits but Spivey pointed out that, from northeastern Hokkaido, the nearest Russian - held Kurile Island is only 2¼ miles.

NOT FAR AWAY

"That means Russian territory is only 2¼ miles from Hokkaido," he said. "At 600 miles per hour, that's 13 seconds from their territory to ours."

Defence headquarters announced Monday that 400 members of the Coronation contingent will be drawn from active forces in Canada, England, France and Germany. The 336 balance will represent reserve units of the army, navy and air force and will line the streets around Canada House.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of Canadian forces in the Second World War, will attend in his capacity as the only aide-de-camp general to the queen.

The navy will have 78 active and 45 reserve members; the army 206 active and 201 reserve men and the RCAF 116 reserve and regular force members from Canada and 90 from the active force in England and France. The navy personnel from Canada will go to the United Kingdom in naval vessels which will take part in the Coronation review of the fleet at Spithead.

MOSTLY KOREAN VETERANS

Most of the active army officers and men coming from Canada will be veterans of Korea who are also qualified paratroopers. Another group will come from army personnel of the 27th infantry brigade in Germany.

Included in the latter group will be the band of the Royal 22nd Regiment, in full dress scarlet uniforms, which will be on duty with the brigade at that time.

Four officers of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery in full dress uniforms will form part of the sovereign's escort. The remaining portion of the army contingent will wear the army's No. 1 blue uniform.

The main parties will arrive in England by boat May 15. They will have one week's leave in England and 11 return to Canada about the middle of June. The Coronation is set for June 2.

Badly Wounded, Leads Patrol

IN KOREA (Reuters)— With one leg broken and another badly mangled, Lieut. "Shorty" Fairhead of Montreal continued to lead a Canadian patrol attacking Chinese positions on the western front Jan. 13.

Men of the 1st battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment and U. S. Marines crawled through icy paddy fields under fire to reach their objectives.

The Canadian patrol came under heavy mortar and grenade fire 20 yards from its target, a ridge north of the hook. Fairhead was wounded in the legs by a grenade but kept going.

Lt.-Col. Peter Bingham, the unit's commanding officer, ordered a withdrawal but 10 of the patrol's 21 men were wounded before they reached their lines under covering fire from Canadian tanks.

Jury Places Blame For Death

BALA, Ont. (CP)—A coroner's jury found Monday night that the death of one of five men killed in a Dec. 23 train wreck at Southwood was due to failure to deliver proper orders to a southbound train at nearby Torrance.

The inquest was into the death of Y. B. Lane of New Toronto, front-end brakeman on a northbound Canadian National Railways freight train which collided head-on with a diesel-powered freight train between Washago and Torrance.

The jury added a rider recommending installation of an automatic block signal system on all single-track main lines.

Child Covered With Welts, Burns—Police

Report Youngster Lashed Heavily With Dog Leash

TORONTO (CP) —Police today charged a Toronto couple with the torture murder of a 2½-year-old boy who died in hospital early today. An autopsy showed Paul David Leblanc died of a fractured skull and a massive brain hemorrhage. Charged with murder were the child's mother, Edna Leblanc, 21, and Alexander Sielinski, 37. Investigators said the woman is Sielinski's common-law wife. Police said the child had been subjected to "unbelievably fiendish" disciplinary measures. His body was covered with welts and bruises from his ankles to his shoulders.

Police said they have evidence the boy was lashed with a dog leash, his hands were burned on a stove, and that red pepper juice was forced into his mouth.

Two other children of Mrs. Leblanc—one an eight-month-old son fathered by Sielinski—were put temporarily in the care of the Children's Aid Society.

Paul Leblanc, cared for by relatives since his birth, was brought to live with his mother 10 days ago. The other Leblanc child, Karen, is four years old.

Sielinski Monday night approached two police constables and told them his son was ill. Police took the boy to hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The couple's landlady, Mrs. M.J. Stephenson, said she saw the boy about a week ago and he looked then as if he had been tortured.

"He had burns on the palms of both hands, on his legs above the knees and across his toes and on the sides of his feet," she said. "His back was covered with black welts and Mrs. Leblanc told us he was terrified of a stick."

Mrs. Stephenson said that the child slept on crates and inner tubing covered with a dirty blanket. Toronto—add ld child

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stott of Orillia cared for the child for a year until his return to his mother.

Mrs. Stott said she had had the boy examined by a doctor "and he was in excellent health when he left us."

NEARLY COLLAPSED

Mrs. Stott nearly collapsed at the morgue today when she identified the body.

"It's hard to believe that anyone could be so cruel and inhuman to such a lovely child," she said. "If I had only given the baby to the Children's Aid Society, instead of back to his mother, this wouldn't

Drop Charge Against MP

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—A charge of unlawfully using circulars or writings soliciting votes for certain candidates on the day of polling was withdrawn Monday against Julian H. Ferguson, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Simcoe North.

The charge, laid following the Collingwood municipal election Jan. 5, was withdrawn after counsel John H. Hamilton said there was a deficiency in the complaint. Complainant Otto Buckwold then asked that the charge be withdrawn.

Wilfred Johnston of Collingwood, facing the same charge, was fined $15 and costs after pleading guilty.

1 Dead, 64 Injured In N. Ontario As Flyer Derailed

SIOUX LOOKOUT (CP) —Canadian National Railways' crack westbound No. 1 was derailed in sub-zero weather at nearby Ghost River early today. The railway said one man was killed and 64 others injured, four seriously in the tumble of passenger coaches. Relief trains raced help eastward from Sioux Lookout and westward from Nakina, through the snow-covered northland. No. 1, the Continental, left Montreal Sunday night for Vancouver and should have reached Winnipeg this morning.

Identified as killed in the crash was Wasyl Chelak, 59, of Unity, Sask. The CNR at Port Arthur said he was a railway man, travelling as a passenger.

Superintendent A. D. Lucas of the CNR at Port Arthur sped to the wreck scene, in the northwestern Ontario wilderness of rock, frozen lakes and snow-laden evergreens.

This morning when the wreck occurred it was about 14 below zero. There was nine inches of fresh snow in the area.

CNR officials in Winnipeg blamed a broken rail for the derailment. The hard steel tracks become brittle in extremely cold weather.

Two day coaches, the mail-express and baggage cars were overturned as the fast train spewed off the roadbed.

Two tourist sleeping cars, the diner and three standard (first class) sleeping cars were derailed but did not turn over.

Only the engine stayed on the tracks.

TAKE PASSENGERS ON

Beside the relief trains carrying doctors, nurses and wrecking crews, another train was sent from Winnipeg to take uninjured passengers there.

Mr. Chelak killed in the crash, was said at the CNR office in Montreal to be a railway section hand employed at Unity by the CNR. He came to Canada from Poland.

Ghost River is a small fur-trading post without facilities to care for the injured. Two doctors and nurses were carried in by train from Sioux Lookout.

First information to CNR in Montreal was that five persons were critically hurt.

CNR main-line traffic will be rerouted through the Lakehead until the wreckage is cleared.

Bazooka Explodes Kills 3 Soldiers

CALGARY (CP)—A bazooka exploded at Sarcee military camp Monday, killing three soldiers and wounding four.

Army authorities said all casualties were members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. Names will be announced after the army notifies next-of-kin.

An army announcement said the casualties resulted from the accidental explosion of a rocket launcher bomb, commonly known as a bazooka.

One officer said the soldiers apparently had been investigating what they thought was a "dud."

Doubt Wilson To Get Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chances that the Senate will approve Charles E. Wilson as defence secretary in the new Eisenhower administration appeared today to be shrinking—unless he gives up his huge General Motors holdings.

A Republican senator who asked not to be named said an informal survey indicated that at least one-fourth of the 48 Senate Republicans and nearly all of the 47 Democrats now are inclined to vote against confirmation.

Eight other Eisenhower cabinet appointees and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, chosen for federal security administrator, seemed likely to go into office today with the new President-elect.

The Senate planned to meet shortly after the inauguration to approve other cabinet choices. That was the only business scheduled today.

Even if the names of Wilson and four prospective defence department aides are formally submitted by Eisenhower; they will be referred to the armed services committee for a hearing Wednesday.

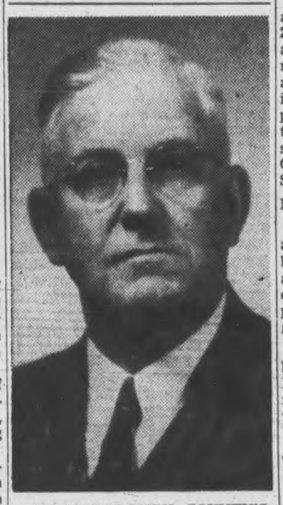
Officer Convicted In Front Line Case

IN KOREA (CP) — Lieut. John Robert Dufton of St. Thomas, Ont. today was convicted on charges arising from Christmas Day happenings on the front line in Korea.

He was sentenced to a forfeit of six months' seniority in his corps and fined $200.

A court martial tried him on charges of drunkenness on active service, abandoning command of his platoon and, without orders of superior officers, proceeding forward on the front line and endangering the lives of a search party sent out to bring him back. The court martial threw out the drunkenness charge after the defence contended no prima facie case had been established.

Dufton's counsel said later the sentence will be appealed.



Chief Defendant Sentenced To Be Shot

LONDON (Reuters)—The chief defendant in Bulgaria's spy trial was sentenced today to be shot for trying to overthrow the Bulgarian Communist government, Sofia radio reported.

The other nine defendants, all of whom were reported to have confessed at the opening of the trial, received prison sentences ranging from 18 months to 20 years.

The chief defendant, Todor Stoianov Hristov, was described as a former member of the Bulgarian Czarist army.

The 10 were accused of trying to foment counter-revolution with the aid of armed intervention from abroad. The Communist regime charged they worked for the United States and had been trained in an American-run "spy centre" in Turkey.

PETERBOROUGH COUNTY'S 1953 warden is Ernest J. Leeson of Havelock village. He was elected unanimously today by his fellow county councillors at the inaugural meeting, succeeding Warden Dick Stewart of Otonabee township. He has been prominent in village politics since 1927.

Heavy Succession Duties To Pay On Laughlin Millions

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyers are checking decades of records in an attempt to find the will of John Laughlin, the eccentric 104-year-old millionaire who was accidentally gassed Sunday in his rubbish-littered Toronto home.

They admit it is an involved problem. Mr. Laughlin's son, John Jr., 62, died in hospital Monday of the same fumes that killed his father.

Before the senior Laughlin's estate is settled, succession duties must be paid to federal and provincial governments. If there is no will or if there is no provision for the death of the named heir, further duties must be paid on what would be considered technically the junior Laughlin's estate.

Already seven relatives have come forward as possible beneficiaries, but unless a valid will can be found each one will have to submit a claim to the Ontario surrogate court. So far there are believed to be 10 relatives who may have possible claims on the estate.

John Laughlin, Sr., was found in his gas-filled home. Some $2,000,000 was found in property deeds and documents. Edward C. Klem, manager of the estate, estimated that 150 properties were involved, in Toronto and its suburbs, as well as land in Western Canada and Quebec.

Mr. Laughlin, Sr., was one of the first dairy owners in the city and became a big property owner, the biggest single owner in Toronto in 1929. He was noted for his kindness to tenants.

The junior Laughlin was graduated from University of Toronto and later became one of the city's finest real estate lawyers. Between them, they built a real estate empire.

Among the heirs are the first cousins to John Laughlin, Jr., Ellen, Jessie and Charles Campbell of Toronto; second cousins, Barbara Patterson of Ottawa, Rose Murphy, Margery Cox, Marie Higgerson, and George Williams all of Toronto; second niece to the senior Laughlin, Barbara Craig of Toronto, and a nephew to the late Mrs. Laughlin, Sr., William Cain of Toronto.

Two Planned Meetings May Decide Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Whether or not Canada's railways grind to a halt Feb. 2 as a result of a wage-hours dispute could be determined at meetings scheduled for today between the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the railroads.

The brotherhood, which represents conductors, trainmen, porters, baggagemen, road and yard employees and yardmaster, has threatened to call its men out on that date if it does not get a satisfactory settlement of its demands for 35-per-cent wage increase and a 40-hour week for yardmen. Average basic wage now is $1.29 an hour.

The BRT was scheduled to meet with Canadian Pacific representatives this morning, and with Canadian National officials this afternoon.

Two conciliation boards handed down recommendations on the dispute. The brotherhood's negotiating committee studied them for two days and "unanimously rejected" the majority reports offering a 12-per-cent increase.

6 Immigration, Travel Men To Be Held For Smuggling

OTTAWA (CP) — Writs were sworn out today for the arrest of six Montreal men — three of them former immigration officials, two travel agency employees and one former employee of the labor department, on charges arising from immigration irregularities.

A spokesman for the immigration department confirmed an earlier Montreal report that the arrests were imminent and gave the names of the wanted men as follows:

Jean Marcel Bourget, Charles M. Anfossi and Lawrence Sullivan all former immigration officers.

Pascal Petrecca and Gustavo d'Errico, Montreal travel agency employees, and Armand Theriault, former employee of the unemployment insurance commission which is administered by the labor department.

The spokesman said charges were laid as the result of investigations by the RCMP "into an alleged arrangement between travel agents and government employees to expedite the admission of certain immigrants from Italy."

There was no estimate of the number of immigrants who entered nor did the department disclose whether there will be charges laid against the newcomers.

Seize Five Guards 775 Convicts Begin New Riot,

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP) —Some 775 convicts at the Rockview branch of the Western state penitentiary seized five guards as hostages Monday night in a riot that followed by minutes settlement of a turbulent 24-hour outbreak in the main unit at Pittsburgh. The convicts at this central Pennsylvania prison took control of the three main cellblocks, barricading the entrances with chairs, mattresses and other paraphernalia. Two hundred and twenty prisoners who refused to join the rioting at the start set fire to a mattress and threatened to take three guards as hostages. But after consultation with prison officials the guards were released unharmed and the prisoners agreed to remain quietly in their cells.

"This thing has been brewing for some time," deputy warden H. R. Johnston told a reporter early today as he awaited the arrival of state officials from Pittsburgh.

During the recreation period, about 5:45 p.m., six guards were nabbed and their revolvers were taken by the convicts. One of the guards pleaded to the prisoners that he was sick and they released him.

BARRICADED IN BLOCKS

Prisoners in two of the cell blocks then barricaded themselves and in one block mattresses were set afire. The blaze was put out by the Bellefonte fire department.

Prisoners in the main block control the prison commissary and Johnston said Monday night they have food there to "last some time." The other prisoners have no access to this food.

In the two blocks where rioting started the prisoners control the mechanism which locks the block and cell doors. Johnston had guards string chains, secured by padlocks, across the block entrances to prevent escape attempts. In the third block, the same process was started early today. No escape attempts have been reported.

Meanwhile calm was restored in Pittsburgh, 160 miles away, where more than 1,000 prisoners returned to official discipline after the settlement.

The Pittsburgh prisoners agreed to release their hostages without harm and submit themselves to regular prison rules and discipline in return for a full investigation of their complaints and a promise of no reprisals.

East Germany Tightens Up On Churches

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communist regime, which has launched a purge affecting many Jews, swung its guns against the Christian faith in two moves Monday.

The interior ministry started a survey of all church buildings from the Elbe river east to Poland, and hinted that those buildings regarded as "unnecessary" for worship would be seized and nationalized.

Communist circles in Brandenburg voiced a new campaign against Roman Catholic priests. Potsdam youth brigades charged two priests with chastizing members of the "Young Pioneers," the elite youngsters of the blue-shirted Free German Youth.

THING OF PAST

The Communist newspaper Maerkische Volkstimme named the priests as Fathers Hillebrandt and Busch, and declared editorially that the influence of such men over East German youth was a thing of the past.

The East German Communists have charged Paul Merker, a Jewish former politburo member, and Kurt Mueller, former No. 2 West German Communist, with Zionist and pro-Western plotting.

Ten leading East German Jews fled to West Berlin last week, declaring a huge anti-Semitic purge was in the offing. However, reports that East German police already had begun a wholesale raiding of Jewish homes, seizing identity cards and placing Jews under house detention, were not confirmed by Jewish community leaders here.

Return True Bill In Murder Charge

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —A grand jury today returned a true bill in a joint murder charge against Glenn Nevers, 34, and George Amyot, 27. It requires them to stand trial.

The men were charged in connection with the death four years ago at Amyot of John Hargis, 68, whose charred body was found in the embers of his burned cabin about 200 miles north of here. An autopsy showed he was shot before being burned.

Nevers is formerly of Saint John, N.B.

KennedyReviews Achievements During Office

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas L. Kennedy today ended his career as agriculture minister of Ontario.

He held the portfolio from Sept. 16, 1930, to July 10, 1934, and from Aug. 17, 1943, until today, when his resignation became effective.

Mr. Kennedy, 73, who also was premier from October, 1948, to May 1949, will retain his seat in the Legislature as Progressive Conservative member for Peel.

He said he is volunteering his services to assist George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, in the next federal election. One report is that he will help organize the rural vote.

"It is my firm conviction that the return of a Progressive Conservative government would have tremendous impact insofar as agriculture is concerned," he said in an interview today.

OF GREAT BENEFIT

"The adoption and application of Progressive Conservative policies would be of great benefit to the farmer of Ontario and agriculture throughout the Dominion."

"The government should see that production is maintained and that the farmer is assured of a market for his product," said Col. Kennedy, "it should be the duty of the government to see that the farmer gets an adequate return for his labor and that surplus products are shipped to less fortunate parts of the world.

"Agriculture is the basic industry of the country despite our widening field of industry. Experience has taught me that all the farmer wants is the opportunity to make a reasonable living as free from government restriction as possible. Give him the essential machinery and he will work out his own destiny.

READY TO HELP

"It has always been my contention that the government should not tell a farmer how to run his business," said Col. Kennedy. "A government's business is to govern — to administer the laws, to provide the necessary legislative machinery under which the farmer can operate to the best economical advantage. It is not the government's or the department's function to tell a farmer how to run his farm but to be on hand with advice when requested."

He said he considered the major achievements of his department under his leadership were the creation of farm marketing plans, improvement of the standard of cattle in Ontario and the almost-complete elimination of disease from herds.

Qualifications For Firemen

Acceptance of applicants to the Fire Department shall be from 21 to 28 years of age, inclusive, not less than 5' 8" tall, and their weight in accordance with the recognized medical chart setting forth average weights for various heights.

They are also to have two years' High School education or equivalent. These qualifications are to be framed in an amendment to the bylaw pertaining to the department.

Other clauses in the report read by Ald. Harold T. Rehill, chairman, Monday night were:

"That a report be obtained from an independent medical doctor indicating the present condition of Assistant Fire Chief Virgil Carr, and more particularly when he may be fit to return to duty, and that conversation be held with his own doctor before securing this indeepndent report.

One clause gave assent to a proposal of the Fire Fighters' Association in their arrangement of relieving in duty Fireman Clarence Campbell.

Members of the Department volunteer to serve in place of Fireman Campbell on all duty shifts on which he would ordinarily serve. With that plan of temporary replacement Fireman Campbell is to be paid his usual salary for that period of his substitution.

It is to be discontinued when Mr. Campbell returns to duty medically fit.

Peterborough Gets Pat On Back

Gardner English, Winnipeg vice-president of Investors Syndicate of Canada, paid a compliment to the municipal administration of Peterborough in an interview with the Examiner Monday in the office of Sands & Bateman.

"I think your city's business is well handled," Mr. English said, "and I know something about it. Your community affairs are carried out well. The provision Peterborough is making for its schools is not the least of the city's enterprise that strikes me as being well handled. I have the impression that your community services generally are being carried out on a sound basis, including Peterborough's looking to the future."

That was a tribute not only to the elected municipal authorities, but also to the citizens as a whole.

Mr. English said there was a continuing demand for housing, and it should continue to be brisk as long as mortgage finances were reasonably available.

As to the general outlook for Canada for 1953 he said that subject was reviewed in the annual statements in recent weeks of the heads of various banks and other financial bodies. He briefly said that there appeared to be some increasing competition of bonds with mortgages.

"I feel that our Canadian conditions should continue to be quite favorable through the first half of 1953 and into its third quarter, but we can't see definitely what is in prospect. So many factors can be an influence. For instance, we do not know what may be the effect of the change in the administration of the United States.

"One personal view which I have is that we should continue to be interested in immigration. It seems to me that we have more to gain than to lose, and that immigration is one way of enlarging the number of Canadian consumers and thereby developing a greater home market for our own products."

policy of non-discrimination: "We reject any insinuation that one race or another, one people or another, is in any sense inferior or expendable."

Finally, Eisenhower called for new efforts to make the United Nations "not merely an eloquent symbol but an effective force."

In his immediate audience at the Capitol ceremony were the members of Congress, top officials of the old and new administrations, foreign diplomats and thousands of invited guests.

TO BROADCAST

Millions of others in the United States and Canada saw and heard the ceremony by television. Radio picked up his voice and carried it across the seas.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson administered the oath.

Eisenhower rested his left hand on two Bibles—one his own from West Point days, the other a Testament used in George Washington's first inauguration—as he repeated the oath.

Standing by was Harry S. Truman, the retiring president. In the traditional way, Truman and Eisenhower had ridden together from the White House to the Capitol.

ONLY ONE GOES BACK

But only one would go back. Tonight, private citizen Truman leaves for his old home in Missouri.

So ended, in a solemn moment of recess from Republican merry-making in the teeming, flag-draped capital, 20 years of "new deal-fair deal" rule.

And so began what the new president has promised will be a great crusade for peace, for freedom, for integrity and for prosperity.

Eisenhower approached his high moment with a prayer to God for wisdom and understanding.

While hundreds of thousands in jam-packed Washington scrambled in the morning hours for vantage points to see the noon ceremony and the following parade, the 62-year-old soldier-statesman and his family went to religious services.

BOWS HIS HEAD

In a front pew of the National Presbyterian Church, Eisenhower bowed his head as Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Elson appealed to the Lord to "give therefore Thy servant an understanding heart."

The minister prayed too that the general be granted "health of body, serenity of soul, clarity of insight, soundness of judgment and a lofty moral courage."

Mrs. Eisenhower, other members of his family, and the men Eisenhower has chosen for his cabinet attended the service with him.

Long before the set hour, thousands began gathering at the capitol for the swearing-in ceremony—the seal to the voters' endorsement of Eisenhower's "great crusade."

The seats there were reserved, however, and the real scramble was along the Pennsylvania avenue parade route from the capitol to the White House.

By daylight, people were setting up folding chairs at spots not filled by wooden stands erected by the parade committee.

It was cloudy and foggy in the morning hours but the sun broke through briefly. The temperature then was 41.

National Ballet Acclaimed In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The National Ballet Company opened a week's run Monday night to the applause of an appreciative audience and the approval of critics from Toronto's three daily papers.

Ballet enthusiasts whose apparel ranged from white ties and tails to corduroy jackets watched the presentation of the classic ballet blanc, "Les Sylphides," followed by two colorful acts of "Coppelia," a tyrolean-costume, toy-shop story.

Irene Apine of Halifax performed the leading role of Swanhilda in "Coppelia" accompanied by Grant Strate of Edmonton and Earl Kraul of Powell River, B.C., Lois Smith of Vancouver and Lillian Jarvis of Toronto. The artistic director for the company is Celia Franca.

Lieutenant - Governor and Mrs. Louis Breithaupt of Ontario were in the flag-draped lower box to the right of the stage. "I can positively say I know of nothing better on this continent," said Mr. Breithaupt of the group.

The company recently returned from a western tour during which it received rave notices. During the next week a varied program of new and traditional ballet will be presented.

Hugh Thompson of the Toronto Daily Star said: "We'd all heard of the company's triumphant tour through the west to Victoria, B.C., and the rave notices it got, but those of us who have been following the troup since its inception weren't quite prepared for the highly polished and colorful work they have achieved."

Herbert Whittaker of the Globe and Mail said in part: "Both in the opening ballet, Les Sulphides and in the two acts of Coppelia which followed, the National Ballet Company worked with the precision of a thoroughly secure and confident unit."

Rose Macdonald of the Telegram had words of praise for each of the individual performers and added: "The corps de ballet was delightful to watch, as well disciplined in ensemble movement and grouping, light in movement, superior indeed to corps de ballet sometimes seen with much more experienced companies."

Saskatchewan Not Very Happy At Rejection Of Irrigation Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Saskatchewan has not taken kindly to the verdict of the Hogg royal commission rejecting a giant irrigation and power development of the South Saskatchewan river.

A series of Saskatchewan leaders and farm officials, led by Premier T. C. Douglas, voiced disappointment and resentment after the commission report was tabled in the Commons Monday.

Most of them took issue with the cost estimate. The commission, under Dr. T. H. Hogg, former Ontario hydro commission chairman, said the project would cost $250,000,000.

In Regina, Premier Douglas said the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration was closer in its cost estimate of $104,000,000 in 1950.

SAYS MISINTERPRETED

"The commission has ignored the PFRA entirely and has misinterpreted the information which it placed before them," he said. "It is to be hoped the federal government will ignore the recommendations . . . and will accept instead the advice and estimates of its own officials in the PFRA."

The PFRA was set up in 1935 to rehabilitate farmers on land unsuitable for crop production and to fight drought Agriculture Minister Gardiner had the PFRA start mapping out engineering costs for the South Saskatchewan project 10 years ago.

Mr. Douglas said his government has "sufficient faith in the soundness of the project" to put up its share of the costs. The total cost would be about $130,000,000, taking into account price increases since the PFRA's 1950 estimate.

Alberta, which shares the South Saskatchewan river with Saskatchewan and Manitoba, supported the rejection of the project. Agriculture Minister Ure said in Edmonton the commission was a "very competent group" and the fact that it "backs up our judgment makes us feel that we have done a good job."

NO FORMAL COMMENT

There was no formal comment in Ottawa. But informants said Mr. Gardiner, who has backed the project from the start, likely will fight acceptance of the report on the grounds that the commission's estimates are far higher than the actual costs would be.

The project was aimed at providing cheap electricity and irrigating central Saskatchewan to help populate the area with more farms.

The commission said the scheme is currently unprofitable and that the money might better be used in a number of smaller irrigation and land reclamation schemes for the Prairies. The plan should only be considered, it said, for relief of widespread unemployment or when the area had enough population to warrant irrigation for specialized vegetable crops.

In Saskatoon, J. L. Phelps, president of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, termed the Hogg commission's investigation "a hurried whitewashing expedition undertaken by the two power men on the commission who gave no real thought to irrigation and the stability it would bring to the agricultural industry of Saskatchewan."

Truck Crashes Store Front, Damage Heavy

BANCROFT (ENS) — A heavy truck driven by Albert Gauthier, about 43, L'Amable, left the highway five miles north of here, at Bird's Creek, Friday afternoon and plowed through the front of a store owned by Bruce Parks.

The truck moved 15 feet into the store, missing the proprietor's wife by inches. Almost the entire northwest wall of the store was demolished, and the interior damaged extensively. Mrs. Parks suffered minor cuts from glass and shock. Driver of the truck was unhurt.

Police said the truck left the road south of the premises crossed the shoulder and a deep ditch, missed a hydro pole, and tore through the front of the store, leaving only the rear of the platform visible.

Corporal A. F. Greyling of the Bancroft detachment OPP is investigating.

Mental Health Problem Of Everyone, 250 Told At Organizing Meeting

"Mental health is everybody's business," some 250 city and county people were told Monday night.

John D. Parks, executive director of the Ontario division, Canadian Mental Health Association, was the speaker at the organizational meeting of the Peterborough branch.

Nobody is immune to mental illness, he said, and he referred to it as the "invisible crippler."

"The great problem of modern life is how to live with one another, with ourselves, and with the One who created us . . ."

Mr. Parks gave a brief account of the history and the work done by the CMHA, which began 34 years ago, confining itself at that time to surveys on how mental patients were treated in hospitals. Now the organization's chief work is in public education, service and consultation (including a national information and advisory bureau on all aspects of mental health), training (mental health institutes and courses for school teachers and other professional workers and laymen), and research.

CHILD GUIDANCE

The CMHA has been particularly prominent in its work among children. It established the first child guidance clinic and was responsible for the Institute of Child Study.

"At present there are 54,000 patients in Canadian mental hospitals," said Mr. Parks. "And there are as many beds occupied in mental hospitals as in all other hospitals and sanitaria."

The cost is $40,000,000 a year and there is a present waiting list of 25,000 people.

He said the treatment of mental patients had long ago passed the notorious "bedlam" stage, but the subject of mental health is still "surrounded by fear and stigma."

"These people are now treated as patients and humans who are ill and who will be brought back to their homes and communities again."

MORE PREVALENT

The CMHA contend that 10 per cent. of the Canadian population are suffering a degree of emotional or mental disability.

In the United States armed services during the Second World War 2,000,000 were rejected and another 700,000 discharged because that age group (18 to 40 years) was incapable of adjusting itself from civilian to service life.

This, said Mr. Parks, indicated that there was more mental disorder prevalent than was generally realized.

"A symptom that people are finding it difficult to adjust themselves to modern life is the growing addiction to alcohol.

"Our health problem is one in which everybody has a part . . . Every person has some relationship with others and must adjust himself accordingly. So mental health is everybody's business."

The principal functions of the local branch will be to educate the general public and offer advice on mental health.

Because some people still feel that poor mental health is a disgrace and something to be ashamed of psychiatrists are handicapped in their diagnosis and treatment of patients. To wipe out this attitude will be one of the principal aims of the branch.

Mr. Parks was introduced by Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, and thanked by Howard Moebus, director of guidance at PCVS. W. B. (Pete) Gordon was chairman of the meeting.

A half-hour film, "Angry Boy," was shown, to illustrate the behavior problems of a young boy as he tries to adjust himself to school, his parents and the outside world.

Springville United Has Camp Reunion

SPRINGVILLE— (ENS) —The basement of Springville United Church, gaily decorated with streamers, and camp snapshots, formed the setting for the annual reunion of the Quin-Mo-Lac Summer School Camp, of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church.

Some 120 young people and their directors sat down to supper.

The Rev. Frank Whitely, Dean of Study at the camp, expressed appreciation to Mrs. Elwood Johnston, president, and the ladies of the Women's Association of Springville for the meal, and also the Rev. A. E. Larke and the YPU of Springville, Fairmount and Mt. Pleasant for their hospitalitiy.

The Rev. A. E. Larke, director for the 1953 camp, was chairman for the evening, and introduced the Rev. J. G. Pollock of Grace United Church, who was the after-dinner speaker of the evening.

In an address that was both humorous and serious, the Rev. I. G. Pollock challenged the Young People to live a life of Christian Discipleship. He said, "Make yourselves mentally as well equipped as you can be. We are suffering from our own mental laxity, in learning the Christian Gospel."

He stated young people would be called upon to defend the Christian faith in which they were nurtured, and they must be sincere.

He urged young people to learn to speak naturally about their religion, in ordinary talk and conversation with the boys and girls they chum with. In that way," he said, "the healthiness of a Christian life will be presented in a Christian way."

In closing, he urged, "Let your mind, tongue, and heart, be devoted to the Lord of Lords who will one day conquer the world for God. Out of the heart is our devotion to the Lord of Life."

In the church auditorium Miss Marion Brown of Peterborough, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Starke was in charge of a brief recreation period.

Mr. Quirt McKinney of George St. Church in Peterborough urged the Young People to greater effort to raise funds to meet the mortgage on the camp. He stated they anticipate receiving, at least, $10,000 but they hope to get $20,000. The latter amount would enable the building committee to make a better camp.

The Rev. Anson Moorhouse, reminiscing on the beginning of the camp, mentioned that he had spent a couple of nights with people planning this camp, and during that time he had slept in an old street car.

About a year and a half ago, he added, he was sent to Portuguese East Africa. He was greatly impressed with the way Africans sing at work and at play to raise the level of African life.

He filmed the story of the "Life of Frederico Mussili" a native African to illustrate the work of the church of Jesus Christ in Angola today.

"King's Man," was then screened to the gathering. This film was particularly interesting to the campers. The African boy, now a native missionary, visted the camp in 1951, and through an interpreter spoke to the young people.

At the end of the film, the Rev. Moorehouse emphasized the need for full-time church workers.

He said it was at a Summer School he had first heard God's call to the work of the church, and urged yong people when they first hear God's call, to go to their minister for advice and help.

"I pray God that some of you may feel the hand of God upon you, leading you into some avenue of His Service," were his parting words. Rev. A. E. Larke asked for a period of silent prayer.

Mr. Larke called to the platform, the Rev. M. C. Fisher of Brooklin, Miss Meta Brownlees of Port Hope, Dean of Women for 1952; the Rev. Dick Bonspeel from Stirling, and the Rev. Dr. M. Smith from Campbellford, a study group leader. These are retiring from work in the camp but voiced wishes for success in the years, that lie ahead.

New workers expected in camp next year include, Mr. Ben Morewood of Mark St. Church and Mr. Norman Mackenzie, a returned missionary from China.

The re-union closed with a lovely Vesper Servfce, led by Mrs. Dick Bonspeel. A bus load of young people came from Foxboro. Others came from Stirling, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope and Lindsay.

Plan To Replace Rec. Commission

COBOURG (ENS) — Council Monday night appointed a special committee to look into the possibility of forming a recreational commission to replace the one which was broken up by resignation of the members. It was emphasized by the mayor that it would have to operate on a modest budget.

Councillor H. Richardson commented that the recreational centre directors would like to see its manager, the recreational director, as it would assist the finances. Town clerk Jack Ewart suggested that if a recreational commission is again organized it would need to be done without delay in order to get the cost into the 1953 estimates. Councillor Lilian Richards declared that she was not advocating a heavy budget but felt that no time be lost in getting a recreational commission organized. She added that she was not at the same time suggesting that the job of manager of the recreational centre be combined with that of the recreational director. The recreational centre was a Department of Agriculture matter, as far as the government was concerned and the recreational commission was a matter concerned with the Department of Education of the province, she pointed out.

Deputy-reeve C. Johnston declared that in several places the job was combined. On motion councillors Richards, Richardson and Rolph were appointed a committee to look into and report back.

Mayor Jack Burnet reported that the committee on parking facilities for the world plowing match to be held just north of Cobourg next year, had been in town that day and lc ed over the situation, and were satisfied that conditions were excellent as far as parking and ticket booths were concerned.

A delegation from the local Orange Lodge addressed the council to point out that the district celebration would be held here this year, the Glorious Twelfth being on July 11 this year due to July 12 being on a Sunday.

A housing sub-division plan from a local construction company was filed at last night's meeting and tabled with the other subdivision applications for consideration at a later date.

Thoughts About A New Cemetery

It is proposed to establish a new cemetery in North Monaghan, along lines which have been adopted in many parts of the U.S.A. The lots will be sold to as many people as possible, at once, on the principle that they will be needed eventually; with the money so obtained it is proposed to landscape the cemetery at once, and its appearance is to be that of a park, with a garden and a large monument in a prominent position. There are to be no individual headstones. Superficially the plan has a good deal to recommend it, but we think that there are things to be considered and questions to be asked before the proposal is made a fact.

* * *

Our Canadian tradition in this matter derives from the old British custom of burying the dead in the churchyard; we do not use our churchyards for this purpose, but we think of cemeteries as extensions of our churches, even when several churches share them. As a people, we do not like to think of a cemetery as a commercial proposition, out of which somebody makes a good profit. Our way has its drawbacks, of course. Some of our cemeteries are beautiful, and others are depressing, poverty-stricken places; some of our headstones are handsome memorials, and others are eyesores. The new plan assures a decently kept, possibly handsome park for burials, but it also means high-pressure salesmanship of graves to people who do not yet need them, and a commercializing of burial which we cannot like.

* * *

The burial of the dead is, in the last reckoning, a responsibility of society as a whole. Our cemeteries, governed by unpaid boards of citizens, and run without desire for profit, reflect our acceptance of this common responsibility. Our gravestones reflect our right to be as ostentatious or as humble, as tasteful or as tasteless, in death as we may be in life. It is true that the proposed new system, introduced from the U.S.A., removes the necessity for a bleak new cemetery with few graves in it, but it does so at a cost which we, as Canadians, may not wish to pay.

* * *

We do not mean a cost in money; we mean a cost in breaking with our own way of doing things; a cost in individuality, and perhaps some cost in decent human feeling. No flowers are permitted in these new-style cemeteries, save those planted by the company. A "selling-point" is that the upkeep of the grave need give the owner no worry. But not all people wish to be relieved of the responsibility of personally caring for the graves of their dead, or having it done under their direction. And there can be more love expressed in a bunch of daisies, wilting in a jam-jar on the grave of a beloved person than in the finest garden, kept up by a cemetery company.

* * *

Finally, we cannot escape a feeling that when the cemetery is full and the profit squeezed from it, the company will tire of it and want to hand it over to North Monaghan to keep. Companies spring up and ultimately go out of business; only society as a whole has continuance. We think that it is sufficient reason for society as a whole to attend to the matter of graveyards, however attractive the streamlined modern plan may be on first inspection.

In The Eye of the Beholder

Mr. Paul Levy, a Toronto optometrist, has made the interesting (though not completely novel) comment that many painters whose work is highly prized painted as they did because of faults in their eyesight. El Greco, whose paintings show greatly elongated human figures, may have seen humanity in that way because he was astigmatic; Renoir could have been myopic, thus accounting for the soft outlines in his work; perhaps Leonardo da Vinci was myopic, too, and the mystery of the Mona Lisa's smile is no more that the mystery of the painter's vision, akin to the troubles of Cousin Weak-Eyes Yokum; the fleshy exuberance of Rubens' women may have existed only in the eyes of the painter.

Possibly so, but we think that there is a little more to a painter's vision than Mr. Levy supposes. We all see the world in an individual way, not only because our eyes differ but because our tastes, our minds and our ideals differ. And these differences of taste are vastly more important than differences of eyesight. Beauty and ugliness are not only in the eye, but in the mind of the beholder.

Colonel George's Double Pay

No great furore is likely to result from an Opposition Member of Parliament's charges that Lt. Col. E. W. George, Liberal M.P. for Westmorland, in New Brunswick, has drawn more daily pay from the public treasury than there are days in the year. He has drawn pay in two capacities: as Member of Parliament and as commanding officer of a Reserve Army unit. The implication is that he drew military pay when he was in Ottawa, or parliamentary pay when he was in military camp.

The Opposition charge comes on the heels of the Currie report and is obviously intended to further embarrass the Minister of National Defence and the Government. In fact, if anybody in particular other than Colonel George is embarrassed, it should be every individual Member of Parliament.

Army paymasters are pretty careful to have their rolls in order. As Commanding officer of a reserve regiment, Colonel George is likely to have been attending to his military duties on parade days for which payment was made to him. (Incidentally, it is customary in reserve units for officers to make over pay to the officer's mess, and not to pocket it personally.) The duplication of pay is likely to have come about from Colonel George's capacity as Member of Parliament.

Parliament itself amended the Senate and House of Commons Act to read thus:

"In the calculation of any deduction from any member's sessional allowance on account of absence, days which were spent by such member on duty with his corps in a regularly organized militia camp or travelling between Ottawa and such a camp, shall not be computed."

In other words, the Members of Parliament have themselves provided that they will not lose any of the parliamentary indemnity because of absence on military duty, or on the way to or from military duty.

Colonel George is legally entitled, by the act of his fellow-members, to draw both Parliamentary pay and Army pay when he is with his New Brunswick Princess Louise Hussars. If there is anything wrong with this—and, from our point of view there is—it is the Members of Parliament, and not the Minister of National Defence, on whom the blame should be laid. We see no good reason, other than the M.P.s' desire to get as much pay as possible, why a Member should be counted as present and paid for his presence, when he is away on military duties.

Russia, The Old Bogey

The latest purges in Soviet Russia and her satellites, and the very longevity of Stalinist rule, should convince us that state Communism is no longer revolutionary; but conservative; nationalistic rather than international. Any government in office as long as Stalin's becomes more Tory than the Tories. (Where now is the socialism of the CCF Saskatchewan Treasurer?) Communist Russia today is on the age-old path of Imperial Russia in her oligarchy, her foreign policy and her closed trade.

Around the 1780's there was a man of this American continent named John Ledyard, a British-American mariner who had sailed with Captain Cook. He was misfortune's godchild; none of his great dreams ever came true. One of them was to establish a trade eastward from the Pacific coast. He proposed to Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson a plan for exploration.

The plan was this: to go to Russia, cross Siberia and at Russia's north Pacific coast to find a ship, no matter how primitive, engaged in trade with the Aleutian islands. When he reached the North American coast, he would cross the continent to New York on foot. The Americans did nothing for him, nor did a later patron Sir Joseph Banks, who was to head the Royal Society.

Ledyard set out over Europe without a passport and with only a few pounds. He crossed the Urals to the Ob river, and at last reached eastern Russia. He was being watched suspiciously, especially by fur traders developing the Aleutian fields (not iron mines, but fur trade). These Russian traders were at the same time preparing to expand from the Aleutians south along the coast of California. So Ledyard was arrested—in 1788—on orders from St. Petersburg. He was arrested technically for espionage—how modern this sounds—but actually to prevent his reaching the Aleutians.

The Russians deported Ledyard back to Europe the long way. He died in Cairo less than a year later, with the Russian Imperial curtain as his pall.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Even more than the return of the five-cent cigar, this country needs a return of the good five-dollar wedding present.

A 100-gallon still and 1,500 gallons of moonshine have been found in a cave in Kentucky. This is a plain instance of the liquor business being driven underground.

Science has now devised a machine called a cosmotron, which can reassemble split atoms. Relax, everybody! If the atom bomb reduces you to a fine mist, the cosmotron will gather you up again, probably with a few bits of other people incorporated in the job.

Big Purge Has Begun

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

SO THE BIG PURGE is on. When Moscow radio announced recently that a new conspiracy had been discovered against the highest in the land the hearts of millions of Soviet citizens must for a moment have faltered under the weight of a sudden horror; and it is not necessary to be in Russia today to sense the atmosphere of panic and despair.

❖ ❖ ❖

ZHDANOV, Moscow radio declared, the great leader, very close to Stalin, did not die a natural death in September 1948. He was murdered by his doctors. These same doctors are accused of conspiring against the lives of the great soldiers, Marshals Vassilievsky and Koniev and other members of the Soviet High Command. What next? Nobody can tell. Certainly no Soviet citizen in any position of prominence can tell today whether he will not find himself involved tomorrow.

❖ ❖ ❖

BECAUSE the charge against the doctors is only a beginning. Who stood behind the doctors? Who were their friends? Who were the friends of the friends? And so on to infinity. When Kirov was murdered in 1935 there was no immediate panic. The purge got under way slowly. But before it was finished it had all but wrecked the Soviet Union, and no single person in the country was safe from denunciation by his neighbour. The party, the Army, the Intelligentsia, were ravaged. And, the purges were not stopped until chiefs of the secret police men with the blood of millions on their hands, had themselves been purged away.

❖ ❖ ❖

WHETHER THIS NEW PURGE, too, will go wild there is simply no knowing. But the Russians themselves, with all too vivid memories of the 'thirties, will be asking themselves where it will end and whether anyone is safe.

❖ ❖ ❖

CERTAINLY the Russians expected a purge of some kind— or at least a fierce intensification of the constant purge that goes on all the time, flaring up and dying down, now here now there. Malenkov told them unmistakably in his report to the 19th Communist Party Congress in October that much purging had still to be done. And since then a good deal has been done on the lower levels of the Party. Suslov, (the Communist Party's chief ideologist) in his extraordinary retrospective attack in "Pravda" on Vozenessensky (former chief economic planner of the Soviet Union) on December 24, indicated that there would be action on the higher levels, too. Most Russians expected a major purge sooner or latter; but the expected, when it happens, is always a surprise.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE SOVIET AUTHORITIES are now building up a case against the poor wretched doctors, mostly Jews, who have been accorded the supreme honour of figuring in the first post-war treason trial. The doctors will confess. Their confessions will implicate others. These, too, will confess, implicating still others. We do not yet know who the others are. Stalin has in cold storage a number of prominent Soviet personalities who, long vanished into limbo, may be resurrected to play their allotted parts as traitors to the Soviet Union. They range from Voznessensky himself one time deputy prime-minister and member of the Politburo, through a whole series of figures who have disappeared from view at one time or another during the past four years.

❖ ❖ ❖

WHEN Zadanov died, two of his chief proteges, Popkov, Zhdanov's own successor as Secretary of the Leningrad Party machine, and Kuznetzov, a member of the Central Committee Secretariat, disappeared. Soon afterwards the Mayor of Moscow, G. M. Popov, was also dropped from the Party Secretariat and all his official positions, to take over one minor Ministry after another, until, in 1951, he, too, vanished. Another important figure who has simply disappeared is Manuilsky, familiar to the West as the Ukrainian representative at the United Nations, but more familiar to the Communist Party as one-time chairman of the Comintern—and, as such, closely connected with many of the men who have lately died in the Satellite states.

❖ ❖ ❖

ANOTHER and even more interesting affair is the case of Abakumov, who was not even elected in October to the new Central Committee. Abakumov was one of the right hand men of Beria, the chief policeman of the Soviet Union, and, until recently, Malenkov's greatest rival for power. Beria's star has clearly been waning since he reached his highest position a year ago. And certain references to the lack of vigilance in the security organizations made by Pravda in connection with the arrest of the nine doctors (who have been operating, according to the allegations, since the middle of the last war) suggest that the dreaded police force is itself deeply involved in the purgings to come.

❖ ❖ ❖

THEN there are the Jews. Just what role the Jews of the Soviet Union are cast to play in the coming weeks it is too early to say. Stalin has always set his face against the Jews; but so far his anti-Jewish policy has been quietly calculated and kept underground: there has been no serious attempt to inflame popular opinion against them in the past, and the anti-Jewish aspects of the Prague trial were soft-pedalled inside the Soviet Union. It looks as though now Stalin's policy may have changed. The Jews are always valuable as scapegoats when things go wrong. And, also, anti-Jewish action in Russia cannot fail to encourage sympathy for Russia among . . Arab nationalists in the Middle East.

❖ ❖ ❖

SO FAR we have only a beginning. We do not know what pattern of a ruthless struggle for power, of a clash of opinions inside the Kremlin, may not be revealed in the months to come. We can only wait and see.

Letters To The Editor

OPPOSE SALE OF GAME.

Sir: With regard to the proposal of the Ottawa Journal to make it legal to sell game, I quite agree with you when you say that it would be unwise. It is difficult as it now is for officers to watch or control

It would work out exactly as it did with the buffalo, ducks, geese and all the rest till a stop was put to it.

Yours,
JNO. J. COONES.

THE HOLINESS OF SEX.

Sir: Why couldn't sex-perverts, and all its perversions be cured and quickly,—even in the twinkling of an eye?

Just stop teaching, preaching, talking, playing at cross-purposes; recognize sex as it is; the unholy spirit defiles, devalues and muddles; without spirit it is not enough— it is flesh; but the holy spirited one lives to his and His glory; by this would all accident fire, and eventually death ceases,— for it is written who can deny? E.

COURT DESERVES CREDIT.

Sir: May I have a few lines in your paper to straighten A. J. out on his letter of January 16. Mr. Hawkins was at one time a shoe clerk in McWhinnie's Store on George Street in this city. He lived out on London Street and spent his younger days here. So A. J. does not know what he is talking about. Mr. Hawkins went to his brother in the States to live. His brother died and it was only natural that he would come back to his old home town. As for homes for the poor, A. J. is heartless as I suppose he is comfortable and cares only for A. J.

For jail term Mr. Hawkins asked for a place to sleep and eat. I think the court deserves a lot of credit in what they did for this chap.

Yours truly,
NORMAN GRAHAM.

TEACHERS IN DOURO SCHOOLS.

Sir: Since reading the letter of criticism directed at the Board of School Area No. 1 of Douro in Friday, January 16, 1953, edition of the Peterborough Examiner, I have obtained from an authoritative source the answers to the questions which were asked.

There is a considerable shortage of qualified teachers. Mr. K. O. Birkin, the Public School Inspector for Peterborough East, gave the School Board authority to hire students who had completed Grade XII, providing qualified teachers were not available. I understand all the qualified teachers' applications that were received, were considered first, but unfortunatey, they had accepted other schools by the time their applications were acknowledged from the Area. Two experienced qualified teachers applied for the same school: one, a married woman at a salary of $2,300, the other a gentleman at a salary of $2,000. Naturally, the cheaper one was hired. Would you call that false economy?

A married woman with a young family has a care and responsibility at home. When a married woman is hired for a year, and then in three months has to send in her resignation, isn't the School Board left in quite a predicament? Teachers are much harder to obtain after the beginning of the school term.

When no qualifieid teachers were available, the School Board hired three High School students. Do you think the Board did wrong in giving them a chance?

Due to wrong information, "An Interested Ratepayer" said that "in no school section having a representative on the Board (that is a representative with school age children of his own) has there been an unqualified teacher hired." May I inform you that in one school section having two representatives on the Board at that time, (both with school age children) an unqualifieid teacher was hired.

I agree that a courteous hearing should be given the parents when they attend a School Board meeting. If the parents do not take their complaints to the School Board, and, the Inspector does not make any complaints on his report to the Board , the trustees naturally assume that the children are being satisfactorily taught. Likewise, the teacher must have the co-operation of the parents in order to have the proper discipline in the school.

Hoping that if I am wrong in any of my statements, the School Board will express their opinion in the near future.

Thanking you for space in your paper, I remain,
ANOTHER INTERESTED RATEPAYER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, Ye have seen all that the Lord did before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land .... Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

Ye stand this day all of you before the Lord your God .... That he may establish thee today for a people unto himself, and that he may be unto thee a God, as he hath said unto thee, and as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob. (Deut. 29: 2, 9, 10, 13).

❖ ❖ ❖

I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and they seed may live: that thou mayest love the Lord thy God, and that thou mayest obey his voice, and that thou mayest cleave unto him: for he is thy life and the length of thy days. (Deut. 30: 19, 20.)

❖ ❖ ❖

For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart. Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do. (Heb. 4: 12, 13.)

❖ ❖ ❖

How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light. (Ps. 36: 7-9.)

Gracious

(William Chapman White in The New York Herald-Tribune)

The ad writing boys and the folks who edit the magazines on houses and how to live in them have come up with a new one. Today the clinching argument is "graciousness." "This antique snake-legged coffee table with pull-out roulette wheel makes for gracious living," they proclaim. Or, "A midnight buffet in aspic is what today's gracious hostess serves." It's all so gracious; some new muss to smear on potato chips at a cocktail party, a new combination bar-rotisserie-baby's pen, or a new hostess coat of Algerian burlap hung with ermine tails. It's also unusually expensive, but that may be just a coincidence.

Unhappily, resources won't always guarantee graciousness. A Hollywood hostess once gave an illustration of a certain lavish of grace. She was entertaining at a lavish dinner and was complimented on it by one of the guests. "It's simple," she said. "I have twelve separate dinners with all arrangements, depending on the importance of the guests. Even down to the proper dinner service. All I need to say to the butler is 'Important people tonight, Featherstonepaugh! Dinner number one!'"

As one of the guests picked up the solid gold plate in front of him and held it over his head to see that it was marked "six carats," he asked: "And which number dinner is this?"

"Oh," said the hostess graciously. "This is dinner number eleven."

But real graciousness has a fault. It is a quality that people see in a person, not that he can see in himself. To that degree it's something like a halo. It rarely happens in South Norwalk that a tired husband comes back from a day's labour in the city and dines on pork chops laved in anchovy but'er ("anchovy butter on pork chops is a gracious touch!"). As he stretches out in his elongated care-remover chair-with-built-in-massager ("a care-remover adds a piquant definite note to gracious living!") he say: "Goodness I feel gracious tonight."

His wife, dressed in a lounge-around of zebra hair ("lounge-arounds appeal not to the many but to the few who choose the gracious by instinct!") nods. Then she says: "I feel sort of gracious tonight, myself. But I'd feel a hell of a lot more gracious if you'd buy me that blonde chestnut living room suite which I just read was the latest grace note to gracious living."

Canada Best Bagpipe Market.

(U.K. Information).

An Edinburgh Scotsman whose somewhat specialised one-man business consists of making bags for bagpipes in his basement shop says Canada is his best market. Douglas Kewley's product was introduced to Canadians by a friend on a visit to Vancouver. Now Mr. Kewley gets many inquiries and one Canadian firm has given him an "open order" for as many bags as he cares to send at any time. In business only four years, he has supplied the Seaforth Highlanders in Korea and customers in India, Ceylon, Kenya, Switzerland and South Africa, as well as in the U. K.

George Defends 1951 Army Pay, Gave Full Value

OTTAWA (CP) — Lt.-Col. E. W. George, Liberal member of Parliament for Westmorland and commander of a crack reserve army regiment, said Monday he gave full value for his army pay in 1951.

The commanding officer of the 8th Princess Louise's New Brunswick Hussars spoke in the Commons on a question of privilege to reply to a question raised last Thursday by Carl Nickel (PC—Calgary West).

Mr. Nickel said that Col. George, for his parliamentary and military duties in 1951, charged the treasury for at least 413 days—more than are in the calendar.

Col. George said he gave up practically every spare hour to the reserve in 1951, the year he took command. He found the job took every hour he could give to it, both in New Brunswick and in Ottawa, and he charged the treasury for those hours and for no more.

RESULTS SHOW

The "many, many hours" devoted to the regiment and the support of his men showed in its record as winner of every prize available to reserve tank units.

"I resent deeply the imputation that I am in the reserve army for what I can get out of it," he said. "All these charges, implied or directly stated, I deny with indignation and with clear conscience . . . I have acted in the sincere belief that there is no ethical, moral or legal taint to what I have done."

He rejected Mr. Nickle's estimate that he had charged for at least 413 days. He said the figure was 333½ days. Parliament actually sat 161 days during two sessions in 1951. Since members were entitled to be absent 15 days each session and still draw full indemnity, there were 30 days that could be cut from the 161, leaving 131. He drew $10,000 during the year —a $2,000 living allowance and $4,000 for each session.

Col. George said he charged for the equivalent of 202½ army days.

Mr. Nickle had said the Commons sat a total of 224 days—he apparently included weekends, which Mr. George didn't—and deducted 15 days for a total in Parliament of 209. He estimated Col. George's army time at 204 days.

PROFESSIONAL STARVER—Willie Schmitz, of Frankfurt, Germany, demonstrates what a 79-day fast does to a person. The former wrestler had himself sealed in a glass case, and charged a fee to persons who wanted to see him starve. Subsisting on mineral water and cigarettes, he lost 78 pounds during the ordeal.

Chamber Of Commerce Urges Wider Immigration

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce today urged the federal cabinet to widen immigration doors to the point where Canada's population would double to 30,000,000 in 1975.

At the same time the chamber urged the cabinet to continue a selective policy, increasing immigration from the United Kingdom, France and the United States.

The chamber, national spokesman for Canadian business and industry, said that if the federal government continues the 1951 rate of immigration, only about 5,000,000 new Canadians will be brought in during the next 25 years. This, together with natural population growth, would leave Canada far short of the 30,000,000-mark.

EMPHASIZES DANGER

There was great danger, the chamber emphasized in its annual submission, in Canada attempting with a small population to hold its great heritage against an aggressive world.

In a brief presented by President Lewis W. Simms of Saint John, N. B., the chamber also called on the government to:

1. Set up an independent body to control radio and television in Canada, giving private industry a chance to compete against the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in the television field.

2. Restrict the operations of the national film board to its current level, allowing government departments to buy films from private industry.

WOULD AMEND LAW

3. Amend election laws as quickly as possible to provide for the single alternative vote in federal elections. This allows the voter to make a second choice on the ballot.

4. Reduce government "by order-in council" giving Parliament more leeway over its legislative, administrative and judicial powers.

5. Keep government interference in business to a minimum.

Wherever possible, business should refrain from looking to government to solve its problems and government should "refrain from imposing on business both the concrete burdens of restrictive taxes and the intangible burdens of a managed economy."

The chamber's proposals to the government, product of its annual meeting last October, reiterated its vigorous opposition to communism and applauded recent amendments to the Criminal Code dealing with treason.

It commended the government for avoiding price controls and urged it to continue to rely on fiscal policies to fight inflation.

WANT COMMISSION

But the government had to bear in mind that its revenue came from the pockets of Canadians. It had to search for economies. At the "opportune time" a royal commission should be set up to scrutinize spending and efficiency in various departments.

On foreign policy, the chamber urged closer relations with the United States and a simplification of U. S. customs procedure.

It called for progressive removal of tariffs on petroleum and other forms of fuel and energy between the two countries in cases where they constituted a handicap or deterrent to investment in production, distribution or trading facilities.

It urged the government to liberalize housing loan restrictions and take all steps along with industry to overcome the housing shortage.

HEALTH PROBLEMS

It displayed interest in health programs and said its 700 member boards and chambers across the country were planning to study the need for a program of health services.

The chamber said it advocates the single alternative vote as "the method best suited to bring about the election of the most acceptable candidates."

There had been a "growing tendency for members of Parliament to be elected by minorities where more than two candidates contested a constituency. "If this tendency continues the result may well be that the wishes of the majority of voters will go unrecognized."

Russians Worked Up

Life On Island Off N.S. Coast Causes Uproar

OTTAWA (CP)—Russia has discovered the idyllic "principality" of Outer Baldonia and suggests that the rocky island home of a fishing club in the outer Tusket Islands off Yarmouth, N.S., presents a scene of "the completest form of savagery."

The so-called principality exists only in the playful minds of a group of sportsmen who use it as a refuge during the tuna fishing season off Nova Scotia.

Moscow's Literary Gazette took the story seriously and in the Oct. 25 issue, as reported by the external affairs department, suggested that on Outer Baldonia is being established a new order that is very bad indeed.

Outer Baldonia actually is the barren, rocky outer unit of the Baldy Islands group at the southwest tip of Nova Scotia.

BUILT FISHING CLUB

On the acre of rocky soil some sheep were running wild when Russell Arundel, Washington sportsman and business man, acquired rights three years ago and built a fishing club.

It is near Soldier's Rip, the famous fishing ground off Wedgeport, N.S., where the annual international tuna angling contest is staged.

Mr. Arundel set up the so-called principality of Outer Baldonia, with himself as prince of princes and ranks of membership among his associates such as prince, knight and admiral, awarded according to fishing and other prowess.

He also proclaimed a monetary unit, "tunar," the value (or existence), of which is in some doubt.

LOTS OF LEEWAY

Citizens of Outer Baldonia may lie about fish, brag, swear, drink, gamble, sleep all day and stay up all night and otherwise cast off all inhibitions.

It is all in the spirit of good fun and good fishing. However, the Moscow paper's story says a "bourgeois newspaper, Industrikurier, an organ of the West German industrialists," which apparently told about Outer Baldonia straight-faced, describes something sinister.

Perhaps the Literary Gazette was having fun too.

It says "Mr. Arundel has set himself the aim of turning his 'subjects' into savages, and contends that he has given his subjects "the right not to adhere to the ethical and moral laws which have been established by mankind."

Request Ottawa Censure Soviet On Anti-Semitism

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Jewish Congress Monday urged that the government censure Russia for anti-Semitic activities in the Soviet Union and satellite countries.

In a meeting with External Affairs Minister Pearson, a group from the congress, headed by Samuel Bronfman of Montreal, said "the grim news emanating from Russia suggests the possibility of a large-scale anti-Semitic program as part of state policy."

The congress recommendations were prompted by reports from behind the Iron Curtain of arrests and trials of Jews living in Communist or Communist-dominated countries.

The congress urged that the government:

1. Obtain all the facts so as to be in a position to take action.

2. Censure Russia now and at the United Nations.

3. Give aid to any Jews allowed to leave Russia and its satellites.

SA Captain Speaker At Campbellford Club

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — "The Salvation Army Captain" was the topic of discussion chosen by Captain Mutton of the local corps of the Salvation Army when she was guest speaker at the Monday meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club.

Captain Mutton said Salvation Army captains were recruited from any walk of life, and require no special skill or education, but their training is of a particular kind. In Canada there are two training colleges, one in Newfoundland and the other in Toronto. At one of these "spiritual powerhouses" the captain is trained to conduct visitations, and to hold street meetings, and is tutored in Christian doctrine and Bible history.

They are expected to conduct an evangelistic campaign at all times, and at the same time raise money for the cause, relieve the necessities of the sick and the poor, look after the moral, social and spiritual welfare of the corps, and generally speaking to play the part of spiritual and temporal advisers to all who need help. In addition, the captain must find time to study and pray.

In accepting a captaincy in the army one must be prepared to do all these things and to be a teacher, a diplomat, a salesman, a guide and comforter, and even on occasion, a janitor.

In closing her talk, Captain Mutton related some of the amusing incidents in her ministry in various localities.

The speaker was thanked by Rotary President Frank DeCarrol.

Shriners Of District Curl Mostly For Fun In Bonspiel

Kawartha Shriners mixed their annual curling bonspiel with cards, chatting and refreshments Monday at the curling rink. Honors were divided in the social activities while the bonspiel honors and trophy went to Les Braunton's Lindsay rink. Emphasis was placed on re-newing old acquaintances and making new ones.

For a large number of the Shriners, it was their first time on the ice. For others, it was the second time, last year's 'spiel being their first attempt at curling. Still others were making a comeback and after years away from the sport.

The rinks always had the same skips but in many cases the vices, leads and seconds changed from one rink to another, just to make the day more sociable. It was nothing for rinks to call a halt at the third end, wander upstairs for a few hands at cards an then back to the ice to finish the game.

When it came to curling, Les Braunton's rink, which included Braunton as skip, Ken Griffin as vice, B. H. Schenk as second and M. P. Littner as lead, just edged past Ralph Wilson's Midland rink.

USE OWN SCORING

Working on the point system (this time just plain totals, not the regular curling point system), Braunton's rink totalled 29 in its three wins. Wilson's rink also had 29 points but had only two wins, losing to Braunton on the second draw.

FIRST DRAW

Summary:

Peterborough		Midland
Jack Fanning		Ralph Wilson
Skip	3	Skip 14
Peterborough		Lindsay
Dave Kerr		Les Braunton
Skip	2	Skip 10

KAWARTHA SHRINE CLUB BONSPIEL HONORS and trophy were won Monday in the annual 'spiel by Les Braunton's rink from Lindsay. With three wins for a total of 29 points, the Lindsay rink just edged out Midland's Ralph Wilson's rink which also recorded 29 points but only two wins. Chatting about their victory are (back row, left to right): L. T. Braunton (skip) and Ken Griffin (vice); front row), B. H. Schenk (second) and M. P. Littner (lead).—(Examiner Staff Photo).

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

An interesting district curling item comes from Milt Dunnell's Star column. Says he: "For years the stone-tossers have kept smugly silent while their game was held up as one of the few real amateur sports left. Never had they been blemished by receipt of a buck, until the Nipiwin incident (where cars were the prizes), you were supposed to believe: Actually, they're not that pure. It's more than likely that curling was one of the very first sports in this country to provide an expert with a modest return for his know-how. It happened this way: The twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul had a rivalry that was as keen in curling as the hockey rivalry of Port Arthur and Fort William. Both Minneapolis and St. Paul sent rinks to the big Winnipeg 'spiels.

* * * * * *

"One of the best curlers in Canada was a popular fellow named Bob Dunbar, a billiard marker in the old Manitoba hotel. After one of the St. Paul visits, Bob disappeared. The Yanks had taken him home as their coach. When Minneapolis discovered what was going on next door, they did just what Canadian football clubs do today. They imported an expert, too. Their man was Johnny McMillan, a lefthander from Lindsay, who played on the famous John D. Flavelle rink. Johnny's job in Mineapolis was to counteract any advantage which his fellow-Canadian Bob Dunbar, might give St. Paul.

From Keene To Hamilton.

"Against these two examples of curlers who profited by their skill in the game, the broom brigade can cite incidents of amateurism unmatched in other sports. Nearly 100 years ago, the Keene curlers of Eastern Ontario were among the most famous in the land. One of their most determined characters was a church elder, Thomas Davidson. When he got an invitation to compete at Hamilton, he made the 135-mile jaunt on foot. Of course, there was no point to going unless he had his beloved curling stone. So, he wrapped it in a woollen blanket and slung it over his shoulder. What, no broom?" Hm, they tell us there are still some pretty determined curlers around Keene.

Secretary Bill Fry of the ORFU intermediate section announces the annual meeting for next Saturday in Toronto. There were nine clubs in last year and all are expected back, along with six new entries and possibly a four-team northern setup. The intermediate grid game is becoming pretty popular again in this province, especially since Hamilton and Peterborough played off with Winnipeg in the last two years for Canadian honors. The six new applicants are: Welland, Balmy Beach, Parkadle, St. Thomas, London and Orillia. Golly, the local Orfuns would sure miss those good Orillia footballers who commuted up this way last autumn, now wouldn't they?

Big Water Ski Meet Here?

Alf Pink, president of the Otonabee River and Little Lake Cottagers Association, has made application to the Canadian Water Ski Association in Toronto to have the provincial open water skiing two-day championships held here in Little Lake on Aug. 1-2 or Aug. 8-9 this year. Winners of this meet enter the world's water skiing competitions at the CNE. Alf and Bert Thompson took in the association annual meeting Saturday in Toronto and 'twas intimated that Peterborough had a good chance of obtaining this big summer water meet. If his application is okeyed a meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce to organize for the important event smack in the heart of this city. More on it again as we get it.

After an idle OHA week or so up this way, our two clubs swing into action on the morrow. Lindsay tackles the Oddfellows here in junior "B" play on Wednesday and the locals will be striving to stay up there in the second slot back of Belleville. Lindsay are crowding 'em and Kingston are coming, too. They beat Cobourg 16-4 last eve. Oshawa won a four-point o'er Cobourg last start to keep in the hunt. Senior Petes trek to Orillia tomorrow and have Orillia here Friday in important melees. Must win both to keep in the hot race, warmer than ever since Kingston beat Oshawa 6-2 on Saturday and Orillia downed Belleville 11-4. Incidently, Petes are the only Club charging that low admission price in the group, all the others stepping their tariff up.

Marmora Gets TVL Win From Havelock

MARMORA (ENS)—In a fast game of hockey played in the Marmora arena on Monday night before 500 fans, the homesters won their encounter with Havelock by the score of 9-5. Each team netted in the first two minutes of the game which at the end of the first was tied three all.

Marmora obtained a four-goal lead in the second which the visitors failed to reduce in the final period although they managed to secure half of the four goals.

A new arrangement of the Marmora team had some merit. K. Trumble, Marmora's captain, got most points for his team with his two goals and three assists. Lavender and Loveless also got two apiece. Stewart, Gray and Maynes completed the count. For the losers, Kearns played a sterling game at centre getting two goals and two assists. Caravaggio and Newman went well.

Junior Gilliam Of Montreal Primed For Robinson's Job

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Jackie Robinson was visiting the office of Brooklyn Dodgers. "I'm glad you dropped in," a club official remarked. "I want to talk to you about next year."

"I'll get to the point quickly," the official said. "We have a kid second baseman in the minor leagues who we think is ready to take your job right now. His name is Junior Gilliam and he was the best minor league player of 1952. He may not be able to do all the things you do, but he's 10 years younger. . . .

"In short, we're grooming him for your job. Now, what we would like from you would be to help the kid as much as you can. We're asking a lot since you may be cutting your own throat. How about it?"

Robinson didn't hesitate for a moment. "I'll help the kid all I possibly can," he said. "I hope, for the Dodgers' sake, he is every bit as good as you say he is."

"But I'll tell you this. I'm not yet ready to give up my job—to Gilliam or anyone else. Maybe next year. . . but not this."

Jim Gilliam could cause a radical changeover in the Brooklyn lineup if he is as good as his press clippings. A switch-hitter, he batted .301 at Montreal, slammed home 112 runs and topped the International League in runs scored with 111. He played six positions for the Royals last season and also the year before.

Gilliam will be one of 24 newcomers at the Dodgers' Vero Beach Fla., spring training camp. Of the eight hurlers, the one most likely to make it is Ed Roebuck, 6-2, 185-pound righthander, who had a 12-8 record at Montreal.

Besides Gilliam the prize of the infielders and outfielders is Don Zimmer, 22, tabbed as certain to replace Peewee Reese — if and when. Don Hoak, 25, .293 at Montreal, is rated highly as a third baseman. Jim Pendleton, 27, is listed as an infielder and outfielder. He hit .291 at Montreal.

Seven full-time outfielders are listed. Gene Cimoli hit .319 at St. Paul. Carmen Mauro and Walt Moryn batted .327 and .276, respectively, at Montreal. Bill Sharman hit .294 at St. Paul, and Bill Antonello slammed 28 homers and drove in 130 runs at Mobile.

Tribute Paid By Fan To Grid Coach

From a Peterborough Collegiate football fan comes the following deserved tribute to an outstanding high school coach:

"Sir—Permit me to voice my appreciation for the fine efforts of our local PCI football team in again bringing the COSSA honors to the city. Gets monotonous, don't you think? However, it reflects the efficient coaching they get, plus a team spirit that cannot be surpassed.

The boys themselves put in many hours of hard work to perfect this habitual championship team. A word for the patient mothers who co-operate with the team and keep those late meals waiting for the boys.

What a coach we have here in Peterborough who can produce these teams so consistently. Not only district honors, but let's not forget the Dominion honors brought to the city a few short years ago. Analyse the college teams and local Orfuns' aggregation and you will discern the effective sports training at PCI.

At the close of another year it should be three cheers and a tiger for Bev Goulding."

Retirement Listing News To Williams

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission is listing former lightweight champion Ike Williams as retired, but Ike says it isn't so.

The trenton dandy who ruled all or part of the lightweight roost during a 13-year ring career, told a reporter Monday:

"That's news to me," said the 29-year-old ring warrior. "It's the first time I heard I was retired. I'm going to fight for another 12 months before I retire."

Hastings Wins By 10 To 5 Over Norwood

HASTINGS (ENS) — Hastings pulled out of their slump last night on home ice and climbed over the high-flying Norwood entry 10-5 in a regular TVL fixture.

It was a rugged contest on soft ice, but both teams concentrated strictly on hockey playing, so for a change penalties were few.

In the third period, Coach Red Creighton, of Norwood, got into an argument with Referee Cousins and was ordered out of the box.

Hastings started scoring at the 4.55 mark, and were never headed and at the 20 minute mark were ahead 4-1.

The second period saw the locals outscore their opponents 5-3, while the final stanza evened it off with a goal apiece.

Ball was the big gun for Hastings, with three goals and an assist, while Vitarelli with two, and Stevenson with two and one, were close behind. Fennell stood out for the defence.

O'Brien made his first appearance in the nets for Hastings and turned in a neat performance. Thorpe was top man for Norwood.

Oshawa Fumbles Belleville Date

BELLEVILLE.—Belleville Glen Roys skated out before 1,800 fans in Belleville Arena Monday, faced off, and scored a goal against a team that wasn't there.

The locals were to have met Oshawa Truckers, leading the OHA Senior B group, in a game that had been rescheduled from January 24. The Truckers didn't roll in, and the Glen Roys, the fans, and two referees rolled unhappily out of the arena.

The business of the face-off and scoring the goal against the ghosts of Oshawa was merely to show that the Glen Roys had carried out their part of the bargain. Lorne Cook of Kingston, OHA executive member, said Oshawa had been informed of the change in dates before Christmas.

Now the OHA must decide whether the game is to be forfeited or rescheduled.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

It was a dark, muggy sort of morning, the way Boston gets when fog rolls in from the sea on March days and nights. But it didn't seem possible it could be time to get up, and still be this dark, when the knock sounded on my hotel-room door.

Drowsily arising, and brushing sleep out of my eyes, I opened up. There stood Howie Morenz, fully dressed. I said: "Howie, don't you think it's a little early to be getting up? It's still dark. Where are you going?"

"I'm not getting up," said Howie. "I haven't been to bed yet. I've been out walking around the streets, thinking about that play I missed. I lost the game for the team, and there's no use going to bed, because I won't sleep."

And Howie dropped into a chair, buried his face in his hands. His shoulders shook, because he was crying like a little boy.

The night before, Canadiens had batlled a grim overtime play-off game with the Bruins. Both clubs had powerful teams, there was little to choose between them in playing strength, and nothing to choose, either, in the balance of that particular game. There had been a face-off, and Cooney Weiland, a great little centre-ice player who at one time held the scoring championship of the National League, faced Morenz. The puck shot into the air as the sticks clashed. Weiland jumped swiftly, batted it down with his hand, pounced on it like lightning and blasted off the shot that won the game, all done more quickly than you can write, or even read, the words describing the play.

Morenz was heart-broken. He felt that he alone was responsible for the defeat of the team, because that's the kind of man he happened to be. In all the history of hockey, there never was a more sincere competitor. Nights of an important game, indeed, on the night of any game, Morenz would be at the rink at least an hour before game time, restlessly pacing around the long promenade, as high-strung as a thoroughbred that is being readied for a race.

Howie Morenz died as he would have wanted it, in the harness of the game he loved. At least, he sustained in hockey the injury which led to his death. Hurtling in on an opposing goal, he tripped, fell, caromed skates-first into boards, shattered a leg. A great competitor, even when his blazing speed was losing glittering fire. He lived for speed, lived by speed, and for speed, he died.

The hockey world still recalls Morenz, but few know he came into big league hockey against his will, over his own tears, in fact. But that's another story, and some day it will be written, right in this Calvert column.

Your comments and suggestions for this column will be welcomed by Elmer Ferguson, c/o Calvert House, 431 Yonge St., Toronto.

Howe Plays Tag With Team In Scoring Point Totals

MONTREAL (CP) Gordie Howe of the front-running Detroit Red Wings seems to be playing tag with his team as far as points are concerned. Last week Detroit had 49 points and Howe 48; this week he leads 53-52. Both weeks he and the team led the National Hockey League.

Latest statistics show Howe's total is made up of a pace-setting 29 goals and 24 assists. His closest rival is little Wally Hergesheimer of the cellar-dwelling New York Rangers who boasts a 20-24—44 record.

FOUR FROM DETROIT

Of the top ten point-getters, four, Howe, Ted Lindsay, Metro Prystai and Alex Delvecchio, are from Detroit; two, Hergesheimer and Paul Ronty are from Rangers; another two, Cal Gardner and George Gee, are from third-place Chicago Black Hawks; and one each come from second-place Montreal, Maurice Richard, and fourth-place Toronto, Ted Kennedy.

Only fifth-place Boston can't boast a man among the leaders. Their top point-getter, Milt Schmidt is 25th.

Lindsay is in third place with 18 goals and 24 assists for 42 points, followed by Richard with 15 goals and a pace-setting 25 assists for 40 points.

Ronty follows four points behind with 13 goals and 23 assists with Prystai close on his heels with 12 and 23 for 35.

Kennedy has 31 points from 13 goals and 18 assists for seventh place. Delvecchio follows with 7 and 23 for 30, Gardner with 10 and 18 for 28 and Gee with 14 and 13 for 27.

LEADS GOALIES

Terry Sawchuk continues to lead the goalies with a 1.94 average though runner-up Gerry McNeil of the Canadiens has more shutouts—Six to Sawchuk's five—and a 2.16 average.

Toronto is the most penalized club with a total of 548 minutes off the ice, while Lindsay continues to hold individual honors with 84 minutes, or more than four full periods in the penalty box.

McBurney Leads Junior OHA Scoring Race

TORONTO (CP)—Jim McBurney of Galt Black Hawks is back on top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race after trailing the leaders by a slight margin for a few weeks.

Statistics released by the OHA, including games of Jan. 18, show McBurney with 47 goals and 25 assists for 72 points. Two of the goals came against Guelph Biltmores Saturday night.

McBurney's goal production tops the league. Orv Tessier of Barrie Flyers is his closest rival with 36 counters.

Bob Attersley of Oshawa Generals made a sudden spurt to take over second place with 65 points. Attersley scored 21 points in two weeks. Tessier, formerly with Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts, now with Barrie, is third with 64 points.

The two goalies for Toronto Marlboros, currently leading the league by 11 points, are atop the goal-tenders' race. Johnny Albani has allowed one goal in each of two games played. John Henderson has a nifty 2.36 average for 39 games. Dennis Riggin of Windsor Spitfires is third with 2.77 in 35 games.

Owen Sound Humbles Poor Tabbies 10-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tigers won't make the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A playoffs this season.

The last mathematical chance for the Tigers died several games ago and Monday night Owen Sound Mercurys drove the last nail in the coffin as they dropped the Tabbies 10-2 in Hamilton.

The Tigers, playing out the season with a team of former Junior B performers combined with a few of the once-formidable "old men of the mountain," are in the throes of a rebuilding program and offer no excuse for the dismal performance except "wait until next year."

IN FIRST PLACE

The Mercurys stepped back into first place with the win, one point up on Stratford Indians and they earned it. The Tabbies showed plenty of fight in losing.

Mike Bukacheski led the winners with three goals and Doug Gillespie and Jack Ingoldsby scored two each. Others were notched by Ray Grant. A 16-year-old Tiger named Jim McWhirter scored one Hamilton goal. The other was by veteran Ab Conick.

Savoie Decisions Glen Flanagan

MONTREAL (CP)—Armand Savoie, Canadian lightweight boxing champion, Monday night was awarded a unanimous decision over a clinching Glen Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn., in a scheduled 10-round bout here.

The Montrealer weighed 134 pounds and Flanagan 131½.

Flanagan clinched continually throughout the fight in an effort to avoid Savoie's reputed heavy punches. His holding tactics infuriated the Canadian champion and after the fifth round ended Savoie threw a few extra punches to show his disapproval.

There were no knockdowns.

Brian Kelly, 143, Niagara Falls, Ont., decisioned John Dorby, 138, Paterson, N.J., in an eight-rounder.

U.S. Wins Derby Cup For Medal Play

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP)—The United States Monday won the Derby Cup, emblematic of superiority in medal play in the international seniors golf tournament, with a total of 64½ points

Great Britain was second in the three-country tournament with 28 points while Canada was third with 15½ points. The matches were played at the 6,228-yard Mid-Ocean golf course here.

The United States team racked up 45 points of a possible 48 Monday. Canada, in second place with nine points after Saturday's three-ball, six-member matches, managed to get only 6½ points in Monday's three-ball medal play.

Maritime Fans Enjoy Having Their Hockey Rough

By FRED CHAFE

HALIFAX (CP) — "What a battle!"

The phrase, including the exclamation point, comes from a Charlottetown Forum newspaper advertisement of an impending struggle between Halifax Atlantics and Charlottetown Islanders of the Maritime Major Hockey League. It recalled a not-so-gentle clash in Halifax the previous week, and looked like an invitation to see more.

All of which leads to the widespread assumption that Maritime fans like their hockey rough, tough and wide open. League-leading Atlantics and second-place Islanders have contributed to the legend.

Murph Chamberlain, former Montreal Canadiens star of the National Hockey League and now coach of Islanders, has often been at the centre of things when the two teams turned the rink into a ring. He once sparked a near riot at Halifax by swinging at a spectator.

SITS OUT SUSPENSION

Chamberlain is currently sitting out a six-game suspension and his bankroll is $100 lighter after a melee at the island last week.

Charlottetown spectators, according to the report of referee Ross Morrow, sniped at the players with "tin cans, eggs, herring, apples, programs and other things." Their marksmanship was good, too. They scored a bullseye on Morrow with two apples and an egg.

Morrow ordered Murph to the showers after the fiery coach tossed some hockey sticks in his direction. Chamberlain declined police assistance and merely retreated to the back row, perhaps to get a better view.

If Maritime fans lived up to their reputation of fondness for bloodletting, this should have culminated in a carnage when Islanders moved to Halifax a couple of days later.

Instead the next two games—one at the now-sedate Charlottetown Forum '— —hardly brought enough penalties to keep the box warm.

That leads to a suspicion that rinksiders have no objection to a circus occasionally but they like a little hockey in between shows.

West Sources Best Ones For Big 4 News

TORONTO (CP)—You can't always find out what's going on in Toronto by staying in Toronto—particularly where football is concerned.

Two representatives from the Big Four Football Union met here during the weekend with two from the Western Interprovincial Football Union. After the meeting Cece McFaddin, president-elect of the Big Four, merely said that as a result of the meeting recommendations will be made to each league about subjects already discussed in the press. Whatever was discussed was to be withheld until next Saturday's Big Four meeting in Toronto.

Sources in Winnipeg and Ottawa, however, were more easily tapped. The western city reported that prospects for an interlocking schedule between the two leagues dimmed after the meeting. The report said finances were the main stumbling block and the new schedule would have to wait at least another year.

ASK FOR $15,000

From Ottawa came word that the Canadian Rugby Union will be asked to turn over half the $30,000 it received from the Grey Cup final to the two competing teams, Edmonton Eskimos and Toronto Argonauts. The teams will make a formal request later, said the Ottawa source. The $30,000 represents the CRU share of gate, television and radio receipts.

Ottawa said also that standard players' contracts and maximum salaries for both leagues were discussed.

Lawyers Have Trouble At Finn's Trial

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyers appearing at the trial of Kustaa Junnilla, 49, Finnish carpenter charged with fatally stabbing Lauri Kari, 48, another Finn, had a hard time Monday converting Finnish measurements to feet and inches.

A crown witness, Pauli Bordi, 23, now of Niagara Falls, Ont., testified through an interpreter that he drove Kari home last Aug. 30. He said Junnilla, who owns the house, ordered him to leave and just as he was doing so Junnilla and Kari began to fight. Soon after Kari came out bleeding from a neck wound.

Crown counsel Arthur Kelin asked Bordi how far behind Kari he was when they entered the house. "About a metre and a half," he replied.

NOT SURE

"A metre is 39.37 inches, is it not," Mr. Kelin asked. The witness did not know.

Bordi was cross-examined by defence counsel Arthur Maloney on his statement that he saw the two men fighting on the floor through the window of the front door. Asked how tall he is, Bordi said: "A metre and 65."

"Sixty-five metres?" asked the lawyer. "No, a metre and 65 centimetres," Bordi said.

The case is continuing.

RCMP Can Now Identify Person Who Stole Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Debate on the controversial Currie report is to be resumed today in the Commons, with a prominent Progressive Conservative as the first speaker.

George Nowlan (PC—Annapolis-Kings), president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, adjourned the debate Friday. He is expected to renew his party's request for a broad defence inquiry under George S. Currie, head of a Montreal firm of chartered accountants and former deputy minister of defence.

In correspondence tabled Monday—a day devoted to consideration of resolutions sponsored by private members—Justice Minister Garson said the RCMP have found sufficient evidence to identify the person who "stole" the advance copy "and to warrant a criminal charge against him." The person was not named.

CAN IDENTIFY PERSON

In a letter to Defence Minister Claxton, Mr. Garson said:

"The RCMP have now completed their investigation and their report discloses that a copy of the draft of the report by George S. Currie was stolen from a printing shop in Montreal between Nov. 25 and Nov. 29, 1952. In our opinion there is sufficient evidence to identify the person who took the report and to warrant a criminal charge against him."

Mr. Currie has been informed of the findings of the police.

This indicated that the government is giving either Mr. Currie or the printing firm first crack at placing any charge against the person identified. The government is believed to take the view that, since the document belonged at that stage to Mr. Currie and was stolen from the printer, one of those two—as the aggrieved parties—is entitled to the first chance.

GOVERNMENT COMES NEXT

If they don't act, the government will consider whether it should.

Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) said in an interview that the man who brought the advance copy to the CCF did not know how it had been obtained originally but that he was not the man who obtained it.

During the day's debate, Hazen Argue (CCF — Assiniboia) sponsored a resolution urging that family allowances be increased by 60 per cent to compensate for increases in the cost of living since the payments started July 1, 1945.

He suggested that minimum monthly payments be boosted to $8 from $5 a child and maximum payments to $13 from $8.

REJECTS PROPOSAL

Health Minister Martin rejected the proposal, supported by spokesmen for the Social Credit party.

Mr. Martin said he does not think Canadians would feel the government justified in adding another $192,000,000 a year to the present $320,000,000 annual family allowance bill.

If the government was going to make any reform he would be more receptive to the idea of boosting the age limit to 18 from 16.

Mr. Martin adjourned debate on the resolution. Following CCF objections, his motion was upheld by a vote of 91 to 40.

Minister Accepts Call

HANOVER, Ont.—The Rev. B. F. Andrew of Barrie Monday accepted a call by Bruce presbytery to be in charge of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church here and Ayton Presbyterian Church. He succeeds the Rev. W. J. Mark, who retired recently due to ill health.

Marx Brothers Won't Perform Again As Team

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Marx brothers will never perform again as a team, Groucho said today. That is sad news, because the Marx brothers at their zaniest would make Martin and Lewis appear like amateurs.

"The same people who yell for us to appear again as a team are the same ones who would be the first to holler, 'why did they have to bring those guys back?'" Groucho says.

Groucho adds that he and his brothers believe it is better to follow the old vaudeville maxim—"always leave them laughing."

Besides, both he and Harpo are well-fixed financially.

CHICO'S BROKE

"Chico is broke, of course, but that's not news. If that guy made $10,000 a day, he'd spend $10,000. That's his life. He's happy. What puzzles me is that he sleeps better at night than I do."

Groucho has one of the softest touches in television and radio. His quiz show, "You Bet Your Life," is telecast and broadcast simultaneously. It requires little time on Groucho's part.

He says that after 22 years, he finally has completed the cycle of all easterners who move to California.

Groucho said he first bought a mountain-top home, then moved to the beach and later to a canyon home.

JUST LIKE EAST

"Finally, you buy a house on a nice, quiet street where the milkman comes every morning and the kids play with the kids next door just like they do in the east."

He had a big house once but got rid of it after an incident that almost scared the pants off him.

He was off in a back bedroom when the door creaked and he looked up to confront a monster. It was his friend, Boris Karloff, made up for the first time as Frankenstein. Karlfof had driven across town from the studio in the monster get-up just for a gag.

"The maid let him in just before she fainted," Groucho recalled.

UAW Will Attempt Yearly Wage Terms

OSHAWA (CP)—The United Auto Workers of America (CIO) will attempt to obtain ahnual wage agreements for 1,347,000 Canadian and United States auto workers, Emile Mazey, international secretary of the union, said Sunday.

He told an annual educational conference of Canadian auto workers that the automobile employer expects his workers to "toil by the hour and live by the year."

Mr. Mazey explained that the new union program calls for a yearly wage scale for all employees now dependent on their hourly rate of pay.

To Back Strike Call

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Five hundred CNR and CPR workers in London will back a call to strike Feb. 2 against the railways in their wages-hours dispute, officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen indicated Monday. Union leaders plan a joint meeting of two London locals later this week to consider strike action.

Favor Children's Ward

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Members of the St. Thomas Kiwanis Club voted Monday to establish an orthopaedic ward for crippled children in the $3,500,000 St. Thomas-Elgin General Hospital if satisfactory arrangements for equipping and care of maintenance of the patients can be made with the hospital board.

Deserters Pay High

TORONTO (CP) — More than $600,000 was collected through the family court last year from husbands who deserted their wives and families, Judge Hawley Mott told city council Monday. Judge Mott, who has retired, was presented with an illuminated scroll by Mayor Allan Lamport in recognition of his 33 years' service.

Ask Fare Boost

OSHAWA (CP) — The Oshawa Railway Company Monday night applied to city council for an increase in bus fares. The company, a subsidiary of the Canadian National Railways, now collects 25 cents for three tickets. The new rates would be five tickets for 50 cents and 12 cents cash to adults and six tickets for 25 cents or seven cents cash for children.

Up On Fraud Charge

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — County Magistrate F. G. McAlister Monday set bail at $1,500 each for three Seaforth men, charged with defrauding Newbury residents of $100. They were remanded to Jan. 27. William Morrison, 33, Donald Wilson, 18, and Douglas Wilson, 20, were arrested at Seaforth Sunday charged with fraudulently obtaining money in deals for repairs to homes of Mrs. Dora Orr and Fred White.

Seek Missing Boy

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—Police and firemen and several hundred volunteers searched Monday night for four-year-old Paul McKenna, missing since dusk. The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McKenna, was playing on the street and was last seen near the Paris public library about half-mile from his home. The all-out search included the draining of the Wincey mill raceway.

Twisted Skeleton Convinces Police Of 155-Year-Old Murder

By OLIVER G. CLAUSEN

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A crumbling skull covered with golden blonde hair and a convulsively twisted skeleton established all but conclusive proof Monday that a beautiful young widow was slain by ghouls after being buried alive 155 years ago.

The remarkably well-preserved remains of Giertrud Birgitte Bodenhoff, one of the richest women in 18th-century Europe, were uncovered after 10 days of digging in a caved-in vault at Copenhagen's Assistens cemetery.

Carefully working his way through Giertrud's earth-filled coffin, Police Constable Theodor A. Binneballe got his fingers entangled in long strands of blonde hair.

Skilfully removing the moist clay—he is an experienced archaeologist—Constable Binneballe went on to uncover the mouldering but almost intact skull of someone who obviously had a slightly underhung jaw.

PAINTINGS IDENTIFY BODY

Judging by contemporary paintings, Giertrud's jaw was a bit that way.

Surgeons and a dentist slithered into the vault and agreed that the skull belonged to a woman about 19 years old at the time of her death—as was Giertrud. After examining the general shape and size of the skull, they declared themselves satisfied that these were the remains of the young society matron.

But had she really been murdered in her coffin?

The evidence at hand indicated that she had.

For one thing, her skull was found face downwards, although there could be no doubt that she had been buried lying on her back. And there was a distinct dent in her brow as if she had been hit with some sharp instrument.

Even more convincing to the medical experts was the curiously twisted position of the skeleton, which was uncovered shortly afterwards. The whole skeleton was lying partly turned over, the thighbones and spine bent convulsively backwards as if the young woman had been writhing in agony at the moment of her death.

ANCIENT TALE

An ancient tale claimed Giertrud was buried while in a state of suspended animation and the night after the funeral grave-robbers had made their way into the vault intent on stealing jewelry the rich young widow had on her when buried.

When one of them tore violently at an earring, the story ran, Giertrud awoke with pain and sat up in her coffin.

Unmoved by her horror, the ghouls raped her and killed her with a spade.

House Refuses To Write Off Outstanding Vet Farm Debts

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons voted 88 to 44 Monday night against a perennial resolution by Robert Fair (SC—Battle River) urging the government to write off outstanding debts on farms purchased by veterans of the First World War under terms of the Soldier-Settler Act.

Labor Minister Gregg, former minister of veterans affairs, said the government has been following a policy of gradually reducing the debt. It could not accept Mr. Fair's resolution.

Maj. Leslie Mutch, parliamentary assistant to Veterans Minister Lapointe, said that the outstanding debts should be paid within the next two years.

About 500 farmers still owe about $600,000. Approximately 25,000 veterans bought farms under the act for a total of $109,000,000.

WISE POLICY

Maj. Mutch said the policy of gradually reducing the debt was a wise one. If the government eliminated the debt entirely it might set a precedent that would lead some to believe that if they lived long enough and were stubborn enough they need not pay what they owe the government.

Mr. Fair said that after 34 years it was time the government gave the old veterans clear titles to their land.

He won support for his motion from Col. A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal). Col. Brooks said these men deserved consideration because they were the remnants of 25,000 soldier settlers who took up farming in Canada under considerable hardship.

Col. Brooks said the old soldiers have paid for their farms two and three times since 1919. It would only be justice to grant them clear title to their farms.

Selwyn United Church Holds Annual Meeting

SELWYN (ENS) — The annual congregational meeting of the Selwyn United Church was held Wednesday evening, January 14, in the church hall, with a very small attendance.

The minister, the Rev. D. P. Morris, was present and opened the meeting with prayer.

Reports were read and accepted on the following: Sunday school, People's League, treasurer, session, hall board and Woman's Association.

Bruce Fitzgerald, Harold McIlmoyle, Jim McConkey, Elton Millest and Ivan Davis were appointed stewards for the coming year.

The same elders were re-appointed: Melville Crapp, Gordon Fitzgerald and Donald McConkey.

Auditors for 1953 are Clayton Fitzgerald and Bruce Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Evans Blewett was appointed treasurer for another year and given a vote of thanks for her work in the past. Letters of appreciation are also to be sent to the organists and a vote of thanks was given to all who helped in any way with the wood for the church and after the meeting adjourned the ladies served lunch.

CORRECTION DEPARTMENT

An accident on Highway 28, six miles south of Peterborough, on Sunday, caused fender damage to two cars—one owned by Robert Blair, 46, of 283 Lake Street, and the other owned by Bernard Traviss, 29, of 590 Murray Street. The previous report of the accident said that both cars were going south, which was incorrect. The Traviss car was going north when the collision occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Blair deny that they struck the other vehicle; they contend they were on their right side of the highway. Mr. Traviss, on the other hand, contends that he did not cross the centre line of the highway causing the accident. Nobody was hurt, but there was damage to the left front fender of the Traviss car and the left rear fender of the Blair car.

Potato Prices Drop; Expected To Fall More

Potato prices are dropping from 40 to 65 cents a 75-pound bag, and are likely to go lower.

Retail grocers in Peterborough reported today that the decrease was not yet general, but one expected the situation would "snowball".

One store dropped its price within a week from $3.25 to $2.60, and another reported its present price at $2.95, expected to drop about 40 cents within a week. Ten-pound bags sold at about 49 cents, and would drop, said one grocer, about five cents to 44 or 45 cents.

Earl McIlwain, produce buyer for National Grocers, said that the potato market "right now is anything but good".

BUMPER CROP

Reason for the drop in price, he said, was a bumper crop in the United States, which sent 1952 production soaring millions of bags over the 1951 crop. Because of this surplus, there will be no demand south of the border for potatoes from the maritimes.

Normally a good market for Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick potatoes, the United States this year will pretty well bar the door on them.

The expected result is that maritime potatoes will flood the Ontario market and drive down prices. Another factor is the generally poor quality this year of Ontario potatoes.

Those grown in the Cavan-Millbrook district are good, but other Ontario centres have produced a lot of large potatoes that are hollow in the centre. In addition to this, there is considerable rot in Ontario potatoes.

Third factor in the drop in price may be mild weather, which induces improperly stored potatoes to sprout. Growers or middlemen who have not good storage facilities may have to unload sprouting spuds.

On the other hand, grower Delbert Olan of Millbrook offered a more optimistic picture. He said it was easier to explain the increase in price last fall. That was caused by heavy demand that followed a shortage of potatoes earlier in the year.

He said he didn't think prices would drop much more, although they would continue to drop for a few weeks yet. He had heard reports that the maritimes crop was not one of the best they'd had.

Present price, he said, varied from $2.75 to $3.

SUMMER IN WINTER

Why go to Florida? That's the question two Peterborough men are going to ask friends in Montreal in a letter. The pair drove out to the Kawartha Golf Club recently, stripped down to golfing shorts and T-shirts, and each posed on a tee while the other snapped pictures. The photographs, when they are ready, will go with the letter to Montreal. One of the golf club employees ran out when he spotted the pair, and confessed to them that he thought they had planned to play a round.

County Health Unit Plan Outlined To City Council

As a preliminary to conversations between Peterborough city and county councils regarding terms of agreement, scope and costs of services and other details of the County Health Unit system, Dr. R. G. Struthers, director of the Division of Public Health Administration, discussed the project with the members of the city council Monday, and by their invitation.

Several tentative approaches had been made during the terms of other Medical Officers of Health of the city, and last year there was a show of interest from the county council. It happens that the present MOH, Dr. J. P. Wells, was head of the Prince Edward county health unit before coming to Peterborough. To leave him in a neutral position at the present stage, the city decided to ask Dr. Struthers to come and discuss the set-up of a county health unit and the general plan of organization. Those were the antecedents to the meeting at the City Hall Monday night following the council's session.

RAPID GROWTH

"I like the way you have gone about this so far," Dr. Struthers said. "I am not here to try to sell you anything. County health units have been selling themselves so fast that we can hardly keep up in so far as personnel is concerned. City of Peterborough has had a good health department for years."

Dr. Struthers said that the city and county were virtually one community. In some counties, health services were the responsibility of township boards of health. Some Medical Health Officers were particularly interested in their township work. Others were busy with their professional calls and cases, and generally there was quite a variety of rural service, which on the whole was not as satisfactory as it might be. A county health unit got away from the part time MOH supervision.

SAME STAFF AND SERVICE

Peterborough city would not need much change in its health staff and service. For efficiency and economy in health work the population of a community should be more than 30,000.

In Peterborough, the city population was about 40,000 and the county 18,000 to 20,000.

In Brantford-Brant county, the figures were 40,000 and 30 to 35,000. St. Catharines-Lincoln county, populations were about the same around 37,000.

Guelph-Wellington, the population was 26,000-38,000. And so on.

Dr. Struthers spoke of the advantages to the city, especially in respect to the improved service in the wide belt of county area outside the city.

Generally, a Health Unit provided sustained health programs for the entire community, comprising city and county, with increased attention and efficiency in reaching the rural sections. The staff of a unit comprised doctors, nurses, sanitary inspectors and clerical help. Local doctors are invited to assist in certain phases of the work where the circumstances recommend that part time co-operation.

Branches of the service include school health supervision, maternal, infant and child hygiene, pre-

Central Fund Begun For Corbin Family

A central fund to help Mrs. Henry Corbin and her three children has been opened at the Peterborough Examiner business office. Any person who wishes can donate money to the family to meet hospital and funeral expenses to give them a decent living. The fund has been opened at the request of several organizations and readers who wish to see the Corbin family through this trying period. By now practically everyone knows the story, especially the driver whose car hit Henry Corbin and left him lying Christmas eve on Western Ave.

Corbin was hit while walking from his home on Western Ave. to a grocery store on Lansdowne St to buy a carton of soft drinks. It was about 8:15 on Christmas Eve that the car after hitting Corbin stopped, then drove off leaving Corbin seriously injured.

Only one person, William Estabrook heard the crash, but from his window he was too far away to read the license number. Although police interviewed witnesses who saw a car speeding in that vicinity, they have no detailed description of the car.

DIED AFTER 12 DAYS

Although he was missed around the Corbin apartment by his sons, Edward 4, Gerard 3, and the baby, Patrick, five months, the family didn't feel the last blow until 12 days later. Then Corbin died in Civic Hospital.

Since then neighbors have been helping the family in many ways. Besides giving more material things such as food, the neighbors have collected more than $200. This money has been banked and through arrangements by the Rev. R. A. Macdonald of St. Alphonsus parish, with the bank, it will be doled out at $25 a week until the mother's allowance comes through.

Meanwhile at the Civic hospital where Corbin worked, fellow employees and Local 19, National Union of Public Service Employees (CCL) have collected more than $200 to help the Corbins.

But these funds apparently won't fully supply the needs of the Corbin family. This a number of readers have realized with the result the Examiner will open a centralized fund.

Spear-heading the drive for funds are the employees of the Peterborough Bus Lines. This week they, the drivers, mechanics and office employees, banded together and collected $34. This money forms the basis for the Examiner's fund. Anyone wishing to contribute is asked to send or bring their donation to the Examiner's business office.

There is still $500 reward money waiting for the person supplying information leading to the arrest and conviction of the hit-and-run motorist who hit Corbin. Posted by the city council, it is the first time that the city has offered such a reward.

Mounting Toll

VANCOUVER (CP) — Complete figures show 34 persons died in traffic accidents in Vancouver in 1952, or three more than the previous year. There were 8,753 accidents with 2,450 injuries and property damage totalling $1,374,000.

Rice Lake Sheet Of Smooth Ice But Rumbling

Walter Smillie, manager of Civic Arena, may not like this: 25 miles of glare ice (no snow) and no charge at the gate.

That's a glimpse of Rice Lake as mentioned to the Examiner today by Col. F. E. Birdsall.

This phenomenal January has kept the district ski runs bare except for occasional dustings of snow which an overnight promise of approaching depth melted on the morrow.

But skating, as far as you can see from the Birdsall residence overlooking Rice Lake from the bay at the extreme east end at the head of Trent River!

This information should not be generally accepted as an invitation to skaters to take off from any shore of the lake without thought of the ice conditions ahead. If that expanse of ice attracts skaters, they probably should consult some of the people of the vicinity as a precaution of safety.

FINE SIGHT

This weather is probably not thickening the ice-top, but visually the lake is a grand sight in the sunlight in the long reach from the Birdsall farm to Bewdley.

And the ice has been booming these nights, and also mornings, with the changes in temperature, from the effects of contraction and expansion.

"I went out on the verandah last night to listen to the loud rumbling as the ice contracted with the drop in temperature," Col. Birdsall said. "It began again this morning as the sun came up the sky causing expansion of the ice. People on the hills of Otonabee as far up the township as Cameron's Hill have told me they could hear. But, down in the valleys the sound passes over them."

Recalling the hard winter of 1933 or 1934, the year of widespread loss in the apple orchards of central Ontario, Col. Birdsall said there were nights when the ice thundered to the sharp drop in temperature.

"Inlanders can hardly have an appreciation of those pressures. One day I saw a chunk of ice as broad as the biggest office desk top hurled ten feet or more into the air from the heaving caused by the ice pressure."

As long as the snow holds off and the thermometer holds at freezing or below that level, the miles of glare ice at Rice Lake will remain gleaming in the sun as the surface appeared this morning.

4 Young Escapees Caught In Port Hope After Break From Brampton Reform

Seen Running From Parked Car By Police
Ignore Warning Shots
2 Found Hiding; Others Captured By OPP

PORT HOPE (ENS) — Four youths who skipped out of Brampton reformatory Sunday night were caught early this morning at Port Hope. Two were arrested shortly before midnight in the town by town police, the other two were caught about daylight by an OPP constable. A routine patrol of east end garages yielded the first signs of the four. Constables Don Henderson, Bob O'Brien and Bob Smith noticed a parked car in one garage lot. When they approached, four persons ran away from it.

Constable O'Brien fired two shots in the air but the four did not stop.

A few minutes later the first youth, 19-year-old John Bainbridge, was found hiding in some bushes near the garage by Constables Henderson and O'Brien.

A block east, the same officers found Francis Morrow, 17, hiding between the storm door and the main door of a house.

RADIO ALARM

By this time, OPP Constable Bill Warner had sent out a radio call to detachment headquarters in Cobourg. On a sideroad between Port Hope and Cobourg, the last of the quartet were found by Constable Warner.

They were Russell Hynes, 19, and Gerald Cockburn, 17. Police believe they had walked along a railroad track which passes by the garage. They were arrested near the spot where the sideroad intersects the track.

Police records showed the car from which the four had fled had been stolen over the weekend at Galt. Two of the four were in reformatory on theft convictions, one of these was for car theft.

Brampton training school is one of the province's "open" reformatories. There are no bars, fences or armed guards at it.

The four had arrived at Brampton from Guelph reformatory only five days before their escape.

Mental Health Assoc. Elects Dr. T. E. Currier

Dr. Thomas E. Currier, a practising physician in Peterborough for the last 4½ years, on Monday night was elected president of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

A group of 250 city and county people—most of them representatives of interested organizations—took up every available seat at the YWCA. Those who couldn't get seats stood and the overflow crowd continued into the hall.

The Peterborough branch has not yet been chartered but a striking committee, headed by Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, brought in a list of nominations for the executive officers. It was approved without amendment.

DR. T. E. CURRIER

Dr. Currier, the branch's first president, is originally from Ottawa. He was graduated from Queen's University in 1940 and during the Second World War he was a medical officer in the RCAF.

In his post-graduate studies after the war he specialized in internal medicine, with emphasis on psychiatry.

Other officers are Norman Cook, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Clarence Coons of Lakefield, 2nd vice-president; Dr. Ralph Green, secretary; and B. W. Switzer, treasurer.

Community Fund Allots Goals To Divisions

Division objectives are: Women's $5,500, retail $19,250, industrial $41,800, special names $27,850, penny-a-day $600.

Asked For Reference Arrested For Theft

TORONTO (CP) — John Greenspoon, 25, walked into police headquarters Monday. He wanted a police reference to obtain a cab driver's licence. Instead he was arrested on theft and false pretenses charges involving $2,050.

Anthony Katunaner said he had advanced $300 to a man to obtain a passport, then more money to a total of $2,050 so he could make arrangements at Ottawa and Windsor to go to the United States to work.

Vote Delegate Be Sent To UN Conference

The Business and Professional Women's Club regular dinner meeting Monday evening at the YWCA was in charge of the north end group and a delicious dinner was convened by Miss Jean Horsfield. The meeting came to order with Miss Esther Thornton introducing the guest speaker, Mr. Leo Copp, head master at Peterborough Normal School.

Mr. Copp's enlivening talk was on the United Nations which he outlined from the signing of the charter at San Francisco just seven and a half years ago, representing 62 nations of the world. He described the UN library to which people of any country can send in their own currency for books and the World Bank operated for the organization members. He was thanked by Mrs. Jean Watson.

The meeting afterward voted to send a delegate to the UN Conference in New York this coming April 1, 2 and 3.

Appointment of Miss Birdie Dawson as standard bearer was made.

It was decided that in place of the community bridge of other years, each member will have a table of bridge at her home during the first week of February this year. The returns, plus the name of each player, are to be turned in before the February dinner meeting when the draw for prizes will be made.

President Miss Alice Hardwicke presided for the business and officers' reports were given.

Do Women Know Their Head Gear?

LONDON (CP)—Coronation poser: What's the difference between a tiara, diadem, circlet and coronet?

The answers, say fashion experts:

A tiara is a light-weight diadem such as the jewelled halo worn by the Queen at her wedding.

A diadem is higher with heavier workmanship and always finishes behind the ears. The Queen received a diadem as a wedding present from the Nizam of Hyderabad.

A circlet encircles the crown of the head, without a break.

Friendly Note Could Patch Possible Split Over Drink

DEAR MISS DIX: I am writing you on behalf of a friend. For about two years she has been dating—not steadily—a young man, with whom she is very much in love. Recently, she had been seeing much more of him and was sure he was growing fond of her. The last time they were out together they had a very enjoyable evening, and he left her in the very best of spirits, saying he would call soon. That was about a month ago and she has not heard a word from him.

She has been suffering greatly since, being both remorseful and unhappy. She fears she might have had a little too much to drink and, under those circumstances, said something which displeased him. She is sure if she sees him again, the whole thing could be straightened out. She hesitates calling to offer an explanation since the situation may not be as she imagines it, in which case an explanation would seem foolish. What can she do?

A LOYAL FRIEND

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: To ally her own apprehensions and feeling of guilt, your friend's best move would be to send the young man some sort of message indicating that she had missed seeing him, and hopes he is all right and that his silence has not ben caused by illness or any other trouble. Your friend apparently doesn't recall too much of what happened on their last date, so it is possible that the young man's speech and actions may not have been above reproach, leading to remorse on his part that has occasioned the silence. A friendly note from her would indicate that all had been forgiven—even though she has no idea of what she forgave. Such a situation, of course, could open a door to more complication, but under the circumstances it's about the best she can do.

SPECIOUS ARGUMENTS

How any young lady, who is trying to arouse the earnest interest of a man, can commit the supreme folly of drinking until she is befuddled is beyond me. The mere fact that she was intoxicated would be enough to send most men flying in another direction. At the time, he may have convinced her that by taking drink for drink with him she was proving herself a good sport, but such arguments are very specious—as our teen-agers say, they "don't bounce".

Your friend certainly should offer no explanation or apology, unless she really knows what she's regretting. In case the young man himself was somewhat the worse for wear on their last date, and may have overlooked the lady's condition, there's no sense bringing it to his attention now. The spot is an awkward one, but since your friend can't lose anything by making one or two friendly overtures, therein lies her only possible solution.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband goes to school three nights a week and is away at work all day. I have children to care for, and can't get out; therefore I'm practically dying of loneliness and starving for conversation. My husband, however, comes home from work and buries himself in a paper. It's impossible to get a grunt out of him. Do you have any sugegstions as to what I can do?

J. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: First of all, you need resignation. The situation will not change, since your husband's pattern of behavior is almost universal. Most men marry to get the peace and quiet of home, the privilege of reading the papers and watching TV at night. Your husband's schedule is a strenuous one, and he certainly is entitled to his idea of relaxation on his night out a week, but you'll probably have to wait for entertainment until his schooling is finished. Can't you get a babysitter to stay with the youngsters one of the nights your husband is at school, so you can get out? Or, have some friends in on hubby's school nights for an evening of canasta? This, at least, will give you conversation—and how the ladies can talk over a card game!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: After five months of marrige, my husband died, and our daughter was born six months later. Since I couldn't support her at the time, my sister offered to care for her. Now the child is seven months old, and I am able to take her. However, my sister loves her and the baby loves her aunt. What shall I do?

PAULA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's natural to expect your sister to love the child after caring for her so long, and it's also to be expected that your baby will love her aunt; but such a young child will turn to anyone who cares for her. You'll have no difficulty at all in winning her love, and your sister has realized all along that the baby would be hers only temporarily. By all means take your baby back, if you can support and care for her.

Complete Plans On Essay Contest

Peterborough Diocesan Council of the Catholic Women's League, composed of representatives from 25 subdivisions in Peterborough Diocese, held the quarterly meeting on Saturday, in the Social Centre, Peterborough. One new subdivision had been organized during the past week at Colborne, and its president was welcomed to the council.

Plans were completed for the annual essay contest in the schools and for the continuance of the $200 scholarship for university work.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was an oratorical contest in which ten students of Grades 7 and 8 from several diocesan points spoke on a variety of subjects. Prizes were awarded to Jimmie Lawless, Grafton, Helen Holmes, Campbellford, and Anne Gilbert, Peterborough.

His Excellency Bishop Berry recommended to the subdivisions serious study of present social conditions. President Mrs. Joseph Smith, Campbellford, conducted the meeting and outlined a program for the next quarter. A social period was enjoyed by the members of the council with the contestants and their friends.

Hope-Anderson

WARKWORTH (ENS) — In St. Andrew's Presbyterian church Warkworth, on Saturday, Miss Jean Marion Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson, was wed to Mr. Charles Bruce Hope, son of Mrs. M. MacFarlane and the late Mr. Robert Hope. The Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Norwood officiated in the ceremony.

The bride was in a gown of white nylon lace over white satin made with fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and full sleeves. Her fingertip veil of embroidered net fell from a crocheted cap of white and silver rings made and worn by her sister at her own weding, and the bridal bouquet was of red roses. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Mrs. Stan. Trotter of Toronto as matron of honor. Mrs. Trotter was frocked in yellow taffeta. Sisters of the groom, Misses Marion and Margaret MacFarlane, were bridesmaids in frocks of mauve and blue taffeta which had matching lace yokes. All wore matching taffetta gloves pointed over the hands and bandeaux made, from the three colors of taffeta. Each carried a nosegay of carnations.

Mr. Alvin Anderson, brother of the bride, was the groomsman. Ushers were Stanley Trotter, and Dean Brandon, an uncle of the groom.

Organist for the occasion was Mrs. Douglas Knight and the soloist was Mrs. William Craighead who sang "I Love You Truly," before the bride entered the church, and "I'll walk beside you" during the signing of the register.

The wedding reception was held at Kay's Lunch, Campbellford. The bride's mother received in a wine dress and wore black accessories and a corsage of pink 'mums. The groom's mother was dressed in mauve and black and her corsage was of mauve 'mums.

Leaving on a mtotor trip to Niagara Falls the bride wore a grey dress and accessories with a wine topcoat and her corsage was of pink 'mums. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Hope will go to Vancouver, B. C.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

The play, "Fresh Variable Winds," second in a series of parent education plays by Norah Sterling, was presented by the Queen Alexandra Home and School Assocation Monday evening in the Normal School auditorium. An outstanding performance by the cast indicated the expert directing of Mrs. George Gatfield.

Purpose was to depict the atmosphere of the home and bring to the fore problems concerning two 10-year-old children, very ably played by Nancy Norris and Gail Olmstead. The part of "father of one of the problem children" was capably taken by Mr. George Gatfield. Mrs. Arthur Black cleverly portrayed "kind, experienced Aunt May" who gave from the benefit of her own experience in raising four sons. Mrs. Albert Teasley took the part of a "superficial mother" of the other "problem child," and served to point out the ineffectiveness of a home without a sound foundation.

Dr. Robert Bell, child specialist, in his commentary stressed the four necessary corner stones for a steady, well-balanced home—love, religion, work and play—which provided his audience with guide posts to help in raising their children. He fittingly introduced the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan.

Vice-president Mrs. Phyllis Kingdon expressed welcome, including the Queen Eliabeth Home and School members, Normal School students and the Home and School members throughout the city who were guests.

Mrs. Robert Baker added to the pleasure of the evening by rendering two piano selections, "Nocturne" and "March of the Dwarfs."

Appreciation on behalf of the Queen Elizabeth members was expressed by Mrs. K. Beeler and Mrs. Kingdon thanked the cast and participants in the meeting.

A course on "Discipline" to be conducted by Mrs. A. Beasley at her home, 823 George St., on January 27th was announced. Also a reminder of the forthcoming "hobby fair."

Mrs. F. Montgomery played the closing anthem.

What's Right?

You answer the telephone and it is for another member of your family.

WRONG: Make no answer to the caller's request to speak to Nancy —but yell "Nancy."

RIGHT: Say, "Just a moment, please," and go and tell Nancy she is wanted on the telephone.

Mission Circle Plans For Year

Mrs. A. E. Armstrong was the speaker at the Living Link Mission Circle meeting Monday evening in the Trinity ladies' parlor. She told of her trip around the world last year, giving highlights of the voyage from Quebec to Southampton and the flight to Singapore for three months' stay with her son while her husband, Dr. Armstrong, visited Korea and other points; then to Indore, India. Mrs. Armstrong said: "The medical services supplied by the mission stations have more power to open the doors of both palaces and huts in India than any other single factor."

Business of the annual meeting was conducted by president Miss Helen Thompson with secretary's and treasurer's reports being read. The latter showed a total of $138 sent to the Presbyterial treasurer in '52.

Plans for '53 were then discussed and it was decided that the "copper contest" be continued as a means of raising money, and that a layette be made for overseas missions.

Worship was conducted by the executive, led by Miss Thompson. Scripture was read by Miss Doris Hendry and Miss Marion Oddie led in prayer. Mrs. Donald Hess read a story from the study book entitled "Treasures In Darkness."

Supper was served by the executive, prior to the meeting.

County Health

school age groups, sanitation, and other details. It was easier for a unit to secure nurses because they preferred to work where the opportunities of service were larger.

GRANTS VARY.

Provincial government grant in the Maintenance of a Unit in Peterborough would be 50 per cent of the cost to the counties, and around 25 to 33 1-3 per cent to the city.

Control of budgets remain with the municipal councils. Here, the city and county councils would agree upon what the annual budgets would be. Cost to Peterborough city might not be much more than the present $15,000.

With respect to per capita costs, as a convenient reference, the city average at approximately $1.35 would be reduced to $1.01 by the incidence of the government's grant; and the county per capita of another approximately would be reduced from $1.35 to around 65 to 70 cents by the 50 per cent grant in rural aid.

If having established a unit, a municipality such as the city desired to withdraw, that could be done on a year's notice.

A health unit board could consist of five or seven members, which should be large enough, Dr. Struthers said. For Peterborough it might be four from the city, two from the county and one member nominated by the government. In practice, government grants were based on the budget.

Dr. Struthers said the Unit system did not interfere with the special service of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Ald. Harold Rehill mentioned the health service of Peterborough Board of Education and asked what happened in that case. Dr. Struthers said it was something that could be worked out by agreement. It was a condition which he had not experience elsewhere.

Vote Kesselring Outstanding 1952 Athlete

TORONTO (CP)—Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener was Ontario's outstanding athlete of 1952, in the opinion of the men who cover sport for the province's newspapers and radio stations.

The 23-year-old amateur golf star, holder of the Ontario Open and Amateur championships, won handily in the second annual poll conducted by the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association. The results, announced today, showed him first choice of 40 of the 47 who participated in the selection.

A plaque commemorating the award will be presented to Kesselring at the association's second annual sports celebrity dinner for crippled children in Toronto Thursday, March 5. All proceeds of the $25-a-plate dinner go to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and the dinner marks the opening of the Canada-wide Easter Seals campaign.

Kesselring is the second golfer to win the award since it was instituted. First was Marlene Stewart, the pert shotsmith from Fonthill, Ont., who won a year ago after she captured the Canadian women's open and close championships in 1951.

ON 3 CANDIDATES

Voting was on three candidates who led in preliminary nominations. But the others—Bob Simpson, Ottawa football and basketball star, and swimmer Cliff Lumsden of Toronto—lagged far behind Kesselring.

One of the many skilful golfers developed under the tutelage of pro Lloyd Tucker at Kitchener's Rockway course, Kesselring started on the championship trail in 1945 when he won the Ontario junior championship. He won the provincial junior title twice more, the Canadian junior twice, the Ontario amateur three times and the Ontario open once.

He is the second amateur to win the Ontario open and amateur in the same year. The other was veteran Phil Farley who scored his double win in 1945.

Kesselring was selected as Ontario's best amateur in 1951 and 1952 by the Ontario Golf Association's ranking committee. He was in the first 10 for years before he finally moved to the top.

A player of all-round competence Kesselring beat the British amateur champion, Harvie Ward from Tarboro, N.C., in a 38-hole thriller in America Cup play against the United States and Mexico last year. In 24 medal-play tournaments in 1952 he had an average of 69.74 strokes a round.

Man Fined $100 On Liquor Charge

Robert Shearer of Buckhorn was fined $100, and $2.50 costs, or three months, in police court today when he pleaded guilty to having possession of liquor not obtained on his own permit.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said that a number of cases of beer were found on Shearer's property which Shearer had not purchased with his permit.

The premises occupied by Shearer in Harvey Township were declared a public place.

Dobson, Rivera Signs 1953 Contracts

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Joe Dobson and outfielder Jim Rivera returned their signed 1953 contracts today to bring to 26 the number of players in the Chicago White Sox fold for the coming season.

Dobson, 36-year-old righthander, turned in a 2.51 earned run average in 1952 while winning 14 games and losing 10.

Rivera came to the Sox from St. Louis Browns on waivers last July 29. He hit only .253, but the White Sox look for a marked improvement this season.

Alaska Seal, Beaver Bring Good Prices

MONTREAL (CP)—Alaska seal, beaver, otter and Canadian wild mink brought good prices Monday at the opening of the Canadian fur auction $3,000,000 five-day sale, Arthur C. Prentice, manager of the company and chief auctioneer, said.

The seal, sold for the Canadian government, was a little easier than the final prices in 1952, bringing from $90 to $100 for the best skins. The sale is the first of the season in North America.

More than 85 per cent of the beaver found buyers at prices as high as $41 a skin. Some went to Canadian and United States buyers with the best going to Europe, particularly France.

Humphrey Ready To Discuss Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Treasury secretary - designate George M. Humphrey, long-time advocate of the St. Lawrence seaway, said Monday he would feel free to voice his support of the project at cabinet meetings.

Humphrey, who appeared before the Senate finance committee considering his nomination, was questioned closely on what course he would follow in connection with seaway proposals. The committee later unanimously recommended Humphrey's confirmation by the Senate.

READY TO TALK

"I am so thoroughly and honestly convinced that the seaway would be in the national interest," Humphrey said, "that I'd feel perfectly free to express my opinion in cabinet meetings."

He added, however, he would not use the power of his office to further seaway legislation.

Humphrey, a Cleveland, O., industrialist, recently was president of the Iron and Ore Company of Canada, which is making a $200,000,000 development of iron ore deposits in Labrador. This ore would move through the seaway, if it is built, to the steel plants in the Great Lakes area.

WINTER PLATE FAVORITE

TORONTO (CP)—Canadiana, a three-year-old Canadian-bred filly owned by the E. P. Taylor stable, was quoted Monday an 8 to 5 favorite in the winter book to win the 1953 Queen's Plate.

Canadiana was voted horse of the year in 1952 during her first season of racing. Operators of the book quoted the Canadian filly at 4 to 5 to place but, for possibly the first time in the race's history, refused to accept show bets on the horse.

Avella, owned by Jack Addison, is second choice at 8 to 1 odds and third choice is split between Blue Scooter, owned by Jack McIntyre, and Teddybrook, owned by James Cowan, both quoted at 10 to 1.

Schedule Rumors Spiked By CNR Official

MONTREAL — (CP) — One of the most persistent rumors receiving recurrent circulation is that the trans-continental schedules of the Canadian National Railways are so arranged as to prevent the Canadian Pacific Railway being placed at a competitive disadvantage.

Although this story has been officially denied many times, it continues to flourish, G. H. Lash, CNR director of public relations, said today. The facts he said, are:

Prior to 1924, our transcontinental service, between Winnipeg and Toronto, was via Port Arthur. Our running time was 42 hours, 25 minutes west bound and 41 hours, 50 minutes eastbound. On Jan. 6, 1924, was changed to the northern line and commenced using the cutoff between Nakina and Long Lac. This enabled us to reduce our running time to the present 35 hours westbound and 34 hours, 15 minutes eastbound.

The distance between Toronto and Winnipeg, via our line, is 1,207 miles, and we must operate at on average speed of 35 mph. to cover it in 34 hours and 15 minutes. This time includes all stops.

SPEED NOT FEASIBLE.

If we were to cut eight hours off our running time—as the rumor claims we can— our trains would be required to travel the 1,207 miles in 23 hours, including all stops, maintaining an average speed of 52.5 mph. Such speed is not feasible having regard to physical limitations of the line.

The rumors have contended that we cut our running time between Vancouver and Montreal some years ago by eight hours and, after a few months, reverted to the old time. An examination of the record proves that this is an exaggeration.

Our Montreal-Vancouver service was at one time operated via North Bay and Cochrane to and from the west. The elapsed time from Montreal to Vancouver over that route was 107 hours, 45 minutes, and from Vancouver to Montreal it was 102 hours and 40 minutes. On Nov. 22, 1931, the Cochrane route was abandoned in favor of the much shorter line through Caproel, using the Long Lac cutoff, and the westbound time Montreal-Vancouver was reduced to 98 hours and 5 minutes, and the eastbound, Vancouver-Montreal, to 96 hours and 5 minutes.

Since 1931 we have succeeded in progressively reducing our running times, and the westbound journey is now made in 87 hours and 25 minutes and eastbound in 82 hours and 40 minutes. At not time since we adopted the short route through Capreol has the schedule been reduced by eight hours and subsequently increased by that time. The convenience of our principal competitor is not a consideration in our transcontinental schedules.

Bethany Takes Tilt

Bethany tossed a mild bombshell into Bush League circles when they coasted to a 7-2 win over Bailieboro. Pre-season reports indicated that the Bethany entry had an option on the cellar spot in the league but apparently the Manverines hadn't heard of it.

In the first period, Carruthers and Sidey for Bailieboro matched Magills' two counters for Bethany. From then on it was exclusively a Bethany scoring show. Magill picked up his third, John Burn a pair while Fallis and Brown netted singles. The husky defensive pair of Edmonds and Burn, who outweigh any anything in the NHL, gave "Stonewall" Jackson plenty of protection all evening. The spark was missing from the Bailieboro crew who weren't turning it on with their usual gusto. Some of the players carrying chips on their shoulders and fireworks threatened on a couple of occassions.

In the curtain-raiser Bailieboro midgets, looking much better than they did in their earlier game, took a 4-2 win over Bethany midgets.

Bethany: Goal, Jackson; defence, Burn, Edmonds; forwards, Magill, Brown, Gillis, Fallis, Sinclair, Pomeroy, McGill.

Bailieboro: Goal, Johnston; defence, Jewison, Hogg; forwards, Sidey, Carruthers, Cook; alternates, Gray, Halstead, Harris, Sidey, Halligan, Clement, H. Jewison.

Referee: "Slabs" Sloan.

Dies From Injuries In Drunken Scuffle

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury Monday night found that Charles Langlois, 57, of Toronto, died of injuries suffered as a result of a drunken scuffle with his wife at their home Dec. 5.

Langlois was found huddled in a sitting position at the bottom of the steps of his home and an autopsy showed he died of a fractured vertebrae.

Evidence was given that Mrs. Langlois dragged her husband head-first down the verandah steps and that Langlois said: "Please leave me alone—you're hurting me."

Charles Morrison, a neighbor, said he saw Langlois being pounded by a woman using her fists.

Mrs. Langlois said her husband had twice fallen from a couch during the evening.

Ask Ottawa To Reduce Tax Load On Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)— The Canadian Chamber of Commerece today appealed to the federal government to cut spending and reduce the tax load on the Canadian public.

The chamber's executive council urged a "searching examination" be made for economies in all government departments, with particular emphasis on the defence department.

It said it doubted whether the government has been fully alert to the need for an efficient administration of the three-year, $5,000,000,000 defence program.

The chambers views were submitted in a pre-budget brief to Finance Minister Abbott and Revenue Minister McCann, cabinet members responsible for setting and collecting taxes. Mr. Abbott likely will bring down his 1953-54 budget in March.

The brief, presented by a delegation headed by Edward C. Wood of Montreal, the chamber's executive council chairman, represents the views of some 700 Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in the 10 provinces.

TOO STEEP NOW

It held that personal income tax, with its steeply-graded rates was so high that it has exceeded maximum effectiveness, blunting initiative and restricting saving.

The high corporate tax was cutting corporation savings at a time when vast amounts of capital were required for a vigorous program of equipment and developing resources.

Taxes had to be kept down if Canadian industry was to withstand foreign competition, both at home and abroad.

Against the background of high employment and income in Canada, there was an "uneasy balance between the forces of inflation and deflation."

NEED STATESMANSHIP

"The challenge of our future development against such a background emphasizes the need for economic statesmanship of a high order in the formulation of fiscal policy and are in its implementation."

The government, the chamber said, had to continue a "pay-as-you-go" tax policy, but should plan only nominal surpluses.

Canada required an adequate defence program, but Defence planning had to be carefully co-ordinated and spending carefully scrutinized and efficiently administered.

The chamber said it "doubts that this may have received sufficient government attention."

Hockey Season Opens In Korea

IN KOREA (CP)—The second Canadian hockey season in Korea opened Monday on the frozen Imjin river, with the 1st battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment defeating brigade headquarters 7-4.

Maj.-Gen. Michael West, Commonwealth division commander, hurried over the ice and faced off so quickly that photographers were unable to catch a picture before he was back on the sidelines.

The players use equipment flown over following the visit of Defence Minister Claxton last year. The 3rd battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry is the only unit among 14 entered in the two-week sudden-death divisional championships which brought its own equipment. Besides 12 Canadian teams there are one British and one Australian team.

A U.S. helicopter hovered 50 feet over the ice, with a high-ranking passenger leaning perilously outside the cabin to photograph the action below. The Canadians have an exhibition engagement with the U.S. Marines when the series ends.

Four Double Winners In Curling Tourney

HAMILTON (CP)—Four rinks were double winners Monday as 16 rinks competed in an invitation curling tournament at the Hamilton Victoria club for the Knapman Trophy.

The Ontario amateur championship will take place at the Brantford Golf and Country Club Aug. 5-8.

Lindsay Muskies Gain Win Over Cobourg

Coach Al Burns, former puckist for Peterborough Legion, and teammate Sixty Coombs—also an ex-Legionnaire — turned in another fine performance in Lindsay's last OHA intermediate "A" win over Jim Munroe's Cobourg squad. Al is checking as hard and effectively as ever, and Coombs counted a picture goal on Wimpy Parker's pass. Grant Green played for the winners on defence with his toe in a cast from a recent fracture in play.

Omemee's gifts to the club, Parker and Crawford, played heads-up hockey in carrying and ragging, Crawford also packing a terrific shot. Murray Davis went good on defence and aided in the tie-breaker late in the tilt. Lewis scored one from Lou Hennessy that nearly went through the mesh. Trenton Flyers are in Lindsay Tuesday.

Doubts Walcott To Fight Again

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Robert Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, said Monday night he "seriously doubts" that former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott will ever fight again.

At the annual dinner of the Wilmington Sports Writers and Broadcasters Association, Christenberry said:

"Rules of the New York State Athletic Commission and almost every state say that a fighter cannot be licensed after he is 40 years of age. I seriously doubt Walcott will ever fight again."

He did not explain his reference to Walcott, listed in most ring books as being 38.

The hint as to Jersey Joe's future came during a discussion of the recent order by the New York state commission and the National Boxing Association that heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano must defend his title by April 10.

Marciano won the crown from Walcott by a 13th-round knockout at Philadelphia last June. A return bout had been agreed to earlier.

Charge Adams Feeling Oats

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens Monday night charged that contrary to National Hockey League bylaws, general manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings entered the officials' room during the game in Detroit Sunday night between the Red Wings and Canadiens. Montreal won 3-2.

"He raised the devil with referee Red Storey," Irvin said after he arrived here with the Habs for Wednesday night's game with Toronto Maple Leafs.

"He went into the room at the end of the second period and, at that time, Detroit had four penalties to our three. That Adams! I think the new authority he possesses (following the death of James Norris Sr., club owner) has gone to his head," Irvin said.

Under league rules a team official is liable to a fine of $1,000 if he enters the officials' room.

Tobacco Men Urge Abbott To Cut Taxes

OTTAWA (CP)—Ontario tobacco growers today launched a 30-cent-a-pack campaign for Canadian cigarettes and urged Finance Minister Abbott to reduce tobacco taxes drastically to make this reduction possible.

This would mean a sharp loss in government revenue but the Ontario Flue-cured Tobacco Marketing Association—spokesman for the growers—said the loss would be temporary.

The government would be able to increase revenue to current levels in four years through higher cigarette sales. The association based this estimate on a report by Prof. D. W. Slater of Queen's University political and economic science department.

Cigarettes now sell for about 39 cents for a 20-cigarette package in most provinces, an exception is Quebec where additional provincial taxes boost the retail price to about 43 cents. Some stores have been selling cigarettes at below-average prices.

9-CENT LOSS

To make the 30-cent package possible, the government would have to reduced cigarettes taxes by approximately nine cents a package to less than 14 cents from more than 22.

In the United States, however, the U. S. government collects only about eight cents on a 20-cigarette package, the association emphasized.

The tax cut would eliminate smuggling of low-priced American cigarettes in Canada. It would also reduce "roll-your-own" smoking and boost employment in the tobacco industry.

Greater domestic sales of tobacco were required to offset a drastic reduction in exports, the association said. Reduced exports forced growers to reduce acreages by one-third last year and prospects for this year were "even worse" unless there was a substantial tax reduction to boost sales.

Suggest Ottawa Talk With Cuba

ST. THOMAS (CP) — J. W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Lambton West, today suggested that the federal government should immediately consult with Cuba concerning exports of Cuban refined sugar which he said are flooding the Canadian market.

He said in a speech prepared for the Elgin county sugar beet growers that Trade Minister Howe should stop at Cuba on his way home from his South American trade tour and discuss the matter with Cuban authorities.

"I am sure it was never the intention under the existing agreement that the Canadian market would be flooded with refined sugar from Cuba . . . which, if continued, would ruin the sugar beet industry in Canada completely," he said.

There was a vast difference between rigid tariff practices and adequate protection of Canada's Markets from unwarranted dumping, Mr. Murphy said.

"Our recent experience in the textile industry is but an example of the devastating effect upon the Canadian economy when surplus production abroad is virtually dumped on our market at prices which bear little or no relationship to the cost."

Berserk Fisherman

WALDOBORO, Me. (AP) — A lobster fisherman killed his wife, his mother-in-law and himself with rifle bullets Monday night, officials said. The dead were Dennis McLain, 35, his wife, Lillian, 30, and Mrs. Grace Benner, 50. Authorities blamed "family trouble."

REMARKABLE COW—Long past age when cows are considered useful on a dairy farm, Sunbeam Colintha Canary, a registered Holstein, contributes her share to upkeep of Wesley Smyth's herd at Chater, Man., near Brandon. The Holstein was 21 January 15, and still is being used as a nurse cow in the herd. Since her last freshening she has successfully raised six calves. In July, 1951, when she was 19, she produced her 16th calf. At 18 she produced 12,125 pounds of milk with 4.25 per cent butterfat in 365 days. This compares with world's record of 36,414.1 pounds of milk with 4.12 per cent butterfat, also established by a Holstein, Daisy Madcap of Duvall, Wash.

Holstein Cow, 21-Years-Old, Used As Nurse Cow To Farm Herd

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—On July 1, 1951, one of Wesley Smyth's cows had a calf on his farm near Chater, seven miles from Brandon.

Normally, there would be nothing unusual about such a happening on a dairy farm, but this particular calf was No. 16 in a group produced by "Sunbeam Colantha Canary," a registered Holstein cow in Smyth's herd. At the time, Sunbeam was 19 years old.

Sunbeam celebrated her 21st birthday on Jan. 16. And today, more than six years past the time when even the best dairy cows have usually outlived their usefulness, Sunbeam still is being used as a nurse cow in the herd. Since her last freshening, she has successfully raised six calves.

LONG-LIVED STRAIN

Sunbeam's mother was the foundation dam of Wesley's herd. The mother lived for 17 years, and Sunbeam was the result of Wesley's plan to build a well-balanced herd of dairy Holsteins.

Of the 16 calves born to Sunbeam, nine were heifers and seven were bull calves. The youngest of the bulls was sold to another Holstein breeder in the United States and now is the herd sire of Fred Schmidt's North Dakota registered herd.

Through her lifetime, Sunbeam always has been a good milk producer. She was not given a "record of production" test under government supervision until she was 15 years of age. But even at 15, she produced 13,217 pounds of milk in 357 days, and the butterfat content of the milk was 4.26 per cent.

Given the same test three years later, she produced 12,125 pounds of 4.25-per-cent butterfat in 365 days.

These tests compare well with other younger cows.

FIRST SHOWN IN 1948

Sunbeam was first exhibited at a summer fair in 1948. Despite her age, she made a good showing.

Registered at birth, Sunbeam later was classified "very good" by a Holstein Association official. This classification is just one notch below the top class of "excellent" which is given by the association.

Although old age is beginning to show its effects, Sunbeam is still considered a valuable member of the herd. For some time Wesley has fed her soft foods, for the years have depleted her teeth.

But from Sunbeam's appearance in the barn, it would seem she intends to be around for quite a long time.

Corman Trial Gets Under Way

HAMILTON (CP)—A jury of 10 men and two women heard day-long testimony Monday as Charles E. Corman, 52-year-old Denfield farmhand, appeared before the Ontario Supreme Court on a charge of murder.

Defence counsel J. P. O'Reilly introduced 11 witnesses including a prisoner in the Barton jail cell next to Corman's who said the accused was "abnormal and simple-minded."

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven postponed the trial until the jury decided whether Corman was fit to stand trial.

Corman is accused of entering the Stoney Creek home of Sheldon Hyland last Nov. 17, wounding his two sons with a .22-calibre rifle and killing Hyland. Witnesses said Corman, described as a hard and honest farmhand by his employer, had been brooding over the apportioning of his father's estate.

Woman 101 Dies In East York

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Nancy Jane Pedlar, 101, who had lived in suburban East York since 1876, died Sunday.

Mrs. Pedlar was the widow of John Pedlar who died in 1914. She was the granddaughter of Pierre La Pelletier de Scarboro, who is credited with being the man who blew up Fort York rather than surrender it to the Americans during the war of 1812.

Government To Investigate Budget Of 20,000 In UK

LONDON (Reuters) — Government investigators will probe the domestic budgets of 20,000 British families down to the last penny in an ambitious survey to make Britain's cost-of-living index more accurate, it is announced.

The sample families will be picked from all over the country and will represent all occupations and income levels.

They will be asked to chronicle every penny they spend over a three-week period and compile the information in a 20-page printed form.

Father will have to list how much he spends on cigarets, beer, horse races, haircuts.

NOTHING UNCOVERED

The investigators will probe mother's beauty parlor bill, and ask her how much she paid for that hat.

Son must tell how much he spends for Saturday dates and for what.

But it is all confidential. The department of labor, sponsors of the project, stressed that no member of a family will see another's entries. Nor will any other authorities, even the income tax collectors.

For the trouble each citizen will receive £1.

BIGGEST ANALYSIS

It is the biggest spending analysis ever undertaken here. A total of 10,000 families were checked in the last survey, made in 1938.

Object of the investigation is to correct the method of working out the official cost-of-living index which provides the basis for automatic wage increases for 2,000,000 workers in Britain.

A change in the system was advocated by a special investigation committee a year ago. The probe was set up in answer to criticism of the existing index.

The Canadian consumer price index, yardstick of living costs, was set up by the bureau of statistics after a detailed survey of some 1,500 families in 27 Canadian cities. The survey of buying habits, made in 1948, covered families ranging in size from two adults to two adults with four children and with annual incomes ranging from $1,650 to $4,050.

Mental Illness Crippler Of The World

Mental illness is one of the greatest cripplers in the world today, John D. Parks, director of the Canadian Mental Health Association, said in Peterborough Monday.

Mr. Parks was the guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon meeting. He was in Peterborough to give an address at the organizational meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the OMHA, held at the YWCA Monday evening.

"There are 60,000 beds occupied by patients in mental hospitals and institutions in Canada," Mr. Parks said. This is almost the same number as the total of patients in all other hospitals and sans in the country. These patients are being cared for at an annual cost of 40 million dollars."

MAN OWN ENEMY

Man has built a civilization in which his greatest enemy is himself and his own civilization. This civilization has in it conditions which man hasn't been fitted to face. The result is a disturbing amount of mental illness in this and other countries.

The speaker compared this mental illness situation in Canada to an epidemic and said that it is time Canadians started to do something about it.

PROPER ATTITUDE

"One of the most important steps that must be taken is to establish the proper attitude towards mental illness," Mr. Parks said. "People must be made to see that it is an illness and that the almost medieval attitude that something diabolical is involved is false."

Turning to a discussion of the prevention of mental illness, the speaker explained that this is not an era for magicians and specialists but for people themselves. Everyone needs love and a feeling of belonging. This is particularly true of children. If a child is not given love, patience and understanding, mental illness may result in his later life.

"The Canadian Mental Health Association is trying to meet this challenge of mental illness in three ways," Mr. Parks said.

The three ways are investigation or research; information or education, which means giving people the facts so that they can tackle this problem; and organization of branches of the CMHA in Canadian communities.

In his concluding remarks, the speaker emphasized the necessity of voluntary organizations to carry out this work.

"Only through such voluntary organizations, made up of vitally interested people, can this challenge be met," he said.

Mr. Parks was introduced by Ald. J. A. Dewart and was thanked by Dr. R K. Magee.

The minister of the Galt church, who has maintained that Lee is innocent, Sunday wired Governor-General Vincent Massey, asking for an audience to discuss the case.

The Rev. J. Blair, pastor of Central Gospel, a long-time friend of the condemned man and who has been visiting him in his jail cell regularly, said that Mr. Kerr would be guest speaker at the Sunday service.

Lost $333 On Races Testimony In Court

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—H. R. Smith of Niagara Falls testified in court Monday that he lost $333 on stock car races at his Willoughby township track Sunday, Sept. 28.

Smith and Don and Ted Tremblay of Allanburg were charged jointly with operating stock car racing for gain Sept. 28 contrary to the Lord's Day Act.

Smith said he staged races Sept. 28 and Oct. 3 to test public reaction to Sunday racing for support of a plebiscite by township ratepayers last Deeember.

Magistrate Johnstone Roberts reserved decision one week.

E. M. JOHNSON, a veteran 51 years of sales work, will be guest speaker tonight, Jan. 19 at the meeting of the Peterborough Sales and Advertising Club. He has served as a sales consultant for a number of national sales firms and has been teaching salesmanship for over 30 years. It is the club's advertising night.

Higher Health Standards

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario CCF leaders Monday night called for higher health standards in Canada and increased government aid for farmers.

T. H. Isley, Ontario CCF president, and C. C. Ames, Ontario CCF vice-president, both spoke on a free-time CBC public affairs network broadcast. Mr. Isley urged that the federal government establish guaranteed farm prices on the pattern set by the British government.

"We want stability in our markets," he said. "When we sell a dollar's worth of produce, we ought to get an even dollar's worth of goods."

CHARGES PROFITEERING

He also charged that speculators are profiteering in feed grains and that the Liberal government has done nothing to curb their activities.

Mr. Ames said that Canada's health standards lag behind many other countries, although this is the world's second richest country.

In urging support of the CCF national health plan petition, he said the Saskatchewan hospital plan and the Swift Current region medical health plan are evidence that planned health services work.

Convict Farnol Of Intent To Murder

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Grant Farnol, 31, Monday night was convicted of shooting with intent to murder Edgar Frendo, a 36-year-old Detroit automotive engineer, last Dec. 15.

The jury of nine men and three women deliberated four hours before returning the verdict. Farnol will be sentenced Friday.

During the three-day trial Farnol and Frendo, who still is undergoing medical treatment, told different stories as to why they went to the lonely road in nearby Malden township where the shooting occurred.

Frendo suffered several bullet wounds in the face, neck and shoulder. He was taken to hospital after he staggered into a farmhouse near the scene. Farnol was arrested next day as he wandered through the bush nearby.

Frendo testified Friday he met Farnol and went to the lonely rendezvous after the latter promised to introduce him to a girl. Once there, Frendo said, Farnol pulled a gun and shot him.

Farnol said Monday he shot Frendo in self-defence after they made an illegal gold transaction. He said he met Frendo twice before the night of the shooting and had arranged to meet him again when Frendo was to buy "high-graded" gold for $26 an ounce.

Plan 2 Parkways To Circle Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans for two new parkways circling Ottawa were disclosed in the annual report of the federal district commission tabled Monday in the Commons by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The parkways will run from Rockcliffe Park on the northeast side of the city along the Rideau river to Hog's Back, on the city's southern edge, then cut northwest along the western outskirts to Britannia at the northwest end.

The report also said there are plans to build a similar parkway north from Hull, Que., across the Ottawa river from the capital to a park in the Fairy lake area of the Gatineau hills about seven miles north of Hull.

Elected Simcoe Warden

BARRIE (CP)—Reeve Wilbur T. Reed of Orillia township was elected warden of Simcoe county Monday. He succeeds warden James Hart, mayor of Barrie.

Pavlukoff Refuses To Be In Lineup

VANCOUVER (CP)—Walter Pavlukoff, 39, charged with murder in the 1947 slaying of bank manager Sydney Petrie, refused Sunday to appear in a police identification lineup.

Witnesses to the shooting of Petrie during a bank holdup attempt Aug. 27, 1947, were assembled in the lineup room when Pavlukoff refused to come out of his cell.

There is no statute in the Criminal Code which compels a prisoner to attend an identification lineup after he has been charged under the code.

Pavlukoff was arrested last month near Toronto after being hunted by police for 5½ years.

Probe Safe Theft

TORONTO (CP)—Police Monday investigated disappearance of $2,112 from a safe in the north-end Fairlawn Theatre. Chris Holmes, manager of Odeon Theatres Canada Limited, owners of the theatre, said: "It looks like an inside job, by someone who knew the combination."

Found Guilty Driver Fined

Virgil Carr, 583 Gilchrist St., was convicted of careless driving and fined $10 and $25.10 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court Monday.

The charge was laid against Carr following a head-on collision on Armour Rd. the night of September 26.

Ralph Little, 218 Carlyle Ave., driver of the other car, faces the same charge. The charge against Little was further adjourned Monday for one week.

In making his findings the Magistrate said he would not give any reasons in fairness to both parties, on account of the civil implications that would likely result from the accident.

Little was travelling north on Armour Rd. and Carr was travelling south. A city bus, driven by Arnold Beatty, was stopped on the west side of the street, just above McFarlane St., when Carr pulled out to go around it and the head-on collision resulted.

Carr was defended by W. B. Gordon.

2 Workers Badly Injured In Omemee Train-Car Crash

ONE MAN IS IN CRITICAL CONDITION and the driver received a broken leg and undetermined head injuries in a car-train crash at the CNR crossing at the north end of Omemee early today. The two men, Russell Deyell, 35, and Edgar JoJhnson, 36, driver, both of the village, were returning from their night shift jobs in Oshawa, when the accident occurred about 300 yards from Johnson's home.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Pair Dragged 50 Feet, Tossed Out

Accident Occurred Near Station At Level Crossing

OMEMEE (Staff) — Injured early today when a CNR freight train struck a car near Omemee station, Russell Deyell, 35, of Omemee is in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

His injuries are described as undetermined head injuries and a broken leg. Deyell was a passenger in the car, driven by Edgar Johnson, 36, who was found lying unconscious, 75 feet east of the crossing.

Johnson, who showed signs of regaining consciousness before he was taken to the operating room, is reported to be in serious condition. He, too, has a broken leg and undetermined head injuries.

The car was carried 50 feet along the track and both men were hurled onto the right-of-way.

STRUCK AT CROSSING

Both men, night-shift workers at the Oshawa General Motors plant, were returning home about 5 a.m. when the freight engine struck their car as they were crossing a level crossing.

The injured men were treated at the scene by Dr. G. N. Earle, of Omemee, who lives near the crossing, and they were brought to hospital in Peterborough by Comstock and Kaye ambulances.

NEARLY CLEAR

Apparently Johnson had not seen the eastbound freight train as he drove north along the Omemee-Bobcaygeon road. The station is in the north end of the village and Deyel's home is only 300 feet past the crossing.

The car had nearly cleared the rails but the locomotive, drawing the 24-car train, struck the rear end of the vehicle and carried it 50 feet east along the right of way.

Railway Strike Draws Closer As Meeting Fails

MONTREAL (CP)—The Feb. 2 deadline for a country-wide railway strike drew closer today with the disputants, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Canada's carriers, as far apart as ever. There was hope Tuesday that resumed negotiations would avert the strike, but they ended in disagreement. There were no plans for further meetings. A spokesman for the union, representing 25,000 operating trainmen, said, however, that the brotherhood has advised the federal labor department the negotiating committee is ready for any step the department might wish to take.

The union announced Friday it would strike at 6 a.m. local time Feb. 2 unless a satisfactory settlement of a wage-hour problem was reached. Tuesday's meeting followed but disagreement arose as to whether negotiations should be based on the majority or minority reports of a federal conciliation board.

The minority report recommended a 20-per-cent increase and the unions, seeking a 35-per-cent wage boost, wanted to proceed on it. The railways wanted the majority report which proposed a 12-per-cent boost.

MET SEPARATELY

The union met separately with the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

Later, the companies, in a joint statement, said they had renewed their offers of Jan. 7 to begin negotiations to effect a settlement which would implement the conciliation board report.

"The representatives of the men declined the offers and the meetings ended with no date for further meetings being discussed," the statement added.

Union spokesman A. J. Kelly said neither side could agree as to which report of the board should serve as a basis for negotiations but "we are holding our committee available."

The BRT represents conductors, trainmen, porters, baggagemen, road and yard employees and yardmasters. Apart from the 35-per-cent increase the union seeks a 40-hour week for yard workers. Average basic rate now is $1.29 an hour.

Set January 29 For Hearing On Freight Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners today set Jan. 29 for hearing a railway application for a new seven-per-cent increase in freight rates.

The $35,000,000-a-year application was filed unexpectedly by the railways Tuesday in addition to one for a nine-per-cent hoist that has been pending before the board for several months.

Today, the board allowed the railways to amend the nine-per-cent application following a suggestion Tuesday from Mr. Justice John D. Kearney, chief commissioner, that it should be withdrawn altogether for the time being.

As amended, the application calls for a ruling on the nine-per-cent bid after the board has settled the question of whether it should bring in a new system of establishing freight rates. That may take some months.

Meanwhile, the railways asked for the seven per cent on an "immediate" basis, and the board assigned Jan. 29 and 30 for the hearing of evidence from the carriers and the eight provincial governments—all except Ontario and Quebec—that will oppose the application.

Argument is to be submitted in the first week of February.

Two provincial counsel appearing before the board today—J. J. Frawley of Alberta and C. D. Shepard of Manitoba—said the group of provinces will oppose the new increase.

They also protested what they termed "exceedingly short notice" given by the railways in filing the application but did not formally move to have the hearing set further back.

U.S. Airmen Sight Flying 'Clusters' Over North Japan

U.S. AIR BASE, Japan (AP)—Mysterious flying objects—"rotating clusters of red, white and green lights"—have been sighted over northern Japan by United States airmen, the air force disclosed today. Intelligence reports placed the sightings close to Russian territory in the Kurile Islands and Sakhalin. They added: "There are too many indications of the presence of something . . . to be considered an observation of nothing." And they discounted the possibility the sighted objects were mere "reflections of light."

Col. Curtis R. Low, commander of the northern division of the Japanese air defence force, said the flying clusters were seen by fighter pilots and ground personnel and were tracked on radar.

The reports were similar to those describing "flying saucers" in the U.S. One said the lights appeared to hang motionless at times, and at other times disappeared with blinding speed.

SEEN BY MANY PEOPLE

Sightings were made by many persons at many points over northern Japan last Dec. 29. On Jan. 9, a rotating cluster was spotted by two fighter pilots and was tracked on radar.

The sightings occurred over the frozen, ice-locked reaches of northern Japan, a land tense with continued air harrassment by near-flying Russian fighter planes.

Russian territory in the Kurile islands is only 4½ miles northeast of Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island. The Russian island of Sakhalin is only 30 miles north of Hokkaido. The reds have dozens of air bases on Sakhalin and the Kuriles.

CREWS REPORT

The clusters were seen Dec. 29 by two crew members of an F-94 interceptor for about 40 minutes, by two crew members of a B-26 bomber for five to seven minutes, and by five different airmen on the ground, intelligence said. They were also seen by a pilot who tried to get close to one.

The five ground observers said the objects "were circular ferris wheel disc types with rotational red, green, and white lights."

Intelligence said the ground observers watched the objects "for varying times, ranging from 30 minutes to three hours."

The air force said a rotating cluster Jan. 9 near an air base in northern Honshu "was observed visually by a pilot of an F-94 jet interceptor for approximately one minute . . . Radar contact for approximately two minutes was verified by both members of the crew."

13 Red Leaders Guilty Of Conspiracy

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal court jury today found all 13 Communist leaders guilty of conspiracy.

The jury of six men and six women reached a verdict after receiving the case last Thursday. The trial lasted 8½ months.

All of the Communist leaders were charged with conspiring to teach and advocate the overthrow of the U.S. government.

The jury foreman, Miss Lucille Collette, a music teacher, announced the verdict after 48 hours deliberations in a clear, firm voice:

"We find the defendants guilty as charged!"

They could receive maximum sentences of five years in prison and fines of $10,000.

ALL FROM NEW YORK

The defendants, all from the New York area and all second-string leaders of the Communist party, are:

Alexander Bittelman, 61; George Blake Charney, 46; Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, 60; Betty Gannett, 44; Victor Jeremy Jerome, 54; Arnold Samuel Johnson, 46; Claudia Jones 36; Alexander Leo Trachtenberg, 65; Louis Weinstock, 48; William Wolf Weinstone, 53; Pettis Perry, 54; Jacob Mindel, 71; Albert Francis Lannon, 43.

Judge Edward J. Dimock told the jurors the verdict was "amply justified by the evidence" and thanked them for "the exhibition you gave of careful study and the knowledge you showed."

The government claimed the 13 stepped into the shoes of 11 top party leaders who were convicted and sentenced to prison on the same charges more than three years ago.

The defence argued throughout the long, costly trial that the 13 sought to achieve Communist party aims only through peaceful means.

The jurors received the case last Thursday and deliberated a total of 48 hours.

Hope To Cut Defence Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday night it "may not be long" before Western defence spending can be cut. He said the year that was considered of supreme crisis when the Atlantic Pact was signed in 1949 has passed. It was 1952.

In an address prepared for a free-time political broadcast over the CBC, he said:

"When our present defence programs are completed—and this may not be long now—we should be able to reduce defence expenditures. The expansion phase of NATO rearmament will have ended and maintenance at planned levels should cost less. A genuine pacification would, of course, make possible greater reductions. However, though we may hope for, we cannot count on such a happy contingency."

The threat to Western security remained very great.

Restaurant Owner Dies From Beating

MONTREAL (CP) — B. J. McAbbie, 59-year-old Montreal restaurant owner, died early today of injuries suffered when he was attacked and beaten by four men and a woman who stole $3,500 from him Monday.

McAbbie told police he was beaten until he told the five the combination of the safe in his restaurant.

He said he had let one man in who claimed his wife had left her purse in the restaurant. The other four forced their way in immediately afterwards.

Police have started a city-wide manhunt for the five.

2 Crusader Sailors Jailed; Had Arms

HONG KONG (Reuters) — A court here today imposed 18-month jail terms on two sailors from the Canadian destroyer Crusader, arrested here while on leave from Korea for illegal possession of arms.

Steven George Hlasney and Norman Robins both pleaded guilty. police said the arrest was made after the pair approached a Chinese and attempted to sell him a .45-calibre automatic.

Robins told the court he wanted to sell the weapon in order to raise funds for his sick wife in Canada.

ALLEGEDLY MURDERED—A Toronto couple have been charged with the torture murder of a 2½-year-old boy, Paul David Leblanc, who died of a fractured skull and a brain haemorrhage. Charged with murder are the child's mother, Edna Leblanc, 21, and Alexander Sielinski, 37. Police said the woman is Sielinski's common-law wife. Investigators say they have evidence the boy was lashed with a dog leash, his hands were burned on a stove and that red pepper juice was forced into his mouth.

One Brodie Twin Dies 34 Days After Operation

CHICAGO (AP)—Tiny Roger Lee Brodie, siamese twin who for 34 days amazed the medical world by surviving a head-to-head surgical separation, died Tuesday night.

Death of the 16-month-old boy was not unexpected.

Roger had been in a deep coma since the operation Dec. 17. His brain circulation was impaired and his condition had been listed "very precarious" since the separation from his brother, Rodney Dee.

Doctors expressed amazement that he survived the 12-hour and 40-minute operation.

"He certainly will be in the miracle class if he survives," one of the doctors had remarked as the tiny infant clung to life by a thread for more than a month.

The surgery on the twins, who were born joined at the top of their heads, was the first of its kind in medical history that the patients had survived.

Rodney, since the Dec. 17 separation, has undergone two plastic procedures to put skin over his brain. He has shown some signs he is on the road to recovery. However, he must undergo further surgery and his condition still is regarded as critical.

During the twins' separation surgeons discovered there was only one sagittal sinus, the main passageway or vein draining blood back from both brains. Because Rodney was holding up much better during the marathon operation and surgery in his favor could be more easily performed, he was favored for "survival of the fittest" by the surgeons. They gave the sagittal sinus and most of the brain covering to Rodney and took the bigger chance on Roger's survival.

MONTREAL (CP) —Pierette Gagne, 19, died in hospital today from burns suffered in a fire Monday which killed her husband and contributed to the death of her unborn child.

Rousing Send-Off Gives Truman Thrill Of Life

EN ROUTE WITH TRUMAN (AP)—Harry S. Truman, former President of the United States, took the long trip home today.

After nearly eight years as President, he headed for Missouri in the role of "Mr. Truman, private citizen."

Alone with Mrs. Truman in a private railroad car, he had opportunity to reflect again over an eventful career and take thought of the future.

For Harry Truman, despite his 68 years, has made clear that he will be a man to reckon with in the years ahead.

His emotions were stirred, as they have seldom been stirred before, by the send-off he got at Washington Tuesday night at the end of a trying day in which he Dwight D. Eisnhower.

Hundrds of cheering Democrats thronged around the rear platform of the presidential car which Eisenhower had placed at his predecessor's disposal. District of Columbia Commissioner F. Joseph Donahue described Truman as "the greatest friend" of "little people all over the world."

An obvious lump in his throat, Truman, his wife and daughter by his side, responded that "in all my career, and it has been a long one, I've never had an experience like this."

"This is the first time I've had the experience of being sent home in a blaze of glory.

"I'll never forget this if I live to be a hundred—and that's what I expect to do."

Truman's future plans remained a subject for speculation But he may disclose them within a few days after he has had a rest.

Expect Potatoes Cheap Next Year

TORONTO (CP)—Potatoes are likely to be plentiful and cheap during the next year, the potato section of the annual meeting of the Ontario Soil Crop Improvement Association was told Tuesday. J. Edgar Hewitt of Simcoe said that growers are in the habit of going from one season of feast to a season of famine. The feast seasons for growers were sometimes famine seasons for consumers, while famine seasons for growers were always feast seasons for consumers.

Last year potatoes were not too plentiful and prices, at least during the early part of the season, were fairly high.

WON'T BOOST PRODUCTION

Mr. Hewitt said a production increase would not be justified unless new uses for potatoes or new export markets were found.

At the seed meeting, N. D. MacKenzie, of the plant products division at Toronto, told farmers that this was the year to "seed down."

For several years, he said, grass and clover seed, including alfalfa, had been scarce and high in price.

"Because of this many of our Ontario farmers have been limiting the number of acres seeded down to good hay and pasture mixtures, and both the quality and acreage of both hay and pasture in the province have decreased as a result," he said.

Council Ousts Deputy-Reeve

WHITBY (CP)—Morley Bain today sat through a discussion during which Ontario county council took steps to oust him as deputy reeve of Scott township.

He voted against a motion by which the council authorized its solicitor, T. M. Moore, to take measures to remove him. The motion was carried.

The action arose from the finding of a special investigating committee that Scott township lacked sufficient voters to be entitled to a deputy reeve.

The ouster motion was put by Reeve D. B. McIntyre of the town of Whitby. The committee Tuesday asked Mr. Bain to resign but Mr. Bain refused.

The committee found Scott township has only 840 electors, while 1,000 are needed if a township is to have a deputy reeve as well as a reeve and three councillors.

As a result of the committee report, Walter Beath of East Whitby and Russ Morrison of Thora township submitted their resignations as deputy reeves. It was found their townships, also, were not entitled to deputy reeves.

Firm Prepared To Prosecute

MONTREAL (CP)—Counsel for a Montreal printing firm said Tuesday the company is prepared to prosecute any employee involved in the theft of an advance copy of the controversial Currie report on the army works services.

Jack Rudner, who declined to identify the printing firm, said the company had taken "every reasonable precaution" to safeguard the secrecy of the report.

He said charges could be laid for breach of trust or simple theft, or both.

Justice Minister Garson disclosed Monday in the Commons that the RCMP have identified the man who "stole" the advance copy of the report that came into the hands of the CCF before the report itself was tabled in Parliament.

Japan Builds Up Her Merchant Fleet

LONDON (Reuters) — Japan, building new ships at a faster clip than any other country, brought her merchant fleet up almost to its pre-war level in the year ending last July, Lloyds Register of shipping announces.

Two other defeated countries of the Second World War, Italy and Germany, followed Japan in the rate of new merchant shipbuilding.

Canada was 11th in the list of countries which increased total tonnage. Canada added 45,000 tons, bringing the total to 1,692,000. This ranked directly behind Russia's total of 2,261,000 tons.

Japan added 605,000 tons in the year ending July, 1952, bringing its total merchant tonnage to 2,787,000. The Japanese had 2,843,000 tons of merchant ships in 1939.

Exhume Sailor's Body To Locate Fortune

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—The body of a Scottish seaman who died here 20 months ago will be exhumed to see if he had a fortune buried with him in his wooden leg.

Donald McDonald, 56, collapsed and died from coronary thrombosis in a bus early in April, 1951. He was buried here.

Authorities now have received a request for exhumation from relatives in Scotland, who say he was believed to have carried his life savings in a secret compartment in his peg leg.

The body will probably be disinterred next week.

New Material For Uniforms

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has developed a new material for soldier's winter uniforms which is undergoing testing now and which will be used in Korea and elsewhere as soon as possible, army headquarters said Tuesday.

The new material, mainly of cotton, was developed after experiments with nylon clothing proved it to be unsatisfactory for army use.

The new material will be made up into prototype uniforms and sent out to Korea on a "user trial" basis. The experts are confident it will be satisfactory, but the field test will be made before production begins in quantity.

Army clothing experts made the disclosure in commenting on a dispatch by Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer in Korea, which said that Canadian soldiers don't think much of their nylon winter parka and wind pants.

Nylon is definitely "out" as a material for uniforms, headquarters experts said.

400 Farmers Flee Report Death Zone

BERLIN (AP) — Four hundred East German farmers fled to west Berlin Tuesday night and told refugee officials that the Communist plan for a "death zone" around the city is nearing reality.

Most of the farmers said they had been warned that they would be forcibly evacuated to the deep interior of the Russian zone and their lands confiscated.

The so-called death-zone preparations started several months ago. Communist police indicated they intended to seal off an area one kilometer (five-eights of a mile) on the 70-mile West Berlin border. To be caught in this area without permission could mean death from the guns of the Soviet-trained border police.

A similar death zone was built by the Communists on the zonal frontier in midwest Germany after the European Defence Treaty was approved last summer.

Hold Soldier In Lodge Fire

HAMILTON (CP)—A Hamilton soldier attached to the Provost Corps at Camp Borden, Hugh Walker, 19, was charged today with arson in connection with the destruction by fire of the Leaders' Lodge at the Mount Nemo Boy Scout camp Dec. 28.

Walker appeared in magistrate's court at Milton, this morning, where a remand of one week was asked by the Crown.

The fire was discovered by members of the Hamilton troop of MacNeill Memorial church, Westdale, shortly after 8 p. m. on Dec. 28. The scouts were in Ram Lodge and saw flames through the windows of the larger leaders' Lodge, where valuable camp equipment was stored.

The scouts tried to halt the blaze with fire bombs and blankets but were forced out of the building. A matter of seconds after the flames forced them outside, propane gas tanks, used as cooking fuel, exploded.

Have Harrowing Experience

Survivors Drifted Close To Red China

By DON HUTH

MANILA (AP) — The pilot of a U.S. rescue plane that overturned and sank in Formosa strait after picking up 11 downed airmen told today how he and two companions drifted close to the Red China coast in a waterlogged liferaft.

Lieut. John Vukic of Pittsburgh said: "I didn't care who got me. I was so cold."

Vukic had set down his Coast Guard Mariner amphibian plane on choppy waters a few miles northeast of the Communist port of Swatow Sunday after Red shore batteries shot down a navy Neptune patrol bomber carrying 13 crew members.

The Mariner picked up 11 of the navy airmen but overturned on the takeoff, burned and sank.

Vukic, chief aviation machinist mate Joseph Miller, Jr., of Long Beach, Calif., and Robert F. Hewitt of San Diego, Calif., clambered aboard a liferaft.

Chilled and numb, they drifted for 7½ hours before a U.S. destroyer, sweeping the strait under fire of Communist guns, picked them up.

They arrived at Sangley point naval base near Manila Tuesday night, still showing the effects of their harrowing experience.

Hewitt suffered a back injury in the plane disaster.

Five of the eight Mariner crew members were killed.

The destroyer rescued 10 of the 21 airmen involved in the two disasters.

The seven from the Neptune were taken to Okinawa. Two from the Neptune were killed and four are missing.

DOWN TO LAST FLARE

Vukic told a press conference he never doubted "we'd survive" while drifting helplessly inside a reef that complicated rescue operations.

They were down to their last flare before the destroyer could manoeuvre close enough to pick them up.

Vukic said the Mariner found 11 survivors of the navy patrol plane on a half-burned liferaft 10 miles east of Swatow.

Despite haze and growing darkness, they could see the Chinese mainland.

"The survivors were so physically exhausted they had to be assisted into our plane," he said. "They couldn't even stand up."

Two of the men were so badly hurt, Vukic continued, that he decided to fly to Hong Kong. But darkness closed in and the seas churned as he gunned the Mariner for takeoff.

"Right after firing the Jato (jet assisted takeoff) I had no doubt we would get home. It was in the bag." But seconds later, he said, the plane lurched over.

"My seat broke and that's the last thing I remember until I was in the water."

Vukic said he and his two crew members scrambled into a liferaft dropped by other rescue planes.

Brutal Treatment At Prison Disgusts Doctor

DETROIT (CP)—Dr. Russell L. Finch resigned Tuesday as medical director of Michigan's prisons because he is "fed up with warden William H. Bannan's brutal treatment of Jackson prison inmates."

He said prisoners at nearby Jackson were needlessly and recklessly bludgeoned by the warden's "goon squads."

Warden Bannan, commenting on Dr. Finch's statement, said he "would be wanting i my duty to the state" if the prisoners were not "subdued."

WON'T TAKE CHANCES

"This institution is populated with nearly 6,000 inmates—95 per cent of them want to do their time, pay their debt to society and return to the free world. It would not be fair to this large percentage of inmates to have a few troublemakers take over."

Dr. Finch said prisoners have had their legs and arms broken for complaining about lack of clothing. One young prisoner nearly lost his sight when a guard deliberately released a tear-gas bomb in the inmate's face.

Lose Burlington For One Week

OWEN SOUND (CP)—The Owen Sound Mercurys have lost two thirds of their centre ice strength in two days.

Physicians of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A club said today Tommy Burlington will be lost to the team for at least a week with a broken toe on his left foot. Tuesday it was announced Doug Gillespie will be out for at least a month with a left thumb dislocation.

Burlington, who has played the last few games with the broken toe, is finding it has not responded to treatment. Gillespie's injury was suffered in a game against Hamilton Monday night.

Loss of the two centremen is a severe blow to the team. Burlington has scored 21 goals and 41 assists in 33 games, while Gillespie has netted 23 goals and 25 assists in 30 games.

Pair Dragged

Somehow both men were thrown free: Deyell about 18 feet east of the wrecked car and Johnson, 25 feet east.

Chief Constable Stevens of Omemee said there were no witnesses to the accident. But Dan Hicks, who lives just north of the tracks and is a neighbor of Deyell's, heard the crash.

Dan Hicks and his wife, who live just north of the tracks, were first to arrive on the scene after the crash. They covered the two injured men with blankets and telephoned for a doctor and police.

ON NIGHT SHIFT

Chief Constable Stevens picked up a shattered watch that belonged to one of the men. The hands had stopped at three minutes to five o'clock.

Johnston is a bachelor who has been living in Omemee for several years. He is an assembler at General Motors. Deyell is married and has two 'teen-aged daughters.

Two Women Stabbed, Accuse Superintendent

NEPTUNE, N.J. (AP) — Two women were stabbed to death early today and a housing project superintendent was accused of the double murder.

Another man, who police said was visiting the two women, was stabbed four times and is in critical condition.

Dead were Mrs. Anna Genovese, 48, a divorcee, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Siciliano, 70.

Quillie Bonner, 27, in critical condition in hospital, told police his assailant was James W. Robinson, 54, superintendent of the Asbury Park village.

Flu Hits London

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mild influenza which has reached epidemic proportions in Europe and parts of the United States, and is currently making the rounds in London, is yielding an increasing number of pneumonia-type illnesses, health officials reported Tuesday. These cases, believed virus pneumonia, are being admitted to London hospitals in increasing numbers, hospital authorities said.

No Cut In Taxes Warden Predicts

Reeve Ernest Leeson of Havelock village was elected warden of Peterborough county at the inaugural meeting of county council Tuesday afternoon. He was nominated by Reeve Dick Stewart of Otonabee township, 1952 warden, and by Reeve Stewart Clysdale of Dummer township. Nobody else was nominated. The new warden has been in municipal politics since 1927. He is beginning his eighth year as reeve of the village and before that he was seven years in council.

The election was the first order of business. A gallery of 35 city and county officials—including Mayor Hugh Waddell of Peterborough—were present for the brief swearing-in ceremony. The oath of office was administered by Judge John de N. Kennedy, in his official judge's robes.

After observing the usual proprieties — thanking his sponsors and county officials for their part in the ceremony — Warden Leeson faced up to an unpleasant fact.

NO TAX REDUCTIONS

"Much as we would like to see lower taxation, there is little likelihood of this happening," he said. "We have no control over a large part of the expenditures and there is the increasing costs of keeping up better roads."

As a former chairman of the standing committee on equalization and assessment he had this comment on the loss of some $400,000 assessment in Smith caused by the recent annexation.

"The annexation of the 1,206 acres in Smith is not going to help us when we strike our rate," he said. "There's that much less assessment to levy on."

He asked the chairmen of the 1953 committees (not yet named) to strive to keep within their budgets.

Warden Leeson had an encouraging word for county council and the ratepayers in general:

"I think when you have heard the financial report read you will agree that the finances of the county are in very good shape. Warden Stewart and the 1952 council are to be congratulated."

BRINGS GREETINGS

Mayor Waddell brought greetings to the county council from himself personally, city council, and the residents of the city. And he promised Warden Leeson the wholehearted support of the city council.

"I believe the relations between the city and the county are now as good or better than they have ever been," said Warden Leeson. "We wish you and your council every success."

Same Detention Home For Boys And Girls

LONDON (CP)—Why not run detention homes on "co-ed" lines?

This question was raised at a conference of educational associations, including a pioneer society for sex and marriage education in Britain.

During a discussion on such juvenile delinquents as "boy-mad" girls, one member of the society asked: "Is it really any use putting these girls into remand homes and never letting them see a boy? Isn't it inevitable they will break out eventually?"

Dr. Charlotte Fleming, London University lecturer and writer on social problems, thought co-educational remand homes "not a bad idea at all." No decision was taken.

Patched Plane Flies 1,000 Miles

TORONTO (CP)—A northern missionary says he flew his plane 1,100 miles from Hudson Bay to Orillia with the undercarriage held together with clothesline wire and one wing covered with a makeshift canvas patch.

The Rev. John Spillenar, 36, flying northern missionary of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, told of his experience while on church business here Tuesday.

Mr. Spillenar said that the undercarriage of the light seaplane broke in a landing on icy water last week at his church's mission at Fort Severn, Hudson's Bay Company post on Hudson Bay, 1,165 miles north of Toronto.

The plane swerved, crashing the right wing into the ice and bending the propeller.

"With the help of a Roman Catholic priest at a mission there, Hudson's Bay personnel and Indians, we got the clothesline and tied the undercarriage up.

"The Indians made a canvas patch for me and we were able to patch the wing up fairly well."

Youth Stabbed In Abdomen

HAMILTON (CP)—Robert Thibeault, 16, stabbed twice in the abdomen in a street brawl late Tuesday night, is in fair condition in Hamilton General hospital today.

The youth told investigating morality officers that he and two companions were walking along York street when two young loiterers asked: "What's your hurry?"

By this time, said the wounded youth, his companions had got well ahead of him and he was left alone. He told the loiterers "mind your own business."

In the fight that immediately followed he said one of his assailants drew a spring knife and and stabbed him twice.

Half Convicts Surrender, Wait Shakedown

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP)—Half of the 800 convicts at Rockview state penitentiary carried their riot into its third day today while the other half awaited a "shakedown" by prison guards after acceding to a state ultimatum.

The still-rioting convicts are a group in cell block A who started the outbreak Monday night when they seized six hostages and six revolvers and then barricaded themselves in the main cellblock of this central Pennsylvania prison.

The prisoners who gave in to an ultimatum by Governor John S. Fine Tuesday night make up the 400-odd convicts in two other cellblocks which joined the riot after the first outbreak. They held no hostages and were not armed, but burned mattresses and other articles causing damage estimated by prison officials as running into the thousands of dollars.

COMPLETE SHAKEDOWN

Their surrender came two hours after the main cellblock group shouted a defiant "no" to Fine's ultimatum and fired two shots while dousing the electric lights in the block.

Deputy warden H. R. Johnston said early today "there will be a complete shakedown today of all men in blocks C and B (the two that surrendered). You can't tell what they picked up, in the way of weapons, broken glass and so forth."

No duties are planned for these prisoners today. They will be locked in their cells and fed there until the "conditions" in cell block A, where the hostages are being held, are settled.

For the cell block A prisoners the outlook was uncertain. Fine's ultimatum to surrender their hostages and throw out their guns said no reprisals would be taken if the men surrendered before the 7 p.m. deadline Tuesday.

After the deadline had passed, Welfare Secretary William C. Brown said the guarantee of no reprisals had expired and the remaining rebels now stood to receive extensions of their sentences for the riot.

Milk Delivery Cut, Proposal

TORONTO (CP)—Wage negotiations were reopened today between the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association and the Toronto Milk Drivers' Union (TLC).

The distributors and the union, representing 1,700 delivery men, are deadlocked over a demand for an $8-a-week increase.

The distributors countered with a proposal to curtail deliveries. The union has argued cutbacks would throw men out of work.

The dairies say the only alternative is to raise the price of milk.

One source said elimination of Wednesday deliveries might be the basis of a compromise agreement. The report said some drivers have voiced approval of the idea. The union offered no comment.

Industrials Continue To Gain On Market

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials continued to gain in brisk early afternoon stock market trading today while other sections slipped.

Steels and foods showed strongest in the industrials list while utilities weakened. Constructions showed strength with gains of about $1 each by Canada Cement and Dominion Tar. Industrial Acceptance also gained.

Senior golds weakened and junior producers followed on a list of small losses. Prospects were mixed but holding companies recorded a wide list of gains.

A few of the recently - active low-priced mining issues slipped today, including Gunnar, Ladulama, New Larder U, and Ankeno. Others continued to add pennies, including Bobjo, Chimo, Macho, Jacknife, New Bid and Acadia Uranium.

Higher-priced base metals held firm but others weakened. Nesbitt Labine and Cassiar slipped while Rix Athabaska gained.

Western oils showed a majority of small losses led by Del Rio, Central Leduc and Okalta but National and Bailey Selburn made good gains.

Meek was convicted Oct. 20 of killing Mrs. Dolly Alguire, the wife of his farm employer at nearby Harrison's Corners, with a knife.

Allied Planes Down Seven Red Jets

SEOUL (AP)—Allied Sabre jet pilots shot down seven Communist MiG jet fighters and damaged three others in battles high over northwest Korea today, the U.S. 5th Air Force said.

Two U.S. jet aces, Col. Royal N. Baker, McKinney, Tex., and Maj. Robinson Risner, Oklahoma City, each was credited with his eighth MiG destroyed.

U.S. losses, if any, will be announced in a weekend summary.

Today's bag was one of the biggest in several months. U.S. pilots destroyed eight MiGs last Wednesday—the most in one day since September.

On the ground Allied troops repulsed sharp Communist attacks on the frozen eastern front while the Peiping radio boasted of an unconquerable defence line of tunnels across the Korean peninsula.

Capacity House Hears Third Kiwanis Lecture

A near-capacity audience at P.C.V.S. auditorium Tuesday night gave warm approval to the third presentation of the Travel and Adventure Club, sponsored by Peterborough Kiwanis Club, when two reels of color film on Italy today were screened. Narrative was by Frederic Christian, noted American traveller, who has lectured in both Canada and the United States.

Some of the sunny skies and carnival spirit of Italy is captured in the pictures, taken since the last war. The Italian people, once again, appear a happy and care-free people. Most of Italy's beauty spots find a place in the program. Narration throughout by Christian leaves little to be desired.

Color photography has captured many scenes which otherwise would not reveal their real beauty, particularly scenes in and about Naples, Pompeii, Florence, Venice and Rome. Scenes of the Vatican, and St. Peter's, with the Papal Guard parading in their exotic uniforms, designed by Leonardo Da Vince in the 15th century, were striking.

While Italy has made good progress since the war, Christian said, she is greatly dependent on Marshall plan aid for continued survival. Her tourists today comprise a major industry.

Some portions of the films show Italian craftsmen at work in their ancient vocations; at play; and participating in religious pageantry.

Views of the Italian Alps, particularly mountain climbing resorts, with natives in their picturesque village costumes are unusual. Monks and their famous dogs of St. Bernard's Pass were included.

Vesuvius in eruption is one of the best spectacles captured in the films, which were taken over four separate visits to the peninsula. Pompeii in its ancient glory is well depicted.

On many of Pompeii's pillars, troops of the 1st Canadian Division irreverently scribbled their names during brief leaves while engaged in the tortuous Italian campagin. One was almost led to wonder if they are still there.

The coliseum and the old Roman forum occupy a good portion of the film, as well as Vatican city, St. Peter's; the Doge's Palace, and the Square of St. Mark in Venice.

George Cheatle, second vice-president of Kiwanis, introduced the speaker. Members of the club also acted as ushers.

Campbellford YPU Sees Film Strips

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church showed two film strips: "Be a Misisonary" and "The First Year of Christ's Ministry" at a meeting of St. John's Young People's Union on Monday evening.

Donald Rose and Anne Palliser conducted the worship service, after which Donald Rose entertained with three numbers on the mouth-organ.

The club decided to invite another society to the February meeting. It was also announced that a team from the Presbytery Executive would visit the YPU on January 27. Games concluded the meeting.

Campbellford H And S Plans Water Courses

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — The Home and School Association has announced courses again this year, to start immediately. Mrs. William Tatham will conduct the home nursing course, Mr. Ross Jewell will conduct a course in square dancing, and a crochet class will hold its first meeting on January 29 at the home of Mrs. Ray Hoard.

A class in smocking will begin at the home of Mrs. Francis Frederick on Thursday evening.

The classes met with a great deal of approval and interest last year, with the result that they are being continued in 1953.

Elect J. H. Lowery Warden Of United Counties For '53

COBOURG (ENS). — Reeve J. H. Lowery of Clarke Township was elected Warden of Northumberland and Durham Counties at the opening last night of the January session. He was opposed by Reeve A. Beer of Manvers Township. The new Warden was elected on the first ballot by a poll of 28 to 18.

There are many new faces in the council this year, 20 changes occurring as a result of the various municipal elections, and including an extra representation for Cartwright in a Deputy-Reeve bringing the roll to 42 members instead of the former 41.

The last big change was back around 1940 when 17 new members took their places in counties council, so that 1953 establishes a new record in the 20 changes which have occurred.

Following is how the vote was recorded last night:

For Lowery—Archer, Broadworth, Burrison, Cole, Erskine 2, Gray, Gummer, Hooten, Honey, Jones, Little 2, Lowery, Maybee, McKay, McCann, Olan, Post, Ross, Robson, Sandercock, Smith A. S., Smith H. 2, Thompson, Webb, and Wright.

For Beer—Argue, Beer, Black, Bothwell, Broomfield, Cochrane, Diamond, Finlay, Grills, Grimes, Herrington, Johnston 2, Nichols R. W., Nichols C., Nicholas, Rickard J., Rickard G.

The nomination of Mr. Lowery was sponsored by A. McKay and G. Broadworth. Sponsors of Mr. Beer's nomination were E. Argue and W. R. Nicholas. Following the investiture of the Warden, he was escorted to his chair by the mover and seconder of his nomination.

The new Warden declared at the outset that he appreciated the honor which had been paid to him in his election as head of the counties council. He had made no promises before his election, and felt free to do what he considered was right and in the best interests of the counties as a whole. He said he did not feel as capable as the Wardens who had gone before him, but he would do his utmost to render good service. He and Mr. Beer, when they decided to run for Warden, agreed that no matter how the election resulted, they would still be friends, he said. Before closing his brief inaugural remarks, Warden Lowery asked council to be prompt in attending the sessions.

The Warden then asked his wife to take a chair beside him, and proceeded to call on the ex-Wardens present to come to the platform. Ex - Wardens Harry Campbell, Milton Elliott and Herman Morrow spoke briefly and congratulated the new warden. Reeve Beer added his good wishes.

Ex-Warden Morrow recalled that Mr. Beer, father of the candidate for warden, once sat in Council with him. Mr. Beer, senior, had a worthy successor in the younger family member now in Council, Mr. Morrow said.

The new Warden was born at Kendall, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lowery. He farmed at Kendall for a number of years and then moved to Kirby where he has farmed for the past 25 of his 59 years. He was married in 1922 to Katherine Cochrane and they have four sons. Warden Lowery has been six years in Counties Council, and except in 1944 when he ran for Conservative member, he has been in the township for 16 consecutive years. He is an elder of the United Church, past county master of the Orange Lodge and immediate past master of the Masonic Lodge at Orono.

Muskies Whip Flyers 14-4

LINDSAY (ENS).—The Muskies turned on their big guns Tuesday night as they blasted the Trenton RCAF Flyers 14-4 in a Lakeshore game here. Bob Lewis led the winners with four goals, two of them in the first period, while Crawford, Coombs and Abercrombie notched a pair each. Others went to Kelly, Corley, Hicks and Sinclair.

The Flyers' goals, three of which were scored in a wild third period, went to Bowman, who scored two, Paul and Scarrow.

The Muskies pelted 48 shots at the Flyers' goalie Tardiff. Mucker O'Connell, in the Muskie nets, had to be good, at times, also, handling 40 shots.

The game was comparatively free of penalties, seven being called throughout by Referee Ouimet of Peterborough.

The Muskies took a four-goal lead in the first period, increased it 7-1 in the second, and splurged for seven more in the third while Flyers were tallying their final three.

Ship Masters Discuss Changes Needed

By W. R. WHEATLEY

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)— When 25 ship masters of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence sit down together and one mentions lighted buoy 16 off Coyle Point or wants a red stake placed off Red Rock, the others know exactly what he's talking about and the exact spot.

That's part of the business of these veterans of the inland waterways. They make up the navigation committee of the Dominion Marine Association, meeting here in 16th annual convention.

To a layman or landlubber sitting in with the committee it's all rather baffling. The committee is charged with making recommendations to the department of transport. Some of its recommendations conceivably could mean the difference between a safe passage and disaster.

Tuesday, the committee figuratively worked its way up from the St. Marys river, through the canal at the Soo and on into Lake Superior.

COVER MANY ITEMS

The members, in morning and afternoon sittings, talked about light, fog signals, radar, buoys and piers and water depths.

Sitting with them were representatives of the Lake Carriers Association, the Dominion body's counterpart in the United States, and representatives of the Canadian department of transport, including the marine services branch.

Committee members went over, item by item, recommendations made at the last convention. Sometimes a transport department spokesman reported a recommendation had been carried out, what was being done or is planned about others.

The discussions dealt with such matters as the need for an ember leading light on Sugar Island, in the St. Marys river, to act as a steering light for downbound vessels. This particular matter comes under United States jurisdiction, and in turn will be dealt with by the Lake Carriers Association, which reports recommendations to the U.S. Coast Guard.

The shipmasters also discussed the feasibility of a red light on the present unlighted bell buoy opposite Mission Channel in Lake Superior. There was also the question of increasing the intensity of the green light on the pier at the channel entrance.

BUOY CHANGING

Changing of buoys, making a difference in radar pick-up, was another problem discussed.

The lake captains debated at some length the effect of city lights, particular at Port Arthur and Sault Ste. Marie, on navigation-aid lights. The opinion was expressed that the lights in Port Arthur were particularly bright when a ship comes in from Lake Superior.

The situation at the Sault appeared different. Here it was a question whether a particular navigation light can be seen better from the water or in the city itself as a ship swings into the Canadian Sault.

Captain J. R. Stewart, a Canadian Pacific veteran, brought a roar of laughter when he commented that the light can be seen better from within the city "but unfortunately ships don vant'aietg unfortunately ships don't navigate uptown."

IODE Chapter Meets

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The Bemersyde chapter of the IODE held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Archer this week, with the Vice-Regent, Mrs. F. G. DeCarrol, presiding.

Thank-you letters from recipients of the Christmas parcels sent out by the Chapter to the local rest homes and hospital were read, and the Christmas Seal committee reported good returns as a result of the 1952 campaign.

At the request of the hospital auxiliary, the Chapter decided to make a bolt of flannelette into diapers for use at the local hospital.

A theatre concert has been arranged for Sunday evening, January 25, with the proceeds to go to Chapter funds.

The annual dinner will be held in the Presbyterian Church on February 10, and the February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Locke with Group five in charge of the program.

$10,000 Damages Sought From Trenton Newspaper

BELLEVILLE (CP) —Whether ex-Councillor Victor R. Ryan of Trenton was the victim of defamatory libel in two editorials which appeared in the Trenton Courier-Advocate on Dec. 7, 1951, will have to be decided by a Supreme Court jury, Mr. Justice Danis ruled here today.

Ryan is seeking $10,000 damages from J. Nolan Sisson, publisher of the Courier-Advocate, and editor Gwyn Hopkin-Morgan, who wrote the two editorials which form the basis of the suit.

His Lordship rejected a motion by R. K. McMurtry, defense counsel, that the case be taken from the jury—11 men and one woman—and the case will continue tomorrow. J. J. Robinette, counsel for Ryan, concluded his case, calling only three witnesses.

The name of Senator W. A. Fraser figured prominently in the evidence. Filed as exhibits, the editorials accused Ryan of performing the functions of a gramophone in repeating pronouncements of two prominent citizens of the town.

One witness said he took the editorials to be referring to Senator Fraser and Orliff (Buster) Alyea, prominent Trenton businessman.

RYAN DEFEATED

Editorial No. 1 was captioned, A Jekyll and Hyde in Council. The second editorial bore the caption, Let Us Protect Our Liberty. Both appeared in the same issue of the newspaper, three days before the electors of Trenton went to the polls in the 1951 civic vote. Ryan was defeated in his bid for a 13th term on Council.

The defense said that is was obvious that Ryan was the person referred to in the first editorial, but claimed that nothing said about him in that editorial was libellous. As far as the second editorial was concerned, Mr. McMurtry contended that there was no reasonable evidence on which any jury could say that it referred to the plaintiff. This editorial mentioned no names, dealt with the need for electing the best possible candidates to office, and in no way suggested in any way that the writer had Ryan in mind, counsel said.

The second editorial said, in part: " . . . must ensure that no candidate who is merely a puppet for a political organization, or a tool in the hands of interfering egotistical businessmen, is returned . . . Any councillor who assists in this disruption is not doing the job for which he was elected; he is betraying the trust of the electorate; he is mortgaging democracy. We must make sure that our liberty is not mortgaged in the auction place for a handful of silver."

Harold Blakely of Trenton, business agent for the Carpenters' and Jointers' Union, told Mr. Robinette he had read the editorials. He believed the second editorial referred to Ryan. It seemed to be an extension of the first editorial, he explained.

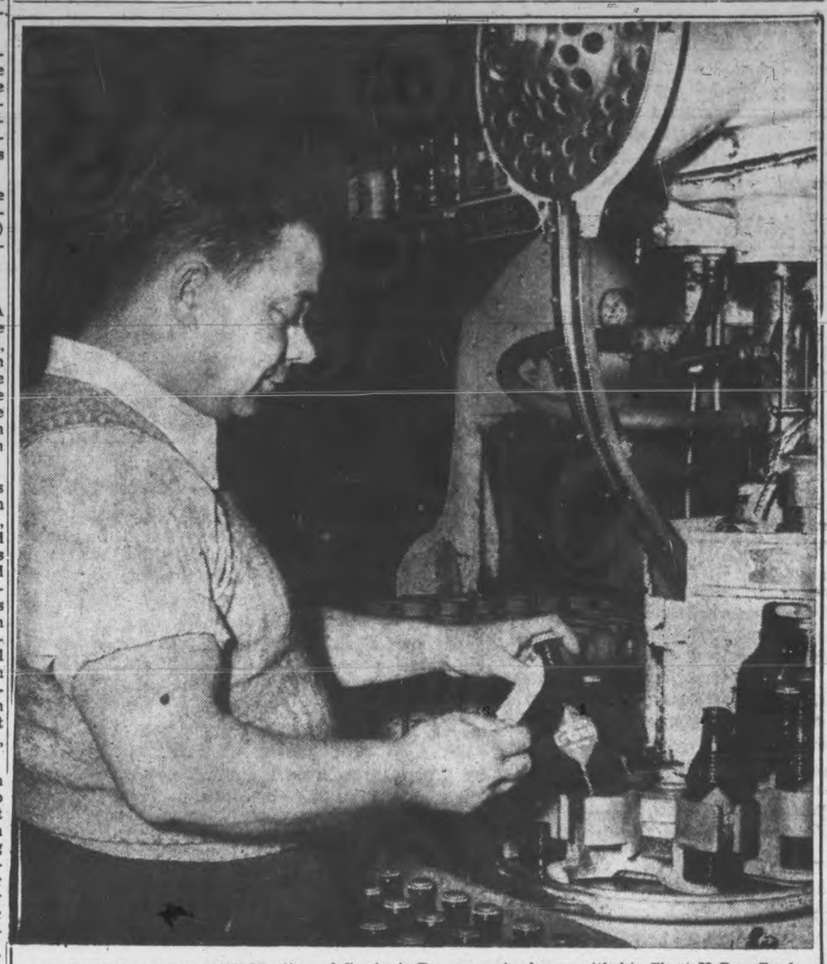
COUNCIL MEETING

"Were you present at a council meeting held in May of 1951 when the Dominion Management Association survey was discussed?" asked Mr. McMurtry. Witness said he had been present at that meeting.

"Do you recall the mayor saying that Senator Fraser had told him that if council went through with the survey he would withdraw an industry, or industries, from Trenton?"

"I think he said he would not continue negotiations to bring in certain industries," answered witness.

In answer to further questions, witness said he could not recall having complimented Mayor Couch "for getting out from under the influence of Fraser". He did remember complimenting the mayor and council on the way they had administered the affairs of the town.



In answer to Mr. Robinette, witness said Ryan's opposition to the survey was fully justified. Trenton had paid $2,000 for the survey and no service was given. Asked his opinion of the editorials, witness said: "I thought the newspaper was insinuating Mr. Ryan was dishonest and doublecrossing the people by taking orders from outside of council."

Leaving And Entering The White House

Mr. Truman said in his farewell as President that his successor would be taking office in quite different circumstances from those when he became President nearly eight years ago. He was called to the White House on April 12th, 1945 shortly after five o'clock in the afternoon, there to be told that President Roosevelt was dead. So far had he been removed, as Vice-President, from the seats of the mighty and their responsibility that he had not even known that President Roosevelt was ill. He was sworn in as President less than two hours later. He felt that "there must be a million more men better qualified than I to take up the Presidential task. But the work was mine and I had to do it."

* * *

President Eisenhower comes to his office well prepared in time and training for it. As Supreme Commander during the war, as Chief of Staff to President Truman thereafter, as head of the western forces in Europe until his retirement to campaign for the Presidency, President Eisenhower has been in the highest political and diplomatic circles, party to their problems and decisions, and has himself had to shoulder executive responsibilities of the greatest moment and to move with statesmanship through the American and international world. Only in his comparative lack of acquaintance with the grass roots of the United States and party politics is his experience less than that of President Truman when he assumed office.

* * *

Mr. Truman who had walked with ordinary people had to follow in the footsteps of one of the great men of our time, and at a time of great decision. One of the two great Truman decisions was to authorize the use of the atom bomb against Japan. The other—the greatest of his Presidency, he says—was to send American troops into Korea. Within weeks of his assuming office the San Francisco Conference to organize the United Nations was convened and the Potsdam meetings with Churchill and Stalin took place. Out of these emerge two significant American foreign policies, in which Truman support was decisive. In helping to found and sustain the United Nations, the mistakes made after the Great War were avoided; then the U.S. killed the League of Nations. By quirks of history and the Russians out of Potsdam came the Cold War and Korea. "When history says that my term of office say the beginning of the 'cold war', it will also say that in those eight years we have set the course than can win it."

* * *

The man who left the White House yesterday had greater stature than the man who entered it eight years ago. He had work to do and he did it with courage, carrying the people and himself through a Cold War—far more difficult to wage than a fighting war—by a simple, deep faith in the destiny of free men. President Eisenhower comes to his office with extraordinary qualities and training, and without the handicap of a generation of entrenched party rule which was perhaps President Truman's greatest embarrassment. And he, too, has courage, and the instinctive American faith in a democratic morality, which is his country's saving grace.

No Coronation

Thousands of Canadians will go to London this spring to see the Coronation or what part of its pageant they can. So will thousands of Americans travel to London. There is this difference: the crowning is of our own Queen; the American cousins will be looking at a foreign spectacle. Lacking a Sovereign, the Americans lavish their pomp and colour when they inaugurate a President. So they enjoyed the Washington day yesterday, and made revel. Television brought the actual moment to the streets and homes of most American towns. Canadians, with a cousinly interest in the inauguration, eyed their television screens.

The pomp had a special American flavour. Instead of Life Guards with shining cuirasses and nodding plumes, there were cowboys from Texas riding flowing-tailed roans. Belles from Alabama and other states, representing the traditions and industries of their home states, took the place of marchionesses. There was no gilded coach with the Head of State wearing ermine and a crown; the American extraordinary was President Eisenhower in black suit and homburg. And from the imposing White House, instead of the balcony of a palace, the President watched the inaugural parade and heard the cheers, not of his subjects, but of his constituents.

It was a great day, one in which the American could take just pride. The pride and pomp flowed over the border and we in Canada felt the glow of the enthusiasm, and the hope behind it. The fifty brass bands in the parade, the fourteen thousand people who sat down to two inaugural dinners two miles apart (the President appeared at both), the hullabaloo, the floats, the 25,000 yards of silk hung from one famous interior decorator's establishment; all the lavish, brash and spectacular trappings of the inauguration did not dim the friendly smile of the new President nor muffle the honest voice yesterday dedicating him to the service of the people in the greatest elective office the world has ever provided one man.

An Inauguration Oddity

When President Eisenhower took his oath of office yesterday, he used an historic Bible; it is that which was used at the inauguration of George Washington. It is curious that this Bible has as its frontispiece a full-page engraving of His Majesty King George II. It also carries a handsome book-mark which is embroidered with Masonic emblems.

It is often forgotten that George Washington was not himself of a democratic disposition, as we understand democracy today. His desire was that the President should be addressed personally as "Your Excellency" and at public gatherings during his tenure of office it was not his custom to shake hands with anyone or permit anyone to touch his person—a characteristic of royalty. His attitude was not dictated by personal hauteur, although he was an austere man. He thought, understandably, that the elected head of a great nation was not a person to be approached easily or treated familiarly, and he established presidential etiquette along those lines. Although there was some relaxation of these rules under Jefferson, White House etiquette was still remarkably formal, and to this day it is anything but free-and-easy.

Not that we would imagine that anyone wants it to be so. One of the purposes of etiquette and protocol is to protect people in prominent positions from the great numbers of their fellow-citizens who want to talk to them and enlist their assistance in some personal matter. Perhaps no one is more open to this kind of thing than the President of the U.S.A.; the sight of the austere countenance of George II in the inauguration Bible may stiffen his resistance toward those who want to enlist his aid for purely personal reasons.

United Europe Without Britain?

There are two Continental communities in Europe. There is the six-power group associated with the Schuman Plan to pool coal and steel, which now may be moving towards full federal union. (These countries are Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg (Benelux), France, Germany and Italy.) The other is the Council of Europe, made up of fifteen countries, in a very loose coalition which is not an official governmental coalition but a council of statesmen and views. Britain is a member of the Council of Europe, and not of the six-power community. This Council has its seat at Strasbourg, where it was in session last week.

Members of the six-power group feel that Europeans must hang together or hang separately. The other nine in the Council of Europe think that no workable federal union can be achieved out of so many nations, although the six-power community may succeed. Will such a federal union create a fresh subdivision inside Europe, separate from the other nine in the Strasbourg Council, cutting existing links with the rest of Europe and with Britain?

The crux of the affair is Britain's refusal to enter any European Federal Union. The previous Labour Government and the present Conservative Government both opposed federation. What Britain wants to see, apparently, is a united Europe without her, yet with her voice in its affairs. Mr. Churchill has been a leading proponent of European unity; he has opposed British participation in it, except in a loose, unresponsible capacity.

Whether a federal union of the six countries, let alone all fifteen, can be achieved is still doubtful. The Schumann plan is only in its first practical stages; no real test yet has been made of national willingness to bow to "supranational" authority (as provided now in the Schumann Plan). No Federal European Parliament or Government exists. There is still no European Army, despite the best efforts of the Americans and of diplomats.

Britain's link with the Continent is still the basic problem, and not Franco-German inability to co-operate or amalgamate. The Strasbourg Assembly has to find a formula to ensure Britain's place and influence in Europe, without requiring the surrender of national independence which British leaders say is incompatible with membership in the Commonwealth. Britain is not going to let the Commonwealth or her Atlantic interests be submerged in any "Little Europe."

PARIS LETTER

France Holds Massacre Trial

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

TO UNHAPPY MILLIONS who have never been here, the name of Paris conjures up a complex of delights— jovial faces and good wine, cafe-lined boulevards, elegant women, light laughter and the twirl of a moustache. All France is a lady of style with a wink for the unwary and no time for political headlines.

Yet in reality France is not only very much a part of the worried world of 1953, but seems to lie permanently beneath another shadow— the memory of the German Occupation. This is to be seen in the heightened national sensitiveness of Frenchmen, in the almost daily parades that commemorate some shameful or heroic act committed ten years ago, and, above all, in the endless procession of war-crime trials, which, even today, keep military courts busy in five principal French cities.

FRENCH JUSTICE still has nearly nineteen thousand alleged war criminals on its books, and every week fresh groups of pallid Germans or Vichyists are dragged before tribunals to face charges formulated back in 1944, after spending up to seven years in prison cells untried.

Today, in an absurb pseudo-Moorish courtroom at Bordeaux, the most sensational of all French war-crime trials opens nearly nine years after the act. In June 1944, a company of German SS burned down the village of Oradour-Sur-Glane, near Limoges and massacred 642 men, women and children. Five men escaped to tell the story, but for eight years the French authorities, bound by an old conspiracy of silence, seemed curiously reluctant to try the culprits.

FINALLY, at the end of 1952, the trial was announced for January 12, and the reason for procrastination became apparent 14 of the 21 accused were Alsatians—French men who would appear side by side with their German "comrade-in-arms."

This news was the signal for the opening of one of the most savage public quarrels of the century. The theme of the argument was simple. During the war thousands of Frenchmen, including a high percentage of Alsatians, were forced to work and even fight for the enemy. Could they be arraigned as war-criminals along with their German masters? Must often unwilling accessories be made the victims of a law of collective responsibility— responsibility for the excesses ordered by enemy officers? No, said some, let them be examined, but not tried in the same category as their German counterpart.

Yes, replied others, there should be no discrimination between killers.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE DIVISION, of opinion is neither political nor social, but geographical. The people of Alsace and their supporters are ranged against the people of Western France and their sympathisers. Catholic is opposed to Catholic; members of the same political organizations are pitted against one another; even different Communist newspapers, normally obeying the policy of a central directorate, have expressed divergent views. It is a war to the knife in which normal allegiances are forgotten and regional hatreds inflamed. Senators, bishops, senior generals and ministers have all become fierce partisans. It now seems possible that the Government will intervene by postponing the trial and putting the matter before the National Assembly. This would provoke the most curious of all debates— one in which discipline would count for little and only the conscience of the individual deputy would decide the issue.

IT WOULD BE WRONG, however, to imagine that public feeling is only aroused in this country by bitter national memories or political altercation. The warmth and sympathy of the French people have been admirably demonstrated in the New Year by millions who care more at this moment for the fate of a young provincial carpenter named Marius Renard and six-year-old Catherine Jelen than for all the eighteen post-war French Cabinets put together.

Marius Renard was born sixteen years ago with only one kidney— which was smashed when he fell from a third-storey window last month. Faced with certain death, he was brought to the Necker Hospital in Paris, where doctors considered two unpalatable facts; no human can live without a functioning kidney, but all previous attempts to graft a healthy one on to a body had led to death within a fortnight.

THE BOY'S MOTHER, Madame Renard, offered one of her own kidneys for her son The surgeon weighed the risk-and operated. A kidney was removed from the woman, and the crushed kidney of her son was also taken out. The healthy kidney, isolated from a bloodstream and liable to atrophy from one moment to the next, was then rapidly transferred to the body of Marius.

By January 3 Madame Renard had safely recovered, while Marius, lying absolutely immobile, befan to traverse the first fifteen days of his new-found life— fifteen days of anxiety during which, the doctors said, all appearances of recovery would have no significance at all. They have not yet elapsed.

The people of his native Berthecourt and of all France follow the daily bulletins in the press, and appeals for blood of Marius' group have been met with unprecedented generosity. Now there is nothing to do but watch the clock, and to hope that the boy survives —and French medicine earns and new and well-deserved laurel.

MEANWHILE Catherine Jelen lies in the Paris hospital for Sick Children, attacked by an obscure affliction that has hitherto baffled medicine and which will kill her if no cure is found—leucemia: the disintegration of the red corpuscles of the blood.

Since New Year's day Professor Jean Bernard, France's greatest specialist on the subject, has been fighting for her life and her father has launched a world-wide appeal for the latest information on the disease. Hundreds of letters of advice have poured into the hospital in the past ten days. Experts in New York and London have offered their services. Australia, Egypt, Portugal and Japan have broadcast the appeal, while Poland and Italy have called for recommendations from their savants.

But all so far, to no avail. Professor Bernard has tried all known remedies and now finds himself considering the fringe of medical knowledge— the latest unproved theories and untried medicines. While Frenchmen all over the country follow developments closely, he must decide how far his ethics will permit him to enter a new and dubious field— that of experimenting oh a human being.

Pakistan Pact Report Alarms India

By ARRAN MOORE

CONSIDERABLE indignation has been aroused in India over reports that Pakistan is to be included in the Middle East defense organization.

Currency has been given to these reports during the weekend by a news agency message which bears indications of official inspiration and the newspapers here have reacted sharply.

The Hindustan Times, while saying that Pakinstan is anxious to enter defence arrangements with the Western Powers principally to straighten herself against India later, adds that the dangers of any commitments into which Pakistan might enter will come not from any accession to her military strength but through her becoming a base of operations which would bring war to India's doorstep. The newspaper goes on to claim that the division of India has not altered the strategic problems of the sub-continent, the defence of which must be considered as a whole and not piecemeal.

"If Indian opinion," it continues, "feels strongly that no outside power should do anything likely to draw Pakistan into the vortex of world conflict and thus involve this country, though indirectly, we are sure enough of this is understood in the United States and Britain not to embark upon a step which will very nearly constitute a hostile act to this country."

A columnist in the same newspaper says that the latest Anglo-American move to rope Pakistan into a Middle East defence pact may be interpreted as a direct challenge to India's policy of keeping the subcontinent free of power-politics.

A "Times of India" editorial, entitled "Playing With Fire," describes the alleged Anglo-American move (only it takes the story for gospel truth) as a "ham-handed manoeuvre." It adds, "No single act since independence is more calculated to rouse the resentment and suspicion of India's people than this deliberate attempt to bring the cold war to our unwilling threshold."

A fiery piece of writing ends by saying that the Anglo-American Powers have forgotten one small item— the resentment of the people of this continent who are in no mood to be used as cannon-fooder for other peoples' wars.

British official circles in the Indian capital maintain a discreet silence on the whole question.

The Bells of Shandon

(IRELAND BULLETIN)

OUR COVER shows Shandon steeple which houses the famous bell in Cork the capital of Munster.

"On this I ponder
Where'er I wander,
And thus grow fonder,
Sweet Cork, of thee,
With thy bells of Shandon
That sound so grand on
The pleasant waters
Of the River Lee."

Two sides are faced with red sandstone, said to come from the ruins of a castle nearby, and the other two with white limestone from the ruins of a Franciscan Abbey. The limestone sides look out over the limestone country of the valley of the River Lee and the sandstone towards the sandstone hills to the north and east.

Last month was the two hundredth anniversary of the first peal rung on the original bells.

Writing in The Times of London, a correspondent says, "A fish weather-vane, symbolic of Cork salmon, and a clock, known as the 'four-faced liar: are almost as famous memories of the church to scattered Munster men as are the bells. This nickname was earned by an otherwise consgientious timekeeper because his minute hands on the east and west always go ahead of their companions, facing north and south, in the climb from the half-hour to the hour. Agreement is reached again at the hour. The clock is early Victorian, but the church is older than the bells, having been erected in 1722 as a chapel-of-ease to St. Mary's, which stood a few hundred yards away in Mallow Lane. Old St. Mary's was burnt in the seige of Cork after the Battle of the Boyne and was not rebuilt on the same site for fear that it might be used as a vantage point to attack the neighbouring fort.

"Silence fell on Shandon Bells in September, 1951, and for six months their chimes were not heard. The metal straps and pins which carried the weight had got rusty and there was danger that vibration might snap the rusted metal. The beams from which the bells are hung are massive, but they, too, have shown signs of decay. The tower was found to be in need of being made waterproof. The bells will no doubt be made safe for posterity, for, as 'Father Prout' put it, they are regarded with deep affection and recollection by those for whom their sound so wild would in the days of childhood fling round the cradle their magic spells."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

And a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man, and mighty in the scriptures; came to Ephesus. This man was instructed in the way of the Lord; and being fervent in the spirit, he spake and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John. And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue: whom when Aquila and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly.

And when he was disposed to pass into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receive him; who, when he was come, helped them much which had believed through grace: for he mightly convinced the Jews, and that publickly, shewing by the scriptures that Jesus was Christ. (Act 18: 24-28.)

For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope. (Rom. 15: 4.)

◇ ◇ ◇

But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them: and that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works. (II Tim. 3:14-17.)

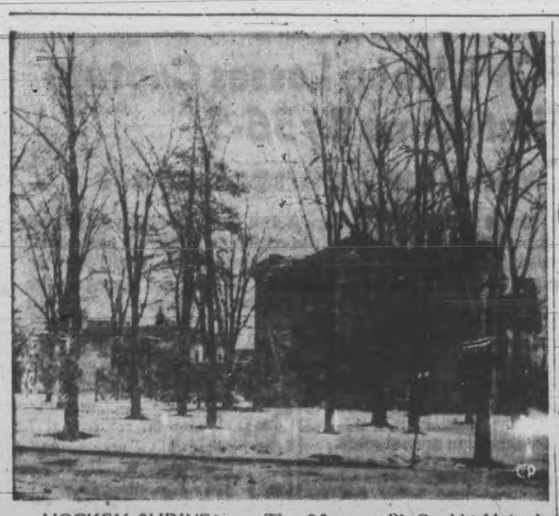
A Small Car Industry for Canada

(Ottawa Citizen).

The establishment of a vigorous distributing system for the German Volkswagen in Canada is symptomatic of the energy with which German industry has been finding its postwar feet. Reports that the company plans an assembly plant in this country, probably in the Oakville area, constitute a further sign of the growing health and aggressiveness of German manufacturing, and augur well for Canada's own future industrial growth.

The Volkswagen is a small two-door car selling for around $1,750. At the moment, it is bound to meet stiff competition from British cars of similar size and horsepower which sell for about the same price. The British have established a market and laid much of the groundwork, such as setting up dealer organizations, needed to retain and expand their trade in small cars. But if the Germans build an assembly plant, the situation may become reversed.

TIRED OUT



A small-part actor used to haunt his agent's office saying: "Anything doing for me today, Ted?" and Ted would answer, "Sorry, Charlie—nothing doing."

As the weeks went by words became superfluous. Charlie would look in, lift his eyebrows, inquiringly, and Ted would shake his head.

This went on for years. Then one day Charlie broke silence. He strode in saying: "Oh, by the way, Ted, don't book me for any job during the next fortnight. I've decided to take a holiday."

"But it has Ultra Dyna Hydraslide and Round Tail Lights . . . ours only has last year's Super Dyna Hydraslide and Square Tail Lights."

HOCKEY SHRINE? — The 93-year-old Cook's United Church in downtown Kingston, Ont., has been talked of as a possible site for hockey's Hall of Fame. The plan to immortalize the game's greats, near-greats and founders was born nearly 10 years ago but little progress has been made to house pictures of the men selected. The committee has only $65,000 so far and estimates it would cost $150,000 for a suitable memorial.

TREES ON SITE—Trees continue to grow on the plot of land in Kingston which was the site selected for hockey's planned Hall of Fame. The land was donated by Frontenac county; the site was approved by the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association 10 years ago but little has been done since to further the project. The NHL promised $30,000 and so far has given $7,500. The CAHA has given its promised $10,000. It would cost an estimated $150,000 to build the memorial and the Hall of Fame committee has only $65,000. The building in the background is the old courthouse.

Hockey's Hall Of Fame Has Foundered On The Rocks Of Neglect

(This is the first of a series of three stories on Kingston's Hockey Hall of Fame.)

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The international hockey Hall of Fame, a shrine born of curiosity 10 years ago as a memorial to the game's greats, near-greats and founders, is on the rocks of neglect.

It exists only in the imagination of those who created it and the select few who were elevated to its ranks. The ground for the edifice hasn't been broken yet and its bankroll is only $65,000. Organized hockey apparently is doing little about it.

The move to immortalize those who helped make hockey Canada's national winter sport started Sept. 10, 1943. Construction was to have started in 1951.

LAND UNTOUCHED

Today, the land donated for the memorial stands untouched. Pictures of the great are closeted in the home of its founder, 83-year-old James Sutherland, himself a member of the hall.

Hockey seems to have turned a cold shoulder to the deal. In 1943, the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association approved a site, after a squabble between Kingston and Halifax over the birthplace of organized hockey, and promised funds. The NHL said it would give $30,000; the CAHA $10,000.

The CAHA has lived up to its obligation. The NHL has given only $7,500. And, of the $80,000 donated, about $15,000 was spent on expenses. Money came from Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, who played benefit exhibition games here, provincial hockey associations, individuals, corporations and the Amateur Hockey Association of the U.S.

The city and the county of Frontenac played their part. The city donated $5,000. The county gave the option on land near the old court house in downtown central Kingston.

ESTIMATES INCREASE

Two years ago estimates for the two-storey, stone structure were $100,000. The figure now is about $150,000.

And, in an apparent move to get the hall started, the Kingston committee is reported to be dickering to buy 93-year-old Cooke's church, a rink-length from the main street in the downtown area. The price may be $75,000 and a renovating job would eat up another few thousand.

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL and a member of the Hall of Fame's board of governors, was asked about 10 days ago to look over the church site. He said he plans to go in the near future.

However, more money is needed. And Jim Sutherland has an idea.

"A hockey Hall of Fame night across Canada would help solve the problem," he says. "On that one night part of the proceeds of all games played could go to the Hall of Fame."

UNDER NHL DIRECTION?

Sutherland said he was "very happy with the way things are going" and hoped that the Hall of Fame would be completed shortly. "It is hoped," he added, "that the NHL eventually will take over running of the hall. . . ."

It has been years since Big Jim visited baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., "out of curiosity to see what it was like." He returned with the dream of a hall for hockey.

Forty-two men have been named to the hall and their names have been inscribed in the international honor roll book. The book is secreted in Sutherland's home, awaiting a permanent resting place. Photographs of members—mounted on 18-by-24 inch frames—are packed in Jim's bedroom.

Some day—and Sutherland hopes before he dies—the Hall of Fame will be a reality.

"It's up to organized hockey."

Get $800,000 For Ball Stock

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former president Ellis Ryan and 22 of his supporters in last month's fight for control of Cleveland Indians have sold their baseball club stock for about $800,000.

The Tribe's front office announced Tuesday the deal for 1,300 shares held by the Ryan faction was completed Monday.

There are 3,000 shares of Indians' stock outstanding. The shares sold Monday brought approximately $800 each, compared to $100 three years ago.

The new lineup of Indian stockholders now numbers 62, against the old total of 74.

Twelve former stockholders increased their holdings, among them President Myron H. Wilson, Jr., vice-president George Medinger, and secretary Donald W. Hornbeck.

Taylor's Fleet Canadiana Posted As Shortest-Priced Favorite

TORONTO — (CP) — Canadiana, E. P. Taylor's fleet filly, was posted as the shortest-priced favorite i the 94-year history of the Queen's Plate when the unofficial "winter book" odds were released today.

There is no official bookmaking on the $15,000-added Queen's Plate but for many years it has been the practice of one of Canada's leading handicappers to list "future book" prices on North America's oldest continuously-run horse race. The race will be held at Toronto's Woodbine Park next May or June.

Canadiana was listed at odds of only 8 to 5. The previous record-low price was 5 to 2 quoted against the late Harry Hatch's Uttermost in 1945. Uttermost won the Plate that year.

The handicapper expects that Canadiana's chief contention will come from Avella, owned by the Addison Stable of Toronto, and Virginia Fair, the champion Western Canada-bred three-year-old owned by Jim Charlesworth of Edmonton. Both are quoted at 8 to 1. Virginia Fair, daughter of Fairmond and Branca, won nine of her 11 starts on western tracks.

RANKED 15 TO 1

Ranked at 15 to 1 are J. R. McIntyre's Blue Scooter and J. E. Armstrong's Belflares. Teddybrook which won the Diamond Ring stakes, is quoted at 20 to 1 along with Lowmond and Bonsand. Lowmond was bred near Winnipeg by R. James Speers, but now is owned by Eric Cradock of Toronto. Bonsand, which finished a fast-closing second to Canadiana in the Cup and Saucer at Dufferin Park here last fall, is owned by Charlie Krupp of Winnipeg.

Two other western-owned entries—Gala Easter and Food For Thot—are next at 30 to 1. Gala Easter was bred and is owned by Hon. Lucien Maynard, attorney-general of Alberta, while Food For Thot is owned by Dr. L. H. Appleby, Vancouver surgeon.

The 71 entries and their prices:

8 to 5: Canadiana.
8 to 1: Avella, Virginia Fair.
15 to 1: Blue Scooter, Bel Flares
20 to 1: Bonsand, Lowmond, Teddybrooke.
25 to 1: King Of Trumps.

OTHER RATINGS

30 to 1: Face Card, Food For Thot, Gala Easter, Lively Action, Sunny Wrack, Wee Daisy.

40 to 1: Dinaris, Harry L., Heroic Age, Loursiete, Millbrook, North Of Seven, Sergeants Mess, Winter Lady.

50 to 1: Big Heap, Chain Reaction, Eric's Boy, Frosty Port, Mastery, On The Air, Young Brother.

60 to 1: Ballyray, Innisfail, Maxnew, Tring Tide.

80 to 1: Briarcrest, Georgian Bay, Count Thorn, Ruck.

100 to 1: Arrest, B More, Bettergo, Bumper Bill, Devil's Bomb, Edgor's Pride, Grey Comet, Main Liner, Master Lee, Miss Bouncey, Montana's Joy, Richmond Hill, Sunita, The Shomer, Thornlaird, Walestorm, Wee Birch, Wolesley.

200 to 1: Briar Park, Capt. Spence, Dilman, Flying Porter, Frannan, Hi Ducky, Lord Stanley, Louise Mac, Rhyl, Sir Tulach.

300 to 1: Gay Teddy.

500 to 1: East Bank, Jackie Hi-Hat, Lucy Lightfoot, York Hunt.

Three teams from Royal-Montreal and one from Montreal-Outremont gave Montreal the largest representation remaining in competition. The other Quebec teams are Ormstown and Lennoxville.

Ontario's two teams come from Aberdeen and Ottawa Rideau.

Mrs. G. Billings, Aberdeen, defeated Mrs. R. Casa, Valleyfield, Que., 14-7, while Mrs. C. Wilson, Ottawa Rideau, edged Mrs. W. Cottingham, Lachute, Que., 9-8.

Ken Watson's Curling

TO SLIDE OR NOT TO SLIDE?

The sliding delivery, used by many curlers like myself in the past twenty years has been the subject of many heated arguments. Last year the Dominion Curling Association rules committee, in bringing in its recommendations for revision of existing rules governing the game in Canada, included a provision that would have enforced the rule which demanded that any player release the handle of his stone before he crossed the tee line. A long and almost bitter discussion ensued over this rule, and as one of the originators of the slide delivery, I fought strongly against such a rule being enforced.

Yet, paradoxical as it may sound, I am strongly and emphatically opposed to any young curler using the slide delivery until he has curled for at least two years. As late as three years ago, I did not share this view, but lately, after watching hundreds of lads try to slide before they had learned how to deliver a stone properly from the hack, I am forced to this conclusion. It is almost beyond belief to witness the terrible atrocities committed on the ice which have been dubbed "sliding deliveries" by the misinformed. Riders; pushers, drifters, and swivellers have all been termed unmaliciously as sliders. Nothing is further from the truth.

✧ ✧ ✧

The true slide is a follow-through after a swing delivery. This is borne out by two interesting facts. First, my brother, Grant, and I played our first two years wearing rubbers and swinging from the hack without a slide. This was not premeditated, because the long slide was unknown in those days. We tried sliding after we had learned the proper mechanics of delivery. Secondly, and to my mind a much more convincing argument, Ken Moir, coach of the Gary Thode rink of Saskatoon, whose boys achieved the miracle of winning two Canadian school championships successively under his expert tutelage, would not allow his proteges to slide until the end of their second year of curling. Now they slide as far as anyone and their accuracy would make any good curler envious. Think that over, boys, before you slide yourself out of the curling rink.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Cy Whatley remarked the other day that an early reorganization meeting of the Petes' senior baseball club would be called. That's good, as a lot of spade work is necessary well before spring if the senior diamond sport is to thrive here this year. Oshawa has applied for entry in the Intercounty League and may be accepted early next month. Kingston officials last fall intimated they would seek entry in a loop down east in '53, though they may change their minds by spring. Belleville is not only interested in a return to the COBL but already has offered jobs to two of our 1952 junior ballsters. It is time the Petes began working on plans for this year.

Latest NHL bulletin to hand shows Gordie Howe of the Wings well out in front of the scoring race with 53 points, 29 of them being goals, in 42 games played. Wally Hergesheimer of Rangers is next with 44 points. Incidentally, Howe has scored nearly half of his goals against Toronto Leafs, a club he regards as his "cousins." Canadiens have given Howe — best player in the league now — most trouble. Rocket Richard is still a great puckist for Montreal but experts believe he is slipping a bit, while the younger Howe should continue to rule the roost for several more seasons at least. George (Red) Sullivan has performed in seven games with Bruins after stepping up from Hershey.

Junior Race Plenty Hot

Kingston Vics improved their standing a whole lot in the junior "B" group race by taking a soft four-pointer from Cobourg in the Limestone City. The Vics and our Oddfellows are staging a stiff scrap for second spot back of Belleville, while Lindsay is closing in, too. It's up to Doug Mortimer's IOOF-ers to down Lindsay here this eve to keep rolling and set back the threatening Scugog squad. Oddfellows will use the players they have been dressing recently, despite the current dispute between the juvenile Marines and junior Links over three of the boys. That matter is expected to be ironed out within a day or two by the OMHA, we're told. Tonight's tilt ought to be hot.

A couple of changes announced in the PMHA schedule this week. The bantam joust betwixt Aces and Trojans listed for Friday was moved up to Jan. 19, while the Jan. 30 tussle between Swartz bantams and the Trojans goes next Monday at six. Thus, the Thursday night setup at Civic goes like this, starting at six: Swartz bantams vs. Shamrocks, Aces vs. Midget Shamrocks, Marines vs. juvenile Shamrocks, Norwood midgets vs. Otonabee Wolves, and juvenile Aces vs. Havelock. Just one more week of play in this association before playoffs commence. We haven't received playoff arrangements as yet. Winning clubs next month proceed into OMHA playdowns, with the village clubs having the right to drop down a notch and hit the playdown path.

Local Athletes Do Well

Lorne Ferguson of Hershey finally overhauled Red Sullivan — who left the loop weeks ago to join Boston Bruins — for scoring leadership of the AHL. Lorne has 47 points, while Red had 46, though the latter still leads that league in assists with 36. For goals scored, Ike Hildebrand is tops with 25, the Cleveland ace from these parts having 44 points to stand fourth high, just back of Bronco Horvath of Syracuse. Don Ashbee joined Syracuse too late in the season to be up with the leading snipers. Nip O'Hearn (still another local lacrosser) was released some time back from Syracuse to play amateur for Troy, N.Y.

Lots of local basketball action these night. Tuesday tilts saw PCVS junior lasses defeat Kenner 36-5 with Bernice Callan clicking for 12 points. Port Hope damsels are in a double-header at Collegiate here Friday to play senior PCI-ers at 7.30, the junior joust following. YW games Friday: CGE vs. Black's, and Civic vs. Collis. Merchants dumped the Oilers 58-43 at the YM last eve as Ab Stewart tossed in 20 points and Bill Trimm 19. Local "Y" bantams took at 55-31 tussle o'er Lindsay with Dan Quinlan having a hot night for the Peterborough boys to account for 29 points. Lefty McDonald was good for 23 to lead our Normalites to a 38-32 triumph against Lindsay Collegiate. PCVS seniors and juniors go to Oshawa on Friday. Whitby juniors have an exhibition at Kenner that day, while Collegiate midgets play at Kenner. SPS are idle.

Parents Write For Sons In Puck Scrap

The following letter was received today by the sports editor from the parents of hockey players Gary Kearns, Jerry Frizzelle and Murray Byrne:

"Sir,—In regards to the letter in last evening's paper about the Marine juvenile players, Gary Kearns, Jerry Frizzelle and Murray Byrne, we the parents wish to answer and state the true facts.

"First of all why have we an Ontario Minor Hockey Association if it is not for the purpose of promoting players for tomorrow. Let's all be fair and face this as we should. We approve heartily what Mr. Frank Buckland said in regards to seeing no reason why these boys couldn't advance to junior "B.

"We notice Bert Hill states these boys didn't or couldn't obtain their releases. If they didn't, why not—if they couldn't, why couldn't they? Who did the stalling? Bert Hill and Albert Watkins were approached not only by the players themselves but also by the fathers of these three boys, who at all times have been greatly concerned keeping their boys in sports. Sure, the boys have played hockey together since they were bantams, midget and juvenile—all the more reason they should be allowed to advance and play junior B OHA hockey.

"Why Bert Hill or anyone else try to get these boys suspended and what right have they just because they are of juvenile age? Sure, they signed last year for Marines but none of these players were informed at the time that signing a certificate would bind these boys for the year to follow. Who was at fault in this case if these rules were not told to them at the time? Do you call this good sportsmanship? We don't.

"Byrne, Frizzelle and Kearns were never approached at all this season to see if they would play for Marines by Bert Hill or Albert Watkins. Also at this time we the parents want to ask the coach of Marines, Bert Hill, a very fair question. How does any man regardless of who he is expect to keep juvenile club together when these boys have had one practise all season, and at that practise there were only three players? Do you actually think this is fair to boys who are interested in hockey. No wonder they were interested to play for another team. Marines have played one game each week for 45 minutes of hockey. That is certainly not enough, especially with no practises at all. These boys are at the age where they want to keep busy, so why should they be deprived of their hockey just because Bert Hill doesn't care to release them? They have proven their ability to play in the category they are now in, so why hold them back?

"We also note Albert Watkins wishes to stay on the sidelines. We ask was it fair to the OMHA for him to be in the coaches' box at Civic Arena this season when he is on the executive committee for minor hockey. Where did he receive the right to coach Marines and also hold the office he does?

"As parents, we all are in favor of our boys playing for the junior Oddfellows, and can see no reason why the release that were requested from Bert Hill weeks ago have not been granted.

"Trusting this letter has brought to light to some sports fan the actual facts in regards to these boys, and thanking you for the space, we are the parents of Gary Kearns, Jerry Frizzelle and Murray Byrne."

Duke Snider Signs Brooklyn Contract

BROOKLYN (AP)—Duke Snider Tuesday became the 17th Brooklyn Dodger to sign his contract, receiving an increase to a reported $23,000. No financial details were announced.

Snider, 26, hit .303 last season, finishing with a rush after being benched in August. In the last 36 games, he hit at a .355 clip. During the season he hit 21 homers and batted in 92 runs.

SCHOOL RIVALRY between PCVS and Kenner Collegiate brought out the largest crowd to see a girls' basketball game in years Tuesday at PCVS. But the cheering was mostly by PGVS supporters as Mabel Gillen's juniors trounced Kenner 36-5. Kenner lasses were fairly strong defensively for three-quarters, but weak offensively. Marj Harvey (5) for Kenner (top photo) checks up PCVS' Callan while teammates wait for the rebound. But Callan, the game's top scorer (lower photo) jumps high for a shot. Recall Curling Highlights In History Of Local Club

By C. H. IRESON

One of the highlights in the history of Peterborough curling was the visit of the Scottish curlers in January of 1903. The leader of the visitors, the Rev. J. Kerr, wrote a book describing the tour and had words of high praise for the team's reception in Peterborough. They arrived here from Ottawa and were tendered a civic welcome at the station, headed by Mayor George M. Roger and the band of the 57th Regiment. Spectators thronged the streets as the party moved up to the old Snowden House, now the Charlbond Apartments. To quote the reverend gentleman it was "a reception that for its heartiness surpassed any on the tour and can never be forgotten by the team".

An elaborate luncheon was served, the menu of which included six kinds of meat, two entrees, relishes and sweets.

PETERBOROUGH WON

Games were played against five rinks and the Scots won one and lost four. They were beaten by the Peterborough Thistles 11-8, Granites 13-8, Orillia 14-6, and Kingston 15-7. They defeated Cobourg 13-8. In the evening there was a dinner and smoker in the Oddfellows Hall, with Mayor Roger in the chair.

Next morning they were taken for a sleigh ride around the town. Then there were more games against local and district rinks, the Scots beating Campbellford 13-8, Keene 14-8, Uxbridge 8-4, and were defeated by Norwood 13-11. Later they went to Lindsay and played five rinks, returning here to take the train to Toronto.

The Rev. Kerr's book entitled "Curling in Canada and the United States" reproduced photographs of some local rinks and the names bring back memories to an older generation.

WON THE 'SPIEL

Winners of the Peterborough bonspiel in 1863 were S. D. Hall, W. J. Ferguson, T. F. Matthews, and D. Davidson. Club champions included: D. W. Dumble, G. Matthews, J. Jeffries, and G. Whiton. Rinks at the time from Keene were skipped by M. Keneally and W. Campbell, while Charles Smith had a Campbellford entry.

Other highlights in the early history of the club included the winning on February 25, 1883, of the Governor-General's Trophy. The final game was played on the Rideau Hall rink in Ottawa against Truro, N.S. Two rinks from the local club, skipped by Sam Ray and J. Ferguson, won by 48 to 29. Three men have been president of the Ontario Curling Association: Dr. B. Boucher, E. B. Edwards, and Sam Ray.

Fleming Takes Over Palm Springs Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Golf's famed Ben Hogan stepped out of the lead in the $10,000 Thunderbird Country Club invitational tournament Tuesday, and a little-known professional, Pete Fleming of St. Andrews, Ill., moved into the front with a 36-hole score of 67-66—133.

Hogan and another veteran, Dutch Harrison, took the lead Monday with seven-under-par 65s. Tuesday Hogan and Harrison shot a pair of 69s to go into a tie with three other pros at 134.

Merchants Get Cage Tilt From Oilmen

For a while this season it appeared that the Oilmen in the men's city basketball league would record a perfect year. But the Oilmen's win streak was broken quickly in the second half of the Merchants-Oilmen game Tuesday in the YMCA gym. For the Merchants rallied and upset the league-leaders 58-43.

During the first half, the Oilmen held a slim lead and everyone expected the Oilmen to break into a scoring spree. But it failed to materialize. For the Merchants led by Bil Trimm, Ab Stewart and Northcott, started a spree of their own.

SPARKED DRIVE

Bil Dadson with seven points sparked the Oilmen in the first quarter to a 13-11 score. Burns then took over for the Oilmen in the second quarter to help build the score up to 27 but Merchants' Stewart kept them close, at the half with nine points, cutting the Oilmen's lead to a single point.

Then Merchants started to go. Paced by Bill Trimm who sank four field baskets in the third, they took a five-point lead, 40-35, at three quarters and, on the strength of Northcott's, Stewart's and Trimm's power in the fourth, developed the lead further.

The Merchants also won individual scoring honors, Stewart leading the scoring with 20 while teammate Trimm had 19.

Lineups—

Merchants (58).—Northcott 15, Stewart 20, Trimm 19, Dundas 4, Toller.

Oilmen (43).—Dibben 10, McPherson 7, Dadson 9, D. Galvin 1, Ryan, Burns 13, Butcher 3.

Hall Of Fame Needs More Cash

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, indicated Tuesday sufficient money has not been raised to construct the type of building desired to serve as hockey's Hall of Fame.

"We want a building that will serve as a national shrine, not a two-by-four," he said.

The NHL president was commenting on a Kingston dispatch which said the international hockey Hall of Fame, plannedd as a memorial to the game's great, is on the rocks of neglect.

Campbell said all NHL teams have played exhibition games in Kingston and the money has been put into a special fund for construction of the hall. The NHL has every intention of making good the plan for a hockey Hall of Fame.

PCVS Hoop Lasses Capture First Game By 36-5 Over New Kenner Cagers

Mabel Gillen's PCVS Garnet and Greys completely ruined Kenner Collegiate's debut into girls' high school basketball Tuesday at PCVS. The more-experienced PCVS junior lasses had little trouble disposing of Kenner who for the most part were playing their first basketball game. The old Collegiate won 36-5. No one expected the Kenner girls to be a powerhouse in their opening year and no one expected the large crowd to turn out to watch girls' basketball. It was one of the largest in several years.

The rivalry which is gradually being built up between the schools probably helped bring out the large crowd. It did help the cheering. For both schools were well-represented by cheer leaders, Kenner introducing several new yell coupled with the old.

CHECKED CLOSELY

When it came to basketball, the score doesn't fully indicate play. For the Kenner quintette checked closely for three-quarters, then allowed PCVS to pile up the score in the fourth quarter. The score would have been much closer had Kenner a better offence, particularly in shooting.

Despite the opposition, PCVS appears to have a better than average junior team. They pass well and shot well; defensively they're good, but will likely need polishing up on rebounding.

AN EARLY LEAD

PCVS' Maizie Shearer, Bernice Callan, Marg Patterson and Mary Raddon sank points in the first quarter for a 6-0 score. They were checked more closely in the second and were limited to two field baskets by Carol Hughson and Shearer. Meanwhile Sally Reynolds nearby brought down the house when she scored Kenner's only point on a foul shot, making the half score 10-1.

Then in the third, PCVS rolled again and racked up 10 more points on field shots by Sally Fee, Gloria Clemens, Marg Patterson, Shearer and Callan. Again Kenner stole the cheers when Diane Smith scored Kenner's first field basket.

But in the fourth Bernice Callan, using a driving one-hand push shot, sent the PCVS team far ahead. She scored nine points in that quarter.

Lineups—PCVS (36)—Fee 2, Shearer 7, Clemens 2, Callan 12, Patterson 3, Raddon 6, Collins, Bertram, Buckland, Hughson 4, Yarn, Rose.

Kenner (5) —Keay, Sucee, M. Tudhope, Tully, Smith 4, Reynolds 1, Harvey, P. Tudhope, Jarvis, Sanderson, Lumbard, Middleton.

Queen Mary Victors

Queen Mary seniors rolled to a 7-1 school hockey win yesterday over King George. Haig and Hendry each scored twice for the winners, singles going to Perritt, Dafoe and Jackson. An assist apiece was gained by Drury, Brown, Hendry and Milne. B. Moffitt counted the losers' goal, Playford going well for them, and J. Paul making a lot of stops. Stewart and McArthur stood out defensively for the winners.

Queen Mary: Hendry, Stewart, Haig, Brown, Perritt, Reynolds, Jackson, Drury, Deal, Milne, Wilson, Jobbitt, Dafoe.

King George: Dorrington, Meeks, R. Paul, Playford, White, Moore, Moffitt, Pearse, J. Paul.

Referee: E. Loveday.

The Red Mask and Chief Big Heart will headline tonight's wrestling card at the Brock Arena. A torrid bout can be looked for as Big Heart is out to break the Mask's long winning streak. The hooded one has no intention of letting this happen.

Earl McCready and Joe Christie will supply the fireworks in the semi-final. Big Earl was never better than at the present time, his bout here a couple of weeks ago proving that.

Irish Nose Out Windsor In 3-1 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens are showing the form that could carry them to the Memorial Cup.

The league leaders in the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association trounced Quebec Citadelles 6-0 Tuesday night. The Citadelles have provided the Canadiens with their only serious opposition in Quebec this season.

Interest in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series centres on the battle for second place. Toronto Marlboros are in top spot, nine points ahead of the nearest opposition.

Toronto St. Michael's Tuesday night kept one point back of Barrie Flyers as they trimmed Windsor Spitfires 3-1. Barrie nosed out Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 6-5 with a third-period rally.

GENERALS WIN

The top scorers in the league traded goals as Oshawa Generals nipped Galt Black Hawks 4-3. Jim McBurney of Galt increased his total in the scoring race to 75 points with two goals and an assist. Bob Attersley of Oshawa notched a goal and an assist to make his total 67. He is in second place.

St. Catharines Teepees started their first interlocking tour of Quebec with a 3-0 win over the last-place Montreal Royals.

Guy Rousseau led the parade for the Canadiens with three goals. Boileau fired singles as the Canadiens moved five points up on the second-place Cits.

Jim Logan, Paul Knox and Bill Lee were St. Michael's goal-getters in Windsor. Ed Louttit notched the single goal for the Spitfires.

SCORE IN THIRD

The Flyers scored three goals in the third for their win at Kitchener. Jean Martan accounted for two Barrie goals. Others fell to Tony Poeta, Jim Robertson, Don McKenney and Neil Carver. Ken Collins, Glen Cressman, Marc Boileau, Buddy Horne and Greig Hicks counted for Kitchener.

Frank Bonello added a single goal to McBurney's two for Galt. Oshawa won it on markers by Rich Collin, Attersley, Fred Etcher and Harold Casey.

Brian Cullen, Charlie Marshall and Ken Schinkel connected for St. Catharines in their Quebec debut.

Mercurys Bow To Dutchmen, Loss Costly

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Owen Sound Mercurys suffered what could be an expensive loss Tuesday night.

The Mercurys are engaged in the hottest battle of the season with Stratford Indians for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A leadership. They went into Tuesday night's game one point up and by losing to Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 5-2 lost their chance to stretch the lead to three points.

Tonight Stratford goes to Chatham for a game with the Maroons and by winning can take over the lead from the idle Mercurys.

Sudbury Wolves pumped in five goals in the third period to defeat Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds 8-5 in a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group game. Sudbury leads the league, Greyhounds are second.

LEADS DUTCHMEN

Don Rope led the Dutchmen with two goals. Jack McKenzie, Al Buchanan and Harvey Jacklin fired singles. Tom Burlington and Roy Leckie tallied for the Mercurys.

Lennie Speck, Yacker Flynn, Durno Rondina, Gord Heale, John Mestan, Red Barrett, Nick Tomiuk and George Defelice divided the Sudbury scoring. Chuck Johnston tallied two for the Greyhounds and Hec Pozzo, Terry Biocchi and Doug Towers added the rest.

Campbell Reserves Ruling On $1,000 Fine For Adams

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Even a referee, says National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell, is entitled to a little privacy. The NHL's boss, a former arbiter himself who says he wasn't above hurling a skate at the occasional club official who invaded the referee's room, came to the defence of his former colleagues as he discussed the cause celebre of Jack Adams.

Carl Voss, referee-in-chief of the NHL, is reported to have accused Detroit Red Wings' general manager of bursting uninvited into the sanctum of referee Red Storey at Detroit's Olympia Stadium Sunday night during a game with Montreal Canadiens.

Campbell reserved judgment on the report until Voss puts the facts to him in writing, but he was vehement in defending his officials.

WON'T STAND IT

"Under no circumstances can a team official enter the referee's room," he said. "We won't stand for our officials being berated."

Adams is reported to have expressed himself forcibly on the subject of Storey's officiating in the game, which Detroit lost 3-2.

In Detroit, reporters quoted Adams as saying he stopped Storey in the corridor between periods to ask him why a Montreal player didn't get a major penalty for injuring Detroit forward Tony Leswick, and that Storey invited Adams into his room to discuss the matter further.

MAXIMUM PENALTY

NHL regulations call for a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine, but Campbell is waiting for official word from Voss, who was on the scene, before disposing of the case.

The Adams rhubarb overshadowed tonight's clash between the Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, the first of a home-and-home series that ends in Montreal Thursday.

The Canadiens, five points out of first place as a result of taking three of a possible four points from the front-running Red Wings last week-end, could be leading the pack if they had better luck against Toronto.

The Leafs have slapped them down four times, tied once and lost only twice to the Habitants this season.

NOT AT FULL STRENGTH

Neither club will be at full strength for tonight's clash, the only activity in the league. Centre Ted Kennedy and Winger Howie Meeker, both out with injuries for some time, are the most prominent Leaf absentees. Leftwinger Dickie Moore, a star rookie of last season who hasn't been right all year, won't make the trip to Toronto for the Habs and veteran defenceman Butch Bouchard is a doubtful starter.

Kramer Downs Sedgman Again

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Big Jack Kramer, his booming service hitting a flawless peak, blasted former Australian Davis Cupper Frank Sedgman Tuesday night to narrow the gap between them in their professional tennis series.

Kramer put away Sedgman with east 6-3, 6-2 while Pancho Segura of Ecuador, defending world titlist, cut loose with his devastating two-fisted forehand to score his 11th straight win over Ken McGregor, another former Davis Cupper from Australia, 6-4, 8-6.

The Australians salvaged the doubles matches, 13-11, 6-3, and now lead 6-5 in that series. Sedgman holds a 6-4 edge over Kramer in their battle.

Kramer, meanwhile, said it was doubtful his troupe will play in Australia because of a ruling from the council of the Lawn Tennis Association at Melbourne. It said that if Kramer wants to bring the Australians home for an exhibition, he will have to surrender 25 per cent of the gate receipts to state associations.

CENTRE LOST FOR MONTH

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Owen Sound Mercurys of the OHA Senior A League announced Tuesday that centre star Doug Gillespie will be out of action for at least a month.

Gillespie's left thumb was fractured in a game against Hamilton Monday night. Club physicians said a traction splint has been applied to the injured thumb.

Gillespie has scored 24 goals and 25 assists in 30 games for the Mercurys to date.

St. Louis Trips Providence 9-6

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ken Hayden rammed home three goals in a seven-goal third period Tuesday night to give St. Louis Flyers a 9-6 American Hockey League victory over Providence Reds.

Hayden's second goal of the period broke a 6-6 tie. A minute later Lou Jankowski swept home the clincher. Both Flyer goals came with the team shorthanded while Buddy Boone was off the ice for hooking.

Zellio Toppazzini scored twice for the Reds and Motto McLean duplicated the feat for the Flyers.

Other St. Louis scorers were Jim Conacher, Bert Hirschfeld and Steve Hrymnak. Other Providence goals were by Paul Gladu, Barry Sullivan, Ray Powell and Johnny Dennis.

SENICK TO RANGERS

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers Tuesday called up George Senick, a 23-year-old left winger, from Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League. Senick has scored 20 goals and had 32 assists in 35 games for Saskatoon.

Walcott Denies Statement Plans To Fight Marciano

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott said Tuesday he has every intention of fighting heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and to tell the New York state athletic commission — chairman Robert Christenberry in particular —he doesn't need any help in deciding when to retire.

Walcott was incensed by Christenberry's statement Monday night that he (Walcott) likely will never fight again. Christenberry said in Wilmington: "I seriously doubt that Walcott will fight again." He said rules of the New York commission and almost every other state say that a fighter cannot be licensed after he is 40 years old.

"I'll be 39 Jan. 31," said Walcott. "And as far as Mr. Christenberry is concerned, he's nothing but a hotel bellhop. He hasn't done anything for boxing."

The former heavyweight champion said: "And here's more if you dare to print it. I would appreciate if the governors of different states would stop and consider these boxing commission jobs, and appoint someone who knows and has experience in boxing instead of playing politics."

Normals And 'Y' Take Games Against Lindsay

Using a wrist snap shot from under the hoop, Lefty McDonald paced the Peterborough Normal School basketball team to a 38-32 exhibition victory over Lindsay Collegiate Tuesday. In the first game Lindsay Collegiate bantams were trounced 55-31 by Peterborough YMCA.

McDonald's overhead shot and the under-the-basket shot enabled him to lead the Normal School throughout the game. In all, he scored 23 points out of his team's total of 38. His total was the game's best.

G. Edward's and McDonald led the Normal to a two-point lead at the first quarter, 11-9. Lindsay's points were scored mostly on foul shots. McDonald continued his pace in the second and enabled Normal to lengthen the lead to 20-15.

BUILT IT UP

Then in the third quarter, Normal built up the winning margin, again on McDonald's points. At the same time Normal held Lindsay to only four foul shot points.

Maurice Pennock staged a Lindsay rally in the fourth quarter but the best his teammates could do was score foul shot points. Their total wasn't enough to overcome Normal's lead which was lengthened by McDonald's efforts for the fourth time.

GETS 29 POINTS

McDonald's scoring spree was surpassed by YMCA's Dan Quinlan. The St. Peter's High player alone was too much for the Lindsay Collegiate bantams as he nearly equalled Lindsay's total score. Playing well throughout Quinlan scored 29 points.

Frank Trudeau and Quinlan practically defeated Lindsay in the first quarter. Between the two, the YMCA took an 18-6 first-quarter score. Quinlan lengthened the Y's lead in the second but Lindsay, led by Keith Rich and Lloyd Gilson, crept closer. But the YMCA still led 24-15 at the half.

During the third and fourth quarters, Quinlan led YMCA scorers while the only effective player for Lindsay was Gilson. On Quinlan's points, the "Y" quintette gradually lengthened the margin.

Lineups: 1st game—YMCA (55): Ronco 1, Downer 2, Sullivan 2, Coombes 2, Trudeau 6, Johnston 3, Foster 2, Quinlan 29, Smith 8.

Lindsay CI (31): Breese 8, Deen 3, Rich 3, Jenkins, McLean, Gilson 11, Dawson, Daniels 2, Weldon 4.

2nd game, Peterborough Normal (38): English 1, McDonald 23, Gregeoric, Edwards 8, Whitney 6, Rowen, Nichols, Reid, Exley.

Lindsay CI (32): Taylor 5, Gleeson 5, Pennock 10, McLean, Schenk 7, Handley, Sinclair 2, Windrem 3, Tozios.

LAKEFIELD (ENS). —Lakefield Figure Skating Club, a newly formed organization in the village, is away to a splendid start with 30 registered members.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Charles McDermott, the children have classes each Saturday morning from 9:30 until 11:30, and range in age from three years to teen-agers. All the members are from Lakefield with the exception of four who come from Young's Point.

Mrs. McDermott, who came to the village about six years ago from England, is an accomplished figure skater, and was a member of figure skating clubs at Queen's, London, and Richmond in Surrey.

Other members of the executive include Mrs. Donald Hendren, secretary, and Mrs. John Bell, treasurer. Mrs. McDermott is president as well as instructress.

Stirling Victorious

STIRLING (ENS)—In a lively TVL tussle here, Stirling edged Point Anne 7-6. The visitors led 5-2 in the first period and were up 5-3 going into the third. Stirling drove hard to tie it at 6-6 in the third and they eked out the win in the dying minutes of play. But two penalties were handed out in the clean contest.

Robson led the winners in scoring with three goals, as McCrory had three assists. Bastedo, Williams, M. Murray and Wannamaker hit the mark once each for the Stirling squad.

May Appeal Light Term Given To Seguin

VICTORIA (CP)—Deputy attorney-general Eric Pepler may appeal the five-year sentence given murder suspect Henry Seguin at Williams Lake, B.C., it was learned Tuesday.

Mr. Pepler said that he is looking into the reason for changing an attempted murder charge at Williams Lake to lesser charges and the light sentence.

Seguin, charged with a holdup-slaying in Eastern Ontario, was captured at Williams Lake Dec. 16 after a gun battle with police following an abortive bank robbery. Bank manager Leonard Hillier was wounded by the gunman, and Seguin suffered a chest wound in the fight with RCMP.

PLEADS GUILTY

After the attempted murder charge was withdrawn Seguin pleaded guilty to wounding Hillier with intent to do grievous bodily harm, shooting at a police officer, and the robbery of Hillier. He stole a wallet from the bank manager.

Mr. Pepler said he had not approved the withdrawal of the attempted murder charge.

Seguin was taken to jail at Vancouver Monday and may be returned shortly to Maxville, Ont., where he has been charged with the murder of taxi operator Leonard Hurd, shot and robbed of $1,000 last August.

Child Saves Family

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The cries of Mary Margaret Patterson, 7, saved her mother and two brothers from asphyxiation when coal gas from a furnace filled their suburban home early Tuesday. Mrs. Victor Patterson, aroused by her daughter, saved herself and the children, including Victor, 10, and Bobbie, 4. Mr. Patterson, who works in St. Catharines, is home only at week-ends.

Thieves Steal Copper

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Under the noses of a watchman and his dog, thieves Monday night stole 10,000 pounds of copper bricks, valued at $5,000, from the warehouse of Meretsky, Burstnine and Meretsky, during the night. In the process, they smashed three padlocks and stole one of the scrap metal company's trucks to cart the copper away.

Movie Column

David Niven Trains Hard To Become Wolf

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — David Niven, never known as a Hollywood wolf, is making sure he is an expert one for "The Moon is Blue."

He's got Errol Flynn's former press agent working for him.

Niven won't say whether the hiring of Flynn's press agent is any more than pure coincidence but admits that it's nice to get pointers from one who has watched the master at work.

"You know," comments Niven, "I haven't had a personal press agent since early in my career. I was broke then, heavily in debt and my career was in bad need of a shot in the arm. So I hired a publicity man. He turned out to be too good. The next day a gossip column headlined 'David Niven buys 150-foot schooner.'

EVERYONE HOUNDING

"Soon my tailor, butcher and baker were on the phone, all screaming, 'Where's that 20 bucks you've owed me for six months?' Thus ended one of the shortest publicity campaigns in Hollywood history."

Besides hiring Flynn's former publicist, Niven prepped for his role of the wolf in the movie version of the Broadway hit by touring in the West Coast company of the play.

Otto Preminger, the producer-director of both the play and the movie, and F. Hugh Herbert, the author, wanted Niven to tour with the play with the idea of playing the same role in the movie later on.

"They apparently didn't consider me a natural-born wolf type," comments Niven.

TWO SEPARATE COSTS

The "Moon is Blue" company started shooting this week with two separate casts—one English-speaking and the other German. As the Hollywood troupe finishes their scene, the German counterparts step in and do the same scene in German.

"There's a million good reasons for this," disclosed Niven. "A German gross of $1,000,000 more than normal can be expected when German actors are used."

Preminger, formerly of Vienna, directs both versions.

The German movie title is "The Virgin on the Roof," most descriptive of the play's context.

Young Singers In Opera Have Wide Experience

The singers who will present the opera "Cosi Fan Tutte" at St. Peter's High School auditorium Feb. 26 and 27, have reputations both across Canada and in the United States.

Probably best known is Louise Roy, one of Canada's leading singers. She has sung with several Canadian symphony orchestras and has starred with the Royal Conservatory of Music productions.

Taking the leading role in the Royal Conservatory of Music presentation here is Edward Johnson who has sung with United States Opera companies and in a CBC production sang the lead in the Benjamin Britten opera Peter Grimes.

BORN ON CONTINENT

Jan Rubes was born in Czechoslovakia and received his early training there. He won the top award in an international competition in Geneva. On this side of the Atlantic, he has sung leading opera roles in the United States and Canada and in performances presented over the CBC.

Sylvia Grant has performed with the CBC opera company and was the winner of radio contests as well as having appeared in many Royal Conservatory of Music operas.

Jacqueline Smith and Donald Garrard have both had extensive experience in singing in Vancouver. Miss Smith has taken the lead in several operettas and Mr. Garrard has sung with the CBC opera company.

The opera is being sponsored by the Rotary Club to help in its work for crippled children.

Judgment Reserved On Combine Case

MONTREAL (CP)—The court of appeals reserved judgment Tuesday on an appeal by five companies from conviction and sentence on a charge of forming or operating an illegal combine in the match industry in Canada.

Presenting rebuttal for the companies, convicted two years ago, counsel Hazen Hansard, QC, said resale price maintenance practised by one of the companies was perfectly legal until Parliament prohibited such practices a year ago.

"There was not a single instance of our underselling competitors," he said. "If they tried to undersell us, we met them."

Bancroft Victorious Against Madoc 7-3

BANCROFT (ENS) —Bancroft Pontiacs drubbed Madoc 7-3 in a well played, fast-paced, second home game here. Madoc turned in a fine performance despite a shortage of players dressed for the game. Bancroft has dropped only one game in the Hastings-Addington League this year.

Nine minor penalties were meted out by the officials with Bancroft drawing four. A good crowd was on hand despite low temperatures.

The first frame ended in a 1-1 tie. Elwood Brough assisted by brother Norman, combined for the local tally. The Madoc counter was rung up by Nayler with the assist going to R. Smith.

The second period saw local goals by Jim Bruce assisted by Stu Stringer and B. Greene, Norm Brough from Elwood Brough and D. Comrie, D. Comrie from Elwood Brough. The Madoc tally was by L. Reynolds unassisted.

In the final period, Ted Maxwell tallied unassisted with Hugal doing the same for the visitors.

Sterling performances were turned in for the Pontiacs as usual by the Brough brother combination and Bob Ramsbottom playing his first season with the local club. Nickle stood out for the visitors, the entire team turning in a good game.

The teams:

Bancroft: goal, A. Young; defence, J. Hatton, L. Dougall, S. Stringer, F. Bruce, C. McAlpine; forwards, B. Greene, E. Brough, D. Comrie, T. Maxwell, B. Ramsbottom, B. Delyea, J. Bruce, D. Maxwell.

Landy Will Try To Crash 4-Min. Barrier

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia's John Landy, fastest miler in the world today, will attempt to crash through the four-minute barrier Saturday.

Landy, a 22-year-old student of agricultural science, ran a mile Dec. 13 in four minutes, 2.1 seconds. Today he appears to be the best prospect for a four-minute performance and he believes it is possible for him to do it soon.

Saturday he'll be running in the Australian championship meet at Perth in West Australia.

"It will be a fast mile," Landy said. "I'll be trying hard, but it's a gamble. It will depend on the condition of the track, how I'm feeling that day, and the weather. Most people agree it is very difficult to break a record with the temperature anything over 85."

IMPORTANT FACTOR

The weather may be an important factor Saturday. Perth is noted for its heat, and Landy and his coach, Percy Cerutty, have been campaigning for a program that would allow him to make his record attempt late in the day after the temperature has begun to drop.

Landy's 4:02.1 mile, third fastest ever run and only seven-tenths of a second slower than Gundar Haegg's world record, will go down in the record books as 4:02.2. Under international regulations all races exceeding 1,000 metres are timed only in fifths of a second because of the belief that tenth-second watches become inaccurate after about two minutes.

Three weeks after that run, Landy ran a 4:02.8 mile under miserable conditions. The track was hard, unwatered and had been practically untended for a week.

Fish, Game Club Seeks Members

At an executive meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association this week, a new membership drive was planned to enrol 300 new members.

The club realized this was a necessary move to accomplish various projects that they have outlined for the coming year. These are:

The restoration of a farm pond on the farm of Max Archer, three miles west of the city, and six acres of adjoining land to be reforested.

Assisting Ken Best, of the Department of Agriculture, and regional forester John Bell to form a 4H club at Lakefield District High School. It is hoped that members of this group will plant from 15 to 20 acres about their respective homes and, if ground is not available, to acquire a planting site on the Lakefield highway.

A third decision was to call a meeting of exhibitors of the Peterborough Sportsmen's Show to acquaint the fish and game executives with ideas and suggestions for a proposed show this coming spring.

Gill Downer proposed that further club effort should be made this year on the Cedar Lakes recreation site. It is also the intention of the fish and game club to invite members of the Peterborough Nature Club to their meetings and ask that they might be invited to theirs.

Ovaltine, plain or chocolate flavoured, is a delicious food beverage, made from wholesome, nourishing malt, milk and eggs — augmented and standardized with added vitamins and minerals that aid in maintaining strength and energy. WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

A hearty thany-you goes to everyone who assisted in the recent paper drive in any way. We regret that some spots were missed, some of this owing to the fact that paper was not put out until after the trucks had passed and because papers were so stacked that they appeared to be part of verandah post. One lady brought a car load of paper in from Omemee. In one district it was noted that one alderman and eight Kiwanians were among the workers. It is planned to hold another collection in March if weather permits and we would appeal to every citizen to start saving now.

REGIONAL CONFERENCE

Plans are being made to hold this conference on March 21 in the Normal School. Further news when report received from regional office.

LEADERS WANTED

A request has been received from Mark St. Troop for a Scouter. We feel that there should be some good talent in that church to take up this work. How about it, fellows, there must be some former Scouters on the church roster.

B.P's BIRTHDAY

Mr. Trueman, vice president of the local association, raised the question of joint church parades for Sunday, February 22, in commemoration of the birthday of our founder, Lord Baden Powell of Gilwell.

The field day bulletin has been mailed to all scoutmasters and cubmasters through the district. There are not sufficient copies to give every group chairman but we would like to suggest that this matter is taken up at group committee meetings with the Cub and Scout officers in attendance.

Glancing through the program one could not help but admire the layout and note that the official opening will have such dignitaries on hand as Major-General Spry, chief executive commissioner for Canada; Mr. Tisdale, Ontario provincial commisioner for Ontario; Field Commissioner Art Jackson; member of the federal and provincial parliaments; the mayor of Peterborough; Girl Guide executive officers; together with our own executive officers.

The grandstand will be open to the public and we would like to suggest that parents of the Brownies, Guides, Scouts and Cubs plan now to be with their sons and daughters on this occasion.

TRINITY

The Troop held its first meeting in the new year with the main topic being St. John's Ambulance badge under the leadership of Harry Ferguson. The new Patrol Corners are near completion with the finishing touches to be added next week. The plans are for a toboggan party at Kemp's Hill in about two weeks.

ARMOUR

Twenty-eight Cubs gathering around to Council Rock as Sixer Bob MacDonald started activities with the Grand Howl and Art McNabb made his promise as a Cub before Akela and the Pack and thus entered into the full Brotherhood of Scouting. Mr. and Mrs. McNabb were present to support their son in this work. Then came games, instructions and test work to fill up a busy evening, with Bagheers entertaining the boys with stories at Red Flower before the final vespers. We had three visitors with us, Canon Walter Gilling, Ed. MacDonald of the group committee and Skipper G, the latter being called upon to present the following badges: Homecraft to Don Morrison; gardener to Ray Baptie; collector's to Randy Bradshaw; first stars to Bill Bonney and Jim Wyatt; and first year service star Garry McFaul. Tests passed during the evening were Don Muir, skipping; Garry McFaul, somersault; Wayne Miller, public telephone; birds and trees, highways, Jack Steen; skipping, Bob MacDonald; guide; Blair Greenly, compass; Ray Baptie, observer.

THE TROOP

Assistant Scouter Danny Barclay took over the Troop in the absence of Scout Nokes. There were 20 boys on parade. During the evening the Buffalo Patrol won points in the Knot replay, the Wolves coming through to take top honors in the word contest. New Patrol Leaders were appointed, Ralph Butcher in charge of the Wolf Patrol, Gary Barclay the Buffalo Patrol, Peter Hayden the Lion Patrol, Ronald King the Beaver Patrol. Peter Sanderson passed his laws and promise, T. Mulcahy and A. Dalahay compass tests.

GEORGE STREET REPORTS

The pack is at present 38 members with a waiting list. During the recent weeks the following boys were invested into the cub pack, the young brother section of the World Scout Movement: Larry Milburn, Donald Tully, Randall Mesley, Bobby McLean, Teddy Howard, Jack Evans, Elliott Moldaver, Alan Race, Bobby Leeson, Andrew Shearer, Bobby Thompson, Peter Collins. Three boys have been accepted into the pack as new chums: Jimmy Payne, Donald Heintzman, Bobby Alton. The following tests were passed: Knots, Barry Black, Peter Collins, Jack Evans, Ralph Gatfield, Teddy Howard, Bernard Montgomery, Andrew Shearer, Paul Voyer; Union Jack, Stanley Dainard; ball throwing, Stanley Dainard, Fred Munro; book balancing, Ralph Gatfield, David Munro, Stanley Dainard.

ALL SAINTS

A regular meeting was held last week in place of the proposed toboggan party, cancelled owing to weather conditions. The grand howl was followed by a quick drill on the compass, then a game of "dodge ball." At the red flower program the badges were presented as follows: Bob Leal, Douglas Garner, Norman Muffit, collector's badge; Eric Carre, homecraft and house orderly; Derek McKeever, house orderly; G. Stuart, swimmer; D. Fletcher, gardener, athlete, observer; F. Howard, toymaker; Keith Riches, 2nd-year service star. The red six won the honor neckerchief.

ST. PAUL'S

Twenty-six cubs were in the parade circle at the last meeting when James Freeman was presented with his first star badge and Billie Turner received the artist badge for work well done. Our main practice was on items for the field day, and also our display, "Up the Cub Leader," to be presented at the father and son banquet being held on Friday, February 27. With the closing grand howl, led by Richard Ward, another trip through the jungle came to its close.

SACRED HEART

David James invited three guests to the last meeting to join the troop, all three being accepted on probation as scout recruits, namely, Glenn English, Dennis O'Keefe and Jack Ralph. This made enough boys to form three patrols and the work of voting for definite patrol leaders resulted in Dan Twomey as patrol leader of the Fox patrol, with Paul Board as assistant patrol leader. The Beaver patrol is under patrol leader Bob Marino, with Aubrey Theobald his assistant. The Owl patrol, a new unit in under patrol leader Jerry DeNoble, with Anthony Longo as his second in command. Many suggestions were put forth to Scouter Morris on the raising of funds for scout camp. This fund is to be started next week.

TRINITY

The pack set off last week with dues, inspection, followed by the grand howl. The first game was a relay in which a ball was dribbled to a certain point and then thrown back to the next boy in line. After the game, Bagheera taught us the first two circles of semaphore signalling, one of the items we must practice for the big scout field day. When study period ended, we returned to our six lairs for five minutes to think up a stunt for red flower, with an award for the best, the red six winning the prize, a package of cookies. Earl Dawes, sixer of the red six, is in hospital, his place being taken by Roy Bacon, the winning skit being his idea, and enjoyed by all. The grey six, led by sixer Paul Ross, also was very good, a first aid skit with splints and stretcher complete. Some skits were funny, others serious. We all had lots of fun and enjoyed the work. The sixers instructed the boys in the various sixers or the requests of the sixers' council.

ST. JOHN'S

Akela's chat this week was about the wrong use of the rifle, telling us of what happened in another city. Fred Willison will remember this night for a long time, as it was the advent of his joining the pack as a new chum. We then played the games of "crows and cranes" and hopping relay. Knotting instruction was given in the six corners, with a special class on signalling. Mr. Trueman started with one of the jungle stories, and before the evening was closed the records showed tests passed: Telephone, Dave Irwin, Bob Dawson, Brian Dunford; fire lighting, Bob Dawson, Leslie Crump; thrift, Bob Dawson, Jamie Welsh; ball throwing, Ian Young; model, Jerry Sedgwick, Leslie Crump; cleanliness, David Gunn; knots, Bob Cunningham, Jack Cunningham, Ian Young, Grant Menzies, Bob Cotton, David Ross; growing things, David Gunn; walking the plank, Ken Collins, Bob Wagster, Leslie Crump, David Irwin, George Boucher; leap frog, Ian Young; signalling, Brian Dunford; hopping, Ian Young, David Ross, Jack and Bob Cunningham; book balancing, Tommy Lewis, Brian Dunford, Don Sherk; first aid, David Irwin, George Boucher, Brian Dunford; skipping, Bob Barber.

ST. ALBANS

Saturday, January 17th was a busy day for the Troop as they started out at eight o'clock with Dr. G. R. Langley's wood lot on Sandy Lake as their objective. We arrived on the lot and started working about 9 a.m., with the idea of cutting and hauling wood to St. Albans Mission for this winter's fuel supply. The boys were soon busy trimming trees in readiness for the Scouters and members of the group committee to cut down and haul to the truck. By noon approximately two and half cords were ready for hauling.

Then came lunch of ham, beans, ample bread and butter topped with apple and cherry pies together with hot chocolate, thanks to the Scout Mothers' Auxiliary, the pies being made by Mrs. Houghton, Lt. Mildred Hill and Capt. D. Wood.

After dinner the Scouts decided to explore the surroundings. We proceeded to cross Sandy Lake, dividing into parties and each going their own way. Upon returning to camp it was found the men had sufficient wood cut to make up another load, totalling five cords. The Scouts then hauled the last load to the loading platform and were soon on our way out but a few projecting logs got caught in a tree unsetting the load, making it necessary for more of the load to be taken off and re-loaded. We arrived at headquarters about 4:30 p.m., unloaded the truck, cut the wood into furnace lengths and partially filled the wood bin.

We would like to extend our hearty thanks to Allen Reed for the loan of two chain saws and A. Maskell for his drag saw.

This project was made possible through the generosity of District Commissioner Langley who allowed us to cut the wood on his property at Sandy Lake, and was carried out through the splendid efforts of Messrs H. Hughie, H. Bowler, G. Foster, C. Barnes, Dr. Langley, Akela Bob Miller, Bagheera R. Stephson, Asst. Scouter Max Millaud and Scouter Walter Wood.

KIBBLEWHITE ROVER SCOUTS

There is one member of our Crew who is very proud and happy today, but very humble and thankful as well. He is Rover Dave Hatton, who has been chosen by the Crew as their representative to the 5th World International Rover Moot at Kandersteg, Switzerland. In the event where Dave cannot attend the Moot, Rover Kelvin Johnson will go in his place. What a wonderful thrill is in store for Dave or Kel.

Hal Taylor, the leader of the Canadian contingent for the past two World Moots, sent a short article on what the International Moots mean to him.

One other lad in the Crew, Ken White, has stated his intention of going to the Moot on his own. So, Peterborough may have two native sons there.

LADY COW BOSS—Mrs. Phyllis Long, 32, left, is the first "yardwoman" to be employed by the Chicago stockyards in their 87 years of existence. She herds cattle into pens after they leave the weighing scales, presided over by Virginia Rush, weighmaster, who leans from the window of the scale house. Mrs. Long thinks the work is easy, compared to the truck-driving job she held for 14 years.

Hydro Conversion Plan Over Third Completed

BY JACK GRAY

TORONTO (CP) The midnight notions of a cat, the swaying of the grass skirt on a dancing girl lamp-these are among problems that have set electrical technicians here to scratching their heads.

It's part of what officials of the publicly-owned hydro - electric power commission of Ontario term the world's greatest program of changing electrical frequency. The operation is reaching into every home, office and shop in a vital 12,000-square-mile area of Southern Ontario.

Today, at the end of three years the $200,000,000 plan is more than a third completed, with 267,737 customers out of a total of 904,735 converted from 25-cycle to 60-cycle power.

COVER INDUSTRIAL AREA

The 10-year program has a place in defence of Canada. It affects an area that contains much of her manufacturing and heavy industries. Included are steel mills at Hamilton, chemical plants and refineries at Sarnia, automobile plants at Windsor and Hamilton and the numerous factories of the Toronto district.

Frequency conversion means that in event of war these industries can draw on 60-cycle power from the United States or other parts of Ontario if their electrical supply is damaged by bombs or saboteurs. Plants using 25-cycle power cannot do this. Their transformers and motors will not operate if fed 60-cycle power. Southern Ontario is the only big area in North America that uses 25 cycles.

Windsor, hit by a tornado in 1946, had a striking example of what the difference means. Its 25-cycle power cut off, it couldn't draw 60-cycle current offered by neighboring Detroit. All major industries shut down until Ontario lines were restored.

The cat and the dancing girl come into the picture because technicians have to replace the motor of nearly every electrical machine consumers use.

In the case of the cat they exchanged the motor operating a small door. By standing on a treadle puss started the motor, thus letting herself out at night without disturbing the household. As for the dancing girl, technicians hunted for and found a 1,200 horsepower motor to set the grass skirt in motion.

VERSATILE WORKERS

In their search for equipment that needs to be changed hydro technicians have gone into every basement and kitchen. They've donned gas masks and tin helmets to descend to the bottom of farm wells to examine machinery, they've climbed 500 feet to the top of the Ambassador bridge spanning the Detroit river at Windsor.

The public has mostly taken it in good part, though hydro has had a job on its hands explaining what change-over is and why it's necessary.

Illustrative of their difficulties is the classic story—not confirmed by hydro—of the woman out for the afternoon who left a note pinned to the front door. It asked technicians to "leave the 60 cycles on the doorstep. My husband will pick them up when he comes home."

"Operation Change-over," as hydro calls it, will affect 177 municipalities, opening a vast market to 60-cycle equipment produced in Ontario and other parts of Canada. The area is roughly a long triangle, enclosed on two sides by Lakes Ontario, Erie and Huron. It extends some 300 miles from Windsor on the west to about 20 miles east of Toronto. Northward, it reaches Georgian Bay.

To date an estimated 1,270,000 applainces have been changed over including nearly 200,000 washing machines, some 150,000 refrigerators, and 100,000 record players.

FLICKER ELIMINATED

One thing householders have noticed is the elimination of the flicker in electric lights present with 25 cycles. The eye cannot detect flicker when electricity goes to and from its source 60 times a second.

How did Southern Ontario come to use 25 cycles in the first place? Sixty years ago engineers selected this frequency for the Niagara Falls power development because at that time it was best suited for sending over long-distance power lines and for operating electric trains. These were predicted as the transportation of the future.

Since then householders have gone without the mass-produced, cheaper 60-cycle equipment which will not operate if hooked up with a 25-cycle power line.

SELLING POINT

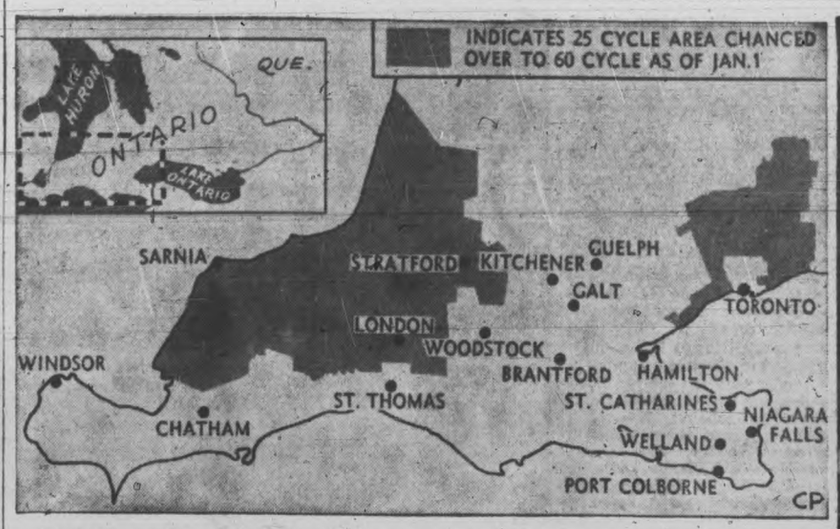
Cheaper equipment for home and industry is one of the selling points for conversion. Hydro argues that because smaller motors and transformers are needed on 60 cycles, conversion will in time pay for itself.

For one thing, it has meant savings for manufacturers coming here to establish factories. Previously they had to do one of three things: redesign their equipment for 25 cycles, install frequency changers or establish their plants in a 60-cycle area sometimes unhandy to ready shipping facilities.

RISE IN COSTS

The cost of the conversion program was estimated in 1948 at $191,000,000 by George Drew, then premier of Ontario. But since then householders have bought almost twice as many pieces of electrical equipment as hydro officials estimated they'd have.

This adds to the cost of the change-over.



Hydro chairman Robert H. Saunders, in a recent release announcing preparations for changing over generating stations to 60-cycle power, said that the original cost of that step of the program is "now being substantially revised" in the face of growing costs.

A typical change-over operation takes massive planning and coordination. Dozens of advertisements are published and letters mailed to hydro users weeks in advance. It is important that householders know what equipment needs conversion, that this be catalogued and tagged by technicians for the conversion crews.

On Conversion Day dozens of red-painted trucks move into the district. The 25-cycle power is shut off and the technicians take over, removing motors and replacing them with 60-cycle equipment. The average household takes two hours.

When power is switched on again it's hooked up to 60-cycle lines.

For industry, factories must be changed over without halting production, newspapers without slowing an edition. At Windsor, for instance, technicians converted the Chrysler assembly plant without slowing production by working at off hours.

CHANGE-OVER PROGRESS — Southwestern Ontario is the only big area in North America that uses 25-cycle power. The publicly-owned Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario has undertaken what it calls the world's greatest program of changing electrical frequency. At the end of three years the plan is more than a third completed and 267,737 out of a total of 904,735 customers in a 12,000-square miles area of southern Ontario now have 60-cycle instead of 25-cycle power. The map at right shows converted and unconverted areas.

ALL SIZES—The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario estimates 1,270,000 appliances have been changed over from 25-cycle to 60-cycle power in the first three years of its 10-year, $200,000,000 frequency conversion program. Included are nearly 200,000 washing machines, 150,00 refrigerators and 100,000 record players. Also this small clock motor held by Bert Wohler (left), engineer at an auto parts manufacturing plant in St. Catharines, and the big compressor unit motor at right.

JANUARY CLEARANCE

We might as well be frank about it. We are heavily overstocked with all kinds of winter merchandise. In anticipation of a large buying spree by the general public for cold weather needs, we purchased huge quantities of wearing apparel for men, women and children. Due to circumstances beyond our control, we are stuck with over half a million dollars worth of goods which we must dispose of within the next thirty days. We must raise cash immediately and have reduced all prices to cost and even below cost — we had to — in order to try to turn the merchandise into ready cash.

Canadian Soldiers Having Trouble With Their Nylons

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—Canadian soldiers here say they're having trouble with their nylons.

They say there's too much "swish" about them.

The nylons are the Canadian Army's winter parka and wind pants.

Troops here say that as far as warmth goes there's nothing like them.

But, they also say they weren't designed for fighting soldiers, whose jobs take them close to the enemy. It's that swish. They make too much noise.

Dissatisfied with what they've got, soldiers now learn that the Canadian Army has sent them an even newer design, a combat smock, for "user trials."

Even before setting eyes on it, commanders here have unanimously damned it. The reason, they say, is that it, too, is made of nylon, and Ottawa's been told the material just won't do.

The parka and wind pants make a noise louder than the rustle of a taffeta evening gown. On a quiet night, when he's snuggling up to a Chinese outpost, that doesn't give the soldier much chance for a silent approach.

Said one battalion officer:

"They're just not designed for wear in the presence of the enemy.

TWO DISADVANTAGES

"There are two disadvantages. 1. The soldier on patrol or raids gives himself away by the noise. 2. Even in his own communication trenches he can't hear incoming mortars before they've landed because he himself is making so much noise."

Other commanding officers agreed.

Officers say the objection to nylon has been registered with Ottawa. But it was passed over when the new battle smock was produced.

Mainguy Plans Tour Of Korea

OTTAWA (CP)—Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of the naval staff, will leave Ottawa by air Feb. 8 on a tour of the Korean war theatre.

During his tour he will board the three Canadian destroyers now in Korean waters—the Athabaskan, Crusader and Haida—and visit Canadian troops serving with the 1st Commonwealth division.

His schedule calls for arrival at Tokyo Feb. 11. Next day he embarks on the Athabaskan to witness operations off the Korean east coast. Feb. 20 he flies to Seoul to visit the Canadian 25th brigade and the next day he will board the Haida for a four-day view of operations on the west coast of Korea.

On Feb. 24 Admiral Mainguy will board the Crusader, returning to Japan for a visit to the United Nations naval base at Sasebo Feb. 25-27.

Gouzenko's Name Enters Debate On Currie Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Even the name of Igor Gouzenko has crashed into Parliament's conflict over the Currie report.

Prime Minister St. Laurent used it Tuesday in describing as "quite untrue" a radio-broadcast statement by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) that Mr. St. Laurent in 1945 received from Gouzenko the Russian embassy documents that became the foundation of Canada's spy trials and that he knew they were stolen.

Mr. St. Laurent said he has never seen Gouzenko to this day, but the documents were used by the Crown as evidence in the usual way any stolen property is used in prosecutions when it gets into the hands of police.

ONE MORE EPISODE

This was one more episode in the great side-issue arising from the Currie report on a "general breakdown" in the army works services—how did the CCF get an advance copy of the report? Mr. Knowles' broadcast statement was rejoinder to Mr. St. Laurent's own earlier statement that M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, might have known the copy was stolen.

More big names got into Tuesday's renewal of the fight over the report, but little new was added to the charges and counter-charges already in the record. The signs are that the debate is nearing its final stages, clearing the way for a committee to take up the battle in a study of the report itself.

But the biggest galleries of spectators in years continue to come into the chamber to hear the feuding.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Defence Minister Claxton topped the list of Tuesday's speakers.

CRITICIZES INQUIRY

Mr. Drew criticized the government for ordering the RCMP to find out how the CCF got the advance copy. He said provincial, not federal, law was concerned in disappearance of the document from a Montreal printing shop.

Mr. Drew said the only thing that actually was lost through removal of the advance copy was "any pretence of this government that it permits reports to get out without prior checking." The government had tried to make changes in the Currie report but did not succeed.

(There were differences between the CCF's advance copy and the final report tabled in the Commons. This led to questions and to disclosure that another advance copy had gone to the defence department for checking before the final report was formally given to the government.)

Mr. Claxton said the government has nothing further to explain, excuse or say about the RCMP investigation. George S. Currie, the Montreal accountant who signed the report, had said he would welcome such an investigation. And many people remained under suspicion until the RCMP identified the man who did steal it.

It was in the public interest to clear up this mystery.

DENIES THREATENING

Mr. Claxton denied that he had "threatened" Mr. Coldwell with use of the police unless the CCF leader disclosed where the report originated. He had informed him "out of courtesy" that the RCMP were being used.

The minister quoted Mr. Knowles as saying the man who obtained the advance copy feared that changes were being made and was anxious to have the matter brought to public notice.

He said this explanation didn't jibe with facts. The final report wasn't tabled until Dec. 15 and the police said the document was stolen before Nov. 29. He didn't see how a person could tell a document was being changed before the final report was ready.

Mr. Claxton also denied CCF charges that Mr. Currie was pressured by himself into letting the defence department check an advance copy of the report. He said Mr. Currie isn't the sort of man who lets himself be pressured.

DEMANDS INVESTIGATION

Mr. Drew reiterated his call for a wide inquiry into all three armed forces, arguing that it is beyond reason that only one small branch of one service has broken down.

Mr. Claxton said the opposition parties are making political use of the report and that, if it weren't for the parliamentary row, he would have been in almost continuous consultation with Mr. Currie about ways to strengthen the army works services.

The minister said it is an opposition "myth" that he has always said everything is perfect in his department. He agreed with Mr. Drew that Canada has crack forces overseas and remarked sardonically that they didn't get that way "despite the defence department."

George Nowlan (C—Annapolis-Kings) said Parliament should act quickly to rectify loss of confidence "in those at or near the top" because it could undermine service morale faster than anything else.

"CHILDISH BATTLES"

J. F. Pouliot (L—Temiscouata) suggested the opposition parties are afraid of hearing Mr Currie in the defence committee and accused them of engaging in childish propaganda battles.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) objected to statements by defence department officers and officials, including Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, commenting on a subject before Parliament. He said the government should nip in the bud any attempt by the military to become masters instead of servants of the state.

Lt.-Col. Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary East) welcomed the first sign that Mr. Claxton admits "everything isn't perfect in his department." He said the government's "red herring" over the CCF copy was the worst of all red herrings.

DISCOVERER OF RADAR, Sir Robert A. Watson-Watt will speak to the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario at its annual meeting in Toronto Saturday. An English scientist, Sir Robert was one of the key men in the development of war time radar in Britain during the Second World War. He is now playing a major role in directing the building of a network of radar stations across Canada's northland as a defence against possible air attack.

Children's Aid Serves 98 Families In City

Service was given to 98 families, 33 unmarried parents and 149 children by the Peterborough Children's Aid Society during December.

Miss Rachael Young, superintendent, explained in her report at the society's board of directors meeting Tuesday, that 10 of the families came to the society for the first time. They were referred by other societies, neighbors, a doctor and personal application.

Inadequate medical care, begging, excessive drinking and problems in child behavior were the reasons for cases being referred.

FOUR ADOPTED

Seven children were taken into the care of the society during the month. The adoptions for four children were completed. Two were placed for adoption and three children were placed in foster homes.

The services of the society were solicited by 10 unmarried parents in December.

At the end of the month the society had 11 children in the Children's Home; 73 children in boarding homes; 48 in adoption homes and 13 in free and wage homes.

The society's staff held 115 office interviews during the month and made 410 visits.

Boy's Search With Lighter For Toys Starts $700 Fire

Fire caused by a search for toys in a bedroom clothes closet by six-year-old Brian Beggs caused damage estimated at $700 to the contents and interior of the home of Alderman W. J. (Bill) Beggs shortly before 3 p.m. Tuesday afternoon. Investigation revealed the boy had used a cigarette lighter in his search, while the mother was in the yard of the home at 227 Woodbine Ave., shaking a house rug.

Damage was principally to walls and ceiling of the one-storey home, while contents also suffered to a considerable extent. The loss is covered by insurance.

Fred Markwick, who resides at 322 Euclid, almost behind the Beggs home, was passing on the street and first noticed smoke issuing from the building. He turned in the alarm at 3.05 p.m.

Mrs. Beggs and her son, Brian, were at home at the time. She stated that she had left the house by the rear door in order to shake a mat, and on her return heard Brian calling, saying "Fire, mummy, fire!" When she entered the house a mass of flames enveloped the bedroom.

CUT VENTILATORS

She waited in a neighbor's home across the street with her son, while firemen brought the blaze under control. Lack of ventilation caused some difficulty in clearing smoke. Ventilators in the attic had to be chopped out, and several windows broken or forced open.

The fire smouldered for almost half an hour. Chairs and other household articles, still burning, were tossed out a front window by firemen, and sprayed with hose.

Ald. Beggs arrived at the scene a few minutes after the alarm had been turned in.

Elected to the city council in civic elections last year, Ald. Beggs was recently appointed to the permanent staff of United Packinghouse Workers of America (CCL-CIO). He assumed his new duties last January 1. Previously he was president of Local 293 of the union here, and was employed as a millwright with the Quaker Oats Company, Ltd. In his new office he is engaged in organization and service work.

Jail City Man Week At Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS) — Menzies J. McLaren, 29, of 200 Antrim St., pleaded guilty to drunken driving in Lindsay police court today and was sentenced to seven days in jail, plus $18.50 costs. If the costs aren't paid he will go to jail for 22 days.

The charge came as the sequel to a drunken exhibition by McLaren in which he crashed into a telephone pole and two trees while driving south on Lindsay St. early Tuesday. And though dazed and badly cut about the face he resisted efforts to remove him to hospital and he tore off bandages when they were applied.

At the scene of the accident he had to be strapped to the stretcher so he could be taken away. And then he further resisted treatment at the hospital.

McLaren was driving south on Lindsay St. in his mother's car when it went out of control and struck a tree on the west side of the road, glanced off a telephone pole, and crashed headon into a tree.

McLaren was badly cut and temporarily knocked out. The car received about $1,200 damage.

Constable Ross Bailey of Lindsay said that when he arrived at the accident McLaren was lying intoxicated in the front seat.

Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan said that McLaren's record showed four convictions on criminal charges since 1946, and McLaren has paid $130 in fines and served four months in jail on liquor convictions since 1948.

Anglers To Meet

NORTH BAY (CP) — The annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters will be held here Jan. 30 to Feb. 1. About 200 representatives of the province-wide conservation organization are expected to attend. The speaker at the dinner Jan. 31 will be Welland Gemmell, Ontario minister of lands and forests.

Church, House Calls Only Fire Reports

Peterborough fire department had a comparatively quiet overnight period Tuesday, with only two alarms being turned in. In both cases firemen had little trouble and no damage was reported.

The first call was to St. Luke's Anglican Church, 336 Rogers St., where overheated pipes were soon under control. A hand pump easily quelled a chimney fire at 213 London street, the only other call, received shortly after 8 o'clock last night.

Council Spat May Alter Committees

Nominating Group Likely To Name Suggested Members

A dispute over membership on committees may result in a permanent change in the county council's way of picking standing committees. From now on a nominating committee will probably draw up the suggested slate.

In the morning session today the 1953 council had already picked their education and county property committees when Warden Ernest J. Leeson made a suggestion.

Include a member of county roads, property, Old People's Home committees, plus a chairman, to make up the finance committee, he said. With that money-spending representation on finance the committee could keep a closer eye on the budget.

"GOOD IDEA"

"From my observations of last year I'd say it was an excellent idea," said Ex-Warden Dick Stewart of Otonabee township.

But that idea didn't go over with either Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood village or Reeve W. E. Griffith of Belmont-Methuen township.

"I thought the idea was to spread the committee appointments around among the members of council," he said. "This way it's only a few that will be on the committees. How are the new members to get experience?"

Reeve Ferguson said he wasn't making a plea on behalf of himself; he had served on all of them before.

"Everybody here in this council must have some business sense. If he didn't he'd be in the House of Providence".

He was joined by Reeve Griffith "Only a few of these are good committees—the others don't matter so much . . . Finance should be representative of all municipalities."

Reeve William C. Grant of Lakefield village interposed to remark that many of the so-called unimportant committees could be made important. The health committee, for instance.

NOT WANTED

"I've been a member of the health committee for four years," said Reeve Stewart, "and I can tell you not a member here wants to be on it. Perhaps next year it will be one of the most important."

Reeve Willard G. Waterman of North Monaghan township said that the whole difficulty could be avoided if a nominating committee, consisting of three ex-wardens, brought in a suggested list of committees. Council could then accept, reject, or modify their report.

The majority thought this was a good solution and when council adjourned for lunch, Ex-Wardens Ferguson, Stewart and Norman Wilson, and Warden Leeson, were busily engaged in drawing up a slate. They will likely make their report later today.

City Banana Belt To Writer

Westerner Recalls 27-Below Temperature of Week Ago In Manitoba

By BILL NOAKES

Peterborough may not officially be the "Banana Belt" of Canada, but it can lay claim to, and be awarded, the title, as far as this writer, who has spent a good number of years in Western Canada, is concerned.

Reason? The weather. While local residents claim Peterborough's present weather is far milder than usual, it presents such a major contrast to prairie winters that the sight of bare-headed young men, wearing only raincoats, can appear normal.

In fairness it must be said that Western Canada, up until three weeks ago, enjoyed an exceptionally mild winter. By this is meant thermometers hovered around daily highs in the 20's, but dipped near zero during the night.

But when the writer left less than a week ago, King Winter had come into his own with a northwest wind which sent temperatures across the wide open prairies to the 30 and 40-below marks. It was 27 below the night he left western Manitoba. The day following, Regina had registered a modest 42 below. Recent weather reports show the west is still in the grip of prairie winter, which sometimes can keep thermometers in the sub-zero 20's for six weeks without a let-up.

Westerners, however, have found the dry cold air exceptionally healthy. Their chief complaint is the wind. A northwest wind, sweeping from the Arctic at 30 to 40 miles an hour, can bite through anyone outdoors even in temperatures of zero and below. Blizzard are dreaded. A prairie blizzard, within 24 hours, can tie up all highway and rail transportation, causing big government Good Roads' Department plows to spend days clearing highways, while several locomotives, with railway snowplows, are often called to the rescue of branch line trains trapped in 12 and 14 foot drifts.

A fair number of Peterborough residents, however, must have knowledge of the vagaries of western winters. Pioneer stock from southern and central Ontario are still the backbone of most farming areas.

Peterborough and its fairly densely populated surrounding area gives a westerner an initial sense of confinement. On the flat, open prairies, one can see for miles. Apart from the cities, sometimes as much as five miles may lie between nearest farm neighbors. For this reason, and because of the long winters, the community spirit and neighborliness is developed to a high degree.

The usual western farm consists of at least a half, and generally a full section, under cultivation. A section comprises 640 acres. The rich farm lands around Peterborough appear on a miniature scale. No doubt they are rich producers. Wood and rail fences are also not found in the west—three strand barbed wire extends for hundreds of miles. Western farmers cannot afford lumber—practically all of it is imported from the east or British Columbia.

Cost of living between the east and west appears much the same. However, the writer has fond memories of the Ranchmen's Club in Calgary, where one can select his own government graded steak and have it cooked to his own satisfaction. And this recalls some Alberta ranches and cowboys, for despite oil, farming and cattle raising is still a major industry in Alberta.

The noted King ranch, near Calgary, has no less than 40,000 acres of unfenced grazing land, teeming with commercial cattle. The cowboys do not wear chaps, nor carry six-shooters, nor wear the big stetson hats and outrageous shirts of the movie version.

Western Canada has had a comparatively recent development in relation to Peterborough — the railhead from Winnipeg did not reach Western Manitoba until 1881. As a result, most of the buildings are newer, particularly offices and homes.

Peterborough also has a lake practically at its back door. This is rarely found in the west. There are many lakes, and some of them are really large, but they lie many miles from cities.

The writer has already been regaled with stories of noted fishing spots in the Peterborough district. He has fished in the rivers and lakes of a good number of parts of the west, and has not been too fortunate. In fact, he is ready to confess he has yet to hook his first muskie. He has caught pickerel, and in the cold northern waters battled with giant pike and some lake trout that can put up a remarkable fight. He also has caught goldeyes, that celebrated smoked fish that is a favorite at breakfast tables — but they are rapidly disappearing.

Lake Manitoba whitefish are something to dream about — in fact, they are fished commercially and shipped by air, in ice, all the way to New York and Boston, where they command remarkable prices.

Industrial plants in and about Peterborough prove one of the most significant factors noted. Nowhere in Western Canada, even in Winnipeg, can such a concentration be found. Peterborough is a progressive city with an assured future set in a natural wonderland. Just what that summer paradise contains is still to be seen.

Heffernan Lauds Low TB Rate In City Industry

"Peterborough has an outstanding record for the low rate of tuberculosis in industry," James Heffernan, president of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association said today.

Mr. Heffernan was commenting on the report on the recent chest x-ray survey which listed only one active case of pulmonary tuberculosis in the 9,649 industrial workers x-rayed. The report was released this week.

"This is a wonderful record," the president said. "I feel that a great deal of the credit should go to the adoption of the pre-employment x-ray plan by 95 per cent of the city's industries.

This plan makes an x-ray a prerequisite of employment in the industries.

TWO CASES FOUND

Mr. Heffernan said that there were only two active cases of tuberculosis found in the city survey, during which 16,202 were x-rayed. Both of these cases have been admitted to sanitoria.

There were 30 inactive cases found which will be sent to the referred clinics in the city for periodic checkups.

Other diseases and abnormalties found totalled 403. These included three possible lung tumors and 37 heart abnormalties.

The survey, which took place Nov. 3-Dec. 5 was sponsored by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association and was organized by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

It was financed by the money received by the association from the sale of Christmas seals and donations.

Ask Larger Grant

Federation of Agriculture officials asked county council today for a one-fifth of a mill increase in the annual grant to the federation. Henry Sharpe of Smith, and George Shoniker of Norwood, president and vice-president, appeared before council. Usual grant to the county federation is one-fifth of a mill. A mill raises about $14,638 for county purposes.

2 Die, 200 Casualties At Inaugural Parade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two deaths and approximately 200 other casualties were listed today in the wake of Tuesday's five-hour inaugural parade.

The dead:

Lee F. Farmer, 52, member of the Long Beach, Calif., mounted sheriff's posse, found dead, apparently of a heart attack, in his Pullman berth Tuesday night.

Vincent Bovello, 56, Washington, who died Tuesday night in hospital apparently from a stroke. He collapsed while watching the parade.

The inaugural medical aid committee reported 200 bystanders collapsed from fatigue.

Reeve Of Emily New Warden Victoria County

LINDSAY (ENS). — Reeve Vincent Fee, of Emily township, was elected Warden of Victoria County at Tuesday's inauguration meeting. A packed council chamber saw Mr. Fee obtain the position on the second ballot. He was opposed by E. J. Murphy of Cardin township.

Reeve Fee, a veteran of six years on county council, and elected in his own municipality this year for the 12th time, by acclamation, received seven votes on the first ballot, tieing Mr. Murphy. On the second ballot, Mr. Fee had 15 of the 22 votes and thus became the Warden, succeeding Ray Webster of Mariposa township. Several ex-wardens of the county as well as the members of Mr. Fee's own municipal council were on hand to congratulate him on his victory. Mr. Murphy moved an immediate motion of unanimity after the second ballot had been taken.

Weekend Feature Tells Of Rice L. Mound Builders

The lead story feature in this Saturday's WEEKEND supplement of the Peterborough Examiner—"The People of the Serpent"—will be of special interest to district people.

Staff writer Clyde Kennedy stages the ceremonial rites of the Mound Builders at Rice Lake as they may have happened 2,000 years ago....

'Around the winding (earthen) serpent a strange people danced to the tune of silver pan pipes, bone whistles, skin drums and turtle-back rattles. They were led in their frenzied dancing by priests who wore necklaces of shell carried all the way from Florida, beads of silver from Mexico and pendants of copper from Isle Royale in Lake Superior."

The writer visited the Serpent Mounds in September at the completion of a digging project by members of the Royal Ontario Museum under leadership of J. Russell Harper, MA. The archeologists not only piced together the various types of pagan burials in the long 185-ft. "serpent" mound but in the five circular mounds as well.

They were more interested, however, in the village camping sites that they investigated with trowels and brushes in a pattern of test pits on a bench land above the lake. There, in the camp midden (trash), heaps of clam shells that took more than 100 years to accumulate, the scientists were able to determine the living habits of the Mound Builders. Five other camp sites from Hiawatha to the west and on the banks of the Trent River below Hastings, revealed that the Rice Lake country supported a peaceful population of 5,000 people for more than a century.

The first scientific investigation of the mounds was made by David Boyle, Ontario's first museum curator, in 1895. The past summer's team were the second group to study the ancient ground.

"The serpent mound is a great national monument," Dr. Harper said, "and there should be no indiscriminate digging there (by amateur relic hunters). THERE JUST ISN'T ANYTHING LIKE IT IN CANADA."

Can Only Get $500,000 Of Big Estate

TORONTO (CP)—Relatives will be able to collect less than $500,000 from the $2,000,000 estate of eccentric John Laughlin, tax officials said Tuesday.

An official said federal and provincial succession duties on the estate of the 104-year-old landlord millionaire found accidentally gassed Sunday in a small junk-littered home, will come to $952,000. In addition, he said, there will also be legal expenses and surrogate court costs as well as payment of any outstanding debts. Mr. Laughlin died without making a will.

The official said the estate of the son, John, 62, who died, also intestate, Monday from the gas-stove fumes that killed his father, will face steeper succession duties because of the remoteness of the heirs, closest of the 10 claimants are three first cousins.

He said, however, a provision of the federal act allows for "forgiveness" of half the duties of an estate where death has occurred within a year of inheriting money.

Whodunit Play Remains Hit

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—The age of the whodunit play is apparently not finished in the theatre. This was proved when producer James Elliott brought the Mary Roberts Rinehart thriller, "The Bat," back to the National Theatre Tuesday night.

It was 33 years ago that "The Bat" first appeared on Broadway. It played 867 continuous performances in New York and, at the same time, had six companies touring to bulging box offices on the road.

Mrs. Rinehart said there have been only a few changes in dialogue.

This current production has a top-flight cast of players in the leading roles such as Lucile Watson, who was born in Quebec City, Zasu Pitts and Shepperd Strudwick.

"The Bat" is scary and funny, even after all these years.

Has To Share Office Because Mistake Made

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—City council recently appointed former treasurer A. E. Cock special financial advisor and promised him a private office.

Workmen completed the job Tuesday of partitioning off part of the city council chamber for the office.

However, through error the workmen walled in Mr. Cock's desk and one used by George O'Rourke, housing clerk, who is on sick leave.

Mr. O'Rourke's desk is a large one and, although no one has taken any measurements yet, it is doubted if he will be able to get it through the office door.

Predictions are that Mr. Cock's private office will become semi-private when Mr. O'Rourke returns.

Luncheon speakers include Erwin Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, Boston, and Kenneth Harris, Washington correspondent of the London Observer.

No Radical New Strategy Seen Likely In Korean War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The basic principles set up by President Eisenhower to guide his administration appeared today to rule out, at least in the immediate future, any radical new strategy for United Nations forces in the Korean war.

His emphasis on the dangers to be found in discord among the Allies and his repeated stress on the need for unity among the free countries seemed to offer this reassuranc to uneasy Allied governments.

These governments became concerned about the policies of an Eisenhower administration during the election campaign last fall when the Republicans made an issue of ending the Korean war. There was apprehension that the U.S. under Eisenhower might undertake moves which would lead to a broadening of the war.

Similarly there has been concern abroad about a policy of "liberation" for Russian satellite countries. The incoming state secretary, John Foster Dulles, has recently reaffirmed intention to develop such a policy, using moral and political pressures.

Eisenhower did not spell out in his inaugural address how he intends to tackle either the Korean stalemate, the liberation policy problem or any other specific foreign policy issue. But he did make clear that he intends to do all in his power to preserve and develop the unity of Allied powers and of the whole free world.

"The strength of all free peoples lies in unity," he said, "their danger in discord." He said the U.S. has the responsibility of leadership to develop this unity.

GETS TOP PRIORITY

New U.S. proposals for dealing with Korea evidently will have to be formulated in a few weeks. The problem was given top priority by Eisenhower during the campaign. Furthermore the UN general assembly is to reassemble in New York Feb. 24. In that meeting the U.S. is due to seek adoption of a resolution dealing with the rejection by Russia and Red China last month of a general assembly appeal for them to end the fighting on terms which would provide for voluntary repatriation of prisoners.

There has been some speculation that Eisenhower's strategy for dealing with the Korean war might include such measures as a new offensive aimed at forcing an armistice and some kind of blockade — economic or naval — of China. It could also be proposed that the UN ask all members which have recognized Red China to withdraw recognition.

Courageous Officer Ignores Wounds To Lead Patrol

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—Wounded in both legs, a courageous Montreal lieutenant, H. G. (Shorty) Fairhead, rallied a patrol in no-man's-land eight days ago, cancelled a call for help and directed his men back to their lines.

Three men who were helping Fairhead, former McGill football player, back to the Canadian position were wounded when a mortar bomb landed near them.

Despite wounds in both legs, one of which was fractured, Fairhead didn't lose control of his men, directing them through a corporal. His patrol failed to capture a prisoner but gained valuable information.

(Reuters in a dispatch Tuesday described the action as a joint Canadian-American raid against a Chinese build-up near the Hook, strategic ridge jutting into Communist territory. The news agency said 10 of the 21 Canadians involved were wounded and one was killed and 20 wounded in the 70-man American Marine group.)

ALERT SENTRY

An alert Chinese sentry frustrated the Royal Canadian Regiment patrol just as it was 20 yards short of its objective. It had taken Lieut. Fairhead and his men almost two hours to inch their way 500 yards on their bellies, hands and knees, downhill, across a valley and uphill on the other side to get there.

The alert Chinese heard noises and tossed a grenade. His comrades joined in.

Fairhead saw the first grenade coming. He had seen the Chinese, briefly silhouetted against a gun flash, hurl it. He had intended taking that man prisoner.

He was in a shell-hole with L. Cpl. Sidney Howard of Florence, N.S., planning his final move to get on top of the hill and nip off the prisoner.

Automatically, he threw Howard bodily out of the hole and sent him rolling down the hill. The grenade's full blast hit Fairhead.

He overheard his signaller radio back to battalion headquarters that the patrol was surrounded, that six stretchers were needed. Despite his pain, Fairhead summoned the signaller, and asked Lt.-Col. Peter Bingham, officer commanding the RCR, to disregard the transmission.

"It was exaggerated," he said. "We have two wounded. We can manage."

Cpl. Gordon Auger of St. Catharines, Ont., was ordered by Bingham to lead the men on. A few minutes later Auger reported heavy fire coming from the hill-top, so Bingham, realizing the element of surprise had been lost, ordered the patrol back.

RESUMED COMMAND

Fairhead, having dressed his wounds, resumed command, split the group into two, commanding one part himself, and leaving the other under Auger. They took different routes home to minimize risk.

It was well that they did. A mortar bomb landed near Fairhead's group as it was nearing the Canadian lines, wounding three NCO's who were helping him in.

They were Sgt. J. L. Mahe of London, Ont., and Cpls. B. W. Arsenault of Rogersville, N.B., and Lorne Nesbitt of Schreiber, Ont. L. Cpl. Harry Sampson of Halifax, N.S., then supervised the party's evacuation, at the same time providing rearguard protection.

TORONTO (CP)—The lash should be imposed more frequently for rape than it has been in recent years, a grand jury recommended Tuesday before Chief Justice J. C. McRuer. The jury noted that 10 men are accused in seven cases of rape before the winter assizes.

Racket Inquiry Out In Open

MONTREAL (CP) — A two-year investigation into what has been termed Canada's biggest immigration racket has been brought into the open following the arrest and arraignment Tuesday of three of six men, reported ringleaders in the affair.

Released on bail of $2,000 each pending preliminary hearing Jan. 27, were Pascal Petrecca, Montreal travel agency employee, Jean-Marcel Bourget, former immigration officer, and Gustave d'Errico, another travel agency employee.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the three other men, but police said it may take up to two weeks before they are rounded up. One is believed somewhere in England, another somewhere in Ontario and the third somewhere in Quebec.

Still wanted are Charles M. Anfossi and Lawrence Sullivan, former immigration inspectors, and Armand Theriault, former placement officer with the unemployment insurance commission here.

D'Errico was charged with offering bribes of $2,500 to Sullivan and Anfossi to obtain preference for the admission of Italian immigrants to Canada.

The inquiry began in August, 1950, after federal investigators discovered an unusually heavy list of Italian immigrants had entered Canada after January that year. Further investigation revealed many had entered the country with false documents.

Ottawa Raises Ceiling On Short-Term Gov't Loans

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has decided to dip deeper into the short-term lending field to gain more cash with which to pay off maturing debts.

Finance Minister Abbott announced Tuesday that the government's entire eight-year policy on Canada treasury bills is being changed, increasing the ceiling on such loans by $200,000,000.

A treasury bill is a short-term loan, usually maturing in 91 days, which the government obtains by calling tenders in the commercial lending market.

Banks, insurance companies and other institutions with big amounts of money available make the loans at minimum interest rates.

MORE FLEXIBLE

The government maintained a rigid system in making these bills available to the market and kept a ceiling of $450,000,000 on them since 1945. Now it will make the lending system more flexible and boost the ceiling to $650,000,000.

Previously, Mr. Abbott announced that the government was entering the long-term 25-year bond market with a $100,000,000 issue, the first in three years, preparatory to launching a much bigger one later.

Together, these two steps appeared to indicate an increasing scarcity of surplus funds in the federal treasury. The government used big budgetary surpluses in previous years to help retire maturing debt and reduce the overall national public debt.

On the short-term treasury bills, the practice since 1945 has been for the government to call for tenders in each quarter-year on six issues, totalling $75,000,000 each and maturing in 91 days.

Thus, the total outstanding debt on this type of loan was kept constant at $450,000,000, Mr. Abbott said.

CALLED WEEKLY

Starting Jan. 29, however, tenders will be called weekly on $50,000,000 worth of treasury bills. Of these, $40,000,000 will be 90-day bills; $5,000,000 182-day bills; and $5,000,000 273-day bills.

Thus, by April 24, the total outstanding loans in this group will be increased by $200,000,000 to $650,000,000.

On April 30, the total amount of treasury bills issued weekly will be reduced to $40,000,000. This will comprise $35,000,000 worth of 91-day bills and $5,000,000 of 273-day bills.

Words Sales Tool Speaker Tells Sales-Ad Club

Salesmanship tells the thinness of advertising, E. M. Johnston told the Sales and Advertising Club Tuesday night.

Mr. Johnston, who comes from Syracuse, N.Y., is a veteran of 51 years in sales work, and has been teaching salesmanship for more than 30 years.

Words, given life by pause, emphasis and [illegible] are the tools with which [illegible]sman works, he pointed out. He granted that the long-winded and leather-lunged salesmen made livings, but suggested that they could make a better living by doing their talking another and better way.

Urging salesmen to put imagination into their sales talks, he asked them to listen to the people who buy from them. "Use their words," he said, "they're better than anything you can make up because they're spontaneous."

He spoke of two examples of original sales messages—in body hygiene advertisements—as among the best in modern advertising.

At the same time, he predicted a return to the buyer's market. That meant the salesmen really had to get out and work. He couldn't deal any longer in generalities, but had to deliver some facts and logic.

Mr. Johnston was introduced by Don Lowrie and thanked by Gordon Dobbin. A film, "Do You Belong In Advertising?" was shown at the close of the meeting. Samples of direct mail advertising—prizewinners in Canada—were displayed in the dining room.

CORONATION DESIGN — London street decorations have already been prepared for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth in June. A design bearing the Royal cyhper is tested on a lamp standard in Kingsway, a main thoroughfare in the borough of Holborn. The designs include a crown and orbs, artificial flowers and coronets and papier mache shields of the Tudor rose. The decoration will be erected shortly before the Coronation.

Liquor Licensing Described As Farce

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A charge that granting and renewal of licences by the liquor licensing board of Ontario was a "complete farce" was levelled Tuesday at a meeting of Middlesex Presbytery of the United Church of Canada by the Rev. Dr. G. W. Moore, minister of Knox United Church, London.

Dr. Moore, who said he had attended the annual meeting of the board in London last month at the court house, said it was "the first time I have ever been in a court where a person felt he was not wanted."

Everyone who applied for a licence received one, he said.

Woman Fined $38 On Charge Careless Driving

Careless driving charges against two women drivers, involved in two accidents, the second resulting indirectly from the first, were heard Wednesday in police court.

Mrs. Winnifred Simpson of Havelock was convicted and fined $10 and $28.50 costs, while the charge against Mrs. Dorothy Elliott, RR1 Norwood, was dismissed.

Mrs. Simpson was the driver of a westbound car which struck the rear end of a tractor driven by Reginald Burleigh, RR 2 Norwood, just after dark on December 11. Burleigh was thrown off the tractor and seriously injured.

Seconds after the accident, which occurred on Highway 7 about two miles west of Havelock, another accident occurred at the same spot.

Charles Puffer of Norwood, was driving a Hydro truck towards Peterborough, following the Simpson car some distance back. He said he saw the collision between the car and tractor and was slowing down, but was not stopped when a car hit the rear of the truck he was driving.

The car was driven by Mrs. Elliott.

Burleigh testified his tractor was equipped with two headlights and a tail light and that the headlights were on. Floyd Menzies of Havelock testified Burleigh's tail light was on when he left Havelock a short time before the accident.

Mrs. Simpson and a passenger who was with her, Mrs. May Hill of Havelock, both claimed they saw no tail light showing on the tractor. They said they saw a dark object looming up ahead when they were meeting oncoming traffic and Mrs. Simpson said she "jammed on" her brakes.

Robert Carley defended Mrs. Simpson and argued that the charge should be dismissed because she had done everything she could to avoid the accident in view of oncoming traffic and that there was no tail light on the tractor.

Magistrate W. R. Philp said he was finding her guilty "on the basis that she should have had her car under control when approaching a vehicle even without a tail light."

EVIDENCE CONFLICTS

There was conflicting evidence in the evidence given in the charge against Mrs. Elliott as to whether or not the Hydro truck stopped suddenly or was gradually slowing down when Mrs. Elliott struck the rear of it.

The driver and a passenger, George LaBrash, insisted they were slowing down and had not stopped.

Mrs. Elliott said she saw the stop light of the truck suddenly brighten when she was about four car lengths behind it and applied her brakes but, the brakes did not seem to take effect, she said.

James Benore of Campbellford, who was in a restaurant on the north side of the highway and said he saw both accidents occur confirmed that the truck was still moving when the accident occurred.

Despite persistent cross-examination by T. J. Carley, who defended Mrs. Elliott, Benore refused to be shaken from his story that he had seen both crashes.

Gardner Gawley who lives near the scene of the accidents, testified he arrived at the accidents a short time after the second crash and said he saw a skid mark for about 50 feet leading to the rear of Mrs. Elliott's car, which went through a large patch of oil for several feet.

He said this had been obliterated by passing traffic which drove through the oil, before OPP constable Archie Eady arrived.

Mr. Carley argued it did not matter whether the truck was stopped or not. Mrs. Elliott, he said, had done everything she could to avoid the accident and would have been able to stop if it had not been for the patch of oil.

Under the circumstances of the definite evidence of the oil being spread on the pavement, the magistrate said he agreed the charge should be dismissed.

200 New Churches In 5 Years Target

TORONTO (CP)—The United Church of Canada plans 200 new churches in the next five years but faces the prospect of having many of them without ministers, a presbytery meeting was told Tuesday.

The Rev. W. Young, secretary of the board of colleges, said candidates for the ministry had increased during the last few years but church expansion had boosted the demand.

"We are face to face with the possibility of tragic inefficiency within the United Church of Canada," Mr. Young said.

Farm Buildings Burned

NORWICH (CP)—Fire Tuesday night destroyed four buildings on the farm of Darwen M. Scott, about a mile south of here, causing upwards of $10,000 damage. Mr. and Mrs. Scott were attending a hockey game in town. A large barn full of hay, a wooden driving shed and corn and milk sheds were destroyed.

Sale Optimistic

HALIFAX (CP) — Canada's economic pulse is beating firmly and the long-range diagnosis is that it will stay healthy, Rhys M. Sale, president of Ford Motor Company of Canada, said here Tuesday night. In an address prepared for the annual banquet of the Halifax Board of Trade, Mr. Sale shrugged off fears of an economic setback.

St. Laurent Adds Story About Spy Trial

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, adding one more anecdote to the many about Canada's spy trials, told the Commons Tuesday about the time in 1945 when the Russian ambassador pulled his leg about Igor Gouzenko.

Mr. St. Laurent harked back to the time when the Russian embassy cipher clerk was trying to get someone to listen to his sensational disclosures and to look at the documents he had taken in his flight the night of Sept. 5.

Mr. St. Laurent himself had declined to see him "because we were then maintaining friendly relations" with the Russians.

At this time he said he went to a party at the home of the British high commissioner, Malcolm Macdonald, and was chatting with the commissioner when Russian ambassador George Zaroubin—now in Washington—came up.

Mr. MacDonald asked Mr. Zaroubin if he had done any fishing lately because it had apparently been a habit of Mr. Zaroubin's to fish in the Ottawa river.

The Russian envoy turned to Mr. St. Laurent and asked whether the then Canadian minister of justice had found the fishing good.

Mr. St. Laurent said "I wondered if he was chaffing me" but it wasn't until later that he realized "that my sense of humor wasn't as keen" as that of the Russian and what Mr. Zaroubin was really talking about.

Mark St. WMS Has Successful Year

A wish that more personal letters could be sent to the missionaries was expressed by Mrs. A. Macklin at the Mark St. WMS meeting Tuesday afternoon, in her report on Christian stewardship. More than 30 members were present in the church parlor to hear the annual reports. Each department had a most gratifying list of work accomplished and particularly interesting were those of Mrs. H. Green, leader of Mission Band, and Mrs. B. S. Morwood, CGIT leader. Time spent and training given in these younger groups will be influential in producing future church and social workers, it was felt.

Mrs. H. Hamley, president of the Baby Band Mothers, reported a membership of 43 and many projects achieved. The Mission Circle, with a similar membership, provided knitted articles for the WMS bale and was successful in reaching the Presbyterial allocation.

Treasurer Mrs. A. Scriver reported the allocation for the WMS had been exceeded. Mrs. E. Howson and Mrs. W. Aitchison were appointed delegates to the Presbyterial annual meeting next Tuesday.

Mrs. Hugh Hunter presided for the worship period, the theme being "Beauty of Holiness." Mrs. F. Samis read the scripture and this was followed by a session of prayer with several ladies taking part.

Installation of the officers for 1953 was conducted by the Rev. B. S. Morwood, Mrs. A. E. DeNure again being the president. Vice-presidents are Mrs. M. Stockdale, Mrs. G. Eason and Mrs. A. Roberts. Cheery Lining In Old Jacket Lifts Morale

Wanted—a cure for mid-winter blues about weary clothes.

These sprightly pictures of spring fashion openings are no help.

One plods through, thankful for the few tired garments one has. Hopes to scrape together enough money for a new outfit by spring.

What's the answer?

Sew a cheery new colored lining into an old jacket. The big, bright fashion news for spring is jackets lined to match a dress. Linings are meant to show. They will be in flowery prints or pale pastels.

So—if you're feeling low, pick up a sparkling remnant to contrast with or match the color in a dress or blouse you already have. Choose your lining in a color which will be holding its own by spring—reddish hues, pink, softer shades of yellow, green or brown. If you haven't much of a rainbow to choose from, line your jacket in any shade with a new tone to it, and wear it with your basic black dress.

Sewing lining sounds tricky, but it isn't. Don't let that word tailoring put you off. The big thing in handling lining is the order in which you take each step.

Changing a lining is a good introduction to tailoring details, since your jacket will be already made. You can see the way the jacket is finished when you take the old lining out. Remove it carefully. You will want to use it for your pattern.

Here are a few points sewing centres suggest you watch. Remember when cutting your new lining to make allowance for a small pleat in the centre back and at front shoulder seams. These pleats in the old lining are not just a style whim. They are put into all well tailored suits for ease in fit.

The entire jacket should be assembled—yours will be in any case—facing attached and sleeves set in, before your lining is inserted. You will need to rip the bottom jacket hem and hems at sleeve ends.

Lining pieces should be joined at side and shoulder seams and pleats pressed in and tacked before it is pinned to the inside of the jacket.

The next step will be greatly simplified if the jacket can be placed wrong side out on a dress form. Smooth and pin the lining in place. Stitch lining first to neck, armholes, shoulder and front facings—by hand. Seam up your sleeve linings on the machine, and insert with hand stitching last.

Lining can be caught around the inside bottom of a short jacket, but should be hemmed separately to hang free in a long coat, with only an occasional tacking stitch to hold it in place.

The final step is hand hemming of bottom and sleeve ends and your jacket is like new. What a lift that color gives. Be sure to wear it open. Shed some of the glow on others.

Ask For Clothing And Literature To Send Abroad

Mrs. Angus Munro, president, opened the St. Andrew's WMS meeting Tuesday afternoon by reading the poem, "He Leadeth Me." It was the annual business meeting, and treasurer Mrs. Bullock reported the allocation for last year had been exceeded. Mrs. E. Hawley advised that 129 hospital calls and 219 home calls had been made and that she had contacted 60 new families during the year. She had also provided clothing for a needy person found in hospital, she said.

Another appeal was made for good warm clothing to be sent to Korea. Mrs. E. F. Reid reported a letter from Dr. Barclay McKone at Moose Factory said the bale of toys had arrived in time for Christmas giving. A donation of $5 was received from Mrs. Porteous and Miss Moir to be used for CGIT.

A strong appeal for literature to be sent to Africa was made by Mrs. C. M. Scott following the mission study period conducted by Mrs. Reid's group which described the schools of Angola and the effects of education on the women who have been taught to read during the past six years. "Now that they are able to read, they do not have reading material," she stressed. Miss Eva Preston, Mrs. J. McKone and Mrs. H. Tremaine assisted in presenting the situation from the study book.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, and she was assisted with prayers by Mrs. Grandy, Mrs. T. H. Skinner, Mrs. Lavelle, Mrs. Gainor and Miss Margaret Ferguson. Mrs. R. Y. Kenny read the scripture lesson. New missionary adopted for prayers is Miss Jean A. C. Graham who is now home in Montreal on leave from Japan.

Mrs. Tremaine and Mrs. Hawley were appointed delegates to the Presbyterial meeting next Tuesday at St. James' Church. Arrangements were made for the mother and daughter banquet to be served Wednesday, February 4.

A cup of tea was enjoyed after the meeting, served by Mrs. Reid's group.

Grace Church WA Sponsoring Play

Grace Church WA meeting Tuesday evening commenced with installation of the officers who were elected last month. An addition to that list was Mrs. H. Glover who has been appointed membership convener. The Rev. I. G. Pollock conducted the ceremony.

Guest speaker was Miss Nell Schell, whose topic was immigration to Canada from her native Holland, and she also contrasted the home life and business. She was introduced by Mrs. J. W. Waldie and thanked by Mrs. H. Knight.

President Mrs. Eric McKinstry presided for the reading of reports by Mrs. M. Beasley, secretary, and treasurer Mrs. J. B. Jackson, both showing an active and progressive year's work had been accomplished. The WA is again sponsoring a play, of which Mrs. G. Close is director, and one outside booking has already been made. It is hoped to present the comedy for the first time in Grace Church the latter part of February.

Mrs. J. Bailey was appointed to the manse committee and a big item of the business was arrangement to buy an electric refrigerator for the manse. This is the last big item needed for the house and the WA's future efforts will be toward the building fund. It was planned to hold a rummage sale soon with Mrs. Waldie and Mrs. H. Corner to be in charge.

The meeting was convened by Mrs. Close and she opened with a thought for the new year. Scripture from the Sermon on the Mount with commentary was given by Mrs. A. Tripp and Mrs. Pollock offered prayer. Mrs. W. Turner contributed a pleasing piano selection.

A social period followed the meeting with lunch being served by Mrs. Tripp, Mrs. Close, Mrs. W. Page, Jr., Mrs. B. Hooey and Mrs. W. H. Gerow.

Republicans Show Up In Dazzling Ball Finery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans showed up in their most dazzling formal finery Tuesday night at the two balls which furnished a social climax to the inauguration of the first Republican president in 20 years. Jewels glittered everywhere.

President Eisenhower and his Mamie sparkled with all the rest. So did Vice-President Richard Nixon and his Pat.

The new President and first lady made an appearance at 10:45 p.m. EST at one section of the double-barrelled social event, in National Guard Armory. That was a stop on the way to the other ball at the Georgetown University gymnasium. The Nixons, scheduled to divide their time the other way, came in at the armory before the Eisenhowers started their cross-town run to the gymnasium.

ROAR OF ACCLAMATION

Throngs of Republican faithful—and a sprinkling of Democrats—set up a roar of acclamation as the Eisenhowers stepped into a spotlight gleaming on their balcony box in the centre of the armory.

The general was in white tie and tails. Mrs. Eisenhower wore her new Renoir pink gown shimmering with thousands of rhinestones.

Fashion Flashes

QUICK CHANGE, to make a party job out of a slim black satin or crepe or taffeta skirt, is an overskirt of net patterned in cut velvet effect.

✧ ✧ ✧

MOVING OUT in front on the spring color card is good old navy; in fact, it will be bigger and better than ever. Pure silk serge, in medium navy blue, makes a nice dress for now and later. The draped bodice has a round neckline that ties with self-corded ribbon, and there are curved double pleats at the hips.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT LOOKS LOVELY with a tanned or bronzed skin, and that's reason enough for black's popularity as a beach and playwear hue. Black bird's-eye pique makes a handsome bathing suit with a molded torso line. Pink roses are embroidered here and there. Shirring molds the bustline and there are curved hipline pockets.

✧ ✧ ✧

A LIGHT TOUCH to set off dark furs is available in a new group of pastel-toned satin ribbon hats. Pale gold satin ribbon is used for a pretty little dinner hat, its peaked front cuff heavily studded in rhinestones and pearls in a diadem motif.

✧ ✧ ✧

JUST AS POPULAR as it is at home, is the word on the box handbag designed for resort wear. Gold-plated steel with a lacquer finish makes a handsome resort bag a double-lidded box. The entire surface is done in sunburst square, for an all-over effect, and there is a black satin or pastel linen lining. A zipper pocket is placed under one lid; the other has a mirror.

Counting Your Many Blessings A Comfort

By MARY MOORE.

Counting your blessings is such a comfort I settled down to do some earnest accounting.

On Christmas Eve at 7 p.m. the dishes had to be washed and 24 parcels had yet to be wrapped. I was sunk. My ankles ached to my knees. Besides I wanted to go carol-singing. I'm afraid my slump showed. Pete was folded up under the stove mending a wire in it. He leaned out and said: "Why don't you just go carol-singing, mum? The air and change will do you good. I'll wash those few dishes and wrap your parcels." All of my fatigue fell away. I pinned a sprig of holly on my coat and dashed off to join the harmony crowd. (Comfort No. 1.)

When I returned Pete's message said: "Marianne's hours at the hospital have been changed. She can have Christmas dinner with us after all." (Comfort No. 2.)

A lonely couple for whom I feel some responsibility had been invited to their neighbors' for Christmas dinner. (I couldn't invite them for we were having Christmas dinner at my brother's home.) (Comfort No. 3.)

My most treasured double African violet took on new life and bloomed on Christmas morning. Such a little thing to call Comfort No. 4. But African violet lovers will know what I mean.

You might think one should worry about money. But if you are just a middleman for it you never have to worry about the rise and fall of the stock market. Thus you avoid stomach ulcers. (Comfort No. 5.)

A puzzling development is my will power to refuse a third helping of turkey. My waistline stayed a reasonable shape after all of the tempting Christmas food. (Comfort No. 6.)

Not one of us is sick. (Comfort No. 7.)

God is firmly in His heaven watching over us all. Best of all comforts.

✧ ✧ ✧

Since this is a cooking column let's have some cooking comfort, too. You can make a wonderful pot of soup with 1 chicken back as a starter. At the cut-up shop mine cost me 17c.

HOMEMADE SOUP

Buy one chicken back (or beef bone). Add 1 quart cold water and put on to cook. (I add everything while the bones are simmering, and fish them out later.) Now add 1 tablespoon each small-size barley, raw rice (preferably raw), macaroni alphabets, ½ cup to 1 cup finely chopped celery and leaves (you can use the outer stalks for this of course, as any efficient housewife knows), 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Simmer covered until barley is tender and any meat on them will fall from the bones. Cool enough to remove bones. I pour it through a sieve, for it is easier this way to separate the bones from the other solids. Put it all back together again and taste. Does it need more salt and pepper? Have you any MSG on hand? If so, add ½ teaspoon. If you like carrots in your soup add ½ cup very small dice when you add the celery. Before serving add 2 tablespoons of finely chopped parsley.

I had made an undersize shepherd's pie, so to make it stretch, served this soup first, then small portions of shepherd's pie, big salad. My critical family said it was good enough for the paper.

✧ ✧ ✧

If the above soup is to be served for lunch or light supper make

FEATHER MUFFINS

Cream together until fluffy ¼ cup each shortening and sugar, then beat in 1 egg. Sift together 1¾ cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Stir these dry ingredients into the first mixture alternately with 1 cup milk. Only stir until barely mixed. Turn into greased muffin tins, filling them 2-3 full. Bake at 375 degrees Fahr. for about 20 to 25 minutes. Serve hot. My fellow-health-addicts will know they can add 2 tablespoons fresh wheat germ to these without any other change.

Princess Margaret Chooses 5 Coronation Year Colors

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret has chosen five new colors for Coronation Year, it was learned Monday.

They are Elizabethan red, a soft crimson shade; princess grey, a metallic silver; Marguerite green, reminiscent of the soft tone of young pine needles; spun gold, a creamy butter yellow; and beau blue, a true baby blue that will provide a bright background for silks and cottons patterned in black and white.

Dresses, coats, suits, hats and accessories will soon be available in British stores in these colors. Princess Margaret picked them as patron of the British Color Council, a 22-year-old organization, which acts in an advisory capacity. The Queen and the Queen Mother have also acted as patrons of the color council.

EXPRESSING PREFERENCE

The princess may not necessarily wear the color herself. She is simply expressing a royal preference, which will undoubtedly influence fashion houses in Britain and other countries. Possibly an even greater influence, however, will be the colors which the princess and the queen choose for their own personal wardrobes in the Coronation Year.

It is understood that the queen's wardrobe already is more than half complete. Details as to styles, colors and materials will not be made known immediately. Fashion writers trying to anticipate her choice look for brilliant, sophisticated shades.

Stirring Challenge Given To Gilmour Circle

Who is on the Lord's side? was the challenge presented by Mrs. Fred Rowland ot the members of the Eunice Blewett Mission Circle of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church at the January meeting held in the home of Mrs. Reg. McMullen. This challenge was traced through the centuries since it was given first to the Israelite people by their leader Moses.

Following the devotional period, Mrs. Ralph Scott conducted the Bible study covering the early ministry of Jesus when the disciples were selected and trained.

A comprehensive study of mission work among the New Canadians was presented by Mrs. Roland Scott. She described the work of the New Canadian Fellowship since its inception, the assistance given them upon arrival in Canada, the teaching of English in the Baptist Churches, and the specific New Canadian Baptist churches in Ontario.

Interesting references were made concerning the first convention of New Canadian Pastors in Toronto in 1952. At the conclusion, Mrs. Scott gave each member a prayer folder for New Canadian Missions and missionaries.

The Circle decided to send a food parcel to Dr. Aileen Vining a medical missionary in India. Miss Lilliain McGregor accepted the responsibilitiy of packing and mailing the box.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Ed. Bulmer and Mrs. Ruth Scott in serving tea with sandwiches and cake during the conluding social period.

DOROTHY DIX

Co-Ed Bored, Wants To Leave College

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 18 years old and a freshman in college, and would like to leave after this semester, but mother is so anxious for me to continue that I hate to hurt her. I'm not getting good marks, since I find the lessons too hard.

I am very much in love with a boy in service whom I have known for three years. I expect him to propose when next he comes home on leave, but I'm sure my mother will object to our marrying on the score of my youth.

M. Y. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Are you sure the boy isn't responsible for your lack of interest in school, and also for your poor marks? You certainly owe it to your parents and to yourself to make as determined an effort as possible to take advantage of the education available. However, if you and your faculty advisors are convinced that the work is beyond you, the best thing to do is leave school before any more money is wasted. Your mother should discuss the matter with the authorities at college, rather than trusting entirely to your judgment.

A GRAND OPPORTUNITY

Every year, many more parents, themselves conscious of the keen competition in the business world, make sacrifices to educate their children to meet the exacting requirements of a career. It's a satisfying thing when youngsters take advantage of the opportunity, but not all of them can. Not every child is a student, and it's a waste of time and money to try to force higher education on a boy or girl who simply is not college material. Few families can afford the luxury of keeping a youngster in school just for the social life or prestige to be gained.

When there's a doubt, the best course is to take the reluctant student out of school, and let her try working for a while. Perhaps the experience may lead to the realization of the need for greater knowledge; perhaps it will confirm the wisdom of the choice made.

Myra, you seem to be hastily headed toward two momentous decisions, both of which need more thought than they are receiving. Don't leave school unless you have carefully consulted your instructors, and above all, don't rush into a hasty marriage just because the boy happens to have a leave coming up. Let your mother guide you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister is keeping company with a man ten years her senior. He has recently been divorced and is the father of three children. One of the conditions of the divorce is that he turn over all his money to his ex-wife. However, he has a good job and is a fine man. We think my sister is letting herself in for obligations that will prove too onerous. Against him are the facts that he is 36 to her 26, that he must give a substantial amount every year to the support of his children. In his favor: he earns a good salary; they are in love; he is sincere, energetic and ambitious.

ANDREW

ANSWER: Your sister is old enough to know her own mind, and if she has weighed the relative advantages and disadvantages of the marriage and still wants to go ahead with it, nothing will change her now.

The biggest drawback is the fact that as time passes she will almost certainly resent the large annual sum for the support of her husband's children. This, of course, is futile resentment. If she can school herself to avoid it, her marriage should be a happy one.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm in love with a boy, but we broke up several weeks ago. He is now going with two other girls, but his friends say he likes me and is almost certain to come back if I wait.

TILLIE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's possible the boy may come back, but why waste your time waiting. Take a leaf from his book and get yourself some new friends.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Deep Meat Pie Offered On Special-Purpose Menu

A Canadian woman somehow persuaded some editor to print her opinion on Canadian cooking. She doesn't like it. She says we are can-opening artists. She's a Canadian and a woman and a cook too, remember. The nerve of her. She's basing this profound can-opened opinion doubtless on a few meals she ate in a Canadian restaurant after she returned from Paris.

Probably over there she was on her holiday budget and ate at Escoffier's—once. Here her budget is cut down to child-size.

What she doesn't mention or recognize is that Canadians didn't get that surplus budget by spending $3.00 for a steak dinner when they know they can buy steak for four if they will cook and eat it at home. I am as mad as I ever get over this lofty talk.

And what's more for one measly dollar Canadian cooks can make a meat pie that'll raise the oo-la-la eyebrows of any French chef.

TYPICAL CANADIAN DINNER

Deep Meat Pie
Cabbage Salad with Pineapple
Apple Tapioca Coffee or Tea

Deep Meat Pie (to serve 6)

Pastry: (For a baking dish 9 inches in diameter) Two and one-half cups plus 1 tablespoon sifted bread flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 6 tablespoons butter or other shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 egg yolks, ½ cup plus 1 tablespoon cold milk. Sift together the dry ingredients, then cut the shortening into them until they resemble dry meal. Beat yolks, combine with milk, and stir in to form a soft dough that is not sticky. Turn this out onto spa:ely floured board and knead gently for 15 seconds. Divide into two par s. Roll out one long strip for lining sides of baking dish, and line bak ng dish, moistening the ends to stick them together. Pour in filling (see below). Brush bottom rim with milk and place rolled out upper crust over it, turning crust under. Press edges with long fork to seal. Make gashes at centre to allow steam to escape.

Filling: Cook 1½ lbs. lean beef (or veal and beef and pork mixed) in 1-inch cubes in 4 cups water until tender, with ½ bay leaf and 1 sprig celery leaves. (If round steak from baby beaf is used precooking is not necessary and the amount of water is 3 cups). Add 1

A wonderful grandmother, woman and friend;
One whom is better God never made.
A heart so loyal and true,
One in a million, that, grandmother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all you knew;
A wonderful Grandmother, that grandmother, was you.

Gardiner Says Farmers Make More Money

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner says Canadian farmers are making more money than ever before and doing it with less work.

In an address to the Brockville Kiwanis Club and Leeds County Federation of Agriculture Tuesday, Mr. Gardiner said he has taken into consideration the rising costs of farm operation from 1943 to 1951.

"Despite an increase in these costs, the farmer's net return has gone up since that period and the farmer has been well paid in relation to his obligation."

Gross income of farmers in 1951 was $2,835,000,000.

CREDITS CO-OPERATION

Mr. Gardiner said the farmers' current situation is the result of co-operation between federal and provincial authorities, businessmen who helped farmers over lean years and the support of farm organizations.

In a talk to the Leeds group, he said importation of vegetable oils is a matter that should be dealt with only by provincial governments. He said that although the federal government could put duties on importation of synthetics, the matter is best handled provincially.

The federation wants to discuss proposed new roads with the highways department before actual construction is started.

Delegates elected Arthur Horton of Lansdowne president for 1953.

Frost Follows Style Set By Ike In Hats

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost can be counted among the first to follow the style trend set by President Eisenhower's homburg hat.

When the President elected to wear a homburg at the inauguration ceremony instead of the traditional silk topper, Premier Frost followed suit. He appeared at the national ballet with a homburg.

The premier explained he dislikes silk toppers, although he knows they are correct for functions such as the ballet. "I thought if Ike could do it, it was all right for me," he said.

Trailer Cut In Half 8 People Escape

SUDBURY (CP)—A baby thrown to the roadway was one of eight persons who escaped injury Tuesday night when an automobile trailer was cut in half by a car 35 miles east of here.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Chevrier and their six children were moving from nearby Creighton to Sutton when their trailer went out of control and came to rest straddling the highway.

Robert Gillespie of Sudbury, driving behind the trailer, was unable to stop. He rammed the trailer and it split in two sections. The child was thrown to the road amid a shower of household goods.

Mother, 3 Children Perish In Blaze

FREDERICK, Okla. (AP) — A mother and her three children perished last night in flames which swept their two - roomed frame dwelling after a kerosene lamp exploded.

Victims were Mrs. Erma Jean Thompson, 22, and her children Alfred, 4; Gary, 2; and Dell E., 10 months. A fourth child escaped unhurt.

The father, 27-year-old Alfred Thompson, suffered severe burns.

teaspoon salt during last 10 minutes. Drain off stock, fish out bay leaf and celery. Keep the stock for your next step: Make gravy in a saucepan by melting 1-3 cup butter, stirring in 1-3 cup flour, then the meat stock, until thick. There should be 3 cups meat stock—if not make it up with hot water. Put the meat in bottom of pastry-lined baking dish. Add: ¾ cup each (½-inch raw potato dice, ¼-inch raw carrot dice, 1 cup uncooked peas (frozen at this time of year), ¼ cup chopped onion, sprinkling each layer with salt and pepper as you add them. Sprinkle over them 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Pour gravy over evenly. Put on top crust (see above).

Pedlars Must Have Permits: Lakefield C Of C

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—President Donald Hendren was in the chair when Lakefield Chamber of Commerce met for their January meeting at the Lakefield Hotel, with a good representation present.

A report on the Christmas effort with regards to the decorating of the main business section of the village was given by retail chairman, A. W. Stewart, who stated that the cost had been slightly under $50.00, with the merchants contributing and the Hydro co-operating by supplying coloured lights.

The Santa Claus parade had also been quite successful and letters were to be sent out expressing the appreciation of the Chamber to all those who assisted with it. It was decided that a special committee would be appointed well in advance next year, to make even bigger plans for this event. Mr. Stewart also reported on the maps of the village of Lakefield which will be distributed free.

A proposal was made by the directors, and will be presented at the next general meeting, that everyone canvassing for donations or advertisements in the village must have a permit to be issued by the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and must be approved by at least three members of a five-man committee. Each member will be given a sign to place in his store or office stating that a fine of $10.00 may be levied on anyone giving such advertising or making donations to anyone not having a permit.

The practice of sending congratulations and flowers to any new place of business was adopted and this decision was carried out by sending some to the new managers of Coronation Inn.

Membership chairman, Albert G. Buchanan reported that the membership drive was coming along well with 40 paid members already signed up. He hoped to have the drive completed by the end of January. The president made the suggestion that, in refusing to become a member of the Chamber, the person should be asked to what parts of the policy of the organization he objected and a change in this particular phase might be made.

The 5,000 maps of the Kawartha area, being printed for distribution by the Chamber, will cost more than last year, it was reported by Wilton Hillieir, who is in charge of this. Mr. Hillier also suggested changes that might be made in the colour of the map to make it more attractive.

Owing to weather conditions, nothing further will be done to the new bulletin board until Spring.

A membership meeting will be held February 17th at the Lakefield Hotel. Each member is asked to bring a non-member as his guest. Refreshments will be served.

Would Recall Conference Adjourned During 1950

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said Tuesday the government should reconvene as soon as possible the federal - provincial constitutional conference, adjourned from 1950.

The conference was called originally to work out a formula for making constitutional amendments without reference to the United Kingdom Parliament. Canada still must ask the United Kingdom to approve any constitutional changes involving matters within joint jurisdiction of the federal and provincial governments.

Mr. Fleming spoke after Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) sponsored a bill to increase the quorum of the Commons to 30 from 20 members. Mr. Knowles said the present quorum was fixed when membership totalled 181. Now the membership is 262.

While not quarreling with the aim of the bill, Mr. Fleming said it did call for a constitutional change.

Immigration Minister Harris, speaking for the government, said Mr. Knowles' bill will be referred to the Commons committee on procedure for consideration.

Europe Gives Eisenhower Warm Welcome

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe gave a warm welcome to President Eisenhower today and hailed his inaugural speech as proof of continued United States co-operation.

There were signs, too, that Western Europe will pledge its support to Eisenhower's anti-Communist policy just as it co-operated with outgoing President Truman.

Among senders of messages of good will to the new U.S. president were West Germany's chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, President Tito of Yugoslavia and King Baudoin of Belgium. From India, President Rajendra Prasad expressed belief that "friendship and co-operation between our two countries will continue to grow."

DEEP SATISFACTION

Western Europe's press took deep satisfaction in noting that Eisenhower apparently will follow the same general foreign-policy lines as his predecessor.

Quite a few newspapers waved a friendly farewell to Harry Truman and said he will go down in history as a courageous, far - sighted leader.

Holland's Catholic Volksrant says Eisenhower's first speech reflected wisdom and moderation. "Isolationist Senator (Robert A.) Taft surely did not guide the President's hand," the paper says. "Truman himself could have made it."

Many newspapers such as England's Liberal Manchester Guardian saw in Eisenhower's speech a warning to Western Europe to unite.

"The unity of Europe has been a favorite theme with the President and we may expect him to press it with all the immense resources of persuasion now in his hands," the Guardian says.

The Times of London says Eisenhower has pledged himself to uphold and carry forward a revolution in U.S. foreign policy marked by the Marshall plan and the Atlantic Pact.

Railway Line Cleared After Wreck

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont. (CP)—The line was clear today where a broken rail near here wrecked a transcontinental passenger train Tuesday, killing one man and injuring 74 other persons.

The torn - up right-of-way was mended 17 hours after the broken rail threw the Canadian National Railways crack Continental Limited into a pile of tangled coaches.

The train, bound for Vancouver from Montreal, struck the rail on the outskirts of Ghost River, a bleak whistle-stop trading post 25 miles east of here and 275 miles east of Winnipeg.

The engine lurched past, but the first of 11 cars following caught. All 11 coaches lunged crazily toward steep embankments.

PASSENGERS ASLEEP

Night - clad passengers, jolted from sleep, scrambled into a dark world of scrub pine, rock and snow. Thirty-below-zero weather and snow drifts hindered rescue operations.

Seventeen of the 74 injured were detained in hospital here. Most suffered minor injuries. Other passengers were taken to Winnipeg and later were put aboard a special train bound for western points.

The dead man, 59-year-old Wasley Chelak of Unity, Sask., was found in an overturned day coach. A section hand, he travelled as a passenger.

IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Two crew members, conductor W. H. Campbell and brakeman W. R. van Sickle, both of Winnipeg, were reported in critical condition but out of danger.

Five cars, including two day coaches, tipped over. None telescoped but most were badly damaged. Rails were ripped from their beds for 150 yards. Coach trucks and wheels littered the right-of-way.

There was no fire and surprising calm.

"There was no panic at all," said Sister Pulcharra of Humboldt, Sask.

Bob Wardle, 30, travelling from Britain to Stettler, Alta., said: "We were fortunate more people weren't killed. The wreck was terrible . . . But there was no panic. Not even the children cried."

Soldiers on the train joined with doctors and nurses in removing the injured. Many were crammed into two coaches still standing at the rear while waiting for help.

Canada Needs Share Of Seaway Power

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's share of low cost St. Lawrence seaway power is essential to the industrialization and rearmament program of the United States, Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, said Tuesday night.

In a radio speech he said eight Ontario firms exporting more than half their production to the United States will in three years require power equal to half this country's share in the seaway. The only company named was International Nickel.

He said unless hydro builds more steam plants or receives the go-ahead on the seaway this year it will have a power shortage of 883,000 kilowatts by 1961.

Unrepentant Nazi Sends Letter Claiming Hitler Alive, Safe

BERCHTESGADEN (AP) — An anonymous letter-writter, apparently an unrepentant Nazi, claims to know "the present whereabouts of Adolf Hitler and can disclose it at any time after proclamation of a general amnesty for his followers," the Bavarian justice ministry disclosed today.

Justice officials said numerous signed letters also have been received by the Berchtesgaden district court from former Nazi party members protesting against a possible ruling that Hitler, "our highly honored fuehrer," is legally dead.

The Nazi letter-writing campaign was prompted by an application to the court by the government trustee of Hitler's sole remaining property in Austria—a painting by Jan Vermeer, Dutch old master, bought by the fuehrer in 1940 from an Austrian collector for 1,650,000 reichsmarks ($660,000).

PLANNED MUSEUM

The masterpiece, "Artist in his Atelier," had been intended by Hitler for a museum which he planned to found in Linz, Austria, where he attended school in his boyhood.

The trustee asked the Berchtesgaden court to issue him a certificate that Hitler is dead so that clear title to the confiscated painting can be taken by Austrian government.

'The People Of The Serpent'

A True Story Of The Strange and Historic Mounds on the North Shore of Rice Lake, Dating Back 2,000 Years.

The Department of Archaeology of the Royal Ontario Museum sent a special expedition to Rice Lake to explore the remarkable serpent mound and egg-shaped mound on the shores of Rice Lake.

The findings indicate that about 2,000 years ago a strange people lived there who wore necklaces of shell carried all the way from Florida—beads of silver from Mexico and pendants of copper from Isle Royale in Lake Superior. The Archaeologists have been able to piece together a speculative story of what took place when the earthen serpent, the only known effigy mound in Canada, was completed.

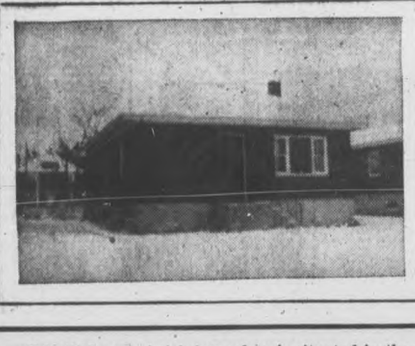
Bancroft Lions Donor Clinic Well Attended

BANCROFT (ENS)—Overwhelming response to the blood typing clinic sponsored by the Lions Club on Saturday afternoon resulted in scores of persons being turned away at the closing hour. It was decided to resume the clinic as soon as arrangements can be completed. Chairman Leo Frieburger reported a turn out of more than 600. All those not typed on Saturday will be as soon as possible.

The clinic has received support of medical men and hospital officials of the district. It is especially essential in smaller centres, enabling doctors to contact a donor of the necessary type in a short time, in the event of emergency. Whole blood, much more satisfactory than plasma, can be quickly obtained in this way.

Each visitor to the Lions clinic receives a card marked with their particular blood type. The card should be carried at all times and may be a life-saver in the event of emergency.



MILLIONAIRE DIES — An estimated $2,000,000 in real estate deeds and more than $24,000 cash was found in a rubbish-littered Toronto house when police investigated the deaths of John Laughlin, 104-year-old recluse, and his son. Mr. Laughlin, dairy owner and former home builder who collected rents from more than 150 Toronto properties, was an accidental victim of cooking gas. His 62-year-old son was revived but died later in hospital. This photo of the millionaire was taken some years ago.

17 Mental Patients Escape Hospital, Described Violent

KINGS PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Seventeen youthful male mental patients crashed their way out of Kings Park state hospital today and four were still at large hours later. Police recaptured 13, mostly at Long Island railroad stations as they waited for trains to Manhattan. Most of the escapees were 'teen-agers, described in a police alarm as "violent." However, Dr. Charles Buckman, senior director at the mental institution, said he would describe them as "incorrigible" and "difficult to manage."

He said he doubted that most of them would hurt anyone, but that they were delinquent and would seal on the spur of the moment if they saw anything they wanted.

The bolting patients wrecked all the furnishings of their second-floor ward, and one of them chased a doctor with a broken piece of a bed. He and the five attendants on duty in the ward escaped harm.

The patients, quartered in a room with barred windows, broke down a door leading to a corridor and ran out into a snow and sleet storm pelting the scrub oak and pine country.

None of the fugitives had a weapon, so far as could be learned.

Most of the 17 wore street clothes when they broke out at 1:15 a. m. EST. It could not be learned at the hospital how they came to be dressed this way at that hour.

The hospital is on Long Island, about 45 miles from New York.

Two of the patients were caught on the hospital grounds, and nine others within a few miles from here. All submitted without a struggle.

Search continued over a wide area for the patients still at large.

Straitjackets were used to return some of the men to the hospital. All 17 were about 20 years old.

The hospital, which has several buildings, houses 9,000 patients. There are 2,000 in the building from which the 17 escaped.

Hockey Deal Gets $275,000 For Family

TORONTO (CP) — The $500 obtained for the signing of a National Hockey League C-form formed part of a grubstake which enabled the hockey-playing Marshall brothers' prospector father to make a $275,000 iron-ore discovery near Kirkland Lake.

A Toronto paper in a sports page story today quotes the father, Charles Marshall, 67, as saying his 55 iron-ore claims in Boston township, eight miles south of Kirkland Lake, have been bought at $5,000 each by the Dominion Gulf Company, subsidiary of the Gulf Oil Company of the United States.

So far, between $25,000 and $30,000 has been paid and another payment is due June 1. The rest of the money is expected as soon as patents are completed.

ALL HAVE SHARE

All the boys have a share in it. Chuck, 19, is touring the Quebec junior hockey circuit with St. Catharines Teepees. Willie, 21, is with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League, a farm team of Toronto Maple Leafs. Ray, 24, plays senior hockey for a team in Grand Falls, N.B. Leonard, 31, is sampling at a mine near his father's home at Kirkland Lake.

"Young Charlie will get about $20,000 out of it," the father told the Star. "Willie's share is $12,000, Ray's $30,000 and Leonard $45,000. I should net about $80,000. The rest will go to another party, outside the family, who is in on the deal."

325 Convicts Still Hold Out

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP) — A stubborn band of 325 convicts, still holding six prison guards as hostages, stood fast in their barricaded cellblock at Rockview state penitentiary today with the next move apparently up to state officials and a force of state troopers encircling the prisoners.

As the fourth day of the outbreak dawned, the troopers and prison guards, armed with sub-machine-guns, tear gas, small arms and riot sticks were ready to move if state officials decided an all-out assault is the only solution to the stalemate.

State Attorney-General Robert E. Woodside has been in charge of the efforts to dislodge the convicts in cell block A, centre of the original outbreak Monday night. He has refused to confirm or deny reports that a showdown may develop today by sending the troopers and guards into the cellblock.

The convicts are in the unique position of controlling the storeroom containing canned foods, thus assuring them and their hostages at least seven days' supply of food.

Find Miner, Moose Dead On Lonely Trail

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — A 70-year-old miner and a cow moose were found dead Wednesday near each other on a lonely trail, apparently victims of a bitter wilderness battle. A half-wild team of dogs owned by the miner, Lawrence Magnusia, crouched in the snow nearby.

As U.S. Commissioner Ladessa Nordale reconstructed the tragedy:

Magnusia lived alone in a one-room cabin near the deserted mining settlement of Olnes, 15 miles north of here. He apparently shot the moose at close range.

The dying animal attacked him. But the old miner clubbed it with his empty rifle, breaking the stock in half. Then he died himself, either from wounds inflicted by the moose or from a heart attack from his exertions.

Will Show Coronation In Movies On TV

LONDON (Reuters) — Britons sitting in movie houses on June 2 will see the crowning of their Queen in Westminster Abbey.

Via "big-screen" television they will watch the Archbishop of Canterbury place the heavy gold crown on Elizabeth's head at the moment it happens.

The news came out Wednesday in the House of Commons, where a post office official said the government has bent regulations slightly so that thousands who can't crowd into homes with TV sets can go to the movie theatre and see it.

Authorize Currie Press Charge

MONTREAL (CP) — A criminal court judge today authorized George S. Currie, Montreal accountant, to take out a warrant in connection with the alleged theft of an advance copy of his report to Defence Minister Claxton on army works services.

The specific charge and the name of the person were not known immediately.

The person named in the warrant was believed to have been an employee of the firm here which printed the report for Mr. Currie.

The report reached the hands of the CCF party before it was tabled in the house of commons and has been the subject of a bitter parliamentary debate.

Counsel for the printing firm, which has not been identified, said Tuesday it would lay a charge if it was proved one of their employees took the copy.

Ike's Son Ordered Home By Truman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Who ordered Maj. John Eisenhower home from Korea to see his father inaugurated as president?N

The Eisenhowers said they didn't know.

Today, the Chronicle's Washington correspondent reports:

Dwight D. Eisenhower learned the answer just before Tuesday's inauguration by asking President Truman:

"Sir, may I ask you a question: Who ordered my boy home from Korea? He's been giving me hell about it."

"I did," Truman said. "Just tell him that contrary old man in the White House did it."

The major was given 15 days leave.

Civil Defence Man Alarmed After Ottawa Trip

WINNIPEG —(CP)—Alderman H. B. Scott says that if war with Russia breaks out there are 10,000 organized Communists in Red cells throughout Canada ready at a moment's notice to sabotage defence efforts from coast to coast "and Canada is not prepared to cope with them."

He said in an interview Wednesday night on his return from a 10-day civil defence course in Ottawa that this information was given him by a "high government source."

"Meanwhile, our whole civil defence set-up is built entirely around the atomic bomb," he said. "We're not doing a thing to guard against sabotage."

His informant, Ald. Scott said, claimed Canada has not the facilities to cope with saboteurs on the scale indicated, and nothing is being done to provide those facilities.

LAWS TOO EASY

"The RCMP knows most of the Communists and their leaders," Ald. Scott said. "But our federal laws are too free and easy, the RCMP can't do a thing."

His informant claimed the RCMP couldn't handle the situation alone if war broke out.

Ald. Scott said the civil defence course he attended was "very worthwhile." Lectures were "excellent," and the lecturers "very competent men. . .but the whole emphasis is on sneak bomb raids."

Winnipeg's metropolitan civil defence board wants to spend thousands of dollars on an air raid communications centre, he said, but saboteurs could put all Man-

Police Hold 2 In McAbbie Death

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men were held by police today for questioning in connection with the death of B. J. McAbbie, 59-year-old restaurant owner, who died in hospital Wednesday from the effects of a beating.

Three others—two men and a woman—are sought by a 20-man detective squad working round-the-clock to solve the case.

McAbbie, a big-game hunter and owner of the posh Montreal restaurant, Au Lutin qui Bouffe, was gun-whipped in the foyer of his establishment in Montreal early Monday. He was beaten to force him to disclose the combination of the safe. The five escaped with an estimated $3,500 in cash and stripped rings worth several thousand dollars from the victim's fingers.

In addition to the McAbbie case, police said the five suspects are wanted for a series of armed robberies, burglaries and safe crackings in various parts of the city since last fall.

Chou Charges UN Plane Violates Manchurian Skies

TOKYO (A) — Red China's No. 2 boss charged today that a U. S. B-29 Superfort violated Manchurian skies Jan. 12 and was shot down by Communist night fighters.

U. S. Far East Air Forces confirmed the loss of the bomber, but asserted it was 12 to 15 miles inside North Korea — well below the Yalu river boundary of Manchuria — when crippled.

"The B-29 transmitted a 'mayday' distress signal and it is assumed it was shot down at the point," said an official FEAF announcement.

The Reds alleged the B-29 was shot down nine miles northwest of Antugg, big Communist air base across the Yalu from northwestern Korea.

Peiping radio broadcast the charge, and an angry protest, by Red China's premier and foreign minister, Chou En-lai. It quoted him as saying 11 crew members, including a colonel and a major were captured and that three others "died after parachuting."

Chou is second only to Mao Tze-tung in the Chinese Communist regime. Broadcasting his protest—which came on the heels of an earlier propaganda charge, underlined the importance the Reds attached to the accusation.

Chou charged that U. S. planes "violated our northeastern skies" three other times in the last two months "on Nov. 28, Dec 8 and Dec. 13." It is an old propaganda charge. Allied pilots are under strict orders not to cross the Yalu river — not even if engaged in furious combat with Russian-built Mig-15s.

The air force said the B-29 in question "was on a regularly scheduled mission dropping psychological warfare news leaflets over North Korean cities" on the night of Jan. 12.

"The aircraft was plotted and followed throughout its flight by friendly radar stations," said the announcement. "When over a town approximately 12 to 15 miles south of the Yalu river, the B-29 'plot' merged (on the radar screens) with the plots of 12 hostile fighter aircraft.

Pearson Raps Trade Barriers

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson urged the United States Wednesday night to lower trade barriers and said failure to do so could wreck the Western world's defence and political alliances. To a joint Canadian-American audience, he said U.S. trade policies "will largely determine the economic well-being and political stability of all (democratic) countries" and repeated a Canadian offer to share in any steps to make international trade easier. In an address prepared for the annual dinner meeting of the Dominion Marine Association and Lake Carriers' Association, Mr. Pearson said "we don't want—and I'm sure nobody wants—another 10 years of talk and frustration" to block completion of the St. Lawrence seaway.

He reaffirmed Canada's willingness to discuss U.S. participation but not if this means further delays.

INTER-DEPENDENCE

Mr. Pearson stressed the trading interdependence of Canada and the U.S., that Canada is America's best customer but that the U.S. bought $500,000,000 less from Canada last year than vice versa.

But this problem went beyond these two countries. It was international because of the vital importance of U.S. trade policies.

He recalled a statement he made last summer in which he said Canada is willing "to support any move designed to bring about the freest possible exchange of goods."

MAKE NEW EFFORTS

He added:

"Since I spoke in these terms, efforts have been made at the Commonwealth prime ministers' recent meeting in London towards resolving the economic and financial problems of the sterling area with a view to increasing trade and fostering development not only within the Commonwealth, but also between the Commonwealth and other countries.

"We must persist in such efforts—and others yet to come—to restore a full and freer flow of trade, and to maintain it at as high levels as possible. Rigid control of imports and direction of exports cannot increase the wealth of the nations of the free world, but they can make political co-operation between them more difficult."

Gregg Asks Railways, Union To Resume Negotiations

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg is asking deadlocked union-railway bargainers to get back into negotiations, but the labor department is not at present moving further into the strike-threatened dispute. The minister told the Commons Wednesday he holds the hope—and is expressing it to the disputants—that they resume negotiations as the "only satisfactory way" of reaching a settlement. Later, it was learned the minister was writing in this vein to the railways and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen Ind., which has called a strike of its 22,000 Canadian members for Feb. 2 unless it gets a "satisfactory" settlement of wage and other demands.

Informants said the department is not planning any further action at this time, at least until the parties should ask it to mediate or take other steps. Normal conciliation machinery has been exhausted.

On-and-off discussions between the companies and the union—whose strategically-placed members could cripple the rail carriers effectively—were broken off Tuesday when they failed to agree on a ground for renewed negotiations.

Mr. Gregg told the Commons he had been informed of the possibility of new talks late Wednesday leading to negotiations, but later spokesmen for both groups in Montreal said their positions are unchanged from Tuesday and no meetings are planned.

Mr. Gregg's statement was prompted by an attempt by two Western Liberals—which was later dropped—to precipitate a general house debate on the strike possibility as a matter of "urgent public importance."

The debate motion proposed by J. I. Hetland (Humboldt) and seconded by J. J. Smith (Moose Mountain) said a strike would "tie up the economy of the country and prevent the sale of millions of bushels of grain, much of which is out in the open and unprotected, in Western Canada."

They withdrew the motion at Mr. Gregg's suggestion after the minister had agreed the deadlock was "of great importance" but expressed hope of resumed talks.

20,000 Left Homeless In Rangoon Fire

RANGOON (AP)—Twenty thousand persons were homeless today in a fire which gutted 5,000 huts and 600 wooden buildings in the Rangoon city area.

At least five persons died in the flames. Several persons were reported missing.

The army, navy and police cordoned off the area, shot three looters and rescued others from manhandling by the infuriated tenants.

The flames burned throughout the night and early today. At one time it threatened the residence of the British ambassador, whose grounds were thrown open to the homeless families.

The smoking ruins covered an area of a square mile.

Hint $20,000,000 Toronto Grant

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper says today a $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 grant for the Toronto area will be contained in Ontario government legislation next month.

The prediction, made by an official "well known in the background of provincial party affairs," said as well a new tax source in addition to real estate will be contained in the new legislation.

It followed release of an Ontario municipal board report on Toronto area problems.

The official said need for a provincial grant to carry out the report's provisions "is plainly obvious."

Masked Bandits Rob Office Staff Of $1,670

TORONTO (CP)—Two armed and black-masked men forced employees of the Regent Park housing office to lie face down on the floor Wednesday, then ordered the manager to hand over $1,670 rent collections in cash and cheques.

Art Ritchie, assistant manager in the office, said the two men escaped in a car owned by the office manager, Frank Dearlove.

"They burst into the office with their guns drawn," Mr. Ritchie said.

The two men ordered Dearlove, Ritchie and two other employees to lie on the floor. Then they tied up the office staff, emptied the cash box and fled.

Jury Recommends Father Be Charged Mentally Ill Following Death Of Baby

Inquest Into Death of Windover Baby Brings Forth Bizarre Tale Of Father Discouraging Child's Rescue

A bizarre tale of a father discouraging the rescue of his nine-month-old daughter from a blazing cabin and the disappearance of the baby's remains after the fire was unfolded at a coroner's inquest here Wednesday. The inquest was called to inquire into the death of Ethel Marlene Windover who died in a fire which destroyed her parents' two-room cabin at Catchacoma, 30 miles northwest of Peterborough, December 9.

JURY'S VERDICT

While attaching no blame to "any person definitely," the verdict of the five-man jury stated "we strongly recommend that the father of the deceased should be charged with mental illness."

Immediately, Gerald Windover, 33-year-old father of the infant fire victim was placed under arrest by provincial police. He was charged with being mentally ill.

When Windover was arraigned on the charge today, an attempt by acting crown counsel Walter Howell to have Dr. T. W. L. Broadfoot, Lindsay, appointed as one of the examining doctors was challenged by James Lillico, who is representing Windover. Mr. Lillico objected because Dr. Broadfoot was one of the witnesses at the inquest.

He suggested instead, Dr. T. E. Currier and Dr. Louis Zacks. These were accepted. Mr. Howell asked for remand without bail. But Mr. Lillico asked for bail and Magistrate W. R. Philp said he was entitled to it. The matter was remanded until 3:45 p.m.

Less than two years ago, in March, 1951, a coroner's jury in Lindsay recommended that Windover be "given a mental examination," following an inquest into the death of the first child of Windover and his wife Laura, 32.

The child a three-month-old baby boy died as a result of a fractured skull, and haemorrhaging. The jury then found that the baby's death was accidental but urged that Windover be mentally examined.

In his testimony Wednesday evening, Windover said he was changing the baby's diapers on a bed when the baby slipped and fell to the floor and died later as a result of the injuries it received.

Woman Going To Sing Stabbed To Death

BALTIMORE (CP) — A woman on the way to sing in a chorus with the Baltimore symphony orchestra was stabbed to death Wednesday night by a man who attacked her as she was locking her car.

Miss Leonore M. Naylor, 60, a veteran librarian, gasped out her story to police from a hospital bed before she died.

She said she had parked her car three blocks away from the theatre where she was to have sung in the chorus of "Manfred".

A man approached her, said Miss Naylor, and demanded, "money and your keys."

"Don't scream," she quoted the man as saying.

"I didn't, and then he stabbed me. Then I screamed."

She died three hours after the attack.

East German Reds Order Full Membership Purge

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Christian Democratic party, fighting desperately for its life, ordered a complete purge of its entire membership today to weed out all but the staunchest pro-Communists.

The central committee announced that new party books would be issued in exchange for old, a dodge that probably will cost many members their status.

The Socialist Unity (Communist) party kicked 10 per cent of its lukewarm membership out two years ago through the expedient of new party books.

The CDU purge was undertaken to regain some prestige in the eyes of the Russians and the Communist regime. The party sank to a low with the arrest of its deputy chairman, Foreign Minister Georg Dertinger, now branded as a spy for the West.

A resolution by the CDU leadership, headed by chairman Otto Nuschke, disclosed that the ranks are shot through with members who do not agree with all things Communist or Soviet.

Boy 6, Drowns In Scugog As Ice Breaks

LINDSAY— (ENS) — A six-year-old boy drowned Wednesday afternoon while trying to flip a stray piece of orange peel off Scugog River ice into open water.

He was Bernard Blair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Blair, Kent St. E.

A friend who was with Bernard at the time, Paul Russell, told police the two boys were walking home from the east ward school. Both had hockey sticks, but no skates.

FIND THIN ICE

Paul said Leonard spotted a piece of orange peel on the ice near the bank and said he was going to flip it into the water. He slid down the bank onto ice that was thick enough near shore, but too thin farther out to support the lad's weight.

His chum said Bernard slipped off the thinner ice, and fell in. He tried to swim for a minute, then sank out of sight.

Paul ran to the Blair home and told Bernard's mother, who telephoned the police department. Police and firemen organized a search. The body was found three hours later, only a short distance downstream from where the boy fell in.

Bernard is survived by his parents; there are no brothers or sisters.

Escape Disaster By 3 Inches

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — A British Comet jetliner crashlanded at Uganda's Entebbe airport Wednesday and escaped disaster by just three inches.

An African workman on the field was killed when hit by the plane.

The Comet, world's fastest service airliner, screamed in to land on a London-Johannesburg flight and touched down on a cliff-edge 50 yards short of the runway. None of the passengers and crew members was hurt.

Its under-carriage straddled a concrete pillbox on the extreme edge of the cliff. A cross-girder between the wheels scraped the pillbox top.

Then the BOAC plane bounced onto broken ground short of the runway.

Airport men said that if the plane had been three inches lower it would have fallen into a swamp at the cliff base 50 feet below.

Bomb Explosion Kills 11 People On Airfield

BERLIN (AP) — Eyewitnesses reported today that the explosion of a wartime German bomb at a Soviet-zone airfield near Berlin killed at least 11 persons including several Russian soldiers and injured more than 20 others.

The witnesses said the blast occurred Wednesday at the Oranienburg airfield, 20 miles north of Berlin, during an attempt to defuse the bomb.

These sources said the victims included five East German police experts who had been called from Berlin to render the weapon harmless, a number of Soviet soldiers standing nearby and several German workers.

The bomb was said to have been discovered when the landing strip was being repaired.

Brig. Allard To Command Korea Brigade

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the best fighting soldiers French-speaking Canada has produced was named today to be the third commander of Canada's 25th brigade in Korea.

The army said Brig. Jean Victor Allard, a 39-year-old native of Nicolet, Que., who won the Distinguished Service Order three times in the Second World War, will take over the command in April "if operational conditions at that time are favorable to a change."

He will succeed Brig. M. P. (Pat) Bogert, DSO, OBE, 44, of Toronto, who succeeded the original commander, Brig. John Rockingham, CB, DSO, 43, of Vancouver, last spring.

The army said it has not yet been decided what post Brig. Bogert will take next. Brig. Allard has been vice quartermaster-general at army headquarters for the last year. From November, 1945, to February, 1948, he was military attache in Moscow.

LIKES FIGHTING

He is a stocky, blonde soldier with a firm jaw and a reputation for running his battles from well up front where the fighting goes on. He was only 30 when he won his first DSO around Ortona, Italy, in the wild fighting of December, 1943. He was a major then and acting commander of his beloved Royal 22nd Regiment, the celebrated Van Doos who now have a battalion in the brigade he will command in Korea.

He was wounded shortly after and on his return to action in January he was promoted to lieutenant-colonel and given command. Eight months later he won the first bar to the DSO for gallantry and leadership in the battles that followed the initial breakthrough of the Gothic line.

Jury Recommends

CONDUCTED AUTOPSY.

Dr. T. W. L. Broadfoot who conducted the autopsy on the first child said death was caused by "a fractured skull and haemhorrage." Replying to a question by juryman Freg Tuggey, Dr. Broadfoot said it was "possible but highly unlikely a child of less than a year would receive a fractured skull in falling out of bed."

Evidence of the previous inquest were introduced at the inquest into the death of the Windover's second child Wednesday. When he was testifying, Windover told crown attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, he had never been given a mental examination as recommended in the verdict at the previous inquest.

The jury was out an hour and three minutes and Mr. Bradshaw was called in to assist the jury with the wording of the verdict. Coroner Dr. Herbert Young told the jury he agreed with the verdict.

MASS OF FLAMES.

Raymond Guthrie, 21, said he arrived at the scene when "the house was a mass of flames." He said he met Windover at the road and when he learned the baby was in a crib in the bedroom at the rear of the cabin he wanted to go in and rescue the child.

"I could see I could get the crib," said Guthrie but he said Windover told him "it's no use." "I could have reached the crib with any long object," Guthrie said.

Windover testified he met Guthrie at the gate and when Guthrie asked him "do you think I can get her out?" he said, he replied "I said he couldn't get her out because it was all a flaming mass."

Questioned by juryman Fred Tuggey as to whether he prevented Guthrie from rescuing the baby, Windover denied that he told Guthrie not to try. "Why were you not man enough as a father to let him try?" asked Mr. Tuggey.

"It was too hot and you couldn't get close enough," replied Windover.

NEVER A CHANCE OF RESCUE

Joseph Robertson, of Rockcroft, a school bus driver who saw the fire and stopped, was at the scene before Guthrie and he testified "there was never any chance of getting into the house."

Windover said he and Robertson removed what he believed were the remains of the baby from "where it fell through the crib."

The remains, described by OPP corporal Aimy Gaudry as what appeared to be a vertebrae about eight inches long and other charred bones were placed in a wheelbarrow.

PART OF REMAINS DISAPPEAR

Cpl. Gaudry said he saw the remains in a wheelbarrow covered with a tarpaulin when he first arrived about six in the evening. After questioning Windover and his wife, he and OPP constable Jim Healey left. Later they returned and after again questioning the parents individually, they went out to put the remains into a box and found the contents of the wheelbarrow had disappeared, except for "a few parts of bones." These together with other charred remains found in the ruins of the building were taken to Peterborough for identification by district provincial pathologist Dr. C. B. Waite.

Dr. Waite identified the remains as being "those of a child not more than three years old."

Cpl. Gaudry said Windover and his wife could give no explanation as to the disappearance of the remains in the wheelbarrow that night.

DEVIL BURNED HOUSE

Later, while being questioned by an inspector from the fire marshal's office, Windover advanced the theory that "the devil had burned the house and the Lord had taken the body wholly up to heaven!"

When Windover was testifying, Mr. Bradshaw asked him if he believed this was how the remains had disappeared and Windover replied "absolutely." "If the Lord can make us, he can take us," declared Windover, "nothing is impossible with the Almighty."

Mrs. Violet Teneycke of Crawford's Grove said that Windover and his wife lived at her place for a time last February. Mrs. Windover was then expecting the child which died in the fire and Mrs. Tenecyke said that in discussion the first child's death Windover said "the damn thing cried all the time anyway." He spoke of the coming child as if he didn't want it to be born alive," Mrs. Teneycke said.

Windover denied making the statements to Mrs. Teneycke about the first child and said "I thought the world of the child."

Mrs. George Windover, told Mr. Bradshaw that she and her husband had provided milk for the baby out of their old age pension cheques.

MOTHER LIVES NEARBY.

The baby was alone in the two-room cabin when the fire was discovered. Windover and his wife were at the home of Mrs. George Windover, the mother of Windover. His mother's house is only 350 feet away from the cabin where they left the baby in its crib but a knoll in between block the view between the two places, Cpl. Gaudry said.

At first, he said, Windover and his wife claimed they had no idea how the fire started as they said there were only a few live coals in the oil drum stove in the bedroom at the rear of the cabin when they left.

Windover had left the house first, to cut some wood, then went next door to his mother's house to borrow a saw blade. His wife had put the baby in its crib, given it a bottle of milk, then left to borrow some milk from her mother-in-law to make a Christmas cake.

After considerable questioning, Windover changed his story a few days later, Cpl. Gaudry said.

This time Cpl. Gaudry said Windover told him he "swept up some chips threw the chips on the fire and opened the pipe and front draught." This was just after the Windovers returned with th baby from Rockcroft Post Office about 2 p.m. in the afternoon.

After starting the fire Windover said in his second story that he went outside and returned with a large armful of dry, split wood which he put in the stove, then went out to cut wood and had gone to his mother's house to get another saw blade," Constable Guadry testified.

Windover said the second story he gave to police was the correct one. Questioned by Mr. Bradshaw as to why he gave the first version, Windover replied: "I was upset when I gave the first one, naturally anyone would be."

BOTH UPSET

Mrs. Windover, who Cpl. Gaudry said gave the same story as her husband and later changed it agreeing with her husband's second version, told Mr. Bradshaw when he asked the reason for the two stories "we were both so upset we couldn't think straight that night."

Mr. Robertson, the school bus driver, said when he arrived at the cabin, smoke and flames were coming out of the north-east corner of the lean-to at the rear of the building. This was where the child's crib was.

He said he shouted to see if anyone was inside. As soon as Mrs. Windover, returning from her mother-in-law's house, saw the house burning, "she started shouting and yelling 'my baby, my baby'." He said the fire was going too strong to attempt to get inside and rescue the child. He had left to drive into Rockcroft to notify the police and a doctor by the time Raymond Guthrie arrived.

In explaining the different verdicts the jury might bring in, before the jury retired, Dr. Young congratulated the provincial police officers "not only on the thoroughness of the investigation but also on the evidence given in court.

Members of the jury were: P. G. Jameson, 544 Harvey St., foreman; H. S. Strong, 537 Harvey St.; John M. Lowes, 543 Water St.; Norman Henry, 98 Dublin St.; and Fred Tuggey, 599 Waterford St.

Elect Dawson To Executive

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association elected Howard Harper of Goodwood president Wednesday.

Other officers: first vice-president, Wilfred J. Schnelles, Baden; second vice-president, Andrew Johnston, Renfrew; executive members, W. W. Dawson, Peterborough; Harry Strong, Hensall; James A. McBain, St. Thomas.

Farmers Given Production Tips

TORONTO (CP)—Farmers attending the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association were given some tips Wednesday on how to increase production through pasture improvement, conservation and utilization of rough pasture

John A. Stewart, Ailsa Craig district farmer, said most farmers are frightened by the mention of conservation because it called up a mental picture of heavy expenditures.

Aeration and drainage were part of the conservation program, he said. Sufficient amounts of raw organic matter and humus in soil have a moisture holding effect and help to provide proper drainage and aeration. He suggested changing farm fence lines where necessary and for a five-year rotation program dividing the farm into five fields.

W. P. Watson, Ontario livestock commissioner, said more beef could be produced an acre through proper seeding and pasture methods.

"Top officials in Ottawa are concerned" about the saboteur menace, he said, "but their hands are tied."

2,000 Voters Didn't Care Say Defeated Men

COBOURG (ENS) — Most communications which come to the Counties Council sessions to be dealt with are routine matters, mostly dry and very often of no interest.

However, Wednesday the counties clerk read a letter which was both unusual and interesting. Authors were ex-Deputy-Reeve Dale of Bowmanville and ex-Deputy-Reeve H. Skinner of Darlington Township. These two members of last year's Council said at the December session that if they didn't come back they would write. They didn't, so they did.

Messrs. Dale and Skinner informed Council in their letter that they were hereby keeping their election promises. They pointed out that a poll they made of the election poll revealed that 20 per cent. of the electorate favored their return; 25 per cent. were violently opposed to their re-election, and about 2,000 people didn't give a darn about the whole thing and didn't bother voting one way or the other.

It was accordingly moved that the letter be received and—framed.

Arthur Finnie, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, told the Council that the society would be satisfied this year with the current per diem rate for maintenance of $1.16 as the audit showed it to be about a half-cent over the actual cost. However, the unit cost of 59 cents was found to be inadequate by 12 cents of meeting expenses. His report was referred to the finance committee.

Council received several communications from other County Councils recommending that the government ban the importation of vegetable oils for use in dairy substitutes, and these were referred to the agricultural committee. A number of requests for grants, received from various groups, were referred to the finance committee.

A letter from the Ontario Good Roads Association listed the convention date this year and the fee; referred to finance. A similar communication from the Ontario Agricultural Council was referred to finance. The Council of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind wrote Council to ask support of its contention that the means test for applicants for the blind pension be abolished, and that the present pension of $40 be increased to $50; refered to the finance commitee.

A letter from Hamilton Township Council opposed the doubling of the $2.50 tourist-license fee by the government; referred to legislative and bylaws committee.

ASK SUPPORT

Backed by resolutions from Hamilton and Alnwick Townships, the Rice Lake Tourist Association asked Council to support the following recommendations:

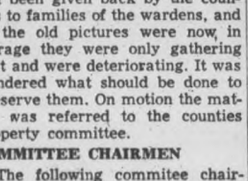
That the limits for fish, measured tip to tip, be: for pickerel, 15 inches; bass, 12, and lunge, 32; and that the opening date be changed from July 1 to June 20, starting this year. A delegation of tourist establishment proprietors will address Council on the matter later in the session. A request from Port Hope Town Council to have work proceeded with in connection with Cavan St. in Port Hope, was referred to the road and bridge committee.

A letter from the Ganaraska River Conservation Authority reported that trees had been cut which were less than the authorized size, and recommended that there should be enforcement of the bylaw; referred to the reforestation committee. Several applications to the county court of revision were received and tabled for later consideration.

It was pointed out that in some cases, pictures of former wardens had been given back by the counties to families of the wardens, and as the old pictures were now in storage they were only gathering dust and were deteriorating. It was wondered what should be done to preserve them. On motion the matter was referred to the counties property committee.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

The following commitee chairmen were appointed:



Finance—Reeve C. Nichols of Hope Township; roads and bridge, Reeve J. Rickard of Newcastle; legislative and bylaws, Reeve J. G. Honey of Cramahe Township; agriculture, Deputy-Reeve G. Rickard of Darlington Township; county property, L. Cole of Brighton Township; equalization committee, Reeve R. W. Nichols of Darlington Township.

A brief run-down on the arrangements to date for the world plowing match to be held here in the fall was given by Ralph Banbury, Northumberland County agricultural representative.

Hear Report On Ship Smoke-Nuisance

By W. R. WHEATLEY

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) — The answer to the question how black is black smoke — the air-pollution stuff that not only makes a mess of clothing and buildings but impairs health—was given today to owners and masters of vessels that ply the international Great Lakes waterways.

Dr. Morris Katz of Ottawa told of scientific studies and gainful results in the Detroit-Windsor area, one of the worst smoke-pollution spots from the head of the lakes to tidewater.

Dr. Katz is chairman of the Canadian section's technical advisory board on air pollution of the international joint commission. His address, dealing with smoke emission from vessels in the Detroit river, was prepared for a joint meeting of the Dominion Marine Association and its American counterpart, the Lake Carriers Association

They pointed out that a poll they made of the election poll revealed that 20 per cent. of the electorate favored their return; 25 per cent. were violently opposed to their re-election, and about 2,000 people didn't give a darn about the whole thing and didn't bother voting one way or the other.

It was accordingly moved that the letter be received and—framed.

Arthur Finnie, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, told the Council that the society would be satisfied this year with the current per diem rate for maintenance of $1.16 as the audit showed it to be about a half-cent over the actual cost. However, the unit cost of 59 cents was found to be inadequate by 12 cents of meeting expenses. His report was referred to the finance committee.

Council received several communications from other County Councils recommending that the government ban the importation of vegetable oils for use in dairy substitutes, and these were referred to the agricultural committee. A number of requests for grants, received from various groups, were referred to the finance committee.

A letter from the Ontario Good Roads Association listed the convention date this year and the fee; referred to finance. A similar communication from the Ontario Agricultural Council was referred to finance. The Council of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind wrote Council to ask support of its contention that the means test for applicants for the blind pension be abolished, and that the present pension of $40 be increased to $50; refered to the finance commitee.

A letter from Hamilton Township Council opposed the doubling of the $2.50 tourist license fee by the government; referred to legislative and bylaws committee.

ASK SUPPORT

Backed by resolutions from Hamilton and Alnwick Townships, the Rice Lake Tourist Association asked Council to support the following recommendations:

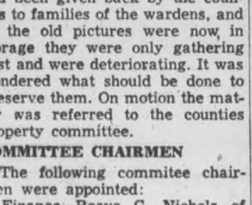
That the limits for fish, measured tip to tip, be: for pickerel, 15 inches; bass, 12, and lunge, 32; and that the opening date be changed from July 1 to June 20, starting this year. A delegation of tourist establishment proprietors will address Council on the matter later in the session. A request from Port Hope Town Council to have work proceeded with in connection with Cavan St. in Port Hope, was referred to the road and bridge committee.

A letter from the Ganaraska River Conservation Authority reported that trees had been cut which were less than the authorized size, and recommended that there should be enforcement of the bylaw; referred to the reforestation committee. Several applications to the county court of revision were received and tabled for later consideration.

It was pointed out that in some cases, pictures of former wardens had been given back by the counties to families of the wardens, and as the old pictures were now in storage they were only gathering dust and were deteriorating. It was wondered what should be done to preserve them. On motion the matter was referred to the counties property committee.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

The following commitee chairmen were appointed:



Finance—Reeve C. Nichols of Hope Township; roads and bridge, Reeve J. Rickard of Newcastle; legislative and bylaws, Reeve J. G. Honey of Cramahe Township; agriculture, Deputy-Reeve G. Rickard of Darlington Township; county property, L. Cole of Brighton Township; equalization committee, Reeve R. W. Nichols of Darlington Township.

A brief run-down on the arrangements to date for the world plowing match to be held here in the fall was given by Ralph Banbury, Northumberland County agricultural representative.

Hear Report On Ship Smoke-Nuisance

By W. R. WHEATLEY

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) — The answer to the question how black is black smoke — the air-pollution stuff that not only makes a mess of clothing and buildings but impairs health—was given today to owners and masters of vessels that ply the international Great Lakes waterways.

Dr. Morris Katz of Ottawa told of scientific studies and gainful results in the Detroit-Windsor area, one of the worst smoke-pollution spots from the head of the lakes to tidewater.

Dr. Katz is chairman of the Canadian section's technical advisory board on air pollution of the international joint commission. His address, dealing with smoke emission from vessels in the Detroit river, was prepared for a joint meeting of the Dominion Marine Association and its American counterpart, the Lake Carriers Association

Mental Health Is Everybody's Problem

It was with satisfaction that this newspaper reported the formation of a Peterborough branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, for we have been stressing the importance of mental health for years. It is one of the great problems of this country, and one which asks for preventive, as well as curative, work. But when we talk of mental health we are using a term which is not widely understood. Ask anyone, "Do you enjoy mental health?" and they will undoubtedly give a strongly affirmative reply. The term needs definition.

* * *

Very broadly, mental health may be described as a comfortable adjustment to the problems of life, and a freedom from nagging and persistent mental tensions. This does not mean freedom from worry, for worry is part of life, and has its constructive aspect. But mental health means freedom from foolish, ill-grounded worry. Mental health does not mean that one is never depressed, never angry and never confused, but it does mean that these conditions are uncommon, rather than chronic. Mental health does not mean that one's opinion on politics, religion or world affairs must be the same as those of one's neighbours, but it does mean that one should be prepared to discuss these matters without anger and a feeling that anyone who disagrees is an enemy and probably subversive. Mental health means that one is reasonably patient, reasonably adaptable, reasonably forbearing in the ordinary circumstances of life.

* * *

The people who do not have good mental health are many, but their trouble is not always spectacular. They are the fretters who take the joy out of life for those around them. They are the people who have too many accidents, great and small. They are the people who "fly off the handle" unexpectedly. They are the people who are always grumbling about the Jews, the Catholics, the Protestants, or simply a mysterious and undefined "They" who are plotting against the peace of the community. They are the people who sacrifice the happiness of others to an exaggerated ideal of household cleanliness, office efficiency, family solidarity, or the like. They are the jealous friends, the domineering parents, the painfully dependent wives, husbands or children.

* * *

The Canadian Mental Health Association is gaining strength in this country, and there is a vast amount of work for it to do. Not all of that work can be done by expert psychiatrists, nor is it desirable that we should all live under psychiatric inspection. But a wider knowledge of the basic principles of mental health among clergymen, teachers, judges and magistrates, and indeed among people in every walk of life, can do much to improve the general mental health of the country. Mental health is simply mental balance; mental balance does not mean mental rigidity or the negation of individual taste. We wish the Peterborough Branch of the CMHA every success, long life and indefatigable industry in its good work.

The Moose Fell Down

Deer are out of season now and so is this topic. We come into the matter because of editorial sympathy which the Port Hope Guide recently had with a Port Hope hunter who, according to his and the Guide's account, accidentally shot a moose. He was hailed before Peterborough's magistrate, and told to pay $102.50 for his offence.

Here is the story. A party of eleven hunters set out on their annual deer hunt. One of the most experienced shot a moose. The Guide editorializes thus: "We say it was accidental because it has been proven conclusively that there was no intention to down anything but deer, the district not being open for moose hunting. In addition, the hunter in question has hunted ever since he was big enough to hold a gun and he knows the laws, so it was purely a case of mistaking the moose for a deer." The hunter dropped the moose with one shot, saw his mistake, dressed it where it lay. The rest of the party called the Game Warden. He arrived, heard the explanation and "was quite satisfied that it was an accident. In fact, he told the party that no charge would be laid but he would have to report it to his superiors."

Well, the superiors in the Department of Games and Fisheries laid a charge. The moral of this episode, the Guide implies, is that if the laws are to be applied so strictly, other hunters will cover up their "pure" accidents, lie their way out of the woods with the moose (or deer shot out of season), and become generally dishonest and law-unabiding.

Our assessment is this. Such an accidental killing should not happen. If it does, the perpetrator of the accident has to pay up—as he has to pay for most accidents. Anyway, a hunter (in this case said to be experienced) who mistakes a moose for a deer is altogether too impulsive with his shots and should have his rashness curbed—by a stiff though not intolerable fine.

The moose was killed illegally, if accidentally. The Game Warden should have been called, as he was. He should make a report, which he did. But it is not his province to decide that a charge will or will not be laid. The law has been broken. There are Crown Attorneys to lay charges. A court is provided to render justice, to the hunter and to the people of the province who have an acute interest in conserving our wild life.

There is altogether too much recourse by hunters to pally suggestion and political influence when game laws are broken, accidentally or by design. And there is, it seems to us, too much variation in Crown presentation of cases against offending hunters, and through the Crown, too much variation in sentences and fines levied. A notable party of Toronto fishermen last fall made a huge illegal haul in the North Bay district. Was the small amount of fines levied commensurate with the guilt?

We do not suggest that crippling penalties be imposed for taking one fish under legal size or killing one deer out of season. We think that the $1,590 fine given a Quebec poacher who killed one deer is a bit harsh. But stiff deterrent penalties, meted out whoever the offender and whoever his friends may be, should curb the illegal destruction of our fish and game. Local poachers living in the fishing and hunting areas should get no kinder treatment, either.

The Toronto Miser

Great interest has been excited by the discovery that a very old man, who died of asphyxiation in Toronto, was worth considerably more than a million dollars, although he lived in conditions of abject poverty. His money was tucked away in all sorts of unexpected places around his house. Some of our contemporaries have been speculating as to why he chose to live in dirt and misery when he could have lived in great comfort.

Well, if we may be cantankerous for a moment, he did live in great comfort—for him. His notion of comfort—of the Good Life—was to have lots of money hidden in old boots and jam-jars; that was what gave him satisfaction and a sense of accomplishment. If he had behaved as most men do, he would have enjoyed some creature comforts, but he would also have had to unbelt large sums in taxes, he would have been a mark for charity collectors, and he would not have had his money where he could easily get at it. He was happy, according to his own standards.

We must accord this old man a certain degree of respect. He managed to be a miser in an age when the government has made miserliness the most difficult of hobbies. He practised thrift—to excess, it is true—in an age when thrift is a discredited virtue. He did not look to the state for maintenance, but to the old boot, the stuffed sock and the jam-jar. He was fiscally conservative, and he was self-sufficient.

Some newspapers have wagged their heads sadly over him because he found no joy in his money except in hoarding it. Well, why not? The hoarding of money is a legitimate pleasure, surely? Most of us would like to hoard some, but we are too weak to collect a heap of it for hoarding. We lack the single-minded, austere quality of spirit which it takes to be a successful miser.

Most of us despise and pity misers because, in our inmost hearts, we envy them. We would be misers too, if we had the strength of will. The Toronto miser, we suspect, died happily, having had many a good gloat over his gold. How many of us ever have a good gloat over anything?

And, incidentally, what were the Toronto police up to, snooping through his house and his hoard, while his son was still alive? Was that part of their rescue work? Had they a search warrant? We think that liberties were taken with this miser's property which would never have been contemplated if he had been that other seeker-after-satisfaction-through-money, a philanthropist.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Isn't it odd that it takes only three squares to make a round man?

In a restaurant in Steubenville, Ohio, $375 was stolen from a scrub-pail. Any restaurant that uses a scrub-pail for a till deserves to be robbed.

In San Francisco a window washer has left $100,000, and the Ottawa Citizen's hired wag remarks that he must have gone to some panes to acquire it.

An Ohio boy set fire to $500 belonging to his mother, who obviously had led him to think that she had money to burn.

Italy In The Med.

By CECIL SPRIGGE

SIGNOR DE GASPERI'S (Italian Premier) brief visit of friendship to Greece sets the seal of oblivion upon some very inglorious episodes of Italian history.

Mussolini's clumsy aggression against Greece a dozen years ago not only disgraced Italian arms in the eyes of the Germans whom it was chiefly intended to impress, but also prepared the way for the palace revolution in Rome by which Mussolini was eliminated. For it was the blame which the Fascist fanatics threw upon General Badoglio, then Chief of Staff, for the utter failure of the winter campaign in the Epirus (Albanian-Greek border area) which almost forced the General into plots against Mussolini. Of all the displeasng memories in Italy's recent experiences, that of the blundering, snail's-pace "blitz" against Greece must be the least palatable to Italian patriots, and even to hard-bitten neo-Fascists.

* * *

MUCH HAS HAPPPENED, however, in the last decade to induce forgetfulness of those not very distant events. In September, 1943, the Germans disarmed their Italian occupation comrades in Greece, following Badoglio's armistice with Eisenhower, and on the island of Cephalonia they shot in cold blood scores of Italian officers who resisted the disarming order. In practice, the Italian soldiery in Greece after that date were refugees from German terror, being befriended by the Greeks, who began to feel that Mussolini's crimes were being expiated.

Signor De Gasperi's visit to Greece has, however, a more detailed political significance than that of an act of final reparation and pacification. Italy is engaged in a tense diplomatic struggle which is imperfectly symbolized by the problem of the city of Trieste. Greece's benevolence is not unimportant to the Italian foreign office at a moment when the Trieste issue has reached a new and sullen deadlock. Even inside Trieste such benevolence might be important, since several very wealthy Greek families have been established for generations in the port and have probably done a great deal to support the Independentist movement there, the growth of which Italy watches with alarm.

* * *

FAR MORE IMPORTANT for Italy is the hope of being able to influence and retain Greece's part in what has sometimes looked, to Italian eyes, like a diabolical Tito-inspired plot to edge Italy out of a position of influence in the Mediterranean which she had been on the point of regaining. In fact, Italy, by entering (rather against British desires, it seems) the Atlantic Pact, staked a moral claim to serve as the "local agent" of American power in the Mediterranean area.

* * *

THE HOPES of Italian publicists, if not the precise plans of the Italian foreign office, went towards a strong American naval predominance in the Mediterranean (putting British influence into the shade), with Italy figuring behind that shield as America's principal land ally. This ambition has been partly compromised by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's recent appointment (as Allied Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean) and by the creation of an Atlantic land and air command at Smyrna (in Turkey) grouping the Greek and Turkish forces. This has meant that the land command which, under the American Admiral Carney (Allied Commander-in-Chief, Southern Europe) at Naples is held by an Italian general, is only one of Carney's military supports.

* * *

BUT WHAT above all, and with an understandably bitter effect in Rome, has compromised the picture of Italian wishes, is that Greece and Turkey, fellow-allies with Italy in the Atlantic pact, have proceeded to develop close politico-military relations with Yugoslavia, with frequent visits of military missions between the three capitals. This joint defence planning between two Atlantic allies and one non-ally (for Yugoslavia remains outside the Pact) has been visibly promoted and encouraged by the United States and other Western Powers, who, in dispensing military aid to Marshal Tito, have desired to see his country reinforced by agreements and joint planning with its neighbours.

* * *

NOTHING, of course, would please these Powers better than to see Italy also in close consultation with them. But here Italy raises a solemn protestation. Italy emphasises her character as an original and full member of the Atlantic alliance who has accepted all the poltical and ideological responsibilities of a Western democracy, and points to the fact that Yugoslavia, a Communist dictatorship, has not accepted these. Between Atlantic Italy and non-Atlantic Yugoslavia, there stands the unsolved problem of Trieste, on which Italy has two things to say: first, that the Western Allies in 1948 promised unreservedly to work for a restoration of the whole territory to Italy; secondly, that Yugoslavia is conducting a highly "un-Western" rule of terror in that part of Trieste which her troops still occupy. It was, for Italian diplomacy, painful to have to watch last summer a long series of Anglo-American visits to Marshal Tito, and the initiation of warm Greco-Turco-Yugoslav exchanges just when the relations of Rome and Belgrade were at the breaking-point.

* * *

PERHAPS all that Signor De Gasperi can do is to remind Greece rather emphatically, though certainly with the most sincere courtesy, that Italy, with a population roughly equal to the combined Greeks, Turks and Yugoslav, is quite close over the water. He has had a recent opportunity to do the same to the Turkish Foreign Minister when the latter visited Rome.

There is also some reason to think that the Greek Premier, Field-Marshal Papagos, was told, in advance of Signor De Gasperi's visit to Athens, how valuable the Western Powers would consider anything that he could do to help Italy and Yugoslavia out of the Trieste deadlock.

Why Damn "Surplus"?

(TORONTO FINANCIAL POST)

A GENERATION ago governments were proud to be able to show a surplus. A government that ran a deficit was very likely to be defeated at the next election. People had the simple idea that if the government showed a surplus — that is to say an honest surplus — it meant that debt was being reduced and a sounded financial position established for the people's government.

With federal estimates coming up in Parliament shortly the words will fly again and to the opposition "surplus" will be a word of damnation. We will hear more of the nonsense that in postwar years Canadians have been over-taxed by over $2 billions. Visions will be conjured up of a smiling arsonist standing on the banks of the Rideau, raking up huge piles of taxpayers' dried and squeezed dollars for the pleasure of touching a match to them.

Few people ask what really happens to a surplus. The country's debt since the war has been reduced by over $2 billions because there has been a surplus every year. Canadians pay $30 millions a year less interest on the national debt than we would if the debt had not been reduced. And that is a lot of money even in this day of $4 billion budgets. Paying off debt is a permanent tax reduction — not for this year or next, but for all time to come.

If a government is to adhere to any sound budgeting ideas, it is obvious that the present prosperous days are the period when the debt should be reduced.

To attack the surplus for its own sake, suggests that in bad times we should borrow money, just break even in good, and never bother to pay it back.

Live in the house but never pay on the mortgage — that is the theory. We don't like it for national housekeeping.

Instead of playing so repetitiously their tune about the surplus opposition parties would serve better if they would devote their efforts to uncovering cases of extravagant spending, wasteful government services, red tape and useless busywork.

It is not over-taxation which is of first importance. It is over-spending. Cut out the latter, and the former takes care of itself.

A General Out Of Step?

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

LIEUTENANT General G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, has written what The Canadian Press says is an "eloquent" message to the army in the current issue of the Canadian Army Journal. We don't know about its eloquence but we do wonder about its wisdom, or at least that portion of it in which the chief of the general staff speaks of "unremitting attacks on the army in recent weeks and months."

There has been criticism of specific things connected with the army, and with reason. There has been little or nothing of "unremittings attacks on the army." Lt. Gen. Simonds is surely mistaken and is surely following a dubious policy if in writing to the Canadian Army Journal he does anything to suggest to the army that it is being attacked. Canadians are loyal to their army and respect it and stand behind it. For the chief of the army to be magnifying specific criticism of certain parts of the army organization to the point of creating an army-versus-the-rest atmosphere of strife is unseemly, to say the least. We suggest Lt. Gen. Simonds had better attend to his main job, which he does so well, and leave public controversy to the responsible politicians.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.

Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.

Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplace of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. (Eph. 6: 10-17.)

PLEBISCITE ON CITY TRUST?

Sir: I noticed in the Examiner of Tuesday that the City Council intended applying to the Ontario Legislature for permisison to dissolve the City Trust Commission. The council may have very good reason for this action but should not the ratepayers be advised? The City Trust down through the years has served Peterborough well and has saved the ratepayers thousands of dollars. Getting rid of a financial set-up which has proved so valuable to the ratepayers should not be the responsibility of ten aldermen and the mayor, the question should be submitted to the ratepayers in a plebiscite.

Smoke Control Progress

(Windsor Star)

The report of Chief Inspector R. E. Nicholls on progress made last year under Windsor's air pollution control department is encouraging. Conversion of equipment in various public enterprises, to reduce the smoke and ash nuisance, involved an expenditure of $500,000. Total outlay in this regard, during the past four years, has been $1,500,000.

Dieselization of trains and car ferries has been a conspicuous part of this important campaign against air pollution.

The results achieved to date warrant continuation of this smoke-abatement program. They already are apparent even to the casual observer, particularly in the areas where the smoke nuisance previously had been worst.

Ken Watson's Curling

SLIDING RIDER

Thousands of younger curlers are flocking to the game today with misguided enthusiasm for the sliding delivery. But in trying to manipulate a heavy granite stone on slippery ice, the young curlers develop many peculiar methods of delivering a rock. Too many, fascinated by watching the long sliding delivery, either fail to understand the proper mechanics or concern themselves only with sliding, which is the one thing they are interested in. They fail miserably to understand that the true slide is the result of a properly executed swing. It is not the cause, because in effect the slide takes place after the stone is delivered.

The sliding rider uses a powerful leg drive to jet-propel himself out of the hack, then sets the stone down under his body and rides it out to the point where his body momentum is slowed down, then he delivers with a forward motion of his right arm.

A glance at the illustration shows a player riding the stone. He has not made the delivery motion yet, even though he is well out in front of the hack. The rule states: "The stone must be delivered from the hack." It is no wonder that older curlers object to this type of delivery. Not only does it lack gracefulness and rhythm, but it gets players into the habit of pushing the stone at the end of the ride and "pushers" do not hit the broom often enough. Take a good look at yourself next game and if you resemble the riding slider shown above, learn how to deliver a rock properly if you have any dreams about being an above-average curler.

Saturday: No Riders Please.

Dean, Simmons Elected To Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Dizzy Dean, the last major leaguer to win 30 games, and Al Simmons, a 20-year-man with a .334 lifetime batting average, are the 1953 additions to baseball's Hall of Fame.

Once again Bill Terry, former New York Giants' manager-first baseman, just missed election by the 10-year veterans of the Baseball Writers Association. Memphis Bill lost out by seven votes.

Joe DiMaggio, believed a sure thing to make the grade in his first year of eligibility, didn't even come close. The retired Yankee clipper finished eighth, short 81 votes.

The veteran writers keep the Cooperstown, N.Y., club exclusive. With a total of 264 writers voting, it takes 75 per cent—or 198—to gain the Hall of Fame. On four different years, no one made it.

MEMBERSHIP OF 64

Election of Dean and Simmons raises the membership to 64, of whom 27 have been picked by the writers. A special committee, headed by Clark Griffith, Washington owner, selects the oldtimers not active in the last 25 years.

Dean drew an impressive 209 votes, moving past Terry whom he trailed in last year's voting. Simmons, also behind Terry in 1952, scraped home by one vote with a total of 199.

"It's pretty doggone nice for an ole Arkansas cotton picker to be up there with those boys," Dean drawled when he heard the news. Simmons, reached at Hialeah race track, chuckled that "it's my lucky day—I just had three straight winners in the races."

The colorful Dean, a radio and television personality since arm trouble forced him out of baseball, was a six-year star with St. Louis Cardinals. In 1934 he had a 30-7 record for the Cards with Diz and his brother, Paul, practically pitching St. Louis to a pennant and the world championship.

SOLD IN 1938

Sold to Chicago Cubs for $185,000 in 1938, he tried to get by on "soft stuff" and did fool them for awhile. He finally dropped out in 1941, making a one-day comeback from the radio booth to pitch the last game of the 1947 season for St. Louis Browns.

A powerful righthanded hitter whose real name is Aloysius Szymanski, Simmons won batting championships with .381 in 1930 and .390 in 1931 with Philadelphia Athletics. In 1927 he finished second to Harry Heilmann with .392. Heilmann was voted into the Hall of Fame last year a few months after his death. Paul Waner was the other new member last year.

WESTERN BOUNCE — Winning the Western Interprovincial Football Union title can mean a lost job for coaches. Since Calgary Stampeders upset the football world with a 12-7 Grey Cup victory over Ottawa Rough Riders in 1948, four Western title-winning coaches have been given the bounce. The latest is Frank Filchock, whose Edmonton Eskimos lost to Toronto Argonauts in the 1952 Canadian final. In 1951, when Saskatoon Roughriders lost in the Cup final to Ottawa, coach Harry Smith got the heave-ho. In 1950, Butch Larson coached Winnipeg Blue Bombers to the Western title, then lost to Argonauts and was sent kicking. Coach Les Lear of the Stampeders coached Calgary to the 1948 Grey Cup championship and rode the Calgary range until this year.

Marmora Falls To The C's In Speedy Fray

CAMPBELLFORD —(ENS) — About 1,000 hockey fans saw one of the fastest games of the current season on Wednesday evening, when Campbellford defeated Marmora by a 7 to 3 score in a TVL encounter.

Garver Given Tiger Contract

DETROIT (AP) — Ned Garver, if his arm is good, will get a chance to earn the same estimated $25,000 he was paid last year.

Detroit Tigers announced Wednesday that Garver had signed a 1953 contract. But general manager Charlie Gehringer disclosed it was a provisional contract.

"It called for him to take a cut in salary until we discover if his pitching arm has recovered," said Gehringer.

"If he can prove to us by the end of spring training that he can pitch, we will tear up this contract and give him a new one calling for the same pay he received last season."

Garver, who won 20 games for the last-place St. Louis Browns in 1951, was reported getting $25,000 in 1952 when he was traded to Detroit. The tigers continued his same pay.

But after pitching and winning one game soon after the swap, Garver sat out the rest of the season with a sore arm.

Clair Gets New Contract

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Frank Clair of Toronto Argonauts of the Interprovincial Football Union was given a new contract Wednesday night calling for a full-time job and a raise in salary. The move was approved at a directors' meeting and the contract will be presented for Clair's approval within a few days.

Influenza Confines Weary Pope To Bed

VATICAN CITY (AP)—An attack of influenza and fever confined the Pope to bed today. All his audiences were suspended temporarily.

The Vatican press office reported that the 77-year-old Pontiff's temperature was about 100 degrees.

He did not celebrate mass in the private chapel of his Vatican apartment this morning as he ordinarily does. His doctor visited him early today.

The Pope appeared tired last week at the consistories creating 24 new cardinals including Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, but through the week held many audiences.

TVL Teams Meeting To Protest Norwood

A meeting of northern division TVL hockey officials will be held tonight in Marmora in an attempt to clarify the player situation at Norwood. The threat has been made that if the Norwood club does not abide by rules on player imports, Marmora, Havelock, Lakefield and Campbellford will withdraw from the league. Stirling may also. There has been some complaint, too, of player imports with the Hastings team.

Lakefield has protested its loss Wednesday to Norwood on the ground that the latter team used Bob Thorpe who has not obtained his amateur card yet and has been refused permission to play amateur. Lakefield has a letter to this effect from NHL headquarters, stating that Ed Shore refused to waive on Thorpe, and this player therefore cannot play for anyone but Shore.

SUSPENSIONS TO STAND

TORONTO (CP)—The life suspensions against 10 jockeys and one trainer following the fixed race scandal on Ontario tracks in 1951 will not be rescinded this year, the Ontario racing commission announced in its third annual report released Wednesday.

The scandal was uncovered during the meeting at Fort Erie. Ruled off for life were riders Bobby Keane, Robert Wankmueller, Phil Marchese, George Thompson, Charlie Bright, John Bromby, Robert Atkin, Howard Hartley, Robert Merchant and Gordon Cox.

Trainer Todd Sharrar of Hamilton was suspended for life when his horse Hemjohn was pulled at Fort Erie. Keane was riding the horse, a hot favorite. The investigation revealed both Sharrard and Keane took money to have the horse lose.

FAT PAY FOR ROBERTS

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies came to terms with pitching ace Robin Roberts Wednesday at a pay cheque reported to be nearly $40,000. Owner Bob Carpenter announced the agreement and received the signed contract of Roberts, the National League's leading pitcher in 1952, and southpaw Curt Simmons, the Phillies' top lefty. Simmons previously had agreed to terms reported to be about $16,000.

GIANTS SIGN THREE

NEW YORK (AP)—Three more signed contracts were received at the New York Giants' office Wednesday to swell the number of Giants in the fold to 11. The latest signed are pitchers Max Lanier and George Spencer and third baseman Hank Thompson. It was believed that Thompson received a raise while the two pitchers took slight cuts.

FEW UNBEATEN TROTTERS

COLUMBUS, O., (A)—The United States Trotting Association said Wednesday only two horses went undefeated after engaging in 10 or more races in 1952. Nancy Song was untied or unscored upon in all of her 17 starts, it is said. Eastern Shore achieved the same distinction in each of his 16 races. Nancy Song is a four-year-old mare. Eastern Shore is a two-year old son of Volomite.

A Hard First Period Drive Gives Orillia The Win Over Petes In Hot Tussle

ORILLIA (Special)—Striking hard and early before 1,400 fans here last night, Orillia Pontiacs went on to take an 8-3 OHA senior "B" victory over the Petes. They led 3-0 in the first frame, were outscored 1-0 in the second but cashed in on Peterborough penalties as play roughened in the third for a 5-2 margin on play. The same squads clash, back in Peterborough on Friday of this week. The win hoisted Orillia up into fourth place in the standing with 19 points, one more than Kingston, and just a point back of the third-place Belleville bunch. Orillia also are only two points behind Stouffville, in second slot, but well back of the leading Oshawa Truckers, who have 28 points. The Petes have 14 at present.

TWO APIECE

Scoring honors Wednesday were shared by Murray Richardson of Orillia and Keith Montgomery of Peterborough with two smart goals each. The rest of the markers were pretty well spread around. Only brilliant net-work by Goalie Reeding kept the scrappy Petes from making it much closer in the speedy struggle. It got rough in the third with Armstrong downed once and Leonard cut, as both sides laid it on. The homesters cashed in better when their rivals were shorthanded, due to penalties. The Petes played with but two lines and one extra forward, besides being shy a defenceman this game.

It was one of the better senior puck battles seen here so far this season with the score not a good indication of the play. But for a quick start in the first by Orillia and their opportunism in the rugged third canto, the game would have been a great deal closer, and possibly even ended in a victory for the hustling Petes. Both sides stepped fast throughout, and bumped hard, especially in the third. Teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Leonard and Wasson; centre, Hill; wings, Crowley and Montgomery; alternates, Fryia, Greenlaw, Collins, Floyd and Armstrong.

Orillia: Goal, Reeding; defence, Pearsall and Favero; centre, Richardson; wings, Bowen and McCrone; alternates, Davidson, Marshall, Aitken, Macdonald, Payne, Kelley and Stoddart.

Referee—J. Botting; linesman, T. McNeil.

Summary:

First Period

Orillia—Favero 4:00
Orillia—McCrone (Favero) 7:10
Orillia—Pearsall 16:01
Penalties—Davidson, Crowley, Stoddart.

Red Mask Pins The Chief In Main Pro Grapple Bout

A mean type of pro grappler, called the Red Mask, won the main bout at the Brock last night over Chief Big Heart in seven minutes of the final round. The popular Indian had been war-whooping it up and slamming the villain seven ways for Sunday, when the Mask got in a knee to the Chief's back to throw him off his stride. As Big Heart's shoulders hit the mat, Referee Sam Gotter gave him a rather rapid one-two-three count and hoisted the Mask's hand as a token of victory. The infuriated Indian argued hotly as he looked the winner all the way, but the ref's decision stood and the disgruntled fans wended their ways homeward.

WHOOPED IT UP

The limping Indian whooped it up and slammed his rough opponent around to take the second fall in six minutes. Earlier the imitation "Scarlet Pimpernel" began to work on the Chief's sore leg once more and was getting away with a lot before Big Heart opened it up and tore into him. The Chief used a drop-kick once to lift his rival right over the ropes, and he followed that up with pile-drivers and slams to flatten the red-hooded one in a hurry to the cheers of the customers.

It took just 14 minutes for the Mask to win the first fall with his upside-down stepover toehold, the Chief conceding it in agony. Showing a barrel of illegal stuff, the powerful masked one softened the Indian up for several long minutes with knees, feet and eye-rasps along the ropes. He got away with plenty as the referee missed a lot, and took too much time in warnings before starting his count. Only for a brief flash in this round did the Chief have the edge.

GOES TO DRAW

Durable Earl McCready and tough Joe Christie fought it out to a time-limit draw in the semi-final, though Christie was writhing in a hard body scissors at the gong. Before that, Earl had him squirming in a wicked armlock. However, the rough Christie got in plenty of lumps on McCready and wasn't loathe in using his fists. Earl drove him over the ropes early with a hard smash to the kisser, and both used fists frequently as Gotter's warning arm and counter worked harder than a pump handle at harvest time. Joe used the ropes to escape punishment at times when McCready drove in angrily to retaliate in the hot going. The fans were all for big Earl.

George Scott took the prelim in 23 minutes when he caught Ray Clarke coming in off the ropes in a tackle, tossed him over his head and then slammed him solidly to the mat for the fall. It was clean at first with some good matwork shown. Scott caught his rival with a stepover leglock but Clarke wriggled out of it shortly. They mixed it harder after a spell, taking to the air as the fans whooped gleefully at the action, and honors were about even. There was a series of flying tackles off the hemp, and some drop kicks before Clarke was caught coming in, and that was that.

Hoop Mark Set By Galvin With 39 Points

St. Peter's High senior basketball star, Doug Galvin, lived up to last year's prediction that he was "a potential star", Wednesday night when he set an individual basketball scoring record for Peterborough. Galvin has shown promise in league games in senior play this year but he completely performed a one-man show against Port Perry High, sinking 39 points. St. Peter's just the same were extended by the Port quintet before winning 85-77.

Meanwhile, Wednesday two new COSSA leagues opened the 1953 season. Kenner Collegiate's junior "B" cagers were overpowered by St. Peter's High juniors 43-21. But later Kenner bantams revenged the junior's loss by whipping the Saints' bantams 54-15.

Galvin's 39-point total sent basketball coaches and record holders to the books. But apparently no definite record has been kept of individual scoring. They all did agree though that 39 was a record.

HIGHEST YET.

No one could recall any score more than 33 by a player in any game. That 33-total was by the Marines' Ted Payne last season when they swamped Port Hope for an all-time record. Former PCVS stars, Don Griffin and Al Northcott, were high scorers but not that high.

Galvin varied his scoring plays using hook, one-hand push, layups and other shots to send his score soaring up. Even then he passed many times when he could have scored.

He started his spree in the opening minutes and didn't let up. With Fred Legros sinking 11 points and Galvin dropping in 22, the Saints took a 46-35 score at the half.

Btu he slowed down in the second half, only scoring an average game's total of 17. Ryan, Legros and Richardson added points for another half total of 39. Haugen, who was over-shadowed only by Galvin's brilliant play, rallied the Ports in the second half, but they couldn't overcome the margin built by the Saints in the first.

EARN A LEAD.

Earlier in the day at Kenner Collegiate the junior Saints open with Jack Cullis' Kenner juniors with a 43-21 win. The Saints will carry a 22-point lead into the second game. The winner, quite likely the Saints, will play the winner of the Whitby, Uxbridge and Port Hope series for lakeshore district honors.

Here again it took one player to rack up the lengthy margin. For the Saints held only a 6-5 score in the first quarter and 17-11 at the half. Then Dave Quinlan hit the hoop consistently in the second half, especially in the fourth quarter, for the 22-point spread.

During the first quarter Quinlan, a jump shot specialist, also working in a one-hand push shot was checked to four points. But he wasn't watched too closely during the next half and went his merry way, finally totalling 20 for the game.

A STRONG CLUB.

Norm Erskine's bantams left no doubt in basketball fans' minds that the lakeshore bantam title will likely go to Kenner Collegiate this year. Passing, dribbling and shooting well, the Kenner kids completely over-powered the in-experienced Saints' bantams while winning 54-15.

The fans from both schools agreed that the Kenner Kids is one of the strongest bantam teams in recent years in the Peterborough district. They have been well-drilled by coach Norm Erskine.

Just how effective the Kids' passing and shooting was during the game was shown in the first half. Then every member of the team but one took part in the scoring as they took a 29-11 halftime score.

The story was pretty well the same in the second half, only Bob Hollingsworth took over as the main scorer, working in close under the basket for layups. His team-mates checked and rebounded the Saints to a standstill.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Now we won't like to be a wet blanket but nevertheless must advise folks in general and sports followers in particular that they're in for a bad summer. As far as weather is concerned. Better take your vacation no later than June, as that month's probs are pretty fair. A glance at the annual Chase Almanac indicates July and August will be rather nasty. Here's the July predictions for three or four days at a stretch: "Scattered thunderstorms," "wild squalls," "stormy and wet," "fair and warmer," "cool winds," "scattered showers," clearing and cooler," and "windy with coastal squalls." August is pretty well dotted with "thunderstorms," "wet and fogs," "cool winds," "blustery squalls," and "severe storms." Don't say the doc didn't warn you.

* * * * * *

Comes a spring and summer catalogue, and we note the price of sports equipment isn't dropping any. It's $3.25 for an official National League baseball. Big league bats range up from $2.50. Good ball gloves go from $14 to $25 with catchers' mitts up to $35. Masks around $15 to $20, and so on with other requirements. Not much less for softball equipment, either. Better tennis racquets are more than $20. Golf clubs are all prices, except low. Set of six irons is listed at $81 and a set of four woods goes for $78. A rubber-covered soccer ball sells for $19.50 and a football is listed at $16.50. Just to remind fans that clubs' equipment comes high.

Two Important Games.

Senior "B" puck Petes jaunted up to Orillia last e'en for an important fixture. They have Orillia here Friday in what may be another bruising battle. What the strengthened Petes can do against this tough team twice this week may well be the handwriting for 'em as far as group playoffs are concerned. Following Orillia's 11-4 win o'er a good Belleville bunch last week, the Quinte columnist wryly remarks: "Right now the hottest team in the senior group, Orillia definitely demonstrated Saturday that their last four victories have been no flashes in the pan. The shock troops reported out of Camp Borden, which bolstered the slipping Ponts three weeks ago, have proved themselves a potent factor in the team's drive for top division recognition."

* * * * * *

Certainly the northerners didn't give the Petes a chance to get warmed up last eve in Orillia but struck fast and hard for a 3-0 early lead. It was pretty even the rest of the way, though the O's cashed in better on Petes' penalties late in the tilt and wound up with an 8-3 victory. It should have been much closer on the play, and the Ellis squad feel they can reverse proceedings here Friday and outbump and outscore their husky opponents. Fans must feel that way, too, as the club has had its best advance sale of tickets so far this semester. It won't be any pink tea party, that's for sure —and the locals have to win some more games in a hurry to grab a playoff spot. Leading group scorers (as compiled in Oshawa) are listed elsewhere.

Lindsay Rolls To A Win.

Lindsay rolled at Civic last night to rack up a 5-2 junior "B" victory 'gainst our Oddfellows and tighten the race plenty. Same night saw Belleville take a 4-3 win o'er Oshawa, and Kingston trim Cobourg 12-3 in two four-point games, so that leaves the Hawklets away up there with 36 points. Kingston now have 27 with the Oddfellows in third position with 22 points, just two ahead of the Lindsay lads, whom they meet Friday on Scugog ice. Oshawa is back a bit with 13 and Cobourg has the cellar with two from an early-season win in Lindsay. Doris and Coyle got the local markers last p.m., an assist each going to Corbett, Gardner and Wilson. Whole Lindsay team played sound hockey and they had great goaltending from Reg Truax. The Mortimer team was shy Frizzelle, Kearns and Byrne, who were making application to the OMHA for releases to play junior hockey. A decision in this respect is expected to be announced shortly. By the way, Al Watkins (local OMHA member) points out that he only twice apepared in the rink here to coach Marines when Bert Hill was unable to be on hand, and Al is permitted by the rules to coach full time if he wishes and still remain on the executive.

The Scarlet Pimpernel of fiction was a tricky character but generally well-liked by all but the Frenchies, whereas the Red Mask was so full of mean tricks here last eve that 'tis doubtful if his own mother likes him. Anyway, he drew no cheers at the Brock from mat fans when he won the last fall o'er Chief Big Heart in the main pro bout. Nor did Ref Sammy Gotter, who got tired counting out warnings all evening and pulled a fast count on the Indian. Tch, tch, such goings-on. Joe Christie and Earl McCready drew in the lively semi-final bout, while the prelim saw George Scott down Ray Clarke. They expect Yukon Eric here next week.

Lindsay Juniors Victors Over The Oddfellows To Tangle Up Group Race

Lindsay Kinsmen crept closer on the heels of Doug Mortimer's second-place Oddfellows Wednesday evening at Civic Arena, by defeating the fast, young, red-white-and-blue squad 5-2, in a clean, fast junior hockey duel before a fair crowd of fans. Under acting-coach Red Mitchell, the Scugog boys played a good aggressive two-way game, to hold the hard-driving Links fairly well in check in the first two periods of play; and rattled home three tallies in the third frame, against a single by the homesters, to earn a fairly convincing win. Goalie Reggie Truax, youthful prodigy of the twine, proved a continual stumbling block in the path of home sharpshooters, and earned the plaudits of an appreciative audience for a magnificent display throughout. He proved the outstanding figure on the ice, for the winners.

MISSED THREE

Oddfellows iced a revamped squad due to the temporary absence of players Jerry Frizzelle and Murray Byrne, sparkling former juvenile defence stars; and Gary Kearns, diminutive all-round athlete and centre ace. The boys were attending a meeting to decide their status in the controversy arising out of their departure from the Marine juves to play junior hockey.

Play opened at a lively clip in a scrappy but clean first period with neither squad able to hit the mesh, despite some fine chances close in, particularly for Oddfellows; with Bob Delahaye and Truax very sharp indeed. With slightly over one minute of play remaining, however, the Corbett line, with Paul Doris and Bob Gardner flanking tall Jack, another Marine product, staged a great drive after several heartbreaking thrusts; and as Gardner smote a whistler off the thorax of Truax, Doris whipped in the rebound from near the left crease with lightning speed.

Joy turned to gloom however, as with but five seconds of play left, Murray Packer broke in the clear with Art Truax; the two rocketed in and the former slithered an ice-cutter past Delahaye to equalize the count.

LINDSAY SCORES

In the mid-session Kinsmen scored the only marker early in the play with Floyd in the cooler. Connie O'Neil sped down with forwards Packer and Art Truax; and as the Kin defence star relayed to Truax, who fired close, Parker smacked in the rebound.

The final stanza showed a completely rejuvenated Oddfellow team speeding both ways and much of the play belonged strictly to the men of Mortimer. Fickle Fortune smiled spitefully on the youthful warriors when shots meant goals unfortunately, and Truax turned aside all but one and this from the stick of speedy Gord Coyle. Delahaye too, shone but two late tallies spoiled an extremely close duel—one a side-drive off the back of the pads for a freaky by Hal Williams.

Jack Graham close on Bob Gibson's rebound opened, then Coyle from Wilson—who took away a shirt for his night's toil—seconds later, made it a ding-dong battle. Williams' lucky one at the three-quarter mark finally gave Kin the needed insurance and the Teel brothers added the extra one near the finish with Garf the potter on a terrific 25-footer.

Don Best Skips Brampton To CPC Trophy

Don Best—son of the veteran Ray Best and Mrs. Best, who began his curling right in this Charlotte Street Curling Rink, and who skipped the Peterborough junior boys years ago to win the Ontario junior boys' championship, and who also skipped an Ontario rink in the now famous Macdonald Brier competition—piloted his Brampton rink to win top honors at the Canada Packers annual bonspiel held all day Wednesday at the local curling club.

Another veteran, Bill Langdon of Lindsay, came a close second, and Fred Stenson's local rink was the third three-game winner.

With a complete entry of 28 rinks from clubs all around the district, the Canada Packers open bonspiel went over in big style—and this was brought about through the close co-operation of the Canada Packers Co. and the Peterborough Curling Club. The support given our club by the manager of the Packers Co., Lionel Browne, is greatly appreciated.

All rinks played the usual three 10-end games, and were witnessed by a large crowd all day.

At the presentation of prizes, Mr. Browne thanked the curlers for coming to the bonspiel, and also thanked the Peterborough Curling Club for their co-operation. He said these two things were greatly appreciated by his company.

The bonspiel was well conducted by Fred Stenson and his committee, and was all over around midnight.

The ladies came in for their share of the honors—they did a fine job of looking after the "inner man."

The next stage of the bonspiel is set for this Saturday, and the entry list is closed with 28 different rinks.

All prize-winners received Canada Packers products.

The winners:

Bampton—First, 3-game winner — M. Magwood, L. Smithers, B. McClure, Don Best, skip.

Lindsay—Second, 3-game winner — L. Langdon, W. Moynes, B. Everson, W. Langdon, skip.

Peterborough—Third, 3-game winner—E. Bickle, G. McGavin, R. Payne, F. Stenson, skip.

Peterborough—Second 2-game winner—J. Lee, M. Columbia, W. Moulton, A. Ingram, skip.

Peterborough—First, 1-game winner —J. Huddart, W. Hamilton, W. Morhead, H. Green, skip.

Geoffrion Eases In Puck To Edge Leafs 1-0; Habitants In 2nd Place

By ART BRYDON; Canadian Press Staff Writer

Tough, but oh so gentle, is Bernie Boom Boom Geoffrion. The burly forward with Montreal Canadiens used just a neat little flick of his stick Wednesday night to blank the Maple Leafs 1-0 in Toronto in the only National Hockey League action of the night. With less than three minutes gone in in the first period, Doug Harvey shot the puck to Bert Olmstead during a scramble in front of the Toronto goal. Olmstead steered the rubber through his legs to Geoffrion, waiting nonchalantly beside the net, and the big boy just flicked it in.

From there on, everybody checked and nobody scored.

The win settled the Habitants firmly in second place, three points behind Detroit Red Wings and four ahead of Chicago Black Hawks. Toronto stayed in fourth spot.

18TH GOAL

The goal was Geoffrion's 18th this season. He rapped in 30 a year ago when he won the rookie award.

Tonight, New York Rangers, who have been resting in Guelph, Ont., since last Sunday night, play in Detroit, Toronto takes on the Canadiens again, this time in Montreal, and Chicago plays the Bruins in Boston.

New York goalie Chuck Rayner, still on the limp with a knee injury, won't play in Detroit tonight. He's taking treatment from a Hamilton specialist and working out with Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. Lorne (Gump) Worsley, up from Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League, will fill in again.

ADAMS STILL ANGRY

Meanwhile, Jack Adams, Detroit manager, continues to smoulder over the feud stirred up when coach Dick Irvin of Montreal charged that Adams entered the officials' dressing room during a Canadiens-Red Wings encounter in Detroit last Sunday. Such action is a violation of league rules.

Adams bounced back with the charge that Maurice (Rocket) Richard deliberately injured Red Wings players during the teams' two-game series last week-end. Richard denied the charge but said: "I hate the Detroit club. I just got mad and took a run at everybody."

The New York-Detroit game tonight will see another graduate of Guelph Biltmores, last year's Memorial Cup champions, up with the parent club. Aldo Guidolin, a Guelph boy, apparently has performed well enough to please Rangers' manager, Frank Boucher.

Hornets Trip Hershey 4-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pittsburgh Hornets moved into first place in the American Hockey League by defeating Hershey Bears 4-2 Wednesday night.

Tempers flared hot in the first period and precipitated a free-for-all fight that sent five players to the penalty box, four with major penalties. Police helped restore order.

Twice the Bears tied the count but were nosed out when Bobby Solinger scored twice in the final period.

Danny Lewicki and Andy Barbe fired the other goals for the Hornets. Dunc Fisher and Orie O'Brien notched the markers for the Bears.

Knock Ontario Teams From Curling Tourney

MONTREAL (C)—Four Quebec province teams survived third-round play Wednesday in the Ladies' Curling Association of the Royal Caledonian Club's tournament for the Coronation Trophy.

Two teams from Royal Montreal and one each from Ormstown and Quebec City remain in the competition. All Ontario teams have been knocked out.

Miss C. Wilson's Ottawa Rideau rink lost to Mrs. A. McMahon's Ormstown four 18-11 while Mrs. T Riddell's Royal Montreal team defeated Mrs. G. Billings' Aberdeen, Ont., four, 15-9.

In consolation play for the Balmoral Trophy, Mrs. Goyette, Sherbrooke, Que., defeated Mrs. C. McGarvie, Cornwall, 15-5.

Seixas, 3 Aussies Gain Semi-Finals

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Vic Seixas of the United States and three Australians gained the semi-finals of the South Australian tennis championships Wednesday but the newly-crowned Australian champion, Ken Rosewall, failed to make the grade.

The 18-year-old Rosewall, winner of his country's top prize last week, saw his game go stale against fellow Australian Rex Hartwig as he bowed 6-1, 4-6, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6.

Seixas, captain of the United States Davis Cup forces, easily swept past Australia's Don Candy, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4, to join Hartwig, Mervyn Rose and young Lewis Hoad in the round of four.

Rose eliminated Straight Clark of Los Angeles 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. Hoad trounced Italy's Fausto Gardini 6-3, 8-6, 8-6.

2 Galt Rinks Defeat Guelph In Playoffs

GALT (C)—Galt rinks skipped by Carroll McCune and Robert Carson advanced another step toward the Governor-General's Trophy Wednesday when they defeated Guelph 29-11 in the final of group 11 playoffs.

In the opening round Kitchener's A. Wilson and R. Tolmie combined to trounce Woodstock's Dr. Watt and John Coad 32-15. The Galt rinks knocked out C. Davis and Dr. Howard Cauldfield of Ayr 44-29. The Kitchener pair then was defeated by Gib McIntyre and C Palmer of Guelph 30-21.

In the final round Guelph's McIntyre and Galt's McCune rinks battled to a 13-13 tie but R. Carson's quartet outshot C. Palmer's Guelph side 16-8 to win.

The Galt rinks now move into Guelph Feb. 28 for another series and the winner of that competition will go to Toronto for the finals of the Governor-General's Trophy.

Guelph Downs Greenshirts 5-1 Despite Handicap

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Alf Pike of Guelph Biltmores may have been too quick on the draw with his crying towel.

After an unprecedented injury streak which cost him two of his three best scorers in Ron Murphy and Bill McCreary, things looked bleak for the Bilts as they staged an uphill battle for a playoff spot. They are in seventh place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

But Wednesday night the surprising Biltmores moved to within four points of the coveted playoff spot now held by Oshawa Generals as they downed the last-place Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 5-1.

A battered and worn crew from Three Rivers, Que., finished their interlocking tour of Ontario with another loss, their fifth in a row to Ontario teams. Barrie Flyers pounded 50 shots at Claude Roy in the Three Rivers net to take a 7-0 victory.

ONLY 12 SHOTS

In giving Bill Harrington his fifth shutout since joining Barrie from Kitchener, the Flyers allowed the Reds only 12 shots on goal.

George Whyte, Chuck Henderson, Jim Connelly, Billy Graham and Chick Chalmers gave Guelph a goal each. Ken Collins notched the only counter for Kitchener.

Orv Tessier and Doug Mohns scored two each in the Barrie victory. Others were tallied by Jim Palmer of Guelph 30-21. Bob White.

Pictures Of Former Greats Reposing In Kingston Awaiting For Hall Of Fame

By JIM BASTABLE

KINGSTON (CP) —Tucked in the bedroom of a home here is one of the most impressive picture collections of hockey greats the game has known. It tells part of the story of the 42 men named to the international hockey Hall of Fame since it was created Sept. 10, 1943. It goes back to the days of the 60-minute men who stick-handled and bodychecked to greatness—the era of seven-man hockey. The game's founders and builders are there too. But in reality the Hall doesn't exist. It has been only a name since 83-year-old James Sutherland founded it as a shrine to those who helped make hockey Canada's national winter sport.

NOT ONLY PLAYERS

Eligibility isn't confined to greatness on ice. Members include greats who never played in the big time and others who have never laced on a pair of skates.

(This is the second in a series of three stories on Kingston's Hockey Hall of Fame.)

The pictures are packed in big Jim's antique-filled home in central downtown Kingston, a few blocks from the proposed Hall site. There, too, is the Hall's honor roll book. By thumbing through its pages you can see who made hockey tick down through the generations.

In it, inscribed in illuminated type, are such names as:

Eddie Shore, the bow-legged ex-cowboy and one of the greatest rushing defencemen in the game and Dit Clapper of Boston Bruins, the only man to play 20 straight years in the National Hockey League.

Who can forget Aurel Joliat of the '30s, the fightingest 135-pound mite on skates, a gem with his black cap bobbing up and down as he patrolled the left boards with Montreal Canadiens. . . Frank Nighbor, the "Pembroke Peach," one of the greatest defensive centres of all time. . . Newsy Lalonde, whose name is almost legendary.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

But organized hockey apparently is doing little about the Hall. In 1943 the NHL and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association approved a site and promised contributions.

Grass is growing on the ground for the site and the Hall's $65,000 bank account is a far cry from the $150,000 needed to build the memorial. Although the CAHA gave the $10,000 it promised, the NHL donated only $7,500 of the $30,000 it pledged. The rest of the money came from various other sources.

Big Jim, in the first three listed in the Hall's honor roll, was a member of what was believed to be the first organized team in Canadian hockey history—the Kingston Athletics of 1885.

The late John Ross Robertson, Amateur Hockey Association and one of the organizers of the Hall, is another. He was the founder of the Toronto Telegram and died in 1918. Then there's Sir Montague Allan. He donated the Allan Cup in 1908 at the instigation of William Northey of Montreal, also a member.

LENGTHY LIST

The list of players is long.

There is Georges Vezina, the toque-wearing Chicoutimi cucumber who stood in the Canadiens' nets (goaltenders weren't allowed to fall on the ice to block shots in the early '20s) and coolly deflected drives. There's Chuck Gardner, the Winnipeg-born goalkeeper with Chicago Black Hawks who died of a brain haemorrhage in 1934. . . Fred (Cyclone) Taylor. . . Hobie Baker . . . Tom Phillips . . . Hod Stuart. . . Harvey Pulford. . . Lester Patrick. . . Russell Bowie. . . Art Ross. . . Eddie Gerard. . . Bill Cook. . . Nels Stewart. . . Frank McGee. . .

Nineteen of the Hall of Fame's members are dead. Under their pictures, framed in 18-by-24-inch maple, will hang plaques telling of their exploits.

The tribute to the incomparable Howie Morenz of Canadiens is one of the finest. It reads:

"His glittering speed made him famous. He lived for speed and in the end speed took its toll of death. Perhaps that is the way Howie Morenz would have chosen to die, in action in the midst of the swift rush of the game he loved."

Morenz died in 1937 at the age of 34. He had a heart attack shortly after suffering a broken leg in a game.

Sentence TV Thieves

WHITBY (CP)—Charged with stealing an $860 television set, Leonard Burley, 34, of Toronto, was sentenced Wednesday to 2½ years in penitentiary. Elmer Martin, 39, of Toronto, charged jointly with Burley, was given a year definite and six months indefinite. Evidence was that the two broke into the Pickering township home of Arthur Skidmore to steal the set.

Norwood Victors By 8 to 2 Over Lakefield

NORWOOD— (ENS) — In a speedy, fairly clean TVL contest here last night, before a good-sized crowd, Norwood rode to an 8-2 victory over Lakefield. There were eight minor penalties, and Wootton had a misconduct tagged on him in the second period for aruging too hotly over a minor penalty.

Norwood piled up a 4-0 lead in the first frame and had a 3-1 edge in the second, the third being quite even. Bob Thorpe was the main sniper for the winners with three goals and three assists, with Tompkins also prominent on the attack. Teams:

PEEK-A-BOO—Glen Flanagan of St. Paul was somewhat surprised to find Armand Savoie of Montreal coming at him from the pictured position during their 10-round battle at the Montreal Forum. Savoie holder of the Canadian lightweight title, won a unanimous decision.

Stratford Hands Chatham 5-3 Defeat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Paul Emms has at least some of the fiery qualities of his well-known father.

The son of the coach of Barrie Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series is currently performing with Chatham Maroons in OHA Senior A company.

Wednesday night Emms nearly precipitated a fight with coach Pat Wilson of Stratford Indians after Stratford handed Chatham a 5-3 defeat on Chatham ice. Referees Andy Bellemer and Frank Slota saved the day. Emms only recently joined the Maroons.

Stratford moved back into first place with the win, gaining a one-point margin on Owen Sound Mercurys.

SURPRISED PACK

Sudbury Wolves were a surprised pack as the lowly Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians, paced by a two-goal effort on the part of Johnny Lumley, former Marlboro junior, handed them a 3-1 setback at the Sault.

North Bay Trappers moved to within four points of the second-place Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds in the other Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group game, defeating the Hounds 7-3.

Dinny Flanagan paced Stratford with three goals. Others went to Ken Schultz and Lloyd Ferguson. Ed Didone, George Edwards and Ernie Dick scored for Chatham.

Besides Lumley's two for the Indians, defenceman D. McBride notched a single. Gordie Heale scored the only Sudbury goal.

Bo Elik scored two as the Trappers rapped in four first-period goals. Others were added by Ab DeMarco, Jack Hill, Don Hogan, Chick Cecchini and George Gosselin. Hec Pozzo sniped two Greyhound markers. Playing-coach Roy Heximer added the other.

Brantford Redmen travel to Hamilton for the only senior action tonight.

Hastings Wins Over Havelock

HAVELOCK (ENS).—In a fast clean game of hockey played in the local arena on Wednesday night, the Hastings team won their encounter with Havelock by a score of 9 to 5 in the TVL series. The local boys were minus three of their regular defencemen and this no doubt contributed to their defeat.

The line-up:

Hastings — Goal, O'Brien; defence, Fennell, McGillen; centre, Stevenson; wings, McGrath, Ball; alternates, Thompson, J. West, Vitarelli, Griffin, D. West, Isaac, and Morrow.

Havelock— Goal Dobson; defence, Richlark, Reid; centre, B. Laing; wings J. Ruttan, Newman; alternates, Eakins Caravaggio, Gooley, Willshaw, Buchan Hill.

Hockey League Start Delayed

COBOURG.—Mild weather, the bane of all hockey rinks that have natural ice is causing the Northumberland Hockey League executive plenty of concern. So far, the loop, scheduled to open on January 16, has been unable to do so.

Most affected by the delay are the Grafton Browns who play in one of the newest rinks in the district, but which has no artificial plant. This season the Grafton club bought new uniforms and lined up a strong team.

The traditional opener at Grafton with Baltimore as the opposition, was cancelled last Friday when the ice was declared too soft.

Team heads are hoping that the Colborne game scheduled for Grafton this Friday may be played but the weatherman has yet to indicate that he'll co-operate.

Other teams in the loop are Warkworth and Brighton.

Altar Society Euchre

NORWOOD (ENS)—The Altar Soceity of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Norwood, held a euchre party at SS No. 4 school on highway No. 7 on Friday evening.

There were five tables played, with winners being: Ladies, Mrs. Dan Rooney, Mrs. Leo English; gentlemen, Michael Cain, and Dan Rooney winning on a draw from Michael Calnan.

The next party will be on Friday, January 23.

U.S. Football League Owners Ready To Wrangle On Changes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — There may be a lively debate before it is decided whether the new Colts belong with the western or eastern clubs.

There's a spot open in the National or Western Conference vacated by the defunct Dallas Texans. But George Marshall, the influential boss of Washington Redskins, wants Baltimore in the American Conference to promote a natural rivalry against his club. And the new Baltimore owners would like to avoid the expensive trips to the West coast. That would mean shifting Chicago Cardinals to the west, a move which would meet with resistance.

Bell Wednesday night renewed his pleas for a cut in the player limit—from 33 to 30 active players for each club—as he gave out figures to show that 1952 was the league's most successful season.

Total attendance passed the 2,000,000 mark for the first time as 72 regular season games drew 2,052,126 customers and the National Conference and league championship playoffs attracted 97,507 more. That was an 8.6-per-cent jump over the 1951 total.

WRONG MAN, RIGHT MEDAL—Pte. Walter N. Johnson, of Creeley, Neb., at right, looks slightly dazed upon being congratulated by Maj.-Gen. Pridi Dhappong Davakul, back to camera, Thailand's delegate on the UN Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea. Johnson was flown to Seoul to receive the Silver Medal of the Crown of Thailand, for an action in which he never took part. Because of an error in translation, the Army called the wrong Johnson from the lines. The correct Johnson will receive another medal, and Walter will keep his as a souvenir.

East German Officials Kept Busy With Book Purge

BERLIN (Reuters)—Writings of Lenin and Stalin, chief prophets of "modern" communism, are the two chief victims of Communist East Germany's four-year-old book purge.

West Berlin book trade sources and anti-Communist groups report that more of their books have been withdrawn, re-edited and re-issued than those of any other author.

Strangely enough, the only author so far to escape the purge is William Shakespeare. His works till are published in full.

When the purge started, commissions with lists of "tainted" books swept through libraries and publishing houses. The list alone of banned title now runs 200 pages and the total number of "purged" copies is between 4,000,000 and 8,000,000.

The Spanish classic Don Quixote, by Cervantes, has been re-issued with many censored passages and others annotated to refer to the "author's view" of "social conditions" in the 16th century to today.

Even the great German poet-philosopher Goethe has not escaped "streamlining." His works are now on sale in "expurgated" editions, with up-to-date notes on the "social correctness" of his line of thought.

The works of the Russian writer Dostoievsky have been "re-issued," and he is cited as one of the earliest "democratic fighters," but whole pages have been deleted.

Recently, books have been blue-pencilled because they were out-and-out pacifist.

Under this heading comes "Stalingrad" a novel dealing with the fate of Hitler's 6th army in the snows at Stalingrad. It has now been withdrawn, but is due to be re-issued with all the pro-Russian passages left intact and its vehemence against all forms of warfare removed. East Germany is building up her own army now.

Callow Signs Application Asking Senate For Charter

By KINGSLEY BROWN Jr.

HALIFAX (CP)—Walter Callow passed another milestone Wednesday in his crusade to make life happier for North America's crippled veterans and invalids.

With a pen taped to gnarled fingers that haven't moved for 23 years, the blind and paralyzed inventor-humanitarian signed an application asking the Senate to grant a Canadian charter to the Callow Veterans' and Invalids' Welfare League.

Callow, who lives in almost constant pain, was visibly enthused when told of the success of his signature, formed virtually by an orderly's adept wiggling of the application.

TO LAUNCH DRIVE

The charter will enable the 58-year-old Callow to launch a campaign aimed at providing Canada with 80 Callow-invented wheelchair coaches, and the United States with "at least twice that many" by the end of 1955.

"They laugh because I'm so optimistic," he said. "But this charter—and we'll get it, don't worry—will make us a Dominion organization, with power to move into other provinces, organize branches and conduct our work on a national scale."

A crash while testing an aircraft of the Royal Flying Corps in 1917 ruined Callow's career as a promising mechanical expert. Injuries resulted in total paralysis in 12 years.

His mother and wife died soon after, leaving him to bring up his daughter, then 10, by selling Christmas cards and dealing in real estate. Eight years later he became blind. Last September, 23 years after he entered Camp Hill Military Hospital here, doctors amputated his legs above the knees.

But his great ambition—to provide the continent's disabled and afflicted with some of the everyday pleasures of a healthy citizen—never dimmed.

Already three $18,000 coaches, custom-built at Ste. Claire, Que., are in operation. Wheelchairs enter by a hydraulically-operated ramp at the rear.

Last year they transported more than 6,600 crippled veterans, shutins and children suffering from cerebral palsy and poliomyelitis to hockey and baseball games, church services, picnics and on trips to the country. In 1951 every wheelchair patient in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick was taken out at least once.

"Their value is immeasurable," said Callow.

Donations from all over the world finance his work.

REACHING FOR FLASH FAME—The nine photogenic girls, above, are all hoping to possess the gold-plated trophy for which they're reaching, and which actor Dane Clark is holding. The "nifty nine" were picked at random from hundreds of applicants for a chance to win the title of "Miss Photo Flash of 1953," which will be awarded by the Chicago Press Photographers' Association on February 7. The girl who makes the brightest "flash" in the eyes of the judges will win the trophy, and a trip to Hollywood.

Fast Survey

TEHRAN (CP)—Using air reconnaissance and photography, UN technical assistance experts have been able to survey possible development of Iran's water resources in only two months. As a result of the experts' recommendations a new well has already been drilled south of Tehran and others will follow.

Man Found Innocent Of Attempted Murder

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Arthur Menard, 21, Wednesday night was found innocent of attempting to murder two Windsor police officers but guilty on three lesser counts.

He had been charged with shooting at the two officers with intent to murder after they confronted him and his brother, Harold, 25, last Dec. 29 in an attempt to give Harold a ticket for speeding.

The Supreme Court jury convicted Arthur of possessing a loaded revolver and guilty of two charges of assaulting two police officers.

He will be sentenced Friday. Meanwhile, he will undergo a psychiatric examination.

Class Warfare To Be Increased

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Stalin has ruled that "class warfare" must be stepped up in Russia, a Soviet spokesman stressed in Moscow Wednesday. The spokesman added that "secret enemies" of the Russian people must be eliminated.

Nikolai Mikhailov, one of the younger men promoted to Soviet leadership at the Soviet Communist party congress last October, quoted Stalin's directive in a speech to a Moscow meeting commemorating the death in 1924 of Vladimir I. Lenin, founder of the Soviet state.

Mikhailov said Stalin had exploded the theory that the class war would peter out as the Communist regime became stronger and Soviet society became more and more classless.

Persons holding such views "can have nothing to do with our party" Mikhailov quoted Stalin as saying. "They are traitors or fools who must be ousted like vermin. The liquidation of classes cannot be achieved by ending the class war, but only by intensifying it."

Freed In Traffic Case

BRANTFORD (CP) — Charles Haydon of nearby Paris was acquitted Wednesday of manslaughter in the traffic death of Mabel Nichol in a traffic accident here last Nov. 21.

French T.V. Limps Along On Small Gov't Budget

By WADE JONES.

PARIS (NEA). — There are no commercials on French television. There are no television sets in French bars. There are no high-priced, well-known television entertainers in France. In fact, there is virtually no television, by American standards.

Despite this state of affairs, officials in the industry here believe that technically they are several hundred microwaves ahead of television in other countries.

They explain this by the fact that in 1948 the French shifted from a 441 line system to 819 lines. The latter is supposed to give a much finer image than, say, the 625 lines in the United States or the 405 in England.

Actually, however, from the standpoint of a TV viewer, the French still seem to be having considerable trouble with their lighting.

Whatever the scientific facts of the matter may be, they are of no concern at all to the average Frenchman, seeing as how the cheapest TV set here costs about $300.

TWO TRANSMITTERS

That, in turn, has produced in the hearts of only 50,000 Frenchmen the uncontrollable desire to own sets. And since France has only two TV transmitters at present—here and in Lille—the 50,000 sets are concentrated around those two spots.

Furthermore, the transmitters are on the air only 30 hours a week, or a little over four hours a day.

The reason French TV has no commercials is that it is owned and operated by the government through the Ministry of Information.

Jean Louis Hebarre, spokesman for the industry, explains sadly that "the government must spend every 12 hours on the Indo-China war as much as our entire television bugdet for a whole year."

In one studio with a climate like Alaska, a drama was being staged called "The Woman of My Youth." The only comfortable people were the actors, basking under the comparative warmth of more than 50 big overhead lights. Visitors, directors, and technicians stood around the edge of the stage in heavy coats, their breaths white in the cold.

WATERING POT

It was supposed to be raining outside. So up on a high step-ladder an elderly stagehand in blue beret, blue turtle-necked sweater and overalls was trying to arrange the precipitation with a little tin watering pot.

But no rain was falling. Not much could have fallen from that little pot, even if it had been working. But the old man up on the ladder was pouring away contentedly, under the impression he was producing a regular deluge down below.

Finally a director came to the rescue, yelling up to the man on the ladder, "Mon Dieu, mon vieux, you pour but it rains noto. What passes? Everyone watched solicitously while the old man got his watering can unplugged. And when he finally got the water to coming out, a few people clapped for him.

Hebarre explained that more and more programs were going to be put on film, so extra money could be made maybe by selling them outside the country. Also that plans were being made to carry the coronation from England on French TV next June, and that there are 100 Teleclubs in France, where people chip in and buy a set and watch it all together.

AUSTERE.

But as things are now, he admitted, French TV fare is pretty austere— no children's programs, no big comedy shows, no high-priced talent and no money to pay for it with.

But the French television industry, along with the French people, has weathered hard times before. In the dark downstairs hall leading out to the street was a marble plaque dedicated to Alfred Leiluch, former director of radio and television, "arrested by the Gestapo May 15, 1944, tortured then shot in July, 1944."

TELEVISION IN FRANCE has almost as many actors as viewers. Here some free talent—a group of Paris choirboys—peer at the camera which later peered at them as they sang for TV.

Surrender terms ending the war with Japan reduced Japanese territory from 773,000 square miles to 147,000.

CLASSY DOG—Daisy May, part Beagle, part Water Spaniel, sits at desk in front of her master, Don Keller, 14, in the eighth grade at Onondaga Valley Academy, Syracuse, N.Y. Daisy May was assigned a seat after she had accompanied Donald to school for 18 months. Once she appeared after a day's absence with this note pinned to her collar: "I was dirty and needed a bath."

Perfect Attendance At Kiwanis 24 Years

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A friendly dentist has been honored for never missing a weekly Kiwanis meeting in more than 24 years' membership.

Dr. E. A. Reid, who has been present at nearly 1300 gatherings in Canadian and United States cities, was recently presented with a special attendance pin. Once he organized an impromptu meeting aboard ship to maintain his record.

Now he's aiming to beat the 37-year score of George Hixon of Rochester, N.Y., first president of Kiwanis International.

Dr. Reid once took time off from a Hastings county fishing trip to drive 100 miles to Belleville, Ont., to attend a club meeting. While aboard the liner Empress of Australia in 1934, he convened a group of Kiwanians for a session.

Line Of Defence Extended In Fight Against Rabies

EDMONTON (CP)—The line of defence in the fight against rabies was extended Wednesday to a line 20 miles south of Edmonton. It is the first time a major city has been placed inside the precautionary zone.

Most directly concerned are the owners of Edmonton's 6,500 dogs. Canines no longer will be allowed to roam about the city. They must be tied up or otherwise controlled.

An Edmonton dog-owner will be required to get a permit from the federal agriculture department to take his animal out of the city. If he wants to take it north, the dog will have to be vaccinated.

The federal health of animals division announced extension of the quarantine area after obtaining evidence that a dog was infected with rabies at Boyle, 75 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The disease broke out among wildlife in northern Alberta last summer and has spread steadily southward. Domestic animals have been infected in some areas, and humans could get it through the bite of an infected dog.

The quarantine area formerly extended as far south as the 55th parallel in the three prairie provinces, to a depth of 250 miles from the Northwest Territories boundary. Now it has been shifted south in Alberta to near parallel 53, running through Leduc, and to all of northern British Columbia north of the 53rd parallel.

North of the 55th, eradication of wild life is being carried out by poisoning, trapping and shooting, along with a vaccination program among domestic animals and humans who have been exposed to the disease.

Urges Canada Use Resources Finish Products

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Use of Canadian resources in the fabrication of finished products here rather than the export of raw materials to plants of other countries was urged here Wednesday by George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

In an address to the Canadian Club he raised the question: "Are we going to use our resources to create employment in Canada or are we going to export our resources to create employment in other countries?"

Mr. Drew said that in 1911 agriculture was Canada's greatest industry, both basically and as a dollar - producer. Now industrial production was five times the total agricultural production in dollar values, although agriculture was still a basic industry.

HOLDS KEY TO FUTURE

Canada's mineral wealth held the key to her future, he said.

"All production depends on raw materials, power and human skill," he said.

He said he did not advocate an unfriendly policy in regard to raw materials with the United States. But he thought it most unlikely that the United States would object if Canada followed the same course, of using its own raw materials through finished manufacturing processes, which, he claimed led to the greatness of the nation to the south.

Prolific Pullets

GALT, Ont. (CP)—Dr H. W. Mason has a collection of pullets that really produce. In recent weeks their egg production has included 12 double-yolk eggs all unusually large.

A native of Montreal, Mr. Nevin brings more than 30 years' railroading experience to his new post. Canada Gives Generously To Aid Other Countries

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Canada's prosperity has helped provide her with one of the world's most comprehensive social security programs, but she's not overlooking less fortunate countries, Health Minister Martin said Wednesday night.

In the period 1945-50, she distributed a total of $2,700,000,000 in economic assistance to other countries an amount not exceeded by any other country when related to national income, Mr. Martin said.

"Canada has provided $65,000,000 to the world bank, thus becoming the second among the bank's 51 member nations to release its full quota of capital for bank loans," he added in an address prepared for a gathering of Canadian and American bankers.

The occasion was "Canadian bankers night," an annual get-together sponsored by the Detroit chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

"Today the eyes of the world are on Canada," Mr. Martin said. "Over the past dozen years this nation has undergone a rate of business and industrial development never before in history achieved by a nation of 14,000,000 people."

And the strength of the Canadian dollar was an expression of this achievement.

Mr. Martin recounted the big economic advances since 1939: the jump in national production to an estimated $23,000,000,000 in 1952 from $6,000,000,000 in 1939; the decision to tackle the St. Lawrence seaway; the growth of foreign trade; and the $25,000,000,000 investment in Canada's expansion in the last seven years.

Medical Aid For Needy

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial officials will pay more than $2,000,000 this year toward medical services for persons who qualify for welfare aid. It was announced Wednesday that the cabinet has approved a new agreement with the Ontario Medical Association under which the welfare department will pay the association $1.05 a person instead of the present 83 cents. An estimated 150,000 persons stand to benefit.

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS
A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, January 22nd — I'm on intimate terms with a very famous family . . . in fact, we spend a lot of time together in my kitchen. That's Heinz' family of Tomato Products — Cream of Tomato Soup; Tomato Juice; Tomato Ketchup and HEINZ CHILI SAUCE. Ever tasted Heinz Chili Sauce? Just try it some time soon with steaks, chops, stews or leftovers and see how good everything tastes. And no wonder! For Heinz Chili Sauce is made of rosy-red "Aristocrat" tomatoes—spiced and seasoned to perfection by Heinz' experienced chefs. Ask your grocer for Heinz Chili Sauce tomorrow . . . your family will love the spicy, old-fashioned flavour of this thick, full-bodied sauce.

You Have An Invitation From Mrs. Jim Coleman. Compare BLUE BONNET MARGARINE with any spread at any price. Like the famous sports columnist's wife, I'm sure you'll love Blue Bonnet's fresh, country-sweet flavour . . . so good as a spread for bread—or melting hot on vegetables. You'll appreciate Blue Bonnet's nutrition, too. And its real economy. Use Blue Bonnet in cooking, on vegetables and meat—as a delicious spread. It's so handy to use in its famous Yellow Quik bag for fast, easy colour. So buy Blue Bonnet Margarine and get flavour, nutrition and economy. And convenience, too.

Bringing Up Baby is one of the most fascinating jobs in the world . . . and certainly one of the most important. It's a real thrill to watch baby grow healthy and strong—and he does it with enthusiasm when you make 5 Minute "CREAM OF WHEAT" an important part of his diet. Um-hmm—babies love it—and it loves babies! You see, it's brimful of lots of good things babies need to keep going—and growing! It provides Iron for good red blood, and Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. And, mothers!—5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" is so quick and simple to prepare. Just five minutes of boiling and it's ecoked to baby-ready digestibility . . . sm-o-o-th and tempting!

Their Good Taste speaks for itself. It tells you—deliciously—that Heinz Condensed Soups are the pick of the lot. And hundreds of people, in dozens of recent taste tests, have tasted and agreed. Yes, the whole family of Heinz Soups rated top marks with dieticians; young folks; men factory workers and housewives. And I'm willing to bet my new Spring bonnet that a taste-test in your own home will result in a similar verdict. Simply heat a tin of, say HEINZ CONDENSED VEGETABLE SOUP (a delicious choice!)—and a tin of any other brand. Serve half-helpings of each. Then take a vote. Bet it will be Heinz, 2 to 1!

Now I'm Happy! Dishes done in a jiffy with those grand new chemical soaps . . . and hands soft and smooth, too. JERGENS LOTION does the trick. It smooths and soothes hands roughened and dried by these new soaps. Because it's liquid, it quickly penetrates to supply the softening moisture that dry, thirsty skin needs. Keep a bottle of Jergens Lotion handy in both kitchen and bathroom. Make a hand-care habit of it—to keep your hands always soft, smooth and lovely, with that cared-for look that only Jergens can give them. Remember Jergens Lotion . . . because you care for your hands. It's not expensive—just 15c, 37c, 65c and $1.15.

There's Something about a real home-made cake that can't be equalled. I know our family go into raptures over the fluffy, tender cakes I make. They can't seem to get enough of them. Of course, my secret is SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR. No other flour, no cake mix, can make cakes the way Swans Down does. You see, Swans Down is especially made for better cake making. Milled by experts from the finest of soft winter wheat, Swans Down makes prize cakes, every time. You too can enjoy the satisfaction of better cakes, with Swans Down—it is sifted again and again until 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. Grand recipes on the package!

Is This Your Experience, Too? I find that putting money away hard as it is, is not the most difficult thing about saving. The tough part is leaving it alone afterwards! It's so easy to dip into your savings when you want that new dress very badly. And then where are you? You're faced with the problem of replacing those savings! And, if you're like me, you'll find that hard to do. But Personal Planning (that's the Bank of Montreal's system of family-financing) has shown me not only how to build up my savings but how to keep them intact once I have them. You see, Personal Planning convinced me that it's very often better money-management to borrow against my savings than to spend them! Then, when I've paid off my B of M Personal Loan, I'll still have my savings nest-egg. Why not look into the question of a low-cost B of M Loan next time you feel like digging down elbow-deep into your savings? Ask for your free copy of 'Personal Planning' at your neighborhood BANK OF MONTREAL . . . and you'll find out how you can save—and keep—more of your hard-earned dollars from now on.

Royal Children To Help Savings Drive

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne are to feature in a government drive to step up national savings this year.

Portraits of the royal youngsters will grace souvenir "national savings stamps"—peace-time counterparts of war savings stamps—to commemorate the June 2 Coronation of their mother, the Queen.

The government hopes this move will influence Britons to buy more stamps and boost savings.

The current trend is just the opposite. Britons are withdrawing more money from savings accounts than they put in.

Lord Mackintosh of Halifax, chairman of the national savings committee, announced Wednesday that photographs of Charles, 4, and Anne, 2, are to be used for the stamps.

Charles' likeness will beam from the half-crown (35 cent) stamp, replacing the present reddish-brown squirrel. His portrait will be printed in sepia against a pale-blue background and will have a dark-blue border. A sepia portrait of Anne, bordered in dark green, will replace a green Britannia on the six-penny (seven-cent) stamp.

BIG PIPE SPANS CONTINENT—With the bridging of a 625-mile gap between Superior, Wis., and Sarnia, Ont., Canada will put into operation the world's first transcontinental oil pipeline. By the end of 1956, oil will flow uninterruptedly from Edmonton, heart of Canada's booming oil industry, to Portland, Me. The industry now must depend on Great Lakes tankers, which are ice-locked (inset) more than four months each year. The half-finished, 711-mile link from Edmonton to Vancouver is expected to begin pumping oil over the Rock Mountains by next fall. Above newsmap shows the route taken by the 3,500-mile artery, which will be able to move oil at the rate of 200,000 barrels a day.

MPs Deplore Obscene Literature; Disagree On Cure

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of all parties in the Commons said Wednesday they "deplore" the growing volume of filthy literature circulating in Canada. They disagreed on how the problem should be fought.

The members voted 96 to 64 against a resolution by E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) urging that a parliamentary committee be established to consider the problem and to recommend legislative or other means to deal with it.

All opposition groups and 11 backbench Liberals supported the resolution. Most Liberals voted against it after Justice Minister Garson said the way to stop the spread of obscene literature is by rigid enforcement of the law and not by further "fussing around."

TAKES UP TIME

Debate on Mr. Fulton's resolution occupied practically the whole of the half-day mid-week sitting. Today members resume debate on the Currie report.

Mr. Fulton, a lawyer, sponsored a bill two years ago to ban the sale and distribution of crime comics. The measure was adopted by Parliament after Mr. Fulton accepted amendments proposed by the government.

Now action is needed, he said, to weed out pornographic literature and "filthy trash" available on Canadian newsstands.

He emphasized he was not suggesting a form of censorship. If censorship was used it might create an evil worse than that which it sought to eliminate.

DON'T WANT TO BE CENSORS

The present law, based on interpretation of the word "obscene," left judges in the role of censors, a job they were reluctant to accept.

Mr. Fulton said penalties for corrupting morals through obscene literature should be heavier than the present two-year maximum and should be most severe against those printing and publishing such literature.

Mr. Garson said the enforcement authorities have not seen fit to use the law to its full extent. Enforcement of the law and not censorship was the way to cure the problem.

"The thing that we should do now is to bring the pressure of public opinion to bear in favor of its being enforced."

FAVORS BOARD

Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf) said he would favor a board of "conscientious" censors to help combat the spread of immoral literature. C. W. Hodgson (PC—Victoria, Ont.) said possibly a board of censors would provide a solution.

E. T. Applewhaite (L—Skeena) said he would not want any board to attempt to judge for all Canadians what was moral and what was immoral. No group could agree on where the line should be drawn.

Dealers now were forced to accept "trash" if they wanted to obtain their quota of class A magazines. That practice should be stopped.

SUBSIDIZE LIBRARIES

O. L. Jones (CCF—Yale) said the federal government should subsidize libraries, particularly in rural areas. It should provide good children's books for circulation among the libraries.

R. R. Knight (CCF—Saskatoon), a former school teacher, said efforts should be made to educate Canadians on the value of good reading habits. Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon), also a former teacher, suggested parent-teachers associations could do much to combat filthy literature.

John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge) said he could see no harm in a parliamentary committee studying the problem.

Essex Council Votes Itself Pay Increase

WINDSOR, On. (CP)—Members of Essex county council voted themselves a pay increase Wednesday.

They now will receive $10 a day for regular meetings and $8 a day for committee meetings, maximum payment allowed under a 1952 amendment to the Municipal Act. Previously they received $8 for council meetings and $6 a day for committee meetings.

"We'll only be acting as dutiful citizens in taking as much as the legislation provides," reeve Barry E. Atkinson of Sandwich West said.

Attempt To Fleece Immigrant Foiled

TORONTO (CP)—An attempt to fleece an immigrant of $500 Tuesday backfired and landed one man in jail.

Harry Mees told police he met two men who promised him $200 if he could match their bankroll of $500. He withdrew $500 from the bank and when he took it to their hotel room he realized something was wrong. He grabbed his own money from a table and held one of the men. The other fled.

Police charge Nicholas Lebano of Cornwall with fraud.

The "bankroll" turned out to be paper wrapped in a few bills.

Youths Given Longer Terms After Capture

BRAMPTON (CP) —Four youths who were captured in Port Hope early Tuesday morning after escaping from the Brampton reformatory, were given additional sentences Wednesday on charges of escaping and car theft.

Gerald Cockburn, John Brackenbridge, Russell Hinds, all 19 and Francis Moreau, 18, were each given a six month consecutive sentence for escaping and a 12-month concurrent sentence for stealing a car.

The four youths were spotted shortly after midnight by three Port Hope constables on a routine patrol of east end garages. The four ran away from a parked car as the police officers approached.

PRESENT $500 CHEQUE

Warden Ernest J. Leeson has been invited to attend the opening of the Apsley Community Centre on Jan. 31. Premier Leslie Frost has been invited to do the official honors. Last year the Peterborough County Council promised a $500 cheque toward the building fund once the arena was in operation. It has been in use since Jan. 1 and today in county council Reeve Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther officially asked the warden to present the cheque at that time.

City Committee Discusses Garbage Fill

The sanitary fill plan of disposing of community refuse, that is by digging deep trenches in which the material is packed and covered with earth, was discussed by the sanitation committee of the council this morning.

Further consideration of this proposal was postponed to another meeting. Attending were Ald. W. J. Beggs, chairman, Aldermen Anglesey, Rehill, Graham and Mayor Waddell.

The sanitary fill method consists of digging a series of trenches, depositing the refuse therein, thoroughly compacting it with the bulldozer-tractor that scoops out the trenches in the first place, and then sealing the trench by covering each day's filling with soil excavated from the next adjoining trench to be used.

The system was explained to the council early last year, but at that time it was felt that the capacity of the incinerator on Townsend St. was still sufficient for the disposal of garbage and other refuse. Since then, the deliveries to the plant have increased and the council has been turning its thinking toward enlargement of the incinerator or adoption of the trench filling method.

Immediate economy is receiving the attention of the Beggs committee, but discussions so far have been largely in the stage of approach.

BRANTFORD STORY

An article in the January issue of Civic Administation by G. H. Richards, city engineer of Brantford, suggests by contrast Peterborough's good housekeeping.

Mr. Richards wrote that prior to 1940 all Brantford refuse was dumped on low lying land near the centre of the city, and "these open dumps were seldom properly covered." When the city searched for an incinerator site, protests arose from people living as far away as one mile.

Of the sanitary fill method, Mr. Richards said: "It is the most economical method of refuse disposal acceptable to health authorities. It enables a community to reclaim submarginal land for future use as parks or recreational areas.

It is a satisfactory means of relieving pressure on overloaded incinerators."

Two-Day Show For Norwood

Norwood Fair is being enlarged to a two pay-day show. The new board of directors for 1953 arrived at that decision Wednesday night.

The two-day program of exhibits and attractions will be arranged for the Thanksgiving Day Monday and its preceding Saturday.

After carrying on successfully for the past six years on the same two days but with only Monday as a one-pay-day, directors have taken the forward step that is warranted by Norwood's new Class B rating.

This is the procedure usually followed by Class "C" fairs when elevated to "B" status.

With the present prospects for next fall, Norwood felt that in any event they would require more time for which recommended judging chedules, and to an extent which recommended the extra day.

Norwood directors led by their president G. A. Brethen have attained their objective by co-operative and thoroughly planned action, and that same method of progress will be followed in the expanded planning for a "two pay days instead of one."

EIGHTY YEARS IS A LONG SPAN, especially for Gannon's Narrows floating bridge —believed to be the only one of its kind in Canada. At County Council today a 22-man delegation from Harvey Township asked for some immediate action to have the ancient structure replaced with either a swing span or high-level bridge. The matter is to be discussed in the very near future with director of canal services C. W. West, Department of Transport, Ottawa. Since the above photo was taken in 1949 the bridge has deteriorated even more.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Harvey Twp. Delegation Ask Bridge At Gannon's Narrows

A 22-man delegation from Harvey township came to council today to ask for some immediate action to have either a swing span or high-level bridge built at Gannon's Narrows. "The floating bridge is in very poor shape," said John Chase, caretaker at the bridge. "It's pretty well past repair. The timbers are loose and they're getting soft below the water-line . . . they have been in the water nearly 80 years and its practically impossible to do anything with them in the wintertime."

Mr. Chase said the railings are no good and the flooring is worn out. Even the couplings are no longer secure because the chains have worn such large holes in the timbers.

The Harvey ratepayers claim that the present bridge is antiquated and dangerous now. Sometimes only Hilton Palmer, whose station wagon carries passengers and mail between Peterborough and Lakehurst, will attempt to cross the treacherous bridge.

HAD TO DETOUR

Even Mr. Palmer couldn't get through a couple of times last December when ice washed up over the rickety structure. When this happens he has to detour by way of Buckhorn and Selwyn.

If Mr. Palmer can't cross the floating bridge, he has instructions from the Postmaster's Department to cut his route short. This means that the residents on a line between Ennismore village and Lakehurst get their mail on alternate days. One day it is distributed north of the narrows and the next day south of the narrows.

Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore said that some people objected to once-a-day mail service but the residents who depend on the Gannon's Narrows communication link sometimes are worse off than these objectors. They get their mail once every two days.

"The mail driver certainly has to put up with a lot," said Mr. Gifford. "I don't think they (the Postmaster General's department) expect their mail carrier to have to face the hardships and difficulties that Mr. Palmer has to put up with."

Reacting quickly to this suggestion, Ellsworth Jackson, who headed the Harvey delegation, suggested that the Postmaster General's department be petitioned to have something done about the bridge. Pressure from that quarter might help get things moving, he felt.

GOOD CHANCE

J. D. Kean, county engineer, said that there is now a good chance of getting ahead with the project.

Sometime within the next week or two he and the county roads committee will go down to Ottawa and discuss it with C. W. West, director of canal services. A Department of Highways representative may accompany them.

"We'll see what the proposition is," said Mr. Kean. "If it's feasible and costs are not out of line, we could start right away."

The county engineer said members of county council felt they should not pay a higher percentage of the cost than they did on the Chemong causeway.

"Until you have the high-level meeting with the Department of Transport in Ottawa you won't know what you're going to do at Gannon's Narrows?" asked Tom Mason of Buckhorn.

"Yes, that's right," said Mr. Kean. "It's the closest we've come to deciding it."

(The Department of Transport has offered $99,000 on either a swing-span or a high-level bridge, but would prefer the bridge. On the other hand, the county would prefer the swing span which would be the permanent responsibility of the department.)

Reeve Of Madoc 1953 Warden Hastings County

BELLEVILLE. — Reeve John A. Kincaid of Madoc was elected warden of Hastings at the inaugural session of the county council held here Tuesday.

The warden expressed great optimism for the county in the coming year in his inaugural address. He said that Hasting has much to look forward to and quoted from the talk given Monday night at Tweed by Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders who said that there was no higher standard of living than in Ontario. The living standard in Hastings was parallel.

He also said that the proposed St. Lawrence seaway would mean much to Hastings. New sources of power would mean a boost for industry.

Representatives of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Field Secretary A. Timmins and A. W. Sparks, field service supervisor were present. They requested support for the work of the blind and for a contribution to their new $255,000 service centre to be built in Kingston.

Dr. Wells To Speak To Meeting Of VON

Dr. J. P. Wells, Peterborough medical officer of health, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses to be held Feb. 25 in the YWCA.

This date was chosen Wednesday at the meeting of VON board of directors.

Miss Harriet McGeary, nurse-in-charge, reported that the Peterborough branch admitted 43 new patients and made 365 visits during December. In December, 1951, 67 new patients were admitted and the nurses made 453 visits.

Of the 43 patients admitted, 30 were for nursing care and 13 for health instruction. The visits included 270 for nursing care and 93 for health instruction.

Elderly Man Falls On Ice, Breaks Hip

Charles Mayette, 78, 189 Hazlitt St. suffered a broken right hip when he fell on ice just before noon today. He was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mayette was watching Board of Works employees open up ice in the creek at Armour Rd., when he fell. He started to walk down to talk to one of the men, and slipped on ice.

Bert Deck, foreman with the department, reported that the injured man was taken first to his home in one of the department's trucks. An ambulance was later called and he was admitted to hospital at 12 p.m.

Paul Martin To Speak At Citizen Dinner

The Hon. Paul Martin, federal Minister of Health and Canada's chairman of the permanent delegation to the United Nations, will be guest speaker Feb. 11 at the Citizen of the Year dinner honoring Robertson Davies, playwright and editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

PAUL MARTIN

The award is made each year and the dinner sponsored by the B'nai B'rith.

Mr. Davies was picked as the Man of the Year in Peterborough for 1952 because of the attention his writings have brought to Peterborough.

Probably Canada's best known playwright, Mr. Davies as well has a reputation as a columnist, book critic and director.

This will be the third annual Citizen of the Year dinner sponsored by the B'nai B'rith. Other Citizens of the Year were Donald McGillis and Max J. Swanston.

Haliburton To Form Chamber Of Commerce

In an attempt to spotlight the importance of the tourist industry in Haliburton County, directors of the Haliburton Tourist Association have disbanded, and will form a Chamber of Commerce for the county.

This move will bring all sections of trade, and industry into one group, and the tourist committee will function as a committee of the Chamber.

The organization of the new Chamber of Commerce will take place at Minden, Friday night. Harold Procter, president of their former Tourist Association will preside and two officials from the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce will speak on the need and value of such a unit in any county.

Careful County Council Wipes Out $19,016 Deficit Roads Account Still In Red

Overall Deficit Amounts To $524—Treasurer $3,000 Repairs To Power Shovel Spoil Determined Effort To Keep In Black

A year of careful economy by the Peterborough County Council has all but wiped out a whopping $19,016 deficit inherited at the beginning of 1952. Mrs. J. A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer, reported an overall deficit of $524.30. On current operations a surplus of $3,470.31 was reported but once again the county roads account went into the red; this time by $3,994.61.

Receipts totalled $556,810.37 and expenditures $557,334.67.

The consensus among members of council was that the 1952 council had done a good job to keep so close within the budget.

"I wish to express my appreciation and thanks to the various committees for, at the end of the year, being able to show only a very small deficit," said Ex-Warden Dick Stewart.

Warden Ernest J. Leeson had previously stated his satisfaction with the county's finances.

ROADS COSTLY.

Once again it was the high cost of maintaining the extensive county roads system that edged the financial statement into the red. The approved expenditure in the 1952 budget was $195,000 on county and suburban area commission roads and $30,000 on bridges and culverts, a total of $225,000.

Because of unexpectedly heavy expenditures on roads the county council approved a bylaw for an extra $5,000, bringing the total expenditure, approved by the Department of Highways to $230,000, an all-time high.

(Actual expenditure is higher than the approved expenditure because of committee fees and some other accounts. However, the Department will pay a subsidy only on the $230,000— 80 per cent on bridges and culverts and 50 per cent on roads.)

Revenue on the roads and bridges account was $176,295.40 and the expenditure was $272,911.70. The difference is made up of subsidy, accounts receivable (such as payment for crushing gravel for the Department of other municipalites), and the $3,994.61 deficit.

Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore, chairman of county roads, said that "every effort" had been made to keep down road costs and remain within the budget, but there was still a small deficit. He said it was difficult to calculate costs to the exact figure.

REPAIR BILL.

One big item that threw the budget out was having to pay an extra $3,104 for repairs to the three-quarter cubic yard, power operated shovel.

The current account share of the deficit inherited from 1951 was $6,903. This was completely wiped out and a surplus of $3,470.31. shown.

In the administration of justice the revenue was $39,406.16, and expenditures were $44,580.71. Revenue included $899.30 in fines etc., $22,974.72 from the city, and $15,532 in a provincial grant.

Cost of the jail was $25,535.38.

Educational expenditure was $13,423.98 for county pupils in the four municipalities not in the school areas. The cost of issuing high school debentures $1,768 was incurred before the debentures were marketed and are entered now on the revenue side of the ledger.

Moscow Calls Israeli Statesmen Agents Of U.S. Imperialism

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—New Times denounced Premier David Ben-Gurion and other Israeli statesmen Wednesday as agents of Anglo-American imperialism and charged Zionist leaders are hostile "toward the Soviet Union and the entire camp of peace."

The official Russian foreign affairs weekly struck also at the American joint distribution committee (a Jewish relief organization) as an espionage-diversionist network in the most severe attack on Zionism yet to appear in the Soviet press.

"Supporting the policy of the American imperialists directed at unleashing a new war. . . the Zionists at the same time are factually supporting everything which contributes to this policy, in particular the policy of restoring the orders of Hitler and establishing bloody, Fascist regimes permeated by a spirit of racial bigotry, including anti-Semitism," New Times charged.

Premier Ben-Gurion, Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, Dr. Reuben Shiloah of the Israeli foreign ministry staff, ambassador Abba S. Eban and the late President Chaim Weizmann drew fire in a New Times editorial.

Ben-Gurion and Sharett were described as carrying out orders of the U.S. state department—orders said to be pointed toward espionage and war. President Weizmann, who died last Nov. 8, was accused of orientation with Britain and, at times, carrying out imperialist policies.

Shiloah was called the head of Israel's intelligence service.

Eban was termed an agent of British intelligence who, as Israeli delegate to the United Nations "aids the Anglo-American bloc in interfering with Soviet proposals directed at strengthening the peace and security of the peoples."

Cobalt Bomb On TV

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Victoria Hospital's cobalt bomb is going to appear on television. Hospital trust Wednesday approved a request from Canadian Television Films, Toronto, a distributor of TV films, to photograph the cobalt 60 beam therapy unit in operation for a movie being made on uranium mining.

Mayors, Reeves Approve MergerRejection

TORONTO (CP)—The report of the Ontario Municipal Board turning down Toronto's application for amalgamation with 12 suburbs and substituting a plan of its own for greater Toronto's problems, received tentative approval in part from Mayor Allan Lamport.

The mayor, who endorsed some of the board's recommendations, said the ultimate good of the proposals will depend on the legislation the provincial government enacts to make them effective.

He said he expects the province to assist in balancing the exchange of assets so that there would be no injustice to Toronto taxpayers.

The board recommendated that a "county municipality" be set up to administer the essential services of all 13 municipalities.

Controller Leslie Saunders, a chief advocate of amalgamation, termed the board's report "an unreasonable lot of hooey." He staked his political future on his opposition to the board's recommendations.

The mayors and reeves of the 12 suburban municipalities generally were relieved that amalgamation had been shelved. But they were not sure what benefits, if any, the smaller centres would derive from a metropolitan council. Some felt they would just become a rubber stamp.

Jailed For 6 Months

WELLAND (CP)—Charged with dangerous driving in connection with a fatal accident Christmas Day, Floyd L. Mansfield, 29, was sentenced Wednesday to six months in jail. The accident occurred near Fort Erie. A passenger in Mansfield's truck, Stewart Rollo of Buffalo, was killed when the vehicle rolled over in a ditch.

BEFORE AND AFTER—The attention of the House of Commons recently was drawn to a sharp reduction in the weight of Health Minister Martin. He said he started to diet 20 months ago and since then has knocked 40 pounds off his former rotund 200. The photo shows Mr. Martin before and after the diet. He also attributed his slimming success to "good conscience, good hard work — and good government."

NewRadioApplicationsConsidered By Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Applications for new radio stations and changes in radio regulations are to be considered by the CBC board of governors at a three-day meeting opening today.

At a public session scheduled for 2 p.m. EST, the nine-member board is to deal with applications for six new radio licences. A series of applications from existing stations for such things as share transfers and power increases also will be considered.

Applications include one by Robert S. Grant for a 1,000-watt station at Kingston. Station CFRC of Kingston applied for a licence to establish a frequency modulation (F) station in Kingston.

Must Respect Different Faiths St. Laurent Says

OTTAWA (CP)—Respect for one another's faith, customs and traditions was urged by Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday in accepting honorary chairmanship of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews for "Brotherhood Week" beginning Feb. 15.

He spoke briefly at a ceremony in the Centre Block where he received Gerald Godsoe, general chairman of the council, Roy H. Thomson and O. B. Rodgers, co-chairmen, and Veteran Affairs Minister Lapointe, director. All but Mr. Lapointe are of Toronto.

"During this week," said Mr. St. Laurent, "Canadians of different religious beliefs, of different racial backgrounds and of different cultural origins are meeting together to pay honor to that spirit of unity and brotherhood that we have been able to achieve during our short history as a nation. . . .

"We must all continue to respect one another's faith, customs and traditions — —even one another's peculiarities—or our citizenship in this nation will be meaningless.

"Because Brotherhood Week strives to preserve and perpetuate tolerance and respect for the contributions each race, religion and culture has made to our common citizenship, I am pleased to commend it to you for your support."

Steam Power Quick Method To Get Hydro

H. S. Dennis, assistant to the liaison engineer at the HEPC Steam Plant at Toronto was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

His topic was the Richard L. Hearn Steam Station at Toronto. Since the end of the Second World War, there has been an increasing demand by industry for more and more power. Why should there be such a demand in a power-producing province like Ontario. The HEPC has not been able to build power stations fast enough. The only way to meet this situation, was to introduce more extensively the steam generating system.

Though more expensive, steam plants require about one year to build. Compared to the never-ending construction of the Hyro Electric Power Stations.

ENGINEERS NEEDED

In Canada there have not been enough trained engineers to fill these new demanding positions. Consequently men have had to be trained, brought from abroad and the United States to fill the requirements of the new steam power plants.

According to Mr. Dennis, there is no great danger in this new type of high pressure generating system, if it is controlled and handled correctly.

There have been some attempts to try to steam heat our cities and towns. But there has not been a great deal of success. It is too expensive a proposition, and too much work involved to tear up city streets, to lay down the piping system.

Russia is the only known country that is believed to have a successful steam heating system that supplies her cities and towns, and she will not disclose this information. But according to Mr. Dennis this is only possible by building communities around the central steam generating station.

After Mr. Dennis' highly technical discussion of the operation of a steam generating station works, he showed a group of slides showing the intricate workings of the steam plant, followed by a question period.

Garth Wade, acting chairman, introduced the guest speaker and he was thanked by Jack Lucas.

Deny Report

LISBON (AP) — The government denied emphatically Wednesday night that Portugal was displeased with the recent selection of Valerian Gracias of India as a cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church. A recent dispatch from Vatican City said Portugal was so displeased when the Pope conferred a cardinal's hat on Gracias, archbishop of Bombay, that Lisbon's ambassador to the Holy See left Rome to avoid paying his respects to Cardinal Gracias.

Jailed 6 Months

LOS ANGELES (CP) — James Lloyd, 42, was sentenced to six months in jail Wednesday for giving his wife a crew haircut. Arrested Dec. 19 on charges of battery and disturbing the peace, Lloyd testified his wife, Mineola, 40, had been drinking and running around and he gave her the haircut to keep her home.

Ask UN Intervene

LAKEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — The Rabbinical Council of America wound up its midwinter meeting with a plea that the United Nations intervene in persuading Russia to allow its Jews to migrate to Israel. Rabbis Wednesday passed a resolution requesting the state department to take the matter up with the UN. The council represents more than 500 orthodox rabbis in the United States and Canada.

Charge 2 With Dueling

EL RENO, Okla. (AP)—County Attorney James V. Phelps said Wednesday two men have been accused under the rare charge of dueling. Solomon C. Steele, 45, is being treated for minor bullet wounds in the face. Willie Lee Williams, 42, has been jailed.

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Twin sisters, Mrs. Margaret Whalen of Helena and Mrs. Jessie Hartley of Palo Alto, Calif., observed their 96th birthday today. Mrs. Whalen planned to cut a cake in her Helena home. Mrs. Hartley lives with a grand-daughter, Mrs. Ruth Clark. They hope for a June reunion when Mrs. Whalen plans to move to California.

CCA PRESIDENT.—John N. Flood of Saint John, N.B., has been elected president of the Canadian Construction Association at its 35th annual general meeting. Formerly CCA vice-president, he has represented Canadian builders at meetings of the International Labor Office in Brussels, Rome and Geneva.

Rescue Old Couple From Burning House

TORONTO (CP)—An 83-year-old man and his blind wife, whom he refused to leave behind, were rescued Wednesday from a burning three-storey house.

Mr. and Mrs. David Claus were trapped in their home-room flat on the second floor. Firemen helped them through smoke-filled hallways to the street.

It was the second time in three days Mrs. Claus was evacuated from her home. There was another fire in the building Monday.

Andrea Leeds Resists Lure For Film Return

By BOB THOMAS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Patrons at an exclusive gift shop here generally take a second glance at the beautiful brunette who has waited on them. They seem to think they have seen her before.

Probably they have. She is Andrea Leeds, one of Hollywood's finest young dramatic actresses in the late 1930s. Now the wife of automotive and horse racing heir Bob Howard, she disappeared from films a dozen years ago.

She is one of the rare film stars who retired from the screen voluntarily.

Film stars often "retire," but usually the retirement is caused by involuntary forces: ill health or—more often—an apathetic audience. Miss Leeds' case was different. She quit when she was in demand as an actress.

SECOND ACTRESS

Another was Jane Bryan, who gave up a promising film career to wed Justin Dart, a drug store magnate.

Neither Miss Leeds nor Miss Bryan has succumbed to blandishments to return to the cameras and grease paint. Both have stuck to their careers as wives and mothers.

Asked if she ever missed movie life, Miss Leeds replied:

"Hardly at all. The only time I think about being an actress is when I see a movie that has a good part in it. I think to myself, 'how I would have liked to play that role!' "

The onetime actress still receives film offers. She won an Academy nomination for "Stage Door" in 1937; bowed out of pictures in 1940. Her last film was "Earthbound" with Warner Baxter.

Canning Farmers Fear Fire Bug

CANNING, Ont. (CP)—This Oxford county village, about 16 miles north east of Woodstock, felt growing tension today as farmers hinted at the presence of a fire bug in the district.

A barn fire Wednesday night on the farm of Thomas McCann, a short distance from here, was the second within a half-mile area in four days. In both cases, farmers noted, the fire broke out about 7 p.m. No origin has been established for either fire.

The first fire, Sunday evening, destroyed a tobacco barn on the farm of Harvey Dafoe.

1953 Cavan Council Holds Inauguration

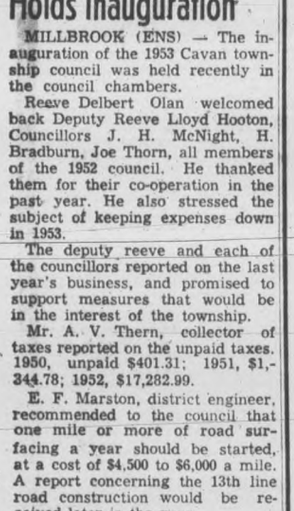
MILLBROOK (ENS) — The inauguration of the 1953 Cavan township council was held recently in the council chambers.

Reeve Delbert Olan welcomed back Deputy Reeve Lloyd Hooton, Councillors J. H. McNight, H. Bradburn, Joe Thorn, all members of the 1952 council. He thanked them for their co-operation in the past year. He also stressed the subject of keeping expenses down in 1953.

The deputy reeve and each of the councillors reported on the last year's business, and promised to support measures that would be in the interest of the township.

Mr. A. V. Thern, collector of taxes reported on the unpaid taxes. 1950, unpaid $401.31; 1951, $1,-344.78; 1952, $17,282.99.

E. F. Marston, district engineer, recommended to the council that one mile or more of road surfacing a year should be started, at a cost of $4,500 to $6,000 a mile. A report concerning the 13th line road construction would be received later in the year.



Some of the outstanding debts for 1952 were ordered to be paid, hospitalization fund $117.25, balance of A. F. Thern salary $132.88. road pay rolls and vouchers, $6,269.25.

Set Summer Time Dates

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control agreed Wednesday that daylight saving time will start in Toronto April 26 and end Sept. 27. The dates were recommended by the Railway Association of Canada which requested co-operation in synchronizing the city's change with that of train schedules.

Plan School Grants

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government plans to bring in legislation to assist schools for retarded children, it was forecast Wednesday at Queen's Park. The action is expected to be through a legislative change to permit grants to such schools.

Flu Spreading Through Half United States

NEW YORK (AP) — Flu — or what feels like flu — has spread into more than half the 48 states, but the outbreaks so far generally have been mild.

The U. S. Army, a state university, a steel company and some local officials have taken steps to combat the infections with influenza vaccine.

A country-wide survey by The Associated Press showed the bulk of the cases are in the central United States. Texas, Tennessee and Arkansas have been particularly hard hit.

Texas reported from 200,000 to 230,000 flu cases. Arkansas had the greatest number of cases of upper respiratory infections in its history. The disease was reaching the epidemic state in Tennessee.

COMPARATIVELY FREE

The eastern and western states were comparatively free of outbreaks, although Florida reported some schools closed to prevent the further spread of an influenza-like disease.

The army is giving flu vaccine to the troops in Korea, Europe and at ports of embarkation for those countries. An outbreak of flu in Bavaria this week resulted in nine deaths at Munich, filled the city's hospitals and closed 27 school rooms.

The Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation announced it is giving flu shots to its 44,000 employees at various plants through the country. The treatments are voluntary.

In Ohio where the incidence so far is low, Ohio State University is planning a voluntary flu immunization program to run through next week.

Vaccine also was administered at the Syracuse (N. Y.) School for Mental Defectives and at the Cook county jail in Chicago.

The reports indicate at least one type flu "bug" — A-prime — is responsible for some of the outbreaks. Some health authorities believe several types of minor virus infections are involved in school shutdowns or heavy absenteeism in several parts of the country.

Need 30-Cent Smokes To Halt Smuggling

SIMCOE (CP)—A 30-cent package of cigarettes is necessary to stop smuggling of United States brands into Canada, chairman Francis R. Gregory of the Ontario flue-cured tobacco marketing board said Wednesday.

The board is meeting here to receive the report of a delegation which Tuesday presented a brief for the tobacco growers to the federal government.

Mr. Gregory said Finance Minister Abbott "can expect little support" at the next election if the plea for tax relief to permit a package of 20 cigarettes for 30 cents is not heeded.

The board announced appointment of James Leathong, 32, of Burford as secretary-treasurer for the association.

Porter Appoints 3 Justices Of Peace

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Porter announced Wednesday the appointment of three justices of the peace.

One is Mrs. Betty Valentine Jones of Orillia, appointed for Simcoe county. Others are Joseph Lacasse of Wendover, for the united counties of Prescott and Russell, and Harold Emerson Jones of Streetsville, for Peel.

Dr. Jean Marc Caron has been appointed coroner for Nipissing and Dr. Charles Edwin Reed of Matachewan for Timiskaming.

Korean Winter Not So Tough To Canadian Army's Arctic-Trained Soldiers After 5 Long Years

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—The Canadian Army's arctic-trained soldiers here say Korea's winter isn't so tough.

They ought to know. They've had five years' winter-warfare training before coming out here.

Up to Jan. 8 the thermometer on the Canadian sector's line of bunkered ridges hadn't dropped below "10-below" by night, and usually by day was somewhere between zero and 25 degrees. Most days it was sunny and the nights were clear, if cold, and sometimes windy.

Said Lt.-Col. Peter Bingham, officer commanding the 1st battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment:

"We haven't had winter enough yet to call it 'winter warfare.' It warms up in the daytime, so that a man isn't spending 75 per cent of his time keeping himself alive as he does in our north.

"This is very much like fighting would be around Toronto."

Lt.-Col. Louis Trudeau officer commanding the 1st battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment, agreed.

In fact, the 38th parallel, just south of the UN line, is more southerly than Canada's southernmost tip in Ontario.

In terms of warmth there is unanimous praise for the army's winter equipment.

Everything the soldiers in Brig. M. P. Bogert's 25th Canadian infantry brigade wear in their positions is Canadian-made but their boots.

Those are the British Army's "boot CWW" meaning "boot, cold wet weather." All riflemen wear the $28 footwear and most are enthusiastic about it. They have no time for the Canadian Army's experimental "X-52" winter boot, and say they'll have another look at it next spring—maybe.

Trudeau says: "Even at $28 a pair the British boots are cheap."

"You can wear them up and down the hills in rain, snow and ice. They've got a better grip than any footwear we've ever had. Some of my men have worn them summer and winter. Their feet are warm in winter and cool in summer. Their socks are always dry.

"The beautiful thing is that you never need to repair them. The soles never wear out. If they were standard army issue you could do away with battalion shoemakers."

The only modification the Canadians would like would be an anklet.

Units pay much attention to feet. The principle is: "If the feet are warm, so is the man."

Each has its own way of handling the socks problem. The important thing is that they be dry.

The 3rd battalion, Prince s Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, issues each man a clean pair every day and withdraws his used ones to be laundered.

The Van Doos have eight pairs of socks with every soldier, right up in his bunker.

There are daily inspections to see that they have been changed.

Every Van Doo going out on patrol takes a pair wrapped around his waist. Inside his battle-dress trousers. After wading a particular stream that figures in most patrols they sit on the far bank and change socks. There is another change as soon as they are back in their own lines.

The Canadians have just drawn British Army "snow suits," made of white cotton-duck for patrolling across the snow. The issue is 200 to a battalion, roughly 40 to a company with a supply in reserve.

Dairy Conference Breaks Down

TORONTO (CP)—Wage negotiations between Toronto milk men and a group of dairies broke down late Wednesday.

The Toronto Milk Distributors' Association and the Toronto Milk Drivers' Union (TLC) agreed to apply jointly to the Ontario labor relations board for conciliation.

The union, representing 1,700 delivery men, seeks an $8-a-week increase for the drivers, who now earn a basic minimum of $51 a week plus commissions.

It rejected a proposal by the dairies to eliminate Wednesday deliveries. The union men said doing away with Wednesday deliveries would reduce the number of jobs and cut down earnings. The drivers work six days a week.

E. Trotter Heads Apsley Branch Of Red Cross

APSLEY (ENS)—Earl Trotter was elected president of Apsley branch of the Red Cross Society at their annual meeting held in the public library.

Miss D. Baxter, nurse in charge of the outpost hospital, reported 33 patients admitted to the hospital, and 872 treated as outpatients. Home visits totalled 379. Eight children were born in the hospital.

Other officers were: first vice-president, Sydney McCauley; second vice-president, Norman Wilson; secretary, Mrs. Theo Post; treasurer, Mrs. M. C. Tucker; board members, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Lean, Mrs. Don Newberry, Mrs. Rol Tucker, Miss M. Jones, Mrs. John Northey, Mrs. Stan Northey, Herb Tucker, Joseph Tucker, W. Jeff, D. Whitmore, Clive Hoard, Mac Bullied.

Four more board members — Mrs. Eric Whitmore, B. Houle, Don Campbell and W. Everett—will be added later.

Mrs. M C. Tucker, 1951 president, reported receipts as $1,907.77, expenditures $733.88, leaving a balance of $1,173.79. Largest outlay, she reported, was for hydro and telephone bills.

Organization of the school health program began in early spring, but it was not until October that actual work in the four district schools began.

Eighty health inspections and conferences have been held at Mount Julian, Lasswade, Owenbrook and Glen Alda to determine gross defects and guide pupils to better health habits.

More than 30 home visits in connection with this program were made. An immunization program was started in December, and response was reported to have been good.

Three Members Resign Board

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Three members of the provisional board of directors of the East Windsor Hospital resigned Wednesday, leaving the new permanent board in charge.

The resignations were those of T. Walker Whiteside, QC.; Owen R. Chapman and Maurice F. Coughlin, QC.

Two city representatives and one county representative were admitted to membership in the East Windsor Hospital Association and elected to membership on the board of directors.

They are Eli Goldin, Windsor business man, and ex-controller John F. Martin, city representatives, and Lt.-Col. F. K. Jasperson of Kingsville, county appointee.

Commandant To Die

METZ, France (Reuters) — A French military court imposed the death sentence Wednesday on Col. Karl Buck, accused of the murder of 78 prisoners in a Nazi concentration camp where he was wartime commandant. One of his guards, Karl Nussberger, also was sentenced to death. Other guards drew prison terms ranging up to 20 years.

Canadian Soldier Weds

HANNOVER, Germany (AP)—Lieut. Tom Tessier, 27, of Montreal has become the first Canadian soldier to marry a German girl since the 27th infantry brigade came to Germany more than a year ago. Tessier married Christine Hunger, 25, a German refugee from near Halle, in the Russian zone, last week-end.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Banana Or Corn Fritters Really A Cinch To Make

Hail is lashing at my window, and it is very dark for the middle of the day and I've just returned from buying groceries and vegetables so something had to be done about cheering up the old place.

When I looked over the array of vegetables there were the same things as usual. Not like summertime when every time you go to market there's a beautiful new season fruit or vegetables to greet you.

So just like Pollyanna I made the best of a dreary situation. I made banana fritters. For some of you fritter cooking will open up a new or unusual field of cooking.

Do you like the idea of fritters? I hope you are thinking "yes." Fritters are so crisp and delicious and you sound so cooking-wise if you can make them. They are really a cinch.

Banana fritters top all others for flavor (even though "the undertaker titters when you eat banana fritters"). Corn fritters run them a close second.

BANANA FRITTERS.

Fritter Batter: One cup sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ¼ cup sugar, 1 well-beaten egg, 1-3 cup milk, 2 teaspoons melted shortening. sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into bowl. Beat egg and add milk and shortening to it. Add to dry ingredients and beat until batter is smoot. This batter is stiff. It makes crisp fritters which stay crisp, so do not attempt to thin it

Cut 3 large bananas into four crosswise after peeling. Roll in flour then dip in batter and completely cover and drain. Deep-fry or shallow-fry in hot fat for about 6 minutes, turning them 3 times. Fat should be heated to 375 deg. Fahr. This will brown a cube of bread in about 40 seconds. Drain on crumpled paper towel. Serve banana fritters as an accompaniment to Baked Ham or Baked Ham Slice. Or if you serve them for dessert make Lemon Sauce: Make a syrup by boiling together ¾ cup sugar, ¼ cup water and grated rind of 1 lemon, for 5 minutes Remove from heat and add 2 teaspoons butter and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

CORN FRITTERS.

One cup canned corn (canned corn should be drained before measuring), 1 cup unsifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, shake of cayenne pepper, 2 eggs. Sift flour, baking powder and seasonings and stir it into the corn and beaten egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat at 375 deg. Fahr. (will brown cube of bread in 40 seconds). Cook until golden and well puffed, turning once. Drain on crumpled paper towels. Serve at once

QUEEN FRITTERS.

Many fruits, jellies and preserves or jams may be used in these as a filling. We like frozen or fresh strawberries or black currant jam. Three tablespoons butter, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup flour, 3 eggs. Have the water boiling in a saucepan, then add the butter. When boiling again add flour all at once, stirring quickly until mixture leaves sides of pan. Remove from heat and chill. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time; beat until smooth after each egg has been added. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat which browns cube of bread in 70 seconds—355 deg. Fahr. Cook until very light turning once. Drain on crumpled paper towels. Make an opening in side when about to serve, fill with fruit or jelly or preserves. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve at once.

If you like more fritter recipes let me know.

If you want return mail, don't forget chums, to enclose stamped self-addressed envelope.

Nerves On Edge, Headache, Backache, Couldn't Sleep

Also Suffered Six Years With Stomach Disorders. "Am Surprised How Much Better I Sleep and How Much Better I Feel Since Taking Syntona," Says This Woman.

MRS. VERNA CATER

"Before I began taking Syntona a few weeks ago I used to lie awake all hours of the night, but I have this grand medicine to thank for my relief and I'm like a different person," saids Mrs. Verna Carter, 39 Hess St., South, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"I had all the aches and pains that any one could have in my back, limbs, joints and muscles. My stomach became so upset that nearly everything I ate caused gas, indigestion and sour acidity. I would get dizzy feelings, throbbing headaches and my nerves were all on edge. This condition weakened me and I felt competely tired and rundown.

"I read how Syntona was helping men and women in every part of this city and while I didn't see how it could possibly help me, I decided to get some. In just a little while I began to feel better and with this encouragement kept on taking it. Now I am surprised how much better I feel and how much better I sleep at night. I feel so refreshed when I awaken in the mornings and all the aches and pains and other troubles that I had are now relieved. Its certainly wonderful for me to feel so good again and I will recommend Syntona to anybody suffering the same way."

Syntona is purely Herbal; contains no soda, iron, or other minerals. It is pleasant to take, safe, dependable, and has helped thousands of men and women.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliot's Drug Store. (Advt.)

No Snow for "Snow Ball"

For St. Peter's Sodality there is vague promise of snow on Friday afternoon for their annual "Snow Ball," but a following rain will likely have melted it all too soon to make authentic their crowning of this year's Snow Queen (about 11 p.m. at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.) The dance will be a pretty formal affair, however, and the guests will be welcomed by Miss Catherine Kieran, prefect of the Sodality, assisted by her escort Mr. Lawrence Beresford. Attending as patrons and patronesses will be Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. J. Marino, and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Heffernan.

Pictures Show Tropical Christmas

Miss Jean Hammond gave her fellow members of the YWCA '38 Club an interesting evening Wednesday when she told them the highlights of her recent trip to Trinidad and Bermuda illustrating all the while by projecting on the screen the colored pictures she had taken. Miss Hammond spent Christmas in Trinidad with former Peterborough friends, Misses Connie and Marion Wagar. The contrast of tropical scenery with Christmas concerts where the traditional carols were sung and school pupils dramatized the birth of Christ, on open verandahs shaded from the hot sun was most interesting to her Canadian audience. Guests of the club for this occasion included a charter member of this club when it was formed in 1938. The president Miss Geraldine Dunford conducted business which included appointing Miss Annie Williams as delegate to the regional conference being held in Oshawa February 21 and 22. Miss Winnie Hunter, the social hostess, characterized the evening by serving pineapple cake. Miss Hammond's pictures included several of a pineapple farm she visited in Trinidad.

The treasurer's report was most gratifying with givings far in excess of previous years. The Rev. E. W. Rowland conducted installation of officers and followed with an inspiring message on the text "Know thyself; Conquer thyself; Trust thyself." Mrs. A. E. Outram had charge of the worship and scripture was read by Mrs. G. Adams. Mrs. Munro brought an encouraging message on the coming year's work. Mrs. A. Olmstead and Mrs. Munro are to be delegates to the WMS Presbyterial meeting next Tuesday.

Recognition of his ability soon came in the form of requests for his designs from all over Canada and the name Hansen became widely known.

All Former Pupils Invited To Confederation 25th

The 25th anniversary of the Confederation School is being celebrated with an "open house" for former students this coming Tuesday evening, January 27th. The Home and School Association is arranging this unique affair and hoped for a very large attendance.

All four members of the first teaching staff intend to be present and the principal in long Mrs. H. B. Jackson of Young's Point, will be called on for a short speech. Also Mr. Leo Conn who was school inspector at that time.

Receiving at the school door will be Mr. Walter Bannon, a trustee before the school was taken into the city, and former members of the Board of Education, and Mr. Clarence Porter, a former pupil and now a member of the board, assisted by Mrs. Bannon and Mrs. Porter, the latter also a former pupil of the school.

Another special guest will be Mr. G. Wilson Craw the chairman of the Board of Education's accommodation committee, and he will speak briefly about the new addition to the school.

About 250 invitations for the evening have been mailed out by the committee which included association president Mrs. Lionel Monk, Mrs. Donald Wood and Mrs. Porter. They have taken the names from the old registers of the school but in many cases they were not able to trace the girls who had married and they therefore extend a public invitation to anyone not otherwise contacted.

The entertainment will include barbershop quartette singing and refreshments are to be served.

DOROTHY DIX

Surly Hubby Needs Lesson Wife Far Too Complacent

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do after 11 years of marriage that has included constant mental and physical abuse? My husband has an ungovernable temper and, according to his family, always has had. I love him very much, and am sure if he were capable of loving anyone, he would love me. I've been patient and kind for years, but have given up hope that he'll change. He has a good business of his own.

Realizing at the beginning of our marriage that he needed something that would be a happy responsibility, and since one of his virtues is that he always pays his debts, I persuaded him to build a home. It was a lovely place, but suddenly he decided to sell it as the children in the neighborhood made him nervous. He is very impulsive. We moved to the country, but since I was left alone so much, I finally induced him to move closer to town, which we did six months ago. We now have a charming home, though my husband paid more for it than he should have.

About once a month he goes on a drunk, which is his way of "blowing off steam," and I always stave off business calls, anything that might be embarrassing. He always seems so discontented, especially if he isn't getting his own way. Many times he has asked me for a divorce, then changed his mind. Now, however, he says he really wants one, but won't let me consult a lawyer; he says we can arrange it between us. He also tells me I can't have the house. I don't want a divorce, and I tell him if he wants one to go ahead and get it. However, he has no grounds. At first I thought of walking out and letting him have what's here because I don't want to hurt him. After thinking things over, I've decided not to do that; it wouldn't make him think any more of me and I've worked very hard to accumulate the things we have. Since he's found out that I'm not giving in so easily, he has made me a proposition. He'll let me stay in the house, living with him in name only, as long as I let him come and go as he wishes. He has been going out with women for some time and, of course, wants the freedom of continuing to do so.

Should I be sweet and kind, hoping he will change?

✧ ✧ ✧

REMEMBER A WIFE'S RIGHTS

ANSWER: You absolutely bewilder me by the scope of your complacence. Your long letter, which I have considerably shortened, gives proof after proof of your husband's utter irresponsibility and irrationality, and your comlete subjection to every whim of his. You also are apparently completely ignorant concerning your own marital and property rights. You do deserve credit for realizing, at the beginning of your marriage, that your husband needed some responsibility and that a home would provide it. From then on, you seem to be entirely concerned with salving his feelings, not crossing him in any desire and, in brief, being the perfect "yes" woman.

Your tacit acceptance of his suggestion that you accept the charity of his roof in return, I imagine, for housewifely duties performed, is the last straw. Are you a wife, or an unpaid maid? The gelatinous column that serves you as a backbone probably wouldn't permit you to strike an attitude of independence, but in case it does, I would suggest that you consult a lawyer as to your legal rights concerning the house and other property, and get the divorce question settled once and for all.

Stop urging your husband to get the divorce; if there is to be one, make sure you get it. You certainly have plenty of grounds, and by being the plaintiff rather than the defendant, your reputation, as well as your right to support and property, are protected. However, as long as you go on feeling sorry for your husband, nothing will be accomplished until he decides to turn you out of the house—which will come one of these days, you may be sure.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a 16-year-old high school student, and very fond of a boy, 19. Although my parents allow me to date other boys, they will not permit me to goth with this particular one because of some mistakes he made when he was younger. I'm convinced that he has changed, but my parents refuse to listen to me.

J. F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You should be guided by your parents' judgment. Perhaps the boy has changed; if so, it won't hurt to wait another year or two and let him prove his reformation. I firmly believe in giving anyone a chance to rebuild a damaged reputation, but not at the possible expense of someone as young as you are.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to a boy five years my senior. I am 19. He is the best boy a girl could have, except for one think. He always wants to go and visit his friends who are married. I like to go to dances and movies once in a while. I don't like to be a "stick in the mud."

MARION

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If the young man won't go to the trouble of trying to please you now, he never will. You've seen the sort of recreation he likes; if you can't share it, better stop seeing him.

Divert Heavy Traffic From Court House

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Truck traffic was diverted away from Essex county courthouse Wednesday after Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel complained about the "infernal noise" of traffic outside.

Voices of court officials and witnesses were drowned out several times during the morning session.

Mr. Justice LeBel asked crown attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald, a member of the city police commission, if anything could be done to help the situation.

During the afternoon session two police officers diverted truck traffic away from streets near the courthouse.

WORK ALONG RIVER

Dr. Katz, on the staff of Canada's defence research board, put his field men along the Detroit river because it is a narrow stretch in the connecting waterways. The outpourings from steamship funnels add appreciably to the heavy blanket of smoke and smog of that highly industrialized area.

The field men use their eyes, a couple of gadgets and a formula known as the Ringelmann chart. They have found that, through mechanical-control devices and instruction, air pollution from lake vessels has decreased steadily in the last few years.

The degree of blackness of smoke establishes its density. Number five Ringelmann is the worst, 100 per cent of densest black. Poor combustion means the maximum presence of carbon, soot and tarry and oil products. Also present are up to 20 metallic elements, such as silica, iron, calcium, magnesium, aluminum and lead. The combination of all these contributes as contaminants to respiratory troubles which, in turn, place an added burden on the heart.

Dr. Katz is happy when tests show No. 1 Ringelmann, 20 per cent of densest blackness. No. 2 is 40 per cent, No. 3 60 per cent, and No. 4 80 per cent.

The field men took smoke density readings on 3,563 passages of the Detroit river from April to November, last year. An improvement was noted over the previous year but it was less pronounced than in 1950.

Murray Street Reports Membership Up

The 107th annual meeting of Murray Street Baptist Church was held Wednesday evening. Following a period of devotions conducted by the minister, the Rev. Ivan Morgan, and the reading of the memorial list, the business meeting was held with the minister as chairman.

The report of the church clerk revealed a membership of 569, a net increase of 24 during the year. The financial reports were very encouraging. The church and its organizations contributed approximately $25,000 during 1952, of which $8,000 was for missionary causes.

The stewardship canvass for 1953, held in November, was participated in by 60 men of the church. Its results indicate greatly increased givings for 1953, and a quickening of interest in the general work and worship of the church. Of particular significance was the report of the church school under the general superintendency of John Cullis. There are now 48 teachers and officers, every available room is being used, and the attendance is threatening to break the all-time high.

D. A. Will Introduce Bill On Level Crossings

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian citizens made up 97 per cent of the 14,009,429 population in the 1951 census, the first count of heads since the Citizenship Act was passed in 1947.

The bureau of statistics reported today that 13,567,939 residents of Canada were Canadian citizens, 104,071 were citizens of other British Commonwealth countries and 337,419 were citizens of other nations.

Of the latter, 69,000 were United States citizens, 236,490 were citizens of European countries, 15,122 of Asiatic countries and 16,807 said they were citizens of other countries or stateless.

Men outnumbered women among those claiming citizens ip in other countries except the 69,000 U.S. citizens. There were 34,833 female U.S. citizens living in Canada and 34,167 males.

Canadians Should Place More Value On Culture

People do not place values where they should these days, William Graff, Peterborough librarian, told a capacity audience at So-Ed in the YMCA auditorium Wednesday night.

The subject of Mr. Graff's address was Canadian culture.

The greatest value is placed on the builders of material aspects of the country rather than the works of Canadian poets, philosophers, artists, and thinkers, the speaker said.

"For too long Canadians have tried to excuse so-called lack of development of culture in this country by saying that we are still near the pioneer stage."

Mr. Graff briefly discussed the developments of all facets of Canadian culture.

VARIED RADIO

He paid tribute to the Canadian radio—both CBC and private radio—for providing a varied fare. The CBC and early Canadian TV were complimented for the stimulus they are giving to Canadian talent.

"The CBC has given a major push to Canadian music and drama and is internationally famous for its work in the field of adult education," he said.

The growth of the National Film Board and the resultant springing up of film councils from coast to coast was also outlined by the speaker He explained that the NFB came out of the Second World War as a medium for portrayal of the country's defence effort. Its further development arose from a demand by Canadians for information about their own country

"Through this development Canadians have come to know more about themselves in all respects—in arts, industry and geography."

HAVE OTHER JOBS

All Canadian authors are writing under adverse conditions, Mr. Graff said. With the exception of a few they all have to work at other jobs as well to make a living. In addition they find it difficult to find readers in their own country whereas many books by Canadian authors are gaining great popularity in other countries.

He said that there has been tremendous development in Canadian drama and ballet during the past few years, but it was painting that had become the best known of Canadian cultural activities abroad.

In his concluding remarks, the speaker warned that a critical faculty was extremely important in surveying any of the aspects of Canadian art. But equally important was the growth of national feeling to suport and encourage.

"Open your minds to the creative works of fellow citizens," he said. "Keep an open mind and don't think that Canadian art is necessarily bad because a Canadian does it."

Lindsay Hospital In Difficulty Building Is Said Obsolete

LINDSAY (ENS) — The need for expansion and increased facilities at the Ross Memorial Hospital was brought to a head Wednesday at two meetings, the first when members of the hospital board made representation to Victoria county council to ask for an increased grant, and the second when a hospital consultant told a large group at a public meeting what the hospital needs and how the situation can be remedied.

H. S. Johnson, chairman of the hospital board reported to council the hospital needed additional funds. He commented on the closing of the nurses training school for lack of sufficient money and declared the training school is a must for the hospital. It was pointed out, in this regard by Dr. A. E. Metcalfe, of the board, that at the last examinations held in the nurses school, there had been a passing percentage of 100 per cent in registered nurses test. Mr. Johnson also said a nursing school at the hospital would assure a steady supply of nurses for the future.

Speaking on the need for funds, T. H. Stinson, QC, another member of the board, said "the time has come when health and education are very expensive elements in a community. Of the two, health is in a more difficult plight, since education is blessed with such large grants from the various governments.

"Hospitals all over the province are running behind in their finances—it looks to me as if the county council will have to take something from their roads appropriation, and give it to the hospital grant. Hospitals will never be self-supporting "we've got to the end of our tether, operating without assistance."

Ex-Warden Ray Webster, a former member of the board, said that rising labor costs and increased debts through non-payment of bills had made the situation what it is today. He urged a closer method of examining the financial means of those admitted to the hospital with the view to collecting more bills before treatment commenced. The council, he said, would find it almost necessary to support the hospital, as far as maintainence was concerned, at least. The council assured the board consideration of the requests before the session ended.

RESULT OF SURVEY

Dr. G. Harvey Agnew, of Toronto, one of the leading hospital consultants on the continent, told the large group assembled in the town hall of his findings. He said the present hospital is 50 years old, and most of it is "obsolete." The maternity wing was 30 years old and almost as outdated as the rest of the building. He pointed out that the hospital was built to handle 35 patients. In recent years it had been running almost to double capacity. The doctor recommended a new operating room, and the removal of the old wards for modernizing. He said there should be more room for administration and staff, and advocated the installation of elevators. In the obstetrical department, he said, there should be two good nurseries, two labor rooms, and a delivery room. A small morgue, he said, should also be included in any plans.

In presenting plans for solving the situation, Dr. Agnew outlined two or three schemes. The one which seemed to find the most favor with those assembled was the building of a new east wing, which would tie in with the present set-up and be four storeys in height. The remodelling of the present facilities to accommodate this new wing would include the taking out of the present main entrance and the east public ward. This space would be converted to administration offices and a lobby, and the new wing would fit in with the old "cottage type" hospital building. The new wing would also accommodate the nurses' residence, and the kitchen. This plan, he told the audience, would cost about $1,250,000.

This set-up would accommodate about 115 beds and would be adequate for years to come. In outlining how the cost might be cut, he said various government grants would decrease this expenditure sizeably, and also that the upper floor of the wing could be left open to be built up at later date. Chairman of the board Johnson said that the figure quoted staggered him, but that some thought should be given by the various councils and organizations with a view to raising the best part of the sum, so that the main part of the new hospital could be built.

Canada Tests Flu Vaccine

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has launched tests of a flu vaccine in hospitals and industrial plants across the country, federal health authorities said today.

The tests, which likely will be completed in April, are to show the protective value of a vaccine being produced in Toronto laboratories and which is aimed to knock out four different types of flu virus at one time.

Tests to show the protective value of the vaccine among the aged and debilitated in Ottawa's institutions were carried out last year and authorities said they were encouraged by the results.

So far no widespread outbreaks of flu in Canada have been reported to the health department, but some officials were concerned about the spread of the outbreaks in Europe and the United States.

A New York dispatch said today that flu or what feels like flu has spread to more than half the 48 states, but the outbreaks so far generally have been mild.

Hold Up Lawyer Thieves Get $3,280

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean-Marie Beriault, a Montreal lawyer, was held up and robbed of $3,280 early today outside a mid-town night club.

Beriault said most of the money was the property of his brother-in-law, Jack Latt, owner of the Melody Cafe. Beriault said he picked up the receipts twice-weekly, took them home and banked them next morning.

He told police one of the men pointed a revolver at him and the other grabbed a cloth bag containing the money.

Has 88th Birthday

LONDON (Reuters) — The grand old man of the Royal Navy, Admiral of the Fleet Sir Henry Oliver, today celebrated his 88th birthday and the 25th anniversary of his appointment to the service's highest rank. Sir Henry commanded the navy in the days when it boasted only 60 battleships and cruisers. He joined in 1878 and 40 years later rose to admiral of the fleet.

Ballet Spoofing Sherlock Holmes Hailed In London

LONDON (AP) — A new ballet spoofing Sherlock Holmes was greeted with delight by London reviewers today.

The work, by Margaret Dale and Richard Arnell, was staged for the first time Wednesday night by the famous Sadler's Wells Company.

It is called "The Great Detective." Holmes' name never is mentioned. But there was no mistaking the character danced by Kenneth McMillan in a checkered duster and the famous deer-stalker cap.

When Holmes was offstage, McMillan leaped nimbly to the wrong side of the law and portrayed the evil Professor Moriarty, one man who could give Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's celebrated detective a run for his money.

The stage was strewn with corpses, festooned with leaping policemen and garnished with all the spies, poisonous snakes and such that any devotee of the Holmes legend has a right to expect.

Watson, the somewhat stuffy narrator of the Doyle stories, was turned into a nimble Victorian wolf as danced by Stanley Holden.

Taxes Straight, Spinster 75 To Eat Again

CLEVELAND (AP) — Now that she understands the income tax laws, Miss Ray Gilbert was eating again today.

But the 75-year-old spinster was unable to convince her sister, Miss Harriet, 76, that they did not owe the government. The sister still refused food.

They stopped eating several days ago as the climax to months of worrying about taxes they mistakenly believed they owed the government.

Then Wednesday, a reporter persuaded Miss Ray to talk things over with the internal revenue department office. She learned that instead of owing money, she had a $33 refund coming on the tax she paid last year.

Miss Ray said she had been getting a pension of $125 monthly as a retired teacher, and had claimed Miss Harriet as a dependent since she retired 10 years ago. Both became convinced Miss Ray should not have claimed a dependent since Miss Harriet had money in the bank.

They said they were afraid those "government men" would take away their house.

Man Dies Twice During Operation

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — An 83-year-old man, who "died" twice during delicate surgery at St. Francis hospital Monday, finally lost his fight for life Wednesday night.

"He had a fighting heart and was doing his best to help," one doctor said, "but his advanced age and medical complications were too much for him."

At the request of the family, the man's identity was not revealed.

The heart of the remarkable oldster stopped beating twice while he was being operated on for a massive bleeding gastric ulcer Monday noon. The first time the surgeons immediately opened the chest cavity and massaged life back into the heart.

Ten minutes later, the heart stopped again. This time an ingenius machine, the vacuum-cup defibrillator, was used to "shock" the heart back into regular action. Twice electric currents were sent shooting through the heart until, with further massaging, the heart beat resumed.

Doctors estimated the heart stopped "about 40 seconds" the first time and "several seconds" the second time.

Trinity WMS Hears

She commented on the striking loyalty to the memory of the late King George VI shown in many ways by the people of Columbo, Singapore and Madras. Services at the time of his death were impressive in their sincerity, she said. Everywhere in India she had notitced a contrast between the indifferent loyalties shown to the British throne during Gandhi's regime.

At Madras Mrs. Armstrong had visited Dorothy Pearson whose work in nutrition and other experimental fields is doing much to exalt the dignity of labor and therefore to decry the caste system, she believed.

Mrs. Armstrong left with her audience the thought "that day by day distances between peoples east and west counts less, and therefore, more than ever, through co-operation, friendship and mutual appreciation of values should we strive for peace among all people."

Mrs. McFadden expressed appreciation to Mrs. Armstrong for sharing her experiences with the ladies.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Norman Elliott and her committee.

COUNTER-CLAIM IN A LIBEL SUIT against the Trenton Courier-Advocate, a semi-weekly newspaper, was abandoned Wednesday by the newspaper. Through its publisher and editor, J. Nolan Sisson and Gwyn Hopkin-Morgan, the Courier-Advocate is being sued for libel by Victor E. Ryan, a former councillor of Trenton. Mr. Ryan declares he was libelled in two editorials published — "A Jekyll and Hyde in Council" and "Let Us Protect Our Liberty." Mr. Justice R. A. Danis is hearing the suit, and J. J. Robinette, KC, is prosecuting. R. R. McMurty, QC, is defending the editor and publisher.

Paper Abandons Counter Suit

BELLEVILLE (CP)—Abandonment of the counter-claim against excouncillor Victor R. Ryan, who is suing the publisher and editor of the Trenton Courier-Advocate for defamatory libel, was announced here in Supreme Court late today.

R. R. McMurtry, counsel for newspaper publisher J. Nolan Sisson and his editor, Gwyn Hopkin-Morgan, informed Mr. Justice Danis that he was abandoning the counter-claim. The counter suit for damages was based on a handbill which Ryan wrote and distributed, attacking the newspaper.

"This is the first indication I have had that the defendants realized they had no case," remarked J. J. Robinette, counsel for Ryan.

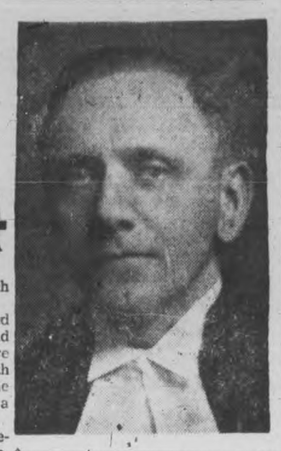
Mr. McMurtry jumped to his feet. "A most improper statement," he snapped.

Mr. Robinette drew the court's attention to the matter of costs of the counter-claim, and was informed that it would be taken into consideration at the conclusion of the trial.

Mr. McMurtry said newspapers have a privilege and a duty to criticize persons in public life and to make fair comment on public affairs.

"God forbid that the time will come when we have mealy-mouthed newspapers which will not come out and express their opinions," said Mr. McMurty, opening the defense.

Two editorials in the Dec. 7, 1951, issue of the Trenton-Courier Advocate, are the basis for the libel action against Sisson and Hopkin-Morgan. In one editorial the plaintiff was likened to a human gramaphone. It suggested that Ryan's chief function on Trenton Town Council was to repeat the opinions of two prominent citizens of the town, who were not named. A parade of witnesses yesterday and today brought in the names of Senator W. A. Fraser and O. (Buster) Alyea, prominent Trenton business man.



Defense witnesses, including newspaper reporters, who had covered meetings of the Trenton Council, testified that Ryan invariably took the same view as Fraser and Alyea on matters which came before council. Alyea, owner of a coal business, is Ryan's employer.

Ross Burtt, first defense witness, said he had been on Trenton Council for 17 years. It was his opinion that Ryan, "99 per cent of the time," reflected the views of his employer, Alyea, on issues in which the latter took a position.

All defense witnesses expressed the opinion that the second editorial, in which no names were mentioned, was not connected with the first editorial, in which the plaintiff was referred to as a gramaphone.

There were frequent clashes between opposing counsel, and frequently throughout the morning and afternoon sessions voices were raised in anger.

The case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow afternoon.

Duplessis Seeks Direct Taxes

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis asserted Wednesday in the legislative assembly that the field of direct taxation belongs to the provinces under the Canadian constitution and charged that federal "encroachments" have "pushed the provinces to the wall."

Opening a full-dress debate on constitutional questions and federal-provincial relations, Mr. Duplessis said Quebec needs all the revenues it is entitled to collect at a time when industrial development is in full swing.

Liberal House leader George Marler, replying to the premier's hour-long speech, said the Quebec government's "negative" attitude toward federal-provincial taxation agreements since 1944 "has cost the province much".

Firm Gets Permission To Build Ore Plant

TORONTO (CP)—United States Steel Corporation has received permission to build a plant in the province costing not more than $1,000,000 for the processing of iron ore, the Ontario Gazette said Wednesday.

Presumably the plant would be built if iron ore is found on the U.S. Steel property near Simcoe and would be used to treat low-grade ore prior to shipment to American mills for processing.

As yet no announcement has been made as to whether iron has been found, although the company has been drilling since last summer.

Robbers Get Rich Haul

LAHORE, India (Reuters)—Three masked and armed men forced the Begum Habibullah Asad to hand over keys to a safe containing $145,600 after they entered her home Tuesday night. Her husband, a Punjab government official, slept undisturbed in the next room. The money had been drawn from a bank earlier to buy jewelry.

Shuts Up Shop

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—El Dia, an independent liberal newspaper highly critical of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra's government, has shut up shop after a court ordered its equipment attached to cover back social security payments. Lt.-Col. Maria Jaramillo editor of the 40-year-old publication, said Wednesday he had locked up the plant and the equipment would "be taken only by force."

Truman Looking For Work To Keep Out Of Devilment

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Harry S. Truman, welcomed home in roaring receptions that moved him to the verge of tears, began looking for work today lest idleness lead him into "devilment."

After nearly eight turbulent years and unprecedented responsibilities at a time of world crisis, he suddenly found himself with nothing to do but unpack and find a job.

Harry Truman, former President of the United States, is a restless man who has been working 17 hours a day at the White House in Washington, and he's already worrying how long he can "take it easy."

"It's not hard work that gets a man into trouble," he told reporters. "It's the lack of it. When a fellow has nothing to do he gets into devilment."

MANY OFFERS

Offers of high paying jobs continued to pour in from all parts of the country, but he withheld any acceptances until he can find something to his liking and suitable to his talents.

He already has rented a private office in the Federal Reserve Bank Building in nearby Kansas City.

The former President and Mrs. Truman stepped from the presidential private car Wednesday night to find a crowd estimated at 10,000 gathered around the little depot to give them an emotional greeting.

SECOND WELCOME

Another throng of 1,500 waited in the street when the Trumans drove up to their big, white frame home and there were more cheers.

There had been recepions all along the route from Washington, where he saw Dwight D. Eisenhower inaugurated at noon Tuesday, and all of them had their effect on the 68-year-old Missourian.

"But this is the climax," he told newspapermen.

"If I was being elected to something, I could understand this."

Long-Term Outlook "Extremely Bright"

TORONTO (CP)—R. S. Vanstone, president of the Bank of Toronto, said Wednesday the long-term outlook for the Canadian economy is "extremely bright."

He told the bank's annual meeting that the country is entering 1953 with considerably more promise than it entered 1952. He added:

"Our vast store of natural resources, only in the initial stages of development, becomes steadily more valuable, not only because of greater use but also by steady depletion in other countries. We have a balanced budget, favorable trade balance and sound currency."

Refuses Support

BERLIN (AP) — Bishop Otto Dibelius, head of the Protestant Church for all Germany, refused today to support the Soviet-zone campaign on West Berlin agencies assailed by the Communists as "spy and terror groups." The East Christian Democratic party had asked Dibelius to join in the attack on the American radio station RIAS and anti-Communist underground groups.

Municipal Board Rejects Amalgamation

TORONTO (CP) Toronto's bid to become the largest city in Canada was rejected today by the Ontario municipal board.

Instead, the board recommended that the tangled public services of this city of some 675,000 persons and its satellite suburbs should be administered by a metropolitan council. This was interpreted as meaning a county-council system, made up of representatives of the 13 municipalities.

The 30,000-word report was expected to please neither the proponents of out-and-out amalgamation of all the suburbs with Toronto nor those favoring a less drastic measure of unification of essential services such as police and fire protection, water supply and sewage disposal.

The report, outcome of 3,000,000 words of testimony at public hearings, was only a recommendation. The board put the problem of the area's tangled affairs squarely up to the provincial legislature.

BOARD SUGGESTIONS

The board proposed:

A "county municipality" which would take over jurisdiction of all services which the board considers essential. This would not at first include the police and fire departments.

A metropolitan council of four elected members representing Toronto, four the suburbs and a chairman appointed by the province.

The council would collect taxes from its component units according to their ability to pay. It would distribute services to the components according to their need.

The council would finance capital expenditures for education, have jurisdiction over public transportation, plan and maintain streets and highways and assume and finance the area's statutory financial obligations for social services such as homes for the aged.

One basic principle advanced in the report is that no single municipality can control or dominate the federation. Yet no unit loses its identity or autonomy in the political field.

TO HAVE LEGISLATION

Premier Frost is expected to introduce legislation, probably based on the report's recommendations, at the forthcoming session of the legislature. Any plan developed likely will go into effect Jan. 1, 1954.

Toronto brought the question of amalgamation, subject of debate for years, to a direct issue with its application to the board that the surrounding municipalities be incorporated into the city. Its reasons were these:

The suburban area — 12 separate municipalities with a combined population of some 441,000 — feed on Toronto and cannot live on their own resources.

Most of the working population of those municipalities work in the city which maintains services such as street-car and bus routes from which suburbanites alone derive the benefits.

Toronto, bordered on the south by Lake Ontario, has reached the limit of its physical expansion. It needs space only the suburbs to the north, east and west can provide.

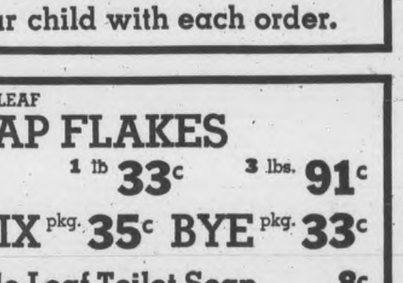
FOUGHT BY MUNICIPALITIES

The proposal was fought tooth-and-nail by all the affected suburban municipalities except Mimico, on the west, which was willing to go along with "unification." That envisaged placing the 13 municipalities' essential services under one common authority but leaving the suburbs political autonomy

The board didn't like that, either. It sought to effect a compromise that would safeguard the autonomy of the suburbs yet bring a measure of cohesion in the essential-services field.

Besides Toronto, the municipalities affected are: Leaside, Mimico, New Toronto, Weston, Forest Hill Village, Swansea, Long Branch East York, North York, York, Etobicoke and Scarborough

All are inextricably meshed with Toronto and, in the case of wealthy Forest Hill Village, all but surrounded by a city crowded on to 22,000 acres.



Apart from losing out on its cherished amalgamation proposal, Toronto's not-too-well-hidden hopes to top Montreal with its population of 903,007 and to become Canada's largest city also were dashed.

Wilson Promises To Sell GM Stock, Way Clear For Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles E. Wilson, after removing the apparent big obstacle of his becoming defence secretary, has been nominated to fill that remaining post in the Eisenhower cabinet. The Senate promptly moved to give Wilson a hearing preparatory to the quick approval predicted by a number of influential senators. President Eisenhower formally named the former president of General Motors Corporation Thursday night to head the important defence department after, the White House said, Wilson colunteered to dispose of his GM stock.

Wilson's retention of a financial interest in the company has aroused strong opposition in the

CHARLES E. WILSON

Senate. As a result, Eisenhower left out the defence secretaryship when he submitted the names of his other cabinet choices Tuesday.

In the defence post, Wilson would be in position to deal with GM, the department's biggest private contractor. A federal law bars any federal official from transacting business with a firm in which he holds even an indirect financial interest.

CLOSED SESSION

Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (Rep.-Mass.) summoned Wilson to a closed session of the Senate armed services committee today. Saltonstall said the cabinet designee would "clarify" his previous testimony that he would not give up his GM stock and would deal, as secretary, with the firm he once headed.

Saltonstall told a reporter he believes this anticipated switch in Wilson's stand will win him approval by the committee. Senators Harry Byrd (Dem.-Va.), who first cited the legal ban, and Richard Russell (Dem.-Ga.) agreed.

In any event, considerable debate appeared likely if and when the appointment goes to the Senate floor. That probably will not be until sometime next week.

Eisenhower's formal nomination of Wilson at least brought to a head the controversy which has confronted the new Republican administration with its first crisis.

SEE PRESIDENT'S HAND

There was some indirect indication that the President had a hand in Wilson's decision. A Republican senator who declined to be quoted by name said the former GM president had, right up to a White House conference Thursday night, maintained his refusal to sell the stock.

Wilson is said to have told the Senate committee, at a hearing held before his formal nomination, that his GM stock is worth about $2,500,000 and that he would lose as much as $600,000 in taxes by selling it now.

325 Convicts Surrender, Hostages Safe

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP) — A band of 325 rebel convicts, mindful of a tightening ring of heavily-armed state police and unnerved by the roar of National Guard fighter planes overhead, surrendered unconditionally Thursday night to the "get tough" orders of Governor John S. Fine.

The rebels released six guard hostages shortly before 7 p.m. EST and then filed meekly back into their cells from the barricaded building they had turned into a fortress.

None of the hostages had been harmed, although one was near exhaustion from his 72-hour ordeal.

The convicts — a holdout segment of a riot that started last Monday — tossed out through the shattered windows of the cellblock the eight revolvers, 500 rounds of ammunition and tear gas equipment that had been one of the main concerns of the prison officials during the insurrection.

ATTACK UNNECESSARY

Their surrender made unnecessary a planned attack on the cellblock strong point by state policemen and National Guard units.

In the afternoon, while planes were buzzing the building, the prisoners dropped a note through a barred window asking to see the Roman Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Richard Walsh. When Father Walsh went to the wall of the building, the men shouted down that they were willing to give up if state officials would agree to an earlier offer that there would be no reprisals for the riot. The governor made that offer two days ago and it had been accepted by the men in two adjacent cell blocks.

State Attorney-General Robert E. Woodside, after a conference with the governor, replied in a note that "only an unconditional surrender will be accepted." He ordered the prisoners to turn over their guns and ammunition to the priest or to the hostage guards who were to be released.

Shortly thereafter the convicts shouted they were willing to give up and started dropping the guns and ammunition from the windows. The guards emerged "without a scratch" from the building.

State police then converged on the building and the convicts returned without a word to their cells.

Peasants Seize Guatemala Land

GUATEMALA, Guatemala (AP) Police say knife-wielding peasants in southeastern Guatemala are taking the national land reform law into their own hands and are seizing plantation property.

Four hundred farm workers armed with matchetes were reported Thursday to have grabbed land in the Asuncion Mita area near the El Salvador border. The police said they were led by a regional officer of the confederation of Farm Workers, a Communist-dominated group.

Guatemala's strong Communist party, which is closely tied in with the government of President Jacobo Arbenz, has agitated for forced partioning of land. This has already led to bloodshed in several areas.

Under the new agrarian laws, uncultivated land on private and national estates is to be divided among farm workers. But first, the government is supposed to buy the expropriated private lands from their owners.

So far it has been unable to raise sufficient funds for such purchases.

Churchill, Family Begin Voyage Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Winston Churchill bundled together his papers, his paints and his family today and boarded the liner Queen Mary for England after a West Indies vacation.

Accompanied by Mrs. Churchill, their daughter, Mrs. Christopher Soames, and son - in - law, Capt. Soames, the Prime Minister had landed at Idlewild airport about an hour earlier.

Pier workers cheered him as he drove up to the dock. But 11 pickets of an organization called the Irish American Minute Men—which advocates "Ireland for the Irish"—jeered him.

During his two weeks vacation in Jamaica, Churchill all but finished three paintings—two landscapes and one seascape.

Grant $600 Raise To Don Jail Guards

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Lamport announced Thursday night that pay increases of $600 a year to Don jail guards have been approved by the provincial government.

The increase, which takes effect at once, raises the guards' annual wage to $2,800. The guards also will get an annual increase of $100 for the next four years.

Salaries of the governor and turnkeys were raised $400 making them $5,000 and $4,000 respectively.

3-Way Deal Gives U.K. New Dollars

Canada's Surplus Of Pork Reaches 70,000,000 Pounds

LONDON (CP)—Britain will spend about $1,000,000 on Canadian bacon "in the near future," Food Minister Gwilym Lloyd-George announced today.

It will be the first Canadian bacon to be bought by dollars-short Britain since 1950.

The announcement said the purchase has been made possible by a further dollar payment by Canada to the United Kingdom under the recent meat-barter agreement among Canada, the United Kingdom and New Zealand.

"Alhough the total amount of dollars involved is small, the decision to spend it on bacon will be of benefit to both Britain and Canada," the statement said.

1950 CONTRACT

In 1950, the last year of a Canada-U. K. bacon contract, Canada sent Britain 31,200,000 pounds under a 60,000,000-pound bacon contract. At a price of 29 cents a pound, this amounted to just over $9,000,000.

The three-country meat barter agreement, under which Britain has money available for the new purchase, was reached when the United States closed its markets to Canadian meat because of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease. The embargo is scheduled to be lifted March 1.

Canada agreed to ship Britain 62,000,000 pounds of surplus beef in exchange for a similar quantity of New Zealand beef to be sold in the U. S. market.

The Canadian government lost money on the arrangement, designed to support the Canadian meat market. Just how much money has never been made public. It also canned about 100,000,000 pounds of surplus pork, purchased at support prices, and has sold much of it at a loss

HAS BIG STOCKPILE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government, through its price support program, has built up a stockpile of 70,000,000 pounds of unsold surplus canned pork, it was learned today.

In addition, there is about 30,000,000 of fresh pork in government warehouses, with sales outlets still uncertain.

Britain previously indicated, it was learned, that she would have liked to use the $1,000,000 to buy more beef from Canada, She has plenty of pork.

But she agreed to switch to a pork product—bacon—after Canada pointed out the great surplus problem in this country.

Life Sentence Given Farnol

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Grant Farnol, 31, of Windsor, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for attempted murder.

Farnol was convicted earlier in the week and sentence was passed in the Ontario Supreme Court by remarked: "This miracle that saved your intended victim from death, saved you from the gallows."

Farnol was convicted of attempting to kill Edgar Frendo of Detroit during a shooting affray in Colchester Township Dec. 15. Police believe robbery was the motive but Farnol pleaded self defence.

Sleepless Nights Over

Tax Collector Finds Out Where Money Disappearing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — For three years strange antics of the U.S. mail caused sleepless nights for tax collector Earnest Overstreet.

Hundreds of taxpayers complained that they had sent in cheques, money orders and currency which were never receiced. Hundreds of outgoing letters never reached their destination.

"The disappearance of mail had been driving me nuts for three years," Overstreet said. "I couldn't sleep nights because of the yelling of the taxpayers."

The mystery was solved Thursday.

Postal inspectors arrested Charles W. Lewis, 32-year-old mail clerk i Overstreetn's office, and said he admitted taking "thousands of letters" during a three-year period.

Many of the letters contained cheques and money orders, Overstreet said, but Lewis apparently made no effort to cash them, taking only currency.

"They were all small amounts," he said. "I believe the largest was $20. But all those people — and many were poor — had to pay again.

"We've been averaging 150 complaints a year from people who said they had sent us money orders and 400 a year from persons who said they had mailed cheques."

The letters were found in the basement of the courthouse.

Operate In Outpost Hell

Handful Of Men Only 40 Yards From Reds

By FORREST EDWARDS

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP) This place is a junk yard in hell.

Nothing of this outpost, only 40 yards from the Chinese Reds, is whole—except the men. By dawn some of them may not be. Seven were hit here Thursday night.

The reds shell this 50 square yards of blasted bare land with an intensity unknown anywhere else on the western front.

A handful of U.S. soldiers are trying to build a fortress outpost under this almost constant fire. Shells rip the trenches and bunkers apart as fast as they are finished.

The Chinese Reds are so close you often hear the soft plop of their mortar shells as they drop into the firing tubes. It sounds like a butcher slapping a piece of steak on a chopping block.

Seconds later, an explosion shatters the little knoll with death-dealing fragments of jagged steel.

So close are the Chinese that this is probably the only place on the front where 45-calibre pistols make the Reds keep their heads down.

Around a bend in the shallow trench from the main Allied line, which is 300 yards to the rear, there is a place where a man can stand erect.

Lieut. Thomas Darnell, Covina, Calif., is standing there. His automatic pistol keeps up a slow and steady bark. Forty yards away little puffs of dirt kick up at the top of a Communist trench.

"We are so close that a rifle is next to useless here," Darnell explains.

"This is the only way we can make them keep their heads down. And they can't snipe at us if they can't get their heads above the trench. . .

"Two weeks more before I go home. A lot can happen to a man in two weeks out here."

Reject Inquiry Into Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—An attempt to launch an inquiry into Canada's defence effort far broader than the Currie report has been broken. The Liberal majority in the Commons destroyed this Thursday and paved the way for the report itself to enter a new phase of its spectacular career—as the pivot of hearings by a defence-expenditures committee starting next week. The lively, frequently-vehement debate arising from the report came to an end in votes which defeated a CCF amendment proposing an investigation into the whole defence program and, in effect, earmarked the Currie report as the first item of business for the new committee.

The Liberal majority cast the deciding votes in both cases. There was no vote on the final issue, appointment of the 26-man committee to study defence spending.

APPROVE RESOLUTION

In another defence debate that followed at once, members approved a resolution calling for appointment of an associate minister of defence. However, opposition parties found fault with the way the government proposes to do it. The associate minister will be Hon. Ralph Campney, the Vancouver lawyer who now is solicitor-general.

Prime Minister St. Laurent defended the move to make the appointment through amendment of the National Defence Act, the statute on which rests Canada's military establishment.

Opposition members, led by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the government should make use of the emergency powers it assumed after Korea started. Mr. Drew said the government's method would open the way to appointment of as many ministers in future as the cabinet wished without Parliament having a right to object.

Thugs Torture Farmer, 71 Take All His Money—$6

DUTTON, Ont. (CP)—A 71-year-old bachelor was beaten and tortured at his lonely home near here Thursday night by two thugs who robbed him of the money he had—$6. James C. Robb, who lives alone on a farm about 14 miles west of St. Thomas, was treated for bad burns to the soles of his feet, facial bruises, and cuts inside his mouth.

He told provincial constable Leonard E. Doolittle of Dutton that the pair came to his door, shoved a gun in his face and forced him back into his house.

DEMANDED MONEY

They demanded his money and he said he had none. The bandits then forced the old man to accompany them at gun-point while they ransacked the house upstairs and down.

Returning to the kitchen, they increased their threats and rough treatment until he turned over the $6.

Believing there was more money the pair beat Mr. Robb about the face with their fists. One stood behind him and held a towel twisted tightly about his neck through most of the ordeal.

When Mr. Robb insisted he had no more money, his assailants took off one shoe and sock and burned the sole of his foot with old newspapers.

Finally they left. Mr. Robb walked to the farm of a neighbor, D. A. McKillop, who called police.

Plan Liberation Society To Throw Off UK Yoke

By L. S. CHAKALES

CAIRO (AP) — Premier Mohammed Naguib today assailed British policy in Egypt and proclaimed a "Liberation Society" to achieve unity with the Sudan and force evacuation of all foreign forces from the Nile valley.

A crowd estimated at 100,000 in Cairo's liberation square heard the soldier-premier declare that the end of British imperialism in the Nile lands is near.

As a 21-gun salvo boomed, the crowd repeated after him a Liberation Society oath asking Allah for mercy on "those who prefer death in their struggle for liberty rather than to live a mean life under slavery."

Naguib's speech, broadcast through the country, and a military review launched a four-day "liberation" celebration marking the army's coup which last July 23 overthrew King Farouk.

Little Balkan Entente Will Be Set Up

BELGRADE (AP)—The way was apparently cleared today for conclusion of a formal defensive alliance among Yugoslavia, Turkey and Greece, setting up a little Balkan entente against Russian aggression.

Marshal Tito, in his new role as Yugoslavia's president, indicated strongly his government's willingness to abandon its previous reluctance to sign a written agreement as he exchanged dinner toasts with Turkish Foreign Minister Fuad Koprulu.

The meeting—highly important to the development of the Western defensive structure—took place in the seclusion of the Adriatic island of Brioni, where Tito has a villa which he normally uses only in the hot season.

Just when, where and how the three countries will go about writing a joint pact was not disclosed.

$50,000 Fire Levels Plant

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — A $50,000 fire levelled the Timmins packers plant at Englehart, 25 miles southwest of here, early today.

Louis Nuanville, cattle buyer for the company, was asleep in the building when the blaze broke out. He escaped through a window.

Cause of the fire was not known. Firemen waited outside the building for two hours before fighting the flames until a hydro man was located to turn off power inside the plant.

Templer Encouraged As Villagers Smile

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, Britain's high commissioner in Malaya, Thursday night ended a two-day tour of the southern state of Johore, heartened by the fact that the villagers en route smiled at him.

Winding up his tour of the state, once a hotbed of terrorist raids, he reported real progress.

The villagers—the ones he locked up in cramped wooden houses in his ruthless quest to stamp out Communist guerrillas—smiled at him, he said, as he sped through by train, armored car and jeep.

Now, he said, he is going to introduce local elections in Johore's villages. He wants government by local people and hopes to set up 40 town councils by March.

Car Goes In Lake Five Men Drowned

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five men were drowned and one was rescued when a car skidded from an icy highway and plunged into the Lake of the Woods, near Hope, B.C., today.

The lake is two miles northeast of Hope on the trans-Canada highway, 102 miles east of Vancouver.

Police identified the driver of the car as Mass Mukaida, a Japanese carpenter whose home is in Hope. Names of the others were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Dismiss Guard For Friendship

TORONTO (CP) — The department of reform institutions today announced dismissal of one guard and suspension of another from Hamilton's Barton St. jail, for associating with the wife of Maurice O'Dell, awaiting extradition to the U. S. to stand trial for murder.

The department said it fired guard Norman Smith and suspended guard Norman Allison for three weeks without pay.

The disciplinary action was taken because the two men were seen in a beverage parlor with Mrs. O-Dell, whose husband is in custody in the Barton St. jail. The department said no bribe was attempted.

O'Dell, 27, and Walter Griffen, 26, are wanted in Buffalo for the slaying of jeweler Donald F. Hurd last Dec. 9. Hurd was fatally shot during a holdup with netted loot valued at $40,000. A third man, Ralph Grubisich, is also wanted in connection with the slaying.

Canada Begins Manufacture Of Polio Vaccine

OTTAWA (CP)—Arrangements have been completed for a test in Canada of gamma globulin, a substance being experimented with in the United States as a protection against paralytic poliomyelitis, the health department announced today. The health department said preliminary reports of studies in the U.S. are "encouraging", and that in limited experiments the occurrence of paralysis among those who suffered from polio was less than in those who received gamma globulin than in those who did not.

Final evaluation of the usefulness of the product will, however, require further clinical observation and study.

Production of gamma globulin in Canada will be handled by the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories, Toronto, which has scientists familiar with the complex processes involved in its preparation. Special equipment is being obtained from the U. S. in time to permit the preparation of an initial quantity for the early summer. A grant of $67,000 from federal public health research funds has been allotted to buy the equipment.

OBTAINED FROM PLASMA

Gamma globulin is obtained from human blood plasma, with a pint of blood required to provide a single dose of gamma globulin. The amount available this year will not be large because of the limited number of skilled personnel and the limited amount of the special production equipment which must be imported from the United States, the department said.

A conference of provincial public health and research experts was held here recently under the chairmanship of Dr. G. D. W. Cameron, federal deputy minister of health. This group recommended that clinical trial of gamma globulin, using the limited supplies which will be available, be carried out in certain areas of Canada as indicated by the number of polio cases which develop.

The conference also recommended that a standing committee consisting of representatives of provincial public health and research institutions and medical schools be set up. This committee now is being formed, and its main function will be to keep in touch with the polio situation and to assure the most effective distribution of the limited supply of gamma globulin.

Kidnapped Guard Gets 15-30 Years

JACKSON, Mich — (CP) — Convict Earl Ward Thursday night was found guilty of kidnapping a guard during the riot at Jackson prison last April and was sentenced to 15 to 30 years.

Minutes earlier, in a rage of temper, Ward struck Sheriff G. H. Austin on the head with handcuffs he was wearing.

The new sentence will run concurrently with the 15 to 30 year term Ward now is serving. Ward, 29, will lose only the four years he has already served.

Judge Harry D. Boardman told Ward the "penalty is life or any number of years and it is up to the discretion of the court."

"Don't use no discretion," said Ward who alternates between scholarly speech and bad grammar. "Give me life."

While the jury deliberated Ward turned to Sheriff Austin and complained about the food he was getting at Jackson county jail.

"The food . . is lousy. I'll kill you if I ever get out of here."

Omemee Man Dies Of Injuries From Car Wreck

Russell Deyell, injured in a car and train accident in Omemee about 5 a.m. Wednesday, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday at 3:40 p.m.

Deyell, 35-year-old Omemee night shift worker in an Oshawa plant was only 300 feet from his home when the rear of the car was struck by the freight train. He was a passenger in the car of his friend, Edgar Johnson, 36, Omemee, also a night shift worker. Johnson's condition is improving today.

Both men suffered head injuries and a broken leg each when they were flung out of the car onto the right-of-way.

CARRIED 50 FEET

The car was carried 50 feet by the train and was completely wrecked.

Deyell was married with two teen-aged daughters, one of whom, Beverley, is a student nurse in Civic Hospital here. The other daughter is Jean.

PARENTS IN LINDSAY

Mr. Deyell was born in Janetville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deyell, who now live in Lindsay. He came to Omemee with his family 12 years ago.

He was a Mason, a member of Lorne Lodge 375, AF and AM.

The victim is survived by his parents, his wife, the former Edna Jackett, two daughters, Beverley and Jean; a brother Carl, Lindsay, and a siser, Helen, Lindsay.

4 Red Planes Shot Down

SEOUL (AP)—Allied Sabre jets destroyed four Communist MiG 15s and damaged seven over northwest Korea today, the U.S. Fifth Air Force reported.

It brought to 15 the number of Russian-built jets knocked down in three days. At least 13 have been damaged. One Red jet was probably destroyed Tuesday before resumption of large-scale air battles.

The air force earlier had reported three MiGs destroyed today but a study of gun camera films showed that another went down.

Fighter-bomber pilots reported wrecking 90 Communist vehicles and destroying a locomotive and 10 boxcars. In the night 14 U.S. Superforts bombed a railroad yard at Yangdok, astride the Reds' east-west supply route across the 90-mile waist of North Korea.

No More Chinese Delicacies

U.S. Cracks $1,000,000 Smuggling Racket

VANCOUVER (CP)—The arrest of four San Francisco Chinese is reported by United States authorities to have cracked a $1,000,000 smuggling racket dealing in foodstuffs, herbs and medicines from Communist China.

Joseph L. Green, assistant collector of customs at Seattle, said the funnelling of the scarce Chinese merchandise from Vancouver's Chinatown to the U.S. has been "practically stopped" with the arrests.

First disclosure of the ring was made in a copyright story in today's Vancouver News-Herald. The story said evidence gathered by one of its reporters, Henry Leong, will be used when the case reaches U.S. courts.

HUGE PROPORTIONS

Green said the smuggling built up to "huge proportions almost overnight" during last September but stopped "as far as we know" with the arrest in October of Francis Louis, Walter Louie, Benny Lau and Mrs. Benny Lau.

He said the operation involved a trek by many west coast Chinese from as far south as Los Angeles into Vancouver to purchase the scarce goods, bringing them into the U.S. by way of Blaine, Wash., 30 miles south of here.

U.S. regulations banned importation of such Red China goods in June, 1952, but, Green said, when Chinese Americans realized the merchandise was being sent unrestricted from Hong Kong to Vancouver, the smuggling started.

PLEAD INNOCENT

The four suspects pleaded innocent to smuggling charges after being indicted by a federal grand jury in Seattle. They were freed on bail pending trial next month.

The News - Herald says such goods as Chinese teas, herbs and patent medicines are shipped from Communist China, to Hong Kong, to Vancouver. Then, the story adds:

"U. S. Chinese buy the goods from Chinatown stores, smuggle them across the border and sell them on the black market for three or four times what they paid for them here.

"An example is lack-on char, a Chinese tea which can be bought in any Chinese store on (Vancouver's) Pender street for $1.10 a pound. However, it will bring up to $6 a pound in San Francisco's Chinatown."

The newspaper said Leong's $1,000,000 estimate, the same figure as the estimate given by Green, was based on his "research among Vancouver's Chinese merchants."

Last Jewish Leaders Flee East Germany

BERLIN (CP)—East Germany's last two Jewish community leaders fled to West Berlin today.

They had stayed behind until the last moment to help organize group escapes of other Jews in East Germany, a Jewish spokesman said here.

The spokesman refused to identify immediately the two Jewish community heads, but they are believed to have led the Jews of Magdeburg and Halle.

All six Jewish leaders in East Germany now have reached West Berlin. Four others fled here Jan. 14.

The Russian zone's drive toward complete bolshevism also sent two more East German government officials fleeing to West Berlin toady. They had served as connecting links between the Red regime and the Protestant and Roman Catholic churches.

Discuss With City Mulch Paving All Suburban Roads

What to do about the Buckhorn Road? That nagging problem came up again for discussion Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the county council's road committee. At one point it was suggested that the 12½-mile road be given a mulch paving this year; then the job would be done and, presumably, the wide-spread criticism would be stilled. But the project would cost as much as $70,000 and the paving program for other roads would suffer.

The solution to the problem was once again postponed. On a motion by Deputy Reeve Robert McAdam of Smith township and Deputy Reeve David McIntyre of Otonabee township it was held over till the March session.

In the meantime the county roads committee and the suburban area commission will try and arrange a meeting with city council so a mulch-paving program can be worked out for suburban area roads.

(Suburban area roads are main arteries leading from villages or built-up areas to the city; so their upkeep is of concern to both city and county. The three-man commission has a city, a county and a neutral representative. Cost is met 25 per cent by the city, 25 per cent by the county, and 50 per cent by the Department of Highways.)

COST $70,000

Discussion arose after Jack Kean, county engineer and road superintendent, said that if three or four miles of the Buckhorn road are paved every year it will take three or four years to complete the job. He estimated the total cost at between $65,000 and $70,000.

The Buckhorn Road, looked after by the Suburban-Area Commission, is the most heavily travelled gravel road in the county and the most expensive to keep up, said Mr. Kean.

"I can't see that we're getting ahead with our paving program at the present rate," said Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore, 1952 roads committee chairman . . . "We put down a quarter of a mile of paving here, a tenth of a mile there—we're jumping about all over the county."

Mr. Gifford suggested that council consider whether or not it would be a good idea to go all out and pave the road this year. The cost would be met by debentures, presumably a five-year issue.

Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith township suggested paving half of it this year and the other half some other time.

HIGH MAINTENANCE

Mr. Kean said that the maintenance costs on the Buckhorn Road are $1,300 a mile, or $16,250 a year for the whole road.

This information brought general exclamations of amazement from the council.

"We'd be better off to get it paved," said Mr. Gifford. Reeve Willard Waterman, 1953 chairman of county roads, also thought that would be "good business."

At this point Reeve W. C. Grant of Lakefield steered attention away from the Buckhorn Road by saying that the River Road N., running from Peterborough to Lakefield, "could be improved."

"It is considered a scenic road but I don't think there's anything scenic about cedar trees covered with dust.

Several councillors contended that the River Road condition was not a matter of urgency. Motorists can cross the Otonabee river and go to Lakefeild along Highway 28.

Reeve Roland Tedford of Douro township then put a bid in for some attention to the Nepheline Mines' road.

"I believe the heaviest traffic in the county passes along that road," he said.

COMPANY HELPS

When discussion continued on the Nepheline Mines' road, Mr. Kean explained that the company does extensive work on it. He estimated that in 1951 the company spent $10,000 on grading, patching, gravelling and general upkeep. Last year, when there was a less severe spring breakup, they didn't have to spend that much. But they still grade it frequently, said Mr. Kean. They buy their gravel from the county and have their own road superintendent.

(The American Nepheline Ltd. are interested in keeping the Stony Lake Road in good shape so they can haul their heavy truckloads of gravel without difficulty.)

At this point Deputy Reeves McAdam and McIntyre moved for the setting up of a mulch-paving program after consulation between members of the county council, suburban-area roads commission, and the city council. It passed without dissent.

In serious condition in hospital is Floyd Scott, who arrived here recently to join the RCAF. His left eye was damaged when he was hit by one of five men who were brawling in a Yonge street tavern. A piece of glass from his spectacles is embedded in his eyeball

Charged with assault occasioning actual bodily harm are Marcel LeBlanc, 29, John Chicoine, 31, Vincent Ethier, 32, Tony Ethier, 38, and Laurier Giumond, 23, all of Toronto.

Better Days For Good Farmer

TORONTO (CP)—The inefficient farmer will be hard pressed in the near future, but the good farmer will find "a real place in the sun," Dr. George D. Scarseth of Lafayette, Ind., said Thursday.

He told the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association "the next 25 years may see one producer on the land to 10 or more off the land." This had prospects for a much higher standard of living and more freedom from need for more people.

George Vansickle of Cainsville said it wouldn't be hard to find support for corn in a comparison with grass silage.

"It takes from two to three times the number of acres to fill the same silo with grass as it does with corn," he said.

H. L. Patterson, director of the farm economics branch of the provincial department, said Canadian needs are catching up with agricultural production rather fast.

Kingston Bicycle Strays To Peterborough

How a bicycle with a Kingston licence managed to get into the garage where lost and stolen bicycles are stored at the city police station is a mystery.

When no one called for the bicycle which is stored in the garage with a number of others that have been found in recent months throughout the city, a letter was sent to Kingston Police Department to try and find out who the owner was.

A letter in reply states the bicycle licence was issued to a Patricia Bell of 47 Clergy St., but it has not been reported stolen to Kingston police and the present owner's whereabouts is unknown to either department.

The bicycle has not been reported stolen to city police either and if the owner doesn't turn up soon, it will be sold along with others unclaimed for several months.

Police Comb Montreal For Hensler

MONTREAL (CP) — Frederick Hensler remained at large today as police combed the city in search of the man who allegedly stole an advance copy of the controversial Currie report.

A warrant for Hensler's arrest was issued at noon Thursday by Judge Rene Theberge after Clarence LeLievre, representing the accounting firm of McDonald, Currie and Company, laid a complaint accusing Hensler of the theft while employed by a Montreal printing firm.

The name of the printing firm was not divulged, but the address given is in the heart of Montreal's financial district where three printing shops are located.

Police entered the building less than a half-hour after the warrant was issued, but they walked out without their quarry.

MADE ESCAPE

A police spokesman put it this way:

"He surely must have felt the heat was on and he likely flew the coop before we had a chance to step in."

The Currie report was prepared by Montreal accountant George S. Currie on army works and services. An advance copy of the report got into the hands of the CCF party before it was tabled in Parliament.

Crown Prosecutor John Ahern identified Hensler as a member of the provincial CCF party, a statement that Squire Blackshaw, provincial secretary of the party, declined to deny or confirm.

Elsewhere in CCF circles, it was reported Hensler has been identified with the CCF since his arrival here from Markham, Ont., 17 miles northeast of Toronto, where he was also reported identified with the party in East York riding.

The riding was represented in the Ontario legislature by Agnes Macphail prior to the last election when she was defeated by Hollis Beckett, Progressive Conservative.

Report Records For Shipping

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Records for the Canadian shipping industry in the 1952 season were reported Thursday by H. A. Cresswell of Montreal, retiring president of the Dominion Marine Association.

In his report to the association's annual meeting, Mr. Cresswell said a long season — an open fall and winter — and the big Canadian wheat crop contributed to the good year.

Mr. Cresswell said the chief unfavorable factor was the steel strike in the United States, lasting most of June and July, which "practically tied up the movement of iron ore during that period." The seasona' iron ore movement was reduced by an estimated 22,000,000 tons.

Never Turn Over Tax Rights—Duplessis

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis made it clear in the Legislative Assembly Thursday night that the Union Nationale government will never turn over direct taxation rights to the federal government — temporarily or permanently — in return for subsidies.

At the close of a two-day debate on a bill to establish a five-member royal commission to study constitutional matters — unanimously adopted — Mr. Duplessis said:

The Quebec government feels the federal government has "encroached" upon provincial taxation rights, thus depriving Quebec of revenues to which it is entitled under the Canadian constitution.

Mr. Duplessis, in two speeches, said he is ready to co-operate with the federal government to clarify the taxation question.

But he repeatedly said he will have none of the temporary agreements signed by all other Canadian provinces.

ASK SEPARATE MINISTER

The opposition members also urged that a separate minister be appointed for the RCAF, but this was rejected by Mr. St. Laurent who said it is almost impossible to separate the administration for the three forces.

He said Defence Minister Claxton now will concentrate on military relations with Canada's allies and on broad policy. Mr. Campney would deal with the implementation of policies and administration.

The Currie report, signed by George S. Currie, Montreal chartered accountant and wartime deputy minister of defence, has been a national sensation.

All three opposition parties argued in the debate which arose out of it that the logical sequel to such a report on one branch of one of the three armed forces was an inquiry into the whole defence setup.

That was the gist of the CCF amendment to the motion for appointment of the committee. It was defeated 140 to 58 in a solid Liberals-vs-others vote.

The next vote was on a government amendment to the committee motion, one calling for top priority Currie investigation. Once again the three parties in opposition bucked the Liberal majority and lost. The vote was 136 to 57.

The opposition groups didn't bother to call for a third vote on the main motion for the committee. But Mr. Drew said he hopes the government "wil ltake the shackles" off the Liberal members who will dominate the meeting in numbers and that the way will be opened for minority reports.

Victoria Council Cuts Road Rate

LINDSAY — (ENS) — County Road Engineer H. D. Wilford made his annual report to the roads and bridges committee of county council Thursday and showed a deficit for the year of $6,400 due mainly he stated, to increased maintenance costs.

Mr. Wilford pointed out the various costs involved in the year's work under construction, machinery and maintenance, and then stated to council that, in his opinion, the mill rate of 5.75 levied during the past year for county roads would be necessary again to keep up maintenance work, and interest payments on debts. He offered for their consideration the figures which would result from different mill-rates for this year, based on the equalized assessments throughout the county.

The Lindsay representatives, Richard Butler and A. E. Hick, argued before council that their constituents were becoming tired of the high amount they have paid to the county, and wished a cut in their rates. Lindsay at the present time, they said, was paying 27 per cent of the expenditure for county roads. They asked for a cut back to a mill rate of 5 mills.

Warden Vincent Fee asked that the rate be reduced by .25 mills, stating that the county could go no further in direction. Reeve Harry Deyell of Omemee pointed out that with tourists one of the county's biggest businesses, a decrease in maintenance would hardly be feasible.

Warden Fee again defended his motion for a .25 cut, by pointing out that a cut of .75 mills would cost the county $30,000 in their roads revenue, cutting the government's share by $15,000. This was defeating the county's own purpose, he said, since it was asking the provincial government for additional revenues. The committee passed a motion making the mill-rate for 1953 for county roads levy 5.5 mills.

Transport Overturns

BELLEVILLE (CP)—An automobile transport loaded with five new cars was forced off the highway at nearby Shannonville Thursday, bumped over a culvert and overturned in a ditch. Chas. Lethem of Oshawa, driver of the McCallum transport, escaped injury but the transport and two of the new cars were extensively damaged.

Burns Great Prophet, Poet, Pastor Declares

LINDSAY (ENS)—Citing Robert Burns as not only "the greatest lyric poet of all times," but also as one of the greatest prophets of liberty, the Rev. Ross Cameron of Toronto, provided the speaking highlight for the annual Burns dinner, held last night in St. Andrew's Church by the Men's Association. The dinner attracted its usual large attendance of Scots, half-Scots and would-be Scots. Mr. Cameron pointed out some of the verses in Burns' poetry that demonstrated the almost religious fervor which he had for freedom and independence.

The speaker stated in conclusion that the world needed the spirit that inflamed Burns' poetry. At the same time, he added no one should take the pharisaic attitude in criticising the bard for his moral lapses. Burns, he said, expressed his freedom of thought without hampering. Over 200 guests sat down to the dinner, and watched the famous haggis piped in to the head table. Following the dinner, a varied Scottish entertainment was presented, before the speech. One person who missed the dinner was the minister of St. Andrew's, the Rev. Donald McQueen, who has graced former celebrations with his gaelic quotations. This year, he is confined to his bed with mumps.

Suggest New Symbol

LONDON (Reuters) — A Labor member of Parliament Thursday night complained that "Britannia no longer rules the waves" and suggested the symbol of that nautical lady no longer be used. Norman Smith told the House of Commons that the symbol which appears on British currency bills was "really outmoded." He suggested that the Queen's portrait be used in its place.

Old Folks Asked Full Amount At Institution

BELLEVILLE—Hastings County council suggested a new rate be charged to paying residents at the Hastings County Home for the Aged. The home is financed largely by grants from the council, with some money received from paying residents.

The council proposed that patients able to pay their own keep be made to pay the actual amount it costs to support them instead of the county making up the difference.

It costs paying patients 85 cents a day, but the actual amount to support them is between $2 and $2.25 a day. Reeve William Davis, of Bangor, suggested they pay the full cost.

At the present time there are 147 patients at the home, 34 of these from Belleville. Out of the 147, there are only nine "paying patients."

Total receipts at the home were $54,114.26, including $48,164 from pensioners' cheques. Expenditures were $93,894.61, leaving a net cost to the county of $39,780. Value of the farm produce consumed in the home was estimated at $10,033. This amount did not appear on the balance sheet.

The council passed a resolution last year calling for the cheques of old age pensioners to be forwarded to the institutions where they were confined because of illness.

Reeve Harry Morrow, of Sidney, inquired if a hospital could sue an old age pensioner if he refused to turn over his cheque to pay his hospital bill.

The feeling of the council was that pensions cheques could not be attached.

People Crowd Commons To Hear Currie Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—They came, perhaps, like the old Romans, to see who was going to get thrown to the lions on any particular day.

But, whatever the reason, they kept packing the public galleries of the House of Commons to hear and see the Currie report—and sometimes the defence department and sometimes people in the opposition—chewed over.

Attendance has been comparable at times to budget night, when the taxpayers thrust in to find out first hand what Finance Minister Abbott might be doing to them.

WELL-FILLED

The galleries seat 562, and they have been well-filled, largely by civilians, since debate on the Currie report was started after the Christmas recess. The debate ended for the moment Thursday with a decision to have the Commons defence spending committee give the report priority.

The report said there was a "breakdown" in the works service branch of the army, but from day to day in the debates there would be belts at Defence Minister Claxton, the government, high defence officers, one or another of the opposition parties, and individual members.

It was probably the scattering of this shot that drew spectators into the arena.

Counties Council Warned Stay Within Roads Budget

COBOURG (ENS) — District engineer E. F. Marsten, Ontario Department of Highways, cautioned the counties of Northumberland and Durham against going over their road appropriation, in addressing the session of counties council yesterday. He said that the department appreciated the fact that almost all the municipalities in the counties had submitted their road bylaws promptly.

He commented that certain changes made in the counties road staff a year ago were apparently a step in the right direction but still closer control might be affected in regard to road expenditures. He expressed the hope that the 1953 road committee with the engineer would make an effort to carry out the road programme set for 1953 in keeping with the road appropriation. He said he realized that costs were on the increase but hoped that the over all outlay would be kept within the estimated bounds.

Mr. Marsten pointed out that a considerable mileage of the roads in the counties were gravelled and he suggested that a classification be set up. Some of the roads were main thoroughfares and unless they were paved with a hard surface it was not possible to keep them in shape without a heavy expenditure. It would be no easy job to set up this classification because most municipalities had their own ideas as to which roads were main thoroughfares but a broad view would have to be maintained in deciding on the main roads, he said.

The recommended road outlay for 1953 amounted to $340,300, made up by $51,300 for road construction; bridge construction, $24,000; road maintenance, $210,000; bridge maintenance, $2,000; new machinery, $5,000; miscellaneous, $20,000; Trenton suburban, $15,000; rebates to urban municipalities, $13,000. Of this amount, $180,700 would come from subsidy and other sources, leaving the counties share at $159,600. Total appropriation per mile of road worked out to $1,095 and the average appropriation for all county roads in Ontario in 1951 amounted to $1,620. Maintenance costs for 1953 proposed amounted to $675 a mile. Average for all county roads in Ontario in 1951 was $925 a mile.

The warden selected Messrs. Olan, G. Rickard, Archer, Ross and Erskine as a committee to go over the applications for the two vacancies on the counties court of revision and to report back.

At the meeting of the finance committee, a letter was read from the estate of the late John Hayden of Port Hope advising that the late Mr. Hayden had left $3,000 to the counties of Northumberland and Durham to be invested and the income therefrom to be used for the purpose of providing a monthly treat for the inmates of the counties Home for the Aged. The finance committee recommended that the grant to the Salvation Army be halved and that it be $250 instead of the customary $500 yearly grant. Reeve Sid Little of Bowmanville, in proposing the cut in the grant, said that he was not trying to minimize the good work done by the Salvation Army but he felt that appeals for grants were overlapping. Reeve Gordon Honey of Cramahe township proposed that the $1,000 grant to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind also be cut as he felt that appeals from that were overlapping also. On motion the committe decided to leave the grant as it was.

The committee recommended a grant of $1,000 to the Ontario Plowmen's Association plus $1,000 to the international association to help in connection with the international and world plowing match to be held just north of Cobourg.

Mayor Jack Burnet in addressing the finance committee pointed out that the late Mayor Smith had not made the promise of the banquet for Cobourg alone, he was trying to get the international plowing match for Northumberland and Durham counties. Mayor Burnett estimated an out side figure of $1,500 fo rthe banquet and suggested a three-way split. Warden Lowery said he thought it would be agreeable if Port Hope was willing.

In contrast to the publicity emanating from Port Hope last year that the plowing match was being held "between Port Hope and Cobourg," although the site is just north of Cobourg, Deputy-Reeve A. S. Smith of Port Hope yesterday told the finance committee that the site of the plowing match was "a long way from Port Hope" and he didn't know what good Port Hope would get from it. He said he was doubtful what stand to take and could not commit the town to contributing to the three-way split until he had consulted with the rest of the town council. Reeve Horace Smith of Port Hope agreed that at this time the policy of Port Hope in that regard could not be expressed until he had taken it up with the town council.

Name New Elders To Grace United

Annual meeting of Grace United Church congregation was held on Wednesday evening and was attended by a representative number of members. The Rev. I. G. Pollock led in devotions and thereafter conducted the business and social aspects of the meeting. Members of the church choir, under the direction of Mrs. William Turner, provided items of song and reading during the evening, and lunch was served under the convenership of Mrs. Tripp.

Reports of pastor and session revealed advance in all aspects of the church's work, and tribute was paid by the minister to the pioneering work done by his predecessor, the Rev. E. W. Rowland. It was indicated that steps were being taken towards the planning of a new church building. Arising from the session report on the needs of the church, three new elders were appointed: Messrs. Herbert Glover, Angus Tripp and Roy Knight.

The stewards' report reflected a satisfactory financial position at the end of a year that had seen many changes, including the purchase of a manse, and tribute was paid to the way in which the other part of the charge, Stewart Hall, recently joined with Grace, had borne a quarter share of expenses in connection with the manse. Additional stewards were appointed as follows: Messrs. Hooey, Grierson, Doxsee, Shields and McKinlay.

Reports were received from the following organizations, all of which showed progress and increase in membership: Sunday School, Mission Band, CGIT, Explorers, choir, Senior Club and Women's Association. The last mentioned were congratulated on the large part they had played in furnishing the manse in Arndon Ave., and in which the other organizations had taken a share.

Queen Of Canada

Last week the Prime Minister introduced a Bill into the House of Commons to give the Canadian Parliament's assent to a new Royal Style. The Queen, by Her Royal Proclamation under the Great Seal of Canada, will establish for Canada the following royal title and styles: "Elizabeth the Second, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom, Canada and Her other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith."

* * *

The bill is an outcome of discussions in London last December, during the Prime Ministers' conference. Its preamble says that the Prime Ministers and other representatives

"recognizing that the present form is not in accordance with present constitutional relations within the Commonwealth, concluded that, in the present stage of development of the Commonwealth relationship, it would be in accord with the established constitutional position that each member country should use for its own purposes a form suitable to its own particular circumstances but retaining a substantial element common to all."

In other words, the Queen is to be called what any country of the Commonwealth takes a notion to call her. Some acknowledge her as Queen, as Canada is doing. Some remark only that she is Head of the Commonwealth (not, be it noted, British Commonwealth). Some deny her the title of "Defender of the Faith."

* * *

We wonder what Queen Victoria would have thought and said about this sort of juggling with her title and styles? Or Disraeli, who had her made Empress of India? Probably they would have deferred to the national sensitivities of the former Dominions and Colonies, for both—like today's inheritor of British imperialism, Winston Churchill—were politically astute and did not stand on title and form against the tide of time and the realities of historical development. We remember, though, that Victoria was pretty insistent on being Empress—to Disraeli's political embarrassment at the time.

* * *

Mr. Churchill once said that he was not appointed the King's First Minister to preside over the disintegration of the British Empire. Events have choked his fine words. As the Queen's First Minister now he and other Commonwealth Premiers are giving title, through their Parliaments, to that disintegration. Through it runs a hope of achieving a re-formation in the grouping of nations labelled "Commonwealth," but the constitutional relations are slender indeed—so tenuous that the Sovereign is no longer the acknowledged link. Some members will no longer admit the Queen as their Queen. Others say merely that she is the "Head" of the Commonwealth but are not sure that they themselves are members of it, under that Head.

* * *

We in Canada are proud to acknowledge Queen Elizabeth as Queen of Canada—the first time her title will have specifically named Canada, a nation not to be bulked henceforth in the phrase "Dominions beyond the Seas."

* *

And yet we view the changes in title and styles with some misgivings. What bonds are there now throughout the British realms and Commonwealth to knit it? Since the Statute of Westminster the Sovereign has been the only constitutional link. Now, many of its members are severing this last thread, the recognition of a common allegiance to a Queen, who wherever she moved and in whatever member-nation's interest she acted, was always the same Queen in title and styles.

* * *

We cannot help but feeling, too, that there is something of lese-majesty, something ungracious, in the whole matter. Groups of Commoners have put their heads together with technical advisers. They have concocted ambiguous phrases about 'particular circumstances . . . in the present constitutional position.' With hardly a by-your-leave they have shorn from the regal young woman, inheritor of an ancient and glorious throne, the very title and styles with which her forbears have been crowned. What does the Queen's heart feel, as others take from her, for reasons of drab expediency, her very name?

The Cult Of The Sword

A large firm of swordsmiths in England have received orders for 2,000 new swords to be used in ceremonies associated with the Coronation next June; in addition, they have a great number of orders to put old swords into good condition and engrave them with the new Queen's cypher; they have also an order for swords for the Canadian Navy, and cavalry swords for the RCMP.

Why so many swords? Nobody defends himself with a sword nowadays, and particularly not with ceremonial swords, which do not usually have a good edge. A more useless weapon in the age of the hydrogen bomb could hardly be imagined. Why are they wanted?

We think it is because of the symbolism of the sword. It was the weapon with which a man defended himself directly; if his sword was taken from him he was powerless; when he took off his sword it was a sign that he pledged himself to peace until he put it on again; the blade was the symbol of his power and his honour, and a mystic cult grew up around the sword which is by no means dead.

For who associates his honour with any of the immensely powerful engines of modern warfare? They cannot be used by individuals; they must be controlled by large, experienced crews. They deal out death impartially, to unseen enemies; the modern soldier knows that death may come to him from an agency miles away, against which he has no direct, personal defence.

Yet the idea persists that enmities should be personal, and that a code of honour should govern fighting. This is an old-fashioned notion, but it is a clean and comprehensible one; a man wants to fight like a man, and not like an impersonal agent of his government. And so the cult of the sword persists. It will vanish in time, but it will die hard. And there is a decency about a sword that there can never be about germ warfare and guided missiles.

The Wide, Wide World

On the authority of Time magazine we learn that the Gallup Poll has declared for the fourth consecutive time that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is "the most admired woman in the world," and the runners-up in this exciting contest are Queen Elizabeth, Mamie Eisenhower, Clare Boothe Luce and Helen Keller. We are sorry to see our Queen in the list, for it spoils the otherwise perfect American score. And would it not be delightful for the citizens of the U.S.A. to feel that not merely the most admired woman in the world but every woman near that dizzy eminence was also of their country?

The world is a big place, and we admire the persistence of the Gallup Poll in searching out this information. We picture their tireless questioners ranging into the Arctic, and asking the Esquimaux "Who do you admire more than any other woman in the world?" and receiving the unhesitating answer, "Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, of course." We imagine the earnest pollster tapping a member of the Mau Mau on the shoulder and putting the same question, and getting the same reply. The Russians, who are also citizens of the world (though we tend to forget it) must have voted for Mrs. Roosevelt to a man. The Hairy Ainus of Japan, and the Blackfellows of Northern Australia all confessed their keen admiration for this lady. And if there were any dissenting voices among those questioned, most of them had the good sense to admire the wife of the new President of the U.S., the wife of the publisher of Time, or Miss Keller who has many handicaps but has at least the great advantage of being born in the land of Admired Women.

Once again we are in the debt of the Gallup Poll, which does so much to tell us what we think.

Filthy Pictures

A storekeeper on St. Lawrence Boulevard, one of the less respectable main streets of Montreal, was fined $300 and costs and sentenced to a month in jail for having 68 packages of obscene cards. The judge said the man's conduct was "shameful"; he was shocked when he saw the cards which were seized at the shop. The man's name is Itcovitch.

Itcovitch is one of the merchants on the fringes of metropolitan societies everywhere who make a shady living on the wrong side of the law and the smutty side of public morality. They are a cosmopolitan breed, from Paris to Istanbul, from Rio to Montreal. Last month he had been fined $200 and costs for possessing 55,000 American cigarettes. This month he is fined and jailed for peddling obscene pictures.

"Wanna buy some feelthy pictures, Johnny?" (or Fritz or Tommy or Ivan or Jean) mumbles the street-corner voice out of the evening gloom. The peddler is as old as the art of drawing. His business has a sociological significance which we shall not examine here. His pictures are said to have been the stuff on which the German army marched when its food and spirits were running low. There is no good place in Canadian society for these merchants of pornography, but there is a place, created by the customers. "Fines are no use whatsoever", the crown prosecutor said. "The money used to pay fines is usually taken from the funds amassed through illegal activites". So Itcovitch was jailed.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: Why does water expand . . when it freezes? Other substances contract.

ANSWER: I don't know. Perhaps some of my scientific readers can enlighten me and you.

Water has the remarkable property of increasing in density as it cools, down to 4 degrees centigrade (about 40 degrees F.) after which further cooling causes it to expand. On freezing (at 0 degrees centigrade or 32 degrees Fahrenheit) it expands rapidly.

Since water expands on freezing, its density becomes less; therefore ice is lighter than water. Here is what happens when a pond freezes. If the air above the water is at or below freezing-point and the temperature of the water is above freezing point, say at 50 degrees, the upper layers of the water become cooler, and denser, and sink into the main bulk. This process continues until the whole of the water is chilled to 4 degrees centigrade (approximately 40 degrees F). At this temperature the water is at its maximum density. Thereafter, the surface layers of the water, having a lower temperature than 40 degrees F. are relatively lighter and remain on the surface and begin to freeze.

I understand that icebergs float because the density of the ice is less than the density of the salt water.

Pressure lowers the freezing point (or raises the melting point of ice, they are the same thing) of water. Thus glaciers, with their enormous weight, create a terrific pressure at their base. This pressure lowers the freezing (melting) point to something very considerably lower than 32 degrees F. So the bottoms of glaciers melt and so glaciers move.

If pressure on water or ice did not lower the freezing point, we should be unable to make snow-balls. A youngster takes a hunk of damp snow — that is, snow that is precisely 32 degrees F. Under the pressure of his hand the freezing point of the snow mass is lowered a little bit, enough to cause partial melting of the crystals. Thus the ball of snow is fashioned. When the pressure of the hand is removed, the freezing point rises to normal, and the water that was formed by the pressure alone, freezes again and cements the mass together.

Dear, dear, it takes Alpha a long time to say he doesn't know the answer to a question, doesn't it?

SIR: What "lines" are they in the phrase "hard lines"? Does it have any reference to football line-ups or football ground markings?

ANSWER: "Hard lines," a colloquial phrase meaning ill luck, bad fortune, is probably of nautical origin, and first appeared in written English in 1824. It is also suggested that "line" in this phrase may refer to the cord used for taking measurements or for making things level or straight — in the plural, used to mean appointed lot in life. In Psalm XVI, verse 6, is this: "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places." Here "lines" is synonymous with "lot." This passage from the Psalms is given in the Prayer Book as: "The lot has fallen unto me in fair ground."

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR: What is a Metis? An Indian tribe?

ANSWER: The word is French, meaning mongrel, half-caste, half-bred, cross-bred, hybrid. With a capital letter it means a Canadian of mixed white and North American-Indian parentage. Specifically it refers to the half-breeds of western Canada, of whom Louis Riel, the rebel, was a leader.

People think of these half-breeds as being offspring of squaws and French-Canadian coureurs-de-bois. In practice, any hunter, explorer or fur-trader English, American or French might become the father of a Metis. The women were bought, usually.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE IS a paragraph in the chronicle of a Vermont fur-trader Daniel Harmon which may strike some of my readers as a rather drole indication of New England Puritanism lost in the bush. Harmon was in the Canadian west. The entry is dated October 10, 1773:

"This day a Canadian's daughter (i.e. an Indian or a half-breed), a girl of about fourteen years of age, was offered to me; and after mature consideration concerning the step which I ought to take, I have finally concluded to accept her, as is customary for all gentlemen who remain any length of time in this part of the world to have a female companion, with whom they can pass their time more socially and agreeably than to live a lonely life, as they must do if single. If we can live in harmony together my intention now is to keep her as long as I remain in this uncivilized part of the world, and when I return to my native land I shall endeavor to place her under the protection of some honest man (sic), with whom she can pass the remainder of her days much more agreeably than it would be possible for her to do were she to be taken down into the civilized world, to the manners, customs and language of which she would be an entire stranger. Her mother is of the tribe of Snare Indians, whose country lies along the Rocky Mountains. The girl is said to have a mild disposition and an even temper, which are qualities very necessary to make an agreeable woman and an effectionate partner."

Offspring of the union of this high-minded Vermonter, whose delicacy of feeling seems to have been equalled by his taste in the choice of a gentle Indian lass of fourteen, would be Metis. Few of the coureur-de-bois and traders were as ponderous and moral in their mating with Canadian Indians. The coureurs-de-bois were generally a pretty drunken, roistering lot.

✧ ✧ ✧

ARISTOTLE SOCRATES ONASSIS: I confess to never having heard of this gentlemen before last week. He is a D.P. of the last generation, a Greek who lost his citizenship when the Turks invaded following a territorial dispute in which they killed half his family. He arrived in the Argentine penniless at the age of sixteen. His first job was as a night telephone operator. He later moved to the United States, and now lives in New York, a handsome, youthful man, no longer penniless. His assets are now said to be worth 300 million dollars. He has become the proprietor of 91 ships, has offices in six countries and homes in suburban New York, Paris, Antibes, Athens and Montevideo.

By the way, Aristotle Socrates Onassis does not gamble — that is, with chips at a roulette wheel. His gambling is on a much more magnificent plane . . . Alpha's readers who frequent Monte Carlo need have no fears that their pleasure will be spoilt. Mr. Onassis says he has no intention of interfering with the operation of the hotels and casino. "They can go on as before. All I wanted was an office building."

✧ ✧ ✧

I happened to hear of this shipping magnate who specializes in whaling, because last week he got control of the famous casino at Monte Carlo and resort buildings in the principality of Monaco, where the gambling capital is situated. He acquired these because two years ago he tried to rent one of the buildings, the old winter sports club, as an office building. "They wouldn't rent it to me, although it had been closed for twenty years. So I did something else." That was to buy up the place. This took a year and a half of patient purchasing from 2,000 stockholders.

COUNTRY NOTE: My eight ewes are still healthy and dirty, but two of them have become ominously big. My farmer-lad co-owner thinks that we are going to have some winter lambs, when all we bargained for were spring lambs. This complicates matters, drat the old goat (pardon, ram). The barn does not have the central heating that cows give, since I haven't any cows. It will be too cold for little lambs in February. Alpha has visions of having his kitchen turned into a lamb-cote . . . Standing at the kitchen door this morning I saw in the grove of apple trees beside the house an animal as big as a wolf. He had a bushy tail, so despite his size and colour he must have been a fox. We eyed each other for the space of a minute, then he turned about, unconcernedly loped off through the hedge across the field. Have been feeding my cats turkey bones, so perhaps it was these that attracted him towards the house.

Letters To The Editor

UNLOVED AND OLD.

Sir: The following is not intended as a reflection on the court regarding the Mr. Hawkins case. Apparently a jail sentence was the only solution.

We are the richest country in the world,
At least, that's what I'm told.
There's enough for all and every one
Except the weak and old.

Py preachers in Church and temple
It's told out o'er the air,
Love thy fellow-man
Is the burden of their prayer.

Well, yes we love our fellow-man
But, if it affects our purse,
And, he don't come from our own town,
Why that makes it so much worse.

The hungry, weary wanderer,
We help him on his way.
To far beyond our limits,
We will see he gets a ride.
We are a kindly sort of people,
But we've got our civic pride.

And if a person's old and it's really cold
And we're a mite afraid he'll freeze.
We don't send him out on the long cold road.
Let me set your mind at ease.

You may sleep sound, it's the truth I tell,
We give him two months in a nice warm cell.
We give him time; it's a serious crime
To be unloved and old.

DUMMER HAD DEPUTIES BEFORE.

Sir: "For the first time in its history Dummer has a deputy-reeve."

Recurrence of this statement within the last week or two in reports regarding the 1953 increase in County Council membership suggest that it is rather widely accepted as true.

The fact is that Dummer township for many years elected both a reeve and a deputy-reeve, both of whom attended County Council sessions. We may refer to a review of Dummer municipal affairs published in The Examiner, February 4, 1933, which says:

"Dummer was accorded a deputy-reeve for the first time in 1887. R. Crowe was the first to hold that office. He was succeeded in 1891 by Edward Hawthorne. The members of the council for 1892 were: J. Robb; deputy-reeve Edward Hawthorne; and councillors, H. A. Moore, C. Nichols, and T. Webster.

"Mr. Hawthorne was elected reeve in 1893 and held the office to the close of 1896. H. A. Moore was deputy-reeve for three of those years and R. Crowe for one. In 1897 the County Council was elected separately from the township councils, its members being commissioners. Dummer men who were county councillors within the next 4 or 5 years were: Edward Hawthorne, Richard Crowe and Thomas Webster."

Thus was introduced the system under which a municipality might have a deputy-reeve if and when it had 1,000 electors eligible to vote on County measures. If there were more than 2,000 the reeve was accorded two votes (this giving three in all).

This mode which recognizes the "rep. by pop." principle is doubtless infinitely comforting to those who believe that municipal salvation may be achieved by the counting of noses.

DOURO QUESTIONS FOR BOARD.

Sir: It is gratifying to see that there are at least two other interested ratepayers in School Area No. 1, Douro. I would like to commend the writer of the first letter appearing in the Jan. 16th issue of your paper. It seemed like an intelligent and unbiased letter.

We have been much too hesitant in dealing with existing problems in our schools. Even now, are we airing our views to the proper authorities, that is, to the people who have the qualifications, the ability and the sound judgement to evaluate the individual to whom we entrust our children for at least seven school hours a day?

Is it too much to expect the course of study as required by the Ontario Dept. of Education to be covered in a school year?

Is it too much to expect at least some degree of discipline will be maintained as well as the upholding of moral and social standards as taught and instilled by Christian parents? Or are we expecting too much of our "teenage" teachers?

Speaking of giving high school students a chance. Why chance it for a whole school year? Is it too much for ratepayers to expect co-operation from elected school board in such matters?

When we speak of economy can we evaluate in dollars and not in sense the time wasted in the formative years of our youth-Wake up parents! Wake up everybody!

In reference to "another ratepayers" letter in January 20, 1953, issue of the Peterborough Examiner, with regard to applications, complaints and reports, are these all reviewed at board meetings? It might be advisable for the school board to check with each other to see if all the applications, all the justifiable complaints and all the reports are discussed at meetings.

I believe in one school, two or three pupils are now attending schools elsewhere? Is this not unusual?

If the conscientious trustees of the board feel that the children are being satisfactorily educated then we parents are at fault. Let us attend the meetings, voice our opinions and expect justice.

Thank you, Mr. Editor for space in this column.

Yours,
INTERESTED RATEPAYER NUMBER 3.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And while he yet spake, behold a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jesus to kiss him. But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?

When they which were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with a sword? And one of them smote the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear.

And Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far. And he touched his ear, and healed him. (Luke 22: 47-51.)

And the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate . . . And Pilate gave sentence that it should be as they required (Luke 23: 1, 24.)

Quebec Tramples Teepees In 14-2 Pounding

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Could be Wally Hergesheimer of New York Rangers should stay close to the top in the National Hockey League scoring race. Because Thursday night, right-winger Michel Labadie of Quebec Citadelles, a Ranger farm club in the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association, set himself an eight-goal record as the Cits downed St. Catharines Teepees 14-2.

The game was one played under the interlocking JAHA - Ontario Amateur Hockey Association schedule.

The 20-year-old Labadie's record for goals scored in a single game was one better than that formerly held by Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens of the NHL and Jean Beliveau of Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior League.

ON LEND-LEASE

Labadie played on a lend-lease basis with the Rangers a few weeks ago. A teammate, Abbie Kukulowicz, who also did a stint with the NHL club, didn't do so badly either. He scored two goals and set up three others.

Three of Labadie's goals were unassisted and he chalked up an assist.

Roland Leclerc, J. Doyon, Gabby Alain and Jacques Pichette were the other Citadelles scorers. Brian Cullen and Billy Haas tallied for Teepees.

The victory moved Quebec closer to the first-place Montreal Canadiens who were idle.

Bowling Tourney Planned To Create District Victor

Dick Ouimet announces a bowling tournament for the city and district to create a district champion who will bowl off for the Ontario trundling title at the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto, commencing on March 13. From the district, 35 bowlers (five from each of the seven competition alleys) will be brought here to compete. Only the scores of 15 special games will be considered in this first part of the tourney, and these special games will be played here and in the district at the discretion of the alley managers, starting right after Jan. 26. At least two men must bowl in the games registered for competition.

On Feb. 28, the eligible 35 bowlers will compete here, bowling five games at Duffus' and five at Playfair. This is the elimination tournament, and the best district bowler then goes to Toronto, all expenses paid, to compete at the Sportsmen's Show for the provincial bowling crown. This classic carries with it the Molson Trophy and there is $1,150 in prize money, with the first prize $500. The tourney at the Sportsmen's Show will go on a newly-installed Brunswick Alley.

SEVEN ALLEYS

This district consists of Peterborough (2 alleys), Campbellford, Lindsay, Brighton and Trenton (2 alleys). Entry forms are available at Duffus and Playfair on Jan. 26. There is no entry fee, and handicaps will not be allowed.

The district committee formed to handle the competition up this way is comprised of: Dick Ouimet for Duffus', C. Collins for Playfair, Vern Lockwood of Campbellford, and Wm. Osborne, representing the trophy and prize donors. Questions concerning the local, district or Toronto part of the competition will be answered at the alleys mentioned or by any of the committee.

Thief Takes Nickels Donated By Fans At Special Game Played By Church Group

COBOURG.— Cobourg Church Hockey League officials think they have been victimized by the meanest thief of the year. The thief stole the nickels and dimes the fans had dropped in the collection box while the final game of the night was in progress at a recent seven-game card.

The Church loop is a non-profit organization and provides hockey for over 200 boys from the ages of 10 to 18.

No charge is made at the door of the Recreational Centre by the league. Instead, a ballot box is left beside the turnstile and the fans drop in whatever they feel like giving. The ballot box was an old worn-out affair and league officials spent some time fixing it up before the season opened. It had been unharmed since the start of the season in November until the meanest thief walked off with it.

Collections for the Church loop nights are never very robust and league President William McCaig declared ruefully: "There was probably a dollar at the most in the box when it was stolen."

Baltimore Man Writes Best Baseball Story

NEW YORK (AP)—Hugh Trader, Baltmore News-Post baseball writer, has won the Ernest J. Lanigan award for writing the "best International League story" of 1952.

Jean Barrette, president of the league's writers, announced second place went to Cy Kritzer, Buffalo Evening News, and third place to Al Parsley, Montreal Herald.

Receiving honorable mention were Al C. Weber, Rochester Times-Union, and Lloyd Mcowan, Montreal Star.

Judges in the contest were commissioner Ford Frick, J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, and Frank J. Shaughnessy, International League president.

Trader's prize-winning story was about a rookie telling how it feels to be sacked by the manager.

Kritzer wrote a feature on Schoolboy Rowe, the former Detroit Tiger pitching star, who during the spring training season last year answered Ty Cobb's charges "They don't play baseball no more." Rowe was pitching coach with Buffalo.

Place Bep Guidolin On Inactive List

OTTAWA (CP)—T. P. Gorman, head of the Ottawa Senators hockey club, said Thursday night that Bep Guidolin, who has been placed on the inactive list at his own request, is automatically suspended and not eligible to play for any other team.

Guidolin, a forward purchased by the Quebec Senior Hockey League club from Chicago Black Hawks this season, did not make the trip to Chicoutimi last Tuesday.

No reason was given for Guidolin's request to be placed on the inactive list.

T. D'Arcy Leonard Q.C., President and General Manager, in presenting the 40th Annual Report of The Canada Permanent Trust Company, stated . . .

One cannot help but be optimistic about conditions in Canada. Ahead of us are opportunities that challenge our imagination, our minds and our energies. The St. Lawrence Seaway and power development; the mineral wealth of Labrador, of Ungava, of Northern Ontario and Quebec; the oil of Western Canada; the vast aluminum project in British Columbia; these are some of the reasons why Canadians should be able to work and prosper in the years that lie ahead.

Formerly, trusteeships were made to individual persons, who were chosen because they were deemed to be trustworthy, to have integrity and a knowledge of business affairs. But the individual is mortal, and with him die the qualities that caused his selection as a trustee. A trust company such as ours has all these qualifications, but does not die. It can carry through any trust to its ultimate conclusion. The duties of a trustee are now so arduous and demanding as to be beyond the scope of the ordinary individual, so that there are fewer who are willing or prepared to accept the responsibilities and the work required of an executor or trustee. It is an almost impossible task for the average business man to keep abreast of taxation changes, rulings and decisions, but it is an essential part of trust company service to do so.

Captain Jim Sutherland Hopes To Live To See Puck Hall Of Fame A Fact

(This is the last in a series of three stories on Kingston's Hockey Hall of Fame.)

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Big Jim Sutherland, one-time travelling shoe salesman, gave hockey the idea for a priceless memorial because he was curious about baseball.

A huge, white-haired figure, Sutherland had been selling shoes nearly 60 years when he created the international hockey Hall of Fame in 1943 to honor hockey's greats and the men who made the game possible.

Hockey has been Jim's life for most of his 83 years. He talks hockey. He dreams hockey. He has great hopes for it, too.

The square-shouldered 200-pounder has been mixed up in the game so long he's almost an institution. While his 83-year-old wife collects antiques, Jim stores up hockey mementoes.

RECORD OF HOCKEY

Hockey literature is scattered throughout his three-storey home in downtown Kingston. Pictures of old-time players hang from living-room walls. The Hall's honor roll book is locked up in his dining room. Pictures and scrolls are piled waist-high beside his bed, waiting to be placed in hockey's shrine.

This is the life of Capt. James Sutherland, an army captain in the First World War and No. 3 of 42 men on the Hall's honor roll.

He is one of the pillars upon which amateur hockey was built in the country. He was a gangling defenceman playing organized hockey 67 years ago when some of the hall's immortals were hockey fledglings; when nets were unheard of, upright posts served as a goal and goal judges signalled scores by upraised arms.

Big Jim, now on a pension, has cherished memories and a firm belief that the Hall of Fame will some day be a reality. He visioned it when he visited baseball's shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y., "just out of curiosity to see what it was like."

OLD-TIMER—James Sutherland, 83, of Kingston, Ont., is founder of the International Hockey Hall of Fame which is proposed for Kingston when funds are raised. Sutherland, himself chosen for the Hall of Fame, played hockey with the old Kingston Athletics years ago. Since then he has managed and coached a number of clubs and was president of the Ontario Hockey Association 1915-1916. He also served as chief executive of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for four terms from 1915-1918, the only man to hold the office that long.

MATTER OF TIME

Although the site here is untouched, Jim figures it is only a matter of time. His big-jawed face beams when he talks of his dream.

"We'll raise all the money we need. The Hall of Fame will be a reality. Yes, sir, you can be sure of that."

His only hope is that it will be finished "before I go to the little plot of land I bought in the cemetery."

Sutherland was born in Kingston Oct. 10, 1870, and the flame of his love for the game burns as brightly as ever.

It doesn't take much for Jim to recall such men as Frank McGee, Charlie Drinkwater, Mike Grant, Si Griffis, Harry Trihey, Billy Hewitt and many others. He knew most of them.

PIONEER PLAYER

He started playing organized hockey in 1885—claimed to be the first year an organized hockey league was formed in the country. He was a defenceman for the old Athletics Club of Kingston and in 1897 he called it quits—four years after he married Ethel Mary Metcalfe.

However, Jim couldn't stay away from the game. He helped organize the Frontenac Hockey Club, acting as manager and coach. He stayed with the organization until it disbanded in 1926 after winning several intermediate and junior Ontario titles.

"During that time," Jim said, "I never took a cent out of hockey and I was never paid a cent." Included in his treasured mementoes of the game are five inscribed watches and other small tokens.

In 1911, he was elected to the executive of the Ontario Hockey Association and in 1915 and 1916 he was named OHA president. He also served as president of the CAHA for four terms—1915-1918—the only man to hold that office so long.

When Sutherland was elected to the Hall of Fame 10 years ago he was flabbergasted. "There must be some mistake," he exclaimed.

That was just like Jim Sutherland, likable and modest.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A couple of small items to hand from the Brantford column of Al Rose. Says he: "Don't be surprised if you see a square puck at some of the hockey games in the near future. Someone is suggesting it would make for better control and stop it from rolling. The corners might be hard on a goalie." Yeah, and some smart puckist would try glue on his stick one night and really latch onto the cookie for a terrific stickhandling rush, eh? Al also remarks: "Arn Dugan, popular right winger of the Brantford Redmen, will be hiking back to rejoin the lacrosse Petes when the hocke season wanes." Don't bet too much on it, Al, old boy.

* * * * * *

While the Orillia senior "B" puckists are plenty tough now, beating Stouffville, Kingston, Belleville and the Petes lately, they can be beaten. And the Petes will shoot the works here tonight to knock over the rugged northerners. Did it last time these clubs clashed on local ice, and both squads have bolstered since then. Which adds up to a right promising scrap. Schedule has less than a month to go, but the Petes aren't out of the race by any means yet. They're just two games back of Kingston at the moment, and the K's have slipped in recent weeks, so the Ellis outfit might well hurdle Kingston or Belleville yet for a playoff spot. But they must resume their winning ways now. It'll soon be later than they think.

* * * * * *

Thorpe Lost To Petes

Petes' long battle to obtain Bob Thorpe's amateur card has been washed up on the Shore—and we do mean Eddie Shore. NHL clearing office got Buffalo's waiver on Bob and then sought other pro clubs' waivers to permit Thorpe to return to amateur hockey. Meantime, Bob had been granted temporary permission to play amateur for Norwood pending settlement of his case. This para from the NHL letter to the Petes' secretary, Baz Phelan, tells what happened: "As the canvass of the professional clubs for his reinstatement proceeded, this player was claimed by Mr. Shore of Syracuse. Consent for the player to play, pending reinstatement, was immediately withdrawn on Jan. 19 and Mr. Shore has been advised to contact Thorpe to make whatever arrangements he can with the player."

* * * * * *

So, there it is—the old pro hockey slave market again. You can never return to amateur hockey as long as any club in all the pro circuits lays claim to you. Thorpe has no intention of returning to pro play as he works and lives here now, and is lacrosse playing coach, but he's not permitted to play amateur hockey, according to this letter. Norwood officials maintain he can play in the independent TVL as organized hockey has no authority over this loop. But Thorpe is definitely lost to the Petes' OHA team in any case, and no doubt will be until he's too old to play. Sometimes we think the cantankerous Ed Shore pulls these stunts without rhyme or reason.

Fireworks In The TVL

Elsewhere tonight appears a resolution passed by four of the six TVL teams in the northern division at a meeting last eve in Marmora. In brief, Marmora, Campbellford, Havelock and Lakefield are advising Prexy Art Duncan of the league — he lives in Batawa — that Norwood and Hastings be forced to abide by the rule on imported players or be suspended. Furthermore, that games played in which Norwood or Hastings used ineligible players be awarded to the opposing clubs. The claim was made at last night's meeting that these two clubs had been using ineligible players. The resolution wound up by saying that if action in this regard is not taken by this Sunday evening the other four clubs in the group would withdraw from the league. So it looks like TVL fireworks coming up pronto.

* * * * * *

A chap calls up to say that Doug Galvin's 39 points for St. Peter's High senior basketballers night before last here is not a hoop record for Peterborough. He points out (and has a news clipping to back him up) that Jack Craig scored 46 points back in 1939 when St. John's won a 98-21 game over Port Perry in Ontario church juvenile playdowns, the team later losing out in provincial semi-finals to Toronto. Some of the other cage aces on the local club then were Al Marshall, Les Ascott, the late Hewitt Amys and Bob Dyer. Son of a former Examiner sports editor, the late Fred (Josh) Craig, young Jack was an ace basketballer here for years. Lives now in Winnipeg. Certainly, 46 points must constitute a local record.

Slugging Rangers Upset Wings In 8-2 Goal Spree

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Those New York Rangers are surprising fellows. Early in the National Hockey League season they settled comfortably in the league cellar, a spot cynics claim they almost have reserved season after season. But now and then the Blue Shirts stage an uprising. Thursday night was one of those nights for Bill Cook's boys.

They downed the league-leading Red Wings 8-2 at Detroit in New York's biggest scoring spree of the season. In both their two previous starts the Rangers had been shut out.

While the Wings were dropping their first home game to the Rangers in more than a year Montreal won its second straight game against Toronto to move within one point of the league leadership. The Maple Leafs bowed 4-1 at home the night before by the same Canadiens.

In the night's other game, the smallest crowd of the season at Boston, 6,101, watched Chicago Black Hawks and the Bruins play to a 3-3 tie.

ONE OF THE WORST

The Red Wings' drubbing was one of the most one-sided they have ever suffered at home. Paul Ronty and Jack Stodard led the New York attack with two goals each. Wally Hergesheimer, rookie Aldo Guidolin, Neil Strain and Hy Buller each counted one in the scoring scramble. For Detroit, veterans Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe were the marksmen.

Montreal's victory over Toronto pulled them five points ahead of third-place Chicago. Maurice Richard scored twice for Montreal with Floyd Curry and Elmer Lach providing the others. Toronto's old pro, centre Max Bentley, back in action only a short time after a six-week layoff with an injured back, scored the Leaf goal.

Jerry Couture was the margin in Chicago's squeezing a tie at Boston. He scored two of the Hawks goals, including the tying one, both in the third period while Hal Laycoe was in the penalty box.

Jimmy McFadden had given the Hawks an early lead only to have Fleming Mackell, Real Chevrefils and Pentti Lund score and give the Bruins the edge until the last few minutes of the game.

No games are scheduled tonight.

Mrs. J. Elliott Captures Gibson Trophy

By the smallest margin — one point—Mrs. J. Elliott's rink won the Gibson Trophy when her rink defeated Mrs. J. Fanning's rink in the final game of the schedule, played on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. V. Selkirk's rink, as runners-up, take the Waddell Trophy.

In one of the best contested schedules that the ladies have ever played, Mrs. Elliott's rink came through to win the Gibson Trophy—and when, as the records show, there were only three points separating the first five rinks, one can gather that the ladies were playing for keeps.

It was a grand series—some real fine curling and very few one-sided scores. Rinks:

Gibson Trophy — Mrs. C. Vincent, Mrs. R. Perks, Mrs. D. Norman, Mrs. J. Elliott, skip.

Waddell Trophy — Mrs. L. Calvert, Mrs. A. Leach, Mrs. C. Selkirk, Mrs. V. Selkirk, skip.

Word came through yesterday that the men's Tankard rinks play in the next round on Thursday, January 29, at 9 a.m. in Oshawa.

New York Giants Sign Three Key Men

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Giants Thursday signed pitcher Al Corwin, catcher Sal Yvars and shortstop Daryl Spencer, all key men in the club's 1953 plans.

Spencer, particularly, figures prominently in a new infield setup by manager Leo Durocher. Leo may try to shift Alvin Dark from short to second base to make room for the talented newcomer.

An all-star shortstop in the American Association, the 23-year-old Spencer hit .294 at Minneapolis and hit 27 home runs.

Marines And Aces Earn Juvenile Puck Wins As Schedules Near End

Marines downed the juvenile Shamrocks 5-1, as IUE Aces defeated the Havelock juveniles 5-4 last night in Peterborough Minor Hockey Association games in Civic Arena. Midget melees saw the Aces win 3-0 over Shamrocks, while Norwood downed the Wolves by a 7-0 count. Shamrock bantams beat Swartz 9-3. The schedules in the PMHA conclude next week, with playoffs following. McGillen put Marines up one in the first period of their juvenile joust, and he added one next heat, Dodds getting two more for Outboards then, with Bail having two assists, and Corbett one. Pearson wound it up for them in the third, while Sidey scored for the losers on a pass from Sutherland. Shamrocks drew four of the seven penalties handed out.

It was 1-1 in the first frame of the other juvenile tilt, Whitnall and Lang each scoring. Stewart put Aces ahead with a goal in the second, and Brooks added two and Pratt one in the third for them. Havelock fought on even terms in the last chukker to score three, Ruttan, Stevens and Lang hitting the mark, with the former also having an assist. The winners were given five penalties to one for their opponents.

Brown tallied in the second period for the midget Aces, with Ferren counting a pair in the third period, Brown assisting on one. There were four penalties apiece. McCarthy of the losers was given a match misconduct penalty for abusive language to the referee after the player was called for icing the puck.

FINISH STRONG

Norwood midgets opened with a goal by Cassidy, and they made it 2-0 in the second on J. Ferguson's marker. They finished strong with five markers without a return, Tedford, Ferguson, McCracken, Casidy and Rooney hitting the twine. The winners were given three of the four penalties in this tussle.

Shamrocks bantams led 2-1 in the first period on two goals by Baker, as Mahoney aided on both, and Darling helped on one. Kinlin counted for Swartz as Henry assisted. Brown scored for them next time out, but Lonsberry, Daley and Stewart scored for the other crew. Daley, Baker, Coombes, and McFadden clinched it for Shamrocks in the third, Armstrong getting the lone goal for the losers that period. The losers drew two penalties and the winners one. Referees for the evening were Al Menzies, Bill Romhanyi, Ed. Woodcock, and Bill Post.

Clubs Threaten Withdrawal From The TVL

Four of the six teams in the northern division of the TVL have sent an ultimatum to the league president advising him that unless league rules regarding importing of players is abided by Hastings and Norwood by January 25, Marmora, Havelock, Campbellford and Lakefield will withdraw from the league. These four clubs and TVL first vice-president William Regan attended a meeting to discuss this matter last night in Marmora.

The following resolution was passed unanimuosly: "That the Norwood and Hastings hockey clubs abide by the ruling of the executive board made at the executive meeting in Marmora on January 1. Failure by the Norwood and Hastings clubs to do this will result in the other four clubs asking for the immediate suspension of Norwood from the TVL and that the Hastings club be made to comply with the list of players submitted by them and approved by the general meeting of the TVL held at Batawa on January 11. If the Hastings club fail to do this, their suspension is also requested."

CHANGE CONSTITUTION

It continues: "We are also asking that the constitution of the TVL be changed so that each team be represented by one member on the executive board over and above the elected officers. Also that any decisions affecting the northern group be made by teams in the northern group. We request that all games in which Norwood or Hastings played and won in which they used players not eligible be awarded to the opposing team.

"The rulings passed by the executive board meeting at Marmora on January 1 were that each team be allowed four senior 'B' players and they must be a goaltender, defenceman and two forwards, and these players must be played in these positions. Also that the players classed as senior 'B' at this meeting be complied with insofar as the northern group is concerned. If action is not taken in this resolution and it be not complied with in its entirety by Sunday, January 25, at six p.m., the following teams, Marmora, Havelock, Campbellford and Lakefield will withdraw from the league."

The resolution to the president was signed by Percy Gray of Marmora, F. M. Rutherford of Campbellford, the Havelock representative, Garnet Samis, of Lakefield, and William Regan of the TVL.

Fighting Tigers Bow To Redmen

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When officials of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series hold the annual post-mortem they should reach one conclusion: Hamilton Tigers died fighting.

The Tabbies are in the death throes now as the league schedule nears its conclusion. With only one win to their credit, they have 12 more games to play and as yet show no signs of giving up the ghost. Thursday night they lost their 35th game of the season, taking a 5-1 defeat from Brantford Redmen. But they fought hard.

The Redmen, who moved to within one point of the third-place Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, scored twice in the first and once in the second. The Tigers battled furiously in the middle period and were rewarded with a goal by Hugo Bolzon. But another pair of goals in the final assured the Redmen of victory.

Bill Shill and Sam Kennedy scored two each for the Redmen. Jack Simpell notched the other.

U.S. Women Score Easy Tennis Wins

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Maureen Conolly and Julie Sampson made it an all-United States women's singles final with easy victories today over Australian opponents in the South Australian tennis tournament.

Miss Sampson faced Maureen in the finals of the New South Wales, Victorian and Australian national championships and lost to "Little Mo" each time.

Today Maureen defeated Gwen Thiele 6-1, 6-1 and Miss Sampson edged Helen Angwin 6-4, 6-2 in semi-final matches.

Mervyn Rose reached the final in the men's singles, beating his 18-year-old countryman, Lewis Hoad, 6-3, 7-5, 6-0 in their semi-final match.

Kingston Scores Win Against Jays

COBOURG — Kingston Vics outscored Cobourg Jays in all but one period here Wednesday night and walked off with a one-sided 12-3 triumph in a district OHA Junior "B" game. The teams held even in the centre canto with one goal each. Six goals in the first period for the Vics and five more in the third gave them their impressive margin.

D. Senior led the winners with a fine passing display that set up four goals for his teammates and he also flicked the red light himself. Next to Senior were Montgomery, Cherry and Reid with two counters each. Single tallies went to Maracle, Ullman, Wilding, Koen and Vallerie.

Cobourg led for the first four minutes of the game on an early goal by Neil Cane from Denny Dutzko, but the Vics tied the count at 4:38 and from then on it was a parade. Bill Bowen and Dotzko led the losers with a goal and an assist each.

Bob Davidson of the Maple Leaf scouting staff caught the game and was said to have been interested in "Sleepy" Dawe, Cobourg's high-scoring defenceman who first drew Davidson's attention in a Cobourg-Lindsay game two weeks ago. Dawe did not make the score sheet.

The win keeps Kingston in the hot race for the first rung of the loop.

"Forgotten League" Starts In Campbellford

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Two Holsteins, Champions at Peterborough District Show, Named All-Canadians . . . Forums Agree Present Market and Prices Are Not Encouraging to Farm Producers . . . Shorthorn Breeders to Meet Saturday, Jan. 31.

Two of the entries at the East-Central Ontario Holstein championship show at Peterborough last October have been selected for All-Canadian honors in the awards sponsored by the Holstein-Friesian Journal.

Rockwood Rocket Tone is the 1953 A.C. aged bull, winning that distinction for the fourth consecutive year. He is owned by the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association at Belleville. An outstanding animal, he was an easy selection as grand champion bull at Peterborough.

All-Canadian three year old bull is Illehee Sovereign Supreme which was first in his class at Peterborough, reserve senior and reserve grand. He is from the herd of O. C. McCloskey of Queensville, York County.

Reserve All-Canadian junior yearling heifer is also from the McCloskey herd. Cedar Dale Sky Rocket, first in her big class and reserve junior champion at Peterborough, she was bred by M. J. Tamblyn of Orono. Her sire was Rockwood Rocket Tone.

There were several other Peterborough winners which were selected for honorable mention in the All-Canadian listing. One of them was the winning senior heifer and grand champion female at Peterborough: Elmcroft Adeen May, bred and owned by Elmcroft Farms (G. R. McLaughlin) Oshawa.

Ridgedale Francy Achilles, bred and owned by G. H. Walker & Son, Port Perry, was first in the senior yearling heifer class, and junior champion at Peterborough.

The All-Canadian Holsteins are chosen by a committee consisting of the judges at the leading Canadian shows in 1952.

Peterborough district breeders should find considerable satisfaction in the honorary awards, topped by two All-Canadians and one Reserve A.C., accorded to animals shown here last fall.

The All-Canadian aged cow for 1952 is Spring Farm Juliette owned by J. M. Fraser of Streetsville. She has been A. C. Winner six times and Reserve All-Canadian twice. She is the only female to be named All-Canadian aged cow four times. She was grand champion at the C.N.E. last year.

All-Canadian honorable mention was also won by Pabst Walker Ollie of the Central Ontario bull club at Orono. He was junior champion at Peterborough and also at Ottawa Central Exhibition, junior and reserve grand champion at Peterborough Exhibition, and third at the Royal Winter Fair.

Forums On Surpluses

Farm Forums of the county were unanimous Monday night in their negative answer to the question whether present day markets and prices were sufficient to encourage farmers to produce to their capacity.

The second question enquired: What should be done about surpluses to enable the farmer to aim at trying to produce more and more?

Twenty-six members attended Donegal Forum at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Beggs in Asphodel with Mrs. Wilfred Buck as leader. Quoting from their summary: "Farm prices should be high enough to afford a working profit. Some prices are not even high enough to pay for the cost of production."

On the second question, they referred to the quota system which was discussed by the OFA panel in Toronto. "There should be a cost plus profit price; parity prices with labor, mining, etc. Produce on a quota system, and try to produce more efficiently. Lower exchange rates in money and tariffs, then we could buy more from Britain and they could buy more from us. Countries could do more trading instead of buying things with money. Hudson's Bay Co. uses this method frequently."

Beaver Forum affirmed: "We are convinced there is a market in Great Britain for our produce if trade and dollar difference could be worked out. Perhaps a food bank could be organized, and trade to get our surpluses where the people are hungry and need it . . . We have food surpluses now and no markets in which to dispose of them. Therefore, the farmer cannot produce to capacity. Everything he buys is too expensive in comparison with his returns from his produce." Jim McConkey was discussion leader at the Sherman Northeys' home. Eighteen were present.

APPEAL TO WOMEN

Coldpsprings Forum (16 present) at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ballantyne with Mrs. Inez Huston leader, concluded their solid comments with this suggestion: "Let women go on diets which contain agricultural products and surpluses would be used up. The general public is not eating as much per individual, as manual labor is lightened by machinery, shorter working hours, and hence less need for heavy meals. Is this true or not?"

In their observations, the Forum was about evenly divided on the question of sufficiency of markets and prices as encouragement to farmers. They are now working as hard as time, health and help permit . . . More production means more surplus, so the problem of even distribution must be worked out before production is increased . . . Reasons: Income tax stops production to a great extent; agricultural products are perishable, hence quick market must be had; law of supply and demand rules market."

As to what could be done to encourage farmers to produce more: "Even distribution where needed. Have the quota basis . . ."

31 AT STEWART HALL

William Chambers was discussion leader at Stewart Hall Forum at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kindred. Markets and prices are no present encouragement to farmers.

"An article passes through too many hands from producer to consumer. If we could get our produce more directly to the consumer, prices would be higher . . . At present it is impossible to buy grain and raise cattle, pigs and poultry without a loss . . . We think, if ceiling prices were set, there would not be the sudden rush in raising broilers, pigs, etc., when prices rise sky high."

"With so many people in the world, there shouldn't be surpluses," is quoted from Daisy Dee Forum report. Nineteen attended at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Webster. Stan Andrews was leader.

"We don't think prices are high enough to induce farmers to produce to capacity at the present price of eggs, hogs and other farm commodities. The small profit over cost doesn't encourage greater production . . . If a farmer tries to keep his income up, but prices fall, he has to produce more to keep his income on an even keel, which causes surpluses. He knows this is wrong, but at the high cost of living, he needs money and goes ahead . . . The export market is our answer to surpluses, with government to have international exchange to solve money problems."

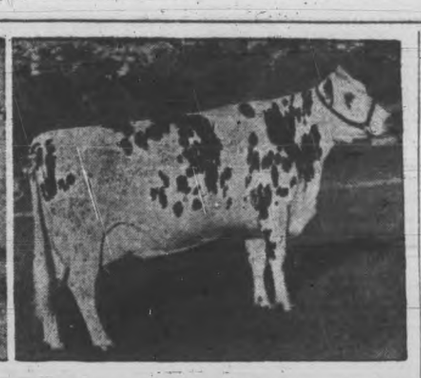
Lakehurst Forum said one currency system for all countries would help trade. They met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson with Bert Weiss leader. "Development of poorer countries would enable their people to enjoy a higher standard of living and put them in a position to trade. We feel that the Defence Food Plan proposed by the Canadian Federation is the best of the five plans suggested for the moving of surpluses."

27 AT PINE GROVE

Chester Hamilton was leader at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alec Hunter: "All agreed present prices and markets are not encouraging . . . Too much difference between the price the farmer gets for his produce and what he has to pay for the things he buys. Uncertainty of markets and prices . . . Exchange our surpluses for things from other countries . . . Raise the standard of living in the countries where there is hunger. That would do much to remove our surpluses."

Central Smith Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Reynolds. Elmer Telford was leader; 15 attended.

"We think labor is defeating itself by forcing what farmers have to buy to unreasonable levels . . . There is too much price fluctuation in our present day markets to encourage farmers to produce to capacity . . . Government should regulate farmers' working hours to cut production and help do away with surpluses."



QUOTAS SUGGESTED

"When we have surpluses we would possibly be better off with quotas on our production, and a set price which would return a reasonable profit . . . There is nothing like a little scarcity of a product to return us a good price." That was Fairview Forum's comment on No. 2 question, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Kimball. Ten attended.

"There is no encouragement for capacity production. Farm prices are falling while manufactured goods are rising . . . No need for high production in these days of plenty . . . We have too many farmers for our uncontrolled production . . . The Canadian dollar, at its present high rate, prices our farm goods off the world market."

Fairview are holding their next meeting at the school house and Coldsprings at Wallace Point hall.

ALL-CANADIAN AGED STEIN COW AND BULL—Spring Farm Juliette, right, has for the fourth consecutive year been named All-Canadian Aged Holstein cow for J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, Ont. At the left is the All-Canadian Aged Bull, Rockwood Rocket Tone, bred by Rockwood Holsteins, St. Norbert, Man., and owned by the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association, Belleville, Ont. This is the fourth time he has won an All-Canadian awa ket Tone was Grand Champion bull at the Royal Winter Fair and Peterborough Championship Show, while Juliette was Grand Champion at the CNE. Selection of All-Canadians is made in the 15 regular show classes by a panel of judges from the leading fairs throughout the Dominion. Twenty-one breeders shared the 30 All-Canadian and Reserve All-Canadian awards.

From Hired Man To Minister Of Agriculture

Ontario's new Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Fletcher S. Thomas of Elgin county, appears to be the first agricultural representative to receive that important portfolio in the provincial government.

Civil servants customarily and prudently avoid political activity, but, after 18 years as representative of the Department of Agriculture in Elgin, Tommy Thomas resigned from that government position to accept the provincial Conservative nomination in that riding, and in June, 1945, defeated the late Mitchell F. Hepburn. That success was a comparatively recent turning point in his eventful career. He was re-elected in 1948 and 1951.

CONSERVATION SURVEY

In 1950 he was chairman of the select committee of the legislature on soil conservation and land use, presenting a comprehensive report of the committee's survey and public sessions in virtually all sections of the province. In October, 1951, he was sworn in as Minister of Public Works, and on Monday last he succeeded the Hon. T. L. Kennedy as Minister of Agriculture.

Born in Peel county June 7, 1897, was brought up on a farm near Streetsville about four miles from the home of Col. Kennedy. The family left the farm at the death of the father in 1906, but Mr. Thomas continued his interest in agriculture by working with farmers of the district during his summer holidays.

FIRST WAR VETERAN

One of the new minister's memories was an experience as a hired man at the salary of $175 a year and board. In 1915, when he had just turned 18, he entered OAC at Guelph, but enlisted during the following winter in the Canadian Field Artillery unit that formed at the college. He reached France in the fall of 1916, and served with his battery from Leeven to Arras.

In July, 1918, he volunteered for a special service which was eventually disclosed as inclusion in the international brigade that was dispatched to Archangel for action against the Bolsheviks then emerging in the theatre of Europe under the inspiration of Lenin and Trotsky.

The Brigade was in action down the Dvina River during that bitterly cold winter, but in June, 1919, the expeditionary force was withdrawn to England. Mr. Thomas returned to Canada and was discharged in July. That summer he farmed at Streetsville, returned to OAC in the autumn and was graduated in the class of 1922.

An attractive position in Michigan was available, but instead he went to Grey county in June, 1922, as assistant agricultural representative. During his college years he worked at different agricultural jobs. In 1920 he went to Edmonton on an appointment with the Soldiers' Settlement Board. The following summer he was with Prof. Archie Leitch, head of the economics branch at OAC, doing field work on the cost of producing apples and dairy products.

AT CHICAGO SHOW

Mr. Thomas took the first livestock judging team to the International Livestock Show in Chicago during the fall of 1921, his final year at OAC. The team placed second to Indiana, by a margin of two points. The other members of that team were: George Raithby, now department head at OAC, Douglas Hart of Woodstock, Dr. Frank Greaney, a top man with a Toronto elevator company; Ward Walsh, deputy minister of agriculture for Nova Scotia, who turned in the highest score for North America with team; Ralph White, agricultural representative in Perth, and Alex Cockburn.

The 18 years Mr. Thomas devoted to his work as agricultural representative in Elgin are replete with incidents. Just a few og them may be mentioned in this space. He organized the first Elgin Junior Farmers' judging competition, promoted the production of flue-cured tobacco in the county, organized the first Elgin tobacco growers' association, and conducted the first campaigns against the warble and bot fly.

Mr. Thomas saw the first county and township weed inspectors installed; introduced the first Michigan robust white pea bean to Elgin and the first hybrid corn, peddling the seed from farm to peddling the seed from farm to farm planting. He also set up a program of ROP testing of dairy herds.

PROMOTED CO-OPERATIVE

In 1930 the new Minister of Agriculture was the moving spirit in organizing the first fruit growers' co-operative; in April, 1935, was formed the Elgin Fruit Growers' Co-Operative, and a storage plant built, of which he is a director and past president. He conducted the meeting of 450 farmers that brought about the institution of Elgin Co-Operative Services which has 1,500 members today and a business turnover of between four and five million dollars a year.

From the inception of the Ontario Hospital, he had charge of its farm, and set up its first crop rotation plan. He introduced orchard and week spray services in Elgin, and the county soil survey in 1929. Elgin was third county in the province to adopt this service.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas live on the Port Stanley Highway, just south of St. Thomas. He ecquired in 1936 a farm on which he has developed two apple orchards of 1,250 trees. He has also grown flue-cured tobacco on a share basis for the last 16 years.

Hon. Mr. Thomas is an honorary member of the Kiwanis Club, a member of Trinity Anglican Church, also of Talbot Lodge A F & A M; OAC Alumni Association, and the Agricultural Institute of Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have four children, three daughters and a son.

Obviously, the new minister has been an assiduous leader in Elgin agriculture, is thoroughly acquainted with the western Ontario viewpoint and is widely travelled in his province as Minister of Public Works, and previously as chairman of the select committee on conservation.

Hon. Mr. Thomas was an energetic leader of Elgin farmers as agricultural representative. It will be interesting to see whether that disposition and guiding attiture which won him a high place among the people of the county will be reflected to any extent in the shaping of departmental policy.

Reg. Seymour President Northumberland Hog Club

The memory of Harry Doxtator, late president of the Northumberland Hog Producers' Association was honored at their annual meeting at Brighton January 16.

Warren Atkinson of Roseneath said he had known Mr. Doxtator for about 56 years, and found him a fine friend and successful farmber. He had given freely of his time to community organizations, and had been a leader in many, including the Federation of Agriculture, Warkworth Co-operative Farm Forums, and in all things had made a notable contribution to rural life. Members stood one minute in silent tribute.

Officers elected were: President, Reg. Seymour of Seymour Township; vice-president, Marcus Curle, Campbellford; secretary, Roy Darling of Cramahe; directors, Don Massey of Morganston.

Alnwick: Walter Gallagher and Earle Braithwaite.

Percy: Gordon Thompson and Norman McCubbin.

Brighton: Will Moran and Robert Hazlewood.

Murray: Arthur Miron and Royce Hanna.

Haldimand: William Usborne and George Stephens.

Hamilton: Orval McLelland and Don Kent.

Charles McInnis of Iroquois, president of the Ontario Hog Producers, discussed the Central Marketing Agency for hogs which is to come into effect January 23.

TO GIVE IT TRIAL

He said it was similar to other marketing schemes, and the United Livestock Sales at the Toronto Stockyards would sell all the hogs. In general there would be no change from present custom. A summary of the McInnis talk was: "Truckers not notified would move in the usual way to their usual market, but, if better bids were offered, they would be directed to other centres. It was felt that this would be more satisfactory for farmer, packer and consumer, in that competition would centre on price for hogs, rather than competition for conveyers to bring their hogs to a certain plant. Mr. McInnis said we required about 100,000 hogs a week for our own needs, and that we must reduce the numbers a third from the peak of 1951, to feed ourselves adequately as there was no export of pork products in view. He felt the government floor saved producers in present conditions.

There was considerable frank discussion, with some farmers doubtful about the plan being workable, but the majority were willing to give it a trial."

Clare Ingram of Campbellford won the pure-bred sow pig donated by Harry Alexander from a litter raised from the one given by Garnet Curle.

CAB Requests Amendment On Advertising

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, representing most privately - owned radio stations, today asked the CBC to amend a regulation covering advertising in news broadcasts.

The regulation now reads:

"No station shall broadcast any advertising content in the body of a news broadcast."

In a brief submitted to a public meeting of the CBC board of governors, called to discuss changes in regulations, the C.A.B. urged that the regulation be re-drafted to "specify intent."

"It appears the intent would be served by making this read:

"No advertising material shall be broadcast in connection with a newscast in such a fashion that it simulates or appears to simulate news."

$170,000 Damage Suit Against CPR Settled Out Of Court

OTTAWA (CP)—A $170,000 damage suit brought against the Canadian Pacific Railway by Marilyn Noell has been settled out of court, it was learned Thursday.

The 22-year-old Ottawa girl has been paralyzed from the neck down since she broke her neck when she dived into a CPR hotel swimming pool at St. Andrews-By-The-Sea June 23, 1949.

The settlement was reached Jan. 8, four days before the case was due to be heard in non-jury trial before Chief Justice J. C. McRuer in Toronto.

AWARDED LUMP SUM

Miss Noell was awarded a lump sum of $9,000 plus $300 a month for life and payment of all medical and legal expenses, a Toronto source said. However, Miss Noell's lawyer, O. F. Howe, said in Ottawa that those figures are low but declined to give the correct ones.

The girl, who was working as a waitress at the hotel during the summer, dived off a floating jetty when there was only three feet of water in the pool. The sluice gates had been opened to clean the pool.

Christians, Jews Should Unite To Improve Living

The efforts of Christians and Jews in Canada should be directed toward contributing to the national life rather than competing with each other, said Rabbi A. M. Babb in speaking to the members of the Kiwanis Club Thursday.

"Jews and Christians represent two points of focus for western civilization, and particularly for Canadian life. The question is not which group is to win over the other, but rather how to bring both forces into creative alignment. What is needed is true fellowship, a method according to which both may contribute to the results which belong to both," said Rabbit Babb.

"Let us pause for a moment and ask ourselves, what has been the cause of misundertanding between the Jew and the Christian and among all other races and religious groups? The word 'prejudice' answers the question. Prejudice, as the dictionary tells us, is an opinion, or an emotion, or a judgement made in advance of due examination. Such a judgement is usually the instinctive reaction of bias. Therefore, bias must be uprooted from all our minds.

"The western world is now in a great need of a united front, not so much a united front of political parties, but of all races, religions and creeds, if it is to stop the Communistic aggression. Such a front is imerative and urgent in order to salvage civilization which is threatened with total destruction."

Gloomy and terrible as these days were, he said it was not the end of end of the world. It still holds prospects of great bounty for man, if man will take the trouble of cultivating it.

"One of the first steps in that direction is to look upon each other as brothers. The Chinese have a proverb: 'When men come face to face their differences vanish.'

"It is time that the people of this age and era should grow up and realize that God is present in the Cathedral as in the Abbey, in the Mosque as in the Synagogue. That it all depends whether or not the person who worships is of pure heart and clean hands. A man who realizes the teaching of 'love thy neighbor as thyself' will find God anywhere. There is plenty of room upon earth for everyone, for every race, religion or creed, and there is likewise enough room in heaven for everyone as well. Why, then, be prejudiced or biased against each other?

"The universal truth upin which Western civilization is built, is the belief of God, the belief in the dignity of human life, the responsibilities of man to his fellow men, the concept of human brotherhood, the universal justice. These are principles cherished by Jews and Christians alike. A moral obligation, therefore, rests upon the Jews and Christians to do all in their power to promote Judaeo-Christian heritage and exert all our efforts to influence this in our daily lives."

Dr. Louis BZacks introduced the speaker and he was thanked by the president, Wilson Gemmell.

Willing To Hear New Proposals

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. (CP)—Canada will be glad to explore new proposals for United States participation in the St. Lawrence seaway if they do not hold up the project seriously, Transport Minister Chevrier of Canada said Thursday.

He reiterated Canada's stand in an address prepared for the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of this upstate city on the route of the seaway.

"New proposals for U.S. participation in the seaway have been made," he said. "All I can say at this time is that, as we have already made clear, we would be glad to explore the possibility anew, providing that this does not delay the development of power under present arrangements and does not cause any serious delay in the completion of the whole waterway."

Mr. Chevrier's statement was in line with a memorandum the Canadian government sent the U.S. government earlier this month. The memorandum followed Harry Truman's expression of hope, in his budget speech, that the U.S. would join Canada in building the navigation works and moves in congress towards this. Mr. Truman then was president.

Under the plan, designed to prevent students leaving school in their early years, students in commercial class have been working in offices until noon and returning to class for the rest of the day.

Mr. McColl in his half-year report said the plan had given students practice on equipment to which they wouldn't normally have access and has eased the part-time employment situation in the city.

Man 71 Claims Laughlin Estate

TORONTO (CP) — A 71-year-old man said Thursday he belives he is the closest living relative to the late John Laughlin, 104, who left an estate valued by relatives at $2,000,000. Laughlin died Sunday in his dilapidated, junk-filled home from effects of accidental gassing.

W. C. Cain of Toronto said Laughlin was his brother-in-law. He said Laughlin's wife was his sister. Mr. Cain said he had seen Laughlin as recently as two months ago, and his wife visited Laughlin at his home last October.

Mr. Cain said his lawyers are pressing his claims on the estate with the public trustee. Three cousins previously claimed a share of the estate. They are Charles Campbell and Ellen Campbell, both of Toronto, and Mrs. Robert Britnell of Allston, Mass.

Ask CBC To Drop Plans For Dictating Programs

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, taking issue with radio regulations in general, today urged the CBC to drop plans to compel radio stations to devote a percentage of their weekly broadcast time to Canadian programs.

The association—its membership includes most of the 139 privately-owned radio stations—said there has been no public demand for a CBC proposal that radio stations use from 30 to 48 per cent of their time for live or recorded Canadian programs.

"The test of whether material should be used or not should be merit and not nationality," said the assocation. "This proposed control reeks with the narrow and bigoted nationalism most of us thought was dead and buried in the 20th century."

Views of the association were outlined in a 25,000-word brief submitted at a public meeting of the nine-member CBC board of governors. The meeting was called to hear representations on a series of new regulations proposed by the CBC, controlling body for radio.

ISSUED OCTOBER 9

The regulations were issued by the CBC Oct. 9 as a basis for discussion. The CBC board will decide whether they should go into effect after it has considered representations of interested parties.

The C. A. B. brief was presented by T. J. Allard, general manager of the association. At the outset the brief said radio is a form of publishing and should be subject to the same laws as other publications. Broadcasting should not be singled out for "specific discretionary controls."

The brief contained these points:

1. The CBC should allow privately-owned stations to operate their own networks.

1. The CBC's ban on dramatized political broadcasts should be eased to permit interviews, question-and-answer programs, quiz shows and similar program devices to stimulate interest in politics.

3. A proposal to limit spot announcements to four in number or three minutes in total time in any 15-minute period "will cripple the usefulness of broadcasting stations as a community service."

WANT BAN LIFTED

4. A ban on advertising the sale of stocks and bonds should be lifted.

5. Canadian churches should be included among organizations entitled to use the radio to appeal for funds.

6. Proprietors of radio stations should be allowed to judge for themselves whether a program concerning public health and dealing with such matters as birth control, veneral disease and other subjects is fit for broadcast.

Much of the brief dealt with the new regulation giving the CBC power to regulate the Canadian content of programs.

The regulation is in line with a recommendation of the Massey commission on arts, letters and science. The commission recommended the CBC investigate "ways of ensuring that private radio broadcasters employ more Canadian talent."

REGRET PROGRAMS

The commission described the programs of some private stations as "regrettable" and criticized the widespread use of imported recorded programs.

The new regulation proposed that in centres of 50,000 or more, stations on the CBC Trans-Canada and French networks devote 48 per cent of their time between 8 a. m. and 11 p. m. to Canadian programs; stations on the Dominion network 43 per cent, and non-affiliated stations 40 per cent.

In localities of less than 50,000, stations on the Trans-Canada and French networks would give 38 per cent of the time between 8 a. m. and 11 p. m. to Canadian programs; stations on the Dominion network 33 per cent, and non-affiliated stations 30 per cent.

The CBC, given power under the Canadian Broadcasting Act to control the character of any and all programs broadcast, could increase or decrease the percentage of Canadian programs as conditions warranted.

Car Plunges Into Ditch, Rolls Over Twice Hits Tree, Bounces Upright, Driver Unhurt

A Toronto man must have had luck all on his side Thursday night as he stepped out of his nearly-wrecked car with only a cut ear.

The accident occurred on the Springville hill, seven miles south of Peterborough on Highway 28, as Robert A. Turney, 46, of 6 Richlea Circle, Toronto, was driving south from Peterborough to Toronto.

Here's what he told OPP Constable George Louth:

Headlights of a northbound car blinded him as he drove over the top of the Springville hill. He lost control of his car and it plunged into the five-foot deep west ditch.

The vehicle rolled over twice, slammed into a tree, and bounced back onto its four wheels.

Both sides of the 1949 model car were crushed in; so was the roof. And the glass from both sides of the windshield was knocked out. Damage is estimated at $1,500.

Turney stepped out of the car with only a cut on his right ear, caused by flying glass from his windshield.

Little Lake Cemetery Shows Total Surplus Of $250,000

A surplus of a quarter of a million dollars has been accumulated by the Little Lake Cemetery during its 102 years of operations, president W. P. Eastwood reported to the annual board of directors meeting.

"Due to a better interest rate on government and municipal bonds, income from investments has increased over the previous year by $728.96," said Mr. Eastwood.

Investments have increased by about $18,000 he reported and the company's net surplus at the end of 1952 was $1,240.06. The 1951 year-end surplus was $2,400.39.

NON PROFIT COMPANY.

Mr. Eastwood pointed out that Little Lake Cemetery Company is "a non-profit organization, owned and operated by the lot owners through a board of directors, who have always served without remuneration."

Part of the profit from the sale of lots is used to cover the cost of operations, the balance in invested in trust funds, interest on which is also used to defray expenses, he continued.

"Through careful management during the past century, a surplus of more than $250,000 has been accumulated. This is after paying from this fund the cost of the new cemetery property covering 60 acres on the east bank of the Otonabee, directly across from the present cemetery."

This new property, plus the lots still to be sold in the original cemetery are considered to be adequate to meet the demands of the next 75 years, Mr. Eastwood told the directors.

When the last lot is sold in the original cemetery, the interest on investments will be sufficient to take care of its upkeep he added.

STILL A CHOICE.

Referring to the development of the newly acquired property in Ashburnham, Mr. Eastwood said the cemetery had by no means reached the point where there are no longer "a wide choice of lots" in the original cemetery ground. He said there are ample lots in the old cemetery for many years yet.

Little or no fill wil be required in the new area being developed which is larger in area than the present cemetery. Within the next several years a road will be put through to this area, he said, and added that considerable work had already been done on the new property. A cemetery architect has been engaged to advise as to the best lay-out and an entrance gate is being designed to be erected during the coming summer."

The 1952 board of directors and executive, including the president, Mr. Eastwood were re-elected.

The officers are: vice president, T. J. Carley; secretary treasurer, Miss E. J. Saunders; directors, R. J. Kidd, James Hamilton, E. H. Howson, H. I. Bradburn, W. R. Thompson, E. M. Turner and Mayor Hugh Waddell.

319 BURIALS IN '52.

The first burial took place in Little Lake Cemetery on May 1, 1851 and in his report, superintendent C. F. Kitney reported 319 burials during 1952. His report stated 65 lots were sold during the year, and in addition, 71 single graves were sold. Fifty-two foundations were erected for monuments and 31 lots were put under perpetual care.

The auditor's report, submitted by Edward Humpage, CA, pointed out that revenue in 1952 showed an increase of $1,005 over the previous year, while expenses were up $2,165 over 1951.

The value of new lots added in 1952 was $170.25, Mr. Humpage reported and the value of lots sold was $5,348.25, leaving the present value of unsold lots at $66,955.22.

Sneak Thief Active

While members of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association were listening to an address at the Kawartha Club on Thursday night a sneak thief was active in the parking lot. He forced the no-draft ventilator of a car owned by Harold Herschell of Juliet Rd. and got away with a leather brief case and a pair of binoculars, valued at $60 in all. Mr. Herschell is an inspector with the Ontario Department of Labor and had some valuable papers in his brief case. About half an hour before Mr. Herschell reported that he had been victimized George Morden, general manager of Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., found that the clip on the inside of his no-draft ventilator had been snapped off. Presumably the same thief had no luck trying to break into the Morden car. OPP Constable George Louth is investigating.

ONE MILLION ACCIDENT-FREE man hours award was made to the Canadian General Electric on Thursday at a banquet of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association. The association's general manager, Gordon Anderson of Toronto (left), is shown above presentnig the citation to works manager Roy Bogle (second from right). Blind People Earning Place In Industry Safety Men Told

The blind are no longer merely pitied and then refused work. They now have a place at work benches throughout industry, said Percy Stollery, placement officer for the Canadian Institute for the Blind, guest speaker Thursday night at a meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association. Mr. Stollery went on to tell of the cheerful self respecting blind person in industry today.

There has been a great social change for the blind who have found a new place in the community, he said. They are now self-supporting, earning more than three quarters of a million dollars in the past year.

Blind people are considered safer in industry than they are in the home. Safety is mostly mechanical in the plants, where everything is neatly in its place and there is no fear of tripping over a piece of scrap metal.

The average individual is usually more considerate when there is a blind person working with them. For he will go out of his way to make sure the place is safe. As a result he is making the place safer for himself as well.

Safeyt should be taught in the home and carried on in business. For the attitude "of let the other fellow watch out for himself" is too prevalent today, he said. The principle that Abraham Lincoln stated, "It is the duty of every man to protect his safety and to protect the safety of others," should be adhered to.

When considering hiring employees, companies would be better off if they investigated the person's safety record instead of asking how many times he has moved in the past five years, and what denomination he is.

Gordon Anderson, president of the IAPA of Toronto made the presentation of the 1,000,000 continuous accident-free-hours' certificate to Roy T. Bogle, works manager for the Canadian General Electric plant in Peterborough. It is the second time the plant has won the award.

Clarence Corbett, chairman of the Peterborough-Lindsay branch of the IAPA introduced the guest speaker who was thanked by Fred Overend.

ALL'S WELL

City police recorded a routine overnight period. Not one motor vehicle accident was reported, while arrests, on minor charges, were at a minimum. With family and juvenile court sittings scheduled for the day, only one case was listed for hearing in open court before Magistrate W. R. Philp. It comprised a careless driving charge remanded from a week previous.

Judge Kennedy Reduces Shooting Charge

A charge of shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm against 29-year-old Donald C. Hall, Scarboro, was reduced Thursday to common assault by Judge John de N. Kennedy.

Agreeing with defence counsel Robert Carley and Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw that there was no evidence to support the major charge, he said he would give judgement next Wednesday afternoon on the lesser count.

Reason for judgment being reserved was an argument presented by Mr. Carley that intent must also be proved in common assault and that there was no intent shown. Mr. Carley also submitted that there was no proof Hall had fired the gun or even that Hall's gun had been fired.

There was only circumstantial evidence, he said, and a conclusion of guilt consistent with the given set of facts must be proved inconsistent with any other conclusion.

TRIPP ACQUITTED.

The charge arose out of an incident the evening of last Sept. 27, when Hall was wounded in the shoulder by a shot fired by Melvin Tripp, 32, at Tripps' home not far south of Apsley.

Tripp was acquitted some weeks ago on a charge of shooting.

It was alleged that Hall fired two shots, the second passing through the wall of the Tripp home only a few feet from Tripp's head. After the second shot, Tripp fired and hit Hall in the shoulder at a distance of about eight feet.

During Thursday's hearing, Mr. Carley questioned Tripp's accuracy, asking if it was possible to hit a man's shoulder already well-covered by the butt of a shotgun. Tripp had said that Hall approached his house with the gun at his shoulder and his finger on the trigger.

Tripp said it was possible to hit a man's shoulder, without doing damage to the butt of a gun already there (the butt of Hall's semi-automatic shot gun was not marked). He said that while he was in the army, he had a 75 per cent average on the 1,000-yard range.

At the mornig hearing, a statement given by Hall to OPP Corporal John Munro and Constable James Healey was barred as evidence by the judge, after a brief voir dire argument.

ARGUMENT.

Tripp, in his testimony, said that the shooting started after an argument between himself and William Clinton, who rented Tripp his home. Tripp ordered Clinton out, and Clinton's wife shouted "Shoot" or words to that effect. It was shortly after that that first shot was fired. Then a second shot was fired, allegedly by Hall, which passed through the wall of the Tripp cabin.

Tripp looked out, he said, and saw Hall coming toward the cabin with his gun levelled. Tripp fired and hit Hall in the shoulder. The Clintons left, the Tripps dressed Hall's wound, and Tripp drove Hall to a doctor's office in Lakefield.

Mr. Carley moved for dismissal on the grounds the crown had not proved its case. Judge Kennedy said he would reserve judgment on the motion until the case ended and Mr. Carley then said he would call no defence.

Defence and crown counsel agreed that the only charge included in a charge of shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm was common assault.

Corbin Fund Totals $159.75 In First Days

The Examiner fund for Mrs. Henry Corbin and her three children has now reached $159.75.

The fund was started Monday when it was realized that donations given by neighbors of the family and fellow employees of Corbin at the Civic hospital totalling $400 would not meet the family's needs.

Employees of the Peterborough Bus Lines spear-headed the drive with a donation of $34. Since then the following donations have been received: Mrs. W. C. Jewison, $3; E. J. Foley, $5; Mrs. W. Wood, $2; Anonymous, $2; D. A. McGillis, $100 Mr. Potter, $10; Anonymous, $2.

There is still the reward of $500 waiting for the person supplying information leading to the arrest and conviction of the hit-and-run motorist who hit Corbin.

Both Feet Crushed In Plant Mishap

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Thirty-three-year-old Gordon Fowler of Campbellford is in Peterborough Civic Hospital today following an accident at the Campbellford Cloth Company plant where he is employed. His condition is satisfactory.

Fowler received compound fractures of both feet on Thursday afternoon when a large knife, part of a machine used in cutting carpets, fell on him. The knife weighed close to half a ton. Both feet of the victim were cut and several bones were crushed and broken.

He was taken to Campbellford hospital where x-rays revealed the damage to his feet, and after receiving treatment there, he was taken to Peterborough Civic Hospital by Bennett's ambulance.

Rambling Reporter

TOUCHE

On Thursday the Peterborough Examiner ran a news story and picture of the Gannon's Narrows floating bridge. The picture caption said that it was possibly the only one of its kind in Canada. A quick phone call after supper from Joe McGinnis of Fredericton and now of this city put us right on the situation and deflated our ego slightly.

There is another floating bridge, Joe said, over the Miramichi River between Newcastle and Delby and is of the same length, though in better shape. There is no swing bridge section problem, Joe went on to say. The ramp at each bank is steep and solid. The bridge is located about 160 miles northeast of Fredericton.

Robbed Cottages $1,560 In Goods Jailed 18 Months

LINDSAY (ENS)—A Toronto man's search for "easy money" led him to an 18-month term in reformatory, imposed today by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

Celestin L'Esperance, 28, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering six Balsam Lake cottages, and stealing bedding and other articles worth $1,560 during last November and December.

His counsel, C. J. Herman of Toronto, asked for leniency in the form of suspended sentence. He said L'Esperance had a wife and three children. Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan pressed for a reformatory term.

Magistrate Gee sentenced the accused to 18 months definite and two years indeterminate on the six charges.

A statement made by L'Esperance to OPP Constable John Williams of Fenelon Falls was admitted as evidence and told how a man named Bill Weaver had offered L'Esperance a chance in Toronto "to pick up some easy money."

The constable suggested that Bill Weaver—who has never been located—was a fictitious name.

SHORT END.

L'Esperance told in his statement that his share of the easy money amounted to $25 in cash and a small share of the bedding taken from the cottages. The officer testified that from three cottages 15 expensive blankets were stolen; from a fourth cottage 100 bed sheets were taken.

These four cottages were located on Balsam Lake, and the other two concerned on the same lake, on Long Point. An estimated $1,200 in loot was stolen from the first four, $360 from the remaining two.

Fingerprints on a whiskey bottle left in one of the Long Point cottages led to L'Esperance's arrest. The cottage is owned by Det.-Sgt. Hector Barber of the Toronto police force. Det.-Sgt. Barber matched the prints on the bottle with those of L'Esperance and found they were identical.

L'Esperance was arrested in Toronto Dec. 24 and brought to Lindsay Christmas Day. His arrest followed not long after Constable Williams had been told by the caretaker of four of the cottages, John Conley, that the cottages had been entered. The Toronto detective's cottage had been entered Nov. 19.

County May Cut Half Mill Off Road Rate

Loss Of Property In Smith Keeps Rate Up To 7½

The roads committee of the county council have recommended a half-mill cut in the rate for county roads this year. But they have raised their appropriation from $225,000 to $235,000, a boost of $10,000.

In 1952 the rate was set at eight mills to wipe out a $12,113 deficit in the highways account. By careful budgeting during the year this was reduced to $3,995.

The rate for bridges remains at four-tenths of a mill.

Jack Kean, county engineer and road superintendent, said he thought he could manage at seven and a quarter mills but council finally decided to cut just half a mill off the 1952 rate.

"I think we could have brought it down to seven mills," said Mr. Kean, "but the loss of $435,120 in equalized assessment, because of the annexation of part of Smith township, wouldn't permit us to do so."

(Since Jan. 1 some 1,256 acres of Smith township adjoining the north end of the city have been incorporated into the city. The loss in assessment for county purposes is $435,120 which reduces the county's total assessment by that amount. For county road purposes a mill now raises $12,553; until this latest revision it raised $12,988 or $435 more.)

NOT IN SYSTEM

Four municipalities are not in the county roads system: Burleigh-Anstruther, Chandos, Galway-Cavendish, and Harvey townships. But they do contribute to county bridges.

Council as a whole has still to pass the road committee's recommendations but there are unlikely to be any last-minute amendments. Then the $235,000 appropriation, must be approved by the Department of Highways. This is little more than a formality.

The suburban-area roads commission gets $20,000 of the appropriation, the same as last year.

This total expenditure of $235,000 includes money raised by levy, debentures and government subsidy. The Department of Highways gives a 50 per cent subsidy on approved expenditures on county roads and 80 per cent subsidy on bridges and culverts.

In 1952 the rate for county roads was six mills and the appropriation was $225,000. How- roads committee realized they ever at the November session they were headed for the red because of unforseen expenditures and a supplementary $5,000 bylaw was passed.

The motion for a rate of seven and a half mills was made by Reeves James Gifford of Ennismore and Dick Stewart of Otonabee.

An amendment was moved by Reeve Roland Tedford of Douro township.

"If we're going to have a mulch paving program this year we should keep it at eight mills" said Mr. Tedford. He was seconded by Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith township.

The amendment was lost in the subsequent vote.

Father Gets Into School Boys' Fight

A squabble between two school boys ended in police court Thursday with the dismissal of a common assault charge against David J. Armstrong, RR 7 Peterborough, father of one of the boys.

The only witness heard was 12-year-old Charles Hopkinson of Maniece Ave. He was not sworn, because he was unable to tell Magistrate W. R. Philp why he should tell nothing but the truth after swearing to do so on the Bible.

"He (David Armstrong) hit me in the face either with his open hand or fist," the Hopkinson boy told crown attorney John A. Bradshaw.

The incident occurred after school, on December 9, as the Hopkinson boy and Armstrong's son John, 12, were going home from school.

The Hopkinson boy admitted he had hit John Armstrong in the stomach during a fracas at noon hour and would have hit again if John Armstrong's father had not come along when he did.

Cross examined by J. C. N. Currelly, who defended Armstrong, the boy said he had made John Armstrong cry six or seven times and admitted to Mr. Bradshaw that on a previous occasion he had thrown a bicycle tube filled with urine at young Armstrong and hit him with it.

"I got a strapping for that," he added.

He told Mr. Currelly, "John's father caught both of us by the coat and said 'What's going on? Have you laid a hand on him? What's the idea of fighting?'"

It was then that John Armstrong's father struck him when he did not answer the questions, he said.

There can't possibly be a defence called, said Mr. Bradshaw after Mr. Currelly had completed his cross examination, and Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed the charge.

Fires Killed 158 In 1952

TORONTO (CP)—Fires caused the deaths of 158 persons in Ontario in 1952, Fire Marshal W. J. Scott said Thursday in issuing preliminary figures.

There were 17,644 fires, 887 more than last year. Because of a change in system, the report does not show true comparative figures for losses, but the 1952 total is given as $27,120,557 and in 1951, under the old system, loss was set at $18,325,994.

Unable To Read Or Write Saves Two Men From Being Convicted

Being unable to read or write saved Eric Radley and Harold Robbins, both of 241 Dublin St., from possible convictions on charges of theft in police court Thursday.

Both Radley and Robbins denied they would have taken a quantity of scrap, valued at about $15 from the city dump Jan. 3, if they had known it belonged to Clarence McInmoyle of Young's Point.

McIlmoyle produced an agreement which he has with J. E. Pierce, superintendent of the sanitation department giving him all rights to salvage from the dump and $20 a week for looking after the dump.

Mr. Pierce said the agreement was signed in accordance with a decision of the sanitation committee of city council last fall.

Radley and Robbins were charged with stealing a truck chain and a quantity of scrap. McIlmoyle said he saw them once when they drove into the dump and asked them what they wanted. Then he saw the same car drive by the dump after it had left. He said he and a friend of his, David Dawson drove out of the dump, in Dawson's car and watched from a short distance away.

PICKED UP SCRAP

He said they saw the same car drive into the dump again and saw two men pick up a quantity of scrap piled where McIlmoyle had left it.

McIlmoyle said the chain was his and he had bought an old hairdressing machine for scrap and salvaged some copper scrap from the dump, all of which he found in the back of the car.

McIlmoyle said Robbins and Radley told him "they didn't know they were not supposed to take it."

Dawson went into the city to get the police and OPP Constable John Cawood said he told McIlmoyle to remove the articles from the rear of the car.

Radley and Robbins were both tried together and were defended by W. B. Gordon.

Robbins said he could neither read nor write and Radley said he could not read well enough to understand the "big word" on the signs. After making the agreement with McIlmoyle, the sanitation superintendent said "No Trespassing" signs were placed about 100 feet apart on the dump to protect McIlmoyle.

They told Mr. Gordon they would not have taken the salvage if they had known it belonged to anyone. Robbins said he had been down to the dump about two years ago with his father to pick up scrap and nothing had happened.

Mr. Gordon pointed out the incident occurred in broad daylight and neither Radley nor Robbins made any attempt to hide themselves.

Give No Evidence To Connect Men With Theft Try

A charge of attempted theft against Donald Young, 22, was dismissed Thursday after the evidence was heard in police court.

Young, who lives eight miles north of Apsley, was charged with attempting to steal gasoline from two trucks owned by Charles Binnington, of Lakefield.

Mrs. Binnington testified she saw two men get out of a half-ton truck and carry two cans to where her husband's trucks were parked.

This was shortly after midnight December 28 and Binnington identified two gas cans introduced as exhibits as the ones he found at two of his trucks with gas running into them from hoses inserted in the gas tanks.

Fred Binnington followed a half ton truck which stopped in front of his parents' house shortly after they discovered the cans and stopped it. He identified Young as the driver and gave the licence number of the truck which belongs to Young's brother.

Fred Binnington several days later told a provincial police constable who brought Young to the Binnington home in a police cruiser that Young was the driver of the truck.

Chief Leslie Foster, of Lakefield, who conducted the investigation, said Young admitted to him he was driving the truck the night of the alleged attempted theft.

Young testified he drove through Lakefield about 9 p.m. on his way home but did not stop in the village and did not know where Binnington lived nor anything about the incident in which he was alleged to have been involved.

He said he went to bed before 11 p.m. that night and his mother confirmed his story.

W. J. Arthur Fair defended Young and argued for dismissal on the grounds of insufficient identification of Young as the driver of the car, due to a conflict in evidence as to what clothing Young was wearing when Fred Binnington claimed he was talking to him after stopping the truck.

Crown Counsel Walter Howell agreed the charge should be dismissed, because, he said, there was no evidence connecting Young with the gas cans and rubber hose found by Binnington at two of his trucks.

Ask Frost Eliminate Ont. Level-Crossings

TORONTO (CP)—A brief urging elimination of level-crossings in Ontario was submitted to Premier Frost and his cabinet Thursday by the Ontario joint legislative committee of the railway transportation brotherhoods, independent unions.

The premier said the province is doing everything possible to eliminate railway level-crossing. He said one of the major difficulties is the inability of municipalities to pay their share of the costs involved.

Desert Resort Guinea Pig For New Gadget

By BOB THOMAS

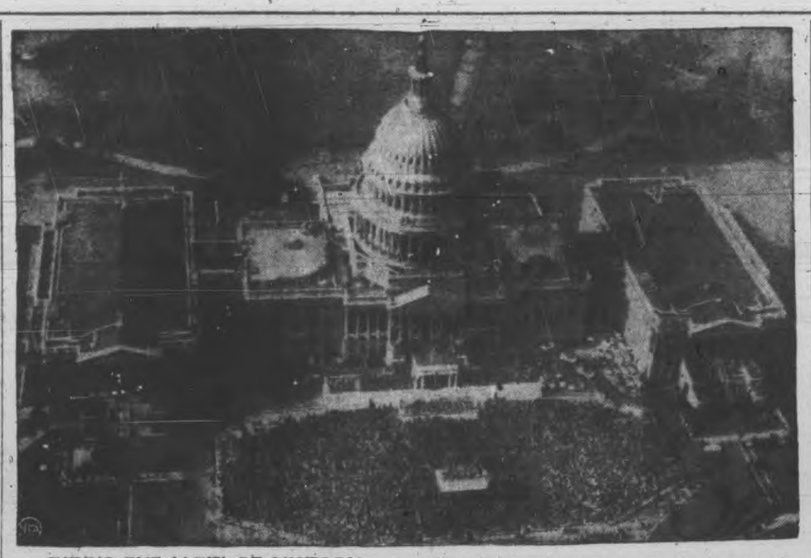
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—This desert resort is the guinea pig for a new gadget that could revolutionize the movie and TV business. It's called telemeter.

Many leaders in the film industry say it's the way to make new movies pay off royally on TV.

How? By having people pay to see the pictures the same way many pay for electricity: putting a coin in a meter.

The telemeter people needed a locality to prove to doubting Thomases that their device could work. Palm Springs was chosen.

It had been out of the TV picture due to topography. Nestled at the foot of Mt. Jacinto, the town was hidden from the unbending waves of the seven Los Angeles TV stations. Other resorts 20 miles farther into the desert could get TV reception and advertised accordingly.



This was bad for Palm Springs' business. One trailer camp operator reported losing 50 potential customers in a week. The trailer owners drove on to TV areas when they discovered they couldn't get reception on their sets.

WELCOMED PLAN

So the town welcomed telemeter's plan to sett up a community antenna system. The company's engineers rigged a coaxial cable from the highlands down to the town.

Facilities now are available to all comers. Installation charge is $150, and telemeter expects to do a land-office business.

But bringing TV to blacked-out areas is only part of telemeter's ambitious program. In a month or two, the company plans to equip the Palm Springs sets with meters. Set owners will receive an extra channel with a scrambled picture. By plunking some coins in the meter, they can unscramble the picture and see a new movie or a top sports event.

Find Boomerang In Debate On Currie Report

OTTAWA (CP)—A boomerang emerged in the Commons debate Thursday on the Currie report—against the Progressive Conservatives.

Col. David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) quoted one Progressive Conservative member after another as opposing the government's proposal to send the report on the army works services to the Commons defence expenditures committee. Col. Croll is expected to head the committee.

He quoted them as saying this "doesn't make sense."

Then he proceeded to quote a motion made in the same committee last year in which Lt.-Col. Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary East) moved that as soon as the Currie report was available it and its author, George S. Currie, should be called before the committee.

While Liberal members roared with glee, Col. Croll recalled that all Progressive Conservative members of the committee supported the motion.

Col. Harkness grinned but didn't reply.

Says Canada Must Buy More From Britain

TORONTO (CP)—Size of British purchases from Canada will depend on the extent of Canadian purchases in Britain, Sir Andrew Jones, head of the British food mission in Canada, said Thursday night.

A willing buyer as well as a willing seller was required for trade, he told the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

He warned farmers not to take the recent British purchase of Ontario cheese as a sign of restoration of the British market for this Canadian product.

"The British government just happened to come into possession of $1,500,000 and decided to spend it to help the cheese industry," Sir Andrew said. "We cannot say what may happen in the future in regard to cheese."

Plan Priceless Gift

TOKYO (Reuters)—Crown Prince Akihito will present Queen Elizabeth with a priceless example of old Japanese lacquer-work when he visits London for the Coronation, the newspaper Mainichi said Thursday. The lacquer-work, decorated with gold and silver, was made by Japanese craftsmen about 1720.

Judge Orders Vote Recount

TORONTO (CP)—A recount was ordered by Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson Thursday in the Cornwall civic election held Dec. 1 when Mayor Aaron Horovitz was return to office by a plurality of 1,545 votes in a total ballot of 6,300.

County Judge G. E. Brennan will be advised to appoint the time and place for the recount. He had refused an application for a recount made by the defeated candidate, Robert Revie, on the grounds that it could not affect the result.

"Obviously mistakes with reference to one, two or three ballots are not going to affect this result," said Mr. Justice Judson in a written judgment. "However, the statute does not leave any discretion to the judge and I have no alternative but to make the order."

Painful Cramps of "Monthly Periods" halted or strikingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

• Women and girls who suffer from those functionally-caused cramps, backaches and headaches of menstruation — who feel upset and irritable on certain "particular days" — may often be suffering quite unnecessarily!

Such is the conclusion from tests by doctors in which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases tested!

Modern in action!

Yes! Medical evidence shows Lydia Pinkham's Compound is thoroughly modern in action. It strikes directly at the cause of menstrual pain!

The effectiveness of Lydia Pinkham's needs no proof to the millions of women and girls whom it has benefited. But how about you? Do you know what it may do for you?

Take Lydia Pinkham's through the month. See if you don't get the same relief from the pains and weakness of "those days"! See if you don't feel better before and during your period!

Get either Lydia Pinkham's Compound, or new, improved Tablets (with added iron). Both are grand, too, for those "hot flashes" and nervous feelings of "change of life"!

Don't suffer needlessly . . . when relief may be so near!

Lydia Pinkham's has a quieting effect on the uterine contractions (see chart) which often cause menstrual pain!

Milbrook Circle Plans Spring Supper Meet

MILLBROOK (ENS) —The Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church held their January meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Arnold Fallis. There was an attendance of 27.

The Rev. Margaret Butler conducted the study period, telling of the educational program in Angola. One of the difficulties there is that while Umbundu is the native language, all teaching must be done in Portugese. Thus children have to learn a new language before starting their education. More boys than girls are able to attend school.

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, the president, was in the chair for the business meeting. The holding of a supper meeting later on in the spring was discussed. Mrs. Alex Gilbert, the new treasurer, reported that $130 had been sent to presbyterial treasurer last year, an increase of $5 over the previous one, and that there was a balance in the special expense account.

The worship service, which had as its theme, "Fellowship in Love and Ministry", was taken by Mrs. Bruce Ingham. Mrs. Clifford Northey gave the scripture reading. The temperance secretary, Mrs. Eric Fallis, gave her January report.

Supper hostesses were: Miss Estella Hetherington, Mrs. James McMaster and Mrs. Clifford Northey.

Work Of Police Matron Outlined To Cavan WA

CAVAN—The Women's Institute of Cavan met at the home of Mrs. Merv. Kinsman Tuesday evening. There was an attendance of about 30.

President Mrs. D. Nill was in the chair. Several letters of thanks for Christmas favors were read.

The treasurer's report was then read and discussion arose of ways and means of making money.

Several suggestions were made and it was decided to let each group be responsible for increasing the funds in whatever way it saw fit.

After business was disposed of Mrs. E. Snider introduced Mrs. Mel Shadgett, Peterborough police matron. She gave a very interesting and enlightening talk about her work and the conditions under which in some cases she has to work. It was much enjoyed and appreciated by all.

Mrs. George Clark then read a paper on the preparation of Douglas Fir.

A tasty lunch was then served by Mrs. Kinsman's group and a social time enjoyed.

CHANGE-ABOUT COIFFURE by leading hair stylists can be brushed straight back with fluffy curls at neckline or brushed into vertically arranged curls for evening.

Show Changeable Coiffure In New Spring Hair Styling

Nothing can give you a brand-new look so effectively as a new hair style. You don't however, want to have something tricky done to your head that you'll tire of quickly. A hair stylist has the answer to this.

The stylist's new creation will stay new because it's three styles in one. He calls it "Coiffriety." The same setting combed in three different ways results in as many different hair styles.

This stylist cuts hair to a five-inch length on the crown and tapers it off to a three-inch length around the nape of the neck and the forehead. One basic setting of two rows of pin curls can then be combed into three versions.

The first combing leaves the setting very much intact. A smooth crown is surrounded by a double border of sculptured curls.

You can brush it straight back without a part for the currently fashionable off-the-face hair style and brush the curls into a casual fluff at the back.

For an evening chignon, brush your hair sleekly to the centre back, anchor it there and twirl ringlets about your fingers in vertical rows.

You can't take full advantage of this or any hair style unless your hair is in good condition, sparkling with life and soft manageability.

Hot oil treatments—with castor or almond oil for good penetration or one of the excellent lanolinized hair creams—can be given before each shampoo for a time. Some of the preparations are intended for after-shampoo use. Take advantage also of cream rinses for pouring over your hair following a shampoo.

PCVS

The vocational meeting arranged by the PCVS Home and School Association for Thursday evening was quite successful. Heads of departments and all teachers in the vocational school were present and spoke to the parents, and were available for questioning.

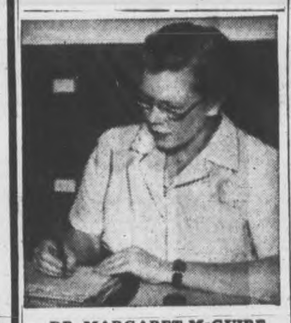
Guest speaker was Mr. Reg. Perks, a graduate of the vocational department who is now personnel manager for CGE. He told what business and industry expect from employees and speculated on the prospects for employment, saying that the untapped natural resources of Canada assure that it may become one of the greatest industrial countries of the world.

Mr. Perks said employers want: students who are able to think for themselves; those who have established good work habits early in life; who take pride in their work; are polite, enthusiastic and honest. He added that "success comes from their own efforts — not by any short cuts." Ability to "get along with others" was also mentioned as very important.

Questions used in an interview of an applicant for employment were listed by Mr. Perks with an explanation of how they guide the employer. They include: Do you read the daily paper? What part of the paper do you read first? What type of books do you read? Are you a church-goer? Are you affilliated with a national organization such as YWCA or YM, Scouts or Guides? What sports do you follow? What are your hobbies? How do you spend school holidays?

He said these are guides to qualities of leadership and character. They also seek those who achieve the highest degree of educational standing, and Mr. Perks said Peterborough is very fortunate in having a Board of Education which maintains a high standard of education and employs a fine teaching staff.

Mr. A. Shearer was chairman for the meeting and he introduced the department heads, asking them to tell where their graduates usually go.



Miss Katherine Macdougall, of household economics department, said her girls have gone to the local hospitals, laboratories, teaching, the commercial world and marriage. Mr. B. W. Switzer, of industrial department, estimated half of his students go to CGE as tool makers, machinists, etc., and the others are scattered in the local industries and in garages, mostly all remaining in Peterborough. Mr. H. A. Toole, of the commercial course, stated he could place twice as many students as he has and deplored the small number of boys who take his course, though there are splendid opportunities for them.

Speaking briefly of the extra-curricular activities at the school, Mr. M. J. Curtis said his students are planning a choral concert in the near future.

Others of the vocational staff were introduced singly. It was pointed out the school is now teaching higher mathematics to accommodate those wishing to further their education for a better position.

Mr. Arthur Pitchford, a Board of Education member present, also spoke briefly.

Association president Mrs. P. A. Martyn extended an invitation to the parents and teachers to discuss problems over a cup of tea in the gym. Tea hostesses were Mrs. C. G. Law and Mrs. J. Goodson, assisted by a committee of class mothers.

DR. MARGARET McGUIRE

First Doctor To Be Record Librarian St. Jos. Graduate

Dr. Margaret E. McGuire (above) is the first doctor in Canada to graduate from a school for medical record librarians and is one of the first four graduates of the school commenced last year at St. Joseph's Hospital. Dr. McGuire had an average of 96 per cent in the registration examination which was set by the Canadian Association of Medical Record Librarians. She left this city in October to join the staff of the Winnipeg General Hospital as director of the medical record department.

Although several Canadian hospitals have a doctor as director of medical records, Winnipeg General is now the first hospital whose medical director is also a graduate registered record librarian.

Dr. McGuire lived in Hamilton until the death of her husband, the late Dr. William C. McGuire, a specialist in orthopedic surgery. As a graduate of Sheffield Medical School of England she was equipped to practice medicine herself, but this would have taken much of her time from her two children, so she decided to do medical record work. She maintained a home in Peterborough and looked afer her children while taking the course, as well as taking part in the organization life of the city, so that she made many friends while here.

Dr. McGuire's fellow students on the course were Miss Marilyn Shaughnessy who is now in the medical record library at St. Joseph's Hospital, Miss Marilyn O'Shea who is doing similar work in the Peterborough Clinic, and Miss Phoebe Hardwicke who is now planning to take a position in Vancouver.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Let Children Have Part In Preparing School Lunch

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It gives the children a feeling of importance if you let them share occasionally in preparation of their school lunches.

Once or twice weekly young Jackie may scrape and wash the carrots which then are wrapped in wax paper and put in the lunch to be eaten with the sandwiches.

Perhaps Susie, who's old enough to take an interest in cooking, will agree to give up a couple of hours of her Saturday morning to bake a batch of cookies.

The kindergarten age might be permitted to select three lots of dates, raisins or nuts, for herself, brother and sister, to go into the lunch packages as "dessert."

If you let the youngsters make a game of it you'll find them even more eager to relieve you of this tedious job. They could have a "surprise" lunch once a week when each has a special job to be done secretly. You decide with the one who prepares the sandwiches what kind of sandwiches they'll be, but it's a secret from the others.

One hot dish is a much for each take-away lunch on cold-weather days. For instance a thermos bottle can contain hot vegetable soup. Among many sandwich fillings, there's minced beef and pickle, or salmon and celery—on whole wheat bread.

A raw carrot or two is good in the daily diet of a child, also inexpensive at this time of the year when you can buy crisp carrots in bulk.

Oatmeal cookies would be easy for Susie to make on her Saturday home from school.

Ingredients: One cup sugar; one cup butter (or margarine); one-half cup sour milk; two eggs; one teaspoon soda; two cups oatmeal; two cups white flour; one cup chopped dates or raisins.

Mix the ingredients and roll on lightly floured board. Cut in squares or with a cookie-cutter. Bake in moderate oven until brown.

If you are troubled with an excess of lime on your tea-kettle try filling with equal parts vinegar and water and heat to boiling. Let stand several hours; scrape off lime deposit.

Lions' Ladies' Club Subscribing To CMHA

Lions' Ladies' Club of Peterborough held their dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Empress Hotel. President Mrs. Bill Dorrington welcomed members and introduced guests. During the dinner a sing song was led by Mrs. Norm Hughes with Mrs. Bun Jackson at the piano.

There was a brief business meeting and reports were heard from the various conveners. Letters from St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Aid Society thanked the Club for Christmas gifts.

It was agreed that the Club would subscribe to five memberships in the Peterborough Branch the Canadian Mental Health Association and thus try to assist in the formation of this Association in Peterborough.

Tickets were distributed on a draw for a man's or woman's spring outfit. The draw is to take place the Monday before Easter so that same lucky person will have a complete new outfit for the Easter parade. Proceeds of the draw will be used for welfare work.

The booster prize was won by Mrs. Deb Gardiner, and a floral arrangement was won by Mrs. Vert Reynolds.

The ladies spent an enjoyable evening playing bridge and euchre. Draw prizes were won by Mrs. Ernie Beattie and Mrs. Lynn Morrison.

Local Man Weds Kitchener Girl

The wedding took place last Saturday in Kitchener of Mr. Donald Alwin Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Campbell of RR 9, Peterborough, to Dorothy Annie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Aitchison of Kitchener. The event was in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Finlay Stewart officating.

The bride wore a satin gown with molded bodice and flowing skirt with lace applique. An Edwardian bonnet held her illusion net veil appliqued in satin. She carried a crescent of white feathered carnations, white 'mums and blue iris.

Maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Anne Schaefer and bridesmaids were Miss June Fisher and Miss Betty Coney. They wore coronation blue net gowns featuring inserts of pleats in the bodice and skirt, and had Juliet caps. Their colonial bouquets were of spring flowers and sweetheart roses.

Mr. Howard Campbell of Peterborough was groomsman for his brother. Ushers were Messrs. Harry Lockington and Ivan Wilson, both of Peterborough.

A reception was held with the bride's mother receiving in a deep violet crepe dress with lace accents, a champagne hat and corsage of pink carnations and violets. The groom's mother wore a black crepe dress with red trim, black velvet hat and corsage of pink carnations and violets. The groom's mother wore a black crepe dress with red trim, black velvet hat and corsage of red roses.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the eastern Untied States the bride wore a green tweed suit with gold accessories and muskrat coat.

New Styles Don't Interest UK Women Outside London

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Will British women avail themselves of the many attractive fashions designed for Coronation year?

This question has been raised more than once as London's fashion-press prepares for the first big couture shows of a royal year.

Newspaper articles warn women they will be letting their country down if they fail to pep up their individual wardrobes for Coronation festivities in June.

Britain's clothing trade is out to show overseas visitors just how good British designs can be—and they emphasize that the best advertisement is the impression given by women in shops and offices, underground trains, or in the rush and bustle of the shopping throngs.

BOOKINGS HIGH

Tourist bookings have already reached six figures and an average of 40 new applications for Coronation accommodation daily reaches the Mayfair office dealing with such queries.

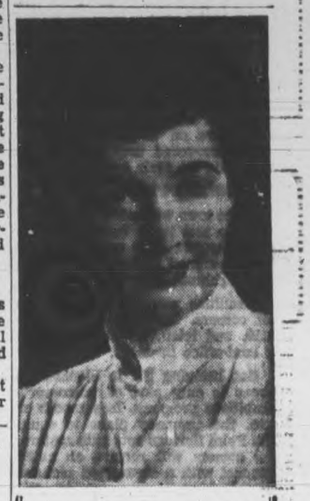
Fashion experts say that Coronation year is no time for comfortable shabbiness. There is wide scope for smart silhouettes at reasonable prices.

Such well-known designers as the Queen's dressmaker, Norman Hartnell, France's Christian Dior and Pierre Balmain, now are producing couture designs for reproduction at prices acceptable to the average buyer. Long before June it will be possible for typists and shopgirls to buy clothes designed and labelled by these designers, whose customers include Princess Margaret, the Duchesses of Kent and Windsor.

SURVEYS GLOOMY

So far, however, fashion surveys are gloomy. London may welcome new styles, but most provincial places stick to the tried and trusted styles.

"I want a coat just like my last one." This, says fashion writer Peggy Briggs, is the sort of statement that gives encouragement to drab colors and out-moded styles.



"Seen from the streets, fashion in Birmingham might have been at a standstill since the war," she writes in one article. Swinging coats, slim skirts, wide-sleeved blouses and dresses with swirling skirts may be acceptable to the lowest-paid junior in a London office, but the provinces stick grimly to the old belief that "clothing is meant to cover."

Coronation fashion shows given ahead of the big couture parades show that colors are warm and exhilirating, styles easy and graceful and materials the best that British mills can offer.

The fashion world hopes the Coronation will jerk provincial women out of their fashion complacency.

LOVE APPLES

Tomatoes were formerly known as "love apples," and were introduced in England in 1596.

DOROTHY DIX

"Join Clubs, Get Around" Stay-At-Home Girl Advised

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very lonely, especially on weekends when I sit at home all day and see the girls next door go out for a good time. I just sit home, thinking maybe something will happen, but nothing does.

H. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

JOIN CLUBS AND GET AROUND

ANSWER: You can be assured, no excitement ever will come while you just sit dejectedly at home. You live in a fine, thriving progressive city, and I'm sure there are numberless sources of activity there. Stop sitting home feeling sorry for yourself and go and do something! Get acquainted with the girls next door and find out what they do with their time. Join a bowling club, a swimming club, a ping-pong club! Take a course at night school; acquire a hobby, like stamp collecting, photography, or ceramics. Take dancing lessons, singing lessons with a choral group. If you can't locate these places through the classified pages of your telephone book, or through your newspaper, get in touch with the Adult Education Department of your Board of Education. There is absolutely no reason why anyone should sit at home and be lonely, for day-dreaming will never bring friends; you must go out and make them yourself!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man of 24, deeply in love with a girl of 17. She likes me but goes out with other boys more than she does with me. How can I stop her from seeing these other boys

D. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your young lady is too young to be thinking seriously of someone seven years her senior. If you care for her, let her continue going with the other boys, but make yourself sufficiently interesting so that in time she'll regard you more seriously. Better still, widen your own circle of friends and go out with girls closer to you in age.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem is one of age—and an unusual one. When I was four years old, my mother wanted me to begin school, but since five was the minimum age, she juggled records and had me admitted. Now, although I am 15, everyone thinks I am 16, and I was just given a sweet sixteen party at which I received many nice gifts. I'm afraid if my true age is revealed, I'll be put back a year in school.

CONNIE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's doubtful if you'll be put back a class now, because of your mother's prevarication. However, since it would be most embarrassing for you to reveal yourself as 15 after the sweet 16 party, why not wait until you finish high school and are ready to enter college? The change in date can be made on the college records.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a man of 53 with a wife of 39 to whom I have been married four years. We have a two-year-old baby, and though I love her very much, I'm just too old to have a baby around. I'm a nervous wreck and my work is suffering. Should I get a divorce or leave town? CHET.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It isn't as easy to shunt obligations as you'd like it to be. Wouldn't it be better for you to face the fact that you have a baby, that she certainly won't be a baby much longer, and try to conquer your own nerves for a while? Don't make your wife's life miserable, either, by nagging about the child.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A year ago I met a very nice soldier. He said he loved me and wanted to marry me. I love him, too. We wrote each other for a while, then he was transferred and I haven't heard from him since. I keep writing and writing but get no answer.

CHLOE

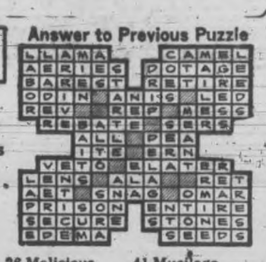
✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's certainly obvious that your soldier's affections are not very stable. You're being foolish, and wasting postage, by continuing your letters to him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Six months ago I married, for the first time, at the age of 50. My husband has a small business, but never discusses it with me. I have some money of my own, which I would like to keep, but he is always asking me for some. He only gives me $10 a week, and thinks anything else I need should come out of my money. Since that's the only security I have, I don't want to take it out of the bank.

SALLIE



✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: And right you are! You don't know too much about this newly acquired husband of yours, and he doesn't seem to be treating you too well. I'm afraid once you part with your money, he'll be ready to part with you. Hang onto the tangibles!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: I appreciate your column and turn to it first thing. Hope you will be able to continue such good work. I wonder if you could give me a few recipes: 1—Cranberries are plentiful. Have you a recipe for cranberry pudding. 2—Italian spaghetti made with tomato paste. 3—Cherry Slice.

My family is small and the chickens are quite large. Could I cook the whole chicken in a small amount of water and then use half the chicken and liquid for a jellied chicken and the other half for a salad, and how would I do it? Would a lime jello salad go with the chicken, and what vegetables would you add to the lime jello?—E.B.B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I love the work and hope too that it continues. I shall do my best.

CRANBERRY PUDDING (Steamed).

Four tablespoons (¼ cup) of shortening, 2-3 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2½ cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup water, 1½ cups chopped raw cranberries. Cream the shortening and sugar together until light and fluffy. Sift together the flour, salt, baking powder and nutmeg. Beat the eggs into the creamed mixture, sift the sifted dry ingredients over alternately stirring them in with the cold water. Stir in cranberries if desired they may be chopped in food grinder using coarsest knife. Half fill greased pudding mould or moulds. Cover tightly and steam 2 hours. Serve hot with lemon or brown sugar and nutmeg sauce.

SPAGHETTI WITH ITALIAN SAUCE

Boil 8 oz. spaghetti in plenty of salted boiling water, until soft—keeping the spaghetti as whole as possible. To serve 8—cook together in a large frying pan ½ lb. each ground veal, pork, and beef and sausage meat with ½ cup cooking or olive oil or butter. When these are seared but not brown add 4 or 5 medium onions chopped, 1 small clove garlic chopped very fine, 1 chopped green pepper, ¼ cup chopped parsley, ½ lb. sliced mushrooms (these are optional), 2½ cups tomato puree (or 1¼ cups Italian tomato paste and 1¼ cups water), ½ cup catsup, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper. Simmer covered for 1½ hours. Arrange cooked drained spaghetti on large hot platter, pour sauce all over, and sprink top with grated Parmesan or old cheddar cheese (generously).

I had to guess at the next recipe. If you want to go to the trouble write to me again and describe Cherry Slice in more detail. I have a cherry roll made of sponge-cake mixture with cherry (or other fruit) filling, which when cold you slice like a jelly roll. It is an excellent recipe for it may be used for all the fruits that come into season.

SLICE-OF-BREAD CHERRY PUDDING

Other fruits may be used.

Six slices stale bread, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 cups cherries — fresh or canned drained—½ cup sugar (more if raw cherries are used), ½ teaspoon almond flavoring, sauce to serve with it. Cut bread ½-inch thick, butter each slice, using 2 tablespoons butter Put 2 slices in buttered baking dish, then 1 cup fruit, sprinkle with half the sugar, and dot with 1 tablespoon butter. Repeat, finishing with 2 slices buttered bread, or cut 1 slice in cubes for top. Bake at 325 degrees Fahr. for 40 minutes. Serve warm with a sauce. If canned cherries are used, thicken the juice with cornstarch to make sauce and flavor with almond. A few shredded almonds are a good addition to this sauce. Write to me if you want the Cherry Roll I mention above.

Otonabee Names Chairmen Of Committees

Rev. I. G. Pollock of Grace United Church, which includes Stewart Hall and the southern area of the city, assisted at the inaugural of Otonabee township council, concluding an address with prayer for guidance of the council in its work this year.

The clerk was instructed to apply to the Ontario Department of Highways for the balance of the subsidy on the 1952 roads expenditure of $38,005.63.

Councillor William Chambers was appointed chairman of the roads committee. Councillor G. Shearer and Joseph Slattery were council appointees on the Keene Athletic field committee. Deputy Reeve David N. McIntyre and Councillor shearer were appointed to the Otonabee Memorial Arena Committee.

REPRESENTATIVE

Reeve R. R. Stewart was appointed township representative on the Peterborough Planning Board, Percy Davidson to Norwood High School District board, and Allan Eason to Peterborough district High School Board.

Council decided to join the Association of rural municipalities, the Good Roads Association and the Association of Assessing Officers for 1953.

A bylaw authorized borrowing up to 70,000 for current expenditure until the taxes are paid into the treasury.

Another bylaw provides for an expenditure of $39,000 on roads this year.

The clerk was instructed to collect the balance of 1952 dog licenses. Council received school and welfare reports.

Fire Chief Holds Informal Meeting

All the members of the Fire Department, comprising officers and men of the shifts on and off duty, attended the first general meeting which Chief Ralph Leonard has held with the staff since he assumed charge at the beginning of the year.

"It was mainly an informal shop talk," Chief Leonard said today. "I expressed to the officers and men my appreciation of the co-operation I have received from them in this first month. The importance of everybody working together and taking his share of the load was one of the points I mentioned because that is essential, and also contributing a full share in the continuing harmony within the department.

"It was mainly that I wanted the opportunity of meeting all the men together and talking things over with them. Efficiency and sound fire fighting practice, that kind of dealing with our own department affairs.

"I did mention something about situations calling for fog spray in trying to reduce water damage wherever possible. Of course, the officers and men know that, but we mentioned it, also public relations and so on."

Chief Leonard said he hoped that the citizens would take a helpful interest in the department and feel free to visit the station, see the equipment and meet the men on duty.

Charles J. Ray Opens New Office Building

Charles J. Ray, general insurance agent for years in the Sun Life building on Water St., is moving next week into his own new premises on the south side of Hunter St., opposite Sheridan St. Locke and Geraghty were the contractors.

The building of concrete and brick, 34 ft. by 38 ft., ground floor and basement, provides ample space, and there is a separate office for rent. Incidentally, the steel door of the vault was purchased by Mr. Ray in the demolition of the old city hall. It was the door of the city treasury.

Newspaper Assessed $1,000 Found Guilty In Libel Suit

BELLEVILLE — Former Trenton councillor Victor Ryan was awarded $1,000 damages and costs when a special court jury Thursday night found the Trenton Courier-Advocate guilty of defamatory libel. Ryan had sued for $10,000.

R. R. McMurtry, counsel for publisher J. Nolan Sisson and editor Gwyn Hopkin-Morgan, said he had been instructed by his clients to appeal the verdict.

The century-old Trenton newspaper published two editorials in its issue of Dec. 7, 1951, in the final days of a civic election campaign, in which Ryan claimed he had been defamed. One editorial, caption A Jekyll and Hyde in Council, mentioned Ryan by name and described him as a gramophone which repeated the opinions of two prominent Trenton businessmen. The other editorial mentioned no names of individuals, but the plaintiff asserted that it was directed at him.

The defense claimed that what had been written about Ryan in the first editorial was fair comment, and that the other editorial was aimed at all candidates for public office and not Ryan alone.

The jury of 11 men and one woman took two hours to reach a verdict. It retired at 4 p.m., returned to the courtroom for further instruction from Mr. Justice Danis, and then returned to the jury room. The verdict was returned at 6 p.m. and a poll of the jury showed the verdict was unanimous.

When the jury retired following his lordship's 65-minute charge, defense counsel objected strenuously to what he said were serious omissions in his lordship's address. Mr. McMurtry argued that the charge to the jury had not fairly presented the case for the defendants and tended throughout to belittle the defense offered. The various onuses on the plaintiff and the defendants were told to the jury in a most confusing manner, Mr. McMurtry said.

Defense counsel submitted that his lordship had erred on several questions. To tell the jury that the editorials in question were proof of libel was wrong, counsel contended. They were proof of publication, and not of libel. Counsel also felt the court had erred in using libel as being synonomous with defamation.

While defense counsel was bringing up another point, his lordship said: "I thought I set out very well the evidence for the defense and I think you are laboring these points."

Continuing his objections, Mr. McMurtry said that while his lordship was not required to review all the evidence in his charge to the jury, his lordship made no mention of Ross Burtt, one of the defense's strongest witnesses. His lordship also failed to give the jury a statement on the duties and rights and privileges of the press.

J. K. Robinette, counsel for Ryan, said he had no objection to the charge. He felt the jury had been charged in language they could understand.

The jury was recalled and instructed on one point raised by the defense that a civic election campaign constituted a matter of public interest.

Mr. McMurtry addressed the jury for a little more than one hour. On the first editorial, the caption reference to a Jekyll and Hyde on council was merely a reference to a dual personality. There was nothing in this editorial which was defamatory of the plaintiff. As for as the second editorial was concerned, the statements in it had not been aimed at Ryan. Counsel dealt with the duty of the press to scrutinize men who offered themselves for public office and to criticize them if it felt it was doing so in the public interest.

A verdict for the plaintiff would be "putting a nail in the coffin of truth," counsel said. He reviewed that part of the evidence which told of Ryan telling a newspaper reporter that he and others intended to drive the Courier-Advocate out of town. Counsel also called to the jury's attention that Senator W. A. Fraser and O. (Buster) Alyea, prominent businessmen, had taken steps to obtain official forms for incorporation of a publishing firm.

"As a matter of fact another newspaper called The Citizen was started and folded after a few weeks," counsel said. "You are entitled to draw inferences. What is behind this whole law suit?"

In his address to the jury, Mr. Robinette asked: "Wouldn't it have appealed to your sense of fair play had the Courier-Advocate come out openly and attacked Senator Fraser and not the little man, Ryan? The evidence we have heard in this trial is that Ryan is a man of excellent reputation. But instead of attacking Fraser, the newspaper attacks the little man, who is caught in the middle. He was grossly and wantonly defamed."

Stressing that a man's reputation is often the only real asset he possesses, Mr. Robinette said the press enjoyed no more right to injure a reputation than did an individual.

"A great deal of harm had been caused, particularly in the country to the south of us, by the idea that a newspaper is free to say anything about men in public life," Mr. Robinette said. "If we are going to have good government, if we are going to have men of high calibre offer themselves for public office, they must have confidence in the belief that if unjustly attacked they have recourse in law. Young men who should be taking an interest in public life are today stopping short because they don't want themselves and their families subjected to vitriolic abuse."

Mr. Robinette asked the jury to award substantial damages, asserting that vindication for his client cannot be obtained without a substantial award.

Canadians Get Medals From U.S. Gov't

OTTAWA (CP)—The head of Canada's military mission to the United Nations command in Japan in 1950-51 is among nine Canadians awarded medals by the United States, defence headquarters announced Thursday.

Brig. Frank James Fleury, 38, of Montreal was awarded the U.S. Legion of Merit for "exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service" while head of Canada's military mission in Japan between September, 1950 and July, 1951.

Brig. Fleury now is general officer commanding eastern Quebec area at Quebec.

Group Capt. Edward B. Hale, 39, of Hamilton, now commanding the RCAF's No. 1 fighter wing at North Luffenham, England, was awarded the U.S. Distinguished Flying Cross for outstanding service in Korea last year.

OTHER AWARDS

Flt. Lt. Lawrence E. Spurr, 29, of Middleton, N.S., now with the RCAF No. 1 operational training unit at Chatham, N.B., also was awarded the U.S. DFC. He served with the USAF in Korea last year.

U.S. Air Medals went to FO. S. B. (Bruce) Fleming, 29, Montreal, and FO. William Gene Nixon, 28, Watts, Alta., for courage, devotion to duty and aggressiveness during combat patrols with the USAF.

To jelly 1 lb. chicken meat you could use as much as 2 cups of chicken liquor, but it needs extra gelatin. Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in ¼ cup cold water 5 minutes, dissolve in 1¾ cups hot chicken liquor. Flavor with salt and pepper. Pour ¼ of this into mould, add cut-up chicken, chill until set, then add remainder and jell until set. I do not think you should serve jello with jellied chicken for they are of similar texture. Serve spiced pears or peaches, a generous tossed salad, or one hot dish like scalloped corn or potatoes or limas and hot tiny rolls. For chicken salad add equal quantity of chopped celery as chicken, salt and pepper and genuine mayonnaise to make it moist. Serve on delicate lettuce cups.

A main provision of the bill is to make it easier to use microfilm as evidence in court cases. Procedure for attesting to the authenticity of microfilms of documents is streamlined.

The bill, already approved by the Senate, is due to come before the Commons today for third and final reading.

13 More Papers

NEW YORK (AP)—There were 13 more daily newspapers in the United States in 1952 than in 1951, but total daily circulation was a fraction of one per cent lower last year than in 1951, Editor and Publisher, weekly trade magazine, said today. A circulation drop of .12 per cent was due to losses sustained in a few large cities. Most daily newspapers either held their own or increased circulation slightly, the magazine said.

CCF, Socreds Say Revision Of Code Threatens Freedom

Garson Claims Bill Reduces Inconsistencies

OTTAWA (CP)—Spokesmen for the two smaller parties in Parliament say they think the first major overhaul of Canada's Criminal Code in 60 years threatens to reduce the country's traditional freedoms. Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), a clergyman and printer, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, a former school teacher, took issue Friday night with a statement by Justice Minister Garson. The minister said the revision does not involve changes in the principle of the law but simply rewrites it into one big, simplified statute and cuts out inconsistencies.

In general debate before the revising bill was sent to a committee for study, Mr. Knowles argued that the rewording imposes greater restrictions both on the rights of labor and on civil liberties in several sections. Mr. Low said many Canadians feel that some extensions of the law seriously abridge the fundamental principles and liberties of Canadians.

But, at the same time, Mr. Low said there are many people in Canada ready to abuse the freedoms they enjoy and there must be teeth in the law to cope with them.

ASSAILS SUGGESTIONS

John L. MacDougall (L—Vancouver Burrard) went farther. He assailed any suggestions that there should be any lightening of the penalties or provisions covering treason in an era when saboteurs with "thermal"—presumably hydrogen—bombs could cut Canada in two in a second.

He wanted the provisions covering treason and sabotage tightened because there were several thousand people in Canada who seek to alter the government by force. Most of them, like the Canadian Peace Congress, complained about the treason clauses as undemocratic.

The harder the government cracks down on treason, he said, the better it will be.

Mr. Garson explained that the original revision of the code by a commission had extended the law to say "everyone commits treason who, in Canada, conspires with an agent of a state other than Canada to communicate information or to do an act that is likely to be prejudicial to the safety or interests of Canada."

The commission suggested the penalty for this be death or imprisonment up to life. The Senate, however, had cut the penalty to 14 years and simply called such acts offences. Mr Garson said he would have more to say about this in the committee.

GARSON CLAIMS

Plan Committee To Draft New Radio Regulations

OTTAWA (CP)—A committee of CBC and private broadcasters may be established to draft a series of new radio regulations, including one covering the Canadian content of programs. A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman, and T. J. Allard, general manager of the Canadian Asscociation of Broadcasters, indicated Friday that a committee might be able to reach agreement on new regulations. The question of a committee is to be discussed today at a private meeting of the 11-member CBC board of governors. Announcement on the board's decision may be made Monday.

At Friday's hearing, the board heard representations on proposed changes in regulations. The C.A.B., representing most of the privately-owned stations in Canada, directed much of its criticism at a regulation that would require stations to devote 30 to 48 per cent of their broadcast time to live or recorded Canadian programs.

Mr. Allard said the CBC would hinder rather than help the development of Canadian culture if it attempts to compel radio stations to devote a percentage of their broadcasts to Canadian programs.

CULTURAL UPSURGE

A great upsurge in Canadian cultural and artistic development is starting, he said. It should be allowed to grow in freedom rather than under restriction.

Mr. Dunton said many Canadian stations now come within the percentages set out for Canadian programs in the new regulation, the first attempt by the CBC to regulate the Canadian content of programs.

The regulation, said Mr. Dunton, was aimed at some stations not broadcasting material from their own community or from Canada.

Mr. Allard said the test should be on merit and not on nationality. The public should not be denied the right to hear top-rated artists.

Mr. Dunton said stations could still use up to 70 per cent of their time for non-Canadian programs.

A 25,000-word brief submitted by Mr. Allard said the regulation "reeks with the narrow and bigoted nationalism most of us thought was dead and buried in the 20th century."

DISLIKE RULE

Mr. Allard and several others took exception to a regulation which read:

"No station shall broadcast any program presenting a person who solves or purports to solve personal, moral or social problems or questions submitted by listeners or members of the public unless the program format has been approved in writing by a representative of the CBC."

He said the regulation could bar priests and clergymen from the air. Mr. Dunton agreed the wording should be changed. The aim of the regulation was to prevent broadcasts by undesirable persons who claimed to have the solution to all personal, social and moral problems. It was not aimed at the clergy.

Mr. Allard also called for a change in regulation that, he said, could bar churches from using the radio to appeal for funds. Mr. Dunton said the regulation aimed at "so-called religious" groups outside Canada broadcasting in Canada appeals for funds. It was never used against Canadian churches.

Hon. G. E. Taylor, minister of railways and telephones for Alberta, urged that both churches and political parties be allowed to use radio to appeal for funds.

UN Fliers Down 19 Red Jets Within Five Days

SEOUL (AP)—Allied Sabre jets destroyed at least four Communist MiG-15 jets over northwest Korea today as two new jet aces were crowned and a third pilot took over top standings in the MiG-killing race.

At least two other MiGs were damaged, the 5th air force said.

Capt. Cecil H. Foster of San Antonio, Tex., bagged his eighth and ninth MiGs today to take over the top spot for flyers still active in Korea.

Capt. Dolphin D. Overtop III, Andrews, S.C., riding the hottest streak in jet fighting history, bagged his fifth in four days to become Korea's 24th jet ace.

Lieut. Harold E. Fisher, Jr., Sweacity, Iowa, picked off a MiG for his fifth kill. He is the 25th jet ace of the war.

19 JETS DOWNED

The new kills brought the Allied total to 19 in the last five days.

The 5th air force announced that the week of Jan. 17-23 was the most successful for its Sabres since the week beginning Nov. 21. The total of destroyed MiGs was 16, probably destroyed, one, and damaged 16.

The Communists downed only one Sabre during the week, the air force said. It was the first F-86 lost to the Reds since the week ending Dec. 26.

Three other UN planes were downed by enemy ground fire during the week ending Friday.

ATTACK "SCHOOL"

The navy reported today that four carrier-based jets attacked a Communist training school Friday "just as classes were convening." The school, at Anbyon, south of the east coast port of Wonsan, was heavily damaged, according to the navy communique.

Late Friday and early Saturday, B-26 light bombers hit Red supply lines and B-29 Superforts struck a Communist supply target and a troop-billeting centre near Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Ground action today was highlighted by an Allied patrol raid against a Chinese Communist position northeast of Porkchop hill on the west central front. Fifty Reds were killed or wounded in the half-hour hit-and-run assault.

The 8th army reported inflicting 2,202 casualties on the Reds during the week of Jan. 15-17.

Senators Support U.S. Seaway Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Alexander Wiley (Rep. W) of the Senate foreign relations committee was joined by 16 other senators Friday in introducing legislation to authorize the United States to join with Canada in building the St. Lawrence seaway.

Wiley, head of the committee that will consider the bill, said he had discussed it with President Eisenhower and State Secretary John Foster Dulles.

Wiley said both had assured him they would give their early consideration to the measure. Dulles, he said, told him he "definitely favors" U.S. participation in the project.

As for Eisenhower's position, Wiley said:

"We all recall how Ike supported this effort while he was head of the joint chiefs of staff."

Wiley's measure is virtually identical to one introduced several days ago in the House of Representatives.

It would provide, in brief, that the United States be authorized to build the International Rapids section of the seaway.

Abbott Sees Exports Reaching $4½ Million

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian exports for the present fiscal year will be between $4,000,000,000 and $4,500,000,000, five times the pre-war figure, Finance Minister Abbott said Friday night.

The minister was guest speaker at the concluding session of the Manitoba Liberal Progressive Association's annual convention. He said capital expansion in the Dominion, largely financed by private investment, amounted to $25,000,000,000 in the last five years.

Capital flow from outside sources, principally the United States, had been high during this period. But what Canada had lent and invested abroad exceeded the total foreign investment here.

Convict 88 Soldiers Who Refused Action

SEOUL (AP) — The United States Army said today 87 men and one officer of the 65th regiment have been convicted of refusing to go into action last October against the Communists in Korea. Puerto Rican soldiers make up the bulk of the regiment.

Four other men were acquitted in general court martial, said Maj. Walton McMullen, U. S 3rd division public information officer.

The cases involved men who either left a battle scene without orders or refused to advance.

Sentences ranged from six months to 10 years in prison. Most were given dishonorable discharges.

Nine-Months' Surplus $264 Million

Full Year's Amount Expected To Be About $132,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott announced on Friday a budget surplus of $264,100,000 for the first nine months of the current fiscal year.

The surplus was less than half that for the corresponding period of the previous year, a likely indication that the over-all surplus for this current year will be slashed sharply from the $250,000,000 for 1951-52.

In his budget speech last year, Mr. Abbott said the surplus at the end of a fiscal year in March usually is about half the surplus shown for the end of nine months.

For the year ending next March 31, Mr. Abbott forecast in last year's budget speech a surplus of only $9,000,000. Friday's figures in a monthly report from the finance department cover the nine months up to Dec. 31.

LAST FIGURES

They are expected to be the last that will be made public by the minister before he brings down his 1953-54 budget in March. Customarily, the position in the last few months before the budget is kept secret.

With the budget now under preparation, there have been unofficial forecasts that Mr. Abbott will use his good financial position to make some tax reductions.

The surplus to the end of December was down by $367,300,000 from the $631,400,000 in the first three quarters of the previous fiscal year. A December deficit of $27,800,000, compared with a surplus of $74,900,000 in December, 1951, cut deeply into Mr. Abbott's cash.

For the first nine months, revenues amounted to $3,085,300,000. Spending in the same period added up to $2,821,200,000. Defence spending in the first three quarters came to $1,223,300,000.

SEES "MODEST" SURPLUS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said Friday that in contrast with huge over-budget surpluses in the last few years it appears that Canada's financial picture will finish "just about even" this year.

In an address to students at the University of Manitoba, Mr. Abbott said he expected revenues and expenditures would show a "modest" surplus, as had been budgeted.

U.K.-Iran Talks On Oil Stalled

LONDON (Reuters)—The Tehran talks to settle the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute are stalled again, it was believed today.

United States ambassador Loy Henderson is conducting the discussions with Premier Mohammed Mossadegh. Henderson is representing the British view as well as the American since British diplomats have been expelled from the Iranian capital.

If everything had gone smoothly, some kind of solution would have been likely before the end of the Truman administration was known to have wanted to cap his years in the White House with success in the oil dispute.

Scientist Claims Industry Profits From Poor Economy

TORONTO (CP) — Sir Robert Watson-Watt, British "father" of operational radar, today described North American industry as profitting from "an ill-balanced and precarious economy."

Sir Robert said industry on this continent was "lacking in emphasis and in the expenditure of money and effort on fresh ideas." His speech was prepared for the annual meeting of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario.

The precarious economy he blamed on a "dangerous maldistribution between work for the governmental and for the non-governmental client."

"It is only in a bad world that the government is a good client," he said.

Knighted in 1942 for his radar research — which helped the RAF win the battle of Britain in 1940 — Sir Robert, 60, has been honored as well by four countries.

He now is acting as scientific advisor to the defence research board, advising Canada on establishment of a radar network across her northland.

Speaking directly to members of the engineer profession, Sir Robert said their education had to be carried much further than their particular branch.

"It must first make him a citizen, then an applied scientist, then an economist, then a management engineer with some of the qualities of an accountant, lawyer, judge, and also ensure that he develops a keen sense of ethics."

STUCK-UP BELL—City firemen are called upon for many various types of rescue work. But Friday they were called upon to unstick a bell in St. Luke's church spire. Apparently the bell tolled and then became stuck upside down. Firemen were called to right the bell and adjust the rope to give the proper swing. After a few minutes, the work was completed. With Fire Chief Ralph Leonard at its controls, the bell pealed out its thanks. Fireman Fred Ray stayed beside the bell (above) just in case.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

2 Men Sentenced To Hang For 1948 Cabin Slaying

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A Supreme Court jury convicted Glenn Nevers, 31, of New Brunswick and George Groulx, 30, of Blind River Friday night of the 1948 murder of John Hargis, 68, in his cabin near Amyot, 200 miles north of here. The two men will be hanged here in March. The date will be fixed later.

The jury deliberated 6½ hours. When the verdict was read, the accused glared at each other, but gave no other sign of emotion. Each denied committing the murder and blamed the other for it.

Mr. Justice D. P. Kelly made no comment on the verdict. He spoke for two hours in his charge to the jury. He said there could be no question of provocation and therefore the jury must find the pair guilty or not guilty of murder. He added that the jury could convict one of the two and let the other go free.

He said the only evidence against the accused were statements they gave to provincial police and he warned the jury that it is dangerous to convict the accused on the basis of evidence from an accomplice unless that evidence is backed up by other testimony.

He added that the crown had shown the accused were at the scene of the crime at the time the murder was committed.

10-Inch Snowfall Blankets Sudbury

TORONTO (CP) — Sudbury was the target of an overnight storm which dumped more than 10 inches of heavy, wet snow on the northern Ontario city.

Communications were knocked out for several hours while Sudbury police hauled more than 70 cars off the streets to make way for plows which tackled drifts six feet deep in some sections.

Snow fell almost continuously throughout the night in most parts of northern Ontario but weather officials here reported only a trace of the white stuff in Sault Ste. Marie, 200 miles west of Sudbury.

Southern Ontario, in contrast, enjoyed almost balmy temperatures Friday night despite a continuing drizzle of rain. The weather man warned, however, that the unseasonable warmth will be short-lived as the warm air area moves into southern Quebec and "much colder air" blankets all of Ontario.

Freighter Explodes

LONDON (Reuters) — The 3,957-ton Finnish freighter Tirrenia blew up in the Red Sea off Eritrea Friday night, reports reaching here said. The crew was saved by the Norwegian tanker Olav Ringdal, Jr. The Tirrenia was carrying ammonium nitrate.

West May Seek UK Grain Market

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent intimated Friday that the Western world may step in to supply Britain with some of the grain she otherwise might have to obtain from Russia.

He told the Commons that discussions on the whole problem have taken place between the British food ministry and the Canadian wheat board and that "some arrangements had been worked out for at least a portion of the deficiency" in the United Kingdom.

Mr. St. Laurent did not specifically indicate whether the supplier would be Canada. However, a source outside the Commons said another statement likely will be made Monday clearing up the matter. He intimated that the supplier would be someone other than Canada.

Britain is a big buyer of Canadian wheat—and British officials say she will continue to be even after she turns over her grain-buying business to private trade next fall. However, Britain buys big supplies of coarse grains, such as oats and barley, from the Soviet.

Mr. St. Laurent touched on the situation after George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, asked what the government is doing to dispose of surplus Canadian wheat at a time when Britain is reported to be seeking 23,700,000 bushels of wheat from Russia.

Italian Tanker Said Ready To Load In Iran

TEHRAN (AP)—Foreign Minister Hus en Fsitmeoiltpressa ad ter Huskein Fatemi told a press conference today the Italian firm Epim has a second tanker ready to come to Abadan to load disputed Iran oil.

Epim (Ente Petrolifero Italia Medio Oriente) chartered the Honduras tanker Rose Mary which stopped at the British protectorate of Aden last summer in the first attempt to run the British legal blockade on sales abroad of nationalized Iran oil.

A British court this month ordered the 800 tons of Rose Mary oil turned over to Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, the British company whose properties in Iran were nationalized.

Fatemi said he had been informed by Count Ettore Della Zonca, head of Epim, that a second tanker was ready to come.

A slightly larger tanker, Miriella, owned by Compagnia Italiana Transporto of Genoa, sailed Tuesday with a cargo of 5,000 tons of disputed oil. AIOC has threatened to give it the "Rose Mary treatment" when it reaches a foreign port. Reports from London said the Royal Navy and RAF have been instructed to keep a close watch on the Miriella.

An Italian foreign ministry spokesman in Rome today denied that Italy had received a warning from the United States against allowing the Miriella's cargo to reach an Iron Curtain country. Official sources in London said Friday U.S. diplomats had warned Italy she could lose American aid under the Battle Act if a strategic material such as oil is sold to a Communist country.

Trainmen Seek Settlement Before Deadline

MONTREAL (CP) — The railways and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will meet again Monday, one week ahead of a strike deadline, in an effort to settle a wage dispute.

The railways proposed the meeting in a joint telegram Friday to A. J. Kelly, BRT vice-president. Mr. Kelly, in turn, said "we will respect their notice" but expressed concern at "66 hours' additional delay from the time the telegram was received."

The railways' telegram was sent by N. R. Crump, vice-president of the CPR, and S. F. Dingle, vice-president of the CNR.

NOT HOPELESS

It expressed unwillingness "to conclude that the position is as hopeless as the meeting yesterday (Thursday) with our negotiating committees indicated and that a complete discontinuance of railway service in Canada is inevitable."

In proposing a "a full discussion of the matter" and suggesting a 9 a.m. meeting Monday, the telegram said "in view of the seriousness of the situation to both parties and to the country as a whole, it is urgently necessary that a further effort be made to avert a strike."

Mr. Kelly told The Canadian Press a telegram has been sent in reply but said "the meeting yesterday (Thursday) adjourned at the request of their representatives on the understanding our committee would be available for a call at any hour."

See S.A. Adding Supremacy Laws

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Legislation giving Prime Minister Daniel Malan's government greater power to deal with persons participating in the passive resistance campaign against South Africa's white-supremacy laws will be introduced in Parliament soon.

Justice Minister Charles Swart announced the government's plans at the opening of Parliament Friday.

The new legislation, designed to fight the campaign by Indians and Africans against racial-segregation laws, will impose drastic penalties on anyone defying the law or inciting others to defy it. At present, passive resisters are liable only to light jail sentences and small fines.

Swart said the government has found it necessary to ask "for certain additional powers which will enable it to deal swiftly and effectively with possible eventualities."

The non-white population has been organized into a campaign of peaceful resistance to laws which segregate them from white persons in virtually every phase of South African life. The campaign includes defiance of such laws as those providing separate waiting-room space in railway stations.

Boy, 15, Admits Double Slaying

LOUISA, Ky. (AP) — Robert Howard, 15, charged with the shotgun slaying of his mother, admitted Friday that he gave rat poison to his stepfather, who died Dec. 31.

Police said the boy told of the poisoning after waiving examining trial on a murder charge.

The boy's mother, Mrs Sarah Howard, 43, was shot to death Thursday at a logging camp where she had been employed as a cook.

Police said Robert told them he placed rat poison in water his stepfather drank because Howard had mistreated him. They said the boy explained he shot his mother "because she was going to tell about pop."

"With Heavy Heart"

Van-Fleet Retires As UN Korea Leader

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who turns over command of the 8th army next month to Lt.-Gen. Maxwell Taylor, said today he would "with heavy heart" say goodbye to his troops of many free countries.

Retirement of the 60-year-old general from active duty was announced in Washington Friday. Taylor, a fiery, 51-year-old paratrooper, was scheduled to see President Eisenhower in Washington today and leave by plane for Tokyo Monday.

After conferring with Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations commander, Taylor will come to Korea to take command early in February. Van Fleet, whose retirement from the army becomes effective March 31, will leave for the United States—and possibly for a high post in the United Nations.

Gen. Clark said in Tokyo today that with Van Fleet's retirement the United States is losing one of its outstanding officers.

Upon hearing of the announcement of his retirement—which had been extended two months—Van Fleet said in a statement:

"It is with great sadness that I say goodbye to the 8th army, this country and its people with whom I have worked so closely and with complete co-operation.

Synghman Rhee, 77 - year - old president of the Republic, commented that Van Fleet's retirement "comes as disappointment to us," and added that he was speaking for "the entire Korean nation."

The change in command did not rule out the possibility of an Allied offensive with a view to ending the 15-month-long stalemate in the bitter struggle. Signs pointing to a possible offensive included:

1. President Eisenhower on his visit to Korea in December said a way would be found to settle the Korean war. He did not indicate whether by continued negotiations with the Communists or new military blows—as urged by some of his troop commanders.

2. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, saw the President Thursday and was scheduled to leave Washington for Tokyo and Korea today. The army's No. 1 man presumably carried instructions for the changing situation in Korea.

3. Taylor is not a defensive - minded general. He led the 101st airborne division over Normandy, being the first man to "hit the silk" in the 1944 invasion of Europe.

4. Allied air power has been hitting hard at Communist key rail bridges and supply centres.

Suspect Arson As Fire Damage $1,500,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A $1,500,000 fire swept through a southwest Philadelphia paper box manufacturing plant today and a city official said there was a "definite possibility of arson."

John Connelly, owner of the Connelly Container Company said the plant had been shut down "by a wildcat strike" at 8:30 EST Friday night.

Connelly said the strike followed dismissal of one worker.

Firemen said there was a "definite possibility of arson and that a complete investigation is under way."

The plant adjoins the Allied Oil Company, a fuel distributing firm. The fire destroyed the main Connelly plant and burned within a few feet of several oil tanks in the Allied plant.

There were no injuries.

Federation Grant Boosts Levy For Agriculture

Grants of $5,600 have been awarded by the county council for agricultural purposes. This is an increase of $914 over 1952, mainly caused by a larger grant to the Federation of Agriculture.

A year ago the grant to the Federation of Agriculture was a fifth of a mill which raised $2,786. When they appeared before the county council Wednesday the Federation spokesman asked that this be doubled—a levy of two-fifths of a mill.

The agriculture committee considered the Federation request and compromised with a quarter of a mill which, based on the new equalized assessment, raises $3,550.75.

Fifteen hundred dollars was spread among five county agricultural associations. The Peterborough Exhibition Board, through G. A. Gillespie, secretary-manager, asked for $500, the same as last year. But they got $400.

RURAL FAIR GRANTS

The Galway and Sommerville Association and the Apsley Fair each got $200, and the Lakefield fair got $300 again.

Only fair to get an increase was the East Peterborough (Norwood) fair that was boosted from $300 to $400. It has been raised from a class "C" to a class "B" status. Next year it will run for two paying days.

A grant of $200 will go to the Peterborough County Plowmen's Association. This will help them in their allocation to the International Plowing Match to be held this year near Cobourg.

The Quinte District Seed Growers' Association was granted $50, and $200 was set aside for Junior Extension Work among young farmers in the county.

A scholarship of $100 is again being offered this year to a young male student at either the Ontario Agricultural College or the Kempville Agricultural School.

RETURNING AFTER 15 YEARS to Peterborough YMCA where he served for nine years from 1929 until 1938, James C. McClenaghan will take over as general secretary of the "Y" here, early in February. He is leaving his post as executive secretary of the railroad branch of the Detroit YMCA to return to Peterborough. Mr. McClenaghan succeeds Charles Forsyth who has been appointed executive secretary of Central YMCA, Toronto. A former physical director here, Mr. McClenaghan has also served on the YMCA staffs at St. Catharines and St. Thomas since leaving Peterborough.

Garson Claims

The committee has power to recommend that the stronger penalty be put back in the bill. If accepted by the Commons, the bill would have to return to the Senate for approval.

Progressive Conservative speakers, including E. D. Fulton of Kamloops, George Nowland of Annapolis—Kings and J. M. Macdonnell of Toronto Greenwood, objected to widening of the powers of magistrates to hear certain cases and said this is an oblique method of whittling down the right to trial by jury.

They argued, too, that the revision seems designed to help the prosecution gain convictions by easing some of the obstacles of the past.

Mr. Garson introduced the 294-page document, which spells out the law covering crimes all the way from theft to murder. It emerged from a commission which labored for months to collect and simplify existing laws. Then the Senate spent months reviewing the work and changing it in some respects.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices generally continued to move at slightly lower levels Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in sympathy with further declines on U.S. markets and a carryover of Thursday's liquidation.

Commercial demand again was limited in both oats and barley. Flax uncovered better commercial interest, with industrial firms and seaboard houses on the buying side on the declines. Rye disclosed American houses on both sides of the market. Prices for Class 2 and IWA wheat were unchanged.

Percy Council Holds Inaugural

WARKWORTH (ENS) — Percy municipal council held its inaugural meeting of the year in the Council Chamber last Monday. All were present. Prior to councillors taking their oath of office, a brief devotional period was conducted by the Rev. A. L. Sisco, of St. Paul's United Church.

Reeve George Broadworth and Clerk W. G. Allen were authorized by motion to sign and submit to the provincial department of highways a petition from the Percy township.

The petition states that during the period from January 1, 1952, to the 31st of last December, an amount of $36,405.39 has been expended on the township road system. Statutory grants will be asked, in the above amount, under the provincial statute, subject to deduction of payments already made.

The township clerk was authorized to advertise for an assessor, with a fixed salary of $300 per annum, plus 25 cents per dog for collecting dog tax. Applications must be received by next February 2.

Reeve George Broadworth and Councillor J. S. Atkinson were named council reprsentatives on Percy Community Centre.

Eldon Ewing was appointed school attendance officer for the year, at the prevailing salary. Erie Merrill was named relief administrator, at a fee of $2 per call, and mileage of 10 cents per mile.

Prevailing wage for laborers was fixed by council at 75 cents per hour, and truck drivers 85 cents per hour.

James Town was appointed Livestock Evaluator for the township at a fee of $2 per call and mileage of 10 cents.

Eric Merrill, road superintendent, was authorized to attend the Good Roads convention for 1953, at a limit of $25 expenses. The municipality will also join the association for 1953, at a fee of $10. Other members of the council were also authorized to attend on similar terms.

Gordon J. McCubbin was reappointed township representative on the East Northumberland High School Area board.

Cecil Grills and William Johnston were named council representatives on the Percy Recreation Commission. Blair Huycke was appointed for a further three years on the same board.

W. D. Hoar was appointed caretaker of the town hall, at a salary of $15 per month.

Marriage Licence Receipts Decrease

Peterborough's receipts from marriage licenses last year were $300 less than in 1951, a fact mentioned in the annual statement by City Clerk Outram to the council.

Nobody expressed any dismay about it. Some may not even have noticed it, but there were the figures: $1,870 for marriage licenses in 1951, but only $1,570 paid into the treasury for the licensing of nuptials last year.

Bicycle licenses contributed $428.50 as compared with $2,304 in 1951; dog tags likewise failed the treasury: only $1,396 last year as against $1,727 in 1951, a slump of $331.

Total of miscellaneous receipts was down from $12,452.44 to $9,551.25; however the total of all receipts through the Outram channel was $85,901.35 as compared with $79,913.54 in 1951. Biggest increase was $7,073.94 in city square parking meters.

And by way of repeating the metering financial fact: the total of all receipts from meters so far was $177,782.48 up to the end of 1952.

The curb meters gathered in $160,979.44 since May 12, 1947; and the new city square meters have already come through with $16,803.04.

Sought In Theft Of Report Man Surrenders

MONTREAL (CP) — Another piece in the complicated puzzle of theft of an advance copy of the Currie report fell into place Friday when Frederick Hensler gave himself up to Quebec provincial police.

Hensler, 36-year-old printing shop employee, was arraigned before Judge Rene Theberge and was charged specifically with stealing 79 sheets of paper which comprised a report Montreal accountant George S. Currie was preparing for the minister of national defence.

Hensler pleaded innocent and Judge Theberge reserved until Monday his decision on a defence request that the accused be permitted to have a preliminary hearing.

Ordinarily, persons charged with theft involving less than $25 are sent for speedy trial before a judge alone.

Judge Theberge, who issued the arrest warrant for Hensler Thursday, fixed bail at $500.

LATE FOR BAIL

It was too late for bail procedure to be completed and Hensler remained in police custody. He was expected to be released sometime today.

The short, bushy-haired Hensler is alleged to have committed the theft between Nov. 19, 1952, and Jan. 1, 1953, from the National Lithographing and Printing, Inc., where he was employed until Thursday.

Hensler is accused of stealing the advance copy of the Currie report that found its way into the hands of the CCF party leader, M. J. Coldwell.

Hensler surrendered to police late Friday after consulting with his lawyer, Alexandre Chevalier.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

He was placed in a cell while the charge was being prepared. When he appeared before Judge Theberge, he said only two words: "Not Guilty."

The accusation was laid on a complaint by Clarence LeLievre, representing the accounting firm of McDonald, Currie and Company. The Currie report dealt with administration of army works services.

Crown Prosecutor John Ahern has said that Hensler was a member of the CCF party.

CCF headquarters here said he was not known there, but elsewhere in CCF circles he was described as having been associated with the party.

Driver Loses Contol Of Car, Hits Pole

Earl G. Simmons, 19, 704 Orpington Road, was given outpatient treatment at Civic Hospital for cuts on his face and knee, received in an accident on Monaghan Road early today.

On his way home from the CGE night shift, Simmons was driving south on Monaghan Road. In attempting to make a right hand turn at Sherbrooke Street, his car went out of control, went from one side of Monaghan Road to the other, and jumped the east curb. It then struck a telephone pole.

Damage to the car is estimated at $500. Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

Eggs On Market Sell 5 Cents Cheaper

Farmers were today selling their eggs 5 cents cheaper than last week. Large Grade-A pullet eggs 45 cents, medium sized Grade-A 40 cents, and oversized 50 cents.

Retail chicken prices remained at the same level as the week before. Broilers 10 weeks old sold for 50 cents a pound, yearling chickens 40 cents, and year-old hens and roosters 35 to 40 cents.

Up to 10:30 this morning, trading on the market was quite slow.

Surprise Indeed!

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Sgt. Luther Seldon Jr., stationed in Germany, received a 30-day leave from the army and decided to surprise his wife by showing up at their home here. When he arrived home this week, the sergeant found his wife had been preparing a surprise for him, too . . . she had already sailed for Munich to join her husband.

Indians Elect NormanMarsden

ROSENEATH ENS — After an absence of two years, Norman Marsden was elected chief of the Alderville reserve in an election held Friday night in the Alderville school. He is starting his 24th year as chief.

He defeated Glenn Crowe, a necomer to tribe politic, by a slim majority of two votes. The voting was 42 to 40. Chief Marsden will serve a two-year term.

The former chief was John Beaver who is no longer eligible for election because he lives in Belleville and is going to be enfranchised.

The two men elected to the council were Alfred Loukes who received 57 votes and Moses Smoke, 41.

Not far behind in the running were Mrs. Alfred Simpson who was the first woman to run for a seat on the council in the Alderville reserve. The other candidate defeated was John Simpson, a councillor for the last two years.

The voting was considered to be high because many were absent from the reserve. Eighty-two of a possible 135 cast ballots.

Lindsay Rink Favored In Schoolboy 'Spiel

OSHAWA (CP) — Thirty - two boys from Midland, Sarnia, Oshawa, Kitchener, Lindsay, Kingston, Welland and Walkerton stepped onto the ice here today for the final rounds of the Ontario schoolboy curling championship.

Winning rink in today's competition will travel to Saskatoon to represent the province in the Canadian schoolboy championships Feb. 13. Four trophies are up for competition with the Empire Life trophy going to the winners and the Esso, Gore and Crawford trophies to the next three rinks.

Competition was opened musically as the youthful curlers paraded around the Oshawa curling club rink behind a kilted boy piper.

Favored for the provincial title is the Lindsay crew, 1952 winners, skipped by Jack Mosley, and back this year intact.

Labor Member Attacks Britain's Blue Laws

LONDON (AP)—The quiet British Sunday became a battleground today.

Old and often confusing blue laws that govern Sunday activities are under attack.

Labor member John Parker introduced a private member's bill in Parliament to sort out some of the present anomalies and make it legal for Britons to watch theatrical performances and professional sports on the Sabbath.

Defenders of the old statutes, in and out of Parliament, rallied to fight his proposals. The Lord's Day Observance society gathered 500,000 signatures to a petition demanding the bill's rejection.

Judge Reverses Liquor Conviction

Conviction last April of James McAdams, RR 1, Apsley, on a drunk driving charge was quashed Friday by Judge John deN. Kennedy.

McAdams was driving north on Highway 28 when he lost control of his car after striking a pot hole. The car went into the ditch. McAdams waited until an OPP squad car came along, as it was more than a mile to the nearest house.

When a police cruiser came by, McAdams was drunk. He told court Friday he had been taking a bottle of wine to his uncle, and after the accident didn't want to be caught with it. So he drank most of it and threw the rest away.

Two witnesses testified at the appeal before Judge Kennedy that they had seen McAdams shortly before he left Apsley, and he had been sober then. McAdams had waited two hours for the squad car.

W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, who represented McAdams both at the original hearing and the appeal, entered no defence at the magistrate's court trial, but offered one at the appeal. He argued that there was no evidence McAdams had been drunk when he was driving.

Kennedy Urges End Of Dairy Substitutes

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Halting of the use of oils as substitutes for dairy products was urged by the former Ontario minister of agriculture, T. L. Kennedy, in an address Friday before the Oxford County Federation of Agriculture annual meeting.

The meeting reaffirmed its endorsement of stands taken by provincial and federal federations and various dairy organizations in opposing further use of vegetable oils as substitutes.

"The time has come," Mr. Kennedy said, "that every one of you, for the good of all people, stop oils from coming into any more dairy products."

Liberals To Hear Hon. Norman Bradley

Art Lewis, president of the Peterborough Liberal Association has called the annual meeting for Tuesday, February 3. The meeting, which will be held in the Legion Hall, will be addressed by the Hon. Gordon Bradley, Canada's Secretary of State. Mr. Bradley is the representative in the Federal Cabinet from Newfoundland, and was one of the leaders who brought that island into Canada as the tenth province.

At the meeting the officers will be elected and other plans made for the organization.

Defence Measure

VICTORIA (CP)—Civil defence officials have undertaken a complete survey of wireless and communication facilities in British Columbia. Findings of the survey will aid in establishing a wireless control network in the province.

GOP Spurs Debate On Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders today spurred the Senate into an unusual Saturday session to debate the controversial nomination of Charles E. Wilson as defence secretary. Senate Republican leader Robert Taft of Ohio said he will not try for a vote on the appointment today, but will press for final action Monday. Whether there is a showdown then depends on how long senators want to talk. Before them was a mass of testimony, some of it conflicting and later "clarified," built up during Wilson's two appearances at closed sessions of the armed services committee.

The committee gave its unanimous approval to the nomination Friday after Wilson read a statement saying he will dispose of his $2,500,000 dollars worth of stock in General Motors Corporation, the country's biggest defence contractor.

Federal law bars a man from doing business as a government official with a firm in which he holds even an indirect financial interest.

Wilson's decision to sell his stock — thus reversing a stand he took at a Jan. 15 committee hearing — seemed too late to avoid some criticism of him in the Senate.

MORSE PROTESTS

Senator Wayne Morse (Ind.Ore.), for one, remained in a protesting mood. Senator Everet Dirksen (Rep. Ill.) told reporters a possible objection might arise over more than 10,000 General Motors shares owned by Mrs. Wilson.

Wilson offered to have his wife sell her holdings, but armed services committee members indicated this was not necessary.

The Detroit industrialist wound up his testimony Friday by saying he would personally "take the rap" for decisions involving firms in which three of four proposed assistants hold stock.

AIDES HOLD STOCK

He pleaded with the committee to approve the choices he said he handpicked at President Eisenhower's direction — Roger M. Kyes, to be deputy secretary; Robert T. B. Stevens, army secretary; Harold Talbott, air secretary, and Robert B. Anderson, navy secretary.

None of these has been formally nominated yet by Eisenhower. All but Anderson have interests in companies likely to have defence contracts.

County Council Elects 1953 Committees

County council have elected their standing committees for 1953 but not all members were happy with the slate offered by the nominating committee.

Reeve W. E. Griffith of Belmont-Methuen township described his appointments as of "no earthly use," and he resigned from the reforestation committee.

Deputy-reeve Robert McAdam of Smith township didn't like it because Smith now has no representation on the county roads committee.

At the suggestion of Reeve Dick Stewart of Otonabee township, warden in 1952, a social and reception committee was added to the standing committees. So there are now 16 of them.

$1,000 BUDET

To take care of the needs of social and reception $1,000 will be put in the budget.

Here is the slate for 1953:

Warden Ernest Leeson of Havelock is automatically on all committees.

Education: Reeve Norman Wilson, chairman, Reeve Roland Tedford and Inspector K. O. Birkin.

County Property: Deputy-Reeve David McIntyre, chairman, and Deputy-Reeve George Newton and Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald.

Finance: Reeve Ewart Waterman, chairman, Deputy-Reeve McAdam and Deputy-Reeve McIntyre.

Equalization and Assessment: Reeve Wilson, chairman, Reeves Stewart Clysdale, Stewart and Waterman.

Old People's Home: Deputy-Reeve McAdam and Reeve Clysdale.

Appointments: All council members and Reeve Peter Pearson, chairman.

Legal and Lesislative: All council members and Reeve William C. Grant, chairman.

Agriculture: Reeve Clysdale, chairman and Deputy-Reeve Loyola Maloney, Reeve James Gifford and Reeve Charles Flynn.

TOURIST COMMITTEE

Fish, Game and Tourist: All council members and Reeve Olive Hoard, chairman.

Reforestation: One-year appointee — Deputy-Reeve Walter Sloan and Deputy-Reeve George Newton.

Children's Aid Society: Reeve Rork Ferguson the county representative.

Health: Reeve Grant, chairman, and Reeves Tedford and Fitzgerald.

Planning and Development; Deputy-Reeve McIntyre, chairman, and Deputy-Reeve Moloney.

Foley Estate: Reeve Rork Ferguson, chairman, and Reeves James Humphries, Pearson and Hoard.

County Roads: New members to fill a six-year term, Reeve Tedford.

Social and Reception: Reeve James Gifford, chairman, and Reeve Stewart.

Reeve Griffith was originally on the reforestation committee. But he described it as of "no earthly use".

"With all the experience I've got I could have been on some other committees," he said.

Said Deputy-Reeve McAdam: "Smith missed out in the appointments. Smith contributes most to county roads and should have a member on that committee."

"Belmont-Methuen has been treated shabbily," said Reeve Griffith. "They've never had a member on county roads since Belmont had a warden."

Deadly Virus Kills In Tiniest Amounts

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A virus so deadly that one ten-billionth of a drop will kill rats is the centre of a fiction - like revelation from the University of Michigan laboratories today.

The virus, whose effect on human beings is unknown, was first discovered in 1909 by Dr. Frederick Novy, the university's famed bacteriologist.

The virus was watched closely for 10 years. But in a change of laboratory personnel sometime after the First World War, the test tubes containing it were lost.

Late in 1951, during a "housecleaning," an old corrugated paper box, containing 25 test tubes, was found. Dr. Novy, then 86 and retired, was consulted.

His suspicions aroused, Dr. Novy directed experiments that led to the announcement that not only had the virus been found, but that, contrary to scientific belief, it was still alive.

Though it had lost some of its potency during the third of a century, the virus still killed 75 per cent of the laboratory rats in three to 11 days.

Dr. Novy now is completing a report from laboratory notes originally made over 40 years ago.

CashedDeadWoman's Cheques, Man Jailed

CORNWALL (CP)—Harold Coir of Cornwall was sentenced Friday to six months in reformatory for cashing 10 old-age pension cheques made out to his dead landlady.

Evidence showed the $40 cheques continued to be sent to the home of Mrs. Flora McAteer after her death Sept. 17, 1951. Coir cashed the first in December of that year and in each case, police said, Coir signed Mrs. McAteer's name.

Sport Cars Speed Through City

Sports car enthusiasts will be up late tonight awaiting the arrival of some 80 cars which will be passing through Peterborough on the last lap of a 1,250-mile navigational and endurance test around Lake Ontario.

Friday night, the motorists left Toronto on the drive, and the first cars are expected to arrive here about 10:30 tonight. They will be welcomed by members of the Peterborough Motor Sports Club. The last of the competing cars is expected to be on its way to Huntsville about 4 a.m. Sunday.

From Huntsville the motorcade will return to Toronto.

Based on the famous European Monte Carlo auto rally, it is the first rally sponsored by the British Empire Motor Club of Toronto and is not a speed test.

The 36-hour jaunt includes check points at Rochester and Watertown, New York, Montreal, Maniwaki, Peterborough, Huntsville, and Toronto.

From Maniwaki in the Laurentians, the drivers will begin the last leg of the trip to Toronto via Peterborough and Huntsville.

Entries from sports car clubs in Kingston, Montreal, Belleville, Quebec City, Ottawa, and Toronto are taking part.

They will check in at a service station west of the Locks bridge on Lansdowne St.

JOLIFFE SPEAKS

E. B. Jolliffe, QC, provincial leader of the CCF party, will be special speaker tonight in Bank of Commerce Chambers, when he will address members of the action committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor. Fred Young, Toronto, opened a CCF-Trade Union conference this morning, dealing with achievements of the CCF in Saskatchewan, and participation of union members in the political organization. William Triggs, Peterborough, will be chairman.

News From Studebaker

D. C. Gaskin, President of The Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Limited, has let the public in on one of the things to expect when his company introduces its new cars shortly. He revealed that mechanical power steering would be one of the big engineering improvements offered on Studebaker cars in '53.

Mechanical power steering for passenger cars, as opposed to hydraulic power steering methods, will be a Studebaker "first". The Company will release full details on the new development very shortly, and predicts its will rank as one of the most important engineering "firsts" offered by Studebaker in recent years.

Studebaker's power steering system is said to surpass any of the current power steering units in its "road sense" and positive control, and to require far less power for its operation.

Engineers claim the new mechanical power steering will "synchronize" with the driver under every driving condition, and that even though a power failure should occur, the steering unit will retain full and complete control.

Studebaker's 1953 passenger cars will hit the Canadian market with an impact as terrific as the one which accompanied the introduction of the company's postwar models for 1947.

That's the word from McWilliams Motor Sales, Studebaker dealer in Peterborough.

"The report from Hamilton," says Mr. McWilliams, "is that the new models, which will be introduced in about one week, will get the public as excited as did Studebaker's first jet-streamed cars right after the war."

"Complete details concerning the new cars cannot be released for another few days or so," Mr. McWilliams points out, "but rumors out of Hamilton have it that the new Studebaker will be exciting in their new styling and design, possess lower centers of gravity and overall silhouettes, and be as talked-about as any cars ever introduced by a Canadian automobile builder."

"The public will get the type of automobile they have come to expect from Studebaker", says Mr. McWilliams. "It will be the kind of car that epitomizes the company's one hundred years of contributions to the field of transportation and be the tip-off on what to expect during the second century now getting under way."

The fair showed a deficit of $163.02 on its year's operations, secretary-treasurer Howard W. Beavis reported at the annual meeting of the board last Wednesday afternoon. The balance on hand is $268.12.

Receipts for 1952 were as follows: Bank balance $431.14; gate receipts $497.44; concessions $98.00; donations and adv. $691.77; grants (provincial and municipal) $1,151.00; entry fees $139.30; membership fees $124.00; county Breed. President Roland C. Darling was chairman and in his brief address stated that although the fair had suffered a slight deficit, he considered it was comparable to any other fair on a similar scale.

Question of the date for the 1953 fair was discussed and it was decided the same dates would stand for this year's exhibition next October 2 and 3.

All directors reported good entries. Swine and sheep were much better than in previous years. The Ayrshire exhibit, with 59 entries, and the Shorthorn with 74, were good drawing cards. This was the first year for the Shorthorn Club to exhibit at Lakefield.

Lady directors stated the display of cooking and fancy work was excellent, both in quality and quantity. The fine arts section was down from hte previous year, but the handicraft was greatly improved.

School work was well done in most cases and a large exhibit was shown.

A suggestion was made by Morley Bullock that the dairy section should be revised with more classificiations made, and cheese sections eliminated entirely with dressed poultry substituted.

A recommendation will be made to the property committee that present lights in the building be lowered and more lights added, and that wallboard be placed along the wall where the fancy work and school exhibits are displayed. More space for the home baking was also suggested.

1952 Sets Peak Loss Over Labor Disputes

OTTAWA (CP)—Industrial disputes caused a greater loss of working time last year than in 1951, the labor department reports.

There were fewer work stoppages in 1952 but more workers involved, the department said in a preliminary summary for the year.

During 1952, there were 213 strikes or lockouts involving 118,463 workers with time loss of 2,869,587 days. The year before, there were 259 stoppages, 102,870 workers and 901,739 days lost.

In a statement on the figures, Labor Minister Gregg said the time-loss figure for 1952 represented about one-quarter of one per cent of the total estimated working time of non-foam workers.

Army Men Come Home

OTTAWA (CP)—Army headquarters announced Friday that a draft of three officers and 45 men from the 27th Canadian infantry brigade in Germany will arrive at Halifax next week aboard the liner Empress of Scotland. Included in the draft are 17 men from Ontario.

THE LAND OF EVANGELINE is one of the loveliest of Nova Scotia's scenic attractions. This view at Grand Pre is perhaps most familiar to visitors. The well known statue of Evangeline (Longfellow's heroine) is in the foreground, while the little chapel behind it is a replica of the original St. Charles Church where the Acadians worshipped before the expulsion. The attractive park is built on dyked meadowland, so prevalent along that coast.—(Canadian Pacific Railway Photo).

TRAVEL—with Jean Stenton

Annapolis Valley Dykes Hold Sea At Bay

One of the most fascinating things for Upper Canadians visiting Nova Scotia is to see the miles of dykes which stretch through the Annapolis Valley on the western coast of the province. Some of the more interesting and extensive ones are to be seen in the Wolfville and Grand Pre area (Land of Evangeline) and they lend a touch that is quite foreign to the rest of Canada.

Dyked meadows make up a large part of the farmland near Wolfville and thousands of fertile lands and pastures would be under 10 feet of water at high tide if it were not for these protecting walls, begun originally by the French Acadians and developed further by the New England settlers who followed them.

The primary dykes tower many feet above the rivers which are tidal fingers of the Bay of Fundy. The secondary dykes, which are grass-covered mounds 10 or 12 feet high, stand some distance back from the edge of the streams. Even these have been breached from time to time.

The greatest tides in the world are found in the Minas Basin which Grand Pre faces. Here the Bay of Fundy tides reach a climax when millions of tons of water, four times a day, pour between the outer walls of Blomidon and the Parrsboro shore—creating a "gigantic rapids" in and out alternately, lowering and raising the water in the Basin 50 to 60 feet. At Port Williams, a short distance from Wolfville, ocean going freighters proudly ride the river at high tide. When the tide is out, the ships are sitting high and dry on land.

LOVELY PARK

Grand Pre (Great Meadow), the setting for Longfellow's famous poem "Evangeline," is one of the loveliest spots in the Annapolis Valley. Built on dyked meadowland, the little park is operated by the Dominion Atlantic Railway and is situated at the edge of the village. Although many visitors make their headquarters at Kentville, a few miles distant, for a real Maritime atmosphere, Wolfville is a happier choice.

Much smaller than its neighbor Kentville, it is a friendly town, where everyone speaks to you on the street and is anxious to help you see the best the valley has to offer. It is also much handier to the main points of interest, only three miles from Grand Pre, 10 miles from Cape Blomidon and close to the Gaspereau Valley.

The Grand Pre scene most famous in other parts of Canada, is the Evangeline statue with the tiny chapel behind it. The chapel is a replica of the original Church of St. Charles where the Acadians worshipped and where the French women and children were locked up before they were herded onto transports bound for New England. This was the expulsion of the Acadians in 1755. The church has never been used as a chapel but houses an interesting museum of Acadian relics. Outside the chapel, is an old French well, which looks very cumbersome to modern eyes. Some of the trees in the park are said to be the original willows. Lovely gardens abound there and the fact that you are walking on dykeland is brought home forcibly as you feel the grass squish under your feet.

The best time to visit the Land of Evangeline is in June or September, before or after the tourists arrive. Then you have a much better chance to look around. If you have not your own car for sightseeing, taxis are very reasonable and one of the best guides in Wolfville is Mrs. Johnson, who is an enthusiast for both the Valley's beauty and its history. Her knowledge provides a wonderful background for the visitor.

BEAUTIFUL GASPEREAU VALLEY

Another lovely spot is the Gaspereau Valley behind Wolfville, a valley within a valley. This should be seen before the larger version of Cape Blomidon. The tiny Gaspereau River runs through the valley like a silver ribbon. The hillsides are dotted with neat white homes and miles of apple orchards. Early in June, they are a mass of blossoms.

The Old Covenanters Church, not far from Grand Pre, is a quaint old Presbyterian house of worship built in 1808. Inside the pews are like small horse stalls with wooden seats to hold three or four people, completely boarded in by waist-high pens. With the pulpit slung half way to the ceiling, there was no danger of any of that earlier congregation falling asleep.

Wolfville's piece de resistance for the visitor is Cape Blomidon. From the Lookoff on the top of North Mountain, you can get a wonderful aerial view of the panorama of five counties in the Annapolis Valley, six rivers, the Bay of Fundy and its red mud. Be sure to go on a clear day or your time and money will be wasted. Although you are up only 700 feet, the view gives the impression of being about 2,000 feet high. It is on Blomidon too that the famous Nova Scotia amethysts are found.

HOME OF INDIAN GOD

In earlier days the Micmac Indians camped at the foot of Blomidon and the mountain was the dwelling place of their great Good Father, the god Glooscap. He was only called on in times of great peril and since the Fundy waters at that point are very dangerous for navigation, many a paddler had occasion to turn to him for guidance.

One of the charming stories handed down by Grand Pre concerns the Messenger Maiden of Minas—Madrine Bourgois, who lived at Grand Pre. As a child she had been an Indian captive, but had been treated as a daughter of the chief and was eventually returned to her own people. In later years as a young woman, she learned that the villagers, including her father and sweetheart, intended to raid the Micmac encampment, which had been her old home, with the purpose of wiping out all the inhabitants.

In a terrible storm the girl paddled across the Basin, and when she feared she would not make it, called upon Glooscap for help. Somehow she found strength to reach shore and warn her Indian friends. The best paddlers in the tribe escorted her home and when the raiders arrived, the entire village had vanished. Although her family and friends never knew why she received a canoe and some beautiful furs on her wedding day. Madrine realized that her Indian friends remembered her heroism.

LODGES GOOD

There are several small excellent lodges in Wolfville. Rates are reasonable and meals good. Blomidon Lodge, where I stayed, is a lovely old home at the end of Wolfville's main street. A big steak dinner with all the trimmings cost only $1.75, an indication that your money will stretch quite a way in the Maritimes. The Paramount Hotel and the Evangeline Inn are also recommended.

The key which unlocks the hearts of the Annapolis Valley folk is an appreciative eye for the beauty of their lovely country and a real interest in its history. For that, the town and the whole valley will be yours.

One of the best ways to appreciate the Annapolis Valley is to cross by boat from St. John, N. B. to Digby. The Dominion Atlantic Railway (a subsidiary of the C.P.R.) runs its trains right to the pier or you can go by car. The train follows the tidal river most of the way and the rolling hills, the orchards which are fast disappearing due to lost markets, and the bright red mud, are a never-to-be-forgotten sight. For something entirely different from central or Western Canada, Nova Scotia is a fascinating bill of fare.

SUB-ZERO BATH—Ron Johnson, Edmonton newspaper man, tried to prove it's no feat bathing outdoors in winter by taking a 15-below-zero dunking in the McLeod River, 160 miles west of Edmonton. Johnson was on an RCAF survival course. Friends who chopped the hole also obliged with a pail of water over Johnson's shivering shoulders.

Want Churches Use Radio For Appeals

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC, controlling body of radio, today was asked to permit churches to use radio in appeals for funds.

The request was made by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, representing most privately-owned stations.

The C.A.B. presented a brief to a public meeting of the CBC board of governors, called to discuss proposed changes in regulations.

The association noted a regulation which read:

"No station shall broadcast, except with the consent in writing of a representative of the CBC, any appeal for donations or subscriptions in money or kind on behalf of any person or organization other than recognized charitable institutions or organizations; universities, or musical or art groups or organizations whose principal aim or object is other than that of monetary gain."

SHOWS DISREGARD

The C.A.B. said the regulation appears to "show disregard for the position of the church in the life of society."

It added:

"We believe the churches of Canada should be included amongst those who have the right to appeal for funds; both for missionary work and for their activities in any Canadian community. Moreover, we believe that the church should be able to speak to the consciences of its members not by permission of the state but by right."

The association urged the CBC to drop another regulation which read:

"No station shall broadcast any program presenting a person who solves or purports to solve personal, moral or social problems of questions submitted by listeners or members of the public, unless the program format has been approved in writing by a representative of the corporation (CBC)."

The C.A.B. said the regulation was an "attempt at thought control by telling Canadians what and whom they may and may not hear."

OAC Plans Way To Measure Turnip's Flavor

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph will make a start this year on developing techniques to measure color and flavor of turnips, Dr. D. N. Huntley of the OAC's field husbandry department said Friday.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association that perhaps other quality tests could be devised as well.

Such developments, he said, will help growers, but will not solve all the problems associated with the growing and marketing of high quality turnips.

H. L. Patterson, director of the farm economics branch of the Ontario department of agriculture, dealt with production costs in turnip growing. He said that on a farm with 4.6 acres of turnips, the average sum remaining for management and risk after all other expenses is $800.

Harold Shantz of New Hamburg, chairman of the turnip section, said this year's crop was lower than average in yield an acre, but quality was high.

Levy $40,370 Damages In Crash Damage Suit

BRANTFORD (CP)—Murray L. McQuarrie, Toronto trucker, was assessed $40,370 damages Friday by Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen as a result of an accident last June 4 near Erindale in which Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Detheridge of Brantford were killed.

Keith and Maureen, the couple's children, were awarded $24,200 including $550 for Canada Permanent Trust which handled the Detheridge estate and $1,450 for personal injuries.

David A. Bayham of Brantford, driver of the car involved in the accident, was awarded $11,075. His mother, Mrs. Martha Ann Bayham, a passenger, was awarded $5,095.

Lord Clanwilliam Dies

LONDON (Reuters)—The fifth Earl of Clanwilliam, who worked as a railway porter in the Second World War, died Friday. He was 80. A former chairman of the Association of Conservative Clubs, Lord Clanwilliam had a distinguished career in the Boer war and the First World War. In 1944 he worked as a temporary porter at a railway freight station, helping to shift material destined for the front.

Expect 350 Entries At Annual Bull Show

TORONTO (CP)—Some 350 entries are expected at the fourth annual bull show and sale of beef bulls March 10 and 11 at Toronto's Royal Winter Fair building.

Livestock commissioner W. P. Watson said the sale will probably represent the largest number of bulls ever offered at any one time in the history of the province.

Bulls deemed unsuitable for breeding purposes will be culled out and sent to slaughter sale, officials said.

United Front Essential In Dealing With Children

By NANCY CLEAVER

"We have made some blunders in bringing up our tribe," a mother admitted to a friend.

"But there's one principle my husband and I agreed on before our first child was born. We decided it was essential that we should have a 'united front' on all questions of discipline."

"A child soon learns to play one parent off against the other, if they don't stick together," her friend agreed. "But when mother and dad have different ideas on bringing up their off-spring, it often isn't easy."

Bringing up children certainly is not an easy job in this age or any other one. If parents have not agreed on a system of child training and if they discuss their conflicts in front of their child, they make their task even more difficult. Children need both direct and indirect guidance from the adults looking after them. It is confusing to them if mother vetoes an action which father thinks is permissible under special circumstances.

What is a school child to conclude if on school nights when mother is at home, he must follow a definite bed-time hour and routine for getting ready for sleep, but if dad is in charge he can stay up as late as he likes and then climb into bed without even washing?

Unexpected situations frequently arise which catch parents off guard, even if they have a mutual understanding that they "will back each other up." Grandmother comes a distance on the train so she will not miss little Tommy's third birthday. She arrives around eleven o'clock in the morning. As soon as she gets in the door, she whips out a big box of chocolate turtles and presents them to her starry-eyed grandson.

Dad smiles indulgently — his mother certainly knows what kids like. But mother is horrified. Tommy's appetite is poor. They have always followed doctor's strict rules. "No eating between meals" and "no candy until after the meal is over." Right then and there mother's and dad's belief in a "united front" is put to the acid test.

Marriage has been called both a delight and a discipline. There are few satisfactions in life which compare with watching a child grow and develop. At the same time a man and woman have less time of their own, less money to spend on themselves and their own pleasures. But as well as budgeting time and money, mother and dad must discipline themselves to discover the other person's point of view. If parents disagree, they must do so when the child is not present. In privacy and at their leisure they must discuss their problems and arrive at some mutually satisfactory compromise.

It will often simplify matters if parents keep in mind that they must think of their child's welfare and not only today but tomorrow as well. Little Susan has certainly got herself into a hot scrap with Mary and Jean. In the argument over her chum's doll, the poor doll was broken. Something must be done to help Susan realize that if she quarrels, then she cannot play with her friends. Restitution must be made for a damaged plaything.

But mother and dad are also thinking of their long range goal for Susan. They want her to grow into an adult who gets along happily with others. If both mother and dad are sincerely concerned for Susan, they will be able to agree on the method by which Susan will accept the consequences of her actions. One of the biggest things Susan's parents can do for her in this and other crises is to maintain a "united front."

Red Cells And Suspicious Eyes

The Winnipeg alderman who returned from an Ottawa civil defence course with alarming statements about Communists may be right. He says that there are ten thousand organized Communists in Red cells throughout Canada ready at a moment's notice to sabotage defence efforts from coast to coast. Let us not be lulled into a feeling of security by that vague round number.

* * *

Undoubtedly there are Communist cells in Canada, waiting to put a bomb in Niagara power houses, drop a brick on the Premier of Manitoba, tear up transcontinental rails and put sand in the gears of government. Undoubtedly Russia has spies in Canada—as undoubtedly the United States (our shield and protector) has spies in Russia. Undoubtedly there are Canadian communists so befuddled as to equate Communism with Russia and to act as saboteurs at the command of Russia, should that country be getting ready to make war on this continent. The Government, the army, municipal and provincial officers, factory managers and every good citizen should be alert to the possibility of sabotage prior to or at the time of, a sneak war.

* * *

The suspicion that there are Communists ready to sack Canada should not turn Canadians into jittery idiots; the certainty that there are Communist cells active—which the Winnipeg alderman says the RCMP know of a certainty—should not give us the heeby-jeebies about every person on our street who wears a red tie and every neighbour whose views do not conform exactly with our own. We hear that it is almost a crime now in the States to have any liberal or unorthodox views. Anyone who ever belonged in his reckless youth to an organization with leftist tendencies has become a suspect. Any person who does not join a proper church or club, who climbs steps on the wrong side, or parts his hair differently from what the barber's union decrees is proper, becomes now in the States some sort of fellow-traveller, if not an outright Red. (An odd phrase is 'fellow-traveller' considering that it refers to persons who generally do not travel with the rest of the fellows, the conformists.)

* * *

It would be a sad day for Canada if its air were to be hazed with suspicion, if only the orthodox in conduct, speech and thought were to be tolerated, if personal nonconformity were to be judged the mark of a potential traitor. Canadians as a people are already too drably uniform, Candian society too full of conformity. Let no witch-hunt pulp what little individuality Canadians now exercise. Some words of Judge Learned Hand, which the New Yorker calls the most haunting sentence of 1952, should be borne in mind by Canadians as well as Americans to whom they were addressed: "I believe that that community is already in the process of dissolution where each man begins to eye his neighbour as a possible enemy, where nonconformity with the accepted creed . . . is a mark of disaffection, where denunciation, without specification or backing, takes the place of evidence."

Mr. Kennedy Called To Higher Service

Mr. Thomas L. Kennedy has left the Ontario Cabinet after fourteen years as Minister of Agriculture and a few months as Premier of the Province between the Drew and the Frost ministries. He remains a member of the Legislature where he has sat continuously since 1919, except for three years after his defeat by the Hepburn Liberal Minister of Agriculture, Duncan Marshall.

Tom Kennedy, as he is known to thousands of farmers and Conservatives, was a successful Minister of Agriculture because he looked like an old-time farmer but did not think like one. Behind the clay of his face was a shrewd brain which knew how best to make money out of fruit farming and how to gain friends and votes. He held the Agriculture portfolio during years of prosperity for farmers, and administered it with honest competence.

We should not speak of Mr. Kennedy in the past tense. Although he is seventy-three, the former Brigadier-General is stepping briskly into a realm of higher—well, broader—service. Taking his farmer appearance and his vote-catching manner with him, Mr. Kennedy is entering the service of Mr. George Drew, national Conservative leader. He will campaign through the by-ways and hamlets of Canada for the Federal Conservatives, fence-repairing before the next Federal elections.

Canadian Technical Help For Asia

About town last year and in our factories were seen Indians and Pakistani. They seemed strange to our city and odd persons to have in our plants. They were. These were and are some of more than three hundred persons accepted for training in Canada by the United Nations and its specialized agencies, and under the Colombo program.

The Colombo Plan is a Commonwealth measure of wide scope to assist in the economic development of Southeast Asia. One aspect of it is a Program for Technical Co-operation, by which Canadians go out to India, Pakistan and Ceylon to advise and teach techniques, and natives of those countries come to Canada to study our industrial ways and means and to train on the job. The United Nations agencies are further aiding underdeveloped countries, like Iraq to raise their standards of living to at least subsistence levels by better methods of farming and manufacture, better sanitation and diet, and capital investment in power plants and primary industry.

At present in Canada, selected by their government, are Ceylonese nominees studying agricultural engineering, plant pathology, teacher training and business administration. Trainees from India are studying hydro-electric power development, mining, electrical and agricultural engineering, highway construction, biochemisty and rural electrification. Trainees from Pakistan are studying tele-communications, education, agricultural chemistry and mechanical engineering.

Courses have been arranged, at the request of U.N., in co-operatives, railway construction, statistics, public administration, cost accounting and auditing, social welfare, mining, coal petrology, fertilizer and cement manufacture, meat packing and town planning. A special five-months' course was offered to twelve junior administrative officers from Pakistan, in which the Federal Government, four of the provinces, universities and private industry co-operated.

This kind of training, like the Colombo Plan itself, will continue until 1957, but increasingly the emphasis will be put on learning and practising the skills in their own countries. Western advisers and experts, including a hundred Canadians, now serving abroad with the United Nations Expanded Program, are already in the Asian countries. Their teaching and advice will be supplemented by the young men and women now acquiring skills in Canada who will return to their own lands. Equipment for training is already being established—equipment which can be supplied, along with the experts, by Canada and other western countries.

The technical experts sent out under the Colombo Program may recommend new projects requiring capital, and this capital can be provided—or even the machinery and tools—by Canada out of appropriations already made by the Canadian Parliament towards the Colombo Plan. Mr. Nik Cavell, administrator of the Canadian participation in the Colombo Plan, notes that the recommendations of a Canadian fisheries expert sent to Ceylon a year ago have result in a project for the development of fisheries there. This Canada is financing under the capital-development part of the Colombo Plan.

Canadian experts are not confined to Southeast Asia; their talents are in demand and being made freely available, through Government and U.N. agencies, in many parts of the world. In an article on progress in technical co-operation appearing in the current issue of External Affairs Mr. Cavell cites Canadians in Egypt to establish a training centre for blind persons, in Burma to make recommendations on public administrative services, in Israel to help organize a civil service staff college, in the Middle East to help in public health, in Costa Rica to advise on modernizing educational facilities, in Colombia to organize public utilities, in Mexico to assist in setting up a government printing bureau, in Bolivia as housing and mining experts.

The co-operation of governments, agencies and private business in making technical advice, assistance and money available to develop backward countries is one of the brighter features of the post-war world. It is through such pooled help that the have-not nations of the world can help themselves, and not continue to be preys to hunger, political strife and Communist propaganda.

NOTES AND COMMENT

His Majesty's Theatre in Montreal has become Her Majesty's Theatre. It will take more than a change in name to bring that decaying hulk of a building up to date.

John Diefenbaker said that if Lady Godiva were to ride into the House of Commons, all eyes would be upon her horse. Certainly! The naked lady would simply be taken for a taxpayer, trying to find the Visitors' Gallery.

The Journal of Samuel Marchbanks

SUNDAY: Mingled with some musical people today, almost on terms of equality. I like musical people but I am always astonished by the dogmatic quality of their statements, especially when they are young. For instance, a young lady who was probably about nineteen asserted this afternoon that J. S. Bach had embraced the whole scope of human feeling in his music in a manner more sublime than that of any other composer. I could not permit this to pass. "Where does Bach make even a passable stab at an expression of romantic love?" I asked her, and she could not answer. And truly old Bach, who had two wives and twenty children, had not much to say about this important matter; the majesty of his harmony and the remorseless deedle-doodle of his counterpoint were not geared for it, and in this sphere such lesser creatures as Puccini beat him hollow. The young woman took her revenge by behaving toward me as if I had no soul, which was typically feminine, and pained me not at all.

◇ ◇ ◇

MONDAY: Had a long conversation with a physician this evening, but not about my health. Several times as we chatted he was summoned to the telephone and I observed him closely, as he assumed that cautious, modestly optimistic, closed and utterly inexpressive mask which doctors wear when talking to their clients, even over the wires. The squawks of the machine were sometimes loud and agitated, but never did he drop his guard. Now and then he would say "Hmmm," in a noncommital manner, and usually ended by promising to call on the morrow. When I questioned him about this he said, "Well, it isn't really my business to sympathize except formally; if I felt too strongly about every case, emotion would tear me to pieces, and I couldn't do my best for my patients." I asked him if he knew why his customers were called "patients," and to my surprise he did not. So I explained that the word patient really means a sufferer; in this sense the sick man is a patient, but his doctor is patient in the modern sense of the word — that is to say, forbearing and unruffled. He found this flattering, which pleased me.

◇ ◇ ◇

TUESDAY: Read in a paper today about a man in Vancouver who made one pipeful of tobacco last for an hour and 57 minutes; this same smoker said that anybody whose pipe is exhausted in less than 40 minutes smokes too fast, and lacks the proper phlegmatic attitude for a pipe-smoker. This humbled me, for although I smoke a pipe regularly I am a hasty, hot smoker, and produce vast clouds of gas and mountains of ash in a very few minutes. In an attempt to solve my problem I have lately taken to cigars, but they are not for me. There are two kinds of cigar smokers — patrician fellows, who look as though they had been born to smoke the finest Havana, and people like myself, who look like cannibals gnawing a finger from their latest victim. If one does not belong to the very small first class, one should smoke cigars in private; nothing makes a man look so degraded as a drool-soaked, tattered, burning stump of tobacco stuck in one corner of his mouth. Whatever a man does, he should try to do with a certain decency and regard for the feelings of others. I know that when I smoke a cigar I bring sorrow to many hearts, and regret for the degradation of mankind.

◇ ◇ ◇

WEDNESDAY: I see that a film of Gabriel Chevallier's novel "Clochemerle" has been withdrawn after a brief showing in Ottawa, because the clergy complained of it. Understandably, for it is midly anti-clerical in tone, and funny as well, which is presumably worse than being anti-clerical and serious. I have not seen the film, but I greatly enjoyed the novel, being an abandoned wretch and feeling that anti-clericalism should have a modest expression, to offset the continual and thunderous fulminations of the clergy. I cannot feel that it is healthy for even the best causes to be utterly without opposition, or to knock opposition on the head in an arbitrary manner. But I am out of tune with the spirit of Canada, which is rapidly combining the spirit of Cromwellian England with that of Jansenist France. I cannot believe that genuinely good and pure-souled people need to make such a humourless hullabaloo about virtue. I am assured that unless we are all very serious and strict the Communists might as well have us, for one prison of the soul is much like another.

◇ ◇ ◇

THURSDAY: I have never known a woman who played billiards, though in the Victorian era many women of fashion did so. The disappearance of the billiard room in the private house is responsible, of course; women do not frequent pool parlours. Indeed, it is odd how billiards has dropped in popularity generally; pool or snooker are fairly well known, but not true billiards. Yet it is an admirable game, and interesting to watch, and I have even heard it praised as a form of exercise, as it persuades sedentary men to stretch their vitals to extraordinary lengths, when attempting difficult shots. I am a wretched player myself, but I can chalk a cue in so expert a manner that I temporarily unnerve opponents who have not yet seen me play.

◇ ◇ ◇

FRIDAY: To Ottawa, to witness part of the orgies of the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival, and pricked up my ears when the Adjudicator confided to the audience that his great-grandmother had been Sir Henry Irving's leading lady. Upon enquiry I discovered that she had been Fanny Stirling, who was never Irvine's leading lady, but who more than once filled that position of honour with Macready; for Irving she played old ladies, and particularly the Nurse in "Romeo and Juliet." If the Oxford Companion to the Theatre may be believed "she was not good in Shakespeare or in tragedy" and "in later years her acting was thought somewhat extravagant, but she was one of the last exponents of the grand style in comedy." In this she differed from her great-grandson, whose style in comedy might be described as the Deprecatingly Jocose (English Type). Students of theatre history are familiar with a beautiful picture of Mrs. Stirling as the Nurse, and Mary Anderson as Juliet; she was an old lady of noble aspect, which modern old ladies are not permitted to be, for their skirts are too short. After 65 skirts should always be to the floor.

◇ ◇ ◇

SATURDAY: To the theatre again to see a play by a writer in whom I take a keen, almost morbid, interest, and afterward heard it royally panned by Fanny Stirling's great-grandson. Granny would surely have been proud of her boy if she could have heard him draw peal upon peal of merry laughter at the expense of the actors and the playwright. Habitual attenders of drama festivals, like myself, know well why strict silence is enforced upon the spectators in a criminal court; if laughter were permitted, the judge would be so delighted with his success that he would go on from one thing to another until the criminals were not merely hanged, but minced and tickled with feather dusters, in order that their richly comic squirmings might draw yet another guffaw from the assemblage. But the carnage at these affairs is one of their principal attractions—indeed, the most truly festive thing about them—and no one must grumble when it is his turn to perish in the arena . . . Returning to my hotel reflected how beautiful Ottawa is under snow; it is a winter city. Canada needs a summer capital, as well.

Letter To The Editor

CHRISTIAN IDOLATRY

Sir: There has been more controversy circulating around the Christmas tree, this year, than I remember seeing in years, partly, I believe, because conservationists of our forests, deplore the waste incurred and, also, because the increasing prominence given to them as Christmas symbols, raises the question. What connection is there between the Christmas tree and Christmas?

Scripturally none at all. It is a pagan custom, carried over from the dark ages, and adopted, (I'm sorry to say), by the formal Christian Church, to arouse interest in, and add sparkle to, what is supposed to be, the celebration of the birthday of our Lord Jesus Christ. Actually Christendom, today, is observing the Festival of St. Nicholas, alias Santa Claus, whose portly figure usurps the picture, putting Jesus Christ in total eclipse.

If God had intended His Son's birthday to be commemorated. He would have left us in no doubt, as to the date, and manner of observance. Why did God allow the date of Jesus birth to be lost? If we are supposed to celebrate it as in the custom today? But, He did leave, a very definite Command, ere he left this world for the commemoration of His Death.

At the last supper. He said, this do in remembrance of me. ("As oft as ye drink it.") Unregenerate man, always tries to reverse God's ardour. Yes, I believe in the total depravity of the natural man. Hence the need of the advent of a Saviour.

The spirit of giving and receiving gifts at Christmas has become a grievance to Him, who gave His Son, to a Bankrupt world. Speaking personally; if it was your birthday, and friends gathered to enjoy themselves, and exchange gifts, at your expense, ignoring you completely, wouldn't you feel insulted? Yet, that is what happens at Christmas.

Ask most children, why we keep Christmas? and they will almost invariably tell you Santa Claus is coming to bring gifts to boys and girls who are good, and they are taught to believe he has supernatural powers. Perfectly good people tell more lies at Christmas time, than any other time of year. Is not this idolatry in its worst form?

Don't think I'm trying to minimize the importance of Christ's advent. Oh no! It was so important, God broke 400 years of silence, to proclaim by angels Hosts, accompanied by Heavenly choirs, the Wondrous Good News. Truly He came unto His own (by right of creation) and His own received Him not, (denying Him redemption rights). But to as many as received Him,, to them gave He power, to become the Sons of God.

Those who know and love Jesus as their personal Saviour, regardless of denomination, rejoice as they commemorate His wondrous birth. God was manifest in the flesh, not as a puppet on show, or a symbol, gilded by wishful thinking. For the Cross overshaded the manger, most children are born to live, but Jesus was born to die.As our Saviour, He assumed our indebtedness and paid the full penalty, when He cried "It is Finished." Looking at this question in the white light of God's Word. I ask you readers as Pilate asked the mob to choose between Christ or Barrabas, whom will you have, Christ or Santa Claus, at Christmas when it rolls around again.

I often wonder if Jeremiah the prophet, looking down through the years, through the prophetic telescope, foresaw the Christmas tree when he wrote Jeremiah 10, 2-5. God does not want His children to be, "As the Heathen are," Be not conformed to this world but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind. (Rom. 12, v2).

Thanking you, Mr. Editor for valuable space.

Sincerely,
MOUNTAIN HEATHER.

Longevity.

(Lethbridge Herald)

We know that Britain contains many ancient castles and churches, but you could have knocked us over with a feather when we heard that she also has a public house which began dispensing drinks in 912 A.D. All we can say is that it must be a pretty sturdy pub to have withstood all the songs, the inevitable brawls, and the countless dart games of the 1,040 years of its existence.

This pub, by the way, is situated in Enfield, Middlesex. Originally called the White Hart, it was renamed The King and Tinker when King James stopped for a quick one while hunting and clinked glasses with a local tinker.

Now that the news has got out, we can imagine that The King and Tinker will have to build an addition in order to handle all the tourists intent upon soaking up culture.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea . . . . And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, having the glory of God. (Rev. 21: 1, 9-11.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And he shewed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month; and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations.

And there shall be no more curse: but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his servants shall serve him . . . . And these shall be no night there; and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for the Lord God giveth them light: and they shall reign for ever and ever . . . .

Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city (Rev. 22: 1-3, 5, 14.)

◇ ◇ ◇

For there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known. (Luke 12: 2.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Look at the way baby is working his mouth," exclaimed Mrs. Newman. "Now he proposes to put his foot in it."

"H'm," replied her husband. "Hereditary. That's what I did when I proposed."

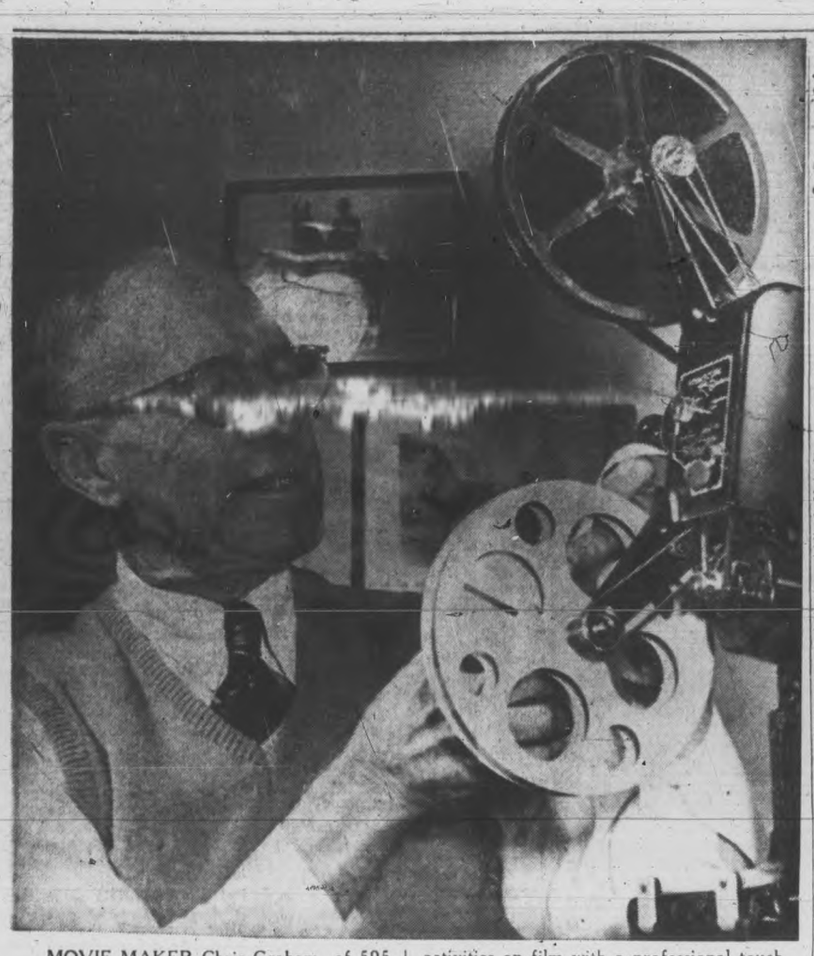
A dignified man on the bus was bringing a pair of shoes home to his wife from the repair shop, but he hadn't been given any wrapping material.

The man opposite was interested. Finally he leaned over, tapped the dignified one on the knee and said with a knowing wink, "That's right — don't let her run around."

The big-game hunter was showing his guest around his trophy room. Rhino heads, elephant tusks and a stuffed crocodile decorated the wall and the floor was covered with lion and tiger r' s.

"Very interesting," said the guest. "Perhaps some time you'll drop over and see my butterflies."

Young John came home from his first day at Sunday school and began emptying his pockets of money—pennies, nickels, dimes—while his parents stood and gasped. Finally his father asked: "Where did you get all the money?"



"At Sunday school," the youngster replied happily. "They've got bowls of it."

Cheese For The Dog

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

It is reported to us that a local dog belonging to a local family committed something of an outrage shortly before Christmas. This dog, while the family was out, managed to find three Christmas presents, yet to be delivered, in the back of the house. The animal tore open and investigated all three packages, and found himself confronted with a choice of nuts, candy and cheese.

To the eternal glory of the cheesemakers of Leeds, it may be reported that this dog passed up the nuts and candy, but consumed half of the top of the locally made cheese. Obviously a dog of taste, and discrimination.

MOVIE MAKER Chris Graham, of 595 Gilmour St., has captured years of outdoor activities on film with a professional touch. —(Examiner Staff Photo).

A Good Sportsman Of This Or Any Year

By NICK NICKELS
Outdoor Editor

It would be a difficult thing in this Kawartha sportland of ours to choose an outdoor-man-of-the-year, one from our own district.

He must not be a man who shoots the most game, boats the most fish, is instrumental in starting conservation projects. But he must be a person who loves the outdoors and will sit in a cold duck blind without popping a shot and fish all day without a strike or come away from the deer hunt without getting his animal. And he must experience the overall enjoyment of being in tune with nature.

I think I have found him and feel that no one will dispute my choice. He is Chris Graham of 575 Gilmour St.

I spent a pleasant hour with Mr. Graham Thursday afternoon in his den listening to tales of his experiences in the woods and streams.

"How would you like to see some films?" Chris said.

He set up a screen and projector in jig time and we were soon enjoying, and re-living, some of his most cherished moments. The movies were strictly amateur, he admitted, but there were some excellent dramatic shots none the less. Like a true showman, Chris saved his color movies until the last, the icing of the cake, as it were.

I especially enjoyed his travelogue of the trout fishing country of Belle Riviere, south of the Lac St. John country. The movies were taken recently and there was a feeling of excellent editing to the movie story that was of professional quality. The soft coloring of the rugged Laurentian country in spring was sparked with brilliant hues of red and green canoes, fishermen in bright clothing and shorelines of gleaming birch forests.

To see all of Chris Graham's movies—he has been shooting them for 25 years and has accumulated about 17,000 feet—would take several hours. I promised to call again, perhaps when I had a free evening, for it would certainly take that long to see them.

Chris isn't a man who runs them off for his friends and puts them away in a drawer to gather dust. No, sir. He puts on shows for himself any time the spirit moves him which, I judge, is quite often.

Due to a fall in his home about five years ago Mr. Graham has to get about with the aid of crutches. But with the aid of life-long friends such as Alderman Sid Black and furrier Cyril Lech, he still manages to enjoy fishing both in the Kawarthas and in Quebec.

In his youth he majored and starred in every sport the city had to offer—baseball, hockey, football, boxing and some lacrosse. And until a very few years ago riding horses were his consuming passion. Together with his later outdoor activities he looks back kindly on a full life where sportsmanship rather than the sport was The Thing.

This rare Thing should place Chris Graham in the top niche of sport in Peterborough. I defy anyone to dispute this statement.

Your Garden:

Plant An Evergreen Garden

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

The gardener who would like to have more than a bare yard and calloused hands to remind himself of summer beauty, might borrow an idea from his colonial ancestors, and plant an evergreen garden. This is the suggestion of Alden Hopkins, landscape architect for the Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Hopkins has, for the past nine years, supervised restoration of the historic city's 18th century gardens.

The 18th Century Virginia garden was predominantly a green affair, full of boxwood, holly, hemlock, cedar, magnolia and live oak. In spring and early summer it was colorful with the blooms of annuals and perennials, but even after the flowers faded it was still a lush garden with its design permanently fixed in evergreens. It had flowers in season but it didn't depend on them.

By restoring the 18th Century "green" gardens, Hopkins and his associates have produced year-round showplaces in a climate where frost comes early in November. There are no special tricks for keeping gardens beautiful in the middle of winter. Just use evergreens as the colonists did.

Easy-to-maintain evergreens lend considerable lush summer beauty to your winter gardens.

How you use evergreens, however, is important Hopkins points out: "Don't scatter them about aimlessly or they won't do very much for your garden. Just like flowers, they should always be planted acording to some plan or design."

The plan is completely up to you, the landscape architect says. Evergreens grow in all shapes and sizes, from little low ivy to stately live oak, and permit almost endless garden variety.

They can be used for patterns, edgings, backgrounds, screens, accents, ground covers, and, in the case of plants like magnolia or azalea, even for colorful spring-time flowers.

Evergreens have still other virtues. They flourish equally well in northern and southern exposures, keep the ground cooler in summer and provide a windbreak for winter. They are also easier to grow than flowers in a hot climate, and that is why the Virginia colonists used them so much.

Evergreen gardens are ideal for people who like to do things the easy way. Not that they are work-free, because they must be kept neat and they require trimming, pruning, watering and other care. But they do away with the mess made by dead flower heads and they can be left untended for several weeks without going to wrack and ruin.

Best of all, once they're planted they stay, and that means you can give your back some rest the following year.

Gardening Questions

Q.—Peony root divisions planted last spring failed to bloom this summer. What is wrong?

A.—Peony roots taken from old plants may not bloom for two or three years. Small roots take longer to reach flowering size. New divisions should be set but two inches deep; if yours were set deeper they may not bloom.

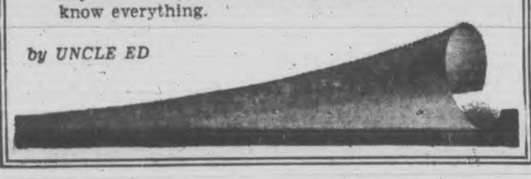
Q.—I have heard that there is a green rose. Where can it be obtained?

A.—The green rose is really a variety of the Chinese group. It is most unattractive, having a cluster of green calyx and no petals, and is only worth growing as a curiosity. I do not know where it can be obtained.

FABULOUS FINDINGS

Vulcan

It is reasonably certain that the chariots used by the gods of mythology had no rubber tires, hence there could be no vulcanized tires as we know them today.



Nonetheless, the god Vulcan was quite a handyman, the artist of all work in Olympus. He was an architect, smith, armorer, chariot builder and brass worker. Indeed he built of brass the houses of the gods, and shod with brass the celestial steeds. Vulcan also fashioned golden shoes for the gods and goddesses, the shoes with which they trod the air or water with the speed of wind. No half-soles required.

Vulcan (Hephaestus) was the son of Jupiter (the father of gods) and of Juno. Some accounts have it that he was born lame and his displeased mother tossed him out of the heavens. However, a more likely fable has it that Jupiter kicked him out for taking the part of his mother in a domestic quarrel and the fall accounted for his lameness. Though rated a rather ill-favored god, yet Vulcan won Venus (Aphrodite), goddess of love and beauty, whose son was Cupid or Eros, a perpetual child who shot darts of desire into the bosoms of all.

Ancient Grecian tales oft had that "colossal" attitude which is a Hollywoodian mark today. It is said of Vulcan that he was a whole day falling when Jupiter gave him the boot. He alighted in the Island of Lemnos, and this incident and the Aegean isle are referred to in Milton's "Paradise Lost."

One must admit that the lame Vulcan was quite a toiler in a vast variety of jobs. This might indicate that there were no labor unions in those times, else he would hardly have received his celestial card in every trade, now would he? An oversight, no doubt, in those early days in history, but even then the gods couldn't know everything.

The Chief Cut Out The Sioux's Heart And Ate It, Indian Writer Copway Tells In His Autobiography: Some Poems

In last week's instalment about the Rice Lake Indian writer and preacher John Copway, the story was told of his early days and the beginning of his education by itinerant preachers, and his first writings. This instalment ends Mr. Guillet's account of Copway.

By E. C. GUILLET, M.A.

In his account of his life the germ of the poem is found, for he visited, in the winter of 1835-36, the battleground over which the Sioux and Ojibways fought some thirteen years earlier. The Indians told him of the fighting:

"How dreadful and awful was their description! The Chief, pointing to a certain spot, observed: 'There I killed two Sioux about thirteen winters ago; I cut open one of them; and when I reflected that the Sioux had cut up my own cousin but a year before, I took out his heart, cut a piece from it, and swallowed it whole. I scooped some of his blood, while warm, with my hand, and drank as many draughts as the number of friends who had perished by their hands'. As he spoke, the fierceness of the Indian gleamed from his countenance. Every half mile trees were blazed (barked),* and notches made according to the number that had been killed."

At that time the Mississippi Valley was the general boundary between the territories of the Sioux in the far west and those of the Ojibways to the west and south of Lake Superior. They were deadly enemies, for the Sioux had once held the Lake Superior region, and for a time there was almost constant warfare. There is great beauty of description in Copway's poem. He shows himself a true Indian in his love of nature, and he saw the weird, hard beauty of winter as well as the gentler graces of summer. Near the St. Louis River—the source of the Mississippi—was:

Men are not hanged for selling horses, but that horses may not be stolen.

—Lord Halifax.

"A gloomy wild, a dreary waste
As ever the eye of man embraced:
Where shrub—if shrub perchance be there—
Blooms not as elsewere, fresh and fair,
But, stinted, bare, and small of growth.
It nestles to the earth, as loath
To spread its branches where the breeze
Which passes, kisses but to freeze."

Yet even the flower has learned to resist the frost, and

"Smiles e'en from its bed of snow,
Like Hope upon the lap of Woe."

In summer there is a very different picture:

"The wild rose, with its sweets beguiling,
Along the shore so brightly smiling:
Whose petals, falling on the wave,
Their own hue to the current gave:
The mellow ligh of different dyes
Which came from forest-shaded skies:
The stillness, over all that dwelt,
So deep it could almost be felt."

This vast wilderness was a grand expanse of nature untouched and unspoiled by the white man:

"The vale through which thy waters sweep,
The forest shade, the craggy steep,
The cataract whose thunder fills
The echoes of an hundred hills,
The deep ravine, the precious mine,
Whose ores beneath thy current shine,
Such is the path thy waters take
Ere lost within the Ocean Lake."

(The "Ocean Lake" is the Gulf of Mexico.)

The Indian lived:

"In nature's rudest mood.
In these deep haunts of solitude".

Suffering and hardships finally wear down even the most rugged constitution:

"The frequent want, the frequent fast,
Break up life's healthful flow at last,
And make a wreck 'tis dread to see,
Of what was once so bold and free."

BATTLE SUBJECT

The last and decisive battle, the subject of the poem, was fought in the disputed region near La Point and the Apostle Islands, at the south-west corner of Lake Superior. The leader of the Sioux was Wen-di-go (Icy Heart), while one of the great braves of the Ojibways was Me-gi-si.

"A youth in whom combined
All that was bright in from and mind:
The noble forehead, broad and high,
The opal that shone within his eye,
The thoughts which o'er his features played
With quick and ever varying shade,
The limbs where strength was seen to dwell
In every full and graceful swell,
Distinguished him as one of those
Where nature's fairest gifts repose."

At the height of the battle Wen-di-go was on the point of killing Ne-gi-si, "The Eagle of the Lonely Shore", when he was startled into impotency by the totem on his breast, and allowed himself to be made captive. The tragedy has much of the pathos of Arnold's "Sohrab and Rustum".

The prisoners were all bound in preparation for torture on the morrow, but during the night Wen-di-go broke his bonds and awakened Me-gi-si, persuading him to leave the camp so that he might tell his story.

DRAMATIC STORY

Years before, it seems, the Ojibways had raided the Sioux camp in Wen-di-go's absence, had killed his wife and carried away his little son. Nothing had ever been heard of him until the chief's identification of his son by the totem during the fury of the battle. Father and son swear vengeance against the Ojibways, but first Me-gi-si pays a farewell visit to his Ojibway sweetheart:

"Me-me, fair child of light and love!
Lovely and beautiful above
All earthly power to describe.
In the soft language of her tribe,
She had most fittingly been styled
The DOVE, so innocent and mild
The feelings nature had impressed
Upon her bright and sinless breast."

They met in:

"A sweet secluded spot.
A gentle point which slightly shot
With sloping bank into the bay", and he told her of the battle and of his father: that he was:

"One of those,
Thy nation's fiercest, deadliest foes,
Whom, but a moment since, so true
Thou didst well term the fearful Sioux".

It was obvious that his nation would never "see the dove the eagle's bride", but in any case he had a presentiment that he would not out live the next battle with the Chippewas. He had braved:

"Both friends' and foemen's power
For the enjoyment of this hour—
To battle my soul once more in light,
Ere it sink into endless night".

With Indian stoicism Me-me was resigned to fate, but assured her lover that:

"My spirit still shall hover near thee,
And this its only thought—to cheer thee,
And pour most fondly into thine
The light which in itself shall shine."

She asks Me-gi-si to:

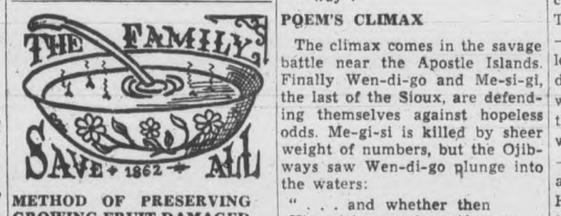
"Let thy fond thoughts only dwell
On this, thy Me-me loved thee well,
And only look on those sweet hours
As thou wouldn't look on lovely flowers
From which the freshness might be fled,
But which, though withered, yet would shed
Their fragrance sweet as when their hue
Was heightened by the night's soft dew".

For a moment he yielded:

"His heart and soul to love's fond call".

and:

"Then turned and widly rushed again,
With wildered sense and maddened brain,
To where his light bark floating lay,
And o'er the waters shot his way".



POEM'S CLIMAX

The climax comes in the savage battle near the Apostle Islands. Finally Wen-di-go and Me-si-gi, the last of the Sioux, are defending themselves against hopeless odds. Me-gi-si is killed by sheer weight of numbers, but the Ojibways saw Wen-di-go plunge into the waters:

". . . and whether then
His spirit passed, or if again
Concealed by magic from the view
He living rose, none ever knew.
Still they believe, amid the dirge
Of winter's winds and water's surge,
Or in the tempest's blasting hour,
They hear his voice and feel his power:
And even upon summer's night,
When winds are hushed and stars are bright,
They sometimes see his shadow pass
Slowly along the moon-lit grass,
And then with bloodless lips they tell
Of some mischance they know full well
To fall on whom the spirit's eye
Glanced angrily as it passed by".

Me-me died of a broken heart:

"With the last lock on lover cast,
Her gentle spirit sweetly passed,
And now she lay in cold death sleeping,
Their watch the wild flowers o'er her keeping:
And, as they waved with the soft sigh
Of the night zephyrs passing by,
Wept dewy tears o'er one so fair,
Lying like blighted rose-bud there,
And poured the fragrance of their breath
To hallow such a tristful death."

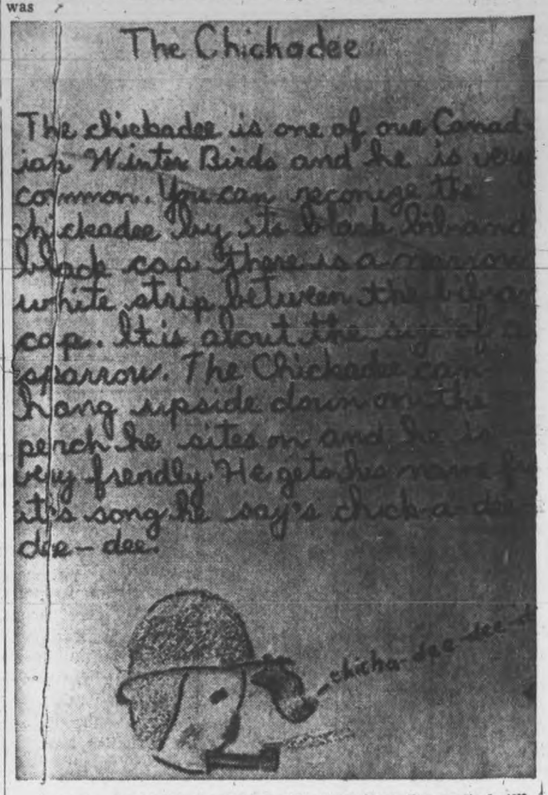
METHOD OF PRESERVING GROWING FRUIT DAMAGED BY TOM-TITS, WASPS, ETC.

IN many instances the finest Pears, Apricots, etc., are pecked by Tom-tits, or gnawed by Wasps; the holes thus formed are then acted upon by air and rain, and the fruit decays. In such cases it is an effective plan to fill the holes as soon as possible with a little plaster of Paris and water; this excludes the air and rain, without injuring the flavor of the fruit, and it entirely arrests decay.

A Hawk stuffed, with expanded wings, affixed to a string, and attached to a long thin rod fixed horizontally to the top of a tree, will scare away birds from fruit-trees over a considerable space. A live Hawk, kept in a cage near the same spot, will, by occasional noises, greatly increase the effect.

Bridget, just arrived from sweet Erin, and snugly ensconsed with a genteel family as maid-of-all work, sat down to her first meal. Having diminished the substantials, she came to apple pie. It was something entirely new to her. She viewed it from all quarters, and examined it very minutely. She then removed the upper-crust. Her mistress observed her, and said: "Bridget, why do you eat the pie in that manner?" A little startled, Bridget looked up, and exclaimed, "Does ye think I'd be ateing the boxing?"

IT RAINED CATS AND DOGS when the Lift Lock was opened in 1904. This picture of the opening ceremonies was taken before the storm broke full on the heads and finery of the thousands who came to witness the unveiling of the marvel of the age—well, of the town—but some umbrellas can be seen ready against the threat.



A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

There are a lot of worthwhile clubs and associations in the city that I would like to join for the very enjoyment of it. But we newspaper folk don't have much time to ourselves and we could never be sure of attending affairs when they are scheduled. So, we have to resort to picking things up on the fly, as it were. Let me illustrate a case in point.

I went strolling in the woods last Sunday and was intrigued by a small flock of cheerful black-capped birds that hopped about the tree branches, often hanging upside down. You would think any outdoor person would know what they were but to make sure I checked with a young sixth-grader bird watcher.

This young person writes up the description of native birds on small sheets of drawing paper fastened with green ribbon. Each species is also illustrated. I found that the bird I was trying to identify was

"Why, the bird is hanging upside down from the man's hat!"
Won't the smoke get in its eyes?"
"No, 'cause the smoke is blowing the other way."
(Which proves that newspaper people have neither imagination nor logic.—ED.)

Oil Changes For Grouse

Trent district conservation officers don't spend all their time chasing law breakers and writing reports about them to Queen's Park. They are constantly doing a lot of little humane things such as:

—De-oiling a young brood of partridge chicks whose careless mother led them across a freshly-oiled highway. The chicks became bogged down, first by the feet that resulted in a thorough dunking. Game wardens were notified and came to the rescue of the chicks, cleaned them up and returned them to their mother in the brush. She was waiting for them.

—Training a one-legged black duck to hop, swim and fly all over again. Ray Simpson found the bird in a 'rat-trap with a broken leg. He cut off the leg and transferred the cripple, after convalescence, to Midhurst Reforestation Park. The bird made good headway in swimming though it necessarily became a side-wheeler and stroked through the water with a motion like that of paddling a canoe.

The Kawarthas May Suffer

People are already setting their sights for the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show in Toronto. Dates this year are from March 13 to 21. The profit from this Toronto Anglers and Hunters-sponsored show is spent on conservation measures of extreme importance to all of us. The Nogies Creek Fish Sanctuary received $3,500 from the fund last year. But it may not this season.

The CNE board have upped the rent for the Coliseum this year to $23,000, a $5,500 jump from last year's figure. This will cut deeply into project handouts. Too bad.

I'll bet you have never heard of a community in Alberta called IRRICANA. It must be quite a place, for it boasts a Lions club who feature an annual duck derby. Prizes are given for the heaviest single wild duck shot, the heaviest three mallards, heaviest three non-Mallards and the heaviest bag of eight ducks. (Is this reading becoming heavy?).

Anyway, a Peterborough man, R. T. Penwarden, took second prize for the weightiest single wild duck and first in the heaviest three non-Mallards class. Some shooter, is Pen, who no doubt learned his duck-shooting lore on Pigeon and Rice Lakes.

Orillia And Petes Tie, 5-5 In Hot Overtime Tussle Before Biggest Crowd Yet

Orillia Pontiacs fought back late in the third period and again late in overtime to yank out a 5-5 tie decision with the Petes here last night in an exciting OHA senior "B" struggle. Though outplayed by a slight margin over the route, the big northerners had enough punch to come from behind twice when it looked like a sure victory for Jim Ellis' hustling aggregation. The single point gained by Orillia pulled them up into a three-way third place tie with Kingston and Belleville, while the Petes trail these three now by two and a half games in the hot race. Kingston, who beat Belleville last night, come here Monday.

LED THE PETES' ATTACK—Keith Montgomery, left, and Chum Fryia turned in a starry effort for the Petes here last night to figure in on three goals each. However, the local club couldn't do any better than break even on the game as Orillia came from behind in the overtime period to tie it up at 5-5, and the OHA tilt ended that way.

REAL FAST FRAY

Last night's fray was a very fast one, and a lot of good hockey was served up to some 1,800 fans. While it was rugged in spots, there was but one real mix-up, occurring in the second period. Larry Marshall was chased for slashing Doug Hunter, and he came back on the ice to rush at Hunter. The latter promptly cross-checked him and Marshall went down with a possibly fractured jaw. Earl McCrone then tangled with Hunter but they were separated. Hunter drew a match penalty for injuring Marshall, the latter still had his minor for slashing, and McCrone drew a major for fighting. The visitors drew 11 of the 19 penalties handed out.

Petes led 2-1 in the first period but were down 3-2 going into the third. They had a 4-3 margin late in the period then but Jack Davidson tied it up to force overtime. After the Petes scored in the extra inning, Davidson again banged one in to sew it up for keeps, the game ending in a draw.

THE TWO ACES

Keith Montgomery and Chum Fryia were the offensive stars for the locals, each being in on three. Fryia scored a pair and aided on one, as Monty helped on three neat ones. Gus Leonard also went good with a goal and an assist. Toodie Greenlaw and Freddy Mortimer each counted one, while Don Floyd had an assist. Davidson scored two for Orillia while Moe Richardson, Lloyd Pearsall and McCrone got one each. Dan Macdonald aided on two, and McCrone and Pearsall one apiece. Both goalies made a flock of fine saves in the speedy scrap.

In less than a minute of the first frame, Richardson cuffed one in as he fell, after taking McCrone's in-close pass. Marshall served a hooking penalty, and Armstrong returned from a boarding sentence when Leonard finished off a fast rush by Fryia to tie it up. Greenlaw had a goal called back for the crease but got in for another with Leonard and Montgomery aiding. Floyd sat it out for tripping and the Hill line, with Army and Monty on defence, kept Orillia from a shot on goal. Favero served one next for high-sticking.

O'S SCORED TWO

Though the Petes pressed a goodly portion of the second stanza, they were outscored 2-0, having no luck around the enemy cage. A slashing penalty to Crowley cost a goal as Pearsall rapped in MacDonald's pass at close quarters. Favero was gated for interference and Greenlaw followed for slashing in the hot going. Fryia went next for tripping but the Petes weathered the storm. At full strength again they slipped to let McCrone through to score on a play built up by Macdonald and Pearsall to give Orillia a 3-2 lead. McCrone was chased for roughing, followed by Marshall for holding and then Fryia for slashing as it got hotter. Richardson went off with a cut over the eye. Then the Hunter-Marshall mixup occurred, with McCrone getting into it, too.

Early in the third, Favero got the nod for holding, and Fryia tore in very fast with a return pass from Montgomery to sink the disc. They went ahead shortly after when Mortimer took a nice forward pass from Floyd and finished it off smartly in close. The Petes kept boring in. Stoddard and Montgomery roughed it slightly in a corner to get chased, and Davidson followed for charging. He was back with less than three minutes to go when he slapped a screened shot into the Petes' cage to send the struggle into overtime.

A Montgomery-Fryia rush came awfully close for the Petes in the extra heat, and, with Davidson back from a hooking penalty, Hill was robbed on a breakaway. Play swept up and down hot and evenly, with Fryia smacking in a return pass from Montgomery at 7:15 to put the Petes up once more. But again, a hard, high shot by Davidson caught a net corner less than a minute later and it ended that way. Teams:

Orillia: Goal, Reading; defence, Pearsall and Davidson; centre, McCrone; wings, Macdonald and Richardson; alternates, Payne, Kelley, Favero, Stoddard, Atkin and Marshall.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Montgomery and Armstrong; centre, Leonard; wings, Greenlaw and Fryia; alternates, Godfrey, Wasson, Mortimer, Floyd, Collins, Hill, Hunter and Crowley.

"LET'S REST AWHILE" PCVS and Port Hope High girls appear to be asking each other, but actually they're diving for a loose ball, gathered in by PCVS' Janet Collins. The Garnet and Grey seniors rallied in the fourth to tie the Ports 15-all. A tie game is unusual in basketball but COSSA girls' basketball regulations don't provide for overtime periods. The juniors came through with their second successive victory 18-9 over Port Hope junior team.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Collegiate Hoop Damsels Gain Tie And A Win Against Port Hope Girls

A no-overtime rule in girls' COSSA basketball resulted in a rarity in Peterborough basketball Friday, a tie game between PCVS Garnet and Grey senior lasses and Port Hope High. Both quintettes battled to the last second and had to be satisfied with a 15-all draw. Usually tie games demand a decision and overtime, but the referees, Mabel Gillen and Ann Morrison, ruled no overtime period according to the COSSA regulations for girls' basketball.

In the junior game, Mabel Gillen's PCVS junior lasses chalked up their second successive triumph in overpowering the Port Hope High girls 18-9. Even then the PCVS quintette seemed to be playing below their usual form.

OVERCAME LEAD

Audry Hustwitt's PCVS seniors were forced to overcome a slight Port Hope lead in the first quarter after Pat Thompson and Barbara Yates had put the lakeshore lasses up 3-0. But two quick baskets by Betty Thomson put the Garnet and Grey up a single point; the teams kept that margin, 5-4, in the first.

Port Hope continued to threaten throughout the second on points by Yates and Thompson. But again PCVS rallied on baskets by Libby Cutmore and Marg Dobson to hold the one-point edge, 9-8, at the half.

For a third time, Port Hope edged ahead in the third quarter on two baskets by Thompson. This gave the lakeshore high quintette a 12-11 score at three quarters as the best for PCVS was a single basket by Thomson.

Again not to be denied the Port Hope High girls went ahead a fourth time in the fourth on fould shot points. Then Janet Collins, a newcomer to PCVS, flipped in a field basket. Dobson promptly tied the score on two successful foul shots

HIGH SCORER

Port Hope's Thompson, was easily the game's best. An effective dribbler she worked into scoring position many times, then used a hook shot for 10 points. Meanwhile the line of Janet Collins, Marg Dobson and Bev Pollock troubled the Ports for PCVS, plus the shooting of Betty Thomson.

Bernice Callan presented the PCVS juniors with their first win this week and again Friday night she was instrumental in providing the win. Working well with Maizie Shearer and Marg Patterson, Callan sparked the PCVS lasses with her ball-handling and scoring. She notched nine points.

From the start fans expected a walk-away, especially by a much larger score than 18-9. The PCVS team started off well but seemed to fall into Port Hope's ragged style. PCVS then faded slowly.

Callan, Shearer and Patterson gave PCVS a 6-1 score in the first quarter. But they faded in the second quarter, allowing the Ports to outscore them 3-2.

But in the second half with the Callan, Shearer and Patterson line leading, PCVS gradually crept ahead, first 12-6 at three-quarters and then outscoring them 4-3 in the fourth.

PCVS Cagers Win Pair Over Oshawa

The COSSA basketball finals in both senior and junior are in sight again this year for PCVS' Garnet and Grey quintets. Bev Goulding's seniors handed Oshawa Central a 58-37 setback while Zoltan Temesy's juniors edged past Central juniors 33-27 Friday night in the Motor City. These victories, coupled with last week's wins over Oshawa CVI, place the PCVS squads as strong favorites to represent the lakeshore district in the COSSA championship tournaments in Toronto February 27.

It took Bev Goulding's quintet a quarter to become accustomed to Central's spacious gym and during that first quarter Garnet and Grey were off in their shooting. But they still managed to hold a one-point lead, 17-16.

But the collegiate team improved rapidly in the second quarter in passing, shooting and scoring. At the same time, their defence stiffened to hold Central to a single point. The result was a 33-17 half-time score in favor of PCVS.

FAIRLY EVEN

The second half was fairly even with PCVS keeping well out in front, 45-38 at three-quarters, and lengthening their lead slightly in the fourth.

Dave Langhorne, throwing two-hand set shots from a 25-foot range, was the PCVS marksman with 12 points. He was followed closely by Boorman with 10, which came mostly on rebounds. Dan Griffin, Bob Allen and Lionel Hempstead also played fair games, Allen being especially good on rebounds in close.

The usual fast-breaking Garnet and Grey Juniors were checked closely from the start by Central and this alone counted for the low score. Central, again on the large floor, managed to make Temesy's cagers play Central's pattern, but the Garnet and Grey still won.

HELD THEIR OWN

Oshawa took an early lead which was overcome by PCVS who took an 18-16 score at the half. From therein the Garnet and Grey held their own.

Terry Roberts, who played an outstanding defensive game for PCVS, also led the scoring by virtue of foul shots. He sank 10 out of 12 foul shots as Central in the close-checking repeatedly fouled him.

Lanky Paul Davis earned only six points (he was PCVS' second high scorer) and was especially good on rebounding. Oshawa's best was Reid with 12 points, all mostly on one-hand push shots from far out, playing off the backboard. Lineups:

Senior game:

Central CI (37)—Varga 5, Yeo 7, Fisher 2, Olynik 2, Reid, Kellar 10, Thomas, Starr 12, Ruskay.

PCVS (58) — Hempstead 8, Boorman 10, Langhorne 12, Graf-stein 6, Griffin 9, Cunningham 3, Ash, Geale 2, Allan 8.

Junior game:

Central CI (27) — Ruskay 2, Rhame 2, Reid 12, Benkiwiski, Zinciewich 1, Nelson 5, Campbell, Yule, Victor 3, Chasczewski 2.

Claims Ice Record

MOSCOW (AP) — Rimma Zhukova, Soviet girl speed-skating ace, today claimed a world record in competition for 3,000 meters.

Pravda said she skated the distance at a mountain rink in five minutes, 13.8 seconds. The paper said the previous record was 7½ seconds slower.

Dodgers Sign Three Pitchers, Roster At 23

BROOKLYN (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers today signed three right-handed pitchers to 1953 contracts to bring the Dodgers' total of satisfied players to 23.

Coming into the fold were John Rutherford, Ben Wade and Joe Landrum.

Rutherford, troubled by a sore arm during much of last season, became a starter after pitching 11 games and finished with a 7-7 record.

Wade started fast last year but hit a slump and finished with a 11-9 record. Landrum started the 1952 season with Fort Worth where he won 15 and lost 10.

Wolves' Coach Objecting Over Protest

Coach George Heron of the midget Wolves in the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association takes strong objection to the PMHA upholding a protest by Coach Pete Fleming of the Shamrocks at a meeting held January 20. The protest was on the grounds that players Garvey and Wilson from Campbellford were not eligible to play for the Wolves as they were also on the OMHA team in Campbellford.

The PMHA executive upheld the protest and took away four points from the Wolves, who had previously defeated Shamrocks 6-2 and 5-1.

Mr. Heron told the Examiner sports editor that he was not advised of this protest meeting and was not on hand to defend himself. He said: "This decision made sure that, if Aces dropped their game to Shamrocks January 22, which they did, we would be out, but good."

ASKS FOR SPACE

Asking for space in the newspaper to present his side of it, he said: "These two players were signed on certificates and accepted and have played all but one or two games. The other team said that had they won January 15 instead of us beating them there would have been no protest. Some sportsmanship. We heard nothing about the meeting until it was over. I am in Peterborough working every day and have lived in the same house for 10 years, yet I was not informed about the protest or meeting."

The Wolves' coach went on to say that every team in the league could protest on the same grounds as players on two or more teams came from Keene or other rural sections. He mentioned Jack Lang and Jim McCarthy, who formerly played for the Wolves.

"SIMON PURE TEAM"

Waxing bitter, Mr. Heron continued: "We have had no hearing, yet a decision is rendered against us, the only team that has stuck to just country boys and the only 'Simon pure' team in the league. The one game Shamrocks beat us they used a player over age, a juvenile who hasn't played a midget game since. I wrote your paper before, seeing what was going on. Events since then prove the truth of my statements at that time. For myself, it means nothing other than the moral effect on boys 14 to 16 to see such unsportsmanlike action taking place without a hearing from our side."

He concluded: "When I mentioned to Walter Smillie about PMHA plans in October he informed me there were none and, if he did not get quick action, Thursday nights would be out for PMHA. I called Ray Harding out of the net and we got busy right away, and thanks to Ray—who worked very hard—and a few more, a benefit game was held and last years' deficit of $600 was paid off to the arena. My thanks to you for letting me explain that without a hearing a good midget team was eliminated."

(Sports Editor's note: There are two sides to all arguments, and perhaps the PMHA will want its side presented in the press.)

WELLINGTON WINS

STIRLING (ENS) — Wellington defeated Stirling 6-2 in a TVL southern division hockey game. It was a speedy, clean and close contest all the way, being 1-1 in the first period but 4-1 for Wellington in second, and they scored two to one in the third. Robson and Wannamaker counted for Stirling; while Partington got two, and Scott, Goyer, Hurst and Twigg one each for the winners.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Quite a raft of bowlers going these weeks, day and night, on several alleys about town. A most popular indoor sport for fall, winter and spring. Indulged in by girls and women besides younger and older men in various club and shop leagues — not to mention individual bowling parties usually held in the afternoons. An effort is being made here to stage a city and district men's competition with the ultimate winner representing this area in all-Ontario bowling competition at the Toronto Sportsmen's Show in March. Winner of that will be rated Ontario bowling champion, getting $500 in cash and a trophy, besides expenses to the Toronto tourney. Info on the deal may be had at Duffus' or Playfair on Monday.

Hotter than a pickpocket at a police convention has been the hockey swirl around here for the past month or more. PMHA and local OHA juniors got arguing over players, PMHA had some internal trouble as expressed in letters to us, Petes and some former Eagles couldn't get together on the senior "B" OHA squad, juniors are kicking on losing players to the TVL, and finally the TVL (northern section) is torn asunder by arguments over player imports. Committee rooms concerned have been kept busier lately than a motor license bureau on the last day for the 1953 car markers. Nor is there any smoke coming yet from the puck pipe of peace in these parts.

An Indignant Official

An official of the junior Oddfellows told us the other night that the majority of the OHA boys were engaged with one team or another in the TVL and were getting too much hockey. "I's not fair to us," he said, "to have them hiking around the district playing hockey against intermediate or senior players, and then reporting tired out for junior OHA games." He said the club didn't want to suspend any of them and keep them out of organized hockey, but neither did the IOOF officials intend to see their play-off chances slip away because of the TVL. "Why doesn't that league," he asked bitterly, "stick to district players and leave these OHA boys alone?" Yes, so far it's been a hefty season up this way for hockey headaches for various clubs.

* * * * * * *

Al Watkins of the OMHA has received this letter from Jack Christie, secretary of the Ontario body: "This will serve to advise you of the decision of the sub-committee which met Jan. 21 to consider applications by Gary Kearns, Gerald Frizzelle and Murray Byrne for releases from the Peterborough juveniles to the juniors. In accordance with the wishes of the juvenile club, as expressed by representative Bert Hill, releases will be granted as of Jan. 21. Mr. Hill also asked that no suspensions be imposed. However, it is the decision of the sub-committee that the players named are guilty of an infraction of the rules, having played in more than three OHA games after Dec. 15 without a release. They will remain suspended until Jan. 26 as a warning that infractions of rules must be punished. The OHA will be notified of this token suspension and a record will be entered on the CAHA permanent record cards of these players. The OHA will also be notified of the actions of the Peterborough junior manager in permitting ineligible players to take part in OHA games."

Keen Senior "B" Scrap

Best crowd yet for a puck match at Civic saw a lively senior "B" scrap last eve as Orillia and Petes battled it out to a 5-all overtime draw. Came from behind twice to sew it up in a game showing, but the Petes on the play should have had that victory in regulation time. A keen contest all the way with both sides stepping fast and laying on the gad a bit. Larry Marshall made the mistake of slashing Doug Hunter and then going back after him for some more. He got some more, all right! Chum Fryia and Keith Montgomery were high point-getters for the Ellis crew in smart efforts, while a number of others came up with a streamlined performance, too. Leonard was as steady as usual, and Hill's checking was really something. If the Petes can just dump Kingston here Monday, they'll be hard to stop the rest of the way in the drive for a playoff spot.

* * * * * * *

No YW girls' cage contests staged last eve for some reason or other. Two boys' games tonight at St. Peter's, starting at seven, Lindsay vs. SPS juniors, followed by Lindsay vs. St. Peter's seniors. Kenner midgets yesterday pulled an upset to beat PCVS 53-35, though earlier in the day Whitby took 37-22 and 44-26 decisions over a couple of youthful Kenner hoop squads. PCVS senior lasses and Port Hope belles tied 15-all here, while Collegiate juniors won 18-9 'gainst their Port Hope rivals. At Oshawa, the senior PCI-ers took Central 58-37 in boys' play, as PCVS junior lads won there 33-27. Whoops, hoops and oops.

Mercs Take Lead With 5-1 Win Over Brants

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The game of "I'm the king of the castle and you're the dirty rascal' still goes on in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Owen Sound is the current king and Stratford Friday night dropped to the role of the rascal.

The two crews have been enjoying this little game for most of the season.

Stratford Indians were on top of the league until the third-place Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen scuttled them 10-3 Friday night and Owen Sound Mercurys took the lead with a 5-1 victory over the fourth-place Brantford Redmen.

SAILORS WIN 4-3

Sarnia Sailors crept up on the Redmen with a 4-3 win over the sixth-place Chatham Maroons.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, the league-leading Sudbury Wolves turned back Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 4-1.

The Stratford - Kitchener game was a rough one. Seventeen penalties, including two match misconducts and five majors, were handed out.

Don Rope paced the winners with three goals. Bob Schnurr and Al Buchanan scored one goal and four assists each. The other goals went to Harvey Jacklin, Don Bauer Howie Lee and Doug Oliver. Dinny Flanagan, Mickey Roth, Doug Verity and Ken Schultz counted for the Indians.

Four goals in the second period gave the Mercurys their victory. Leckie scored a pair for Owen Sound and the others went to McComb, Forslund and McArthur. Hnatiuk tallied for the Redmen.

Chuck Glaab's goal in the third period gave Sarnia Sailors their win. Skippy Frezell and Alf Lewsey scored the other Sarnia goals. Joe Carveth, Jimmy Campbell and Ernie Dick counted for the Maroons.

SPOILS SHUTOUT

Ronnie Rubic spoiled a shutout for Sudbury's Andy Anderson. Len Speck, Tatter McClellan, Nick Tomiuk, and Roly McLenahan scored for the Wolves.

Tonight Owen Sound has an easy opportunity to extend its league lead when it faces the luckless Hamilton Tigers. Stratford meets Sarnia and Chatham is at Kitchener.

In the northern loop North Bay Trappers meet Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds. Sunday the Trappers face the Indians.

Sedgman Nips Kramer Goes Two Matches Up

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Frank Sedgman of Australia overcame Jack Kramer in a blistering 11-9 first-set victory Friday night and went on to an 11-9, 3-6, 6-1 triumph in their tennis match.

The win put Sedgman two matches up on Kramer in their cross-country professional rivalry. The Australian has won seven matches, Kramer five.

Sedgman's former Davis Cup teammate, Ken McGregor, opened the evening's activity with his first victory over Pancho Segura in their series.

McGregor lost the first set 4-6 as Segura won the first four games and coasted in Segura's placements were off the mark thereafter and the Australian won the next two sets 6-3, 6-4.

California Pro Leads In Arizona Tourney

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Jimmy Clark, a strong-hitting professional from California, fired a 67 and led the field through the first round of the $10,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament Friday.

He toured the Phoenix Country Club's 6,578-yard, par-71 course in 67 to lead the field by one stroke.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., led the Canadian contingent with a 39-34 for 73.

Red Wings Aim At Leafs To Extend Slim NHL Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings, Thursday night's whipping by New York Rangers still stinging, are out for revenge. Their target for tonight: Toronto Maple Leafs. The Rangers, languishing in the National Hockey League cellar all season, caught fire and gave the league-leaders an 8-2 flogging.

The loss left the Wings only one point ahead of Montreal Canadiens who narrowed the margin Thursday with a 4-1 victory over the Leafs.

To brace themselves against Detroit, the Leafs have reshuffled their lines. Bobby Hassard, Eric Nesterenko and Gord Hannigan have been reunited after being split up last week by the return of pivot Max Bentley and right winger George Armstrong. Big Chief Armstrong has been slotted with Harry Watson and either Phil Maloney or Tod Sloan.

HABS READY

Montreal is ripe for another victory. That, plus a Detroit loss, would put the Habs on top of the league. They face the third-place Chicago Black Hawks in the Forum without the services of centre Dickie Moore. Moore, who has been absent throughout the season after two operations on a knee, has been sent down to Buffalo Bisons.

A club spokesman said Moore will "have to play himself into shape and if he shows well enough he will recalled at the end of two weeks."

The third game of the night will see the Rangers in Boston.

Three games are on tap Sunday night: Toronto at Chicago, Montreal at Detroit and New York at Boston.

Montreal Rinks Lead Seigniory

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que (CP)—Montreal rinks scored the most victories Friday in the first round of the Seigniory Club's 22nd annual irons competition for the Rankin trophy and registered a win and a tie as the second round began.

In the second round, to be completed today, G. W. H. Wylie, Montreal Thistle, downed L. J. Fraser, Renfrew, Ont., 8-6 and Dr G. P. Kelly, Montreal Outremont, drew 7-7 with Dr. G. S. Morgan, Smiths Falls, Ont.

M.T. Sullivan, Arnprior, defeated A. Grant, Montreal Outremont, 14-5, also in the second round.

G. K. Hodges, Montreal St. George, and R. W. Bates, Carleton Place, Ont., scored a maximum 10 points in their first-round victories, the former defeating Dr J. H. Joyner, Pembroke, Ont., 16-6, and the latter downing L. H. Davis, Ottawa, 17-7.

H. A. Short, Arnprior, defeated J. E. Christensen, Morrisburg, Ont. 14-9 in another first-round contest.

Griffin Hoops 28 In Queen's Win

HAMILTON (CP)—Frank Tindall's Queen's Golden Gaels won their second straight Intercollegiate Senior basketball victory Friday night as they edged McMaster Marauders 72-71. The Gaels defeated McGill Redmen at Kingston Thursday night.

The Gaels, using only eight players, came up with an inspired performance, paced by Don Griffin who pumped in 28 points. John Elder netted 21 points.

McMaster held a 16-15 first-quarter lead but were trailing 35-29 at the half. It was tied 55-55 at the end of the third quarter.

Griffin salted away the decision for the Gaels in the thrill-packed final quarter with eight field goals.

Nationals Cut Jumps To Canada And Back

PHILADELPHIA (CP)—No longer will pro football players of the National Football League be able to jump to a Canadian team, then jump back into the U.S. loop.

Club owners amended the NFL constitution Friday to rule that hereafter a player who reports and plays in Canada first must be cleared of contract-jumping at a hearing. Then he must sign and report to his U.S. club before the first game of the season in order to be eligible to play that season in the NFL.

This would rule out such switches as that made by George Ratterman in 1951 when he played a full season for Montreal, then, after the last game there, returned to finish the U.S. season with New York Yankees.

Grant $200,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—Government plans to grant $200,000 to British Columbia's Empire Games Society were announced Friday night by Premier W. A. C. Bennett. The society had asked the government to put up $500,000 toward the games scheduled to be held in Vancouver in 1954.

Barons Lace St. Louis To Top AHL Standing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons moved into sole possession of the American Hockey League leadership Friday night and Syracuse Warriors climbed into fifth spot ahead of the idle Providence Reds.

The Barons cut down the fourth-place St. Louis Flyers 5-2 at St. Louis. They now are a point ahead of Pittsburgh Hornets.

At Syracuse, the Warriors defeated Hershey Bears 4-2 as Gord Bell turned in a brilliant job of goal-tending.

Ray Ceresino paced Cleveland with two goals. Bob Bailey, Eddie Olsen and Ike Hildebrand tallied the others. Pete Conacher scored both Flyer goals.

Kelly Burnett paced Syracuse with two markers and John Ashley and Sammy Casanato added singles. Arnie Kullman netted both Hershey goals.

VARSITY NIPS McGILL

MONTREAL (CP)—Jack Adams scored three goals Friday night, including the overtime winner, as Toronto Varsity Blues edged the last-place McGill Redmen 4-3 in a Senior Intercollegiate hockey game here. Geoff White tallied the other Toronto marker. Graham Teasdale, Jack Lynch and Pete Constable scored for the Redmen.

Marlies' Singles Give Them Lead On Barrie Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The single points Toronto Marlboros pick up from their tie games can't be overlooked as one of the reasons they are ahead of Barrie Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race.

Friday night the leading Marlboros played their sixth tie game of the season, a 2-2 deadlock with seventh-place Guelph Biltmores. The runner-up Barrie Flyers blanked the eighth-place Windsor Spitfires 3-0 and Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts trounced Montreal Royals 6-2 in an interlocking match.

The Marlboros appeared headed for a win at Guelph but the Bilts fought from behind twice to earn the tie. Wally Maxwell and Billy Harris counted for the Dukes, George Whyte and Billy McCreary for Guelph.

Lavi Purola took over the goalie's job for Guelph when Doug Lessor was taken to hospital for an appendectomy a few hours before game time. Whyte joined him after being hit in the eye in the third period.

Tonight's Ontario action will see Toronto St. Michael's at Oshawa Generals and Kitchener-Waterloo at Galt Black Hawks. St. Catharines Teepees will play at Three Rivers in an interlocking game.

Sunday Oshawa faces the Marlboros and Galt, St. Michael's in a doubleheader at Maple Leaf Gardens. Interlocking action will see Montreal Royals at Windsor and St. Catharines at Montreal Canadiens.

Quebec Citadelles are matched with Three Rivers Reds in the Quebec loop.

Mercs Take Lead With 5-1 Win Over Brants

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The game of "I'm the king of the castle and you're the dirty rascal' still goes on in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Owen Sound is the current king and Stratford Friday night dropped to the role of the rascal

The two crews have been enjoying this little game for most of the season.

Stratford Indians were on top of the league until the third-place Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen scuttled them 10-3 Friday night and Owen Sound Mercurys took the lead with a 5-1 victory over the fourth-place Brantford Redmen.

SAILORS WIN 4-3

Sarnia Sailors crept up on the Redmen with a 4-3 win over the sixth-place Chatham Maroons.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, the league-leading Sudbury Wolves turned back Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 4-1.

The Stratford - Kitchener game was a rough one. Seventeen penalties, including two match misconducts and five majors, were handed out.

Don Rope paced the winners with three goals. Bob Schnurr and Al Buchanan scored one goal and four assists each. The other goals went to Harvey Jacklin, Don Bauer Howie Lee and Doug Oliver. Dinny Flanagan, Mickey Roth, Doug Verity and Ken Schultz counted for the Indians.

Four goals in the second period gave the Mercurys their victory. Leckie scored a pair for Owen Sound and the others went to McComb, Forslund and McArthur. Hnatiuk tallied for the Redmen.

Chuck Glaab's goal in the third period gave Sarnia Sailors their win. Skippy Frezell and Alf Lewsey scored the other Sarnia goals. Joe Carveth, Jimmy Campbell and Ernie Dick counted for the Maroons.

SPOILS SHUTOUT

Ronnie Rubic spoiled a shutout for Sudbury's Andy Anderson. Len Speck, Tatter McClellan, Nick Tomiuk, and Roly McLenahan scored for the Wolves.

Tonight Owen Sound has an easy opportunity to extend its league lead when it faces the luckless Hamilton Tigers. Stratford meets Sarnia and Chatham is at Kitchener.

In the northern loop North Bay Trappers meet Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds. Sunday the Trappers face the Indians.

Sedgman Nips Kramer Goes Two Matches Up

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Frank Sedgman of Australia overcame Jack Kramer in a blistering 11-9 first-set victory Friday night and went on to an 11-9, 3-6, 6-1 triumph in their tennis match.

The win put Sedgman two matches up on Kramer in their cross-country professional rivalry. The Australian has won seven matches, Kramer five.

Sedgman's former Davis Cup teammate, Ken McGregor, opened the evening's activity with his first victory over Pancho Segura in their series.

McGregor lost the first set 4-6 as Segura won the first four games and coasted in Segura's placements were off the mark thereafter and the Australian won the next two sets 6-3, 6-4.

California Pro Leads In Arizona Tourney

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Jimmy Clark, a strong-hitting professional from California, fired a 67 and led the field through the first round of the $10,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament Friday.

He toured the Phoenix Country Club's 6,578-yard, par-71 course in 67 to lead the field by one stroke.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., led the Canadian contingent with a 39-34 for 73.

Red Wings Aim At Leafs To Extend Slim NHL Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings, Thursday night's whipping by New York Rangers still stinging, are out for revenge: Their target for tonight: Toronto Maple Leafs. The Rangers, languishing in the National Hockey League cellar all season, caught fire and gave the league-leaders an 8-2 flogging.

The loss left the Wings only one point ahead of Montreal Canadiens who narrowed the margin Thursday with a 4-1 victory over the Leafs.

To brace themselves against Detroit, the Leafs have reshuffled their lines. Bobby Hassard, Eric Nesterenko and Gord Hannigan have been reunited after being split up last week by the return of pivot Max Bentley and right winger George Armstrong. Big Chief Armstrong has been slotted with Harry Watson and either Phil Maloney or Tod Sloan.

HABS READY

Montreal is ripe for another victory. That, plus a Detroit loss, would put the Habs on top of the league. They face the third-place Chicago Black Hawks in the Forum without the services of centre Dickie Moore. Moore, who has been absent throughout the season after two operations on a knee, has been sent down to Buffalo Bisons.

A club spokesman said Moore will "have to play himself into shape and if he shows well enough he will recalled at the end of two weeks."

The third game of the night will see the Rangers in Boston.

Three games are on tap Sunday night: Toronto at Chicago, Montreal at Detroit and New York at Boston.

Montreal Rinks Lead Seigniory

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que (CP)—Montreal rinks scored the most victories Friday in the first round of the Seigniory Club's 22nd annual irons competition for the Rankin trophy and registered a win and a tie as the second round began.

In the second round, to be completed today, G. W. H. Wylie, Montreal Thistle, downed L. J. Fraser, Renfrew, Ont., 8-6 and Dr G. P. Kelly, Montreal Outremont, drew 7-7 with Dr. G. S. Morgan, Smiths Falls, Ont.

M.T. Sullivan, Arnprior, defeated A. Grant, Montreal Outremont, 14-5, also in the second round.

G. K. Hodges, Montreal St. George, and R. W. Bates, Carleton Place, Ont., scored a maximum 10 points in their first-round victories, the former defeating Dr. J. H. Joyner, Pembroke, Ont., 16-6, and the latter downing L. H. Davis, Ottawa, 17-7.

H. A. Short, Arnprior, defeated J. E. Christensen, Morrisburg, Ont. 14-9 in another first-round contest.

Griffin Hoops 28 In Queen's Win

HAMILTON (CP)—Frank Tindall's Queen's Golden Gaels won their second straight Intercollegiate Senior basketball victory Friday night as they edged McMaster Marauders 72-71. The Gaels defeated McGill Redmen at Kingston Thursday night.

The Gaels, using only eight players, came up with an inspired performance, paced by Don Griffin who pumped in 28 points. John Elder netted 21 points.

McMaster held a 16-15 first-quarter lead but were trailing 35-29 at the half. It was tied 55-55 at the end of the third quarter.

Griffin salted away the decision for the Gaels in the thrill-packed final quarter with eight field goals.

Nationals Cut Jumps To Canada And Back

PHILADELPHIA (CP)—No longer will pro football players of the National Football League be able to jump to a Canadian team, then jump back into the U.S. loop.

Club owners amended the NFL constitution Friday to rule that hereafter a player who reports and plays in Canada first must be cleared of contract-jumping at a hearing. Then he must sign and report to his U.S. club before the first game of the season in order to be eligible to play that season in the NFL.

This would rule out such switches as that made by George Ratterman in 1951 when he played a full season for Montreal, then, after the last game there, returned to finish the U.S. season with New York Yankees.

Grant $200,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—Government plans to grant $200,000 to British Columbia's Empire Games Society were announced Friday night by Premier W. A. C. Bennett. The society had asked the government to put up $500,000 toward the games scheduled to be held in Vancouver in 1954.

Barons Lace St. Louis To Top AHL Standing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons moved into sole possession of the American Hockey League leadership Friday night and Syracuse Warriors climbed into fifth spot ahead of the idle Providence Reds.

The Barons cut down the fourth-place St. Louis Flyers 5-2 at St. Louis. They now are a point ahead of Pittsburgh Hornets.

At Syracuse, the Warriors defeated Hershey Bears 4-2 as Gord Bell turned in a brilliant job of goal-tending.

Ray Ceresino paced Cleveland with two goals. Bob Bailey, Eddie Olsen and Ike Hildebrand tallied the others. Pete Conacher scored both Flyer goals.

Kelly Burnett paced Syracuse with two markers and John Ashley and Sammy Casanato added singles. Arnie Kullman netted both Hershey goals.

VARSITY NIPS McGILL

MONTREAL (CP)—Jack Adams scored three goals Friday night, including the overtime winner, as Toronto Varsity Blues edged the last-place McGill Redmen 4-3 in a Senior Intercollegiate hockey game here. Geoff White tallied the other Toronto marker. Graham Teasdale, Jack Lynch and Pete Constable scored for the Redmen.

Marlies' Singles Give Them Lead On Barrie Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The single points Toronto Marlboros pick up from their tie games can't be overlooked as one of the reasons they are ahead of Barrie Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race.

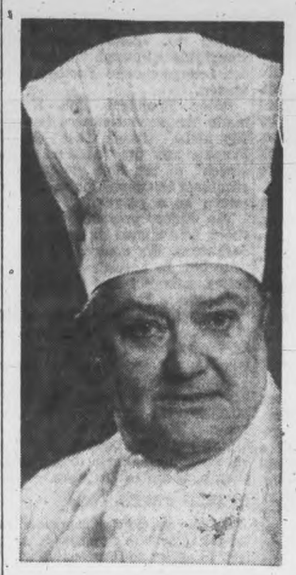
Friday night the leading Marlboros played their sixth tie game of the season, a 2-2 deadlock with seventh-place Guelph Biltmores. The runner-up Barrie Flyers blanked the eighth-place Windsor Spitfires 3-0 and Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts trounced Montreal Royals 6-2 in an interlocking match.

The Marlboros appeared headed for a win at Guelph but the Bilts fought from behind twice to earn the tie. Wally Maxwell and Billy Harris counted for the Dukes, George Whyte and Billy McCreary for Guelph.

Lavi Purola took over the goalie's job for Guelph when Doug Lessor was taken to hospital for an appendectomy a few hours before game time. Whyte joined him after being hit in the eye in the third period.

Tonight's Ontario action will see Toronto St. Michael's at Oshawa Generals and Kitchener-Waterloo at Galt Black Hawks. St. Catharines Teepees will play at Three Rivers in an interlocking game.

Sunday Oshawa faces the Marlboros and Galt, St. Michael's in a doubleheader at Maple Leaf Gardens. Interlocking action will see Montreal Royals at Windsor and St Catharines at Montreal Canadiens.



Quebec Citadelles are matched with Three Rivers Reds in the Quebec loop.

Lindsay Takes Junior Go Over The Links

LINDSAY — (ENS) — In a speedy OHA junior "B" game that wound up on a rough note here Friday night, Lindsay defeated Peterborough Oddfellows by 6-2 before 500 fans. The victory hoisted Lindsay into a third-place tie with the IOOF crew, as Belleville continues on top, with Kingston second. Oshawa is fifth and Cobourg in last place.

Referee Doug Calhoun was kept busy, especially in the second period and more so even in the third. He handed out a total of 25 minor and five major penalties, Lindsay drawing 15 of the minors and three of the majors. The latter went to Graham, McGill and Hutton for fighting, while the Peterborough fighters were Ferguson and Twist. Most of the third period was played with both teams shorthanded, often with two aside sitting out sentences.

LAPSE IN FIRST

Oddfellows lapsed in the first period and Lindsay came up with a driving game and good forechecking to take a 3-0 lead. They still dominated in the second to make it 6-0 at period's end. The visitors drove back in the third for the only two goals of the game. They were minus Kearns, Frizzelle and Byrne in this contest, and were a bit off defensively and a few times in goal. Coyle was lost to them in the third with a banged-up nose, after playing a good game till then.

Best for the winners were Goalie Reg Truax, along with Art Truax, Packer, Graham and Ron Teel up front; strong on defence were McGill and Crawford. For the losers, Wilson and Sullivan went well at the blue line, with McDougall, Twist and Coyle the pick of the forwards. Teams:

IOOF: Goal, Delahaye; defence, Wilson and Sullivan; centre, Twist; wings, Coyle and Ferguson; alternates, McCracken, Floyd, McDougall, Snape, Jones, Pue, Doris and Gardner.

Lindsay: Goal, R. Truax; defence, W. Williams and O'Neill; centre, Hutton; wings, Packer and A. Truax; alternates, Graham, H. Williams, Gibson, McGill, Crawford, Chidley, R. Teel and G. Teel.

Referee, D. Calhoun; linesman, D. Dart.

Young's Point Wins

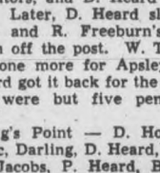
YOUNG'S POINT (ENS) — In a lively hockey game at Apsley, Young's Point won 7-4 over the northern boys. D. Jeff scored first for Apsley and W. Tucker added one shortly. D. Heard from P. Heard got one for the Point in the same period. S. Jeff tallied the only one in the second for Apsley. J. Darling and then R. Freeburn scored in the third for the visitors, and D. Heard made it 4-3. Later, D. Heard slapped in one and R. Freeburn's shot went in off the post. W. Tucker added one more for Apsley, but D. Heard got it back for the Point. There were but five penalties. Teams:

Young's Point — D. Hogarth, McIsaac, Darling, D. Heard, Freeburn, Jacobs, P. Heard, Barber, J. Dunford, Jones, E. Dunford, Wilson, Garrett, Clark, W. Heard, Godfrey, Tedford, C. Hogarth.

Apsley — Everett, Reddick, Earnshaw, Jeff, W. Tucker, G. Tucker, J. Reddick, A. Wagner, H. Wagner, Wilson, Lean, S. Jeff, McCagherty, O'Brien.

Peewee Hawks Win

Nichols got two goals, singles going to Smith, Outwater, Pulkinghorn, Ruttan, Morton, Olmstead, Elliott, Doughty, and one each to Outwater, Pulkinghorn, Ruttan and Copping. Teams:



Hawks: Smillie, Gatfield, Smith, Outwater, Pulkinghorn, Ruttan, Morton, Olmstead, Elliott, Doughty, Moffat, Morley, Copping, Burns, Nichols.

Hiawatha Gets EPL Game Against Keene

KEENE — (ENS)—Hiawatha downed Keene 7-2 here Friday night in a rough EPL hockey game before a hefty crowd. The ice was heavy and the referees lenient to let a lot of rough stuff go. Killingbeck drew five penalties in the tussle. Nine of the penalties went to the winners and seven to the losers.

Cowie and Stock counted in the first period for Hiawatha, and G. Sellaby and Stock made it 4-0 at the end of the second, Cowie aiding on one more. Keene fought back in the third, Colby and Whalen scoring with an assist each going to Whalen and Coldby, and two to Davidson. However, Anderson, Paudash and Cowie scored to clinch it for Hiawatha, Cowie helping on one. Stock and Cowie shone for the victors, with the Whalen-Davidson-Coldby line best for Keene. Teams:

Hiawatha: Macdonald, Thompson, Anderson, Stock, Cowie, Paudash, Musgrave, Killingbeck, L. Sellaby, G. Sellaby, Crowley, Close, W. Steenburgh, Morgan.

Keene: Mackness, Houle, Kimball, Whalen, Davidson, Coldby, Locke, Steenburgh, McCarthy, Kempt, Bethune, McFarlane, Adamson, Shearer.

Referees—J. Richlark and S. Heffernan.

Warsaw plays in Keene on Monday.

Wolves Triumph

The Wolves won their midget PMHA game 7-0 over Norwood here on Thursday night. Apparently an inexperienced scorekeeper handled the hockey card for this game and had the teams confused, since it was shown on the card that Norwood won by 7-0, which was incorrect. It was just a case of completely reversing the figures, using the numbers of Norwood players when Wolves scored.

Scorers for the Wolves were Gary Carr and Bob Heron with two markers each, and Johnny Johnston, Jack McCracken and Winky Heffernan with one apiece. The corrected figures were supplied by Coach George Heron of the midget Wolves.

J. Goodson Leads

J. Goodson had high single of 346 and G. Walton top three of 813 this week in the men's City Bowling League. Madill & Post led teams with 3,626 pinnage, Clapper's 1,286 being best single game. Six points were taken by Empress over Sunoco, Madill & Post against Payne's, and Monumental over IUE-CIO. The 4-2 wins went to Clapper's over McGillis, and to Shockey's over Royal York.

Good singles were: S. Richardson 341, P. Pryde 340, W. Boon 311, V. Ferguson 330 and J. Playford 336. Neat triples included: J. Playford 810, J. Heron 799, C. Nichols 787, V. Ferguson 776, V. Boon 756, J. Frost 777 and P. Pryde 802.

Mounts And Liners Win Bush Loop Tilts

MILLBROOK —(ENS) — Mount Pleasant took a 9-2 win over Millbrook in a mid-week Bush League fixture. The locals tried hard but couldn't match the goal-getting power of the Mountaineers who played classy hockey. Millbrook has a line-up well studded with players of junior age and, while they often find themselves outclassed in Bush League competition, the experience they are acquiring will pay dividends in future seasons. For Mt. Pleasant, Dracup, Armstrong and Evans each bagged a pair and singles were netted by B. Evans, Thornton and Jamieson. Guthrie and Lunn did the Millbrook scoring. Two minor penalties were handed out: one to each team.

Mt. Pleasant: Goal, Hickson; def. J. Evans, Fisher; forwards, Dracup, Armstrong, Jamieson; alternates, Lowes, Parker, B. Evans, Carr, Bryans, Thornton, Crawford.

Millbrook: Goal, Stinson; defence Smith, Edmonds; forwards, Lunn, Wright, Ginn; alternates, Powell, Blair, Lowery, Olan, Kent, Guthrie, Kinsman.

A FAST GAME

The second item on the hockey bill-of-fare was a tastier one. Scott's Corners' hopes of dethroning the Fourth Liners received a jolt when they took the short end of a 4-1 score in a fast, thrilling contest. Both teams were going all out to annex this important one (with undisputed title to first place) and the issue was in doubt until well into the third period. The first stanza was scoreless when Hehn and Hubbeard handled everything tossed at them. Then Allan Hutchison, a polished performer around the nets, put his team in the lead with two goals. In the third, Earl Hutchison added a third and Ted McDowell, in one of those "if at first you don't succeed, etc." affairs finally sank the puck after he and Hehn ping-ponged it back and forth about four times. The losers were charged with five of the eight penalties handed out.

Scott's Corners: Goal, Hehn; def. Dawson, Conroy; forwards, Alberico, Harris, Stevens; alternates, Seabrook, Dunn, Minnie, Hall, Little, Larock, Shaughnessy, and Galley.

Fourth Line: Goal, Hubbeard, def. Earl Hutchison, Agnew; forwards, Walling, McDowell, Hutchison; alternates, Greenly, Fallis, Thompson, Fallis, Olan.

Filchock Signs To Coach Regina Roughies

REGINA (CP)—Frank Joseph Filchock, 36-year-old deposed coach of Edmonton's Western football champion Eskimos, has been signed to coach Saskatchewan Roughriders through the 1953 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Rider President Bob Kramer made the announcement late Friday night, stating that Flinging Frankie was the "unanimous choice" of the club executive as successor to Glenn Dobbs, who will return as a player.

The Rider president said Filchock was signed at a meeting in Saskatoon. His contract is for one year but, in accordance with club policy, salary terms were not announced.

Filchock was chosen from a field of 10 men considered by the club. Of the 10, seven were Americans, but Kramer mentioned no names.

Filchock, a graduate of Indiana University who came to Canada after several years with Washington and New York in the United States National League, last year led Eskimos to their first Western championship in 30 years.

OUSTED AFTER LOSS

He was ousted about a month after the Grey Cup game, which Esks lost to Toronto Argonauts 23-11, over a contract dispute with the Edmonton management.

Flinging Frankie was one of the first "big-name" American players to come to Canada. He started in Canadian Football with Hamilton, then in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, in 1947 and in 1949 switched to Montreal of the Big Four Union and quarterbacked Alouettes to the Grey Cup title. The same year he was chosen Canada's top male athlete.

In 1951, he went to Edmonton to understudy Annis Stukus for the Eskimos coaching job and last year took command in a playing-coach capacity.

Filchock had been in Regina for several days conferring with Rider officials. Prior to his visit, Les Lear, former Calgary Stampeder mentor, had talked with the Saskatchewan executive.

Kramer said the qualifications of eight applicants were carefully studied. Two other coaches had been approached. Other than Lear, the only names mentioned were Stukus, who guided Esks from 1949 through 1951, and Joe Stydahar, former Los Angeles Rams' mastermind.

3 Little Words All No To Hank From Hurlers

CLEVELAND (AP) — General Manager Hank Greenberg of Cleveland got another "no" Friday in his efforts to sign the most famous pitching big three in the majors—Early Wynn, Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia.

Garcia firmly refused Greenberg's salary offer Friday and made it unanimous. The day before it was Lemon, and the day before that it was Wynn.

Together, it is understood, they want a total of about $110,000. It is believed Greenberg wants to hold this to under $100,000.

All three pitchers each won 20 games or more for the Indians last season.

Kenner Midgets Pull Upset On PCVS Squad

Kenner Collegiate midgets, coached by Jack Cullis, pulled the upset of the young city league season Friday night by whipping Ted Cranfield's PCVS quintette 53-35. The Kenner Kids had to win to stay in the running for league honors. But in the other afternoon games at Kenner Whitby High chalked up two victories, the lakeshore bantams defeating the Kenner midget seconds 37-22 and Whitby juniors defeating Kenner bantams 44-26.

Coach Cullis was enthusiastic in his comments on the Kenner quintette, saying, "the boys have really come along quickly." Prior to the Friday game PCVS had a perfect record, two wins and no defeats.

During the first quarter Kenner went ahead 11-8 as they took long shots, spreading the PCVS defence. Then in the second quarter with the PCVS defence wide, Kenner drove down the centre, building thir lead to 28-18.

SWITCHED DEFENCE

PCVS switched to a zone defence in the third quarter and bothered Kenner's offence. But again Kenner proceeded to spread the defence apart and in the final quarter, after a 37-24 three-quarter score, pretty well controlled the play again.

Bob Malby led the scoring with 17 points, followed by teammate Ben Floyd and PCVS' Brian Bell each with 10.

To make the afternoon games more evenly matched, Kenner arranged to have its midget second team play Whitby school bantams and the strong Kenner Kids play Whitby juniors. The results were expected, but the games were more evenly matched than they would have been if juniors had played juniors, and bantams had played bantams.

Whitby bantams led Kenner's midgets throughout the game, 12-5 at the first, 24-12 at the half, and 31-20 at three-quarters. But on the actual play, Kenner had an edge, 51-33 in the shooting, but Whitby scored on 48 per cent of their shots.

Norm Erskine's COSSA bantams were slightly outclassed in the first game. Whitby High's juniors outshot the Kenner Kids 76-36, but only scored on 22 per cent. Even then Whitby held an edge throughout 12-10 at the first quarter, 19-13 at the half, and 32-23 at three-quarters.

Ken Watson's Curling

NO RIDERS PLEASE

One thing I have observed in watching hundreds of American curlers in Minnesota and Wisconsin is that there are no riding sliders among them. Why? . . . I thought that over a long time before realizing that in the milder climate further south, they have to play many games on wet ice when the weather turns warm. Have you ever tried to throw a brisk "runner" on wet, sloppy ice? Then try to throw a really fast rock by riding out with the stone first.

Many American curlers have developed a beautiful swing delivery as a result of their experience on soft ice, and in most cases they are deadly on fast take-out shots. It would therefore sound logical that a riding slider would be completely helpess on wet ice and similarly he would not be too effective where a fast shot was required. When I select a player for my team, I want a man who can perform well under all conditions.

The second big complaint about a rider is that he is a pusher and he frequently hooks or slices his stone as he gives the handle a twist when he releases it. The headaches he gives himself and his skip by being wide or narrow of the broom so often, you think would make him see the error of his ways, but no . . . he goes on in blissful ignorance—probably blaming his misses on the ice, his skip or his bad luck. Of course, the law of averages will grant him a few games where he is "red hot", but in the long run he will rarely see the curling limelight, and his opposing skips will be grateful for the occasional rest he gives their aggravated ulcers.

Aussie Runner Fails In Bid To Run Four-Minute Mile

PERTH, Australia (AP)—John Landy's heralded try for the world's first four-minute mile failed today.

Running on a grass track for the first time, the 22-year-old Aussie was timed in 4:04.2, well short of the world mile mark of 4:01.4 set by Sweden's Gunder Haegg in 1945.

A record turnout of 12,000 spectators at Leederville's oval grass track was disappointed in Landy's failure even to approach his own times of 4:02.2 and 4:02.8 during the last month at Melbourne.

Landy competed in perfect summer weather. The noon temperature reached 85 degrees, but fell as a breeze off the ocean freshened.

Running from the No. 1 lane against eight others, Landy did not promise a spectacular run.

The student of agricultural science first attracted the attention of the track world Dec. 13 when he ran the mile in 4:02.1 at Olympic Park in Melbourne.

THIRD BEST

This was the third fastest time ever recorded for the distance and was only 7-10ths of a second slower than Haegg's world record. However, the mark goes into the record books as 4:02.2 since all races above 1,000 metres must be timed in fifths because of the belief that 10-second watches become inaccurate after two minutes.

Three weeks after that run, which broke the Australian record of 4:09, the curly-haired meteor ran a 4:02.8 mile under miserable conditions.

The track was hard, unwatered and untended for a week. The day was windy and raw. Landy himself was troubled with a cold. And he had practically no opposition.

Young Landy has developed into the world's premier miler through the efforts of coach Percy Cerutty.

Under Cerutty's tutelage, Landy has cut his mile time from 4:31.6 in a year's time.

Outsider Beats Wilt, Gehrmann In Mile Run

PHILADELPHIA (CP)—Outsider Fred Dwyer of Villanova defeated two of the United States' top milers Friday night as the Philadelphia Inquirer track games saw four records cracked. Dwyer's win in 4:09.7 over Fred Wilt and Don Gehrmann was a meet record.

Harrison Dillard set a world indoor mark by skimming the 50-yard high hurdles in six seconds flat. The Olympic hurdles titlist cut one-tenth second from the record held jointly by himself, Fred Wolcott and Bob Wright.

Lieut. Ken Wiesner of the U.S. Navy set a world indoor standard in the high jump when he leaped six feet, 9½ inches. The former mark of six feet, 9¼ inches was held by Ed Burke of Marquette in 1937.

Mal Whitfield of New York shaved more than a second off the meet record in winning the 600-yard run in 1:11.9.

Rose, Seixas Gain S. Wales Net Finals

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Australia's erratic southpaw, Mervyn Rose, gained the finals of the South Australian tennis championships Friday.

Seixas, captain of the U.S. Davis Cup forces, eliminated Australia's Rex Hartwig, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4. Rose ousted his 18-year-old fellow countryman, Lewis Hoad, 6-3, 7-5, 6-0.

The singles championships will be contested Monday with doubles play taking the stage today.

Ti-Cats Opposed In Drive To Cut Imports

TORONTO (CP)—Two moves aimed at cutting down the high cost of operation are expected to be made today when the Big Four Football Union holds its annual meeting.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, a club that has always been rich in Canadian talent, have indicated they will try to have the league agree to cut down the American import limit from eight to six players.

The Tiger-Cats will run into opposition from the other clubs on this, but another reported move to adopt a standard player contract with a maximum salary limit probably will meet with general approval.

Frank Bliss, president of the Tiger-Cats, said this week the Big Four should cut down the import limit regardless of what stand the Western Canada clubs take.

Chances of success of such a proposal are slim since Toronto Argonauts are the only team which has the Canadian players to match those of the Tiger-Cats. Both Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes have always found it difficult to develop Canadian players to keep pace with the two other clubs.

ALS AGIN IT

In the case of the Alouettes, who have finished last the last two seasons, the point is particularly important. The Al's may even try to raise the import limit.

Reduction of the import number would also be a definite disadvantage for the Big Four unless it can get the West to go along with the move. There has been no indication that the West would sanction such action.

The move to keep players' salaries at a reasonable level and at the same time wipe out East-West price warfare is reported to meet with the approval of both Eastern and Western football officials.

The possibility of an interlocking schedule with the Western Conference will be discussed, but Big Four officials are reported only lukewarm to such a proposal.

Big Four club officials met Friday to make their annual draft choices of the leading intercollegiate players and Montreal, as the tail-end team, had first choice of the graduating collegians. The Alouettes picked Doug McNichol, six-foot, four-inch lineman from the University of Western Ontario.

Ottawa, with the second choice, nabbed Joe Harris, University of Toronto lineman, and Argonauts claimed Geoff Crain, triple-threat quarterback from McGill University. Halfback Ray Truant of Western was chosen by Hamilton, which had the last pick as the leading team last season.

Of the 40 college players selected—10 by each team—11 were from Queen's, eight from the U. of T. and seven each from McGill, Western and McMaster universities.

The following players were drafted from Queen's University:

By Montreal: John Varcoe, middle; Don Ball, half.

By Ottawa: Stu Kennedy, middle; Tony Arnoldi, outside; Ken Atwood, half; Pete Johnston, inside; Bill Gatfield, half; W. Waddell, inside.

By Argonauts: Don Griffin, half; Ian Fraser, middle.

By Hamilton: Jack Sisson, half.

Tray Given to Former Mayor May Be Returned To City

The silver tray which citizens of Peterborough gave to H. H. Smith on his departure for Winnipeg 68 years ago may be returned to the descendants of its donors for future keeping at the City Hall.

That is the proposal of his grandson, H. G. H. Smith, Q.C., in an interesting letter from Winnipeg to City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, Q.C. The text of the letter explains the circumstances prompting of this gift to the city as follows:

"Upon looking over some family heirlooms recently I came across a silver tray bearing the following inscription:

"Presented to H. H. Smith, Esq., by the citizens of Peterborough on the occasion of his leaving that town to take up his residence in Winnipeg, July 1885.'

"I nderstand that my grandfather, whose full name was Henry Hall Smith had prior to that time been a mayor of Peterborough, and that this presentation was made to him when he came west as Commissioner of Crown Lands. At that time, he brought with him his family, including my father who was an only child, and who was then seventeen years of age.

DIED IN 1928

"My grandfather died in 1928, and my father at that time acquired possession of the tray. He died in 1940, and I now have it, though it has been under wraps for some time. As I have no son, but only one daughter, it is likely that the tray may disappear as there will be no one here who will be interested in preserving it.

"It occurred to me that possibly this tray might be of interest to the civic authorities in Peterborough, or possibly for the museum, if you have one, as it is definitely a link with the old days.

"My grandfather, as you may possibly know, was Conservative organizer under Sir John A. Macdonald for Ontario, and after coming west was his confidential agent here. At the time of his death he left in the neighborhood of one hundred and fifty personal letters from Macdonald, which were written to him and to his father, the Honorable Sidney Smith formerly of Cobourg, and these letters also descended to my father.

"After the death of my father, I turned them over to the Archives in Ottawa, and I understand that they have proved of some interest to students of that period.

"Would you be good enough to make enquiries and advise me whether there is any organization or individual in Peterborough who would be interested in having this tray. I should prefer to see it taken care of in this manner, rather than risk its loss after I am out of the picture, as I do not know of anyone here who would be interested. If, however, it is not of interest to anyone there, do not hesitate to let me know as my last thought is to wish off on anyone a white elephant.

HISTORICAL INTEREST

"However, I think it has perhaps some historical interest in view of my grandfather's association with Peterborough in the early days, and it may be that it is something which your city would be glad to have."

Mr. Huycke has suggested in a letter to City Clerk Outram, that the council would, as Mr. Smith writes, be glad to receive the citizens' gift of 68 years ago.

"It occurred to me that the tray might be placed in the Mayor's reception room, and used at receptions held from time to time. If it is felt that that room is not the proper place for it, it might be placed in the Public Library building, and the Historical Society might take care of it."

Mr. Huycke also recommends that a further brief explanatory inscription identify the silver plate as having been presented to the city by the grandson of its original recipient.

KEEPING IN TOUCH with home, LAC Bob Reid, of Peterborough, reads his Examiner, received at the RCAF station at North Luffenham, Lincolnshire, England. Local newspapers provide pleasant hours of reading for many Canadian servicemen posted abroad. Another witness to this is LAC Frank Dodd, of Edmonton, reading a copy of the Edomnton Journal. LAC Reid's home is at 638 Park St.

"Uncle Mike" Jacobs Dies, Stricken At Hialeah Track

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mike Jacobs, a fabulous figure in boxing until his retirement six years ago, died this morning in Mt. Sinai Hospital.

William Glick, public relations director at the hospital, said the 73-year-old former promoter died of a "coronary insufficiency."

Jacobs, who lived in Miami Beach, was taken to the hospital Friday after becoming ill while attending the races at Hialeah race track.

"Uncle Mike" who was considered the absolute ruler of boxing through his control of Joe Louis, during the latter's reign as heavyweight champion, suffered a stroke in New York six years ago. Thereafter he gradually retired from active participation in his 20th Century Sporting Club. Several years ago he sold out to Jim Norris and the current International Boxing Club.

"It didn't seem like anything at first," Mrs. Jacobs explained. "We took him home from the track and then called a doctor."

"Uncle Mike" was taken to the hospital and placed in an oxygen tent. He gradually sank during the night.

Jacobs was linked not only with Louis, but also with Tex Rickard, the glamorous figure of the 1920s who promoted fights in the grand manner.

Just as Rickard's death in 1929 marked the end of one era in boxing, so did the retirement of "Uncle Mike" close another chapter in pugilistic history.

Mike's name did not become known to the boxing public until five or six years after Rickard's death, but the two had been closely associated as far back as 1921, when Rickard promoted the famed title bout between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier at Boyle's 30 acres in New Jersey.

Purchases of life insurance from the London Life reached all-time record for Canada

The life insurance purchased by Canadians from the London Life Insurance Company in 1952 reached the new high mark of over $339,000,000—an increase of $27,000,000 over the year before.

Life insurance in force increased during the year by a record amount, $273,000,000. The insurance on the lives of London Life policyholders now exceeds $2,482,000,000, not including annuities or amounts reinsured with other companies. Today, well over a million Canadians are insured under the London Life's Ordinary, Industrial, Group Life, and Group Sickness and Accident plans.

These gains indicate growing appreciation on the part of people in all walks of life for the manner in which life insurance can provide money for the future. They also reflect the confidence of Canadians in the London Life's carefully selected and well trained representatives, and in the ability of the Company—proved by its record throughout the years—to provide life insurance at low cost to the policyholder.

OTHER 1952 HIGHLIGHTS

- Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries were $24,000,000, with payments to living policyholders nearly two and one-half times the amount paid in death claims.
- New mortgage loans were almost $34,000,000. A large proportion of this money was used to provide new homes for people across Canada.
- Assets increased by $34,000,000, and now total $409,000,000.

For a more detailed account of the London Life's activities during 1952, write to the Company's head office, or call one of the branch offices for a copy of the annual report booklet.

Jesus Taught Humility

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Every now and then one has occasion to see how deeply the common, or even prevalent, ideas of character and conduct differ from what Jesus of Nazareth taught and exemplified in His own life.

We hear a man spoken of as a "Good hater" as if this were a commendation; and a man, a race, or a nation is spoken of as "proud."

What did Jesus mean by humility? And what, if any, are its limitations. There is no doubt that Jesus did teach humility and that He found it so hard to instill the lesson of it into His disciples that He stooped to menial tasks such as washing their feet to make the lesson plain.

What does it mean to be humble? We know that it does not mean the obsequiousness that ever since the days of Charles Dickens has been symbolized in his notorious character, Uriah Heep.

It might be said that a person who is truly humble never grovels or makes a parade or profession of his humility. He may be none the less humble because he stands erect, has a keen sense of his integrity of life and purpose and puts a proper value upon himself as a person and individual.

Jesus stressed this value of the individual as much as He stressed the need of humility. True humility is not in any sense self-deprecation.

I think it might be said that when people are proud they are usually proud of the wrong things. They are proud of their birth. It is a fortunate thing for them to have been born into a great or good family but, after all, it is a fortunate circumstance with which they had nothing to do.

They may be proud of the wealth which they had no part in creating. They may be proud of their citizenship in a free country. Being born to citizenship is a fortunate thing, but it is not of their own achievement. A naturalized citizen, through a more obvious matter of choice, might possibly have more reasonable ground for pride.

On the other hand, there is surely just and reasonable pride in seeking to live worthily of a great heritage of birth or wealth; and a just and reasonable pride of citizenship if one is striving worthily to serve one's country and one's fellowmen in all the ways that duty demands of a citizen, and that privilege makes possible.

The essence of true humility is teachableness. And this finds its manifestation as much in secular life as in religious experience. It is illustrated in the scientist, or philosopher, to whom a know-it-all attitude is fatal so far as the quest of further knowledge is concerned. The humility of an open, expectant mind underlies all progress, even where strong conviction guides the way.

So, in the life of the soul the humble open mind and heart are the gateway to the knowledge of God and the discovery of His will.

CHINESE NEW YEAR—Peace Yuk Pung Yuen, above, of Honolulu, has gathered an armful of narcissus blossoms for use as decoration during the annual Narcissus Festival in Hawaii. The festival, which will be held Feb. 8-15, marks the observance by the Island's Chinese of the Chinese New Year.

The Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association have collected $6,901 to date in the sale of Christmas seals. The objective is $9,000.

Parks committee of the council recommended purchase from Winslow Motors of an International panel truck for that department. Their bid was accepted as the lowest.

CIVIL DEFENCE

Peterborough's Civil Defence Committee for this year has been appointed by the council as follows: Ald. J. A. Dewart, Reg. R. Faryon, George B. Melton, James P. McGrath, Ross L. Dobbin, Max J. Swanston, Roy T. Bogle.

JOIN RESERVE UNIT

Sixty-eight Peterborough men joined the 50th HAA Regiment (RF) during 1952. Now the strength of the regiment stands at approximately 150 officers and men.

COURSE ENDS

A course in the technique of instruction was completed Thursday night by the 50th HAA Regiment. Officers conducting the course were from the instructional and administrative cadre at Kingston.

APPEALING ASSESSMENT

Principal Investments Ltd. are appealing the assessment of their new property on George St., the Metropolitan Stores building and the offices on the second floor, as one of the nine cases to be dealt with by the Court of Revision next Thursday afternoon. The owners object that the assessment is excessive.

RETURN TO GEORGE ST.

Tip Top Tailors are moving back to George St. and will occupy a store premises in the Clapper building as soon as it is made ready for them. They were one of the business victims of the fatal fire May 19 in the George St. block south of Hunter St. Since then they have been on Water St., north of Charlotte.

4 MILES ACROSS CITY

The distance from the southwest corner of the city just beyond Erskine Ave. on Concession St. directly as the crow flies to the east end of Langton St., on the north front, is 4.176 miles. When including the recent annexation a new map of the city is prepared, of a salient into Smith township, it is likely that a distance closer to five miles may be measured in cross-town route.

$450 FOR CITY HALL

Oshawa council expected to sell their old city hall to a wrecker for $2,000, and had to settle for $450. Original intention was to sell the land and buildings for $65,000 to help pay for the new city hall. The site when cleared may be used as a parking lot for at least 20 cars, producing an expected revenue of $4,500. A new furnace in the old building cost $5,000 a few years ago.

AT MACHINE SHOW.

Among those from Peterborough noticed at the Coliseum in Toronto, Thursday for the Crop Improvement Association convention and demonstration of farm machinery were: Bruce Graham of Westwood, representative of the Peterborough Crop Improvement, Cliff Curtis, Melville Johnston, Earl Petrie, Doug Whalen, Irvine McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Don McFarlane, Mr. and Mrs. John Edmison, W. W. Dawson, Frank C. Paterson.

ROBIN AT CHEMONG

The chirping of a robin in a pine tree near his house in Chemong Park this morning was an illusory note of spring to J. Howard Miles. He called his wife to verify this vernal audition, although January is still here. "I think this robin took a chance and stayed around all winter," is Mr. Miles' opinion accounting for its presence.

MOVES TO KING CORNER

Main street ought to be misty-eyed next Saturday when the T. H. Hooper confectionery store at No. 327 bows out of its long service in sweets to the public of Peterborough. The Hooper business is moving down one block to part of the premises at the northwest corner of George and King Streets, but even so Main Street has its personal memories attaching to the old spot.

QUILTING BEE IN BELMONT at Preneveau Hall was held on Friday by two dozen members of the Belmont Women's Institute. Oldest member, Mrs. George Smith, 82, upper left photo, tells secretary Mrs. Clarence King some of the finer points of quilt making while president Mrs. William Harris, left in right photo, chats with original institute member Mrs. William Anderson. The team of seamstresses around a "Butterfly" design quilt, lower photo, are, left to right, clockwise, Mrs. Murray Fraser, Mrs. Arnold Dafoe, Mrs. Allan Hubble, Mrs. George Hartin, Mrs. Arthur King and Mrs. Thomas Bannon.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

January Thaw?

What is going on? The citizens of Peterborough and in fact all of Canada are bewildered by the weather. This spell of warm weather, rain and this afternoon, mist, couldn't be called a January thaw. There hasn't been any snow or ice of any account to thaw. Friday morning there was a distinct smell of spring in the air. But snow-flurries are forecast for Sunday and maybe winter will finally slip into its normal rut.

$6,180 Paid Out To Families Of Fire Victims

To date, $6,180 has been paid out of the fund set up in 1951 to help care for the families of four victims of the Zacks fire.

Four men, three of them firemen, the other a volunteer, died in that fire when walls and ceilings collapsed. They were: Earl Spencley, Orville Rome, Grover Deck, and George Reynolds. Earl Spencley was the volunteer.

The Monday following the May 19 fire, the fund opened with slightly more than $5,000. Citizens gave generously, as did companies and their employees. More than one firm contributed $1,000 or more.

This story, then, is to tell the way the trustees have invested the money which totalled $60,588.46 by the time the fund closed.

BOUGHT DEBENTURES

Last year, the fund officials purchased City of Peterborough debentures worth $55,600.77. Because the bonds sold at a 50-cent premium it cost the fund an additional $278 over par value. Fifty-two bonds were bought, at values varying from $950 to $1,750.

Roughly $4,000 worth will mature each year, although payments are scaled so that the four men's families will receive larger payments as the children increase in age. First bonds matured at year's end, and others will mature until 1966, when the fund will be exhausted.

First payment, at the end of 1951, was made out of capital. That amount was $2,080. Through 1952, $4,100 was paid out, in total monthly instalments of about $350.

Bank and bond interest has totalled $2,330.73 over the year-plus that the fund has been in existence. Cash in the bank amounts to another $4,257.

So, over a 14-year period, the families of the four victims of the Zacks fire will receive nearly $70,000 out of the fund set up for them by their fellow-citizens. The fund is being administered by the Bank of Montreal.

Boy, 8, Hit Badly Hurt In Millbrook

Condition Aggravated By Measles, Has Head Injuries

MILLBROOK (ENS)— Injured Friday afternoon, when struck by a car on King St., Bobby Coulter, 8, is in critical condition in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

At noon today, he was in a semi-conscious condition, suffering from undetermined head injuries. His condition was complicated today, when it was discovered he had broken out with measles and he was then moved to the communicable disease section.

He was struck by a light truck reported to have been driven by K. C. Woods, of Aylmer St., Peterborough as he was crossing the street.

Cars were parked along the curb, according to witnesses and a soft drink truck was double parked to unload some cases for nearby stores, when the boy walked into the path of the oncoming car.

The injured boy was taken to hospital in Peterborough by Eric Fallis.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coulter of the village. The accident occurred right near Mr. Coulter's hardware store.

Salary Boosts For Engineer And Assessor

Both County Engineer Jack Kean and County Assessor Stewart Sparling received salary increases at the inaugural session of Peterborough County Council.

Mr. Kean, who had not received an increase in 4½ years, handed in his resignation but a compromise was made. His salary was increased from $4,000 and seven cents a mile road to $5,000 and eight cents a mile.

Five councillors voted to accept Mr. Kean's resignation. They were Deputy-Reeve Robert McAdam of Smith, Deputy-Reeve David McIntye of Otonabee, Reeve Stewart Clysdale and Deputy-Reeve Walter Sloan of Dummer and Reeve W. E. Griffith of Belmont-Methuen. But their motion was defeated.

Immediately afterwards the majority supported a motion that the salary be increased by $1,000 a year and the car allowance was increased by a cent a mile.

County Assessor Stewart Sparling asked for a $500 increase and he got it.

His salary is now $4,000 a year with a car allowance of $100 a month.

Today Reeve Griffith tried to have these motions deleted from the minutes. He said he was opposed to both increases, but he failed to get a seconder.

Committee Plans Celebration Of Coronation

Plans for Peterborough's celebration of the crowning of Queen Elizabeth II, June 2, were set in motion by the reception committee of the council Friday afternoon.

Ald. Syd J. Black presided with the following members present: Aldermen Dewart, Miller, Farquharson, Burrows and Mayor Waddell.

A motion by Ald. J. A. Dewart, seconded by Ald. T. D. Miller, recommended that a committee of citizens be formed "to work out the details".

"There are many organizations in the city who could lend suggestions and help in the celebration of this important event," Ald. Dewart said. "We could advertise the calling of a preliminary meeting, and I would suggest that Ald. Black should be chairman, to make an early beginning on arrangements. They would have ample time from February on to the first of June. That committee could appoint groups or sub-committees to distribute the work of planning.

"I think that we should invite the county council to the meeting as a means of ascertaining whether they wished to take part in the city's celebration. Then, we have our Regiment, the Board of Education, the Ministerial Association, the associations of War Veterans, and many other societies. Possibly, it might be decided to hold the celebration at Riverside Park in the evening. Those are the kind of details which would be in the hands of the committee."

MANY ORGANIZATIONS

The motion carried at once, and from there on it was a matter of listing organizations to whom the council's invitation could be directed. There was some apprehension about inadvertent omission of groups which should be included in it.

Mayor Waddell said that publicity of the intentions of the reception committee and the city council would immediately kindle the interest of the citizens. Special mention was made of the school children and other young people such as the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and others.

The list of associations was not considered complete Friday. It is to be revised in the hope of avoiding omissions.

Some of those mentioned were: the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, organized labor, the city's industries, Chamber of Commerce, Retail Merchants Association, Service Club Council, United Services Institute, the Council of Women, Navy and Air Cadets, Firemen and Police, Red Cross Society, St. John Ambulance, the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, YWCA, YMCA, and so on.

Mayor Waddell commented that the council would be glad to give leadership in organizing for the Coronation celebration, and from that initiative the general committee could take over. His Worship said some cost would be involved, as for example, it might be decided to include fireworks at night.

It was also suggested that a Coronation choir might be formed for the occasion.

The first meeting of the general organizing committee will be Wednesday, Feb. 4, at 7.30 p.m. at the City Hall.

Former Family Of District Hit Mother Killed

A family of four which moved to Lakeview, near Port Credit from near Norwood recently were struck by a car Friday evening.

The mother, Mrs. May Redwood died almost instantly. Her husband, Vincent, a former CGE draughtsman here and the Redwoods' seven-year-old twin sons were seriously injured.

The family had just stepped off a bus and were crossing the road, when a car driven by Ken Sollery, 24, of Port Credit hit them, fatally injuring Mrs. Redwood.

When the family first came to this district from England about two years ago, they lived near Lakefield. Later, they moved to just west of Norwood on Highway 7. They moved to Lakeview about six months ago, when Mr. Redwood obtained a position in the tool design department of a small arms plant there.

In Norwood, Mrs. Redwood was active in Women's Institute activities and also in the Norwood Home and School Association.

Mr. Redwood if a former vestry clerk at Christ Church Anglican Church in Norwood, and he was also a member of the Brotherwood of St. Andrew's, a men's organization of the church.

Mr. Redwood suffered shock and head injuries in the accident. Allan, one of the twins is in hospital with head injuries, and his brother Michael received a broken leg.

Quilting Bees Keep WI Of Belmont Twp. Busy

By NICK NICKELS

PRENEVEAU.—Two dozen members of the Belmont Women's Institute met at the stone township hall on Friday noon. They came laden with good things to eat from their kitchens—baked beans, salads, meat pies, Christmas cake and cookies. Following a good meal the women set up two quilting frames and busied themselves for the balance of the afternoon.

Half of them worked on a "Butterfly" design and the others on a green and yellow quilt called the "Steps to the Altar" motif. And all of them exchanged district gossip.

Quilting bees are one of the fast-disappearing crafts of pioneer days, but the Belmont women are masters of the art. They turn out about one dozen quilts a year.

Some of them are raffled off, and others, like the ones they were currently working on, were being quilted for one of the members who would pay for them.

60 WOMAN-HOURS

"It takes 60 woman-hours to make a quilt," President Mrs. William Harris said.

The 72 by 90-inch pieces, besides top and bottom covers, takes about two pounds of cotton batting and four spools of thread. They have worked on many designs besides the two mentioned above: Dutch Windmill, Sweet Pea, Pansy and Tulip. Oldest member, Mrs. George Smith, 82, has worked on quilts with designs of more provocative names: Double wedding ring, log cabin, dash churn, pine tree, and pussy-wants-a-corner. The crazy quilt is a hit-and-miss design not favored too highly by the Belmont women.

Why do these women spend hours making quilts, you may wonder.

From the sale of them they do many good things for the neighborhood. The very hall they met in on Friday has been refurbished, from plastering, painting, hardwood floors, and lights, through cash sales of quilts.

At the first meeting in January they gave $26 to a needy family that were recently burned out. They also contributed $5 to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, and another $5 to the County Tuberculosis Association.

They sponsor showers for newly-weds, send flowers to family members who are sick or bereaved, and Christmas cheer boxes to shut-ins. Their only grant, from the Ontario Department of Agriculture, amounting to $3 a year, is earmarked for educational endeavors. The Belmont women contribute this small amount, and a good deal more besides, to the purchase of trophies for Havelock district oratorical contests.

During the Second World War they made and shipped dozens of quilts and pairs of socks overseas, and the only acknowledgment they received was a letter written "in some foreign language" which they did not understand.

OLD SETTLEMENT

The name Preneveau, which everyone down that way calls "Prene-view," was taken from a settlement established across the highway from the hall. There was a tavern, blacksmith shop, post office, and a few houses in those days. The 75-year-old hall is the only building that remains, and the women can rightly call it their headquarters since, if it had not been for their zeal, it would have fallen to decay with the rest of the settlement.

After the First World War the Belmont women planted maple seedlings around the hall for each of the district men who was killed overseas. That they have grown to fine sturdy trees might also be a symbol of the sturdiness and growth of the Belmont Women's Institute.

Refrigerator Motor Starts Fire In Chain Store

A compressor on a refrigeration unit was damaged Friday night in a fire that broke out in the basement of Buehler Bros. store at 174 Charlotte St. The store filled with smoke but had no serious damage.

The fire is believed to have been caused by a fa nbelt slipping on the compressor and the friction ignited it. Then it dropped into an oil pit below and the blaze started.

Firemen used a booster pump to extinguish the flames.

Business is continuing as usual today and the manager said the damage to the refrigerator unit had caused no inconvenience.

The refrigerator is defrosted on

CHEX Staff Asks To Join Union

A majority of the production staff at radio station CHEX in Peterborough have signed union cards and they are ready to apply to the Canada Labor Relations Board for certification.

They are reported to be the first privately-owned radio station in Canada to apply for certification in an international union, the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians (CIO-CCL).

A union organizer says about 20 members of the staff are eligible for the bargaining unit, including announcer-operators and technicians. The sales staff is not eligible.

A union spokesman told the Examiner that "a substantial majority" had already signed their cards. They will probably join a composite Toronto local that includes CBC employees.

Radio in Canada comes under Federal jurisdiction, so certification has to be made by the Canada Labor Relations Board.

What Happened To James Eck?

50-Year-Old Mystery Still Unsolved

Peterborough has a first-class mystery on its doorstep. It has been lying there for almost 50 years.

The answers to any of the following questions would do a great deal to help discover the real facts.

Was James Vincent Eck actually the man buried in a now unknown grave in St. Peter's Cemetery, on October 3, 1913?

Was James Vincent Eck, also known as Stuart McDonald, the son of an English baron who married a countess?

Did his parents live on an estate near Harrow, England?

Were all the stories Eck told true?

Did he have a sister living, at the time he was killed, in the Peterborough district?

Did he really leave a trunk containing papers and personal effects in Peterborough, and if so, what subsequently became of it?

Why was there conflicting evidence regarding his identity, at the inquest?

REAL AUTHOR?

Was Eck the real author of the telegram received in Peterborough one day after the funeral, stating he was "very much alive?"

Did he really serve in the South African War?

How did the mine manager at Hollinger positively identify an employee as Eck, three days after the funeral, in a telegram?

What further investigation was made, after one of the men who identified and reclaimed the body, later advised the Crown Attorney after the receipt of the telegram from the mine manager at Hollinger, that he may have been wrong in his identification at the inquest?

If Eck was not the man killed, what subsequently became of him?

Did the laundry mark "J.V.E." really represent Eck, or was the man known locally as Eck using a second assumed name?

Was the deceased a "remittance man" from England?

Could he actually speak five languages?

Why did he never mention what university he had attended in England—a point of honor with an Englishman of good family?

What significance should be attached to a tattoo mark?

Did anyone actually see the remittance allowance he claimed he received from his father?

Who were the beneficiaries in an insurance policy Eck was stated to have taken out in St. Catharines?

FACT FROM FANCY

Before going further, let us try to sift fact from fancy. It is difficult after the lapse of so many years. Briefly, here is what is definitely established:

A man was killed in one of the earliest automobile fatalities in the district, on the morning of September 25, 1913. For several days his body lay unclaimed in a Peterborough undertaking parlor. An inquest was held, and the victim identified by one person as James Vincent Eck, known also as Stuart McDonald in Peterborough and district.

Following a coroner's jury open veridct, held at Lakefield on October 2, the unclaimed body was sent to Queen's University for dissection. Two men then appeared and further identified the body as Eck, stated they had contacted the man's father in England, and after some delay it was returned to Peterborough, where it was given last rite of the Catholic Church and interred in St. Peter's Cemetery. The two men, both respectable Ontario citizens, one of whom was an ex-alderman at St. Catharines, stated funds for funeral expenses had been forwarded from England by the elder Eck.

Examining the above questions in the light of statements made after the accident, and at the inquest, we can only hazard some possibilities.

We must exercise due caution, for while legally a man is entitled to an opinion, such opinion in fact may not be true. It is very easy for many people to form an opinion, later accept it as a fact, and subsequently state it as such in testimony. For this reason, harassed Coroners and persons representing the Crown, at inquests, are sometimes confronted with a difficult task.

GOING TO THE DEVIL

There is no doubt that a man was killed. If it was Eck who was killed, he had voiced the feeling he would meet an untimely end. He was quoted as saying, "I'm going to the devil as fast as I can," to a W. A. Bell, Lakefield district farmer, and formerly employed with Peterborough Street Railway.

The man met his death when a car in which he was riding with Roland Darcy, Lakefield, turned over near a turn on Buckhorn Road, a few miles from Lakefield. The man who died was stated to have been at the wheel of the vehicle, an open model, and his chest was crushed by the back seat settling on his body.

Darcy was lying lengthwise under the front seat, and sustained a severe shoulder injury. He later testified at the inquest. There is also little doubt that both men had been drinking the evening and night before the accident, some witnesses stating that Darcy had slept in the car, with the man who was killed, during a part of the evening and all of the night previous. He had been overpowered, witnesses said, by use of alcohol.

3 Stations Apply For TV Licences

OTTAWA (CP)—At least three radio stations—one in Ottawa, one in Edmonton and one in Kingston—plan to apply for licences to operate television stations.

This was disclosed Thursday while the CBC board of governors heard representations on applications for four new radio stations.

Frank Ryan, owner of station CFRA in Ottawa, said he has a television application pending since 1946 and he hopes to get into the field eventually.

R. Hofstetter of Station CKWS in Kingston said his station plans to apply for a television licence

"We are prepared to go ahead as soon as the board is ready to consider our application," said Mr. Hofstetter.

Hon. G. E. Taylor, Alberta's minister of railways and telephones, said station CKUA, operated by the University of Alberta and financed by the Alberta government, has applied for a TV licence.

NONE RECEIVED

A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman, interjected to say that the board has as yet received no TV applications.

All applications heard were opposed and the board reserved decision. Mr. Dunton indicated the board's recommendations on the applications will be made public Monday.

Maj. R. S. Grant of the Royal Canadian Signal Corps applied for a 1,000-watt station at Kingston. The application was opposed by station CKWS of Kingston.

Maj. Grant, in charge of the army's radio receiving station at Leitrim, Ont., said one station in Kingston cannot adequately serve the diversified interests there.

TENTATIVE CONTRACTS

He said he had tentative contracts covering $42,000 worth of local advertising. Experienced operators estimated he would obtain another $50,000 a year in national advertising.

Maj. Grant said his operations would not harm station CKWS.

Mr. Hofstetter said consideration should be given to the effect television will have on radio stations in the Kingston area. A TV station now is planned for Watertown, N.Y., 30 miles from Kingston. Within two years radio would probably lose 50 per cent of its listeners in the area.

He suggested decision on Maj. Grant's application be deferred until station CKWS makes its application for a television station.

Maj. Grant replied that television might affect nighttime audiences, but there still would be a place for radio.

Age Of Television Started In 1884

The age of television started back in 1884, Toronto Rotarians were told recently. Luncheon speaker Dr. Maurice E. Strieby of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. named an obscure German engineer, Dr. Paul Nipkow, as the discoverer of the basic principles of television—that an image must be broken up into separate elements in order to be transmitted.

Dr. Strieby displayed a working model of Nipkow's invention, a disc, which, when rotated slowly, transmits part of a picture in separate lines at intervals. When the disc is speeded up the eye sees the entire picture.

Two Men Get 2 Months Each On Liquor Counts

BANCROFT (ENS)—Convicted on a charge of selling liquor, Andrew Bowen, Bancroft, was sentenced to two months imprisonment by Magistrate R. C. Jackson in Magistrate's Court here Wednesday.

Evidence was introduced that Bowen had sold a large quantity of liquor las tmonth and that he had admitted it to police officers when questioned.

Bowen pleaded not guilty and conducted his own defence. He argued that he had not made the admissions under normal conditions. Magistrate Jackson, after hearing police evidence as to the taking of the statement, ruled it admissible and found him guilty.

DRUNK DRIVER

Stanley Poff, Maynooth, charged with drunk driving, driving while his licence was suspended, driving a vehicle the permit for which was suspended and having liquor in a place other than his residence, pleaded not guilty to the first and second and guilty to the other charges. He was not represented by counsel and conducted his own defence.

After hearing police and medical evidence from Dr. Ward Smith of the Attorney General's Department, the magistrate convicted Poff on the drunk driving charge. Dr. Smith testified that a voluntary blood sample taken from the accused at the time of his arrest showed 2.4 parts per thousand of alcohol when analyzed, a quantity sufficient to render him incapable of driving a car with any degree of safety to himself or the public. The magistrate sentenced Poff to a term of one month in jail on the charge. This is his second offence in the past year.

Evidence produced by police that the accused was prohibited from driving or owning a car resulted in an additional term of one month consecutive to the first and the forfeiture of his car. On the charge of driving while his driver's licence was suspended he was sentenced to one month concurrent to the other terms. He was ordered to pay $10.00 and $3.50 costs on the liquor charge or serve 10 days concurrent with the other penalties. The fine was not paid.

Poff admitted a lengthy record of traffic and liquor charges.

A Bancroft resident, McKinley Spence, 25, was sentenced to 15 days in the county jail when convicted of driving while his licence was under suspension for a second time. He will serve an additional 15 days if the court costs of $20.50 are not paid. His worship warned that he would no longer treat this offence lightly and that future offenders will be severely dealt with.

TRAFFIC CHARGES

Pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving, Leonard Evans, Bancroft, was fined $10 and costs of $3.50.

J. M. Stringer, Toronto, Angus Yeatman, Harcourt, and Keith Ramsay, Lake St. Peter, paid fines of $10 and costs when they pleaded guilty to infractions of the Liquor Control Act.

RECEIVES SETTLEMENT — Marilyn Noell, 22, of Ottawa, has been awarded a lump sum of $9,000 and a monthly allowance of $300 for life in an out-of-court settlement of her $170,000 damage suit against the Canadian Pacific Railway. A student at the University of Toronto, Miss Noell has been paralyzed from the neck down since she broke her neck in a diving accident in a CPR hotel swimming pool at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea June 23, 1949. She has learned to use her arms again with the help of special apparatus and is taking a course in social work.

Russians Credit Lenin WithRain-Making First

LONDON (CP)—The Russians claimed another first Friday—rain-making.

Moscow radio said attempts in recent years by scientists of Western countries to produce rain by seeding clouds with dry ice are old stuff to Russia.

Giving all the credit to Lenin, the radio told the Russian people he laid the groundwork for rain-making research in 1921. Thirteen years later, it claimed, clouds were sprayed with calcium chloride from an airplane and "the experiment succeeded in initiating the fall of rain from the cloud."

Anglican Vestry Millbrook Farewells Rector

At the annual vestry meeting of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, held in the parish hall on Thursday evening, Reginald Fallis and Louis H. Winslow paid tribute to the fine service the Rev. A. A. Chote and Mrs. Chote had given during the three years he has been rector here.

Next week Mr. and Mrs. Chote are leaving for their new parish in Richmond Hill.

All departments of the church reported a successful year. During the first year, Mr. Chote served as rector, church attendance increased and church givings doubled. Last year was still more successful, the best the church has had.

As well as an increase in regular givings, a special fund had been raised to redecorate the church. After the work was completed there remained a balance of $243.

It was voted that this should go to one of the projects for 1953—renovation of the parish hall.

It was reported that the piers at the corners of the parish hall should be removed. The inside of the hall is to be redecorated, and has been suggested the outside should be stuccoed to match the cement work of the church. Another project mentioned for this year was painting of the rectory.

The meeting went on record as supporting the four recommendations issued by the council for social service to safeguard Sunday from commercialized sports.

Officers appointed or elected for 1953 are—rector's warden, D. R. Fowler; people's warden, G. A. Spicer; secretary-treasurer, Gordon Trick; lay representatives to Synod, Dr. H. A. Turner (Hon.), L. H. Winslow and Reginald Fallis; with T. A. Campbell, Ron Palmer substitutes; envelope secretary, D. R. Fowler; auditors, George F. Harrington, H. Collins, Jack Allen and E. Penney; vestry clerk, P. E. Hamilton; organists, Miss Mamie Collins and J. O. Medd; sexton, P. Pitt.

Honorary sidesmen are: H. B. Allen, J. E. Allen, T. A. Campbell, J. Coulter, G. Ellsworth, G. F. Harrington, T. W. McCamus, D. Sheppard, H. M. Trick, Dr. H. A. Turner. Rector's sidesmen are: H. Abbott, Reg. Fallis, E. R. Penney, Fred Lowery, F. Stinson, A. V. Thorn, W. Wood, L. H. Winslow.

Vestry sidesmen are: R. Dufty, L. M. Fallis, Ivan L. H. Gray, A. Jones, Lyle Nattress, R. Smith, Harry Williams, Arthur Trick, Harold Trick, George Harkness.

Advisory council: Miss Muriel Smith, T. A. Campbell, Dr. H. A. Turner (hon.), L. H. Winslow, Reg. Fallis.

St. Paul's cemetery board: T. A. Campbell and A. V. Thorn.

Reports of the various church groups were presented by Mrs. H. A. Turner, Guild secretary; Mrs. Reginald Fallis, W. A. president; Gordon Trick, church secretary-treasurer; T. A. Campbell of St. Paul's cemetery board; Anna Fair, president of Chancel Guild; Mrs. Reg. Fallis, choir treasurer; and Percy Hamilton, Sunday school superintendent.

G. A. Spicer reported for the parish council relative to prospects for securing a rector for the parish of Cavan.

The Rev. A. A. Chote expressed appreciation of the fine support given by the wardens, organists, to Mrs. Spicer for help given with the choir, the Sunday school superintendent and teachers, T. A. Campbell for church maintenance, Gordon Trick for keeping the church books and to Mr. Barringer of the Millbrook Reporter.

Ordered Deported Claims Infant

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Beatrice Reason, who has been ordered deported to her native Australia, said Friday she is the mother of a nine-months-old baby boy and Canadian immigration officials are wondering whether he should be deported too.

Mrs. Reason, 32, and four times married, Thursday was ordered deported on grounds that there were irregularities in her re-entry into Canada in 1951. Police said she had been involved with Toronto schoolteacher Alfred Greene in planting fake evidence intended to give police the impression he had been killed in 1950.

She was later found in Chicago where she had been living with Greene, and brought back to Canada. Greene later gave himself up to Canadian authorities.

Mrs. Reason said the boy, whose name is Alan, has been staying with friends in Western Canada. She said he was born in Canada after police brought Mrs. Reason back to Canada.

Immigration officials said Mrs. Reason refuses to say where her baby is. They said the woman will probably be deported whether she has a son or not.

Mr. Justice W. F. Spence said he was "quite convinced" Sorokowski was prepared to shoot his way out if he had met with any opposition.

More than $5,000 of the stolen money has not been recovered.

Fire Jail Guards From Hamilton

TORONTO (CP)—One guard has been dismissed and another suspended from the Barton St. jail in Hamilton for associating with the wife of one of two men held in the jail awaiting extradition to the United States to stand trial for murder, the department of reform institutions announced Friday.

A department official said Norman Smith was fired and Norman Allison was suspended for three weeks without pay because they were seen in a beer parlor with the wife of one of the accused men. The official did not identify the woman and said no bribe was attempted.

The accused men are Maurice (Digger) O'Dell, 27, and Walter Griffen, 26. They are wanted in Buffalo for the slaying of jeweller Donald F. Hurd, Dec. 9 last during a hold-up which netted loot valued at $40,000. A third man, Ralph Grubisich, is still sought.

The Canadian Press said erroneously Friday that the woman was the wife of O'Dell.

Clear Bank Official In $400,000 Failure

DETROIT (AP)—John R. Spitzley was cleared Friday of a government charge in the $400,000 failure of his Westphalia State Bank.

A jury acquitted the 74-year-old banker of deliberately overdrawing his own account in the bank in Westphalia, Mich.

Spitzley, known to friends as "Uncle John," headed the bank prior to its collapse in 1950. The government has brought charges against 31 persons. Investigating agents told a story of mutual trust among bank patrons and officials which went to the extreme of making unsupported loans and withdrawals of non-existent funds.

Spitzley's defence was that, although president, he knew little of the bank's affairs—including his own overdrawn account.

Low Price Issues Gain Heavily In Week's Trade

By HARRY KINGDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"Penny dogs" turned the Toronto stock exchange into a greyhound track this week.

More than a score of the low-priced mining issues ran forward on heavy trading for good gains. They raced ahead until other "penny dogs" pushed them aside. The newcomers were outshone in turn by more newcomers.

The rabbit urging them forward was public interest in reports of uranium in northern Saskatchewan, lead-zinc finds in New Brunswick and nickel in Northern Ontario.

A few issues survived the crush and settled down to a steady pace. Most made some headway on the week.

Favorites at the week's starting gate were Keyboycon, New Larder U, Nubar and Kelore. About mid-week, Macho, Bobjo, Chimo and Gunnar attracted interest. Toward the week's close, Villbona, Quesabe, Bonville and Heva came up from behind.

ONE LOST MONEY

Of the stocks mentioned, only one — Chimo — lost money on the week. New Larder U was top dog with a gain of 57 cents. Of 27 of the week's most active speculative stocks chosen at random, only seven slipped. And of these, only two lost more than five cents.

More shares were traded this week than in any since early October, 1951.

The rest of the market — as measured by the exchange's indices — paid little attention to the racers. Prices fluctuated within a narrow range and generally drifted higher.

Toronto slipped slightly Monday while Montreal rose. Industrials continued up in both centres Tuesday and Wednesday while other sections slipped. The industrials led a general advance Thursday that turned into a decline Friday.

New York started the week mixed but headed upward Tuesday. Prices weakened Wednesday, held steady Thursday and headed lower Friday.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto indices showed industrials up 2.65 at 324.94, golds down .30 at 83.55, base metals up .02 at 184.15 and western oils down 1.02 at 126.39.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .26 at 33.03, utilities up 2.0 at 93.8, industrials up 1.9 at 211.9, combined up 2.1 at 172.6, papers down 7.43 at 706.58, and golds up .88 at 64.98.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks on the New York market was up 20 cents at $114.00.

Thor Hansen Talks To WAA Encouraging Hand Crafts

Peterborough Women's Art Association members thoroughly enjoyed the studio meeting Friday afternoon when Mr. Thor Hansen, lecturer on folk art and Canadian crafts, gave them a talk spiced with dry humor and then showed colored slides of his distinctive designs for needlepoint, rugs, quilts and interior decorating.

Mr. Hansen's theme was the necessity of using creative imagination in every walk of life. He stressed how its application could benefit in the field of mental health, but he is most interested in seeing it used to encourage the tourist industry and thus also benefit the Canadian economy.

"I'm out to encourage crafts" he said. The five crafts he mentioned are: pottery, weaving, woodwork, metalwork and leathercraft. "These could be a big item of the tourist business as Canadian sourvenirs" and he went on to illustrate the scarcity of real Canadian souvenirs in the existing sourvenir shops.

In regard to the cutural development to which crafts contribute, he defined culture as "a never-ending quest for beauty". He said that everything that man has accomplished through the ages was in his mind compelling his hand in an effort to create beauty. But, in this machine-age he is no longer compelled to use his creative imagination to live and there follows the natural law, "If you don't use it—you lose it", said Mr. Hansen. "We will all be morons in four or five generations" he concludes, and says that doctors have agreed in this thought.

This artist declared, "I do like modern art. It is the duty of every arist to experiment"—but he objects to its being called "intellectual art". He said the three words in the English that are most misused and used today are "intellectual", "creative" and "cultural". They have been used until they have no meaning, Mr. Hansen feels. He also deplored the modern trend of "taking anything new as good".

"Progress should be measured in terms of happiness, the great common denominator for all people", said Mr. Hansen. Failure to exercise one's creative imagination is, he claimed, one of the chief causes of frustration and boredom. The principal outlet for creative imagination is through one's hands. It can also find expression through singing, speech, drama and rhythm, he said.

"The important thing is that, regardless of any degree of skill, a person experiments creatively through these channels. Working from a pattern is good and will increase proficiency, but creative imagination really has full play when we use our minds to conjure up images to guide us." When the imagination goes to work in such a manner, Mr. Hansen claims, then happiness is found.

The deisgns from Canadian scenes and folk lore which Mr. Hansen displayed were very greatly admired by the ladies. They tell the story of Canada, which to this Danish Canadian seems infinitely varied and colorful, and he feels he has barely scratched the surface yet.

His designs have been requested from all over Canada, and when in certain districts he has made designs for needlepoint, rugs or quilts using legends or wild plant or animal life characteristic there. His biggest job has been to decorate the new British American Oil Company building in Toronto using Canadian folk art as the substance for his schemes. Many of the slides were of the decorative effects used there and he invited inspection of them by joining one of the daily tours of the building.

The expression of appreciation to Mr. Hansen from the ladies was voiced by Mrs. C. H. Crowe and extended by president Mrs. Ford Turner.

What's Right?

A young man is sending a girl a corsage to wear to a dance.

WRONG: He chooses any color of flower that he happens to like.

RIGHT: He either finds out what color dress she plans to wear and selects something to go with it, or he sends white flowers that can be worn with any color dress.

Miss Margaret Caravaggie Is Sodality's "Snow Queen"

St. Peter's Sodality girls are wondering if they may have to change the name of their annual formal dance. Since 1946 the social highlight of their year has been the January "Snow Ball" and the crowning of the "Snow Queen". Each previous year the city has been blanketed in fresh white snow, sometimes seemingly so on purpose for the occasion.

But, the 1953 Snow Queen, Miss Margaret Caravaggie, came to her coronation Friday night at the Kawartha Golf and County Club without a snowflake having been in sight for days. It was, in fact, mild, dark and rainy—typical April weather.

Miss Caravaggie was none the less a very radiant and charming Snow Queen. She had chosen a lovely gown of white net with demure neckline enhanced with appliqued white organdy flowers and the applique was repeated on each hipline of the bouffant ballerina skirt. As she entered the hall she was wearing a white fur cape and a corsage of deep pink carnations on the shoulder.

Preceding the queen and her attendants to the crowning seat was the queen's sister, Miss Rita Caravaggie who was convener of the dance. She was strikingly gowned in flame red, her short evening length skirt falling in crisp net tiers.

Queen of last year Miss Jean O'Brien, gowned in powder blue taffeta, and wearing a blue net stole jacket, placed the symbolic crown on her successor's head. Prefect Miss Catherine Kieran, who was wearing yellow for this dance, presented the sodality's gift of a dozen red roses to the new queen.

Fanfare by the band marked the lovely young queen's entrance and she was introduced by Miss Helen Cumming the assistant dance convener. Enthusiastic demonstration of their esteem was expressed by the crowd and speeches of congratulation were made by the Rev. L. M. Dubbery, spiritual advisor to the sodalists, and the Rev. G. J. Weiss.

The dance was a most enjoyable affair in every way with decorations adding to the gay scene and cabaret style arrangements for the guests' convenience. Decorators responsible for the blue and silver streamers and "snowman" pictures overhung with red balloons throughout the hall were Misses Doris Laton, Lorraine Lazure. Leile McGrath and Patricia Beresford.

Prizes of the evening were won by Miss Lorraine Lazure and Mr. Keith Johnston, Miss Betty Moher and Mr. Joe Basciano, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Breen.

Miss Kieran and her escort Mr. Lawrence Beresford were assisted in the receiving line by the patrons and patronesses, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. J. Marino and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Heffernan.

Escort to the Snow Queen was Mr. Don Pierson. Miss O'Brien was escorted by Mr. Jack Curtin, Miss Rita Caravaggie by Mr. Bill Clarke and Miss Cummings by Mr. Bob Grant. The others attending were:

Women Ask Premier Give Tax Relief

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Council of Women Friday urged Prime Minister St. Laurent and cabinet ministers to provide relief from gift taxes and succession duties for wives and widows.

In a brief presented at a meeting with the prime minister and several of his cabinet, the council suggested that one-half the value of any gift from a husband to his wife be exempt from gift taxes.

The council also asked that half a deceased man's estate be regarded as rightfully belonging to his wife and exempt from succession duties. A change in succession duties also was requested so that estates worth only slightly more than the $50,000 exemption would not be subject to the full duty.

The delegation included Mrs. W. A. Graham, Smiths Falls, council treasurer.

Ramsay-Boyce

The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Omemee, at the parsonage, of Shirley Isabel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Boyce of Cavan, to Edward James Ramsay, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ramsay of Emily.

The bride wore a blue taffeta dress and matching hat with navy accessories and a yellow corsage. Miss Joan Ramsay, sister of the groom, as maid of honor was wearing pink with navy accessories and had a contrasting flower corsage.

Mr. James Armstrong of Mount Pleasant attended the groom.

The couple will live in Emily.

Expect Brilliant Colors For Coronation

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—A breathless hush envelops London's couture world—the "Big Eleven" are in semi-seclusion prior to bringing out their Coronation collections.

The great occasion starts Jan. 26, when Britain's 11 leading fashion houses—local equivalent of the haute couture of Paris—open their crowded salons to show what they have to offer in Coronation-year designs.

So far, isolated references to the coming collections forecast exciting things to come. Take Norman Hartnell, the Queen's designer. Amid shimmering silks, satins and jewel-starred brocades his spring collection will introduce such glowing neutral shades as one named "porridge."

SUBTLE TONE

This sounds a bit unromantic, but experts say the subtle tone midway between stone and beige indeed suggests the honey-colored warmth of Scotland's favorite cereal.

Hartnell predicts it will be worn as a contrast to vivid Coronation colors such as deep royal blues, reds and purples ranging from the softest violet to the hard tone of velvet, fur-trimmed robes.

Every shade of brown, from deep burnt sugar to the warm cream of puffed candy, will give flattering emphasis to such shades as an elusive sea green. Hartnell's preference for these colors may be derived from the Queen's choice of browns and greens for the royal tour of Canada.

That tour, in fact, may be an important fashion pointer. The King's death last February, following so closely after his daughter's Canadian visit, means that the clothes she wore in Canada are among the best indications of possible royal preference in Coronation fashions.

MAKE GREATER BIDS

This year, Britain's foremost designers are making even greater bids for dollar sales. Those who have not already visited the United States will make flying visits before Coronation.

In February Hartnell is going to New York on a trade trip. Earlier this year, Mrs. Creed, wife of designer Charles Creed, was complimented on her "English elegance" during a visit to the United States. American women admired her "unique tailored evening ensembles."

Designs by Peter Russell and John Cavanagh will be noticed when Lady Makins, wife of the new British ambassador to Washington, attends the many social functions that are part of her office. A smart dinner-dress by Russell is a sheath of amethyst Nottingham lace with fantail skirt, low neck, long sleeves and pink rose trimming.

Dresses by Cavanagh include a pink satin ball gown embroidered in gold, silver and pearl star-fish design.

LIKE WOOLLENS

Digby Morton returned from an 8,000-mile tour of the United States with news that American women are especially interested in light-with woollens.

Hardy Amies, designer of many outfits worn by the Queen in Canada, needs little introduction these days. The glorious white and silver crinoline gown worn by Jane McNeill at her Jan. 10 wedding to the Earl of Dalkeith was made by Amies.

THE FORMER MISS NANCY BROOKS of Peterborough and Officer Ensign William Bovill of the United States Navy who were married in Los Angeles, California, on January 17th. Miss Brooks flew to California last week and was married from the home of her aunt.

Bovill-Brooks Nuptials

A wedding of wide interest took place Saturday, January 17th, in St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral at Los Angeles, California. Nancy, daughter of Mrs. Ruby G. Brooks of Peterborough, was married to Officer Ensign William Bovill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bovill of Detroit, Michigan. The Dean and Rector J. M. Krumm of the Cathedral performed the ceremony.

In a beautiful floral arrangement of large white 'mums, carnations and greens, the bride was given in marriage by her aunt, Mrs. Margaret Brooks Lyman of Hollywood, California. Her bridal gown was of soft forget-me-not blue sheer with a bouffant skirt and the bodice daintily embroidered with pearls and silver threads. She wore a tiara of tiny white flowerettes and she carried a nosegay of sweetheart rosebuds, forget-me-nots and blue iris leaves.

Mrs. Serge Abagoff, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a sheer gown in smoked beige shade and a matching straw cap. Mr. Serge Abagoff attended the groom.

The reception was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Serge Abagoff in Burbank, Los Angeles.

The bridal couple motored to San Diego, California, where the groom is presently awaiting transfer back to Honolulu in the Hawaiian Islands. They expect to live in Honolulu until May.

WA Holds Meet

YOUNG'S POINT —(ENS)— The January business meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Aidan's Anglican Church was held in the hall on Tuesday with Mrs. Darling presiding.

Two new members, Mrs. Nelson Godfrey and Mrs. Jack Paris, were enrolled as new members. The cent-a-day envelopes were distributed among members, to help W. A. funds.

All fees and pledges were reported paid in full by the secretary, Mrs Piercey. There is a balance on hand of $26.

The Christmas dance netted $34.14.

Following the business meeting, the members completed the quilt they had been working at previously.

Lunch was served. Mrs. Monks invited the ladies to her home for the next meeting on Feb. 17.

Feminine Touch Added To Airlines Maps

MONTREAL (CP) — Pegi Edwards of Victoria, who for the last 10 years has been working in the airways engineering section of Trans-Canada Air Lines, has been causing a bit of eye-strain up aloft.

Pegi is a map-drawer for the airways and also has a feminine inclination to rebel against routine now and again.

So Pegi introduced rabbits.

One day when mapping in formalized figures indicating trees she doodled in a few extra lines, and there, sitting among the trees, was a 1-32nd-inch-high rabbit.

She thought no one would notice this little feminine touch and left it in.

Shortly afterwards she noticed a group of pilots having some fun over a map. The embarrassed officers said they were "looking for rabbits." Trans-Canada pilots had formed a "bunny club."

Officialdom was not to be outdone however. Department heads heard about it and put out the order "no more bunnies."

Rumor ha it though there is still that little feminine touch sometimes hiding among the trees.

FROM NEW YORK come these extremely wearable high-fashion designs for spring. Beige is the big color and it's used here (left) for a pale tweed coat marked by horizontal rows of fringe. It is slightly flared, may be wrapped or worn loose. The all-important ensemble is shown here two ways. Cocoa silk surah is printed (centre) with an abstract fish design in white. Dress has slim skirt, bodice wrapping diagonally to the front. It's nearly sleeveless. Cutaway box cardigan, lined in white, fastens at the throat and flares away from the body. Heavy linen is adapted (right) to the navy-and-white theme. Collarless box jacket with spaced buttons is worn with sleeveless camisole top edged in navy and a slim wraparound skirt in navy.

Cutaway Cardigans Show New Slim-Line Sheaths

The gracious and ladylike line that's so evident in all spring collections is as apparent in the new ensembles as it is in the "dressmaker" dresses.

The ensemble, as done by one famous French designer for his New York collection, is expressed in terms of the cutaway cardigan.

The basis for this may be a straight sheath dress or it may be separates with a narrow line. Whichever it is, the cardigan jacket has a single closing at the throat and sweeps away from the body.

Even street costumes turn dressy in the hands of this designer. He places a strong emphasis on navy and likes to work in a lightweight wool that drapes beautifully. The resulting fashions show tucking and pleating in combinations, wrapped or buttoned skirts that reveal pleating underneath, and huge wool shawls or stoles worked in silk or wool. These are clothes that are intensely feminine and very pretty Color accents are introduced through use of scarves, edgings, removable tabs and collars. In all-over color, beige and grey appear in many tones, in addition to the well-liked navy.

DOROTHY DIX

Tartar Of Mother Instils Fear In Married Daughter

DEAR MISS DIX: My mother has always been a very smart, attractive woman, but domineering and vicious. So much so, that no one in our home ever crossed her, and she instilled a fear in me that I cannot overcome, even now at 22. If I voice an opinion contrary to hers, she slaps my face So, to keep peace, we let her have her way. All of us, that is, except my husband. He is a prosperous, kind person, and we are very happy. Mother has tried her tactics on him, naturally, but he came back with an atomic bomb attack. This didn't stop mother, though. She enjoys upsetting him and knows that he will never begin an argument. Frustrated in her attempts to rule him, she has redoubled her resentment against me. She finds all kinds of fault with my husband when talking to me, and also objects strenuously to all members of his family, who are, incidentally, most kind to me. I would love to be on good terms with my mother, and am very unhappy over the present situation. MRS. D. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There are several types of domineering parents, varying widely in tactics employed and methods of treatment. Your mother is a most transparent type, and the easiest to conquer. Apparently she is more intelligent than the other members of her family and, being either to lazy or unresourceful to use her brains in anything constructive, delights in exercising mental torment on her associates. She found her match in your husband and, whether she shows it or not, you may be sure he's the only person she respects. Follow his example if you want to curb mother; instead of continuing the policy of placating—which you certainly know by now is futile anyway—try being assertive. Don't let yourself be needled. When she begins complaining about your husband and in-laws, get up and leave. As soon as you convince mother that you are no longer an object of domination, her admiration and affection for you will soar.

SHE WILL RESPECT REBELS

The urge for domination is almost always an offshoot of frustration and, paradoxically, a sign of weakness. It's an easy and effective means of getting one's way and it gratifies a desire to establish the inferiority of others. However, behind all bossiness lurks a profound dislike for the people who haven't the gumption to rebel, and a grudging respect for the few who refuse to be squelched. A little spunk is all you need, and since you have a strong-minded husband to set the example, it shouldn't be difficult to muster.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Last year when I graduated from high school mother wanted me to go on to teachers' college. I felt I had had enough of school, so went to work and got a good job. Now I am engaged to a boy who has two more years of college. I realize today that I'd be better off going ahead with teaching, since I like children. My mother is a widow and can't help me too much, so I am undecided whether or not to give up a good-paying job to further my education. I'm 18.

GLORIA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Taking into consideration all the factors given in your detailed letter, which I have had to shorten, I would strongly advise continuation of school and the ultimate goal of a teacher's licence. It will be a financial struggle for the next few years, but the ensuing reward will be more than adequate compensation. If you marry, there is always a good job to fall back on in case of necessity, and since both your mother and your fiance agree that you should go ahead with college, follow their advice.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been married several years and have three children. There is no flaw to our happiness except the in-laws on both sides. My husband can't stand my family and I can't stand his. Neither of us, however, will give up our families. BETTINA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't you think a little forebearance and mutual consideration would save the situation? It appears that both you and your spouse are a little pig-headed and are letting petty animosities spoil what would otherwise be a good marriage. Get together and analyze exactly what your objections are to each other's family. Write them down, and then I'll warrant they'll look pretty silly.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: . . . we were over to New York this fall . . . in a restaurant we had lemon pie with a meringue that seemed to be more like marshmallow topping than just egg whites. It was about an inch and a half thick . . . would you be kind enough to send the recipe for Turtle cookies. I wondered if you might have something in a cookie recipe other than this, just a little different . . . I am on for a lunch for a ladies' meeting . . . Mrs. F. F.

ANSWER: The meringue you describe sounds to me like

FRENCH MERINGUE

In the top of the double boiler combine 3 egg whites, 1 cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Beat steadily with a rotary beater while cooking over hot steaming water until mixture is stiff. Takes about 10 or 12 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla, beat in thoroughly and spread on warm lemon filling. —Brown meringue in oven of 325 deg. Fahr. until tinged with gold.

TURTLE COOKIES

Sift together 1½ cups sifted cake flour, ¼ teaspoon each, salt, baking soda. Cream ½ cup butter until fluffy then gradually beat in ½-cup brown sugar. Then beat in 1 whole egg and 1 egg yolk; beat until thoroughly blended. Add ¼ teaspoon vanilla and ⅛ teaspoon maple flavoring. Mix in sifted dry ingredients well. Arrange whole pecans in groups of three on greased cookie tin to simulate shape of turtle—the head and hind legs. Mould teaspoonsfull of dough into ¾-inch balls. Dip bottom of each ball in egg white and press one onto each pecan. They run together when baked. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 10 or 12 minutes. Cool. Frost tops with Chocolate Frosting: In top of double boiler put 2 squares of unsweetened chocolate, ¼ cup milk and 1 tablespoon butter. Heat over boiling water just until chocolate melts. Remove from heat and stir until smooth. Add 1 cup sifted icing sugar. Beat smooth.

You ask for a cookie that is "different." The following one is delicious too.

LEMON CRUMBLES

Sift together ¾ cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt. Cut into them ¾ cup shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add 1¾ cups sifted soda cracker crumbs (about 20 crackers), ½ cup sugar and 1 cup cocoanut. Spread half of this mixture in buttered 8-inch square pan. Spread Filing over it (see below). Sprinkle top with remaining crumbs. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 35 minutes or until golden brown. Cut into 1½ dozen squares with sharp knife when cool.

Filling: In top of double boiler mix 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt. Beat into them 1 egg, then 1 cup water. Stir over boiling water until thick. Remove from heat and add 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

LETTER: So glad you liked my soap sample. There is however a correction—3 cups of cold water instead of 2 cups as printed, in pyrex quart measure with lye. I think the soap needs this amount.

Last summer a lady called Limey Lil asked you about obtaining yogurt. She said once she had a little she could make it. I wonder if she'd tell us how . . . we like it on salads, etc. When I did not like the buttermilk at our summer cottage I made some by adding 1 cup of good cultured buttermilk to 4 cups re-constituted powdered milk in milk bottle. Left it at room temperature for 12 to 18 hours till sour enough to refrigerate.

ANSWER: Thank you Ruth. I hope Limey Lil sees this. I was intrigued by her penname and exuberance and would love to hear from her again.

QUESTION: . . . my son is being married. I would like to give a wedding breakfast at eleven or eleven-thirty a.m. I would like your opinion on what to serve.—Mrs. Wilfred G.

ANSWER: Wedding Breakfast Menu: Fruit Cup, Mixed Grill of Bacon, Chicken Livers and Sausage; Scrambled Eggs, Hot Parkerhouse Rolls, Jelly; Ice Cream, Wedding Cake, Coffee.

Ida Church Reviews Year

CAVAN (ENS) — The annual vestry meeting of St. John's Anglican Church, Ida, was held in the Parish Hall on Thursday.

The Rev. A. A. Chote, of the Parish of Cavan, acted as chairman. Clare Winslow presented the financial report showing a surplus in the general church account.

Mr. Chote complimented the congregation on having the church re-decorated, an oil furnace installed in the church, and on the success of the rural training school held in the parish last May.

Mr. Chote appointed Herb Morton as rector's warden for the coming year and Frank Harkness was unanimously elected as people's warden for another year.

Sidesmen appointed were: Wm. Howden, convener; T. McCamus, E. Morton, R. Lough, B. Fee, H. McCamus, B. Foster, L. McNeil, M. Morton, H. Seney, E. Touchburn, K. Drury and W. Dyer.

L. McNeil was appointed lay delegate to Synod with H. McCamus as substitute.

T. McCamus and Mrs. E. Touchburn were appointed auditors for the coming year. The names of H. McCamus and T. McCamus were added to the cemetery board.

Projects to be undertaken in the future include the insulation of the church and the completion of the repairs to the roof.

The bell in the church tower came under discussion and it was interesting to note that this bell was brought from Toronto in the year 1851.

Herb Morton expressed a few remarks in connection with the Rural Training School held in the parish last May and the members of the vestry being in favour it was decided to invite the rural school to hold its sessions in this parish again this year.

The following reports were given: The Women's Auxiliairy, Mrs. R. McCamus; cemetery board Roy Lough; sunday school, Herb Morton; re-decoration fund, Herb Morton; building committee L. McNeil.

The meeting was preceded by a pot luck supper served by the Women's Association.

Mr. Larke, reporting for the session, presented figures which included not only the Springville congregation but Fairmount and Mt. Pleasant as well. He said during the year there had been 14 infant baptisms, two adult baptisms, five funerals, eight marriages, 10 united with the church on profession of faith and four were removed by death.

Church Holds Meeting

OMEMEE — (ENS) — Annual meeting of Trinity United Church was held Wednesday evening following a congregational supper.

In view of the news of deaths in the community and of a serious accident to two Omemee men, the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt led the congregation in special prayer for the families involved.

When George Bannon had been appointed secretary for the evening, Mr. Zufelt reported for the Omemee Bethel charge. In 1952, he said there had been 31 funerals, 13 marriages and 23 baptisms. There was a net increase in the church membership of 16.

Financial reports from all organizations of the Omemee church were favorable, approximately $7,500 being raised for all purposes of which $1,658 was for missionary projects. All junior organizations, YPU, Sunday School, Mission Band and Baby Band showed decided increases in membership. The Woman's Association also had an exceptionally good year. Appreciation was expressed for the work of Mr. and Mrs. Zufelt, the choir, the treasurer, the secretary and all who served in various capacities.

Retiring Stewards T. A. McConnell, Wesley Wilson, Burt Pogue, C. R. Vaughan, and Geo. Bannon were re-appointed. E. Mahood and A. N. Weir were appointed as trustees to replace Geo. Henderson who moved away, and the late William Connell. To take Mr. Connell's place as elder, Melville Jones was appointed, and Richard James replaced T. Brenton who moved from the vicinity. Auditors for 1953 will be Miss C. Connell and Miss J. Lamb. Melville Jones and T. A. McConnell were appointed assistant ushers.

It was decided to withdraw evening service for July and August and the first Sunday in September. The proposition of the church to put a United Church Observer in every active church home was discussed and recommended to the board.

Close to 2,000,000,000 caps for milk bottles are made in Canada each year.

"Better Growth and Feathering on FUL-O-PEP!"
says Wm. Whetung, Lakefield, Ont.
"This year I am starting all chicks brooded at my hatchery on Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter exclusively. I have found this feed produces a superior chick with less feed . . . due to the palatability of the feed and the readiness with which the chicks clean up the feed trough. Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter, with trace minerals, produces a chick superior to any I have raised in the past from the standpoint of growth, feathering and the general development of the chick."

Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter is a combination of the good old things . . . plus all the new things. 50-Year-Old Mystery

At the inquest, which was convened in the Town Hall, Lakefield, on October 1 and 2, a complicated story was unfolded. Coroner Grier presided. R. E. Wood represented the Crown. George Lennox was first witness. He stated he resided on Water St., near the old street railway "Y". On the night of September 24, he said he was awakened by a man he knew McDonald, who asked him to help with a car stalled on the road. A Bert Pearson, McDonald and Lennox went to the car and managed to push it into a lane.

He also knew Roland Darcy, Lennox testified, but did not recognize a recumbent figure in the front seat of the car. He stated he invited McDonald and his friend into his home, "but they decided to stay in the car all night". He saw McDonald throw an ulster over the sleeping man.

SPENT NIGHT

As he left his house shortly before 6 o'clock the following morning, both were still in the car, and Lennox added he believed they left for Lakefield shortly afterwards.

J. F. Sleeper, another witness, told the jury he saw Darcy and another man drive into Darcy's yard about 6:20 on the same morning.

"I think they were both drunk," he testified, "but the man with Darcy was in the worse condition." He later saw the pair in the yard, he said, standing beside the car and talking.

A. J. Kidd, blacksmith of Lakefield, stated he was talking on the road with another man (not identified), when he saw a car pass on the road.

The car was sweeping from one side of the highway to the other, he added, and both men in it appeared drunk. They took the corner of the town hall near Lakefield "very badly," he said.

W. A. Bell, farmer on the seventh line of Smith township, who had previously been a Peterborough street railway employee, was the witness who not only provided identification of the deceased man Eck to the satisfaction of the jury, but also threw considerable light on the past history of his movements.

McDonald, or Eck, as Bell called him, had been employed on his farm, doing chores, some three years previously. He told the jury that in viewing the body at Belleghem's he recognized a native Indian girl tattooed on the deceased's arm. This, he said, Eck had told him was done in India. He also verified a leg scar, which Eck said he sustained as the result of a wound he received in the South African war.

"What was his age?" Coroner Wood asked. Bell answered, "He would be about 30, but looked 40."

Bell was then asked what he knew about McDonald, or Eck.

BROUGHT McDONALD

Bell then stated that his son had been hurt in St. Catharines and McDonald had looked after the youth while he was in hospital. "When my son came home, he brought McDonald with him," he continued. "He had some sixty shirts with him, and when my wife was having his linen washed she noticed the name of a Birmingham manufacturer on each, with the initials J.V.E. She told him she regarded him as a gentleman, but she thought McDonald was not his right name, and that he ought not to be known as McDonald."

McDonald, Bell stated, then replied that his name was James Vincent Eck, and that his mother was a countess, and his father a baron. His mother died, he said, and left him $100,000 which he spent in four years. He had been receiving $200 a month from his father, but this supply was cut off, and he said "he was going to the devil as fast as he could."

Asked how he came into possession of Ecks' insurance papers, Bell replied: "He said he expected to be killed some day, and that he would rather leave his things at our place than any other. He afterwards moved to Marcus Dean's, near Selwyn, and took his trunk with him. He had six riding suits with him, for which he paid $100 each."

Bell further stated Eck worked on the farm for two months. Eck, he added, received his last cheque from England while working for him.

"The last I saw of him," Bell added, "was a year ago last spring." Bell added that Eck subsequently went to Cobalt, and that he had left his trunk "at Nixon's in Peterborough." Eck had written him, he said, instructing Bell to ask the bartender at Nixon's for the trunk, and he would deliver it. "We did not go after it," Bell added.

HEARD CRASH

Jacob Snelgrove, his son Bruce and John Hampton were the only witnesses to the accident. They heard a loud rattle on the road and saw a car upside down. One of the front wheels of the vehicle was still running when they reached the scene.

All three judged, from the position of the car, and locked front wheels, that the car must have been going very fast. They first removed Darcy, who remarked bitterly as he was pulled out, "That man is not fit to drive a car." Darcy subsequently told the inquest McDonald, or Eck, had assured him he was a qualified mechanic and quite capable of driving a car.

Darcy, while lying on the grass, drew a bottle he stated was ginger beer from his pocket and asked Snelgrove to open it. The cork could not be moved. Snelgrove threw it to one side and said that water was being brought. They testified they smelled liquor on Darcy's breath.

Darcy testified he first met Eck the night previously at Long's hotel in Peterborough. He stated both had been drinking, and the pair left together and boarded Darcy's car. Eck then told him, Darcy said, that he was a mechanic and had worked in a garage in Toronto.

Asked if he had whiskey in the car, Darcy replied, "Like the identity of the man, I don't know where it came from. He must have got it to take to the lumber camp."

Eck, Darcy said, had told him he intended going to Lakefield. Darcy invited him to his home. Eck refused any breakfast when they arrived, Darcy testified, and said he "was going to Buckhorn, and intended to walk." Eck added, Darcy said, that "my sister is working at Tom Eastwood's, and I'm going up for my money." Darcy then offered to drive him, and the accident subsequently occurred, with Eck at the wheel.

CHEST CRUSHED

Dr. J. R. Fraser testified death was caused by a crushed chest. He also stated Darcy did not smell of liquor when he examined him.

The jury, after deliberating half an hour, returned an open verdict.

The next development came from St. Catharines. Richmond F. Robinson, an ex-alderman of that city, made further identification of the body as that of James Sylvester Eck, whom he knew in St. Catharines, and stated the victim's father was a wealthy owner of nitrate mines in South America. He remembered Eck through the tattoo mark on the arm. Mr. Robinson added he had notified his brother-in-law at Cobalt, Leondard J. Singleton, who knew the home address of Eck's father, in order that he could cable the news to England.

In the meantime, the body, prior to being forwarded to the medical college, had once more been given a temporary other identity, which was later ruled out. It was believed by some persons it was that of Ephraim Windover, formerly of Buckhorn, who had been absent for several years since a warrant had been issued for his arrest. On what charge Windover was being sought is not at present known. Subsequently, a visit to Belleghem's by relatives of Windover, including his wife, denied the body was that of Windover. Windover was stated to be bald, while the accident victim had an ample head of hair.

Richardson, in St. Catharines, further stated that Eck, while in that city, had produced a death certificate showing his mother was a Spanish countess. The money Eck spent in St. Catharines during his residenece there, Richardson stated, ran into six figures. Richardson also confirmed that Eck had received a $200 monthly allowance from his father, but that he had incurred family displeasure for some unknown reason and the remittances stopped. It was then he changed his name to Stuart McDonald, Richardson stated. He added that Eck had a brother, and that they had served together in the South African war, the brother "falling with no less than seven wounds." The family home, Richardson said, was at Harrow, Middlesex, England.

BROUGHT BACK

The remains were finally claimed from the university by Richardson and Singleton, and brought back to Peterborough, where funeral services and burial took place. Father Cotey officiated. A cablegram from England was stated to have furnished funds for the funeral, and all expenses were paid.

The day after the funeral, the following telegram was received signed James Vincent Eck:

"Returned from bush today and learned of my sad death. Kindly convey sympathy with all for this disappointment for I am still alive and far from feeling dead."

But as far as is known, Eck never turned up in Peterborough again.

All the known salient points of the case are here. Actual location of the grave is now not known, although records of St. Peter's cemetery show a body identified as Eck was interred during the month of October, 1913.

Some reasonable conclusions can be drawn. It can safely be assumed that the victim was a James Vincent (or Sylvester) Eck; but that his father was an English baron, with an estate or residence at Harrow, is remote. There is no Baron Eck in Burke's Peerage. Even if the house died for lack of issue its record would be extant. This researcher also checked Van Eck (for German), Van Eyk (for Dutch) Eckstein, and Beck in a comprehensive search, but nothing comparable is listed.

Since we only have the deceased's words that his father was a baron, it is unlikely his mother was a Spanish countess. Eck did not scrupulously confine himself to telling the truth. If he could make one false statement, he could readily make another. He also had given Darcy misleading information as to his past, and also stated he had a sister working nearby. Why, if a close relative was nearby, did he never visit her?

Robinson of St. Catharines, who had some knowledge of Eck, was unaware of any sister in Canada; and did not know the deceased had left a trunk in Peterborough until the inquest. It should not be overlooked that the men must have been fairly well acquainted, since Robinson had been one of the sponsors of the insurance policy mentioned by Bell.

A tattoo mark of an Indian girl on an arm is not uncommon with ex-Imperial soldiers, sailors and other wanderers. There is nothing noted as exclusive about the design, and it could readily have been done in South Africa, in bazaars at Durban or Capetown. A good number of British soldiers, still living, carry the tattooed girl, but usually combined with one or two serpents. The tattoo most commonly is on the chest or abdomen. Troops used to consider it an art, even during the First World War, to use their chest and stomach muscles to make the girl and snakes perform what they termed a "Hootchie-Kootchie" dance.

Annual Meeting Discusses Repairing Church

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — The annual meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held in the church basement on Thursday evening, following a pot luck supper earlier in the evening.

The Rev. A. E. Toombs was chairman for the meeting, and Eldon Carlaw looked after the duties of secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

Reports by heads of the various departments occupied much of the time. Walter Badgley reported as Clerk of the Session, showing 15 members on the session. He paid special tribute to W. W. Clarke, who has served on the board for 40 years.

The report of the Board of Managers was given by A. F. Collette, chairman of the board. He said fewer major improvements had been made in the church during the year, but that the board has a busy year clearing up work that had already been started. Storm windows for the basement of the church were ordered. He explained how the church was financed, and told of the need for caution in future commitments.

Eldon Carlaw gave the treasurer's report, which showed over $8,000 raised during the year. There are still some loans outstanding.

Clayton Stephens reported for the Sunday School; Mrs. Wesley Stephens and Mrs. Fred Adamson reported for the WMS; Mrs. Arthur Wallace and Miss Muriel Milne reported for the Evening Auxiliary; Eldon Carlaw reported for the Mission Band; Ladies' Aid of Campbellford report was given by Mrs. H. Haskin and Mrs. Ralph Locke, and the Ladies' Aid of Seymour West report was read by Mrs. Reg. McCulloch; the choir report was given by Mrs. Albert Hazell, and that of the U. R. Welcome Club by Eldon Carlaw.

Mrs. Harry Burgis gave the cradle roll report. The reports were adopted collectively.

Mr. R. McCulloch reported for the Presbytery, and urged more members to attend Presbyterial meetings.

The three retiring members of the board were Reg. McCulloch, Arthur F. Collette, and Jack Clarke. Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Collette were returned to the board, and Mr. James Bell was replaced by Mr. Clarke. Secretary-treasurer Eldon Carlaw was re-elected by acclamation.

Under new business, Mr. Collette explined the various suggestions regarding the proposed renovation of the church and asked the congregation to state their wishes. After a lengthy discussion, it was decided, on motion, to call for tenders on the work, after which a congregational meeting will be called at which time members can decide on what they want to have done.

It was also decided to distribute printed financial reports to the congregation, as was done last year.

A prayer and benediction by the minister closed the meeting.

Bailieboro WI Holds Successful Meeting

BAILIEBORO (ENS) — The January meeting of the Bailieboro Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. James Johnston. Roll call was responded to by "A Pioneer Incident."

Resignation of Mrs. R. Hazeldon as second vice-president was accepted. A nominating committee composed of Mrs. A. Watt, Mrs. G. Fletcher and Mrs. R. Eagleson to prepare a slate of officers for the annual meeting was suggested.

Plans were discussed for a supper and bazaar on March 17. Mrs. H. C. Howson, Mrs. K. Dawson and Mrs. Roy Brackenridge are a committee to decide on the menu.

The treasurer reported $35 had been raised at the euchre parties. The next will be held on January 30.

The program consisted of readings by Mrs. Ken Dawson, "Old Recipe for a New Year," and by Mrs. Merton Thompson, "Darwin Was Wrong."

The guest speaker, introduced by Mrs. Roy Brackenridge, was the Rev. Herbert Yarr, who gave an interesting talk on "Life in Newfoundland."

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Brackenridge on February 17.

Confederation School Celebrates 25th Birthday

Confederation School, one of the three city public schools to come under the Peterborough Board of Education by annexation, will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its opening Tuesday night.

In January 1928, SS No. 2 South Monaghan was opened. The only similarity between this school and the present Confederation school is the site.

The original four-room building has been a nucleus for additions by the township board of trustees and later the city board of education. The school came under the board's jurisdiction after the city's annexation of part of North Monaghan township in 1945.

GROWN STEADILY

In the 25 intervening years the school has grown from four rooms to 12; from fewer than 100 students to 545; and from a staff of three to a staff of 12.

There is a unique story behind the building of the original school which is told by A. J. Arnott, who was chairman of the trustees of the school section when the school was built.

The public school age population of SS No. 2 North Monaghan in the later 1920's was growing far beyond the facilities of the one school in the section (now May's School). The school trustees, Mr. Arnott, Herbert May and Harvey Weber, decided that a second school in the section was a necessity.

Tenders were called and the lowest submitted was $45,000.

"We didn't have that much money and we couldn't get the people to vote us any more," Mr. Arnott said.

But the trustees decided that a school was a necessity.

DID OWN BUILDING

They took a plan from the other school in the section, made some improvements, chose a site and started building the school in the summer of 1927. Materials were bought and men were hired to work under Foreman Fred Finnie.

The building was completed with three rooms furnished by the end of the year at a total cost of $30,000—$15,000 less than the lowest tender.

These were the days before provincial school grants were given only on condition that plans be drawn by architects or engineers before they are approved.

When the school opened in January to all but entrance pupils nearly 100 students attended. The teachers were Mrs. H. B. Jackson, principal; Miss Ethel Garbutt and Miss Bertha Sanders.

It was decided to send entrance students to the other section school until the next year, when the fourth schoolroom was furnished.

ADDITION

Sixteen years later a two-room addition to the school was completed at a cost of $13,000. The contractor was T. J. Morrow of Woodville. This was the last of the additions until the city annexed the area in 1945.

At this time Arnold Olmstead was appointed vice-principal by the board of education. Grades 7 and 8 were sent to King Edward School.

Shortly after the school came under its jurisdiction, the school board purchased 10 lots adjoining the school to increase the area of schoolyard.

HEALTH CENTRE

The next step was the building of a six-room addition and extensive renovation of the original building at a cost of $120,000. Walter Mortlock was the contractor.

Jack Nichols, the present principal, received his appointment at this time. And the Grade 7 and 8 pupils were brought back. The senior school continued here until this year, when it was switched to Kenner Collegiate.

Confederation school now, as well as being one of the larger schools in the city, boasts one of the finest and best equipped health centres in the public schools. Completely modern, it consists of an examination, dressing and nurses room.

Tuesday night the 25th anniversary celebration of this school will take the form of an open house for former students. The members of the original staff will be present and Mrs. Jackson of Young's Point the first principal will be one of the guest speakers. Her address will contain interesting stories and anecdotes about the original school which can't be found in official records.

City To Honor 4 Champ Teams

Ald. Syd Black's reception committee tackled Friday afternoon a grateful problem of recognizing the four athletic teams which won championships for Peterborough in 1952.

They are the senior and juvenile lacrosse teams, the Orfuns in rugby and the UEW soccer team.

"I don't think we have ever had so many teams winning championships," said Ald. T. D. Miller, who proposed that "we should decide right away before we are into a new season, and decide on the form of recognition."

Mayor Waddell recalled that the Timbermen had won the Senior A, national title, in lacrosse, in rings as souvenirs of that accomplishment.

"Obviously, they shouldn't be presented with rings again for re-1951, and were presented with peating in 1952," His Worship said. "I feel there should be some discussion as to what would be suitable gifts in that case."

The juvenile lacrosse team won the Juvenile B provincial title, the UEW were Ontario intermediate champions for the second year in a row, and the Orfuns took the Ontario intermediate A honors and also the Eastern Canada championship, dropipng the national title to Winnipeg.

The committee decided to get full information as to the number of players on those teams and to do some thinking about the kind of gifts to be presented.

"And it should all be done as soon as we can," Ald. Black said.

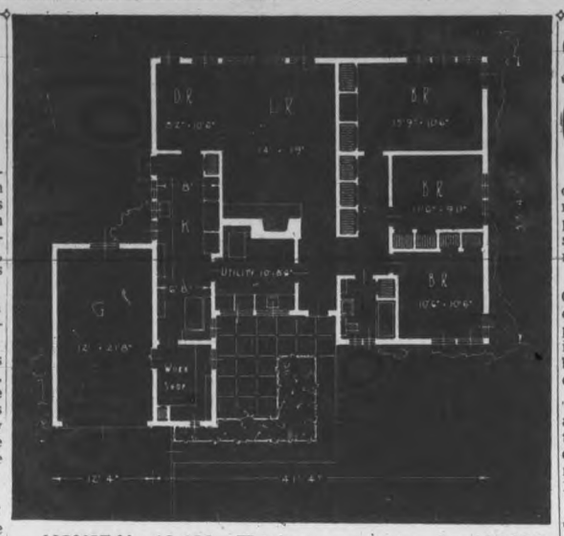
Despite the loss of an arm at the British evacuation of France at Dunkerque in 1940, Cowdray is still a topnotch polo player who has done much to revive the game in Britain since the war.



Miss Jackson comes from Nottingham, England.

HOUSE No. 62-600—This home, containing about 20,000 cu. ft., is what we'd call a pleasingly modern design—just right for the small family desiring a snug, well-planned house with a few new twists to give it added convenience and comfort. See how the three bedrooms are placed in relation to the bath and other rooms in the house. And notice the impressive wall of closets along with centre partition separating the living room from the bedrooms. The broad chimney serves both the fireplace and the oil furnace in the handy utility room. The lack of a wall between the small dining room and living room gives a feeling of space to both. Tempo Of Urban Life Needs Outdoor Privacy At Home

Privacy is necessary for satisfied home ownership. It makes possible genuine outdoor living in a yard that otherwise would only be outdoor space and seldom use. A wide-open yard is thus often wasted—the small house and yard which is open to public view at all times on all sides can be unbearable.

The tempo of present day urban life requires that homes have outdoor as well as indoor places to relax, to dine and to entertain. Houses just aren't large enough to keep from spreading over into the yard. Many outdoor household jobs are best hidden from view, yet there must be freedom to do these tasks.

The generous use of glass in walls is desirable only if those rooms benefitting from its use are shielded from the unwanted vision of street passers-by or neighbors.

Outdoor sound protection, likewise, is a vital element of privacy. Quiet relaxation isn't very effective if all the noise from the neighbor's yard or the street is always with you. There are also times when the family wants to be noisy without disturbing the neighbors.

Privacy is the result of planning: it does not come by accident. Often the shape of the house, the way it is placed on the site, or a slope will give privacy in one or more directions. But additional devices generally must be used on the remaining sides, and also to subdivide the yard as desired. Attractive, lightweight wood fences of various heights are more commonly used. Also low walls of masonry, or an accessory structure such as the garage or storage shed will screen well. Low growing fruit trees, hedges, carefully placed shrubs, and fast-growing vines on trellises are other ways of gaining privacy.

"KITCHEN-IN-THE-LIVING-ROOM"

Planning an open kitchen off the living-room requires considerable thought in establishing the decorative scheme. The kitchen area should not only tie in with the living-room scheme, but should present just as an attractive and inviting appearance. There are many ways of doing this and by using a little imagination it can be quite simple.

If the living-room is furnished in the contemporary manner, a streamlined kitchen fitted with all the latest equipment and gleaming chrome will tie in with the modern furnishings of the living-room.

The kitchen adjoining the traditional room, though planned for utility and modern convenience, should be subdued and unobstrusive in decor.

Combined with the casual, homey provincial living-room the kitchen area can be treated almost as a definite part of the room itself.

Let the living-room colors flow into the kitchen area with wallpaper that blends with the color scheme of the living-room. If the theme of the living-room is informal and chintz, cretonne or plaid is used for draperies, the same fabric can be repeated at the kitchen windows.

Match the linoleum or other hard surface floor-covering used in the kitchen with the color of the living-room rug.

Then, too, there are excellent ideas for space dividers that can be used effectively between the two rooms. The most practical and popular of which is a counter which serves as a bar for breakfast, snacks, children's meals and buffet suppers. These counters with cupboards beneath that open both into the kitchen and living-room provide storage space for china, glassware, linens, games and records.

A lattice-like partition painted to match the walls or woodwork and covered with ivy offers an effective and decorative room divider.

Spot Regulation Causes Uproar

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC board of governors today was asked to reconsider a proposed regulation placing a limit on the number of spot announcements a radio station may carry.

The request was made by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, representing most of the privately-owned stations in Canada, in a brief submitted to a CBC board meeting, called to consider changes in regulations.

CBC regulations now ban spot announcements Sundays and between 7:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. week days. The advertising content is not supposed to exceed in time 10 per cent of any program period.

The CBC proposes to lift the ban on spot advertisements Sundays and evenings. Instead spot announcements would be limited to four and to three minutes in any 15-minute period.

The C. A. B. said the regulation would "cripple the usefulness of broadcasting stations as a community service." It would "bar broadcasting facilities to many smaller advertisers."

Secret Of Painting Is In Preparation

By MR. FIX

Painting looks easy to non-professionals who have watched professional painters working at their trade. It is relatively easy, too, but the Saturday-Sunday amateur often makes painting a trying and none-too-rewarding task.

What with advancements being made in paint products and applicators, the job of painting a room is greatly simplified. Still, without adequate preparation and proper technique, the best paints—applied with expensive brushes or roller-coaters and infinite patience—are sometimes made to look like dime-store water colors.

The hardest part of painting is probably the preparation, collecting the tools and materials, taking the furniture out of the way, repairing and getting the surfaces clean and smooth.

The first area to paint is the ceiling—if it is to be painted a different color from the walls.

But before beginning on the ceiling, all cracks should be carefully filled, then smoothed level with the surface. Small, hairline cracks can be filled with spackling material applied with a putty knife, old kitchen knife, or even a finger.

The filler sets rapidly, so it saves time to smooth the surface before the spackling material is quite dry. This lessens the amount of sanding needed to make the surface smooth.

Larger cracks need to be filled with patching plaster. In ceilings, especially, it is often necessary to undercut the crack; that is, to make it wider on the inside than at the surface. Fill the whole opening with plaster and it will be firmly anchored.

The next step is to seal the newly patched areas with a primer-sealer, so that the porous plaster won't draw up the new paint like a sponge.

When painting a ceiling, work across the width, rather than the length of the room. This enables you to begin a second lap before the first has dried completely. Never paint a strip more than two feet wide.

Incidentally, not even professional painters claim their work is spatter-free. That's why they take the precaution of covering the floor—and their heads—before beginning work.

It's important to use good-quality brushes. A good brush holds more paint, loses bristles less readily and will enable you to get a clean-cut edge where ceilings and walls meet.

You will need a four-inch brush for large areas, a two-inch brush for woodwork and a "sash brush" for painting window frames. Remember that it is unwise to dip a brush into paint more than one-third of the length of the bristles. Be sure to wipe the handle whenever it needs it.

When you begin on the walls, start at the upper left-hand corner of each wall and work downward, painting a strip approximately two feet wide at a time.

Finally, do the woodwork. In most cases woodwork calls for an undercoater to give "tooth" to the new finish and to prevent chipping.

Now stand back and admire a good job, well planned and executed.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—What can nail holes in paneling be filled with?—F.M.

A—Match nail-hole areas to paneling with a filler of sawdust mixed with shellac. Mix in small quantities because it dries quite fast.

Paint products have improved to such an extent that the actual painting of a room is relatively simple—the catch is in preparation.

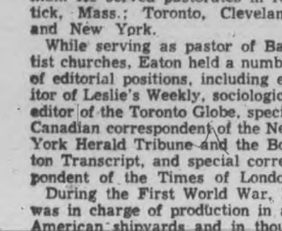
New Safety Rules For Ships

OTTAWA (CP)—New international safety measures now are in force for Canadian shipping, the transport department announced Thursday. The rules were approved by Parliament in 1950.

New passenger ships now must be built to conform to the safety regulations and existing vessels must instal them. Cargo ships also are included in the regulations for the first time.



Passenger ships must be built of fire-resisting material in passenger and crew areas or be fitted with automatic sprinkler and fire alarm systems. They also must be divided into fire zones by fire-resisting walls and decks.

Ships making short international voyages which cannot accommodate all passengers and crew in its lifeboats now must have watertight compartments. At least one motor-driven lifeboat must be provided and an approved type of distress signal including high altitude flares and smoke signals must be used.

Centurian Rises At 5 A.M. Goes To Church Every Day

WINNIPEG (CP)—When John Lozenko was a boy in Russia his grandmother used to say to him: "You will live to be 130."

She herself lived to be 115. John He told a reporter who smoked during an interview: "If you want to live as long as me you'll have to stop smoking."

WANTS TO BE 130—When John Lozenko, of Winnipeg, was a boy, his mother said he would live to be 130 years old. He recently celebrated his 100th birthday, says two ways to insure long life are: "Not to get angry and not to eat too much."

He celebrated his birthday by visiting another centenarian, John Stall, whose birthday was Jan. 22. After mutual congratulations they drank to each other's health.

Mr. Lozenko has been married twice and has had 21 children. Fourteen are still living and he has so many grandchildren and great grandchildren he can't count them.

IN RUSSIAN ARMY

He came to Canada in 1898 after serving in the army of the Czar and later in the Russian police force.

When he arrived in Winnipeg John got a job road building. Later he worked for the CPR but was obliged to retire when his sight began to fail. For 15 years he was practically blind.

During the 1950 Red river flood he went to live with a son in Toronto. He underwent an operation and his sight was restored.

The old man's life centres around the Russian Orthodox Church near his home, a neighborhood park where he sits on warm summer days, his friends and his family.

His great friend is a 14-year-old collie that wakes him each morning and dogs his steps throughout the day.

was 100 on Jan. 21 and determined to fulfil the prophecy of the old lady he now only dimly remembers. Medical men have told him he is still good for another 10 to 15 years.

Living here with a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. Lozenko gets up before 5 a.m. daily. He goes to church every day and is still able to look after his personal needs. He even makes his own bed.

What's his recipe for long life? "Not to get angry," says John, a slow smile creasing his face. "Not to eat too much, and to take an occasional drink."

New Drug Aids Blood Pressure

CHICAGO (AP) — A team of four Cleveland doctors reported today that apresoline, a relatively new drug, offers promise in the treatment of chronic high blood pressure.

They said that more than half of a group of 97 patients receiving the drug showed favorable response.

The doctors believe the drug may specifically counteract a chemical, originating in the brain, which is released into the blood stream causing a rise in blood pressure.

The drug produced some bad reaction in the majority of the patients such as headache, swelling of the eyelids, nausea and vomiting. However, most of these were controlled with other drugs.

The report, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, was by Drs. R. D. Taylor, Harriet P. Dustan, A. C. Corocoran and Irvine H. Page.

Londoners Getting Riled About Bad Pea-Soup Fogs

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP)—Normally easy-going London is finally getting really riled up about one of its long-time winter complaints—the city's famous pea-soup fogs.

During the last three months, four big sulphur-laden smog blankets have led to an estimated 6,000 deaths and seriously crippled communications in the world's biggest capital.

During one week in December, when the worst fog in recent memory muffled the city, the death rate jumped by 2,000 persons—more than doubling the normal figure for the period.

Most of the deaths have been attributed to bronchitis, pneumonia and heart ailments touched off by the fog. The government says it is probing the fatalities with "the gravest urgency."

The fog costs big money, too. On each of 16 dark days thus far this winter, the big international airlines using London's two main airports lost an estimated £60,000 through delays and diversions.

The squeeze on the airlines is so bad that they are pressing the government, which runs the airports, to bring back the wartime fog disposal system known as "Fido."

Under the system, gasoline or diesel oil is set afire in blazing rows alongside airport runways. The heat shifts the fog.

"Fido" is expensive, but airline officials say its cost is small in comparison to their losses. Peter Masefield, boss of the nationalized British European Airways Corporation said: "A fog costs us £20,000 a day. We are all in favor of Fido."

Storm Brewing In U.K. Mine Industry

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP)—Another storm is brewing in Britain's state-owned coal mining industry. It's the same old trouble—pressure by the miners for increased wages and counter-demands by coal board authorities for a substantial boost in output.

Although the nationalized mines produced 226,500,000 tons of coal during 1952, an increase of 3,600,000 over the previous 12 months, the industry faced the new year with an accumulated deficit of about £9,300,000.

Sir Hubert Houldsworth, chairman of the national coal board, in his annual survey of operations, pointed, however, to a series of developments during the year which normally would be greeted with optimism.

EXPORTS STEPPED UP

Apart from the modest production gain, exports were stepped-up to 11,720,000 tons, an increase of 3,790,000 over 1951, and a boost of nearly 20,000 in manpower to bring the total labor force to about 720,000.

Chief among the off-setting factors was a drop in output per man shift from 3.15 tons against 3.17 in 1951. There were also recurring labor disputes, contributing to loss of production, an uncertain export position and a progressive rise in costs.

For the third quarter of the year operations fell off sharply, resulting in a deficit of some £3,000,000, which was added to a loss of nearly £500,000 for the first six months and an unfavorable balance of £5,800,000 brought forward from previous operations.

LOSING MONEY

Since 1950, the average pithead price of coal has risen from £2 7s 10d to £2 17s 2d last year, with an actual drop at the same time in individual productivity. As a result the national exchequer has been losing approximately two shillings on every ton mined.

Meanwhile, unrest has been growing in the coalfields. The drop in man shift output since last October has been interpreted in some quarters as a show of resentment by the miners over rejection of their claim for a wage boost of 30 shillings a week.

The men also refuse to say until the pay dispute is resolved whether they will renew their undertaking to work Saturdays. The agreement, which lapses at the end of April, added 10,500,000 tons to the 1952 production and figures prominently in the board's long-range export commitments, domestic rationing and the nation's economy generally.

Sir Hubert stressed the need of guaranteed deliveries. Nothing was to be gained by Britain's going into the export market and then running into difficulties honoring contracts.

Larger Percentage To See Parade

LONDON (Reuters) — One of every 10 children in London will be sitting in special bleachers sipping free lemonade next June 2 when the Queen rides past in the coach of state to be crowned in Westminster Abbey.

An announcement Friday said that 30,000 school children—an increase of 50 per cent over previous plans—will be given seats for the pageant.

The lucky youngsters will be chosen in classroom lotteries, with the winners' names being picked out of a hat.

They will sit in stands between Charing Cross and Big Ben on both sides of the tree-lined boulevard along the river Thames. Squeezing the extra children into the route is possible because Coronation officials agreed last month to extend the parade to take in the riverside Embankment.

The London county council will provide free lemonade for the children and will also pay their fares to the big show. They'll have to bring their own sandwiches though.

Adequate Health Service Needed

TORONTO (CP)—A major necessity of modern industrial society is provision of adequate health and welfare services, Health Minister Martin said Friday.

Speaking to a meeting of the Canadian Welfare Council, community chests division, he said:

"The day of the self-sufficient man—and, from my recent work at the United Nations, I think I can add the days of the self-sufficient nation—are gone forever."

Canadians could well be proud of the progress, particularly in the last 10 years, in development of social service programs.

"Today, governments and welfare groups are investing $1,500,000,000 a year in human welfare—exactly 100 times what we spent on health and welfare a short 40 years ago."

He warned Canadians against letting their governments ever replace "those agencies which give the individual citizen an opportunity to take. . . . part in welfare activities."

Eisler's Agency Suffers In Purge

BERLIN (AP)—The Communist broom which swept Gerhart Eisler out of high position has almost emptied his old propaganda headquarters.

A brief look through the four-storey building in the Soviet sector Friday showed fewer than 200 employees where 1,200 once scurried about.

It was evident the purge shaking the entire Soviet sphere has taken a terrific toll in Eisler's agency, abolished Jan. 1 and replaced by a simple "press office."

Workmen have removed the imposing name plates which only three weeks ago denoted the cubby-holes where Eisler and his staff concocted a "hate America" diet for East Germany's 18,000,000 people.

The junk heap inherited the name plates of Eisler, deputy Albert Norden, Kurt Olivier, Gerhard Schulze, Richard Senkbusch and a dozen other branch chiefs.

The only plate of any moment left is that of Kurt Blecha, a long-term Communist who now is boss of the government's press office.

It's useless to ask what happened to the thousand employees who were thrown out. It's dangerous to ask about Eisler, a Jewish Communist leader who was given a hero's welcome when he arrived behind the Iron Curtain as a fugitive from U.S. courts in 1949.

Agricultural Science Being Applied More

TORONTO (CP)—Farming is becoming more and more scientific, the Ontario department of agriculture says in 1 195-page report on the year ended March 31, 1952.

The Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph is constantly trying new ideas for making farming more profitable, the report states, and says a new silage research committee has been formed.

Other departments covered by the report are agricultural engineering, chemistry, soil and the apiary and botanical sections.

The Christmas Spirit

MONTREAL (CP)—Judge Gerald Almond received an unusual form of seasonal greetings—a Christmas card accompanied by a $10 bill. A note enclosed asked the judge to give the money to some unfortunate, who in his opinion has "hit the end of the line."

Neighbors Aid Father Of 11

ST. JOSEPH D'ALMA, Que. (CP)—Friends of Paul-Emile Tremblay, the man who fathered 11 children, including five sets of twins, in 6½ years of married life, are helping him double the size of his house.

With funds donated by the municipal council and business men, a group of volunteer masons, carpenters and other handy men are adding four rooms to his three-room house.

A carpenter by trade, Tremblay, 28, is doing his share during his off-hours. He was recently hired as a yardman by the Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd., which has a plant near this Saguenay river town in northeastern Quebec. Rosa, his 29-year-old wife, and two youngest sets of twins, Jules and Julien, about 1½, and Francois and Francine, six weeks, are in a Chicoutimi hospital with the grippe.

Dr. J. A. Bergeron, the family physician, said he put them in hospital to prevent an epidemic in the Tremblay family. He said he understood the Quebec government has agreed to pay the hospital bill.

He said that since the Tremblay's "difficult" position was known, he had received more than $800 in cash and $300 worth of clothes for them.

The children still at home are being cared for by a woman friend while the father is at work.

U Of T Debaters Leave For Tour Of Britain

TORONTO (CP)—Three University of Toronto debaters are to leave Montreal by air today for a debating tour of Britain and Ireland.

They are Dwight Fulford, Trinity College, Herb Noble, University College, and Elmer Sopha, president of the University Law Club.

Sopha and Fulford will represent Eastern Canadian universities in a trophy debate at the University of Glasgow Jan. 30. Debates for the trophy are held alternate years in Scotland and Canada. Fulford is from Brockville.

Hewitt Charges Material Stolen

OTTAWA (CP)—Foster Hewitt, internationally - known hockey broadcaster, charged Friday that radio station CKEY of Toronto is incorporating in its broadcasts material taken from his play-by-play report of National Hockey League games over his own Toronto station.

He made the charge before the CBC board of governors, at a meeting called to consider proposed changes in regulations.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of station CKEY, denied the charge and said he is quite prepared to defend his position in court.

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, asked the board to ban the broadcast of re-constructed sports events.

Mr. Hewitt, operator of station CKFH in Toronto, said that last year he obtained from the NHL and rink owners the exclusive right to broadcast the away games of the Toronto Maple Leafs direct from the rinkside.

Deny Monty In Rome To Negotiate Pact

LONDON (AP) — Foreign office and church officials today denied reports published in Rome that Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery is negotiating a pact between the Church of England and the Vatican.

A foreign office spokesman said "we certainly do not know a thing about it." A Church of England spokesman said "it does not even begin to make sense."

The report, published in Rome's Momento Sera, said Montgomery "reportedly has the official capacity of a secret extraordinary ambassador from the government of London to the Holy See."

Polish Immigrant Convicted Of Murder

SOREL, Que. (CP)—Maksymilian Ciesla, 21-year-old Polish immigrant, was convicted of murder Thursday in the shotgun-slaying Sept. 25 last of Aurelian Houle, Yamaska East restaurant owner. He was sentenced to be hanged March 27.

Ciesla, who entered Canada as a displaced person in 1951, was found guilty of shooting the 32-year-old Houle during an attempted holdup. He was captured Oct. 17 on a St. Lawrence river island near Maskinonge, 65 miles east of Montreal.

A coroner's jury found Ciesla criminally responsible for the death during a hearing Oct. 20.

Abbott Optimistic About Future After Budget Peek

TORONTO (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott has taken a pre-budget look at the roots of Canada's prosperity and concluded that Canadians "can face the future with confidence." The man responsible for federal tax rates told the Toronto Canadian Club in a prepared speech that he couldn't talk about taxes because he had a date to say something about that "in another place" in the near future. But it is no secret, he added, that this is the time of year when he takes a close look at the economic structure and the underlying forces shaping Canada's future. What he has seen is encouraging.

Mr. Abbott's 1953-54 budget, likely to be brought down in March, is developed after government economists examine what the country's production will yield in the way of tax revenue.

SOLID ACHIEVEMENTS

"We move forward into 1953 against a background of solid achievements," he said. "we have high levels of employment; the economy is producing a rising level of real income for all our people; we have prosperity without inflation. There is a new opportunity to establish world trade on a better basis.

"My own view is that it would be a serious mistake to try to force the pace by artificial stimulants, excessive protection or too much and unwise government interference."

But while Canada's prosperity was firmly founded it could only move forward successfully within the framework of a growing level of international trade. And there still was the problem of sterling-area restrictions.

Mr. Abbott estimated that Canada's exports for 1952 reached a record $4,300,000,000, but noted that the main increase took place in trade with Britain and other overseas countries.

20 P.C. INCREASE

"With the United Kingdom alone, our exports should reach $750,000,000, an increase of about 20 per cent over last year (1951)."

The Commonwealth had forged a blueprint for increased multilateral trade, but it required the support of the United States.

Canada is ready to back it, said Mr. Abbott, and added:

"We all hope that this important initiative will be able to attract sufficient support, particularly in the U.S., to make it workable."

Report Pope Has Pneumonia, Slightly Better

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope, confined to bed by the first major ailment since he became head of the Roman Catholic Church, officially was reported improving today.

In its second bulletin since the Pontiff took to his bed last Thursday, l'Osservatore Romano noted the improvement. Authoritative Vatican sources say the Pope has been suffering from bronchial pneumonia.

The Vatican newspaper also confirmed that the 76-year-old Pontiff's ailment was more serious than at first indicated. L'Osservatore said the "irritation of the respiratory tract" that accompanied the Pope's ailment had, "after first information, presented a somewhat acute form."

It added that this "now is in an improving phase."

HAD HIGH FEVER

Vatican informants who said their information came from a spokesman in the secretary of state office Sunday identified the Pope's respiratory condition as bronchial pneumonia. These sources added today that the Pontiff's ailment reached what was probably its peak during the night of Friday and Saturday, when he had a high fever.

Sunday night, the Pontiff was visited by a specialist, whose name was not disclosed, as well as by his private physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, who has been staying at the Vatican palace since Friday night.

L'Osservatore said today the Pope's influenza attack is progressing normally and that his fever also was tending to decline this morning.

Sources close to the secretary of state office confirmed that the Pontiff was suffering from influenza and bronchial pneumonia. These sources said the Pontiff's condition, especially Friday night, had caused grave concern at the Vatican.

L'Osservatore said an altar has been placed by the Pope's bedroom for celebration of daily mass "pending the day that the Pontiff will be able to return to his private chapel to offer the divine sacrament. This day, it is believed, will be soon."

No official information has been released on the treatment given the Pope. Sources at the Vatican said, however, it could be assumed that such modern medicines as penicillin were being administered.

The Pontiff's attention to church duties continued despite his illness. He has been receiving his pro-secretaries of state regularly for discussion of church affairs. Sunday he listened to mass celebrated by a member of the Vatican household in a small studio adjoining the Pope's bedroom. He also recited the rosary for the return to Italy of war prisoners reported still held in Russia.

Plane Hits Downdraft 17 Passengers Shaken

NEW YORK (AP)—Seventeen passengers aboard a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane bound from Toronto to New York were shaken and bruised Saturday night when the aircraft encountered a violent downdraft.

The four-engined North Star, piloted by Capt. W. A. Lennie of Toronto, was flying at 5,600 feet when the downdraft dropped it 600 feet. The incident occurred over Sandy Hook, N.J.

The plane landed six minutes later at New York's Idlewild airport and seven passengers were treated for superficial injuries.

Capture Trio In 95 MPH Chase

MATTAWA (CP)—Three Toronto youths wanted by police were captured today after a 95-mile-an-hour chase over icy roads, punctuated by shots fired on the fleeing car.

In custody for investigation in connection with a stolen car are William E. Peters, 19; Derwin James, 20, both of Toronto, and Ernest Buden, 24, of Lakeview, a Toronto suburb.

The chase began when Constable H. Maloney spotted a car which had been reported stolen. He followed the auto in a hectic race over ice-coated roads. Three shots fired by Maloney did not halt the car.

The youths eluded capture momentarily when police abandoned the chase, but were picked up a few hours later. Peters and Buden were tracked down in the bush near here. James was found in a Mattawa garage, which police said he broke into to escape arrest. Mattawa is about 35 miles east of North Bay.

PORTLAND, England (Reuters) A stoker was killed and three other crew members injured today in an explosion in the boiler room of the Royal Navy destroyer Duchess.

The Duchess is one of the modern Daring class destroyers, the largest and most expensive ever built by the Royal Navy. She was launched two years ago.

Say 2 Shots Fired At Jail Guard

Possible Jail Break Planned, Police Officials Say

HAMILTON (CP)—After an all-night investigation by police and jail authorities it was believed today that two sharp reports heard outside the Barton street jail Sunday night, were shots from a rifle or high-powered revolver fired at or near a guard who was patrolling the floodlit courtyard. The guard was on the side of the jail where the maximum security or "confinement" cells are located.

Every available police cruiser was dispatched to the jail at 10:30 after guard Eric Johnson reported the shots fired from somewhere behind him. He saw them kick up the dirt in front of him, he said, and he dropped to the ground.

DROPPED TO GROUND

J. D. Heddle, jail governor, and William Carter, senior turnkey, were also on outside patrol at the time and both believed that the sharp reports were shots. They also dropped to the ground when they heard them.

After an interval of about a minute, the three got to their feet but could see no one in sight.

Lt.-Col. G. Hedley Basher, deputy minister of reform institutions said today that reports were received from Buffalo city detectives on Saturday "of a possible jail break attempt at the Barton street jail." He would not elaborate on the statement, other than to say that "special precautions" were taken.

Ship Flooded Limps Into Port

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — The Baltimore-bound freighter Captain Theo docked safely here today after racing for Capetown with water pouring into a hold faster than it could be pumped out.

The 7,129-ton Liberian vessel, was passing the Cape without calling Sunday night when she started to sink. The tug John X. Merriman put out from Capetown to help her.

The Captain Theo, built in 1943, is carrying a cargo of manganese ore. She was bound for Baltimore from Durban.

Her Greek master, Capt. Voulgaris Athan, said today that only the strength of the bulkheads between the hold and other parts of the ship saved the Captain Theo from foundering.

Athan said the hull cracked below water and the pumps could not keep pace with the flood.

Taken To Hospital After Shoes Explode

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—A Boise ditchmaster is in the hospital today because his shoes exploded.

Clarence Martin said he put sodium chlorate in some ditches about three weeks ago. The weather was wet and his shoes apparently soaked up some of the explosive chemical.

As he was installing a headgate Friday he set a grass fire to clear a ditch. He kicked some burning trash into the fire and his shoes exploded, leaving the uppers in shreds.

He jumped into a puddle of water. Shortly afterward, he entered hospital with burns.

Will Test New Atom Devices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. atomic energy commission announced today it will test "new and improved nuclear devices" at the Las Vegas, Nev., proving grounds beginning in March. The announcement did not go into detail about the nature of the tests. It said only: "The new series of tests is designed to advance development of new and improved nuclear devices and will provide additional weapons performance data essential to military and civil defence effects studies." The AEC said troop manoeuvres and training exercises will be part of the testing program. It estimated 18,000 members of the navy, army, air force and marines will take part.

USE ATOMIC SHELLS?

It has been expected that the program will include the first field tests of atomic artillery shells for use in the army's new super cannon developed at the Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland.

Development of this cannon, capable of shooting atomic or conventional missiles 20 miles with pin-point accuracy, was announced last year.

During atomic tests at Las Vegas last spring, eight atomic explosions were reported. They brought to 20 the total atomic blasts there since the Nevada site was first used in January, 1951.

2,000 Frightened Refugees Crowd Into West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — The weekend brought another 2,000 frightened refugees into West Berlin from the purge-ridden Soviet zone. Refugee facilities were taxed to the limit. An estimated 20,000 have crossed the Red frontier this month in a flight covering all walks of East Germany's Communist-dominated life. They include:

1. Jews, who are the latest target of Moscow's wrath.

2. Farmers being squeezed out of their chances of making a living through rigged crop quotas which the Communists know in advance they cannot fill.

3. Little business men bowing to the inevitable in a land where everything is rapidly being nationalized into "peoples' owned" enterprises.

4. Borderline officials who had Communist blessing for a time and now either have lost it or fear they are about to lose it.

5. Poor families unable to get enough to eat because they lack political influence to get special rations and also lack extra money to buy in the high-priced "state stores."

ASSIGN TOP MEN

Allied intelligence agencies have assigned their top men to the refugee centres to spot Eastern officials who may have valuable information and also to help the West Berlin authorities in their "screening" of suspected planted agents.

Those who get swept into the Allied net are swallowed up by a tight security veil. German sources said for instance the Americans are holding Count Ferdinand Thun, who as chief of protocol in the East rubbed elbows with Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky and other top Russians over years of state functions in East Berlin. U.S. officials refused to confirm or deny it.

Try To Wreck Passenger Train

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—What appeared to have been an attempt to wreck an east-bound passenger train of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad is being investigated by police and federal bureau of investigation agents.

The Chicago-Battle Creek-Montreal train hit a 1,000-pound steel rail across the tracks near Scotts, Mich., shortly after noon Saturday. The engine smashed the rail from the tracks, however, and no serious damage was done.

The engineer reported the incident, and railway officials estimated that it would have required six men to lift the rail onto the tracks.

Some officials expressed belief that the rail might have been placed across the tracks in a sabotage attempt, while others said it might have been a prank by boys.

CBC Approves Four Stations

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC board of governors today recommended licences for new radio stations in New Glasgow, N.S., Kingston, Ont., Edmonton and Eastview, Ont.

Applications for the new stations were considered by the 11-member board at public meetings last week. The board's recommendations are forwarded to the transport department and invariably are accepted.

The new Kingston station will be operated by a company headed by Maj. R. S. Grant of the Royal Canadian Signal Corps. Maj. Grant is in charge of the army's radio receiving station at Leitrim, Ont.

His application was opposed by station CKWS of Kingston.

The board said that in its opinion there is place for an additional privately-owned station serving the Kingston area.

The board recommended approval of an application by Queen's University for permission to establish an FM station in Kingston.

May Expand Reserve Army

OTTAWA (CP)—The Conference of the Defence Associations has decided to give further study to proposals to expand and strengthen Canada's Reserve Army.

In a brief statement Saturday at the close of a three-day meeting, the conference recommended further study of proposals put forward by Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, to determine how best reforms might be instituted. The conference was held in closed sessions.

The statement indicated that no final decisions were reached on proposals by Gen. Simonds which, it is understood, would simplify training for the reserves, take some of the administrative load off them and possibly put some of the less energetic units on an inactive basis.

Delegates representing 12 corps associations from across Canada attended the conference.

Brig. A. W. Beament, CBE, Ottawa, was elected chairman of the conference to succeed Brig. G. M. Grant, CBE, also of Ottawa.

Police Investigate Possibility Of Ship Sabotage

LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—A charred and gutted hulk was all that remained today of the Empress of Canada, proud transatlantic luxury liner swept by almost 24 hours of raging flames. The 20,235-ton Canadian Pacific ship, a regular traveller between Liverpool and Eastern Canadian ports, was declared a total loss today as firefighters finally won their overnight battle to control the blaze. The $5,000,000 ship had been berthed in a floating dock here for her annual overhaul as she prepared to return to service for the heavy pre-coronation trade.

Pockets of fire, mostly below decks, still burned during the morning but the blaze was under control and largely out.

A fire officer emerging from the dense smoke in the forward end nearly 24 hours after the fire first was reported said the ship is "very hot right along the hull."

"She is still burning furiously," he added.

DENSE SMOKE

Dense clouds of smoke still rose in the sky as the 25-year-old ship, her life at an end, lay on her port side, propellers out of the water, like a huge half-submerged whale.

Even as the battle against the flames continued, Canadian Pacific Steamships announced that arrangements were being made to provide other bookings for persons who had planned to sail from Canada on the Empress for the Coronation June 2. Canadian Pacific said passengers would be informed individually of other arrangements.

Police began to investigate the possibility of sabotage. Chief superintendent H. R. Balmer of the Liverpool criminal investigation department, said sabotage could not be ruled out in the search for the cause of the blaze. It was believed to have started in the dispensary or a pantry. However, he said, the cause "may have been quite accidental."

In London. Dr. J. B. Firth of the home office was called in to aid the investigation. A complete study cannot be made until the hulk is raised.

Big UN Attack Flop, Halted By Chinese

SEOUL (AP)—Allied fighter-bombers ripped into Communist battlefront positions today after United Nations troops took a licking on the western Korean front in an elaborately-planned "program" raid.

The 4½-hour raid was the heaviest ground action of the new year. Allied infantry, tanks, flame-throwers, artillery and planes were thrown into the unsuccessful assault on Spud hill.

High brass and correspondents—provided in advance with a pamphlet describing each phase of the attack—watched from nearby bunkers. Called "Operation Smack," it had been planned since Jan. 19.

But the Chinese Communists were ready. They caught the charging UN infantrymen in a deadly crossfire.

Then the Allied troops tried to burn out the Reds with flame-throwers. However, in many instances, the flame-throwers ran out of fuel.

Michigan Couple Die In Crash

STRATHROY (CP)—Charles O. Burlingham and his wife, Marie H. Burlingham, both aged 64, of Lansing, Mich., were killed and two others injured in a head-on automobile crash near Hickory Corners just east of here during a blinding snowstorm Sunday.

Admitted to Strathroy Hospital were William T. Purdy, 20, of Hamilton, and Iris Phillips of London, Ont. Both were reported in fair condition with face cuts and undetermined head injuries.

Police said visibility at the time of the crash was almost zero due to heavy snow which also made the highway slippery.

Speedy Trial Ordered For Hensler

MONTREAL (CP) — Frederick Hensler was ordered today by Judge Rene Theberge to appear Feb. 4 for speedy trial on a charge of theft of an advance copy of the Currie report on the army works services.

Judge Theberge denied a request by defence counsel Alexandre Chevalier for preliminary hearing and trial by jury.

He told Mr. Chevalier he had not indicated sufficient reason why a case involving theft of goods valued at less than $25 should go to preliminary hearing. Hensler was charged with theft of 79 sheets of paper—the Currie report—valued at $20.

Normally, cases involving theft of property valued at less than $25 are judged without preliminary hearing and jury procedure.

SURRENDERS TO POLICE

Hensler, free on $500 bail, surrendered to police Friday after a police search for him on the charge, laid by George S. Currie, the Montreal chartered accountant who prepared the report for Defence Minister Claxton.

A printing plant employee, he is alleged to have stolen the document while advance copies were being printed in a Montreal printing establishment for Mr. Currie.

Judge Theberge said it would be unfair to Hensler to accept his counsel's application for preliminary hearing because this would automatically make him liable to a sentence of seven years' imprisonment if convicted. Sending him to summary trial would subject him to a maximum sentence of six months if convicted.

Bilk Immigrant Of Savings

OSHAWA (CP)—A young immigrant told police Saturday he was abducted by two men and threatened with death if he refused to sign a cheque for his entire savings.

Robert Baier, 22, said the two men picked him up Friday on an Oshawa street and offered to help him seek work. They drove to the outskirts of the city, and there forced him to sign a cheque for $120, the exact amount in his account. The cheque carried Baier's account number.

"How they knew the amount and my account number I don't know," Baier told police. "I didn't want to sign but they said they would kill me if I didn't."

Baier said he was then driven back to the city and dropped off. Six hours later he reported the incident to police. They called the bank and learned two men had been in and presented the cheque for payment a few hours before.

Truman Future Settled

Plans To Write Memoirs For $500,000

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman, it may now be disclosed, has been assured of contracts providing him enough money for his future needs and to permit him complete freedom to say and write what he pleases.

This reporter was told by one of Truman's closest friends that Truman will write his memoirs for a New York publishing firm at a figure expected to run above $500,000 over a period of several years.

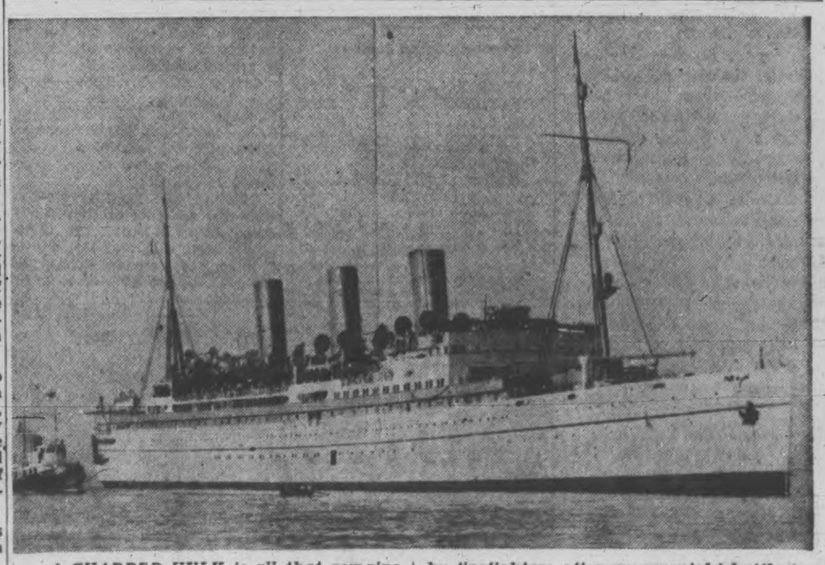
In addition, Truman will make periodical, carefully - selected lecture tours along lines of his own choosing.

The source for this word of Truman's plans would not be quoted by name.

Details of the agreement are being handled for the former president by Matthew J. Connelly, his top secretary at the White House until the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower last Tuesday.

The source would not say what publishing firm is making the contract for the memoirs.

The former president himself has refused to discuss his future, since he has stayed out of the negotiations, but he did set a pattern for the contract. He believes anything he undertakes must be in such strict conformity with the dignity of the high office he held that no one can raise any question about the propriety of what he does.



TURNS DOWN OFFERS

Truman has turned down more than one $100,000-a-year offer to serve as sales manager for manufacturing and other companies.

The agreement under which he will write his memoirs and deliver lectures will provide sufficient income to maintain his private office in Kansas City and his home in Independence, Mo., as well as to travel, speak and do other miscellaneous writing.

The source of Truman's future plans said the problem now is to get Truman away for a real vacation before he undertakes his memoir and lecture assignments. Plans now do not contemplate his doing anything for six months.

The plan is for Truman to take a long cruise in the South Pacific with Mrs. Truman and Margaret as soon as it can be set up. There is a possibility they will visit Hawaii.

A CHARRED HULK is all that remains of this proud Canadian liner, the Empress of Canada, following a fire at the Liverpool docks. The ship was declared a total loss by firefighters after an overnight battle to quell the flames. During the war, as the Duchess of Richmond, the vessel served as a troop carrier.

No Sales Made For Hogs Under New Plan

Hog Producers today were wondering how United Livestock Sales Limited was likely to fare in the realities of the market this week. Recent news has told about the institution of the Central Hog Marketing Agency which has been set up by the hog producers of the province. The latest release was to the effect that their plan of marketing would begin on Friday, Jan. 23. Early today there was no information through Canadian Press as to what results, if any, had developed under the new scheme. Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Establishment of the United Livestock Sales Limited as marketing agent for Ontario hogs has had no effect on the general market as yet. Receipts have been only average and prices have not been established today.

newspapers have contributed nothing from the primary sources of the different packing plants and head office of the OHP.

C. W. McInnis, president of the Ontario Hog Producers, is quoted in the recent release: "Approximately 90% of all hogs sold in Ontario are purchased direct by the processing companies, with the hogs arriving at the slaughter premises before the true market value is established."

DOUBT SCHEME TO WORK

At the recent annual meeting of Northumberland producers, as reported from Brighton, some farmers expressed doubt about the scheme being practicable.

As for today, oficial silence appears to have descended on the hog marketing situation. The new marketing scheme is likely to receive a realistic test this week. No other comment was available from any source. Producers were waiting to see what happened on the higher level of control.

Car Smugglers Cross Border To Make Sales

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—A band of automobile smugglers is reported to be driving cars through northern New York customs stations for sale in Canada.

The Syracuse Post-Standard in a story Saturday said the smuggling ring is made up mostly of Canadians, several of whom live in upstate New York.

The newspaper said the scheme works like this:

A member of the ring buys a wrecked car in Canada from its owner or an insurance company and gains its registration papers.

A confederate in the U.S. buys a similar car the same color. The car enters Canada under U.S. registration on a tourist permit.

IDENTIFICATION FIXED

Identification of the American car then is fixed to coincide with that of the wrecked car and is eventually sold at a large profit.

All that remains is to convince Canadian customs that the car with the tourist permit has been returned to the U.S.—although it hasn't. Canadian customs in the past have been reported lax in checikng returning cars against permits, and simple subterfuge is all that is necessary for the agent to recross the border with or without a car.

The newspaper said Canadian authorities are well on their way to breaking up the racket, however.

Participants in the plan on the U.S. side of the border appear to be safe from prosecution. American authorities can do nothing about it. The only crime involved appears to be perjury, and if committed it was on Canadian soil.

Canadian customs officials say the import of used cars is banned by law.

POLICE INVESTIGATION

OTTAWA (CP) — Smuggling of automobiles from upstate New York into Canada has been under investigation for the last two months, RCMP and customs officials said today.

Spokesmen said the extent of the smuggling is not yet known but about six cases of illegally-entered cars have been traced. A number of charges have been laid at Kingston, Ont.

They confirmed, in general terms, the Syracuse story.

The officials said the U.S. end of the operation apparently has been around Watertown, N.Y., with the Canadian end at Kingston.

At Kingston last month, Raymond W. Peterson of that city was convicted on two charges of selling cars unlawfully imported into Canada. He was fined a total of $450.

Another charge has been laid against a Kingston man, police said, but they declined to give details because RCMP headquarters was not sure whether he has been picked up yet.

Send 2nd Tug To Help Ship

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A second tug was en route today to join a sister ship in an attempt to free the Norwegian freighter Kent County, grounded on a rocky ledge in Conception Bay.

Two other ships were reported in trouble on the storm-whipped North Atlantic, but one was nearing port under her own steam.

The tug Foundation Frances left Halifax Sunday night to help the Foundation Lillian, which has tried unsuccessfully to pull the 7,233-ton Kent County from the reef on Little Bell Island where she grounded in a snowstorm.

The British freighter St. Edmund, decks strapped and bolted to protect a storm-pounded rip in her topsides, was nearing port here escorted by the United States Coast Guard cutter Cook.

Two other Coast Guard cutters were expected to reach the 621-ton Icelandic freighter Foldin today. The tiny vessel sent an S O S Sunday after storms smashed her steering gear, leaving her and her 15-man crew at the mercy of gale winds 100 miles south of Greenland.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto at 9:30 a.m.

Synopsis: Blustery north winds which have buffeted much of the province for the past 36 hours or so are subsiding rapidly today. Rather chilly overnight temperatures ranging from 35 below zero at White River to 5 to 10 above zero across Southern Ontario will moderate slightly today and with a return to southerly winds tonight this moderating trend will continue. The return to milder weather which is expected for Tuesday will however be of short duration as very much colder air which has originated in Siberia is already pushing its way through southern Alberta. This new cold thrust is lively to move over Ontario Wednesday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Tuesday:

Eastern Lake Ontario, Haliburton, Kirkland Lake regions, Sudbury, North Bay cities: Sunny, clouding over after midnight. Cloudy with a few light snowflurries Tuesday. Milder Tuesday. Winds northwest 15 today, light tonight, south 15 Tuesday. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Trenton 15 and 32, Killaloe and Earlton 5 below and 20 above, Sudbury and North Bay zero and 25 above. Summary for Tuesday: Cloudy and milder.

WIND AND ICE combined to provide thrilling sport for those who thought to take their skates and umbrellas or a sail down to Little Lake Sunday. It was rather hard on the umbrellas though, as the top picture shows. The girls enjoying themselves are Peggy Richardson, Crescent St., and Sharon Reynolds, Romaine St. A sail swept two others along at a great rate.—Keith Parks Photo.

Top Assessment Shifts to Otonabee

Otonabee township has now replaced Smith township as the heaviest assessed municipality for county purposes. This was caused by the recent annexation of 1,256 acres of Smith by the city of Peterborough. To Smith it means a loss of $392,505 in local assessment and $435,120 in the equalized assessment which is calculated differently. County statistics have been altered by the large annexation. There are now 629 people less, making a total of 20,798. The number of ratepayers had been reduced from 12,048 to 11,461. And the equalized assessment has bone down from $14,639,138 to $14,203,018.

The loss of assessment was commented on at the inaugural session of county council that ended Saturday. When calculating the road rate for 1953 Jack Kean, county engineer and road superintendent, said that the rate might have been pared another quarter of a mill had it not been for the $435,120 drop in county assessment.

Smith's $392,505 drop in local assessment is made up as follows: $41,975 professional and commercial, $25,600 farm lands, $313,150 residential, and $11,780 in business assessment.

The local assessment for that annexed area is $42,615 below the equalized assessment as determined by County Assessor Stewart Sparling.

SALVAGE TAKES YEARS

Capt. W. R. Colbeck, Liverpool port marine surveyor, said after a conference that the salvage of the ship would cost at least £100,000 and take a year.

The fire was the third in a week at the Liverpool docks. Last Sunday fire broke out in the Ellerman liner City of Florence. A few days later oil-storage tanks caught fire on the liner City of Gloucester.

No passengers were aboard the Empress of Canada Sunday night when the fire broke out. The few crew members on the ship escaped safely. Five firemen required treatment for minor injuries.

Firemen, who watched helplessly after battling the flames six hours, poured tons of water into the dying ship all through the night to prevent the flames reaching other ships and pierside buildings. Many crew members stood weeping beside them as the ship went through her death throes.

She heeled over on her side, still blazing furiously, 9½ hours after the fire began.

The liner came to Gladstone dock last Saturday after returning to Liverpool from Canada Jan. 12. She had been in dry dock for a Coronation year overhaul.

The ship had been due to leave for Saint John, N.B., Feb. 11 under command of Capt. J. P. Dobson, on leave at his Liverpool home at the time of the fire.

Hundreds of tons of water were poured into her and speeded a sharp list to port. Her superstructure and funnels crashed into a dockside shed. The ship's yardarm crashed through the building. The liner ended on her side, settled in the muddy water almost up against the dockside.

SAD MOMENT

Her former master, Capt. E. A. Shergolf, who now has a shore job with the company, said: "This is my saddest moment. We were such old friends."

She carries a crew of 350 Britons and accommodates 700 passengers.

The ship was familiar to thousands of Canadians.

Hundreds had planned to sail in her to England for the June 2 Coronation. Thousands of others had sailed in her, either as members of the Canadian armed services during the Second World War when she was the Duchess of Richmond, or as passengers in peacetime.

BUILT IN 1928

As a member of the Canadian Pacific's duchess fleet, she was built in 1928 in the Clyde shipyards of Scotland. For years she plied the St. Lawrence river from Montreal, calling at Quebec City on her run to Liverpool.

During the war she carried 187,000 Allied troops.

After the war she was renamed the Empress of Canada for the first Empress of Canada, which was sunk by enemy action in 1943 off Freetown, West Africa, with the loss of 400 lives.

Her end came shortly before she was to have been replaced. Managing director A. C. MacDonald said recently that the keel of a ship to replace her would be laid next summer or fall with completion expected in two or three years.

The ship had little chance in the blaze. More than 200 firemen with 40 pieces of apparatus fought the fire, but were forced to abandon her when the flames got out of control.

CREW ESCAPES

The crew members aboard, some of them deep down in the engine room, made their way out through the smoke-filled passageways. Their knowledge of the ship's interior probably saved their lives.

Firemen wearing masks ran miles of hose around her docking place and swarmed aboard in the early stages of the blaze, trying to seek out its source.

FORCED BACK

Intense heat finally forced the firefighters to leap to the dockside. White-hot plates buckled and rivets popped like bullets behind them.

Acetylene torches cut holes through the hull and firemen pumped hundreds of tons of water into the hulk, now blazing from bridge to stern. The weight of the water heightened her list and she slid gently off the dock and settled quietly on her side.

Lying astern of the ship during her death throes was the Empress of France, her sister ship. She and other ships nearby were not endangered.

Union Meets Railways For New Talk

Both Sides Anxious To Find Solution Before Strike Deadline

MONTREAL (CP)—Railway and union officials meeting in an effort to settle a country-wide strike set for Feb. 2 adjourned for luncheon without any formal statement.

The meeting, between officers of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, lasted two heurs and 35 minutes.

It was scheduled to resume at 2:30 p.m. EST.

It was the third meeting between the carriers and the BRT which represents 25,000 trainmen. The brotherhood set the strike date more than a week ago, pending "no reasonable settlement" of their demands.

The brothernood originally sought a 35-per-cent wage increase. The majority report of a conciliation board recommended 12 per cent and a minority report 20 per cent.

The union wanted discussions to centre around the minority report while the railways held out for the majority report as the basis of negotiations. This brought about cessation of talks at the first two meetings.

WORRIED ABOUT DELAY

The railways proposed today's meeting last Friday in a joint telegram to A. J. Kelly, BRT vice-president. At the time, Mr. Kelly said "we will respect their notice" but expressed concern at the "additional delay."

The railways' telegram expressed unwillingness "to conclude that the position is as hopeless as the meeting yesterday (last Thursday) with our negotiating committees indicated and that a complete discontinuance of railway service in Canada is inevitable."

Proposing a "full discussion of the matter" in suggesting the third meeting, the telegram said "in view of the seriousness of the situation to both parties and to the country as a whole, it is urgently necessary that a further effort be made to avert a strike."

It was only last month that 144,000 non-operating employees came to terms with the railways, erasing the threat of a general strike. They got an average wage increase of 16 cents an hour and a check-off of union dues.

Stock Market Prices Make Little Headway

TORONTO (CP)—Prices made little headway in rapid early afternoon stock market trading today.

Base metals led the advances with a gain of half a point on the exchange index, after adding more than that amount during the morning.

Continued interest in low-priced mining issues and heavy trading in a number of stocks boosted the third - hour volume to 3,848,000 shares.

Western oils gains ranged to 50 cents and losses to the 30 cents lost by Calmont. Gainers between 15 and 50 cents were Cons. Cordasun, Peace River, National, Britalta and Western Leasehold.

Most of the actively - traded "penny" stocks gained, led by New Larder U which added 39 cents in a turnover of 324,000 shares. Vilbona, Norseman and Quesabe gained pennies.

Senior golds were mixed and juniors slipped but strength in prospects buoyed the list. Holding companies turned mixed after a firm morning.

Industrials gained as utilities, steels, constructions, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues rose. Foods weakened, and papers turned mixed.

Senior golds strengthened in afternoon trading and most other issues followed. Fenimore and Rix gained.

United Counties Cut Grants Up Road Rate

COBOURG, (ENS) —Northumberland and Durham Counties at the closing day of their January session added a half mill to the road rate, lopped 50% off grants to the Salvation Army and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and for 1953, decided to make no grants to the hospitals by way of maintenance. It was evident that in order to do more work on the roads and still keep the rate at the same level as last year, council would have to affect economies to offset the increase in the road appropriation, and that they did.

Two suggested road appropriations were presented to council earlier in the week. One, on a basis of four and a half mills, the same as last year, called for an outlay of $340,300 of whcih the counties share, after subsidies and other sources of revenue had been deducted, would be $159,600. On the five mill rate, total outlay would be $375,900 or a net cost to the counties of 177,400. Even the increased figure is said to be 25% less than the average spent per mile on roads by other counties.

CRITICIZE WORK

The way the work on the counties roads has been spread out came in for a blast at the closing session.

"In raising the road rate one half mill," asked Reeve Charles Burrison of Hamilton township, "do you realize what you have done? Now, I am not opposed to spending more money but the question which arises in my mind is, will we leave the expenditure to the juggernaut system of the past and allow the money to be squandered the way it has been in the past years? In my opinion 50 cents in the dollar is wasted. As a matter of fact an ex-warden estimated it at 60 cents on the dollar. It is time that something is done so that we get value for the money we spend on our roads. We certainly don't get value in our township for what is spent. We have two bad corners in our township for years and every year it is the same story — no money. Two weeks ago a young soldier missed one of these bad corners and smashed his car up. Will we have to wait until somebody is killed before we get action.

"There is five times as much wasted as would do that corner. There are holes in our roads that ruin automobile tires, People are afraid to holler about it lest we don't get any money spent in our township at all. Now this year we have 20 new members in our counties council and why? Because of the dissatisfaction from one end of the counties to the other. We must have more control over how the money is spent.

Mr. Jordon (road superintendent) says that we are short of stop signs. There is no reason why they can't make some up in the counties road shop," declared Reeve Burrison.

OTHER COMPLAINTS

Reeve Burrison added that there were complaints of outfits (road equipment) standing idle, motors running but nobody in sight, and it was not in isolated cases. There had been paving done last year but in his opinion twice as much could have been done if the money had been spent properly.

"The situation demands action. Put these men and their disciples to work and then we can go back to our electors and say that we have done something about the situation," concluded the reeve of Hamilton township.

Reeve Allan Beer, of Manvers township, said that he was opposed last year to raising the road rate because he felt that more money was being paid out than there was justified by the returns. The money was being spent in only a few townships and he would like to see it more equalized.

"We don't mind paying more money if we are going to get something out of it. They do all the paving in three or four townships that have enough influence to bear. I am not opposing the increase in the road rate, but I want to see it spread around more fairly," said Reeve Beer.

Reeve W. W. Archer declared that more action on the road in his township (Seymour) would be expected. Reeve B. Broadworth, of Percy township, declared that his township felt the same way about it.

TRYING TO EVEN UP THINGS

Reeve R. McCann, of Brighton township, said that last year was his first year on the road commission and that the commission last year was trying to make the spread of work more equitable. It was true that hitherto some townships had received more than twice what they had paid in but the commission was trying to even things up. Seven miles were laid last year in paving and it was not restricted to where there was representation on the road commission. He recalled that he had said last year that he was not in favor of construction unless it was paving because gravel roads would not last. He told the council that it was not possible to get the work out of a man that was possible ten years ago. The time of an honest day's work for an honest day's pay was a thing of the past. He said he knew that money had been wasted but how to find a cure for it he didn't know. Some action had been taken last year after those who were complaining realized that facts, not hearsay, were the only way to get action. It had been recommended that the helpers for a road foreman be cut to two men. One man said that a foreman could do more work with two men helping him than with four or five.

Reeve Beer said that he was sure that the 1952 road commission had done a good job but it had to be looked at from the standpoint of a long term affair. Manvers township only had one mile done and got it when the township had a man on the road commission. He suggested that a fairly long term plan of paving be drawn up.

IMPROVED IN 1952

Reeve D. Olan of Cavan township agreed that last year's road commission was an improvement. Now that more money had been voted perhaps all could get a little paving done instead of just the large municipalities. Perhaps the municipalities should have the roads given back to them and disband the whole system of counties roads as he felt that the municipalities could do a better job themselves.

Reeve G. Rickhard of Darlington township said that the work should be done in proportion to amount paid into the county rate and the volume of traffic.

"Mr. Marsten (highway dept. engineer) told us the other day that we should concentrate on the main roads The other view is based on the amount paid into the county rate. You can see that the Road Commission is under pressure from all sides," said Warden Lowery.

When the finance committee presented its report, Reeve J. G. Honey of Cramahe township moved that the recommendation of the finance committee of a $1,000 grant to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind be cut to $500 as the appeals were overlapping; carried.

Lloyd Hootan was appointed to the Road Commission for four year term; G. Black for two years and G. Broomfield for one year. E. M. Herrington was appointed to the Board of Management of the counties home and S. Gray and W. Archer to the counties board of health. Sid Little was appointed to the special county property committee.

HOSPITAL GRANTS

Considerable discussion centred on hospital grants. Deputy-Reeve A. S. Smith of Port Hope said he didn't see why 50 cents a day extra should be paid for patients from the counties to Peterborough Civic Hospital. It was pointed out this amount was rebated by the hospital to the patient. All that the hospital got out of it was the bother of the bookkeeping. Reeve Beer said that it didn't appear fair to pay this amount to Peterborough and not to other hospitals outside the counties.

"It is time we got out of the hospital business," said Reeve R. W. Nichols of Darlington township, adding that the surrounding municipalities should support their own hospitals.

"I am going to move that we cancel all maintenance grants to hospitals," said Reeve Beer. It was seconded by Reeve C. Nichols of Hope township and carried after the resolution was amended to include cancellation of the 50 cent grant per day per counties patient at Peterborough Civic.

"I'd like to see the same mill rate this year but if we don't cut down in order to offset the increase in the road rate, we will not be able to keep the rate the same as last year," said Reeve C. Nichols.

Reeve Horace Smith of Port Hope suggested that the hospitals be notified that the grant was being discontinued and a motion carried to that effect.

HAVING HARD TIME

Deputy-Reeve O. F. Robson of Bowmanville reminded that hospitals were essential the same as roads were, that hospitals were having a hard time keeping going and that if the money didn't come in the form of a grant, it would have to be raised in some other fashion. Shortage of nurses was a big problem with hospitals commented Reeve Burrison. Reeve Sid Little of Bowmanville declared that girls were not going to train for nurses when they could get good money right at the start at other work.

"All we are doing is putting the responsibility where it belongs—on the area served by the hospital," said Deputy-Reeve Smith.

It was a session of surprises, the January sittings of counties council. First of all 20 new members were elected to the council, the largest number of changes in the history of the counties council. Second surprise came at the end of the session when the council voted in favor of a move to secure voting by secret ballot instead of the open vote in the election of warden. Hitherto in these counties the warden is elected by open vote. Council passed a resolution sponsored by Deputy-Reeve Smith and Reeve Sid Little that the government be asked to amend the act so as to permit the secret ballot in the election of warden.

"There cannot help but be some prejudice when we vote for the warden by open vote," said Deputy-Reeve Robson.

"I agree," said Reeve Beer.

It said the director, Yakov Meilman, had made an uncle supply chief and a nephew shift foreman. The posts of chief bookkeeper and planning chief were given to two more relations, and four others were appointed to positions on the management.

Daddy, what is stainless steel?

"Stainless steel is steel that doesn't stain. Most metals turn dark when acids or chemicals touch them. Even in the air, silver turns dark, copper roofs turn green, iron gets red with rust. If the right proportions of chromium and nickel are mixed into the steel when it is being made, it becomes 'stainless', even in many acids or chemicals, and also becomes rust-proof."

"Is it used for anything besides saucepans like these new ones of mother's?"

"Yes, the huge cooking pots in food plants are stainless steel. So is our sink bowl, not only because it's so easy to keep clean, and rust-proof, but also because it is so hard and strong it doesn't scratch or dent. Stainless steel is also used in hundreds of industries where acids and other chemicals are handled. Whole railway coaches are made of stainless steel because it is so tough and strong, and doesn't even need to be painted."

"The Romance of Nickel" a 72 page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Expensive County Roads

The chief financial outlay which County Councils now have to make is for roads. Last year Peterborough County spent $272,911.70 maintaining roads and bridges—half the total County budget. The County gets more than half this money back by way of grants from the Province and some assistance from the city towards suburban roads, yet the levy on municipal tax rates for roads is still high. Thus the County Council is properly concerned about what to do with such a road as the pot-holed Buckhorn road.

* * *

This road, running from the Lakefield highway (Number 28) to Buckhorn and Highway 36, is 12½ miles long. It is, according to the County Road Engineer, the most heavily-travelled road in the county and the most expensive to maintain. After the war, with the paid help of local labour and financed by the Ontario Government, the old, rather narrow but on the whole, fairly well surfaced road underwent a major transformation. Its kinks were taken out, it was levelled, it was widened. The cost was very large. The practical result is that the road has rarely been as good since.

* * *

The reason is not poor road engineering but the fact that it has the aspect of a highway without the pavement of a highway. Cars and heavily-loaded trucks rattle over it at great speeds—much faster than they were able to manage on the old road. Hence the gravel surface takes a harder beating. Judging from our rather frequent observation of the traffic on the Buckhorn road, it is the local trucks and cars and not the tourists who keep it in a continual state of disrepair. The local drivers know every inch of it and travel it fast with a confidence which unnerves other, less familiar drivers.

* * *

This stretch of road last year cost $1,300 a mile to maintain, even in poor condition. What is to be done? The answer seems to lie in this proposition: If you have a road that looks like a highway and invites traffic and speeding drivers as if it were a highway, you have to make it a highway, able to stand up to the traffic. Paving seems to be the only permanent solution. Yet we remind ourself of another road proposition which is this: the more expensive the surface the more costly the repair. Contrary to popular opinion, paved highways are neither permanent nor cheap to maintain. Perhaps the best thing to do would be to pave the Buckhorn road with marble, like the Appian Way, and reduce the speed limit to five miles an hour.

Survival At Sea

Few of us ever think about shipwreck; it seems a remote and somewhat old-fashioned misfortune. Nevertheless, it can happen, and in time of war it happens often. Anything which minimizes the dangers of being shipwrecked is of first-rate importance.

Consequently we must be grateful to a French scientist, Dr. Alain Bombard, who recently undertook an experiment to prove that shipwrecked persons can, if need be, survive without fresh water and without any food save that which they can get from the sea. On October 19, last, he set sail from Las Palmas, in the Canaries, on a small raft called L'heretique; he carried no supply of water, and had some emergency food supplies under seal; on December 22 he beached his raft at Barbados, and showed that he was in good health, and that the seal on his emergency rations was unbroken.

What did he do? He got enough water for his needs by squeezing the fish he caught; the water in a fish is apparently not salty, though we cannot imagine that it is otherwise palatable. He ate these fish raw, and he also ate plankton, which he scooped in with a net; because it is rich in calories and in Vitamin C it is an excellent food, though not of a pleasing flavour. Dr. Bombard also caught some sea-birds, which he ate. He survived 65 days at sea on a raft, with only the food and water which he was able to get for himself.

This is scientific heroism. No doubt it will be possible, on the basis of what Dr. Bombard has done, to devise methods which can be made widely known, and which will save many shipwrecked men from starvation and drought. For although all ships must be equipped with well-stored lifeboats, it is a rare wreck in which some of the boats are not jammed or destroyed, and knowledge of how to survive on a raft is of the greatest importance.

Report The Fund To The People

Many hundreds of persons as well as business firms and welfare groups responded quickly to the appeal on the morning after the Zacks building fire. Through the alert sympathy of several prominent citizens a fund was opened immediately to help the widows and children of the four firefighters who lost their lives a year ago last May. The Fund reached a total of $60,588, a considerable sum. A board of trustees was set up to administer it.

The donors, whether they contributed a thousand dollars or only one dollar, are still interested to know that their money is being well disbursed and giving the help intended. Yet there has been a lack of public information about it. This is disturbing to many citizens—not because of any fear that the money is not being faithfully handled but because it might seem that their charitable giving was just a flash of sympathy soon forgotten. They have not forgotten the bereaved families; they are still interested and want to know how the help their money was meant to provide is being given. Their charity was not cold, yet the absence of a formal public accounting by the trustees makes it seem so.

Our report in a news column Saturday was a partial reassurance, yet insufficient to dispel the secretiveness with which the Fund has involuntarily been shrouded during the last year. We are sure that the Trustees intend no mystery, yet in fact silence has created one. Who are the present trustees, for instance? It is known that several of the original ones have gone. Have there been any administrative costs? If so, how much? How was the $4,100 made payable last year disbursed?

The Fund is a public fund. Without in any way impugning the discretion and capacity of the trustees—whose names, incidentally, the public does not know entirely—we think that annual reports should not only be prepared, but made public through tabling them with the City Council. We are relieved to learn that such a report is now in preparation. If it is made available to the public, we shall be glad to publish the essential parts of its contents.

How Many U.S. Presidents?

When General Dwight Eisenhower took the oath of office last Tuesday, he was listed as the thirty-fourth President of the United States. This listing will be approved by most historians and confirmed by practically all history books, but there is a small and stubborn group of persons who contend that he is actually the thirty-fifth President. They base their contention on the fact—acknowledged even by those who dissent—that Zachary Taylor was not President on March 4, 1849.

It was back in 1908 that a Philadelphia newspaper, no doubt during a period when news was rather scarce, came out with the claim that a Senator David Rice Atchison had been President of the United States for twenty-four hours. As evidence, it noted that the terms of James M. Polk and his Vice-President expired at noon on March 4, 1849. General Taylor, who had been elected the year before, was to be sworn in at that hour. Inauguration Day, however, fell on a Sunday that year, and the general was a very religious man. He refused to take the oath until the following day, and the office was thus vacant. Under the terms of the Succession Act of 1792, then in effect, the temporary leader of the Senate automatically became President.

That seemed clear enough, and Senator Atchison's life story was included in the biographical listings of Presidents. In 1925, however, G. H. Haynes, a historian, came along with a refutation. He said that Senator Atchison's term had expired on March 4, and that no one was President during the twenty-four hours. But five years later a New York lawyer named Theodore C. Atchison, a distant relation of the old Senator's, reopened the case, submitting proof that the latter had been elected temporary Senate president on March 4, and that this clearly made him President for the twenty-four hours.

The old Senator's name is preserved on maps of the United States. Atchison, Kansas, and Atchison, Missouri, were named after him. But scholars still wrangle, from time to time, as to whether or not he was ever President of the United States.

Dear Dead Foxes

In this county organized fox hunts by the military and other predators on Reynard have been notoriously successful failures. That is, the hunters have the guns, aircraft, jeeps, tanks, trench mortars and smoke bombs—in fact everything to make the hunt an organized success—but they come back without the red brushes. This is not to say that there are no foxes about. There are plenty of them. Unarmed people see them at every turn they take in a country walk. Hens see them in their final squawk. This is not a mere expression of opinion in order to defame the mounted infantry on a woods-clearing expedition. County statistics back us up. Last year the County of Peterborough paid out $1,500 in fox bounties. At three dollars a tail, that means that five hundred foxes were slain. And that, mind you, was only during three months when the bounty was payable.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

I HAVE the syllabus of the seventh annual Peterborough Kiwanis Musical Festival to hand. This event, which is creating more widespread interest each year and is making a notable contribution towards the raising of standards of performance, is being run on much the same well-proven lines this year. The committee has accumulated a good deal of experience during previous seasons, and this will stand them in good stead when dealing with the many problems, both small and great, that are encountered by them. The main innovation this season is a series of Scholarships which have been made available by the munificence of private individuals [illegible]rms in the neighbourhood. Naturally the main reason for entering the Festival is that of "pacing one another on the road to excellence" as Sir Walford Davies put it, but there is no doubt that a tangible recognition of outstanding performance is bound to stimulate competition. It is all the more important to accept the adjudicator's verdict in good part. No adjudicator is perfect, and there is scarcely a festival at which an adjudicator does not make at least one inexplicable decision. Rather than wonder at these odd lapses we should marvel at the acuteness and critical faculty of the adjudicator in nearly every instance.

Once again the Peterborough festival is to have two adjudicators from England, George Heath-Gracie and John Russell. Mr. Russell is a newcomer to Canada, but Mr. Heath-Gracie has been here before. He visited Peterborough as adjudicator in 1949 and carried through the whole festival almost single-handed—a Herculean task even then. Since those days the festival has grown, and though there are to be two adjudicators it will be no easy job. Adjudicators do not work trade union hours, and our visitors from England will find every minute of their time taken up.

❖ ❖ ❖

IT HAS BEEN said so often, but it will bear repetition: the Kiwanis Club are to be highly commended for their public-spirited patronage of this annual event. Their financial loss each year has been considerable, but this has not deterred them from working like beavers in the interests of better music-making. In the history of art we read much of the patronage of merchant princes such as the Medici, the worthies of Nuremberg and other captains of industry and commerce who have done so much to encourage painters, musicians and writers. When the history of the present age is written the name of the Kiwanis club will have an honoured place on the scroll.

❖ ❖ ❖

SINCE THE days of Schubert songs may be divided into two main classes. In the first place we have the strophic song, where the melody of the first verse is repeated more or less note for note in the remaining verses. Besides songs such as Brahms' Wiegenlied or Schubert's "Who is Sylvia?", to name only two well-known examples of strophic songs by the German masters most folksongs also belong to this category. The other type, the "durchkomponiert" or through-composed" song, is freer in treatment, and even when the lyric is written in stanzas of the same metre the melody of each verse may be quite different. At times the vocal part is like an extended recitative. There are many examples of this type, from Schubert's Erlkoenig to Milhaud's settings of words from a seed catalogue. When a composer sets prose to music, whether it be from a seed catalogue or the Bible, strophic song is impossible, but where stanza follows stanza in the same metre he may either write a melody to fit each stanza or vary each stanza according to his fancy.

Brahms is reported to have declared that it is harder to write a strophic than a durchkomponiert song. There is more in this paradox than meets the eye. It is not only a question of writing a melody that will (with minor adjustments where necessary) fit the metre of each stanza. Even this is a knotty problem in itself. The poet will usually shift the stresses in his line from their normal place for the sake of rhythmical variety, but these shifts will not coincide in each stanza. Let us take, for example, the well-known and lovely song, "Drink to me only". The basic rhythmic pattern of this is identical with the ballad-metre, which again is the same as the "Short Metre" of hymns such as "O God, our help in ages past". This can be expressed in untechnical language as follows:

"Te-tum te-tum te-tum te-tum
Te-tum te-tum te-tum
te-tum te-tum te-tum te-tum

❖ ❖ ❖

BUT WHAT rhythmical variety Ben Jonson gets into "Drink to me only". The first line goes "Tum-te te-tum te-tum te-tum", and the melody follows suit. In the fifth line of the first stanza the melody soars in sympathy with the heightened emotion of the poem, but the rhythm of the music follows the ballad-metre and there is an unfortunate false emphasis on an unimportant syllable that cannot but detract from the song as a whole, despite the beauty of the melodic line.

❖ ❖ ❖

BUT BESIDES having to fit the metre of each stanza the melody of a strophic song must fit the varying moods of the poem. Here we touch upon the mysterious subject of correspondences between music and the emotions. Music is strangely elusive on this point. We may perhaps feel that the minor is "sadder" than the major, yet the Dead March in Saul and "Che faro senz' Euridice" are both in C major, while many a blithe and carefree tune such as the Miller of Dee are in the minor mode. We can therefore lay down no hard-and-fast rules, but must judge each case on its own merits. A beautiful example of the marriage of music and words in a strophic song is provided by that old favourite, "The last rose of summer". The "dying fall" of the second and fourth lines is perfectly suited to the words in each stanza: it is worthy of note that the well-known words by Thomas Moore were written to the melody, which originally belonged to another set of words, "The Groves of Blarney".

Sometimes a song which is basically strophic undergoes significant alterations in later stanzas. Brahms has shown how a few subtle changes can transfigure a song in his "Sapphische Ode", where the second stanza is full of felicitous touches. I would recommend careful study of this short song to those who may feel that the strophic song is played out. Singers would get nearer to the heart of the matter if they were sometimes to try and see their songs from the composer's standpoint.

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Hollywood Tangles With Fleet St.

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

ACCORDING to an article in the British weekly newspaper, The Recorder, two Hollywood film companies have attempted to exert financial pressure on a group of London newspapers. The companies are Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, represented by Samuel Eckman, and Warner Brothers, represented by Arthur Abelis. The newspapers are Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, on which the moving picture critic is Milton Shulman; The Sunday Express, with critic Logan Gourlay; The Sunday Graphic, with critic Robert Ottaway, and The People, critic Dennis Myers.

In effect, The Recorder article says, the Hollywood representatives informed the newspapers that as long as these critics were retained, or at least until they could find more complimentary things to say about Hollywood films, display advertising estimated to be worth some £250,000 annually would be cancelled. If the report is accurate, this was a direct attempt to still critical voices by applying financial pressure. If it was, it produced a reaction that must have been most unexpected.

The management of the Beaverbrook papers struck back quickly. It issued a statement to the effect that The Daily Express, as a whole, and its film critic Leonard Mosley in particular, would find it embarrassing to be the only newspaper in the group to carry film display advertising. Therefore, no more of this advertising could be accepted by The Express.

This apparently aroused some misgivings among those who had ordered the cancellation of display advertising. That is not surprising, since The Daily Express has a circulation of more than 4,000,00 and an estimated 12,000,000 readers daily. The loss of so huge an advertising medium might well perturb merchants who depend heavily on advertising for business. The reason The Daily Express was not included in the ultimatum is obvious, but the Beaverbrook management has nullified that undoubtedly careful omission.

It will be interesting to learn how this exchange of ultimatums works out. In the meantime, the incident would seem to provide a sharp answer to those uninformed persons who still charge, although much less frequently than formerly, that newspapers will shape criticism or news in accordance with the demand of advertisers.

When They Spelled By Ear

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

IN a foreword to an edition of Alexander Mackenzie's "Voyages" there is an apology for "the author's spelling and punctuation." The editor advises that "it is interesting to note certain old spellings such as 'Winnipic' for Winnipeg; 'Saskatchiwine' for Saskatchewan; 'Assiniboin' for Assiniboine; 'Chepwywnan' for Chipewyan 'St. Laurence' for St. Lawrence. . . ."

What, by all the powers of the Great Manitous, gives anyone the power to be supercilious about the spelling of Indian names?

Who said that Assiniboine should be spelled that way? It is almost certain it was not an Assiniboine. It is almost certain, such are the problems of bureaucracy, that it was first spelled that way by someone in Bytown, who never saw an Assiniboine.

Mackenzie saw Assiniboines, traded with them, talked with them, ate with them, joined in celebrations with them. It is just possible that his pronunciation of their tribal name is better than ours.

Anyone who has read anything written before the age of dictionaries realizes the rich addenda that accrued to everything that was recorded during that free-wheeling era. Names, places, even verbs were spelled as the author felt; they might differ enormously even in one week's journal. Occasionally, this becomes confusing for the researcher. But it is never dull.

The Canadians, for instance (there were Canadians long before there was a United States), called the English colonists of the Eastern seaboard "les Bastonnois" or "les Bastonnais."

This is the first recorded recognition of the long, or Ha-a-vard, or "Baston" "a."

They didn't call them "Bostonnois," but "Bastonnois."

If they had been careful—and dictionary—about their spelling, they would have written it "Bostonnois."

For a modern to snicker at the writing of the pre-dictionary era, with its strong personal flair, is the cat laughing at the tiger.

They had individuality. They spelt it the way it sounded to them. They also had—in Mackenzie's case—the courage to go up unknown rivers, in a birch canoe, to the Arctic Ocean.

Who is willing to follow him in a dictionary?

Too Rough Hockey

(Ottawa Journal).

Lacrosse, once Canada's national summer sport, was killed by rough play. Hockey, despite its present popularity, could be headed for a similar fate. Unless those in a postion to do so take drastic measures to curb unnecessary roughness which now prevails, professional hockey at least could very well exterminate itself.

So extensive has become this year's list of injured players that the Toronto Star headlined in a report of a recent National League, game, "Quiet Night On Ice — No Casualties." A prediction of Mr. Conn Smythe, managing director of the Toronto Maple Leafs, however, that the National Hockey League will "have a casualty list a mile long before the season is over" seems well on the way to fulfillment.

Smythe's explanation was that the teams were so evenly matched "you've got to fight like a demon" every game. This meant injuries. He, heading for Florida vacation, seemed to accept the situation as inevitable.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, of Gath .... whose height was six cubits and a span .... And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, and said unto them, Why are ye come out to set your battle in array? am not I a Philistine, and ye servants to Saul? choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me .... And David said to Saul Let no man's heart fail because of him; thy servant will go and fight with this Philistine .... And he took his staff in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the brook, and put them in a shepherd's bag which he had, even in a scrip; and his sling with in his hand: and he drew near to the Philistine ....

And when the Philistine looked about and saw David, he disdained him: for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair contenance ....

Then said David to the Philistine. Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield: but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thous hast defied .... And all this assembly shall know that the Lord saveth not with the sword and spear: for the battle is the Lord's, and he will give you into our hands. And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David hasted, and ran toward the army to meet the Philistine ....

So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him: but there was no sword in the hand of David. (I Sam. 17: 4, 8, 32, 40, 42, 45, 47, 48, 50.)

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

This blinkety-blank changeable weather has the chilblains twitching again. Then, too, there is the worry that the Petes may be starting their drive a trifle late for a playoff berth .... and could possibly miss out. A horrible thought. They could be finished for the season in less than a month from now! That would make it the shortest season since Civic was built insofar as senior "B" hockey goes. We've had some fine teams, Legion, Eagles and Petes, for some years now and a season that runs into spring ere the big guys hang up their skates. Let's not chance things, eh? It's too early for spring poetry, so we'll offer this lament instead:

* * * * * *

If the playoffs Petes miss 'twill be sadder'n this
And highly unusual for here;
Puck fans will feel gypped at a season so clipped —
They'll be weeping salt tears in their beer;
This scribe can't condone a vigil so lone:
Hockey o'er in his heart not a joy stir —
Naught left but to sigh as he wipes a red eye:
"Comes lacrosse in the Month of No Oyster."

Won't Miss Gravy Train

But away with the crying towels, the bolstered Petes have no intentions of missing the gravy train. They're still within striking distance of Kingston and Belleville for a playoff spot, the schedule ending Feb. 21. Kingston Goodyears are here tonight, and this is a big one. So is the Petes' joust in Belleville on Friday. If they take these two, they'll be mighty hard to stop —and we really think they'll win both. Tonight's tilt here should pretty well tell the tale. They've got to grab that one or their position is precarious. As Johnny Godfrey rounds into shape, his experience on defence will be a big help. Coach Jim and his crew know that the chips are down and it's going to be a stiff battle from here in. Ought to be a great game this eve.

Nor can our junior Oddfellows fool around any more. They lost ground last week by dropping two decisions to Lindsay, permitting the Scugog scrappers to climb up into a third-place tie with 'em. But the Links were minus three players. Byrne, Frizzelle and Kearns. This trio will be with them the rest of the schedule, which winds up on Feb. 12, just three weeks away. Doug Mortimer's young men trek tonight to the Limestone City for an important melee with the Kingston Vics, now sitting cozily in second place back of Belleville. Oshawa juniors come here Friday for a four-point fray, so the IOOF-ers could do themselves a lot of good this week by taking a pair of triumphs. A four-point win for Oshawa here would pull the Motor Citizens up on the heels of the local lads and Lindsay. Yep, it's time to go.

Lakefield Protest Upheld

TVL executive met last night in Campbellford and upheld a Lakefield protest against Norwood. So the latter team will be minus Bob Thrope, Gary Robinson and Ferguson, all now under TVL suspension. Former hasn't his amateur card, and the other two aren't rated as Norwood residents. Also Hastings can't use Junior West till he is released by the Petes. Despite talk of Norwood dropping out, Manager Lloyd Fleming said the teams would continue to play. Provided they can ice enough players to provide good competition. Tilts tonight: Campbellford at Havelock, Hastings at Lakefield, and Norwood at Marmora. Owing to poor fan support, Lakefield may take home games to Warsaw soon but they're first thinking of trying Sunday hockey. So is Campbellford, we're told. Taking silver collections.

He may be minus part of an ear— lost some time ago in a Montreal bout— but there's still a lot of the big frame of Yukon Eric. He's a powerful hunk of pro grappler and a popular one up this way, though he hasn't wrestled in Peterborough this season. District fans used to flock in to see him in action. The Alaskan comes to the Brock Arena on Wednesday night to headline the card as he tackles the Red Mask. Later is a powerful, mean matman, built like a brick telephone booth. Jim Laidlaw had better reinforce his ring when these huskies mix it in the hempen-squared arena. Semi-final sees Man Mountain Dean Jr. (well over 300 pounds of illegal tactics) opposing Frank Taylor. Prelim brings a former USA Olympic track star, Don Beitleman, to battle with towering Bill Stack.

Ferrier Advances Tourney Proposal

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Golfer Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, a veteran of tournament golf, advanced an idea today to ease the problem of having the leading players appear regularly in all tournaments.

Ferrier suggested that the top 10 or 12 players, according to results over a year, be signed to Professional Golfers Association contracts and guaranteed a graded bonus for the ensuing year to insure their appearance in tournaments.

Then the star group would promise that no less than 10 of their group would be on hand for each tournament.

Ferrier, a native of Australia, sighed as he told of the plan, however, "I suggested it in 1941," he said, "and still nothing has been done about the problem."

Buckhorn Victors

YOUNG'S POINT (ENS). — Buckhorn won 4-2 in a neat hockey game here last Friday. D. McIsaac scored the only marker in the first period. Buckhorn tied in next frame when Jim Barcroft scored, but J. Darling again sent the Point ahead near the close of the stanza. J. Northey tied it early in the third and he followed up later with another. F. Barcroft finished the scoring before the heat finished. Play was generally clean. Young's Point plays in Buckhorn Tuesday.

PMHA Officials Make Reply To Club Coach

In reply to Wolves' coach George Heron's criticism of a recent Shamrock protest, which was upheld, the executive of the PMHA points out that Rule 12 of the OMHA constitution states that players competing for any other team in the "A" or "B" series may play only for one team in the OMHA in any one season. The PMHA plays under OMHA rules.

Becaues of this rule, the PMHA upheld the Shamrock protest and awarded them two points. Officials state that Mr. Heron received a copy of the protest from Mr. Fleming, in accordance with league procedure beforehand. Had he not received this, the protest would not have been considered. Several unsuccessful attempts were made to contact Mr. Heron, and it was further said that the Wolves' coach could have appealed the decision but did not do so.

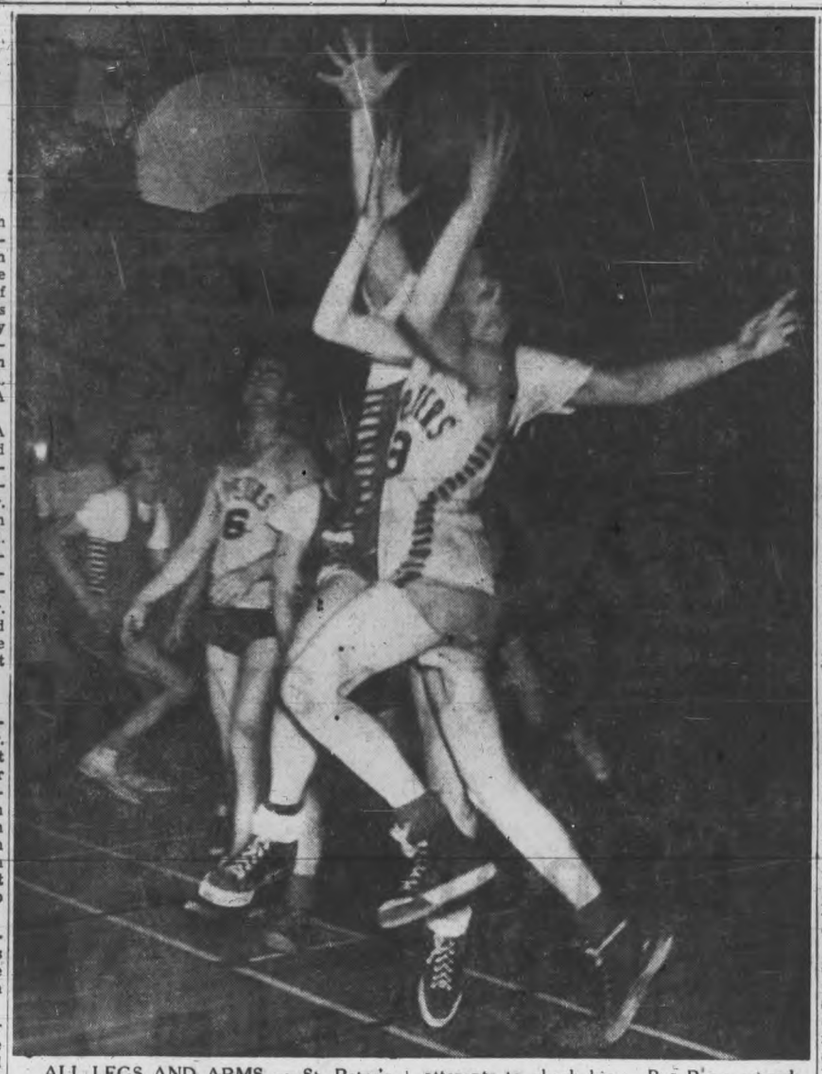
NO PROTESTS RECEIVED

"At no time has the PMHA executive denied an audience to Mr. Heron," the association president told The Examiner today, "nor has this body at any time received a written official protest from him regarding any game in which his team has played. If Mr. Heron feels that any games have been 'dropped" on purpose, he must have information not available to the executive."

The executive said this information was submitted for sports fans here and there is no desire to enter into any further written controversy with Mr. Heron.

After thanking The Examiner for coverage of minor hockey, the president said the executive tried to the best of their ability to further the interests of minor hockey here, but found a few coaches recognizing the existence of the executive only when a team got into an unpleasant situation.

MUST OBEY RULES



"PMHA players have definite rules to observe," the official continued, "and they must play the game properly and with respect for officials and opponents. In return they receive free ice time and free officials supplied by the association. They receive such things as sweaters, sometimes sticks, gum and soft drinks from their sponsors. If they get but 45 minutes of ice time a week that cannot be helped and even this time amounts to more than $720 a season. Results of teams selling season tickets have been most discouraging."

He added that coaches must do their part, too, and tolerate no rough play. Managers must attend to all business matters and help further the sport for the boys. All officials and players in the PMHA are expected to supply the youths with properly conducted competition and give the faithful fans good, clean hockey, with minor bickering kept out of the picture.

SKATER'S WORLD MARK

DAVOS, Switzerland (AP)—Kees Broekman and Anton Huiskes, a couple of speedy Dutchmen, each shattered a speed-skating record during the week-end.

Broekman Sunday raced the 5,000 metres in 8:06.6, topping the former record of 8:07.3, held by Norway's Hjalmar Anderson. It came just 24 hours after Huiskes whipped over the 3,000 metres in 4:40.2 to better the 11-year-old mark.

ALL LEGS AND ARMS — St. Peter's High senior Ab Ryan (8) goes up for a shot at the basket in Saturday's game with Lindsay Collegiate. He appears all legs and arms, helped by Maurice Pennock, behind, who attempts to check him. But Ryan scored anyway. The Saints went on to win handily 70-21. The junior Saints were set back 47-43 by Lindsay and the midget Saints 39-32 by PCVS in the preliminary games.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Dutchmen Edge Chatham 3-1, Move To Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's a dark horse turning into the home stretch of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series: Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Dutchmen are riding in the third slot, but last week, with three wins, they began pulling up to Owen Sound Mercurys and Stratford Indians.

Saturday night they downed the sixth-place Chatham Maroons 3-1 to make their point total 45 points, eight behind the Indians. The Indians, with a 5-4 victory over the fifth-place Sarnia Sailors, are one point behind the Mercurys who downed the last-place Hamilton Tigers 8-4.

Northern Ontario action Saturday night saw Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds strengthen their hold on second place by turning back the third-place North Bay Trappers 4-2. Sunday the Trappers fought back to a 6-1 victory over Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians.

GOAL GETTER

In Kitchener the Maroons went ahead on a goal by Jack Price but Don Bauer evened the count. Bob Schnurr and Jack McKenzie added the Dutchmen's other goals.

Stratford Indians, smarting under the 10-3 blow given them Friday night by Kitchener-Waterloo, took it out on Sarnia Saturday.

Sarnia grabbed a two-goal lead in the first, and added another in the second while the Indians managed only one. But in the third period Billy Flick slammed home three goals in succession.

The other Stratford scorers were Lloyd Ferguson and Mickey Roth. John McKennel paced Sarnia with two goals. The others fell to Bill MacFarland and Ike Frezell.

BREEZE THROUGH

Owen Sound Mercurys breezed through the final two periods after a scoreless opener with Hamilton Tigers.

Ray McCallum scored three for the Mercurys and Jerry Reid added a pair. Harry Kazarian, Buck Forslund and Roy Leckie notched one each. Jim McWhirter tallied a pair for the Tigers and Steve Divinski and Ab Conick got the others.

Greyhounds' scorers Saturday night were Terry Biocchi, Gunnar Telkinnen, Chick Webster and Lorne Watters. Don Hogan and Ab DeMarco tallied for the Trappers.

Sunday the Trappers' goals went to George Gosselin, Hogan, Fred Valenti, Chick Cecchini, DeMarco and Bo Elik. Danny Horeck scored the Indian goal.

Tri-Bells Wallop Livingstons 88-67

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Northtown Tri-Bells, taking full advantage of their opponents' tiredness in the last half, poured in 40 points in the final two quarters to defeat Tillsonburg Livingstons 88-67 in an exhibition basketball game Sunday.

The Livvies engaged in a strenuous series of exhibition games during the last week.

The first half ended in a 40-40 tie but the Tillsonburg squad's weariness was evident even then.

Glen Pettinger paced the Tri-Bells with 18 points. Harry Wade was top man for the Livvies with 5 points. Bill Pataky counted 12 nd Chuck Dalton nine.

Conacher Good But Team Loses 10-5

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Lionel Conacher, the choice as Canada's outstanding athlete of the first half of this century, played a dashing game but his effort was in vain as Ace Bailey's Reds defeated Bert Bowsfield's Whites 10-5 in a National Hockey League Old-Time All-Stars game here Saturday night.

Conacher, member of Parliament for Toronto Trinity, was on the losing side. He made several fine end-to-end rushes and climaxed his performance with a third-period goal.

Nels Stewart, former holder of the NHL lifetime scoring record, and Whitey Farrant, a younger oldtimer, each counted three goals for the Reds.

SPS Senior Cagers Win Over Lindsay, 70-21 As Galvin Sets The Pace

Paced by marksman Doug Galvin, St. Peter's High Senior Saints steam-rolled over Lindsay Collegiate seniors Saturday and flattened the LCI quintet 70-21. But in the other preliminary games the Saints were on the losing end, dropping a midget league game to PCVS 39-32 and a junior exhibition to Lindsay collegiate 47-43. As far as the fans were concerned the senior win more than made up for the two losses.. Galvin, who was attempting to set a new scoring mark in city basketball once more gave a remarkable display of shooting, using two-hand sets, one-hand push nd hook shots. But he fell short of the mark, scoring only 26 points. Many sure opportunities to score he gave to teammates, especially Ab Ryan.

The Saints just went through the motions in the senior game against Lindsay. The LCI quintet without a gym floor for practices (they use the armouries for a half-hour weekly) were no match for the smooth-working fast-breaking Saints.

Fred Legros, at guard, led the Saints up the floor, and started passing combinations with Jack Richardson, Ryan and Galvin. That system sent the Saints up 20-8 at the quarter, 38-9 at the half, and 57-16 at three-quarters.

BEST GAME.

The junior game was the night's best. It featured comebacks by both the Saints and Lindsay, good passing and excellent shooting.

Coach John Lynch's junior Saints appeared to be off to walkaway in first quarter, doubling score 16-8 on Lindsay. But Lindsay's shots, Art and Reg Truax, found the hoop range in the second and at half time the Saints led by three points, 24-21.

The Truax brothers were joined by J. Sinclair in the opening minutes of the second half and Lindsay took a three-point lead, Only the shooting and breaking of T. Killen kept the Saints close 37-32 at three-quarters.

Then the Saints staged their comeback on the strength of baskets by Dave Quinlan and Terry Fitzpatrick. The score was tied at 36-all within minutes. Lindsay edged ahead but again the score was tied, this time 40-all. The Saints went up 43-41 and then it was tied a third time 43-all. But baskets by B. Blackwell and foul shot points by A. Georgas gave Lindsay the win in the final minutes.

MIXED IT UP.

Both teams lost their stars in the final minutes. Both the Truax brothers, Don Finn and Dave Quinlan, were forced to leave the game, Reg Truax and Quinlan each with five fouls. Art Truax and Finn exchanged blows and were thrown out promptly.

Ted Cranfield's PCVS midgets rescued their win in the fourth quarter. The Saints down only 8-6 at the first quarter, led at the half 21-14, and 25-24 at three-quarters but gave way under PCVS pressure in the fourth.

The win was PCVS's third in four starts and places them firmly in first place.

Paul Davis hit a scoring streak for PCVS, especially in the second half, running in 21 points to cop the game's individual scoring honors. Simmons was tops for the Saints at 12.

Lakefield Wins Its Protest On TVL Players

LAKEFIELD ENS.—The Lakefield Indians had their TVL protest against the Norwood team upheld at a Sunday executive meeting in Campbellford. Junior West is lost to Hastings until he obtains his release from the Petes. Bob Thorpe, Ferguson and Gary Robinson have been suspended indefinitely from the Norwood team, the first one for playing without his amateur card, and the latter two for wrongfully signing a card as Norwood residents.

All Norwood games in which any of these players took part have been thrown out. Norwood officials indicated that they would withdraw from the TVL. Hastings agreed to carry on and will play tonight in Lakefield.

Meanwhile, Lakefield Indians, who are not faring well financially in the village, may take home games to Warsaw. But first they will try a Sunday afternoon game in Lakefield, with a silver collection. Marmora and Campbellford are also interested in Sunday games. They have been tried with success in Port Arthur, with four times as many fans turning out Sundays as on other days. Lakefield often have more fans present for Sunday practices than for games on other nights, this despite the fact they are putting up good hockey in a strong circuit and building a homebrew team.

Red Sullivan Goes On Scoring Spree As Bruins Win 9-0

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

What's the matter with the Red Wings? Barely a week ago, the proud Stanley Cup champions were breezing along, seven points ahead of their nearest National Hockey League competition. Everyone said Detroit was a shoo-in for the title. Today their margin is shaved to a single point. And the only reason they're still on top is that the second-place Montreal Canadiens bogged down over the weekend after picking up nine points of a possible 10 in previous five games.

Creeping paralysis appears to have overtaken both clubs. They salvaged a single point in two weekend contests only by the expedient of playing each other to a 3-3 tie Sunday night.

The Wings, the most potent scoring machine in the NHL this season, took an ignominious 2-0 whitewashing in Toronto Saturday while the Canadiens suffered a 5-1 drubbing from the third-place Chicago Black Hawks in Montreal.

The Leafs went on to edge the Hawks 4-3 at Chicago, to pull within a single point of the third-placers.

In a two-night stand at Boston, the Bruins handed the cellar-dwelling New York Rangers a horrendous 9-0 beating, only to have the New Yorkers bounce back for a 2-1 victory.

Harry Lumley robbed the Red Wings blind Saturday night. The pudgy Toronto goaltender turned aside 33 drives from his teammates of three seasons back to register his sixth shutout of the campaign. George Armstrong accounted for both Leaf tallies.

The Wings looked better against Montreal as Gordie Howe bolstered his NHL scoring lead with a goal and two assists. They made the crowd happy by scoring all three goals while Maurice Richard, for whom Detroit has little affection, sat out penalties.

But the fans were less happy to see the Wings blow one-goal leads twice in a row in splitting the points. Canadien defenceman Bud MacPherson, who only had one previous goal all season, tied it up the last time with less than five minutes remaining.

Richard and Paul Masnick were the other Montreal marksmen. Red Kelly and Ted Lindsay completed the Detroit total.

Richard also scored the Canadien goal against the Hawks Saturday, but the rest of the game was a different story.

Tied 1-1 at the end of the first period on Bill Mosienko's marker, the Hawks pulled ahead in the second period on a tally by playing-coach Sid Abel and then proceeded to play it cosy.

While the Habitants stormed down the ice in search of the tying goal, the crafty Chicagoans broke loose three times in less than two minutes for easy goals, two by Jimmy McFadden and the third by Jim Peters. A red-faced Gerry McNeil in the Canadien nets had only four shots fired at him in the entire third period and let three of them get by him.

The Boston youth movement had a wonderful time Saturday night as the Kid Line of George (Red) Sullivan, Jerry Toppazzini and Jack McIntyre picked up 13 scoring points. Toppazzini fired three goals, Sullivan got two and McIntyre one, but the latter set up five more.

Milt Schmidt, Leo Labine and Pentti Lund joined in the Boston scoring spree.

The Rangers got their revenge Sunday, winning on a costly miscue by rookie defenceman Godfrey.

The young Bruin stabbed desperately at a puck that trickled from goaltender Jim Henry's pads in the first period and accidentally flicked it into his own net. Don Raleigh, the last Ranger to touch the puck, was credited with a cheap goal, and it turned out to be the winner.

That completed a black evening for Godfrey, who had been off the ice with a slashing penalty when Jack Stoddard scored the first New York goal. Real Chevrefils got the only Boston marker in 2nd period.

BROADCASTER — Foster Hewitt, internationally-known hockey broadcaster, has charged that radio station CKEY of Toronto is incorporating in its broadcasts material taken from his play-by-play report of National Hockey League games over his own Toronto station CKFH. He made the charge before the CBC board of governors meeting at Ottawa. Jack Kent Cooke, owner of station CKEY, denied the charge and said he is quite prepared to defend his position in court.

2 Sportcasters Answer Charges

TORONTO (CP)—Joe Crysdale and Hal Kelly, sportcasters for Toronto radio station CKEY, say their method of reconstructing away-from-home games of Toronto Maple Leafs on Sunday nights was in use a year before any other Toronto station started broadcasting those games.

Although they didn't once mention station CKFH or Foster Hewitt by name, their statements Sunday night were obviously a reply to Hewitt's charges before the CBC board of governors in Ottawa Friday that CKEY was using his on-the-spot reports of the games as the basis of its reconstructed hockey broadcasts.

In a broadcast before their reconstruction of Sunday night's Toronto-Chicago National Hockey League game, Kelly and Crysdale gave a detailed account of their methods up to the time they started using their present system, which they did not describe except to say it was much more expensive than using a telegraph service.

The two broadcasters said they were forced into their present system after the NHL passed a rule against telegraphed reconstructions.

They referred many times to Hewitt's statement before the board of governors that he deliberately inserted false penalties in his broadcasts as a trap. They emphasized they never deliberately broadcast false information.

Rose Defeats Seixas To Win Championship

ADELAIDE (AP)—Lefty Mervyn Rose of Australia defeated Vic Seixas of Philadelphia 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9, today to win the South Australian tennis championship.

Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., won the women's singles title, defeating Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

Seixas took a 7-6 lead in the fifth set by breaking Rose in the 13th game. But from deuce in the next game, Rose tied it up 7-7. He gained the advantage by smacking one down the sideline, then pulled even in games with a neat passing shot.

They fought hard until the 20th game, when Rose crashed through Seixas to wrap it up.

Marlboros Crumple Oshawa 8-0 As Teepees Bow To Montreal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The trend continued in the Ontario and Quebec junior hockey loops during the weekend. The leading teams continued to extend their edge, the touring clubs fared badly and the others remained in their respective league perches.

Toronto Marlboros Sunday pulled eight points ahead of the rival Barrie Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series by defeating the sixth-place Oshawa Generals 8-0.

Montreal Canadiens, leading the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association, strengthened their position by blanking the touring St. Catharines Teepees 3-0. The Teepees, now in fourth place in the OHA, ended their Quebec tour with one win and three losses.

Montreal Royals, the Quebec cellar dwellers, lost their second straight game of their Ontario tour, falling 5-3 to the eighth-place Windsor Spitfires.

DOWN GREENSHIRTS

Saturday's OHA action saw Galt Black Hawks, now in fifth place, defeat the cellar-dwelling Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 5-4. Oshawa Generals strengthened their sixth-place position with a 6-5 win over the third-place Toronto St. Michael's.

Sunday St. Mike's recouped the loss with a 4-3 victory over the Black Hawks.

St. Catharines' only win of its Quebec tour came Saturday night when the Teepees downed Three Rivers Reds 3-2. The third-place Reds were trimmed 6-1 by Quebec Citadelles Sunday night.

Parker MacDonald scored three goals to pace the Marlboro attack against Oshawa Generals Sunday. His goals were the first of each period. Captain Wally Maxwell, Bobby Braun, Johnny MacDonald, Charlie Burns and Gerry James accounted for the others.

DIDN'T GET WIN

Galt's Jim McBurney, the league's top scorer this season, scored two goals but his efforts didn't give the Hawks a win. The St. Michael's goals went to Dick Duff, Bill Dineen, Ed Plata and Jack Caffery. Neil McDonald scored the other Black Hawk goal.

Fifteen penalties, including eight majors and one 10-minute misconduct, were handed out in the Galt-Kitchener bruiser Saturday night. McBurney paced his team with another pair of goals. Hillary Menard, Neil McDonald and Wharram notched the others. Ken Collins, Marc Boileau, Graham Joyce and Buddy Horne counted for the Greenshirts.

Stan Parker and Bob Attersley each fired two goals for Oshawa Generals in their win over St. Mike's. Bill Stewart and Floyd Hillman notched the others. Mike Ratchford and Bill Dineen clicked for a pair each for the collegians and Jack Caffery added the other.

Windsor's victory over Montreal Royals Sunday ended a four-game losing streak. Joe Zorica scored twice for the Spitfires and Ted Reid, Elmer Skov and Lou Dietrich added singles. Roger Landry, John MacGillivray and Stan Rodeck counted for the Royals.

ONLY WIN

Brian Cullen's third-period goal gave St. Catharines Teepees their only win in Quebec. Chuck Marshall and Hank Ciesla scored the others. Scoring for Three Rivers were Harve Lalonde and Paul Michelin.

The Teepees' defeat Sunday went off without a penalty. Montreal Canadiens' three goals went to Henri Richard, Denis Boucher and Guy Rousseau.

Sedgman Defeated By Jack Kramer

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Jack Kramer broke Frank Sedgman's two-match winning streak Sunday night whipping the Australian star 8-6, 6-1.

Their cross-country professional tennis tour now stands at eight matches for Sedgman and six for the American champion.

Ken McGregor of Australia beat Pancho Segura 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

At Evanston, Ill., Saturday night Sedgman downed Kramer 6-3, 6-3, while Segura defeated McGregor 6-2, 6-4.

Sonja Currie Retains Skating Crown

EDMONTON (CP) — Youthful grace and near-perfection has given 15-year-old Sonja Currie of Calgary and Edmonton her second straight Western Canada senior women's singles figures skating championship.

The young, blonde miss whirled her way to the top in a field of 11 Saturday night to retain the title she won last year at Vancouver. The smiling confidence and graceful ease with which she won the title also brought her the most artistic skater award.

In the senior men's singles, 22-year-old Norman Walker of the Vancouver Connaught Club defeated clubmate Brian Power to succeed Billy Lewis as western title holder. Lewis, of the Vancouver Skating Club, could not get away from university studies to defend his crown.

Pamela Willman, an 11-year-old from the Vancouver Connaught club, captured the junior women's singles.

Edmonton's 22-year-old Gordon Linney was awarded the junior men's singles title.

Tobin Fined $500 Went In Ref's Room

Best Rink Proves The Best In Packers' Open 'Spiel As Brampton Score Highest

(By HERB MARTIN)

The Canada Packers open bonspiel that was played on Wednesday and then continued all day Saturday, with a record entry of 56 rinks, came to a successful conclusion around midnight Saturday. The honor of winning the Canada Packers Trophy and the Gruen wrist watches goes to Don Best's rink of Brampton with thrge wins and a possible score of 36 plus 4—played on Wednesday. While there were four three-game winners on Saturday, their scores were well below that of the Best rink.

The Canada Packers' bonspiel went over big. One of the out-of-twon curlers said "It's my first to your club, but I hope it won't trip to your club, but I hope it won't be my last; I had no idea you had such a wonderful set-up."

Mr. L. Browne, manager of Canada Packers Co. said at the presentation of prizes, "There are two reasons for this successful bonspiel—Good strong competition and good clubs with grand set-up—good ice and a wonderful organization to work with." He expressed the appreciation of his company for the fine co-operation.

EXPRESSED THANKS

H. Bradburn, president of the club, on behalf of the club, thanked the Canada Packers for their generous support and also paid tribute to the many who helped put this big event across.

Mr. G. Schell, Toronto, assistant to the general manager of Canada Packers Co., said it was a great pleasure to be associated with such fine organizations and expressed his company's thanks to all.

The winners received Canada Packers' products and, after the presentation of prizes was over, all went home tired but happy.

Witnesses Tell Of Argument Before Fracas

IN KOREA (AP)—A Canadian court martial heard testimony Sunday that the carbine shot which wounded Craftsman Richard Brochu, 22, of Quebec City, could not have been fired without the trigger being pressed.

The court martial is trying Cpl. Percy Metivier, 23, of Magog, Que., on four charges, including attempted murder.

Three eyewitnesses testified Saturday that Metivier and Brochu had been arguing last Nov. 23 over which was the best soldier. They said Brochu was shot when Metivier was fumbling with his carbine.

NEGATIVE REPLY

Staff Sgt. Earl Martin of Kingston, Ont., testified that he had experimented to determine if a carbine could be fired without pressing the trigger. Asked by the court if it could, he replied: "No."

Martin was the principal witness on this second day of the trial. Other witnesses included Capt. E. G. Guthoie of Montreal who gave the victim first aid.

Brochu has been returned to Canada with a head wound.

Saturday's witnesses were Cpl. Raymond Lloyd, Hagersville, Ont.; L.Cpl. Robert Lamber, Kingston, and Pte. Jacques Gauthier, Montreal. They said the argument occurred while the men were drinking beer in a dugout.

Twenty-six of his pictures are on display at the Canadian Repertory Theatre playhouse which has been showing the works of Canadian artists for several seasons. Young William has been painting since he was four and his admirers say his paintings, done from imagination, show a good sense of color.

HEFTY GREY CUP SPLIT

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's greatest sports spectacle, the Grey Cup football final, realized total gate receipts of nearly $133,000 in 1952, it was announced Saturday.

This sum, obtained from a record crowd of 27,391, was split among the two competing teams, the other six professional football clubs in Canada, the Canadian Rugby Union the government, and payment of expenses.

It does not include $15,000 for television, radio, film and program rights. The CBC paid $7,500 to telecast the game. It cost radio $3,500 and movie makers another $3,000. The program concession netted $1,000.

The champion Toronto Argonauts received $19,962, about 55 per cent of the eastern league's share of $36,772. The other three clubs each got about $5,253.

Edmonton Eskimos, the losers, received 50 per cent of the West's share of about $35,000. The rest was evenly divided among the other clubs in the league.

Kent Resigns As Chairman

TORONTO (CP)—Fraser Kent, chairman of the Toronto Arts Council, resigned at a steering committee meeting Sunday and charged that there is "a conspiracy to change the original aims of the council into those embraced by Communist sympathizers."

Two weeks ago the council accepted the resignation as secretary of Ralph Cook, son-in-law of Dr. James Endicott, chairman of the leftist Canadian Peace Congress. Mr. Cook's action followed the announcement that James Cardinal McGuigan, Roman Catholic archbishop of Toronto, had withdrawn his patronage of the council.

"DICE LOADED"

At the time, Mr. Kent said the reason for the cardinal's withdrawal was the presence of Mr. Cook on the council's executive.

Mr. Kent said Sunday: "The dice were loaded from the start. Strategy was such that regardless of the success of a scheduled arts conference, the outcome would prove beneficial to Communist propaganda."

Pauline Redsell was elected chairman and in a prepared statement the council reaffirmed its non-political aims.

Wilson Aides Present Problem For President

WASHINGTON (AP)— Congressional leaders today take to President Eisenhower another vexing problem: what to do about the stalemate over two prospective subordinates of Charles E. Wilson.

Wilson's nomination for secretary of defence comes up in the senate with indications that he will get overwhelming approval despite a fight by Senator Wayne Morse (Ind. Ore.) against the appointment.

Senator Robert Taft (Rep. Ohio), the majority leader, was seeking a vote on Wilson's nomination before nightfall.

Some Democrats were reported ready to vote to confirm Wilson, former General Motors president who has agreed to sell his stock in the firm. But they didn't believe he was necessarily the right man for the job.

Wilson's nomination was approved by the armed services committee and sent to the senate during the weekend. Wilson's decision to dispose of his $2,500,000 of GM stock apparently removed the biggest barrier to his heading the defence department, which does billions of dollars of business with the big automotive firm.

Taft said he expected some discussion with Eisenhower about Wilson's choices of Robert T. B. Stevens to be army secretary and Harold Talbott to be air secretary.

They were reported to have been advised by senators they had better agree to sell their industrial holdings if they want to be confirmed. Eisenhower has not yet formally nominated them.

One senator said an exception might be made in the case of Stevens, to permit him to retain his holdings in a family-owned textile firm. However, the senator said Stevens would have to present a statement by Wilson saying that, if that firm ever transacted business with the government, the matter would be taken out of Stevens' hands.

Roger M. Kyes, chosen by Wilson to be his chief deputy, and Robert Anderson, named for navy secretary, already have cleared up the matter of their holdings. They await formal nominations for expected Senate approval.

Oshawa Rink Edges Lindsay To Take Title

OSHAWA (CP)—Southpaw Bobby Walker skipped his Oshawa Collegiate rink to the Ontario schoolboy curling championship Saturday night with an 8-4 victory over the defending Lindsay Collegiate quartette.

The Oshawa rink, skipped by Walker and made up of George MacGregor, Clare Peacock and Duncan Brodie, will represent Ontario in the Dominion schoolboy finals scheduled for Saskatoon next month.

The Walker foursome gained the finals with two comfortable wins Saturday over Kitchener and Midland. Skip Walker pulled a daring take-out shot on the sixth end of the Kitchener game to break a 5-5 deadlock.

EASY VICTORIES

Lindsay came through with a pair of easy victories to enter the final. They dropped Kingston 13-2 in the morning and dumped Welland 17-6 in the afternoon semi-final.

Walkerton Collegiate won the consolation round with a 10-8 win over Sarnia Collegiate.

Kingston came through in play for the Gore Trophy, ousting Kitchener 11-10 with a four end in the tenth.

The Crawford Plaque went to Welland Collegiate, who downed Midland 13-3 in a night clash.

Impose Salary Ceiling In Big 4 Football Union

By BRUCE PHILLIPS

TORONTO (CP)—The honeymoon may be over for football players in Eastern Canada, but the fans are being wooed by the league more hotly than ever.

At the annual meeting here Saturday, the Big Four Football Union executive took steps to limit top-heavy payrolls burdening the clubs by imposing a salary ceiling, and at the same time boost income by stretching the season schedule to 14 games, an increase of two.

The executive came to some other decisions which will have almost as far-reaching effects. They agreed to change the playoff from a two-game total-points series to a best-of-three affair. And they will recommend to the Canadian Rugby Union that the Eastern final between the Big Four titlist and the semi-professional Ontario Rugby Football Union's champion be scrapped.

BUDGET LIMIT

Going hand-in-hand with the salary limit is an over-all budget limit for each club. The figures for either were not divulged.

The Big Four is hopeful the Western Football Conference will follow a similar course, otherwise the cream of the American imports could be skimmed off by Western clubs, which aren't obliged to restrain their bids.

The combination of a longer schedule, a three-game playoff and a salary limit can be expected to produce fatter bankrolls in the coming season.

Big Four President Cecil Mcfaddin said, however, that the two extra games were added more with the fans in mind than with an eye to additional revenue.

ONE MORE HOME GAME

The longer schedule will mean one more home game for each club. All clubs except Toronto Argonauts have floodlighted parks and accommodating an extra game will be no problem for them. Argos, on the other hand, probably will have to play a twilight game during the week. In the past all their home games have been played on Saturdays.

Instead of the Eastern final between the ORFU and the Big Four, the executive will ask the CRU to have the ORFU play alternate games with the Eastern and Western senior champions. The West is expected to support the proposal.

The move has been expected for some time. An Eastern final between the two leagues was logical in the pre-import days when the ORFU could compete with the other senior leagues. However, the ORFU's bid for a berth in the Grey Cup final in late years has been considered little more than a warm-up for the Big Four champions.

Marlboros Planning Deal For McCreary

TORONTO (CP) — Stafford Smythe, manager of the leading Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group said Saturday night he will try to reach an agreement Tuesday with Guelph Biltmores for he rights to forward Bill McCreary for the remainder of the season.

The Marlboros want McCreary as a replacement for Eric Nesterenko, who turned pro with Toronto Maple Leafs this month.

Smythe said he will name five players, including a couple from Junior B ranks, and let Biltmores have any three in exchange for McCreary.

John Landy Wins 880-Yard Title

U.S. Navy Ready To Blockade Red China Coast

YOKOSUKA NAVAL BASE, Japan (AP)—The U.S. Navy is ready to slap "an almost 100-per-cent" blockade on the Red China coast at short notice if President Eisenhower gives the signal, the top naval commander in the Far East said Sunday.

Vice Admiral Robert P. Briscoe, commander of Far East naval forces, made the statement in answer to a series of questions submitted by The Associated Press.

"The navy is prepared to execute any such order on short notice to the limit of forces available," Briscoe said. There was no indication here such a presidential order was in preparation.

The only requirement, he added, would be quick reinforcement of the U.S. 7th fleet to give it enough warships for the blockade and the Korean war. Briscoe continued:

"There are various kinds and degrees of blockades. If the 7th fleet were ordered to establish a close blockade without diminishing its present efforts in the Korean war, more naval vessels of various types would be required.

"With sufficient naval craft, plus carrier and patrol planes, the navy could establish an almost 100-per-cent effective blockade against ocean-borne traffic."

YURI I. NOVIKOV, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, stands with his wife and baby at New York's La Gaudia Airport before leaving the United States by plane. His recall was demanded by the U.S. State Department when it was revealed he headed a Russian spy plot. "Sorry, I'm not talking," he told reporters and the only thing he opened after that was his wallet.

Urge Caution In Fluoridation Of Water Supply

TORONTO (CP)—A statement released by a joint committee of the Canadian Dental Association and the Canadian Medical Association Sunday cautions communities considering fluoridation of communal water supplies to first discuss the subject with the local dental, medical and waterworks authorities.

The statement, presented "in response to many requests for information," deals with the addition of a fluoride compound to water as protection against tooth decay.

The committee reports that children residing in communities with a water supply fluoridated since 1945, such as Brantford, in the ratio of one part per million have considerably less decay in their teeth than children whose water supply is practically free of fluoride.

NATURALLY FLUORIDATED

The statement notes that some water supplies are naturally fluoridated from the soil and rock through which they pass. An excessive amount of fluoride in water, when the ratio reaches 1½ parts per million, the statement says, has been known to cause mild mottling or mild fluorosis in children's teeth.

The committee urges that communities planning fluoridation of their water supply consider sources of fluoride other than water since exposure to fluorides may occur within the neighborhood of certain industries.

Author, Magistrate And Fisherman Now Motion Picture Producer

OTTAWA (CP)—Roderick Haig-Brown of Campbell River, B.C., magistrate, fisherman and author, is taking a crack at picture making.

The 44-year-old, British-born short-story writer, novelist and famed fly fisherman is working on the final phases of a national film board short, "The Country Magistrate."

The story for the film was taken from his book, "Measure of the year." He and producer writer Robert Anderson of the CBC worked on the script and filming for three months in Campbell River before coming here.

ON STAGE AND BENCH

Mr. Haig-Brown acts in the picture as the country magistrate. Proficient in both capacities, the tall, lean sportsman acted in England years ago "to keep from starving" and is a magistrate at Campbell River.

"I took over the job 10 years ago when they offered it to me after no one else wanted it," he said by way of explanation.

A native of Lansing, Sussex, Mr. Haig-Brown came to Canada when 19 after working six months in the United States. He worked in Vancouver Island logging camps from 1926 until 1929 and then went back to England where he wrote his first book, "Silver."

"While writing the book, I worked as an extra in British films and sold short stories to keep alive."

Since then he has written 10 books, countless short stories and become a world-famed angler.

NOTABLE BOOKS

He won the Canadian Library Association award in 1946 for "Starbuck Valley Winter" and the Governor-General's citation for "Saltwater Summer" in 1948.

Mr. Haig-Brown has lived in Campbell River close to 20 years. He is married to an American, the former Ann Elmore of Seattle, Wash., and has four children. One of them, 11-year-old Alan, appears briefly in the film.

The story, intended primarily for European distribution, is simple, telling the everyday events in the life of a country magistrate. In one scene he holds court on a pier of the fishing village.

All the actors are neighbors of Mr. Haig-Brown. Even the RCMP officers are authentic. As director Anderson put it: "Who could play the part of a policeman better than a policeman?"

NEW MOVIE STAR—Roderick Haig-Brown, of Campbell River, B.C. (right), author-angler-turned-movie-star, and Robert Anderson, National Film Board producer, examine through a "Moviola" in the cutting room at Ottawa the film story "The Country Magistrate." The film tells of the author's life in Campbell River where he has been a magistrate for 10 years. It stars Haig-Brown and features members of his family and his neighbors. The picture is being produced by the NFB primarily for distribution abroad.

Smoke In Theatre Causes Near-Panic

OTTAWA (CP)—A near-panic was caused among a matinee crowd of children at an uptown movie theatre Saturday. Smoke poured into the theatre from a breakdown in the air conditioning system and several excited youngsters yelled "fire."

Children began screaming and running for exits. Members of the theatre staff calmed them by announcing from the stage there was no danger.

No one was injured. The theatre was emptied until the smoke was cleared out and the audience then returned to see the rest of the film.

Drugless Therapists To Have Own Board

TORONTO (CP)—A. E. Homewood announced Saturday that naturopaths and drugless therapists of Ontario have been granted their own examining and licensing board.

Mr. Homewood is secretary-treasurer of the new board to be known as the board of examiners of drugless therapists. Members have previously been regulated by the board of regents under the Drugless Practitioners Act.

Soviet Press Now Busy Stepping Up 'Hate America' Campaign For Readers

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW YORK (AP)—While Prime Minister Stalin speaks of peaceful co-existence of the Soviet and capitalist systems, his official press becomes more and more violent daily in its "Hate America" campaign.

Something relatively new has been added to the campaign since the recent jolt received by the Soviet press in the form of a shakeup at the top. More attention is being paid now to giving the Soviet public a quick Kremlin-eye view of Americans.

Cartoon caricatures appear now almost daily in the chief organs of the Soviet press, and particularly in Pravda. Up to a short time ago cartoons appeared rarely in that official Communist paper. But now, almost every day, a caricature appears on the back—or foreign news—page picturing Americans as bloody, cannibalistic and insane criminals.

Trud, Izvestia and the other main organs of the Soviet press also devote much attention to this form of propaganda.

GOT NEW EDITOR

Pravda was criticized during the October congress of the Soviet Communist party for shortcomings in its propaganda work. A short time later, Pravda got a new editor-in-chief, and things began to change.

The front page still carries the usual editorial on domestic or international subjects, but elsewhere on the page there appears daily now the picture of some outstanding stakhanovite (speedup) worker and the story of how he increased his production.

Great attention is paid to propagandizing higher labor productivity on farms and in factories. Much is written about the need for rooting out foreign thoughts and nationalist tendencies in literature, drama, the arts and so on throughout the Soviet Union. There is much discussion of the crimes of graft and corruption and the punishment thereof, as if the press were joined in a massive warning to the whole party bureaucracy.

Meanwhile, Pravda's back pages began to sprout many cartoons, all of them violently anti-American. The discussion of foreign affairs also grew more violent, with Americans being accused of the most appalling crimes.

Primitive Tribesmen Use Planes Regularly In Africa

By DENNIS RYAN

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Primitive tribesmen from some of the most remote regions of southern Africa, who until recently had only hearsay knowledge of flying machines, now are travelling to work by plane.

Their chance to fly has come from two "airlifts" operated from Mohembo on the Kkavango river, in Ngamiland, a part of the Techuanaland protectorate, and from Lilongwe in Nyasaland, to Francistown in northern Bechuanaland for the benefit of tribesmen who want to go to work in the Witwatersrand gold mines, or who, having completed their agreed period of work, are returning to their distant homes.

In the first eight months of 1952, 12,500 Africans used these airlift services to reach Francistown, from which they travel by train to Witwatersrand. Since last August, there have been five flights a week from Lilongwe and three a week from Mohembo.

OVER WILD COUNTRY

Both routes lie over wild country in some areas of which the Africans are living today under conditions no different from those seen by explorer David Livingstone more than 100 years ago.

Africans who use the air service from Lilongwe in Nyasaland are not recruited. They cross international borders of their own accord in search of work in the mines, travelling in some cases as much as 300 miles on foot before reaching one of the Witwatersrand native labor association depots in Nyasaland, and often crossing Lake Nyasa in ancient Arab dhows.

From these outlying depots the men seeking work are taken in trucks to Dowa, the central Nyasaland depot, where they are medically examined, vaccinated, inoculated against yellow fever, issued with clothing, have their work contracts completed, and are housed and fed until they leave, by truck, for the airport at Lilongwe some 40 miles to the south.

Africans waiting for their yellow fever inoculations to take effect are taken to the airfields to watch the airplanes arrive and depart. Some pace out the measurements of the wingspan and the fuselage the better to tell the story on their return home. Others poke the plane gingerly with their fingers.

The tribesmen of southern and central Africa now are convinced air travel is the thing.

3 Boys Trapped On Rail Bridge

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Three St. Thomas lads were trapped on a trestle bridge crossing Beaver creek by a London and Port Stanley Railway train Sunday.

Robert Babcock, Jack McCulley and Bobby Passfield were on a hike to Port Stanley when young Babcock saw the train. He ordered them to fall on their faces beside the track.

The train ran past the boys, ripping Passfield's pack from his back. Though he apparently suffered no broken bones, he was kept in hospital overnight.

The other boys were untouched.

Farm Home Burned

TILLSONBURG (CP) — About $6,000 damage was caused Sunday at the tobacco farm of Paul Abler of Vienna district, when a house occupied by Alfred Brownlee, sharegrower, was destroyed by fire. Most of the household furnishings also were lost.

Bar Ass'n To Meet

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Some 400 delegates are expected to attend a mid-winter meeting of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Bar Association here Jan. 30-31. Andre Taschereau, Quebec, president of the Canadian Bar Association, will address a luncheon meeting Jan. 31.

Frame House Burns

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Fanned by high winds, fire Sunday destroyed the frame home of Fred Robbins, of Woodstock district, well-known Oxford poultry breeder. Loss was estimated at about $5,000, partly covered by insurance. Firemen managed to prevent flames from spreading to a nearby barn.

Fire Destroys House

BARRIE (CP) — An elderly widow lost all her possessions when fire destroyed her four-room bungalow Sunday. Mrs. Mary Salisbury, 75, tried to put the fire out when it started in her kitchen, but could not reach an area near the ceiling. A neighbor helped her out of the blazing building.

Believe South Korean Army Could Hold Front In Year

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet said Sunday night he believes the South Korean Army could be built up within 12 months to hold the entire 155-mile Korean battle front—if the United Nations should decide to stay on the present line.

The retiring 8th Army commander said such a plan "would depend on whether the UN command wishes to hold the present line or move forward."

"The Republic of Korea Army is a proven army," he told a press conference. "They have sufficient manpower in Korea to support a much larger army."

Korean divisions gradually are taking over the front from U.S. divisions, presumably as part of President Eisenhower's expressed wishes to pull Americans off the line.

The South Koreans now hold roughly two-thirds of the front.

Twelve Korean divisions have been made active, eight less than Van Fleet recommended be outfitted.

President Eisenhower has said he plans to speed making active more Korean divisions.

The exact number of troops in a Korean division has not been announced but is estimated at more than 10,000 fighting men plus attached units.

Plans Completed For Splitting Nazi Film Combine

By EDO KOENIG

BONN (Reuters)—The West German government has completed its plan for splitting up the huge movie-making combine Nazi propaganda minister Josef Goebbels created to peddle Nazi ideology.

Under the plans, the Nazi-created UFI movie cartel would be broken up and three or four large new movie companies formed from its assets.

These assets, estimated at 70,000,000 marks (about $16,800,000) worth of studios, theatres and equipment, were placed under Allied control after the war. In 1951, the West German government was asked to work out a decartelization plan for them.

Its plan has now been presented to Parliament's film committee.

GO TO CREDITORS

Once the control is lifted, about 20,000,000 marks ($4,400,000) worth of the assets will go immediately to satisfy claims of individual creditors.

According to the government plan, each of the new companies will have production and distribution facilities. This is intended to make them independent of the "retarding" influence of present day film distribution firms and increase the chance of improving the quality of films.

The plan also seeks to establish a special movie bank to finance an estimated 60 movies a year and assist in the production of whole movie sets which would permit the losses of one film to be cancelled out by the financial success of another.

WOULD COLLABORATE

Also envisaged is practical collaboration with Italy and France for joint film production.

The government's plan coincides with a plan pursued by the 6,000,000-member West German trade union federation. This body, breaking with tradition, is preparing to enter the film industry with its own money and build up a film production and distribution organization of its own.

The UFI organization was founded by Goebbels in 1939 and included the existing main German film companies, whose shares had been bought up by the Nazi Reich government.

Goebbels' aim was to have a giant film combine ready after Germany's final "victory." Its films, estimated to average 80 a year, were to be of highest quality, with their pro-Nazi tendency skilfully disguised.

But Goebbels also exploited UFI for his propaganda in news reels.

In 1943, 2,500 newsreels a week were turned out, occasionally of a length up to 5,400 feet. British news reels usually run about 600 feet.

Student's Visit Causes Uproar

ALFRED, Ont. (CP) — James Gerard, 24, of Pembroke, a former student at Alfred Industrial School for juvenile lawbreakers, revisited the school Saturday and touched off a series of escapes and captures. Police told this story:

During Gerard's visit, the school director, Brother Justinien, told him he was wanted by police on theft charges in Montreal and Pembroke.

Gerard, being held by several students, broke loose and smashed through a window, jumping 15 feet to the ground. Several boys chased and caught him and he was taken to jail at nearby L'Orignal on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

In the excitement, two students, Gerald Zoppa, 16, and a 15-year-old companion escaped. Early Sunday, police said, they stole a truck here and drove to Ottawa, 40 miles west, where they were stopped by a police roadblock. They were returned to the industrial school.

Rob Grocery Store After Alarm Given

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Two men, one armed, robbed a small east-end grocery store of about $100 Sunday night after a boy who was in the store edged past the robbers and ran next door to summon help.

Mrs. Derna Mellandy, 36, owner of the store, said one of the men wore a nylon stocking pulled over his face and the other carried a gun.

Terrance Murphy, 13, ran from the store to get Mrs. Mellandy's husband who called police before he took his gun and ran to the store.

Before he arrived the men had picked up the money and fled.

Early Saturday a lone bandit took $276 from a service station after he bound and gagged the attendant, Morin Morin, 30.

Former Publisher Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Bernadette Grace McKay, 62, widow of R. J. Cromie, founder of the Vancouver Sun, died Saturday in hospital after a long illness. For a short time after Mr. Cromie's death in 1936 she was president and publisher of the Sun. In 1941 she married W. R. McKay, who predeceased her in 1950. Among survivors are four sons including Donald Cromie, publisher of the Sun.

Indecent Literature Sparks K Of C Drive

STRATFORD (CP)—The Ontario state board of the Knights of Columbus, meeting here during weekend, called on all councils of the order to co-operate in a campaign against indecent literature.

The board said it supported Most Rev. Alexander Vachon, archbishop of Ottawa, who protested against the French film Clochmerle, and urged the Ontario board of film censors to use more judgment in the type of film released for showing. The board also commended Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa for her efforts to have Clochmerle banned.

Policeman 25 Years Becomes Preacher

TORONTO (CP)—After 25 years on the Toronto police force, inspector Jesse Weller has resigned to keep an appointment he made with the Lord 18 years ago and become a full-time preacher.

Back in 1935, while pounding a lonely beat, he heard the call to preach the gospel. Soon he joined a religious group, worked among its young people, and since, from pulpits of various denominations, has delivered sermons he has written with such titles as "The Dope Question" and "The Lost Child."

He is travelling to Florida to join the evangelistic group of W.B. McKay.

Urge Higher Grants

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Increased provincial grants for rural and urban municipalities to help meet rising costs of education were urged Saturday at the 31st annual convention of the Middlesex School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association. Meeting at nearby Arva, delegates passed a resolution asking for more aid.

Seek Wage Increase

MONTREAL (CP)—Five thousand employees of Montreal Transport Commission, operating the city's public transportation system, have applied for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour and a 40-hour week, it was announced Saturday. The employees are members of the tramways section of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCL-CIO). A collective agreement between the employees' union and the transport commission expires March 28.

Federal Government Wins Long Tax Deal With Quebec

OTTAWA (CP)—A long-fought, multi-million-dollar tax duel between the federal government and nine Quebec power companies has ended in a federal government victory in the Exchequer Court of Canada.

Reversing a decision of the income tax appeal board, the court ruled that millions of dollars which these and other Quebec corporations pay out under the province's "education tax" levy are not deductible from federal income tax assessments.

Delivered by Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron, the court's judgment, made public Saturday, agreed with the federal revenue department that the Quebec levy is a provincial corporation tax which is not deductible under federal income tax regulations.

Quashing the appeal board's findings, the court also upheld the validity of a federal order-in-council passed in 1948 defining corporation taxes. The board had ruled that the order-in-council was invalid because the government allegedly had gone beyond the powers granted by Parliament in defining the nature of a corporation tax.

SPECIFIC POINT

Specifically, the big tax dispute centred on the federal government's disallowance of a total of more than $1,400,000 which the companies claimed as deductions from their 1947 federal income tax assessments. This was the amount paid out under the Quebec education tax levy in that year.

The court's decision, however, affects all such payments over the years not only by the power companies but also Quebec timber, oil and telephone companies which also must pay the levy used to build up a provincial school fund.

Seven of the nine power companies argued that federal statutes dealing with the tax dispute were beyond the power of Parliament to pass because it prevented any province from exercising its constitutional power of direct taxation by levying a corporation tax.

The law's "real purpose," they said, was to bring "pressure" on the provinces to sign Dominion-provincial tax agreements.

Mr. Justice Cameron said he could not agree. Just because the federal government would not allow a provincial corporation tax as a federal income-tax deduction did not mean that the federal government was trying to "penalize" a province which did not enter into a tax agreement.

Modern World Of Automatic Dispensers May Invade Austere County Building

A touch of modernity is coming to the staid halls of the county building. If an experiment by the county council works out some shiny new vending machines will be installed there offering cigarettes, chocolate bars and soft drinks to prospective buyers.

The suggestion was made by County Solicitor Walter Howell.

"Say," he said with breezy informality, "I've got an idea how you fellows can make money."

That did it. The county councillors stubbed out their cigars and sat bolt upright. All session long they had only heard pleas for money from various organizations. Reluctantly they had been doling out the ratepayers' dollars. Now here was somebody telling them how to make a buck.

They were all ears as Mr. Howell told of revenue that could be obtained from push-button, coin-operated vending machines.

"It'll not only make money but save time," urged Mr. Howell. "Instead of adjourning for lunch you fellows can break off for a minute or so, grab a coke and a chocolate bar, and get on with your business."

The suggestion was referred to the property committee amid favorable comment.

Jolliffe Criticizes Gov't For Handling Of Currie Report On Army

"The Liberal government may find it necessary to use the police to prevent discussion by the people of Canada," E. B. Jolliffe, QC, provincial leader of the CCF party, stated here Saturday evening, "but I for one am not afraid of being held in contempt of court as a result." Mr. Jolliffe first made reference to the Currie report, and termed action of the government in making an arrest in connection with the premature release of a copy "regrettable." It is part of "totalitarian state practice," he said, and charged that the dominion government, in its rage over a copy of the report being obtained before they had time to "doctor it up," was stooping "to any length to cover their tracks."

"They cannot stop the people of Canada from continuing this discussion, and no one need feel in contempt of court as a result," Mr. Jolliffe added.

ATTEMPT TO COVER UP

"What is more serious than the dishonesty of the few," he continued, "is the dishonesty of an administration which attempts to cover things up as though they had never happened."

He stated the Liberal rallying cry for the next election would be "We Was Robbed," referring, he said, to the Currie report.

He summarized action of Dominion authorities, in making arrest of a man who was alleged to have stolen a copy of the report, as "using the RCMP to suppress discussion."

Mr. Jolliffe, who spoke here during a program which was carried on throughout Saturday in conjunction with the local CCF party, and representatives of a number of trade unions in the city, was guest speaker at a buffet luncheon served in the Bank of Commerce chambers.

Examination of many of the resolutions which had been formulated and passed by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, The CIO-CCL, and the CCF party, Mr. Jolliffe said, showed a remarkable similarity in movement for the increased security of the working man.

He suggested that the CCF party, as the voice of all Canada, including the farmers of western Canada, who now faced a difficult situation, could well act as the voice of all three.

He referred to the international situation as alarming. Half the people of the world are starving, he said, and the responsibility on western nations, including Canada, is very great. At the Colombo conference, he said, Canada agreed to make a contribution of aid in funds of $25,000,000. This amount, he said, was negligible in view of the present need.

"They could have saved as much, in not such a long time, if they had heeded repeated warnings of maladministration at army camps, at both Petawawa and Borden," he commented.

The Liberal government has failed to give true world leadership in the world today, he said. Turning to the CCF program, he said it was not a merely altruistic program. It came from experience of the common people, and has moved side by side with organized labor, he said. More than one half of the workers of Canada are still unorganized, he said.

Morning and afternoon sessions were devoted to discussion of CCF programs carried out in Saskatchewan and other proposed legislation for both provincial and federal fields. Henry Weisbach, executive secretary of the Political Action committee of the CCL, was unable to attend. He had been scheduled to address the gathering on possible mobilization of trade unionists with the CCF in forthcoming federal elections.

William Triggs, Peterborough, was chairman of the discussion with William C. Grant, of Peterborough CCF association, assisting in the program. Morning and afternoon sessions were addressed by Fred Grant, from provincial headquarters in Toronto. He spoke on current developments in Saskatchewan, particularly the provincial government automobile insurance program, with several films also screened.

Mr. Jolliffe was introduced by Wm. Triggs, chairman of the meeting. The buffet supper was prepared and served by Peterborough CCF ladies.

Women Curl For Trophy In Bonspiel

The two-day annual ladies' bonspiel for the Warne Trophy opened here this morning with 28 rinks, representing 14 Ontario curling clubs, on hand. Mrs. L. E. Woolley's Toronto Granites' rink holder of this trophy for the last two years, was not present to defend it.

The bonspiel is being conducted on the wins-plus-points system, each rink playing three games and the rink that wins all three with the greatest total of points takes the trophy. This will be decided early Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. Fanning, president of the local ladies' club, welcomed the curlers, and Mrs. J. Watts — bonspiel chairman — read the rules before play commenced. Results of the morning draw:

Skater's Leg Cut In Practice

Dorothy Kingston daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kingston, 21 Manning Ave., suffered a deep gash on her left leg Sunday while figure skating at the Peterborough Curling Club. Four stitches were required to close the cut.

She was twirling, with a partner when the partner's skate clipped Miss Kingston's leg just above the boot-top.

She was helped off the ice and club officials noticed the blood spurting out, indicating an artery had been cut. A man's scarf was tied above the girl's knee to reduce the bleeding.

Mr. and Mrs. Kingston today commended the quick work of Mrs. Jack Thornton, Gordon Dobbin, Roy Lewis and Eric Baggs in the administration of first aid and obtaining treatment for the cut.

"The skating club officials should be commended; they certainly can handle an emergency," said Mrs. Kingston. She was treated at Civic Hospital.

Today Miss Kingston was carried into the Collegiate to write examinations which begin today. She expects to be skating again in a week.

Criticize Norway

LONDON (Reuters) — Izvestia, Soviet government newspaper, Sunday attacked Norway for allowing "the preparation of bridgeheads for the American aggressor on Norwegian soil," Moscow radio reported. This was the latest of several attacks made by Soviet newspapers recently on Norwegian defence policy and co-operation with other Atlantic Pact countries.

Developing Kitimat Needs Work Of Missionary - Bishop

Site of the great industrial enterprise of the Aluminum Company of Canada, Kitimat is expected to become the third largest city in British Columbia, exceeded in population only by Vancouver and Victoria.

Most Reverend Anthony Jordan, O.M.I., bishop of the diocese of Prince Rupert, sketched some of the engineering details of the Aluminum Company project in an interview with the Examiner today as guest of Bishop Gerald Berry.

"The people of Eastern Canada of course, have read about the Kitimat," Bishop Jordan said, "and can readily appreciate what this tremendous investment of $500,000,000 means to the northern section of British Columbia. The company expects to put into operation the first unit of their aluminum smelter in 1954.

"The industrial future of Kitimat is based on the big electric power development of Kemano Bay, a new expanse of water created by the damming of the Nechako River.

122 MILE LAKE

"This lake will be about 122 miles in length," His Excellency said, "and this is an interesting fact indicating the extent of this phase of the Aluminum Company's project—it will take about five years beginning from last October for the accumulation of the water in this lake until it reaches its maximum height and area."

The company is employing 5,000 men on the various sections of its development. The erection of the power transmission lines from the generating plant is being projected over difficult and hazardous terrain, "and the men engaged on that work have to be transported by helicopter."

The tunnelling through a mountain from the lake to the power plant is only one of the important details of the whole enterprise. Meanwhile, the company is proceeding with its plans for the future city of Kitimat which will be a municipality in its own right.

Bishop Jordan is visiting dioceses in eastern Canada appealing to their people for financial assistance to provide for the needs of his own missionary vicariat. He explained his purpose and also described the developing conditions in the diocese of Prince Rupert at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday.

75,000 POPULATION

Its area comprises 135,000 square miles in the northern section of the province. The population is about 75,000 of whom about 10,000 are Catholics, and 65,000 are white people. Bishop Jordan's episcopal territory also includes the Queen Charlotte Islands off the Pacific coast.

The principal centres in the diocese are Prince Rupert on the coast and Dawson Creek where the Alaska Highway begins, and Prince George.

"Eastern Canada was once missionary country, and now that most of it has long been established, I have received permission to solicit the help of the people in dioceses such as Peterborough," Bishop Jordan said. "Bishop Berry has been most kind, and I may say that the people are again showing their generosity to our needs in Prince Rupert.

"There are special circumstances in British Columbia which direct our appeal to the east. The church

UNWANTED BRIDGE

Another effort is being made by county council to decide who is responsible for the upkeep of the Lakefield bridge. At present it is a county responsibility, but year after year Lakefield has tried to get the Department of Highways to take it over. At the inaugural session of county council the subject came up again and on a motion by Reeves William C. Grant and James Gifford the county roads committee were instructed to approach Highways Minister George Doucett on the matter.

$8,000 Needed To Repair Bridge

An $8,000 repair job will have to be done on the swing-bridge at Wallace Point.

At the inaugural session of the Peterborough county council Jack Kean, county engineer, was authorized to go ahead with the repair work. The centre pier is gradually settling and crumbling.

As the Wallace Point bridge spans the Otonabee between the townships of Otonabee and South Monaghan it will be a joint project of Peterborough county and the United Counties of Northumberland-Durham.

"My observation is that the bridge is in bad shape," said Reeve Dick Stewart of Otonabee. "In the last few years it has settled 14 inches and I think something should be done."

Reeve Stewart said the other piers had been repaired in the last 25 or 30 years, but the centre one has not.

Mr. Kean asked for permission to go ahead right away and get the necessary steel. Council agreed.

He estimated the cost at $8,000. Fifty per cent of it will be paid for by the United Counties, and there will be an 80 per cent subsidy from the Department of Highways on the remaining $4,000 if the project is approved.

News From Studebaker

The showroom of McWilliams Motor Sales, local Studebaker dealership, is being readied for the public showing of Studebaker's new 1953 models which Rae McWilliams, owner, believes will excite the public as much as any new cars he has ever displayed.

"They're low! They hug the road! They have lines that bring new automobile styling concepts to the Canadian scene!" says Mr. McWilliams.

Studebaker has revealed no details to the public concerning its '53 offerings, but Mr. McWilliams declares the new cars will be as dramatically different as were Studebaker's postwar cars for 1947.

"During the first 100 years of building highway vehicles Studebaker has contributed many improvements toward better transportation," Mr. McWilliams says. "The public has come to associate new ideas, new concepts, and constantly improved transportation with the world's oldest manufacturer of highway transportation. And I can assure you that these new cars will not only be the most beautiful cars Studebaker has ever offered but truly symbolic of the advanced engineering and design for which Studebaker has become so famous."

Pending any upset on the new models arriving, the show rooms of McWilliams Motor Sales will be open evenings all next week displaying them. Mr. McWilliams extends a cordial and sincere invitation to all to drop in and inspect them. It's new, it's for you, it's your dream car come true, yet you'll be astonished at its down-to-earth price.

Won't Wear Slippers

GENEVA (Reuters) — The citizens of nearby Meinier decided Sunday that their children will not wear carpet slippers in class. Last month local authorities ordered children to wear slippers to protect paint work in the newly-decorated school. Parents forced the council to organize the referendum.

Modern World Of Automatic Dispensers May Invade Austere County Building

A touch of modernity is coming to the staid halls of the county building. If an experiment by the county council works out some shiny new vending machines will be installed there offering cigarettes, chocolate bars and soft drinks to prospective buyers.

The suggestion was made by County Solicitor Walter Howell.

"Say," he said with breezy informality. "I've got an idea how you fellows can make money."

That did it. The county councillors stubbed out their cigars and sat bolt upright. All session long they had only heard pleas for money from various organizations. Reluctantly they had been doling out the ratepayers' dollars. Now here was somebody telling them how to make a buck.

They were all ears as Mr. Howell told of revenue that could be obtained from push-button, coin-operated vending machines.

"It'll not only make money but save time," urged Mr. Howell. "Instead of adjourning for lunch you fellows can break off for a minute or so, grab a coke and a chocolate bar, and get on with your business."

The suggestion was referred to the property committee and a favorable comment.

Jolliffe Criticizes Gov't For Handling Of Currie Report On Army

"The Liberal government may find it necessary to use the police to prevent discussion by the people of Canada," E. B. Jolliffe, QC, provincial leader of the CCF party, stated here Saturday evening, "but I for one am not afraid of being held in contempt of court as a result." Mr. Jolliffe first made reference to the Currie report, and termed action of the government in making an arrest in connection with the premature release of a copy "regrettable." It is part of "totalitarian state practice," he said, and charged that the dominion government, in its rage over a copy of the report being obtained before they had time to "doctor it up," was stooping "to any length to cover their tracks."

"They cannot stop the people of Canada from continuing this discussion, and no one need feel in contempt of court as a result," Mr. Jolliffe added.

ATTEMPT TO COVER UP

"What is more serious than the dishonesty of the few," he continued, "is the dishonesty of an administration which attempts to cover things up as though they had never happened."

He stated the Liberal rallying cry for the next election would be "We Was Robbed," referring, he said, to the Currie report.

He summarized action of Dominion authorities, in making arrest of a man who was alleged to have stolen a copy of the report, as "using the RCMP to suppress discussion."

Mr. Jolliffe, who spoke here during a program which was carried on throughout Saturday in conjunction with the local CCF party, and representatives of a number of trade unions in the city, was guest speaker at a buffet luncheon served in the Bank of Commerce chambers.

Examination of many of the resolutions which had been formulated and passed by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, The CIO-CCL, and the CCF party, Mr. Jolliffe said, showed a remarkable similarity in movement for the increased security of the working man.

He suggested that the CCF party, as the voice of all Canada, including the farmers of western Canada, who now faced a difficult situation, could well act as the voice of all three.

He referred to the international situation as alarming. Half the people of the world are starving, he said, and the responsibility on western nations, including Canada, is very great. At the Colombo conference, he said, Canada agreed to make a contribution of aid in funds of $25,000,000. This amount, he said, was negligible in view of the present need.

"They could have saved as much, in not such a long time, if they had heeded repeated warnings of maladministration at army camps, at both Petawawa and Borden," he commented.

The Liberal government has failed to give true world leadership in the world today, he said. Turning to the CCF program, he said it was not a merely altruistic program. It came from experience of the common people, and has moved side by side with organized labor, he said. More than one half of the workers of Canada are still unorganized, he said.

Morning and afternoon sessions were devoted to discussion of CCF programs carried out in Saskatchewan and other proposed legislation for both provincial and federal fields. Henry Weisbach, executive secretary of the Political Action committee of the CCL, was unable to attend. He had been scheduled to address the gathering on possible mobilization of trade unionists with the CCF in forthcoming federal elections.

William Triggs, Peterborough, was chairman of the discussion with William C. Grant, of Peterborough CCF association, assisting in the program. Morning and afternoon sessions were addressed by Fred Grant, from provincial headquarters in Toronto. He spoke on current developments in Saskatchewan, particularly the provincial government automobile insurance program, with several films also screened.

Mr. Jolliffe was introduced by Wm. Triggs, chairman of the meeting. The buffet supper was prepared and served by Peterborough CCF ladies.

Skater's Leg Cut In Practice

Dorothy Kingston daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kingston, 21 Manning Ave., suffered a deep gash on her left leg Sunday while figure skating at the Peterborough Curling Club. Four stitches were required to close the cut.

She was twirling, with a partner when the partner's skate clipped Miss Kingston's leg just above the boot-top.

She was helped off the ice and club officials noticed the blood spurting out, indicating an artery had been cut. A man's scarf was tied above the girl's knee to reduce the bleeding.

Mr. and Mrs. Kingston today commended the quick work of Mrs. Jack Thornton, Gordon Dobbin, Roy Lewis and Eric Baggs in the administration of first aid and obtaining treatment for the cut.

"The skating club officials should be commended; they certainly can handle an emergency," said Mrs. Kingston. She was treated at Civic Hospital.

Today Miss Kingston was carried into the Collegiate to write examinations which begin today. She expects to be skating again in a week.

This was the latest of several attacks made by Soviet newspapers recently on Norwegian defence policy and co-operation with other Atlantic Pact countries.

BUSY WITH THE BEARSKINS — More than 3,000 bearskin shakos are being fashioned in Michael Silberston's clothing factory, in London's suburban Bethnal Green. They will be worn by the towering members of the Brigade of Guards as they march in the Coronation parade in June. Silberston, whose grandfather made bearskin hats for the Imperial troops of the last Russian czar, will cut all of the skins himself. Employees, above, begin to form the hats on wood frames.

Would Set Up Community Of Friendly Communists

By JOHN BUSH

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—A retired British Army officer wants to set up a community of "friendly Communists" on the isolated South Atlantic island of St. Helena.

Col. Edward (Christmas) Noel, who has been living here for the last year, is a tall, gaunt white-haired man. He says the kind of communism planned has nothing to do with the "Iron Curtain" kind.

He merely hopes to establish a place where persons of enough money—but not too much—can escape the stress and strain of modern life and fear of the atom bomb.

The colonel says individuals of any nationality may join his venture, but they should be able to speak English. He himself speaks six languages, picked up during an adventurous career in which he did everything from helping White Russians flee their country to driving overland by car from Britain to India.

Col. "Christmas" stipulates that would-be members of his community must have a minimum-maximum private income of $900-$1,200 a year or $1,200-$1,800 for a family.

The minimum income rule, which he made because "we must get money to live on from somewhere," has already prevented many "otherwise excellent" applicants from joining the party.

Eventually, the settlers will live in reinforced concrete single-storey cottages costing about $450 each. But in the meantime they will have to live in wooden huts or tents.

He does not envisage any revolutionary social code, and will leave details of social life to be dealt with later.

He expects his companions to co-operate in producing the community's own vegetables, milk, cheese and butter, the bulk buying of all necessities," setting up a water supply and drainage, an electricity supply and the running of a laundry, a bakery, a restaurant and clubs.

He hopes that they will eventually grow their own tobacco and make their own wine.

According to a prospectus the colonel issued, the settlers will be able to amuse themselves in their spare time by fishing, hunting wild fowl, playing golf, taking talks or swimming all the year round.

Col. Noel explains that he chose St Helena for his proposed settlement because of its temperate, non-malarial climate.

"Could I keep working?"

A Serious Question for One Suffering from Arthritic Pain

"I suffered a great deal from such pain in my legs, knees and other joints, that it was hard to do my work," writes Miss Thelma Johnson, Picton, Ont. "I was having so much trouble, I wondered if I would be able to continue at my job. Then I learned about T-R-C's. What a fortunate day that was, for I have had the very best sort of relief. I wouldn't want to be without T-R-C's in the house."

Popular Author W. B. Pitkin Dies Suddenly

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Walter Boughton Pitkin, 75, author of the phenomenally successful book, "Life Begins at Forty," died in hospital Sunday after a brief illness.

Pitkin was in the midst of writing another book, "Let's Enjoy Life Again."

He had been ailing, but became seriously ill only two days ago and was brought to Palo Alto Hospital Saturday from his home at nearby Los Altos.

Hospital attaches declined to give the immediate cause of death.

AUTHOR AND EDITOR

Pitkin had been an author, professor, psychologist and editor, and published many books.

He was successful before he was 40, and in 1939 wrote a book entitled "Making Good Before Forty."

He served 38 years on the faculty of Columbia University in New York—as a lecturer in psychology, and professor of journalism—before he retired in 1943.

Many jaded American business men were encouraged by "Life Begins at Forty," and it became a household word.

RCMP Shepherd Dog Finds Lost Keys, Wallets

WESTLOCK, Alta. (CP)—Two duck hunters lost their car keys. They were faced with changing the door and ignition locks on their car. Asta found the key case within an hour.

A farmer lost a wallet containing more than $1,000 while tilling land. Searchers failed to find it. Asta hunted for six hours but she finally discovered the wallet, buried under seven inches of earth.

Asta is a seven-year-old German shepherd dog, bred and raise dby the RCMP, and now "stationed" at Westlock, 50 miles northwest of Edmonton.

EARLY START

She has been trained since puppyhood for tracking, searching, guarding, attacking and disarming. And each spring she returns to headquarters with her trainer, Constable W. H. M. Brace, for a refresher course.

In addition Asta goes through a daily routine of practice including attacking, jumping high walls, liquor hunting and retrieving. All this keeps her keen and ready.

Asta's ability to uncover liquor has won her the nickname of "Nosey Mountie." A year ago she led officers to eight gallons of illicit alcohol on two farms

"Nosey" is outstanding in finding lost persons.

35-MINUTE JOB

Little Robbie Edwards had been lost for hours and searchers had failed to uncover any trace. Asta found him 35 minutes after she began to work on the case.

A man broke into a store and set fire to it. Asta was taken to the scene. After tracking for miles through dense woods, the dog led its master to a farmhouse. At 3 a.m., a youth confessed to the theft and arson.

The dog is employed on thousands of cases in northern Alberta and northwestern Saskatchewan. She also demonstrates before school children and scout groups.

Convict Hladiy, Ordered To Be Hanged

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — George Gregory Hladiy, 33-year-old immigrant, will be hanged April 25 for the murder of a man he first met in a displaced persons camp in Europe.

Hladiy was convicted Saturday of the murder of Joseph Panok last July 26 after a Supreme Court jury deliberated for more than seven hours.

Mr. Justice R.I. Ferguson passed the death sentence. Hladiy, who was joined here by the 34-year-old Panok after their original meeting in Europe, showed no sign of emotion as the sentence was handed down.

It was the second time he had been sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Panok, whose body was found last Aug. 8 floating in the McIntyre river, weighted down with railway plates. Hladiy was convicted at his first trial last December but was later granted a new trial.

ASK MORE INFORMATION

The jury in the second trial returned once during its deliberations for additional information concerning the differences between murder and manslaughter. It then retired again and returned shortly with its verdict.

On the witness stand Friday Hladiy testified he struck Panok in self-defence. Speaking through an interpreter, he said Panok tried to slip a rope around his neck after they had gone to the railway yards to look for wheat in box cars. Hladiy said he hit Panok back, weighted the body and threw it in the river.

Man 50, Beaten Robbed By 2 Men

STRATFORD (CP)—Robert Eichler, a 50-year-old man who lives alone in a small house in the village of Shakespeare, five miles east of here, told provincial police Sunday that he had been beaten and robbed by two or five men.

Eichler said the men entered his small house Saturday night. One of them struck him, then held him while another stole $123 and three cases of beer.

He later thought there may have been five men after first reporting two.

Seeks Missing Body Youth Falls In River

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—John Cardy, 16, fell into the Nith river Saturday while helping in the search for Paul McKenna, 4, missing since Jan. 19 and feared drowned. He said a grappling hook he was using caught on a snag and he was pulled off balance.

Terry Prine, 13, pulled him out.

The McKenna boy's body still has not been found.

IMMIGRATION ARRESTS—Jean M. Bourget and Pascale Petrecca are handcuffed and in police custody after their arrest in Montreal on charges from operations of a ring which allegedly helped the illegal entry of European immigrants into Canada. The charges were laid by RCMP after 24 months of investigation. Two other persons were also arrested and police said more are pending.

Greenland's Lead Resources Add Strategic Importance

By GUY BETTAY

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — The creation of the U.S. air base at Thule and other air installations gave Greenland strategic importance. Now development of her untapped lead resources may make the barren icecap island economically important as a major source of the world's supply of lead.

Denmark, keenly aware of the new importance of her North Atlantic colony, is taking steps to develop the island's mineral resources through a prospecting company in which the Danish government is the majority stockholder.

The deposits are at Mestersvik, where a cold current from the north pole flows down the east coast, causing pack ice so thick than even specially built ships can only approach the shore during a few weeks in the summer.

Tests show the deposits contain 352 pounds of lead and about 17 pounds of zinc to the ton. If these proportions are generally confirmed, the deposit is one of the finest in the world, and the lead so far has proved of high quality.

The experts who made the tests, including Danes, Canadians and Swedes, say output could reach 50,000 tons of lead and zinc a year.

The greatest problem is that of transport, owing to the pack ice along the coast, and the extreme cold. An enterprising Danish shipping company believes one of its ships, the 4,200-ton Sikja Dan, built specially for the Greenland pack ice, could remove the lead during the short summer season.

There is also the question of transporting, housing and supplying the workers, which would have to be done mainly by air.

The airfield at Mestersvig, constructed during the Second World War, is being put in order to enable aircraft to use it in almost all weathers so that regular geological surveying trips can be made.

It will probably be the best part of a year before prospecting is sufficiently advanced to enable a plan to be prepared for working the deposit.

Reds Making Progress In Gaining Tibet Control

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG (AP)—Nineteen months after its so-called "liberation," the lofty and remote land of Tibet is being swallowed and digested by Communist China.

One of Tibet's last direct links with the non-Communist world was broken recently when India reduced its diplomatic mission in Lhasa to a consulate-general, limited strictly to trade activities.

Persons who have come out of China's far western areas and from the fringes of the high Tibetan plateau say Red China still rules through Tibetan officials, notably the young Dalai Lama and his 108-man national assembly.

However, the 17-year-old Lama's non-Chinese advisers have been removed.

IMPOSE HEAVY TAXES

The Reds also are said to be bearing down with heavy taxes on the three big monasteries of Lhasa which are the source of the Dalai Lama's power. At the same time the power and prestige of monasteries in the Shigatse area are being increased because they acknowledge the 15-year-old Panchen Lama as spiritual leader.

The Reds "discovered" the infant Panchen Lama in 1937 and he has been under their tutelage since birth.

Eventually, Red China is expected to do away with Buddhism in Tibet because of communism's anti-religious policy. For the present, Peiping temporizes, playing off the power and influence of the Panchen Lama against that of the rival Dalai Lama.

Peiping is eager to bring western Tibet into the Red economy. This area, which adjoins Kasmir and Sinkiang, has mineral wealth.

EASIER IN WEST

The Red task is easier in western Tibet than around Lhasa, according to sources familiar with the region. They say the feudal landowners in the west never have paid more than nominal allegiance to the Dalai Lama.

Already Peiping has started a program of abolishing the landlord regime and taxing hitherto rent-free properties and estates of the powerful monasteries and the nobility of the Buddhist priesthood.

For centuries Tibet was ruled by yellow-robed priests in one of the world's few theocracies. It was considered semi-autonomous although the troops of Genghis Khan swept over its high passes on their way to India.

In May, 1951, the Chinese Communists announced a military and political agreement calling for Red control of Tibet's borders to protect it from "imperialist aggressors."

Since then, three administrative zones have been established at Chamdo, Lhasa and Shigatse. Tibetan Reds were picked for key jobs.

The Communists also are driving a trunk road from Sikang over the high plateau to Lhasa and possibly beyond. Built by troops and forced labor, it ironically is called "the road to happiness."

'gloos Dime A Dozen As Eskimos Go Modern

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Used igloos are a dime a dozen in the Arctic. The Eskimo is going modern with government - subsidized housing.

R. Rockwood, head of the division of northern Labrador affairs of the welfare department, said here that the pattern of Eskimo life is changing so rapidly that there is hardly a native left who has actually seen the old Eskimo culture.

One of the most obvious changes was the switch from igloos to government-built houses. Igloos now are used only when a trapper is caught on his line by storm.

Flying Machine Moves Wings

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—A flying machine with moving wings is ready for a trial flight at this southeastern Alberta city.

Called an ornithopter, the 280-pound machine made of metal and balsa wood has two sets of wings.

"It will be the closest approximation to bird flight ever designed by man," said James E. Caldwell, the inventor-engineer.

It was constructed by Hartley D Shannon, a Medicine Hat business man who is an aeronautical engineer. It will be piloted by William Francis of Medicine Hat Air Services on its test flights.

"In principle," said Mr. Shannon, "If this model is what we hope it is, the cost of air transport would be cut down to the cycle class."

In appearance the 'thopter is radical in design from modern airplanes, helicopters and gliders.

Its main feature consists of the four wings or flaps which simulate a bird's locomotive and gliding power. Each wing is eight feet long and five feet from lead to tail edge.

The pilot sits front and centre and there are two wings on each side of him. The wings move one foot both up and down from normal position. Behind the pilot's seat is a 12-horsepower motor which Mr Shannon says is more than ample for the lifting power required.

New York Curb Exchange Changes Name Sixth Time

By RAIDER WINGET

NEW YORK (AP)—Sharp clangs of stonemasons' chisels are ringing out in the wintry air over historic Trinity churchyard.

The New York curb exchange is changing its name again, for the sixth time in the last 100 years or so.

When the work is done bronze letters will spell out "American Stock Exchange," the new name voted by members to become effective Jan. 5.

It has been a long time since the informal little group of traders gathered along the curb stones in the financial district at the tip of Manhattan Island to buy and sell securities.

In those days it was known as "The Outdoor Curb." It began sometime between the start of the California gold rush and the outbreak of the war between the states. Nobody kept any official records in those days.

SHOUTED ORDERS

Brokers standing in the street shouted and signalled their orders to telephone clerks hanging out of windows in nearby buildings. The orders then were telephoned to brokerage houses.

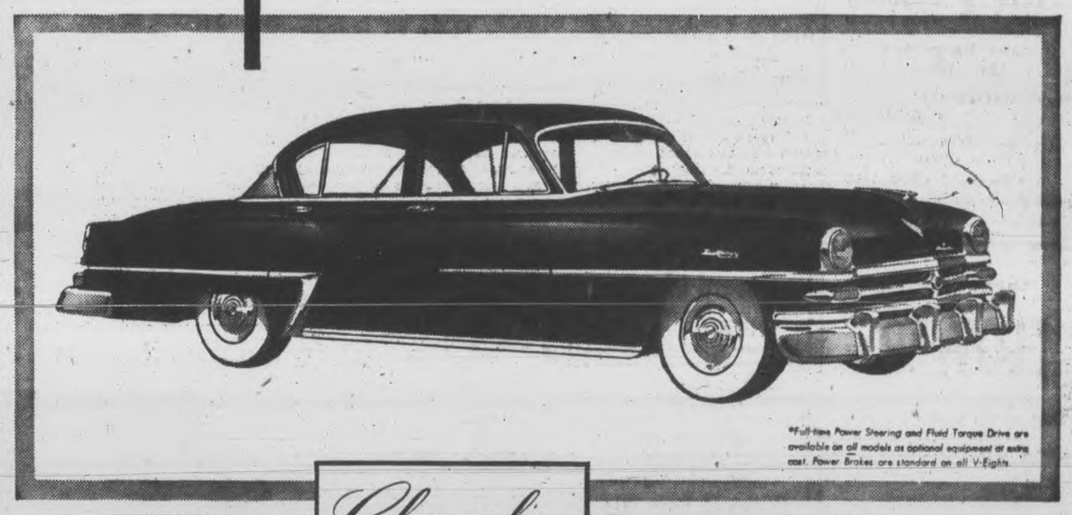
In 1908 one group of brokers sought to organize the chaos and formed "The New York Curb Agency." That became "The New York Curb Market Association" in 1911, and trading came under a new set of rules and regulations.

The association moved inside into its own building in 1921, and the name was changed to the "New York Curb Market."

Curb securities now handled by the exchange have a value in excess of $18,000,000,000. Its listed companies stretch from Canada to Chile and coast to coast throughout both Americas.

STEP UP PACE

Since the war the curb has stepped up its business-getting pace under its youthful president, Edward T. McCormick.



He and the chairman of the board of governors, John J. Mann, aren't afraid of change. McCormick was the leader in forcing the change from the five-hour day and 5½-day week for securities markets to the present 5½-hour day and five-day week.

Here's what McCormick says about the name change:

"A direct descriptive designation of this exchange—American Stock Exchange—should aid in explaining the what, where, and why of the long list of securities traded on our market."

No Amount Lures Carlsen From Skipper's Job

By JOHN R. WARD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Capt. Henrick Kurt Carlsen, 38-year-old Danish-born skipper of the Flying Enterprise, kept the world in suspense during the Christmas season a year ago.

Since then he has refused more than $2,000,000.

He stayed aboard his sinking, storm-battered ship in the angry Atlantic 13 days, until an hour before she sank. Carlsen and Kenneth Dancy, mate from the British tug Turmoil, were rescued dramatically after they leaped into the sea. Dancy had boarded the stricken vessel to help Carlsen secure a towline that later snapped.

Companies and individuals stumbled over each other in a rush to get Carlsen to sign contracts. To their astonishment, he calmly rejected all offers. He says he still is getting offers—and still turning them down.

"It's hard to believe these people are serious," he said in an interview when his new ship, Flying Enterprise II, steamed into San Francisco Bay.

"I've had more than $2,000,000 offered for various things," he reported.

ONLY ONE JOB

"But I'm a ship captain. That's all I can do."

On his current voyage—carrying general cargo to ports around the globe—he was offered a movie contract in Singapore.

"And one fellow offered me an estate on the Hudson river—if I would agree to live on it and not return to sea. Can you imagine that?"

It would be hard to imagine Kurt Carlsen for[illegible] sea, despite the cruel tre[illegible] it gave him a year ago.

Besides the sea he has two other great loves—his charming family and his consuming hobby as an amateur shortwave radio operator.

He proudly displayed the nearly complete new short-wave transmitting station which he is building himself.

"I talk to people all over the world," he said. "Sometimes I contact as many as 40 to 50 hams a day."

WILLING TALKER

He is a willing talker if the subject is radio, but settles into laconic embarrassment when asked to reminisce on his shipwreck exploit.

"I did only what any good ship captain would do."

His new ship formerly was the Noonday, owned by the Waterman Steamship Lines.

"But I liked the old ship better," he said. "She handled better. You can't sail a ship for more than three years without falling in love with her."

Penned a corrall at the Canmore ranger station, 60 miles west of Calgary, is the first group of elk to be transferred. About 100 are to be moved this year.

Find Tiny Shadow On Snow Sobbing Young Korean Waif

By PATRICIA SCOTT

SEOUL (AP)—She was curled up on the snow-swept steps of one of the peddler's shacks by the Seoul post exchange.

The military police making their final rounds of the deserted, icy streets had overlooked her as another tiny shadow in the snow, her sobbing was so soft.

It was 1 a.m. but Sergeant Krenzer of the United Nations civil assistance Korea welfare department, called for a jeep and we returned to the street where my chance late walk had discovered the child.

Sgt. Krenzer laid a hand on the crumpled form. The child whispered something as he lifted her gently into his arms.

"Look for her shoes," he said. I felt through the snow and found a tiny pair of Korean slippers.

"What will you do with her?"

He held the burlap-wrapped bundle close as we struggled over the icy sidewalk toward the jeep. "If she is sick I will take her to one of the UNCAK-sponsored hospitals. If she is not sick, I will leave her with an orphanage."

Krenzer slid into the back seat and wrapped his arms about the child to keep her warm.

"Children. . . children. . . thousands of children. How long can people continue to ignore them?"

TO ORPHANAGE

He pulled back the shaggy hair and pressed his cheek to her forehead. "She has no fever. I'll take her to Mr. Shim at the Samae orphanage."

Samae is an old temple. Our jeep lights lit up the big "welcome" sign on the gate. A sleepy-eyed, elderly Korean padded barefoot into the snow.

Krenzer carried the limp package into Mr. Shim's office and placed her on a bench near a pot-belly stove.

Krenzer massaged the icy limbs, the leathery little hands. As the girl slowly unbent, we were amazed at how tall she really was.

Mr. Shim patted her shoulder and tried to raise the bowed head.

"What is your name?"

"Paik Chong Soon." The voice was low and frighteningly mature. The voice continued in a broken murmur:

"I am thirteen years old." (By Western calculation that meant she was about 11 years.)

"Where do you come from?"

"I come from across the River, Han. Two months ago I came to Seoul. I waited on the other side of the river for many months to get across."

Theoretically only those who had jobs in the city could legally return to their homes north of the Han. Thousands have re-entered illegally.

"Did you come across on the ice?"

"No, it was before the ice. I kept going to the guards on the bridge, crying. Finally one let me through."

"Do you have any family?"

"I have a younger sister. The rest of our family was killed in the war."

"How have you been living in Seoul?"

"In the days I beg from the United Nations soldiers. I have lived on their generous gifts. At night I slept with other children in a deserted building among the free markets by the west gate. I ate supper yesterday."

Krenzer finally managed to raise the buried chin. Mr. Shim smiled and she hid her face again.

"She is a pretty child, isn't she?" he said. "With a bath and the hair cut and combed and clean clothes——."

Mr. Shim turned to us:

"You are very kind. I thank you for bringing her here. I am happy it is tonight for we have an extra ration. We will be able to feed her."

Elk Moved To New Areas By Calgary Assn.

CALGARY (CP)—The annual movement of elk from southern Alberta's Kananaskis game reserve to new forage areas is under way, with a helping hand from the Calgary Fish and Game Association.

The association's big game committee, with the approval of the provincial government, has for the last four years transported elk from the reserve to new ranges where the animals will have a better chance to survive and multiply.

The association hopes the herds will expand in a few years to the point where they will provide good hunting.

25 ANIMALS MOVED

Twenty-five animals have already been moved this year. They were caught on the game reserve, west of Canmore, Alta., and transported by truck to the Aura district of the Bow river forest reserve, just north of the Little Red river. Canmore is about 60 miles west of here.

About 100 animals may be moved this year.

Think Heredity Influences Susceptibility To Polio

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Science is finding hints that humans inherit susceptibility of paralysis from polio.

Inheritence of one or more strange genes, the units of heredity, may make some people set-ups for paralytic effects from an invasion by polio virus. By the same token, people who lack these genes would have natural resistance to paralysis.

The inheritance angle still is largely a suggestion, but one that may explain a major mystery of polio—its unpredictable ways.

Sooner or later almost all of us are invaded by polio virus, but relatively few people develop paralysis.

Scientists wondered whether inheritance could have something to do with polio paralysis running in families.

Sometimes whole families have shown a high incidence of polio, with paralysis. Last summer, polio struck four or five children within the same large family.

Another bit of evidence is that in a 50-year period, there were 29 cases of polio in one remote section of West Virginia. All 29 were found to be related by blood. A recessive gene, showing up now and then in children, could explain this.

Only last week it was disclosed that two grandchildren of the late President Roosevelt, himself a polio sufferer, were stricken with mild cases last summer. Another grandson suffered a light polio attack in 1949.

The newest bit of evidence comes from a study of twins made by Drs. C. Nash Herndon and Royal G. Jennings, medical geneticists of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine at Wake Forest College in North Carolina.

They compared polio in identical twins and in fraternal twins.

Identical, or look-alike, twins come from a single egg of the mother, which divides to produce two infants. The identical twins have exactly the same genes or inheritance and are alike in all ways.

Fraternal twins differ in their inheritance. Such twins result from two eggs fertilized at the same time.

Herndon and Jennings checked up on 47 sets of twins numbered among polio victims in North Carolina during 1940-48.

Of these 47, one or both twins had a definite diagnosis of paralytic polio. Both twins had been living in the same house at the time of acute illness, hence presumably had equal chance of being exposed to the virus.

Of 104 pairs of identical twins, both children in five pairs had paralytic polio. Of 33 pairs of fraternal twins, paralytic polio had touched both members in only two cases.

This difference indicates there is a measurable genetic influence upon susceptibility to paralytic polio, the doctors conclude.

But, they add, inherited susceptibility is not the decisive thing in determining whether exposure to polio virus will result in paralysis. The degree of exposure to virus, past contact with that type of virus and general health at the time of exposure also must contribute to the chance of developing paralysis.

Sees Gold Stocks Interesting Even If Revaluation Unlikely

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Greenshields and Company, Montreal investment house, undertakes in its current review to summarize recent lengthy discussions of the price of gold.

"It is contended by those who favor a revaluation," says Greenshields, "that while commodity prices have generally doubled, gold has remained constant since 1934, and that countries which traditionally shipped newly-mined gold to keep their external trade in balance have been at a disadvantage.

"It is stated that if the price of gold had moved in line with other American prices, the sterling area, which produces 60 per cent of the free world's gold, would have increased its dollar reserves in most post-war years.

"Furthermore, it is contended that a rise in the gold price would result in greater production, and would channel private holdings back into official circulation. Both the volume and value of central bank stocks would be increased, thus ensuring the international liquidity which is essential to free movement of trade between nations.

WEIGHTY ARGUMENTS

"These," the Greenshields review continues, "are weighty arguments but the answers of those economists who oppose revaluation are no less substantial. They point out that:

"The dollar-gap of the free world has reached such proportions that, even assuming an increase of 50 per cent in gold output and in price, the increment to producers outside the United States would represent only a relatively small sum when compared with the aid granted by the U.S. government in the past years to fill the gap.

"If 1926 were taken as a base year instead of 1934, it would be seen that the price of commodities rose by exactly the same percentage as the price of gold.

"While the sterling area would be the principal beneficiary of revaluation it would also give substantial help to Russia, another important producer.

DETRIMENTAL EFFECT

"Whatever monetary counter measures were adopted, a rise in the gold price would have an inflationary effect, both in the countries producing the metal and in those importing it. In any case, the psychological effect would be detrimental to the economy of all countries, but especially to those enjoying a stable currency.

"Gold is not just another commodity. It is the standard of value and should not be altered to provide easy solutions for international economic problems. Moreover these solutions would be of a temporary nature were measures not taken to promise greater productivity in countries outside North America."

Whatever the merits of the case for revaluation, says Greenshields, the decision in the matter rests with the U.S. treasury, the only large-scale buyer at a fixed price ($35 U.S. per ounce), ". . . and the chances that the new government will adopt a different attitude appear to be very remote indeed."

Greenshields concludes that while "there is very little likelihood at this time of a revaluation, the interest in gold stocks rests in the fact that a decrease in the gold price is even more unlikely."

Child 9, Goes Home Remains In Coma

MONTREAL (CP)—Nine-year-old Lise Dagenais went home from hospital Friday night, still in a coma from the highway accident three months ago which almost took her life.

The child never regained consciousness, but physicians who released her from Notre Dame Hospital said there were hopeful signs and at least a possibility she may some day lead a normal life.

Lise's skull fracture has healed and occasionally she is able to open her left eye. Sometimes she cries quietly, her lips opening as if she were trying to speak. But she has not uttered a word since the accident.

we've put the mule out to pasture

Once standard equipment in a cotton mill, the old spinning "mule" has long since gone by the board.

Dominion Textile's manufacturing equipment is now among the most modern in the world. Machinery bought by our 7,239 shareholders (94.7% of them Canadians) helps us to turn out top quality goods and provide jobs for the 12,500 Canadians working in our plants.

But equipment improvements, such as replacing the mule, aren't everything. We have our troubles trying to compete with the products of other countries which pay lower wages. In Japan and India, for instance, wages run about 15 cents an hour, while we pay well over a dollar an hour, seven times as much.

Find Japanese Very Friendly

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian Red Cross girls serving as welfare workers for Canadian troops in Japan and Korea have been most impressed by the politeness and friendliness of the Japanese.

Ruth Doern, a Red Cross worker from Winnipeg who has just returned from Japan, has her own explanation. "The Japanese readily bow to authority," she said here. "When their overlords wanted war, they fought. Now they think they'll try peace instead."

Miss Doern said the Red Cross girls found certain Japanese foods were delicious. These were pickled roots, fried fish and some meat dishes. But they couldn't swallow the raw fish which is often seen on Japanese tables.

Because there are so few white girls in Japan, members of the Red Cross corps are deluged with invitations from servicemen. "Going to dances is a must," Miss Doern said. "But very few serious romances develop."

Miss Doern was loaned to the Red Cross by the social service branch of the Dominion veterans affairs department, and was in charge of the first Red Cross welfare team that went to Japan last year. She returned recently by air to Vancouver.

Pale pink candles and wedding bells decorated the living and dining rooms and Miss Harris sat in the archway for the brief program and the shower. Mrs. R. J. Meggs gave the opening remarks of welcome to this community affair and then Mrs. Victor Harris took over as chairman. Mrs. MacLean Herriott and Mrs. Stewart Herriott sang a duet, "Beautiful Ohio"; Miss Dorothy Harris read a poem; Mrs. Paul Harris, of Coldsprings, sang "Maytime"; this was followed by a poem entitled "Allie Harris's Cake," which was very humorous and was read by Mrs. Kenneth Harris.

The final number was a solo by Greig, "I Love Thee," sung by Mrs. D. Lyn MacDonald. The gifts were brought in, in a lined pale pink basket, and while the guest of honor unwrapped the gifts, her sister, Miss Dorothy Harris, read the cards. A large lace tablecloth was presented from the Plainville girls' basketball team, of which the bride-to-be was a member. Miss Harris thanked everyone and invited them to her new home in Brampton. The hostess and assistants served lunch.

Later, the Rev. Allan Johnson, of Brampton, the fiancee of Miss Harris, arrived and renewed acquaintance with those present. Mr. Johnson was a former rector of St. George's Church, Gore's Landing. Miss Alice Mary Harris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harris, Glen Lynden Farm.

Queen Approves Design Of Dress for Peeresses

LONDON (CP)—Many of the wives of newly-created peers are unlikely to possess the costly robes and coronets traditionally associated with the Coronation ceremony, and Queen Elizabeth's dressmaker, Norman Hartnell, was asked to design a simple and inexpensive robe and headdress.

The Queen made a final choice from several designs submitted to her, and the favorite is a charming robe of crimson velvet which fits the waist and is open above and below to show the dress.

The gown itself must be of white or cream-colored material with brocading, or gold or silver embroidery. The hemline of the robe is edged with white fur, forming a train 18 inches in length on the ground, compared to the usual three or four yards.

For wearing with this robe and gown, there is a becoming "cap of state" which fits the crown of the head and is worn behind the tiara. The cap is bordered with a narrow strip of white fur and has four bands of gold braid running from the centre to the edge. The cap is completed by a gold or gold-colored tassel or similar decoration, which may consist of a knot of gold braid ending in drop pearls in the centre of the crown.

These headdresses are used at a dramatic moment of the Coronation. When the crown is placed on the Queen's head, all the peers and peeresses simultaneously raise their arms and put on their own coronets or caps of state. At this moment, a fanfare of trumpets is sounded and shouts of "God Save the Queen" are raised.

Staunch Friends Young Students

The Presbyterian Kirk folks in the south end of the city have staunch friends, when it comes to looking after the lads who come from Knox College, Toronto, each week. The board of missions of the church arranges for a student in theology at the college to take charge of the service in Confederation school every Sunday, until such time as the new church is ready. The students (and all of them always hatless) arrived by CPR train on Saturday evening. Awaiting their arrival are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnston (Mr. Johnston is the genial clerk of North Monaghan council), and after a few minutes the student is "spotted," as he steps off the train, a handshake and introduction is in order, and they are whisked by car to the Johnston home for the weekend. Mrs. Johnston beams as she remarks: "I look on them all as my sons and treat them as such—we take pot-luck for the Sunday when we 'gang tae the kirk,' and the boys all seem to like the visit with us, at hame and at kirk."

Audrey Magee, J. Campbell Wed in Hamilton Church

A double ring ceremony at St. Cuthbert's Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, on Saturday afternoon united in marriage James Kenneth Campbell, of Peterborough, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Campbell, Armour Road, to Audrey Marylyn Magee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Magee, now of Hamilton and formerly of Peterborough.

The church was decorated with standards of spring flowers and fern. The Rev. Robert Jackson officiated, and the church organist, Mr. J. Avery, played wedding music. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Russell, the choir leader, sang "Because" and "At Dawning."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a lovely gown of imported bridal net and Swiss lace over taffeta, styled with a moulded bodice of lace, a very full net skirt panelled in lace and worn over a crinoline. The fitted lace jacket had a standing mediaeval collar and long fitted sleeves finished with deep points over the hands. Her veil was of embroidered net and was caught to a wreath of orange blossoms which had been worn by her mother. Her bouquet was of carnations and gardenias.

Mrs. James Perryman, of Barrie, attended her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Betty Bell, of Orillia, was bridesmaid. They were frocked in gowns of apple green and toast, styled in nylon net over taffeta with closely moulded bodices and bouffant skirts, topped with tiny shrug jackets of taffeta which had modified Queen Anne collars. Tiny fingerless gloves of matching taffeta and headbands of taffeta trimmed to match their bouquets of carnations completed their ensembles.

Mr. Donald Campbell, of Peterborough, was groomsman for his brother. The ushers were Mr. James Perryman, of Barrie, and Mr. James Wilde, of Orillia.

The reception of guests after the wedding took place at the Scottish Rites Club, Hamilton. The bride's mother was wearing a gown of wine crepe and a winter white hat and had a corsage of white carnations at her shoulder. The groom's mother chose a gown in sea island blue corded satin and wore a corsage of pink carnations and black accessories.

The bridal couple later left for New York City by plane, the bride travelling in a green boucle suit topped with a beige coat and wearing dark brown accessories. Her going-away corsage was of white gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will live at 57½ Hunter St. E., Peterborough, on their return.

The wedding guests were from many points as well as Peterborough and Hamilton, including Orillia, Niagara Falls, Barrie, Fort Erie, Toronto, Kitchener, Midland, Markham, Thornbury, Markdale, Burlington, and Stoney Creek.

Tighter Belts and Gay Prints Hinted for Spring Styles

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP) — In the usual atmosphere of secrecy, Paris prepared this week for the Feb. 1 opening of the 1953 style season. A tantalizing fashion forecast from Christian Dior lent spice to the waiting.

The pronouncement from fashion's high priest runs as follows:

"The new mode is the happiness to breathe fully the soft air of spring."

Does that mean you can throw out your belt and your girdle after it? Not likely.

All the dope indicates that in general, waists are going to be more tightly belted than they have been in years, while the hemline is not likely to wander far either way. Here are a few more straws in the wind:

A riot of prints in gaily-mixed colors may be one of the most striking features of the spring fashion scene. Necklines are due to be dippy, but often enough the decolletage may be behind instead of in front. Skirts may be moderately full.

TUBE SLEEVES

Three-quarter-length tube sleeves will go with some of the new fashions, but others may be fancy free, with trick fullness only in the back. White will predominate, both alone and as a background for mixed bouquets of color. The Coronation in England will, of course, be a major influence on the trends, particularly in formal fashions.

While saving all their deepest secrets for opening day, some of the designers have dropped these hints about their coming collections:

Balmain: "My dresses will be like the ghost of flowers. For evening, I will show 'curtsy' dresses with a grand air, in court colors. There will be no black at all."

CIRCLE SILHOUETTE

Lanvin-Castillo: The 1953 silhouette will be based on a circle, with a rounded line, generous decolletage, and moderate fullness.

Heim: He will show a silhouette which is wide and swinging in back-view, but straight and severe in front. He will favor longer waists, sometimes unbelted or semi-belted; a soft hipline for daytime but an exaggerated one for evening. His necklines will dip low behind.

How to attract good luck

You can improve your luck, says A. H. Z. Carr . . . first by knowing how to invite good luck, then by being alert enough to recognize it.

In February Reader's Digest, he analyzes the "lucky" opportunities that helped men like Winston Churchill win success, and shows how everyone's life is studded with chance situations, any one of which may prove to be a turning point in his fortune.

Novelty Weaves And Colors Paris Spring Fashion News

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—Despite chilly streets, smelly fires and stuffed noses, spring has arrived in Paris—at least as far as the fashion world and the people who make the fashions are concerned.

The biggest news in the displays being prepared for February showings are the materials—featuring novelty weaves and new trends in texture and colors.

Many take on relief affects with heavy engraved patterns imposed on the flat under surfaces. Even prints achieve dimensional qualities with designs which appear to have both depth and perspective.

Floral prints have staged a momentous comeback in new stylized modernistic flower gravures and oversized upholstery fabric designs.

Closely concentrated brightly colored flowers, as well as widely spaced bouquets and individual groupings on solid grounds set the trends.

SOFT BLENDS

Staron and Petillualt concentrate their florals in soft color blends inspired by 18th century tapestries. Many are shadowy in outline. Ducharnge also emphasizes these smudged designs, showing the flower as the one bright splash of color on a mottled, sombre background.

Nature prints are also strong with wallpaper bandings or photographic effects in scenic designs. And inspiration comes from many of the impressionist paintings in adaptations of Gaugin's island scenes and Vincent van Gogh's vivid toned still-life pictures.

Other prints are the blurred, abstract, geometrical or stylized designs.

Stripes are slashed and broken. Classic polka dots are replaced by irregular sized and shaped groupings.

Prints are not only confined to silk twills, crepes and sheers, but score in the cotton field as well, on poplins, chintz's and piques. Cotton tweeds make news with caned and raban effects in the weave.

New weaving techniques and surface interest are introduced in woollen coatings and suitings. Many of these fabrics combine yarn mixtures, with a certain percentage of nylon or synthetic fiber.

ALMOST NO ONE CAN STEP into a dress or suit and have it fit well without alteration. Correctly fitted, a dress minimizes or conceals figure faults and never makes the wearer look poured in. Girl (far left) illustrates one fitting fault. She very mistakenly is directing the fitter to make the dress almost skin-tight. This will make her look heavy instead of slender. She is having the dolman sleeves reduced—another error. To change one aspect of the design is to spoil the total effect. In next picture she is only having the hem taken up. Older woman (far right) shows what great chic she can have by making the most of the sophisticated charm that goes with her age. After experimenting with many of the new hat styles and looking at them from all angles, she chooses a head-hugging model of red feathers that flatters her dazzling white hair. In other picture, she shows you how defeated and matronly she can look by buying the same style she has worn for years, without a glance at the smart hats behind her. At every stage of life, a woman must reconsider styles.

Clothes' Consultant Offers Secrets To Lovely Look

Suddenly you realize you are 10 years older. It's natural to take a good look in the mirror. Do you, on a birthday, feel you don't look pretty or smart any more—and then settle back despondently to live out your life envying young women? That is so completely unnecessary.

"You can look lovelier each decade." This is the inspiring statement of Eleanor Arnett Nash, a fashion consultant. Her new book, "Beauty Is Not an Age," elaborates on the subject with much practical detail.

"If you think of beauty as something that belongs only to women under 30, as Canadians tend to do, that seems a ridiculous statement," continues Mrs. Nash. "But when you think of personal beauty as a unique thing which each woman has in her own way if she brings her type to perfection—and type is one part the stage of life you're in—you will have a new concept of beauty and hence a new attitude towards its development in yourself."

To attain and keep this ageless beauty, you have to readjust your make-up and style of dressing every few years, as well as practice immaculate grooming always. You can keep gaining in chic, radiance, gentleness, feminine charm and the knowledge of how to buy and wear clothes.

"You must on no account, for example, continue to wear the same hat styles forever," Mrs. Nash says. "The matronly hat that so many women buy, practically blindfolded, year after year, looks matronly and literally 'old hat' mainly because it is outdated as well as unbecoming to their changed looks. These women haven't thought of trying on anything new, not realizing that fashion pages are meant for all women."

For agelessness, Mrs. Nash advises you to keep up with, and apply to yourself, the fashion news in your newspaper. You can become so thoroughly familiar with the colors, dress cuts, dress lengths and so forth, in advance of each new season, that you know what to look for when you go shopping. There is enough variety in the fashion of each season to allow you to look up-to-the-minute and simultaneously at your loveliest.

"Fashion," says Mrs. Nash, "is an expert answer to the universal demand for change. What looks smart one year looks dowdy the next—it's a matter of adjusting your eye to the new. Black with brown was once considered unthinkable—now it is a smart color combination. You may not like that particular one, but among each season's new color combinations there is at least one which you will get to like—if you keep your mind open and try wearing it."

Many women buy a fashion and suddenly find themselves out of date. They blame the big wheels of fashion for deliberately gouging their pocketbooks. Here is the answer: "The life of any style is about three year. Buy at the beginning of that cycle," advises Eleanor Nash, "and not hear the end of it. It's obvious that you must consistently keep abreast of fashion news to be able to do this.

"Go slowly in adding fashion to your looks if you haven't been much aware of it before. Don't be any more or less chic than keeps you feeling comfortable. If you can settle into a dress and forget it, it's yours. If it makes you feel self-conscious, you've overshot your mark.

"Geography also affects smartness. If you are more fashionable than the most fashionable group in your community, you will look out of place instead of well dressed, which has much to do with appropriateness to background and activities."

Mrs. Nash has a questionnaire in her new book for you to fill out. It can give you an objective picture of yourself, helping you to know what improvements to make and what clothes to choose. You might re-answer this questionnaire every birthday of your life and compare answers favorably with those of the past year.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Julia Can Work Wonders For Four On $15 Per Week

There is a quiet disagreement between me and some of my food-editor friends. The argument is over the fact that I assume that most cooks are trying to economize.

Assume? I know!

Bless my soul—some of them should read today's mail alone. One girl blessed me for not giving "hoity-toity recipes nobody can afford." Another said "recipe for whole wheat bread has cut my baker's bill in half." The letter from another follows:

(This letter from Julia T. is long but full of hard-earned wisdom. Today's space will not hold it but I will give you the second instalment next week.)

"Dear Mary Moore: . . . this letter is prompted by a letter to you in which a woman wanted to stretch $15 a week to cover a family of six and incidentals other than food.

I managed to stretch $15 a week for four and think I'm doing wonders. So she'd have to be a magician to do it I'm afraid.

Here are some suggestions that may help somewhat though.

I make my own bread practically all of the time—4 loaves made in headcheese tins. (These were cadged from my grocer—I took him a loaf of homemade bread to thank him for them.) The bread is made from your "Simplified White Bread" recipe of some time ago. To keep it moist, the fat I used is oil for cooking—it is simpler than fat, and the bread is delicious. We also use oil in your Wacky Cake recipe. I "butter" our loaves with margarine when they come hot from the oven.

I use pure castile soap—another economy—and it agrees with all our skins. It is harder and lasts longer; we lay the soap on a nail brush at the back of the basin . . . this prevents dissolving.

I watch for "2-for-something" sales of cake mixes. I find 2 cake mixes for 49c are more economical than I can mix up . . . we do enjoy cake or pie or cookies (mostly oatmeal or butterscotch divided into 3 and flavored with orange, chocolate or plain). At Christmas my grocer sold me a goose with torn skin off one shoulder for 30c lb. At New Year's I got another at 35c lb. The last one he had and I had to pick out some pin feathers that had been left but it was worth it.

Often he has a last week's ham that he trims for me and sells for 5 or 7c per lb. less. I get a beef bone with fat and no meat for nothing, and with very little meat for 10c. He frequently has boiling chickens for 37c lb. I buy one and stuff it and if rubbed with bacon fat and cooked slowly at 300 deg. it is as nice or nicer than any "roaster" you'd buy . . . my grocer has an excellent selection of vegetables and fruits at regular market prices. I buy 2 dozen pullets eggs from my egg man at 40c per dozen now.

Here are some of our menus on $15. per week:

BREAKFASTS: Orange or tomato juice, or squeezed oranges with 1 lemon added to the pitcher; oatmeal or Vita-B or wheat flake cereal hot, with milk and sugar, scrambled eggs or omelette OR bacon OR boiled egg; cocoa or milk, coffee; toast and honey or homemade jam.

LUNCHES: (for husband and daughter to carry): 3 slices homemade bread sandwiches of egg, meat or fowl; celery and cheese; 2 soda biscuits; apple or tangerine, cake or cookies. (My daughter takes a milk ticket for milk.) My husband can heat water and make coffee at work.

LUNCHES (at home when husband is on nights): soup, biscuits.

Often the soup is made of canfruit and cake or cookies or graham wafers, tea and milk for son.

Ofte nthe soup is made of canned tomatoes and milk. We love this kind and a 28-oz. can lasts 2 meals for all 4. Don't forget the baking soda in tomatoes. Don't let soup boil after adding milk, not even for an instant. The seeds seem to add something to it. It has a better flavor if butter or margarine are added to the pan first before adding tomatoes and is allowed to sizzle a minute. We sometimes add a bit of onion then too . . ."

(Above is two-thirds of Julia's letter. I will give you the remainder of it with its excellent budget-cutting suggestions sometime next week.)

Meanwhile Julia, Thank You.

DOROTHY DIX

Wise Young People Avoid Having Long Engagements

DEAR MISS DIX: Greg is a wonderful fellow, and we have been going together for a year and a half. We have lots in common, and enjoy each other's company if we just stay at home for the evening. He is very considerate and thoughtful.

Both of us agree that we don't want a long engagement. We plan to become engaged three months before our wedding date. My friends are continually asking when I am getting my engagement ring; in fact, they are ready to criticize everything we do. For example, I received a beautiful hope chest which was a complete surprise to me, but they all managed to find some fault with it. They tell me what silver pattern I should choose, and what sort of china. My mother says they may be jealous of our happiness, but it is becoming very annoying to me. H. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: One thing you may be sure of: if you and Greg decided to announce your engagement now, knowing that it would be quite some time before you could marry, your friends' curiosity and criticism would immediately be directed toward the wedding date. Some folks just can't resist trying to run everyone else's business, and are particularly keen on handing out gratuitous advice to young couples. Oddly enough, the more they have mangled their own matrimonial affairs, the better equipped they think they are to act as experts on matters romantic.

MUTUALLY CONFIDENT

You and Greg are quite right to put off your formal engagement until close to the wedding date. Long engagements are an emotional strain, defeating their own purpose. By the time a girl and boy reach the time in their romance when an engagement is formally announced, they should know quite well whether or not they are suited to each other. Their virtues and faults should be well known to each other—and certainly they are mutually confident of their love.

An engagement is the link between courtship and matrimony; it should be short enough to bind. It is a period during which the protagonists are beset (whether they admit it or not) with doubts and misgivings concerning the grave step they are about to take. Few young people who contemplate marriage with the required seriousness are entirely free from apprehension regarding the responsibilities they are about to undertake. When an added annoyance is presented by friends who either urge the betrothed pair to hasten the wedding, or implore them to advance it further into the future, the bloom of a happy engagement becomes misted.

Whether or not your friends' criticism is due to jealousy or just an innate human desire to be involved in other people's business, you must learn to ignore it. Don't become unhappy or irritated with them; merely state firmly that your silver pattern is your own choice and you and Greg love it. They may be piqued for a moment, but be sure they'll come back to make a new attempt at something else. Permanent squelching is almost impossible, but if you meet every interference with imperturbable good humor, you'll find that the critical onslaughts will annoy you less and less.

In all fairness, however, you must be advised to guard yourself against excluding friends from all your plans. You have known these people for a long time, and they are bound to be interested in your happiness. Be cautious, but not thoughtless.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you consider reasonable dating nights? I have been going with a girl, 21, for two years. I am 27, and I see her five nights a week and still she complains. Now and then, I try to take another night off and she gets burned up. We have no intentions of becoming engaged, or rather I haven't, and told her a year ago I'd never care to marry. I keep telling her it's a waste of time for us to go together, but she wants to continue. I don't love her, yet I can't hurt her. F. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The girl is waging a determined campaign to break down your resistance and make you propose. Beware, if you're convinced you don't want to marry! Five nights a week is ample dating time for even an engaged couple, and for two people with no serious intentions it's more than liberal. You'll have to take a very determined stand to regain some measure of independence, but even at the risk of hurting the girl I advise you to make it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Two years ago, when my husband and I weren't getting along too well, I met Mary. We liked each other very much and have been seeing each other quite often. Now my husband and I have gotten things straightened out and are getting along fine. We have one little boy and I'm expecting another child in a few months. I've decided to tell Marty I can't see him any more. He loves me, but I know it isn't right for me to be seeing him. How can I tell him without turning him against me? F. G.

ANSWER: For heaven's sake, why worry about whether or not you turn him against you? Would you rather have him or your husband against you? You can be sure it will have to be one or the other. Don't worry about how you break the news to Marty; tell him you're expecting another baby and will be too busy to see him any more, if you must try an easy way out. Best thing is to be frank and tell him you and your husband are now making a happy home for your children.

other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away.

How sweet the memory still—
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by Betty, Harold and family.

18 Cars Helped On Last Lap Of 1,225 Miles

Members of the Peterborough Sports Car Association braved the rain and cold weather early Sunday morning. They aided eighteen touring type sport model cars making minor repairs and scraping ice off their windshields in the first non-stop winter 1,225 mile marathon cross-country motoring test which ended Sunday in Toronto.

Many of the local inhabitants of Peterborough went down to a Lansdowne St. service station, one of the seven check points, west of the Locks bridge to see the cars come through. The first car to come in was at eleven o'clock Saturday night and they continued to pass through until four o'clock Sunday morning.

ANNIVERSARY

The British Empire Motor Club of Toronto sponsored the race to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the club. There were 41 entries that started out from Toronto, and only 19 managed to complete the ice coated course.

Of the 22 that didn't finish, three were flooded out on the rained drenched Quebec highways, three suffered mechanical failures, nine failed to climb the ice-coated roads in the Laurentians, four just quit and three were stuck in snowbanks in Northern Quebec when the time limit expired.

The route which they were to cover, lay around Lake Ontario, through Quebec and New York State. It took 32 hours to complete.

The rules were quite simple, the smaller class of vehicles left two hours before the larger type of sports car. There were seven check points set up over the course, Rochester N.Y., Waterdown, N.Y., Montreal, Maniwaki, Que., Peterborough, Huntsville and finally Toronto. Each car made its own way from each check point to check point. But were all given minimum and maximum time intervals between each point. Failure to reach the check point at the set time meant point penalties. At the end of the event the penalty points were to be totalled, and those with the lowest score would be the winner.

The first car to reach Toronto were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ferguson, driving their Nash Rambler. In addition they had the lowest total. Four other cars to record perfect scores were J. B. Sterling and Jack Campbell, in their Morris Minor, Vern Jefferies and Don Haddow, in a two seater MG, Charles Stocky and Jeff Ford, in a Sunbeam Talbet, Stu Irvine and Harry Clarke in a Monarch sedan.

Abbott To Table Expenditure Estimates

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is scheduled to place a multi-billion-dollar spending program before Parliament this week.

Finance Minister Abbott is due to table in the Commons the traditional bulky blue book containing estimated expenditures for all departments for the coming fiscal year—April 1, 1953, to March 31, 1954.

The estimates, expected to be only slightly lower than last year's unprecedented peacetime total of approximately $4,500,000,000, may contain some indication of whether this will be an election year. They may also show whether two-a-day residential mail deliveries will be resumed.

John Kelsey Named Exhibition President

LINDSAY (ENS)—John Kelsey of Woodville was elected president of the Lindsay Central Exhibition Saturday at the annual meeting. Others elected were: vice-presidents, Joseph Cayley, Ray Weldon; secretary-manager, B. L. McLean, auditor, A. B. Parrish.

Mr. Parrish, in presenting the annual financial report, said 1952 was a most successful year. He explained that the deficit of $7,000 at the end of 1951 was wiped out and that in 1952 there was a surplus of $11,600.

Retired Minister Dies In Pulpit

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 76-year-old retired minister died Sunday night while preaching a sermon from the pulpit of his son's church.

Rev. Harley Stewart of Hartney, Man., collapsed at his son's feet. His last words to the congregation at Sparling United Church:

"I firmly believe I shall see my loved ones again."

Ability Impaired Driver Fined $75

Norman Code, Marmora, was fined $75 with an alternative of 45 days in jail, with costs set at $2.50, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, in police court here today when he was convicted of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

Constable Archie Eady of the Havelock detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said that he discovered Code's car in the ditch on highway No. 7, east of Havelock at about 12.30 p.m. on January 24. The vehicle had turned over and the roof and side were damaged.

Harry Duguid At Top Of Toronto Police List

TORONTO (CP) — City police Saturday said the top man on their list of most wanted criminals is 27-year-old Harry Duguid.

They said they believe he is living a "straight" life somewhere in the Toronto area. The quiet travelling salesman is wanted for the robbery 10 years ago of a city branch of the Dominion Bank. He escaped by streetcar with $15,000 after holding up the entire bank staff singlehanded. He was captured five years later after pulling a similar robbery in Stamford township where he netted $19,450.

While awaiting trial in Welland county jail, Duguid sawed his way through two sets of bars, scaled a 24-foot wall and has not been seen since.

2 Youths Arrested After Hospital Visit

BRANTFORD (CP)—Two youths who visited a friend at the General hospital Sunday were arrested a few minutes later on a charge of beating and robbing Thomas Kelly, 31.

Kelly happened to be lying in a bed just across the aisle from the friend. He said he recognized the youths from behind his bandages.

Kelly suffered what one police officer described as a terrific beating from four youths Saturday night. He told police he was robbed of his wallet and $109.

Developing Kitimat

always seeks to establish its own schools wherever possible, and nearly everywhere that work receives the assistance of the local government. However, in British Columbia, we are required to pay taxes on our school buildings. Our province is the only place on the North American continent where that condition is applied."

BORN IN SCOTLAND

Born in Broxburn, Linlithgowshire, Scotland, Bishop Jordan said that in no other English-speaking country was Catholic education so favored as in his own native land.

His Excellency is optimistic about the future of British Columbia and its new north.

"On all sides there is evidence that the north is opening up. The Kitimat is an earnest, we believe, of what the future has in store for that part of Canada. You probably know that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, which is owned by British Columbia, has been projected to Prince George, connecting with the CNR, and may be extended into the Peace River block on the eastern side of the province with its centres at Dawson Creek and Fort St. John. The original southern terminus is at Squamish, and there are plans for a further connection south to Vancouver, possibly by motor road. At any rate, the railway has acquired a new prominence and value.

MANY INDUSTRIES

"We have hopes that northern British Columbia will develop into a busier section of Canada than had been expected not so long ago. Fishing, lumbering and mining are valuable natural resources. You may not know that Prince Rupert is the leading halibut port of the world. During summer, fishermen bring in up to one million pounds of halibut a day.

"We also have such base metals as lead, zinc and tungsten, and there are also deposits of silver and gold. And on the east border in the Peace River block, which I mentioned, there are prospects of oil. Natural gas is another promising asset from that field on either side of the Alberta-British Columbia boundary."

Charge Mountie In Accident

HAMILTON (CP) — An RCMP corporal has been charged with reckless and careless driving and leaving the scene of an accident Saturday night.

David R. Scanlan, 41, was arrested by police after the accident in which Clarence Henry Dennison, 26, suffered a concussion and other head injuries. Dennison was taken to hospital where his condition is reported as being "fair."

Police said that Dennison was standing on the roadway while a friend was parking his car. A passing car knocked him down and continued on its way, they said.

Scanlan, a newcomer to Hamilton, was arrested after police checked a licence registration given them by a witness. He has been released on $500 bail.

Two Cars Ditched

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Rain on Saturday evening and then freezing turned sideroads into sheets of ice, with the road between Campbellford and Hastings having the doubtful honor as being about the most slippery in the district.

Cars returning from the hockey game in Hastings crept along at a snail's pace, and two containing fans wound up in the ditch. No one was injured in the mishaps. The township sandtruck from Warkworth was called out to sand the roadway by Provincial Police.

A tow truck from Douglas' garage in Campbellford experienced considerable difficulty in removing the two cars from the ditch.

Grant Actress Divorce From Aly Khan

RENO (AP) — A solemn Rita Hayworth, who maintains she has no romantic plans, gets her Nevada divorce today from Aly Khan, playboy Moslem prince she married after a globe-girdling courtship in 1949.

The movie queen said she expects to take her and Aly's three-year-old daughter Yasmin to the hearing, tentatively set for 2 p.m. EST.

She declined to smile for photographers. She wouldn't discuss either the divorce or Aly, sport-loving son of the fabulously-rich Aga Khan.

Jackson Leighter, Rita's business manager, explained:

"She feels that is in poor taste —a matter to be discussed only with the court."

He added that no financial settlement has been reached with Aly concerning Yasmin, for whom Rita once asked $3,000,000.

Rita qualified for the divorce more than a year ago by establishing the six-week Nevada residence.

She separated from Aly less than two years after they were married at his French Mediterranean villa in May, 1949. The romance and subsequent domestic troubles —made news around the world.

Delegates Discuss Compulsory Education

LONDON, Ont. (C)—Whether or not compulsory education should be eliminated in Ontario was the question posed Saturday for delegates to the 31st annual convention of the Middlesex Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association.

"Every person should have education available to him as long as he can be educated," said Dr. J. J. Talman, University of Western Ontario librarian. "But I do not see why people who do not want to be educated should be."

Police said that Dennison was Dr. Talman said he was not suggesting compulsory education should be eliminated but the question should be considered in light of reports of students "dropping out" of school.

Brutal Slaying Makes White Settlers Angry

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—About 1,500 white settlers marched to Government House today and demanded to talk to Governor Sir Evelyn Baring about the brutal slaying of a British family Saturday night.

Farmer Roger E. Ruck, his wife Esme, a doctor, and their six-year-old son Michael were found hacked to death at their farm in the Aberdare mountains north of Nairobi.

Thirty Africans, including some women, have been arrested in connection with the crime, the most against Europeans since the Mau Mau terror sect emergency began last September.

Want Butter Price Raised To 63 Cents

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dairy farmers of Canada want the floor price for butter raised to 63 cents from the present 58 "in view of higher dairy farm costs."

Gordon Loveridge, Saskatchewan delegate, told the farmers' convention here that higher prices are necessary to maintain production.

"If we hadn't lost the British cheese market and the United States dairy cattle market we wouldn't have enough butter in the country now," he said.

He forecast a shortage at present prices as soon as these two markets are restored.

Order Windover Committed For Observation

John Allen Windover, 33, father of nine-month-old Ethel Marlene Windover, who was fatally burned when fire destroyed her parents' cabin last December 9, at Catchacoma, 30 miles northwest of Peterborough, was committed to the Ontario Hospital, Kingston, for a period of observation, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, in city police court today.

Windover had appeared on remand from last week, in order that medical evidence could be obtained. Reports from both Drs. T. E. Currier and Louis Zacks were presented.

Only Mrs. Ada E. Windover, mother of the father of the child, was called as witness. She stated that Windover had been doing some bush work, and that except for an old car and some property, on which the razed cabin had been built, given him by his father, he had neither property or assets.

BORN IN BUCKHORN

Windover, his mother stated, had been born at Buckhorn, near Lakefield, on Oct. 24, 1919. His father was of German descent, she added, while she came of Swiss stock.

Her son, she added, had no strong religious beliefs, and attended the Presbyterian church at Rockcroft, but not regularly. There had been no previous history of any mental illness, she stated.

The charge was laid by OPP corporal Aime Gaudry, Peterborough, following a recommendation of an inquest verdict into the blaze, held in the city last Wednesday evening, that the father "of the deceased be charged with mental illness." The charge was originally preferred immediately following the inquest.

Windover was committed to the Ontario Hospital for a period of 60 days, on the strength of the doctors' certificates. James E. Lillico, his counsel, agreed with the magistrate's decision.

Less than two years ago, in March, 1951, a coroner's jury at Lindsay recommended that Windover be given a mental examination, following an inquest into the death of the first child of Windover and his wife, Laura, 32. The child died as result of a fractured skull. A verdict of accidental death was returned, but mental examination of the father was recommended.

Alliance Church Shows Progress

The Park Street Alliance Church of the Christian and Missionary Alliance held its annual business meeting Thursday evening with the pastor, the Rev. F. Sauve, the chairman.

The reports presented by the presidents and leaders of the different departments of the church were favorably received. The total of all monies received for the past year totaled $10,893.97 of which $2,900.33 had been forwarded for foreign missionary work. The church as a whole has made steady progress. An attractive seven-room parsonage was completed last June awaiting the new pastor and his family. In his report to the meeting, the pastor stated that the building of this parsonage was a matter of good foresight on the part of the church members and friends interested in the church. He also said, "the good attendance at the prayer meeting and the steady attendance at the Sunday services are causes for encouragement as these are a good basis for the growth of the work."

The elections resulted as follows: secretary, H. Pullyblank; treasurer, R. Cookman; financial secretary, C. Collins; misisonary treasurer, Miss D. Hooey; elders, F. Welsh, C. Collins, H. Pullyblank, D. Hewitt; deacons, D. Leard, L. Cunningham, A. Andrews; Sunday school superintendent, C. Collins; president of the women's prayer fellowship, Mrs. F. Sauve; president of the Alliance youth fellowship, Gilbert Hayes.

2 Gas Wells Burning After Explosion

MORGAN CITY, La. (CP)—Flames mushroomed today from two gas wells of the Louisiana coast in the Gulf of Mexico in a spectacular blaze which began with loud explosions Sunday.

A California firefighting specialist was rushed to the scene as the fire crept toward three other wells on the same offshore platform.

George Hylen, chief field clerk for the Pure Oil Co., owner of the wells, said the second well, adjacent to the first which exploded early Sunday, caught fire today and was burning "like an umbrella."

SPECIALIST CALLED

Myron McKinley, firefighting specialist, was taken to the scene by boat.

"We're going to try to keep the flames going upward," Hylen said. "That way we can keep the other three wells from catching fire."

The first well exploded when a flow line broke, Hylen said. Flames from this well reached the second well despite efforts to keep it watered down by pumps set up on barges.

No injuries were reported.

Surprise Attack Devastating

Say One Blow Could Paralyze Defence

By TOM MASTERSON

PARIS (AP)—A surprise, all-out Russian air attack could knock out Western Europe's first line of air defence in one swoop, a high-ranking United States army officer said Saturday.

It would at least seriously cripple the Allies' air-defence system, the officer said. It might even blind the Allied air force so that it could not locate Russian concentrations to make the use of atomic weapons worthwhile.

"That's the way things stand right now," the officer said.

NO OVER-ALL PROTECTION

The North Atlantic act countries, he said, have failed to give over-all protection to their far-flung and growing air-defence system.

The 14 countries have granted enough money to build the best planes, lay out main air bases and train enough crews. But they have failed to provide funds for building up three other items just as important, the officer said. He listed them as:

1. An adequate warning and communications system linking air bases stretching through seven European countries from Norway to Italy.

2. Enough alternate and reserve air fields, important in time of war.

3. Pipelines to transport jet fuel to air bases.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS —By Merrill Blosser

FOR ODESSA, west of Kingston, Sunday was quiet as usual, but for 50th HAA Regiment officers Odessa was the centre of an army defence scheme. That area was battle ground for manoeuvres on a canvas-sand model in the armouries. Twenty-seven students spent the day solving defensive military problems which would face the defenders if Odessa were attacked. Sgt. R. S. Bonneville, Capt. T. W. Stanley, and WO2 G. E. Zwicker (left to right, above) discuss the students work after allocating battalions about Odessa.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Odessa Defended From Attack In Scale Model Manoeuvre

Sunday in Odessa, west of Kingston, was just like any other Sunday. Its stores were closed and its people resting at home after a week's work. They had no worries. But at the armouries in Peterborough, Odessa was the centre of activity, Odessa was being attacked. The 50th HAA Regiment was preparing means of defence for the area.

Odessa, the creeks, rivers, hills and roads surrounding the town, Lake Ontario, and other villages in that area were all neatly placed on a canvas-sand model in the armouries. Enemy forces were attempting to capture the area and that's where the 50th regiment stepped in.

SOLVING DEFENCE

Twenty-seven students, under a directing staff headed by Lt.-Col. M. E. Clarke and Major H. R. Hammell, were solving the various defensive problems. Others helping with the defence scheme were Capt. F. J. Frape, Capt. W. G. Langhorne, Capt. T. W. Stanley, WO2 H. B. Dividson, WO2 G. E. Zwicker and Sgt. R. S. Bonneville.

The attacks began at 9 a.m. and continued until 5 p.m. The students were to solve such defensive measures such as allocating battalion areas in the brigade, placing mine fields, sending out patrols and making use of supporting arms, such as artillery and mortors in the defensive role. After the problems were presented, the students in groups devised solutions and presented them before the officers on the model.

Viewing the scheme was Capt. A. Bate, general staff officer, area headquarters, Kingston.

Today, in Odessa business went on as usual so the scheme must have been successful.

8 Congressmen Confer With President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today called eight captains of Congress to an early-morning conference for a preview of his "state-of-the-union" message, and a discussion of the legislative program it will set forth.

The group, along with Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, included Senators Robert Taft of Ohio, majority leader; William F. Knowland of California, chairman of the Republican policy committee; Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, temporary Senate president; Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican conference; Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, assistant floor leader; Representatives Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, speaker of the House of Representatives; Charles Halleck of Indiana, floor leader; and Leslie Arends of Illinois, assistant floor leader.

MAY FIX DATE

Along with discussing the content of the traditional message, they may fix the date when Eisenhower will deliver it. It is generally expected that he will go before a joint session of Congress this week, possibly Thursday or Friday.

Eisenhower's inaugural address was devoted largely to his view of the foreign situation, and his ideas about meeting the problems it presents. He has not gone into detail on domestic policies.

In that field, Congress is waiting to hear what he will have to say about the Taft-Hartley Labor Act; taxes, and the national budget; controls on wages, prices and rents; the allocation and priority system on production, and the reorganization of government.

Eisenhower left the White House Sunday to attend religious service at the National Presbyterian Church. He scheduled nothing else for the day.

Sarnia School Space Lags Behind Growth

While Peterborough keeps its school problem and responsibility in hand, this is a reporter's sketch of Sarnia: "If the growth of this city were stopped cold today—and no one dreams it will—the city's public school system would still have to be expanded at a rate of 15 rooms a year for five years, just to accommodate pre-school age children. At a cost of $25,000 a room, that would amount to $1,875,000."

Five hundred children will reach school age next September. Meanwhile, the city is trying to educate 1,700 students in a high school built for 900. They talk of platoon system, staggered classes, and the council's policy of limiting borrowing to $1,500,000 a year in new debentures.

Private Groups To Handle UK Grain Trade

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

LONDON (AP) —Britain's grain trade will go back to private enterprise at the next harvest in the biggest and boldest bonfire of government controls since the Second World War.

It also is the most fundamental change Winston Churchill's Conservative government has made thus far in the socialist welfare state it inherited in October, 1951.

At one blow the government decision will hack down the present complex farm support program, and build up another on a new pattern.

Full details of the new program are not yet known. But this much has been announced.

NEW RESPONSIBILITY

One day next fall, price controls, rationing and government bulk purchasing of grain will come to an end, and private traders will again become responsible for feeding Britain after a 14-year interval. Government grain subsidies also will end next April 1.

Ever since 1939 the British government has had the direct responsibility of finding bread grains and animal feed.

The grain trade is so big it accounts for a quarter of the huge food import bill of $3,640,000 a year.

Grain is important in other ways. It has colored this country's cold war policy.

For Britain can find all the grain she needs from only two sources and taps both—the Soviet Union and North America.

Short of dollars, Britain seeks as much coarse grain as she can from Russia, and in spats with the U.S. over trade with the Reds always insists she must take no step that would upset Soviet grain deliveries. The alternative might be starvation or paying out so many dollars that a brutal new economic crisis would hit Britain.

Parson Dies, Preached To "Ghosts"

WARLEGGAN, Eng. (Reuters) The Rev. Frederick Densham, 83-year-old hermit parson, who for 20 years preached to "ghosts" in an empty church, was found dead this weekend in his barricaded rectory.

Police who forced the door after a neighbor had reported no sign of life at the gaunt rectory, found him lying on the staircase. He had been dead for 24 hours.

Since a row with his 160 parishioners in this tiny Cornish village 20 years ago, the eccentric rector lived the life of a recluse.

On Sundays he went to his church and held three services though there was seldom any congregation.

In the six front pews he used to place cards bearing the names of his predecessors—Warleggan rectors since Norman times—and he addressed his sermons to them.

PREFERRED GHOSTS

"I am not sure that I do not prefer my congregation of ghosts," he once said. "They cannot object to any innovation I make."

Densham's feud with his parishioners began in 1933—two years after he came to the village. They complained to the bishop that he had refused to hold services when they wanted them, converted church property to his own use and threatened to sell the organ.

After an inquiry, the Anglican bishop said he could not remove the rector. None of the things complained of constituted a reason for such a step. So the villagers boycotted the church.

Actress Thinks One Star Enough In Family

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marjorie Hoshelle is one movie actress who doesn't want to be a star. Her reasons are simple enough: one star in the family is enough.

Marjorie is the wife of Jeff Chandler and the mother of their two girls, Jamie, 5, and Dana, 3. She is also an actress in her own right and is currently playing in "Dangerous Crossing."

She is in the peculiar position of wanting to act but preferring not to be too successful at it.

"I like acting because I've done it all my life," she explained. "I did a lot of pictures before I was married to Ira (Jeff's real name). Our first daughter came in the first year we were married, so I had to quit the business entirely. It was a hard adjustment for me to make.

"Being a wife and mother was a whole new world. I learned to cook and sew and work in ceramics and other things that I found very interesting. But I missed the stimulation of acting; so I have gone back to it on a limited basis.

"I want to do good parts, but I don't want to work too often. My children mean too much to me; no matter how good your help is, a child still needs a mother's care. I have no ambitions to become a star. Our family life is complicated enough with one star."

One thing is a bit confusing about Marjorie — her last name. She is known professionally as Hoshelle. Her legal married name is Grosse, Jeff's real handle. But the fans and her newer friends know her as Mrs. Chandler.

"So when I call anyone on the phone I always say, 'This is Marjorie Hoshelle Grosse Chandler.'

Give Fruit Flies Ride To Learn Space Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Air Force thinks that if it gives some fruit flies a high ride in a balloon it can learn some more about the mysterious cosmic radiation that comes from space.

It announced Saturday that test tubes, pressurized like the cabins of airliners, will be sent aloft containing flies. The balloons reach altitudes between 50,000 and 100,000 feet.

Descendants of these flies will be studied through several generations to find what kinds of mutation the powerful cosmic radiation produces.

In the past, studies of fruit flies have revealed some of the major secrets of heredity and genetics.

Ancient Implements Found On Pitcairn Indicate Earliest South Sea Culture

By FRANK HODGE

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (AP) —Five ancient stone implements dug up on Pictairn Island have opened a new chapter of tantalizing speculation on the earliest known traces of human existence in the South Pacific.

Pitcairn was the hiding place of the Bounty mutineers.

Dr. I. Hamilton Beattie, a Suva archaeologist, believes the instruments—two adzes, two borers and a mallet—are of palaeolithic (old stone age) workmanship.

This would set the South Sea record back far beyond the earliest known traces of Polynesian, Micronesian and Melanesian occupation in the islands. It adds still another riddle to the list of unsolved mysteries in the South Seas.

EARLIEST CULTURES

The earliest known cultures in the South Pacific are of neolithic (new stone age). Dr. Beattie says that if a palaeolithic culture once existed at Pitcairn and eithe rdied out from natural causes or was eliminated by later Polynesian invaders, it means the island must have been inhabited in the dim age of the first true human beings.

The nearest place to Pitcairn where a palaeolithic culture is known is Tasmania. Nobody knows why Tasmania should have had palaeolithic people while the neighboring continent of Australia so far has yielded no traces of anything earlier than the neolithic culture of the aboriginal people.

If the evidence of the stone implements dug up at Pitcairn is conclusive, Dr. Beattie says an even greater mystery may lie behind the question of how palaeolithic people came to live at that isolated fragment of land.

FORMER LAND MASS

Some authorities suspect Pitcairn may once have been part of a large land mass—perhaps a lost continent.

Dr. Beattie refuses to estimate the age of the Pitcairn implements beyond saying they are similar in type to palaeolithic implements found in Tasmania and China. This might mean that old stone age people were living at Pitcairn more than 14,000 years ago.

When Captain Philip Carteret discovered Pitcairn in 1767 and Fletcher Christian and the other Bounty mutineers arrived in 1790 the island was uninhabited, but at some earlier time it had been the home of Polynesian people who left stone adzes, carved figures and skeletons.

How these people came to settle at Pitcairn and why they vanished —as did the people who carved the great statues of Easter Island— remain two of the South Pacific mysteries.

Lakefield WI Group Guests Of Selwyn

SELWYN (ENS)—A very enjoyable time was had by Selwyn Women's Institute at their meeting last Wednesday evening when they entertained the ladies of the Lakefield Women's Institute.

The president, Mrs. K. Sweeting, welcomed the visitors.

Following the opening ode and Mary Stewart Collect, minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. R. Bell, secretary.

Roll call was answered by suggestions for making money for the WI. These included everything from rummage sales, plays, bazaars, parcel post, and many others. The meeting decided to make another quilt this year. The executive was appointed a committee of arrangements.

Mrs. William Elliott reported on replies that she had from various printing companies she had written concerning the Tweedsmuir history book. The treasurer, Mrs. Wilfred Nichols, presented a report of expenditures. Mrs. Clifford and Mrs. McIlmoyl gave a list of the people the Institute had remembered with Christmas cards and flowers.

Mrs. Kemp was convener for the Lakefield part of the program which was under the heading of public relations and current events. Mrs. Jack Murphy was her assistant.

An impromptu debate was staged between two Lakefield ladies and two from Selwyn on the subject, "That the country woman does more for her institute than the city or town woman."

The judges decided the Lakefield women, taking the side of the country women, were the winners.

Mrs. Kemp presented an interesting paper on public relations and Mrs. Murphy gave a comical reading on current events.

Mrs. Tom Payton favored with a solo, "My Cathedral" with Mrs. McKerchar at the piano. A lively sing-song was lead by Mrs. Payton, accompanied by Mrs. C. Fitzgerald.

Refreshments were served from a lace-covered table with Mrs. William Elliott and Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald presiding at the silver tea services. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Irvin Tully, Mrs. Reg. Bell, Mrs. Clifford McIlmoyl and Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald.

The president of the Lakefield branch, Mrs. Howard Bullock, moved a vote of thanks to the Selwyn ladies and Mrs. Evans Blewett replied.

Dr. Jordan Says

Shingles, Not A Skin Disease Is Probably Caused By Virus

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Each year a whole new group of people develop a disease known as shingles or herpes zoster. This is a peculiar condition and if one must have it, it would be best to do so while still comparatively young—if one could have a choice. In the elderly it is too likely to lead to miserable and long-continued pain.

In all probability, shingles results from a virus infection. For some peculiar reason this virus attacks the nerve roots of the nerves of feeling. It is also for some strange reason almost invariably on one side of the body only.

The first sign of the disease is generally pain or a burning sensation on one side of the body. Tingling or other peculiar sensations are frequent. It is common around the chest, the hips, the abdomen and the face. Serious complications occur if it affects the eyes.

After a few days of these sensations, blisters appear on the skin. But it is not really a skin disease. When several days have passed the blisters burst and dry up, finally leaving altogether.

Herpes may come with or immediately after acute infections like pneumonia or meningitis; it can come in epidemics or without any cause which can be identified.

There seems to be some relation between herpes and chickenpox. Small epidemics of herpes have arisen at the same time as epidemics of chickenpox. Occasionally a person will develop chickenpox from contact with a patient with shingles. This is a most interesting relationship.

NO SPECIFIC REMEDY

Many different kinds of treatment have been used for shingles. Soothing lotions or other preparations help a little. X-rays have been used with variable success. Antibiotics also may have some value. But there is no truly specific remedy.

In elderly people herpes is often a particularly serious thing because it hangs on so long. When nothing else seems to work, cutting the nerve by surgery may have to be considered. Older people with nerve pain following shingles deserve our heartfelt sympathy.

REOPEN TALKS TO BREAK RAIL DEADLOCK

Senate Approves Charles Wilson Defence Secretary

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Charles E. Wilson won 77 to 6 confirmation by the Senate Monday in his new assignment as secretary of defence. That action by the Senate gave President Eisenhower a full cabinet but apparently left him some political problems. Wilson was approved, after a 10-day controversy, by the votes of 47 of the Senate's 48 Republicans and 30 of 46 Democrats. Senator Wayne Morse, Ind. Ore., and five Democrats—Olin Johnston of South Carolina, Harley Kilgore and Matthew Neely of West Virginia, Herbert Lehman of New York and Willis Smith of North Carolina—voted against confirmation of the former General Motors president.

TROUBLE FOR AIDES

Wilson's agreement to sell more than $2,500,000 worth of GM stock paved the way for his confirmation but it was causing trouble for two men he has proposed as defence department aides.

They are Robert T. B. Stevens, named informally as army secretary, and Harold E. Talbott, air secretary.

This situation was thrown back onto Eisenhower's desk for a decision.

Stevens and Talbott have said they can't afford to sell some financial holdings. The prevailing Senate opinion seemed to be that they will sell or they won't be confirmed.

Eisenhower may move slowly in giving them formal nominations, which the Senate armed services committee has ruled must be forthcoming before they can be summoned to testify again. They appeared with Wilson at closed hearings Jan. 15 and 16.

Emergency Plans Laid By Truckers

14,000 Vehicles Will Be Used To Move Supplies

TORONTO (CP) —A railway strike would be met in Ontario by an emergency plan involving the province's 14,000 truck-service operators, Joseph O. Goodman, general manager of the Ontario Automotive Transport Association, said today.

Mr. Goodman said "it would stagger the imagination" to know the extent of the plan and the number of officials that have spent months working on it.

He said he is not free to divulge the details of the plan, except that it would utilize 14,000 trucks up keep supplies moving.

"The record will show that during the nine-day strike in 1950, there was no serious inconvenience anywhere in Ontario where highways reach," he said. "And, this time, we have the experience."

CHIEF CONCERN

"Our chief concern is that of public health and safety. There are many necessary commodities such as milk, bread, medical and hospital supplies which must be moved somehow."

Mayor Allan Lamport announced a special transport co-ordinating committee will be set up in Toronto in event of a strike. Street Commissioner Harold Bradley, who headed such a group in 1950, will again act as co-ordinator

The mayor said he will confer today with officials of the trucking industry to get assurance that goods would continue to flow into the city.

'AS USELESS AS A SNOWPLOW,' is an appropriate simile this snowless winter. At least the men at the Peterborough County garage think so. Operators Stewart Richardson and Joe Torpey and caretaker J. A. Armour look over six ploughs with side wings that have never been used, so far. The unusual weather on this account is at least a saving to the taxpayers.

Speed Preparations For Strike Monday Morning

MONTREAL—(CP)—Top railway and union executives seeking to head off a nation-wide railroad strike adjourned their meeting for lunch at 1:30 EST today and a union spokesman told reporters "no progress" had been made. The meeting resumes at 4 p.m. As they left the meeting place in downtown Windsor Hotel, the presidents of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways said they had no comment to make. They walked off down a corridor, talking seriously.

J. A. Kelly of Ottawa, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, told reporters as he left that there had been "no progress."

When a reporter asked whether there had been "no progress at all," he replied:

"Unless you call it progress that we are meeting again at four o'clock."

MUST WORK FAST

The two sides met for 3½ hours in an effort to solve a deadlock arising from the Brotherhood's demand for wage increases for 25,000 union members. It has threatened to pull its men out on strike at 6 a.m. local time next Monday unless a satisfactory settlement is reached.

The situation did not appear hopeful as the meeting adjourned. Some of the members of the delegations appeared grim-faced as they left the room.

Present at today's session were the presidents of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, whose lines were paralyzed for nine days in 1950 when another groups of unions walked off the job in a fight over a pay boost.

Monday's meetings, between the railway vice-presidents and union leaders, collapsed after early indications that some progress might be made. Then, with the situation apparently deadlocked, Prime Minister St. Laurent announced from Ottawa that the railroad presidents were ready to reopen the talks.

UNION DELEGATION

The union delegation today includes J. A. Kelly, Ottawa, and L. C. Malone, Winnipeg, both international presidents of the BRT and the men who represented the unions Monday.

The CNR delegation was headed by President Donald Gordon and includes S. F. Dingle, vice-president, and E. S. McCracken, Winnipeg, general manager of the CPR's Prairie division and chairman of its negotiating committee.

PREPARE FOR STRIKE

Meanwhile, because of uncertainty over the outcome and the short time remaining before the strike deadline, railway executive staffs went ahead with preparations for a possible traffic standstill on their 44,000 miles of line manned by a total of 196,000 employees.

The BRT seeks a 35-per-cent increase for its members and a 40-hour week for yardmen. A conciliation board majority report recommended 12 per cent and a minority report 20 per cent. Diffi-

UK Jet Bomber Attempting Set New Record

LONDON (AP)—Britain's record-breaking twin jet Canberra bomber flashed into the skies early today in an attempt to fly from England to Australia in less than 24 hours.

The sleek blue bomber will try to cover the 8,608 miles to Darwin with only three refueling stops—at Fayid in the Suez canal zone, Karachi, Pakistan, and Singapore.

The plane took off at 8:36 a.m. (3:36 a.m. EST), carrying a pilot and a navigator.

The present London-to-Darwin record was set in August, 1946, by an RAF Lancaster, which made the trip in 45 hours 35 minutes.

The Canberra, the world's first twin-jet bomber, on Aug. 26, 1952, made the first double crossing of the Atlantic in a single day.

The plane, which belongs to the ministry of supply, is being flown to Australia for secret experimental work at the Commonwealth guided missile and rocket testing ranges at Woomera, in the heart of the Australian desert.

PILOTING PLANE

Piloting the Canberra today is Flt. Lt. Leslie Morris Whittington, 28-year-old test pilot. The navigator is Flt. Lt. John Anthony Brown, 30.

The plane is the fourth of its kind to be flown to Australia from Britain. Two of the others are being used by the RAAF while the third already is at work at Woomera.

Although today's flight is a record-breaking attempt, a ministry of supply spokesman stressed that the plane is a regular service craft being sent to Australia only because it is needed there.

Child 3, Sold For Poker Debt

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)— An automobile plant worker and his wife have been charged with selling their three-year-old daughter for $250 to satisfy a poker debt.

Joseph Kinnick, superintendent of the juvenile department, said he will ask that the baby girl be made a ward of the court because the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Haynes, "have forfeited their rights."

Officers said their investigation disclosed Haynes gambled heavily with his earnings at the auto plant. They said Yaynes, 30, and his wif, Viola, 24, told them they gave their child, Frances, to a Lakewood couple in exchange for a $250 loan and also promised to give up the child Mrs. Haynes is expecting in two months.

The child was brought to headquarters by the Lakewood couple, against whom no charges were filed.

Man Fined $21 For Violating Act

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Howard R. Smith of Niagara Falls was fined $21 Monday on each of two charges of violating the Lord's Day Act Sept. 28 and Oct. 5, 1952, by operating stock car races for gain on a Sunday.

Smith testified he operated the races to test public opinion on Sunday sport before a Willoughby township plebiscite. He had lost money on both occasions.

Insurance Rates Higher On Cars

TORONTO (CP)—Automobile insurance rates for 1953 will be higher in Ontario as a result of last year's record-breaking total of accidents.

W. C. Butler, president of the All Canada Insurance Federation—which represents more than 200 fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies—said Monday that insurance rates for pleasure cars will be increased about six per cent.

Insurance for business cars — more than 20 per cent of which were involved in accidents or made claims last year—will jump about nine per cent.

During the year, Ontario's 800,000 insured automobiles ran up a record-breaking total of 125,000 insurance claims, Mr. Butler said.

However, he said the rates in Northern Ontario and the Windsor area will decrease.

Girl Seriously Hurt In Mystery Shooting

KITCHENER (CP) — A 17-year-old girl was seriously wounded in a mysterious shooting here early today. Police are holding a youth believed to be her boy friend. No charge has been laid.

The girl, Marie Huras, was admitted to hospital here at 6:40 a.m. and transferred to a hospital in Toronto five hours later. It is understood she suffered a gunshot wound in the back.

Details are sketchy, but police said a motorist, believed to be the youth in custody, flagged down a constable and asked the officer to accompany him to hospital with a wounded girl.

Sending Men To Moon May Be Possible Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four leading astronomers said Monday it may be possible to send men to the moon in rockets launched from the earth.

But they said that such a flight would cost fabulous sums of money and that the men in the rocket might not live through it.

These and other questions about the world of tomorrow were answered in a composite interview given by the four men to U. S. News and World Report, a weekly newsmagazine.

Taking part in the interview were V. M. Slipher, director of Lowell observatory and a world authority on nebulae; E. C. Slipher, top authority on Mars; H. L. Johnson, specialist in the use of photography and electronics in astronomy, and Henry Giclas, expert on the use of photography and electronics in the detection of comets and asteroids.

Missing Plane Sighted Upside Down

WINNIPEG (CP) — The RCAF reported today that a small Piper Cub plane, believed carrying missing pilot Jim Block of Bissett Lake and Flin Flon., Man., has been sighted upside down on a small lake 3½ miles northeast of Moore Lake. There was no sign of life.

The RCAF Dakota which sighted the overturned craft at 10:30 a.m. EST, still is circling the area. Officials said there was little likelihood a two man para-rescue squad aboard the Dakota would jump.

The rescue co-ordination centre at Winnipeg said a Central Northern Airways ski-equipped, light aircraft will fly from Lac du Bonnet to Bissett Lake to pick up an RCMP constable and proceed to the scene of the crash. If there are any survivors, they will be flown to Winnipeg.

NOT CERTAIN HOW MANY

RCAF officials are still not certain whether there was one or two men aboard the Piper Cub when it crashed. Block was supposed to pick up trapper Alvin Baker at Moore Lake and take him 35 miles east to another trapping cabin at Big Bull Dog lake.

Sox Trade 3 Players

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox today swapped first baseman Eddie Robinson and two other players for American League batting champion Ferris Fain and one other player from Philadelphia Athletics.

Hope To Enlist US Support For Wider World Trade

LONDON—(AP)—Informed sources said today that Foreign Secretary Eden and the chancellor of the exchequer, R. A. Butler, on their projected visit to the United States, hope to enlist American support for a vast new program of wider world trade.

Britain's new ambassador to the United States, Sir Roger Makins, announced in Washington that tentative arrangements for the visit of the two British leaders would be completed in about 10 days.

They are expected to arrive in Washington late next month or early March—without Prime Minister Churchill.

Churchill in New York recently gave President Eisenhower documents outlining the main decisions taken by the prime ministers of Britain's Commonwealth partners when they met here last November. The economic experts of the new Republican administration are understood to be studying Commonwealth plans for beating poverty and slumps.

PLAN OBJECTIVES

These plans look to:

1. The holding of a world economic conference to chart new trade and money policies for the non-Communist nations.
2. World-wide action to stabilize raw material prices.
3. Encouragement of American investments in Commonwealth lands to boost development.
4. Raising of the official world price of gold from the present level of $35 an ounce.
5. Liberalizing customs and tar-

Digging Out After Bad Storm

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg began digging itself out of 6.4 inches of snow today as eastern Manitoba took the brunt of a blinding snow storm which started early Monday, eased briefly in the afternoon and then struck again with full force Monday night.

Work crews mustered equipment and began the big job of clearing city streets during the night. Buses and street cars were running without a hitch, but country bus schedules were slightly behind as Manitoba received its worst storm of the winter.

Intense cold covered the Prairies today.

The mercury plunged to 46 degrees below zero at Dawson in the Yukon. Edmonton had -20 and Regina -11.

But, in the far north, at Aklavik within the arctic circle, it was only -2 as a surge of warm air moved in from the Pacific.

A snow or rock slide in the Rockies 87 miles west of Jasper, Alta., blocked the Canadian National Railways main line. Westbound passenger trains were detoured at Edmonton to the CPR main line west from Calgary.

Gov't Butter Sales Ordered Halted

OTTAWA (CP)—The agriculture department has been ordered to halt sales of government butter temporarily, it was learned today.

The order was issued by Agriculture Minister Gardiner and became effective Monday. The ban on government butter sales is expected to be continued until at least Feb. 2 when Mr. Gardiner is due back from the West coast.

Mr. Gardiner is in Victoria attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

No reason was given for the ministerial order. Sales of government butter had been continuing since last November.

Altogether, the government had accumulated about 40,000,000 pounds of butter by last fall and was the biggest butter holder in the country.

HAS 35,000,000 POUNDS

The government still has about 35,000,000 pounds in stock

One suggestion made in official quarters is that there is plenty of butter in Canada and the ministerial order will have little effect on retail prices.

But in the past, the government has used its stocks as an instrument to prevent butter speculators from pushing prices to unusually high levels.

By holding back its supplies, the government may actually be inviting a butter price boost on commercial markets.

Explosion Kills 10 In Store

AIKEN, S. C. (AP) — Leaking gas blasted one store to bits, set fires raging through four more, and spread death and destruction in the heart of this atomic boom town today.

Mayor C. M. Jones estimated that 10 persons perished and the damage totalled $2,000,000. Several persons were injured.

The explosion in the Jones Electrical Company trapped several people in two stores, the mayor said. Hours later the number of dead had not been definitely established but the mayor said tersely:

"I'm afraid at least 10 have perished."

Remington Convicted On Perjury Count

NEW YORK (AP) — William W. Remington, former United States government economist, was convicted today of perjury in denying he ever gave secret government data to Elizabeth Bentley for relay to Russia.

He also was convicted on a second perjury count for falsely denying knowledge of the existence of a unit of the Young Communist League at Dartmouth College when he was a student there in the 1930s.

Remington, 35, could be sentenced to up to 10 years in prison and $4,000 in fines on the two counts. This would be twice the penalty he drew on a previous conviction—which he got reversed on appeal.

Canadian Unit Aids Commonwealth Forces

Field Hospital Cuts Medical Bills

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Canada now maintains what amounts to a field hospital in Korea.

The unit with the new function is the 25th Canadian field dressing station, commanded by Maj. J. R. Arsenault of Fort Churchill, Man.

Until last September the unit was in Seoul, with a forward section about 25 miles north, near Tokchong. Until then it functioned as a sick bay and as a transit station for sick and wounded en route to the Commonwealth General Hospital at Kure, Japan.

During the summer Col. Morgan Smith of Toronto, chief of the Commonwealth division's medical services, reviewed his resources to see whether they might be more efficiently employed.

SENT TO KURE

He discovered that the Commonwealth force here was not getting maximum value from its manpower because men were going back to Kure for treatment that ought to be available within the divisional area.

Further, once in Kure, instead of returning directly to their units on recovery, they were going into the general reinforcement stream and taking from two to three weeks to get back.

Also, the existing set-up was channeling wounded and seriously-ill soldiers into the United States Army pipeline for treatment at $13 a day that ought to be available within Commonwealth resources, cost of which is less than $2 per day per patient.

Morgan Smith decided to move the field dressing station into the divisional area. He attached to it the Canadian field surgical unit and the Canadian blood transfusion unit and set it up to handle all Commonwealth division sick likely to be returnable shortly to their units, and all the division's elective surgery.

The channel to the American medical pipeline was reserved for severely-wounded soldiers and those suffering from ailments requiring specialized treatment, such as haemorrhagic fever.

BACTERIOLOGIST—Dr. Kim Kyo Houn, 30-year-old graduate in veterinary science from Seoul National University, is the number one man on parasitology at the 25th Canadian Field Dressing Station in Korea. The station formerly operated only as a sick bay and transit station, but since September has functioned as a field hospital. The result has been a three-fifths reduction in the medical bills of the Commonwealth Division. Chief of the division's medical services is Col. Morgan Smith, of Toronto.

NEW SEOUL UNIT

He set up another unit in Seoul to replace the field dressing station and handle soldiers in that area needing medical care, others from the front needing medical attention longer than the field station could keep them and yet short of requiring evacuation all the way back to Kure, and as a transit station for wounded and sick soldiers sent back for air evacuation to Japan.

It was known as the communications zone medical unit and staffed by medical corps men drawn proportionately from all the Commonwealth forces. It is commanded by Maj. Roy Smillie of Winnipeg.

The new system has saved the division thousands of man days already. Set up Sept. 18, it has reduced airlift expenses so much that during October, November and December a total saving of $33,600 was made.

And it has reduced the over-all medical bill by about three-fifths.

The Canadian surgical team is now headed by a Briton and the operating assistants are headed by Sgt. Glen Chisholm of Antigonish, N.S., and Cpl. Art Roper of Sydney Mines, N.S.

The team averages 15 operations daily, and on busy days performs as many as 25.

INSTALL X-RAY

An X-ray machine has been installed, and Cpl. Harold Baker of Ottawa runs the dispensary. Lieut. M. P. Madill of Vancouver is the bacteriologist, helped by technicians under Sgt. Mike Pouliot of Camp Borden, Ont.

By common consent its most valuable member is Dr. Kim Kyo

Ferryboat Sinks Fear 30 Drowned

SEOUL (Reuters) — Thirty persons were feared drowned and 20 injured when an overloaded ferryboat carrying 200 sank off Kunsan Monday night.

It was the second South Korean ferry disaster in three weeks.

Maritime officials, reporting that the boat was licenced for only 75 people, today ordered an investigation of all coastal cargo and passenger boats and threatened to tie up any not complying with regulations.

Police questioned the captain of the ferryboat, believed to have been crossing the mouth of the Kum river, west of Taegu.

$600,000 Embezzlement

Buys Bank With Its Own Money, Makes Loans

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A man who bought a bank with its own money and kept a $10,000 revolving fund for loans in the drawer of his desk pleaded guilty Monday in U.S. district court to embezzling $600,000.

He is Ludwig R. Schlekat, 41-year-old former president of the Parnassus National Bank in nearby New Kensington. He faces a maximum of 45 years in prison and fines of $45,000.

Seeking leniency for his defalcations, which stretch back to 1936, the former banker declared:

"I never used any of the money for myself."

The money all went, Schlekat said, to buy stock in the Parnassus Bank and other concerns and to make loans which he was afraid the bank's directors wouldn't approve.

Most, though not all of these loans, Schlekat said, speaking in a dry, emotionless voice, came out of a fund he kept in his desk drawer.

"The fund never got much over $10,000," he said. "When people needed money, I took it out for them. When they repaid it, I put it back."

Schlekat said Harry Westerman, a New Kensington real estate dealer, now dead, talked him into embezzling $225,000 to buy a controlling interest of the Parnassus bank.

A-Industrial Power For UK

Sandys Sees Additional Supply Available Soon

LONDON — (Reuters) — Supply Minister Duncan Sandys said Monday atomic energy should soon provide Britain with a "useful additional source of industrial power."

He also reported "further encouraging progress" on guided missiles in reply to questions in the House of Commons about Britain's progress in atomic energy and jet propulsion fields.

"There can be no doubt that the guided rocket is one of the decisive instruments of war that are going to dominate the military scene in the none too distant future," Sandys said in asking for an extra £16,000,000 in addition to the budgeted $128,000,000 for his supply ministry.

"Weapons travelling at several times the speed of sound are being successfully evolved for use in the defensive and offensive roles," he added. He declined to clarify this reference.

Discussing the atom, Sandys said a small experimental "breeder reactor" is being built at the Harwell research centre and should be completed within a few months. Breeder reactors are the latest advanced types of atomic power plants which actually produce more fissionable material than they burn.

At the same time work was going on to build a full-scale breeder reactor, capable of producing large amounts of electricity from atomic fuel, he said.

Vet Reunited With Family After 34 Years

OTTAWA (CP)—Napoleon Mayotte returned home a week ago without the groceries—almost 34 years after starting out to do the shopping.

Mr. Mayotte, 73-year-old veteran of the First World War, suffered a mental blackout on his way to the corner grocery in September, 1919.

Until his daughter found him last week in Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital, he was in and out of several hospitals with amnesia and arthritis and wandered clear to Vancouver and back.

His first clear recollection after suffering the mental blackout in 1919 was of being bedridden in the Veterans' Hospital in Winnipeg. All he could remember was his name. After three years of treatment he was released and worked his way to Vancouver.

TRANSFERRED TO TORONTO

He again entered hospital in Vancouver with recurring mental blackouts and arthritis and then was transferred to Christie Street Hospital in Toronto.

He was released after months of treatment and worked for 21 years as orderly at St. Michael's Hospital before he was forced to bed at the Sunnybrook Veterans Hospital.

He snapped out of the blackout when his daughter, Mrs. Armand Laurin, 40, visited him after she received word that a man answering Mr. Mayotte's description was in Sunnybrook hospital.

Mrs. Laurin's father recognized her and the two returned here to a reunion with Mrs. Mayotte.

Mr. Mayotte said that when he saw Mrs. Laurin, his only child, "It was like the perfect end to a long, befuddled dream."

Continue Inquiry For Sabotage

LIVERPOOL (CP)—The probe for possible sabotage in the fire death of the Empress of Canada continued today as the hulk of the once-proud trans-Atlantic liner lay half-submerged in her berth, still smouldering from the flames that gutted her.

Workmen who were aboard Sunday when fire broke out aboard the 20,135-ton ship were questioned until late Monday night by superintendent James B. Firth, 64, head of the home office's science laboratory.

Firth has viewed the Canadian Pacific Steamships vessel from the pier but said he would have to get aboard to begin work in the search for clues that might spell sabotage. She is the third ship in Liverpool docks to be hit by fire within a week.

DIVERS BUSY

In a £100,000 job, divers will make preparations to raise her while other workmen will cut away the funnels, masts and other obstructions. It is believed the vessel was insured for $5,600,000.

But this work cannot be carried out until the fires are extinguished and the dirty waters in her berth have cooled the steaming hulk.

Says Legislature Must Approve Oil Pipeline

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A projected Canadian oil pipeline crossing both Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas must have the approval of the legislature, state Attorney General Frank G. Millard said today.

Millard held that the legislature is the only state agency which can give permission to cross the Straits of Mackinac.

The pipeline is proposed by the Interprovincial Pipeline Company of Canada to bring Alberta oil to Sarnia, Ont. The pipeline, which now extends as far as Superior, Wis., would cross the upper peninsula, cross the straits, circle Bay City and cross the thumb to Port Huron.

Millard's opinion was given to Robert P. Burgess of the company and T. G. Scupholm, Detroit attorney.

Millard said petitions for a common carrier permit are about ready to be presented to the Michigan public service commission. The only hitch, he said, is whether it will be filed by Interprovincial or the Lake Pipeline Company which operates the line from the Canadian-North Dakota border to Superior.

No such legislation has been introduced before either the House or the Senate.

Dunlop Would Stress 'Three R's' More

TORONTO (CP)—Education Minister Dunlop said Monday night more attention must be given to the study of the "three R's" in primary and secondary school educatibn than they now receive.

In a talk prepared for a free-time public affairs broadcast over a CBC Ontario network, Dr. Dunlop said the basic subjects of school curricula must not be neglected in the swift progress of vocational education.

"More study in elementary schools must go to reading, writing and arithmetic," he said. "In the secondary schools we must stress English, mathematics, science, history, geography and languages. These are the firm foundations without which the structure falls."

Judge Reverses Court Finding

A conviction on a charge of driving with defective brakes, registered against Thomas Mills, of 11 Bethune St., was reversed Monday in an appeal case heard by Judge John de N. Kennedy in county court.

Mills was convicted in police court last July and ordered to pay $10 and $2.50 costs. He pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Mills was in a two-car accident at Aylmer and Simcoe Sts. on May 25, 1952. The other car, driven by Peter Green, of 210 McDonnel St., was overturned in the collision. Damage was light.

After the accident, Constable William Scott tested the brakes on Mills' car and found them 17 per cent efficient.

Through his counsel, W. B. (Pete) Gordon, Mills pleaded that the brakes became faulty as a result of the accident.

"Since it is possible that the accident to Mills' car may have damaged the brakes of his car, the Crown has not, in my opinion, proved beyond a reasonable doubt that (Mills) was guilty of the offence charged," said Judge Kennedy.

He then quashed the magistrate's conviction, upholding the appeal.

Type Of Measles Said Fairly Mild

Measles cases in the city are of a "fairly mild" nature, MOH Dr. J. P. Wells said today.

Only one case—not a city child — had developed complications. The child was sent to the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

Dr. Wells said he would not comment on the number of cases reported so far as an increase over last year. He said many cases are treated at home without a doctor being told.

Dr. Wells' remark was prompted my newspaper reports of a measles epidemic in Chatham, where three children have died as a result of complications of the disease. The virus that has caused the epidemic there is believed to be particularly virulent.

Widow Sails Atlantic Alone First Woman To Do So

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — A 38-year-old English widow has sailed the Atlantic all alone in a tiny yacht, the first woman ever to do so—a message from the West Indies disclosed today.

The attractive Miss Ann Davis vowed she would try again after her husband drowned in the first unsuccessful attempt made by the couple three years ago. Their 70-foot ketch sank in a storm and only Mrs. Davis survived.

A Plymouth shipbuilders firm said it has received a cable from Mrs. Davis sent today from Portsmouth, Dominica, West Indies, reporting she landed safely after a "tough crossing" in the 23 - foot yacht Felicity Ann.

LAST OF VOYAGE

Mrs. Davis left the Canary Islands last Nov. 20 and headed out into the Atlantic for the last long leg of her epic voyage that began here last May 18.

She said then she was heading for Florida and hoped to get there in 40 days.

When the 40 days stretched to more than 60 without word from her, friends feared she had been lost at sea.

Twice before on the present trip Mrs. Davis was given up for lost —once when she was overdue in reaching Douarnenez, France, and again when she was days late in arriving at Casablanca.

IRREPRESSIBLE URGE

She said before leaving England she had an irrepressible urge to make the crossing.

"I must be mad," she was quoted as saying.

Mrs. Davis took on the first leg of the voyage from England only about 10 weeks supply of food. Her yacht carried between 80 and 100 gallons of diesel oil for a five-horsepower auxiliary engine.

For clothes, she took one change and a set of oilskins.

The message to Mashford Brothers shipbuilders said only:

"Arrived Portsmouth, Dominica. Tough crossing. Felicity Ann superb. Ann."

Pilots Report Flying Disk Near Bomber

U. S. AIR BASE, Northern Japan (AP) — The U. S. Air Force today reported a small, metallic, disk-shaped object made a controlled, sweeping pass at an American jet fighter-bomber and was observed at very close range by another pilot.

The report, from air force intelligence files, said the sighting was made over northern Japan at 11:20 a. m. March 29, 1952, by Lieut. David C. Brigham.

It was a bright, cloudless day. Brigham said he had a very good look at the object from about 30 to 50 feet for about 10 seconds.

The pilot described it as "about eight inches in diameter, very thin, chromium; had no apparent projections and left no exhaust trails or vapor trails."

OBJECT DISAPPEARS

He said it caught up with an F-84 Thunderjet, hovered a few moments and then shot out of sight. The F-84 pilot, whose name was not revealed, did not see it. It was the second disclosure in a week by air force intelligence of mysterious flying objects over northern Japan near the Russian-Siberia area.

On Jan. 21, the air force disclosed that "rotating clusters of red, white and green lights" had been sighted over northern Japan by American airmen.

Stock Market Prices Weaken In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Stock market prices weakened today as early afternoon stock market trading roared ahead toward a record high.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 5,406,000 shares — one of the highest in the exchange's history. Trading at the same rate for the rest of the session would put the total volume well beyond the present record of 7,773,000 shares.

Low-priced mining issues were responsible for much of the rapid trading. The "penny" stocks have been moving ahead for a month in heavy trading.

New Larder U was one of the leaders today, adding 30 cents in a turnover of 433,000 shares. News of an underwriting agreement with Frobisher buoyed the issue. Other gainers in trading of 300,000 shares or more were New Norseman, New Highridge and Porcupine Pen.

Higher-priced base metals held firm but most others slipped. Steep Rock, Cassiar and United Keno led the losses.

Senior golds were mixed in light trading but juniors weakened. Holding companies held firm and prospects made a small gain.

Western oils slipped as Bailey Selburn and Stanwell traded lower. Britalta and Sweet Grass gained.

culty at recent meetings was the brotherhood's wanting to begin discussions on the minority report and the railways' wanting to use the majority report as a basis of discussion.

Average basic wage now is $1.29 an hour.

Members of the brotherhood who would strike if a settlement is not reached include conductors, brakemen, flagmen, yardmen, yard foremen and yard masters. Conductors on the western section of the CNR have their own brotherhood.

Those who would not be on strike but would be affected indirectly by the walkout would include telegraphers, station porters, maintenance men, mechanics, tower men and engineers and firemen, the latter having their own brotherhoods.

Commercial communications would not be affected, but telegraphers dealing solely with the movements of trains would have no work to do unless other arrangements are made by executives now studying procedure during a possible shutdown.

Smaller Canadian roads and American roads coming into Canada would have to cease operations if their lines at any point crossed those of the CNR or CPR as switch operators would not work for them.

SUGGESTION DECLINED

After Monday's meetings, mr. Dingle and Mr. Crump, speaking for the railways, said:

"We think we offered a fair means of settlement. We also suggested bringing in a referee whose decision would be binding. The committee apparently didn't think our proposals fair. Our suggestion for a referee was declined."

Speaking for the brotherhood, Vice-President L. Malone, secretary of the negotiating committee, said:

"We declined to make a joint request of that kind regarding a referee. we have been waiting here for these conferences. If the government desires to send a conciliator, that's strictly the government's business."

The Railway Association of Canada announced from Montreal today that all services in Canada on the Canadian National Railways, Canadian Pacific Railway and Napierville Junction Railway may cease at 6 a.m. Monday if the Brotherhood of Trainmen go on strike.

J. A. Brass, general secretary of the association, stated that all passenger, freight and express services on these railways will be brought to a standstill if the strike takes place.

Mr. Brass said further that the Railway Association of Canada will keep shippers and the public informed by advance notice of embargoes on perishable and other traffic.

Woman Dies Found In Apartment

The body of Mrs. Alexina Muirhead, 49, was found crumpled on the floor against the wood stove in her kitchen when police and neighbours broke into her upstairs apartment at [illegible]uis St., Monday about 11.30 p.m.

An autopsy was performed today but its findings were not known at press time today.

Mrs. Muirhead, a hotel cleaning woman, lived alone in her apartment. Signs indicated that she lived almost exclusively in the small kitchen. She had been separated from her husband, Robert, since 1945.

Neighbours said that she slept on a small cot near the stove. There were no bedclothes on the bed, only a thin mattress, with the felt stuffing pulling out of one end. The whole apartment was extremely dirty and untidy.

Sunday evening she had neighbours call for police to get her a doctor. He came and police had to break open the door at the bottom of her stairs to get into the apartment. The doctor treated her ad left.

Neighbours carried wood up and put it in her wood basket and then lit a fire. The stove was the only source of heat in the apartment.

According to neighbours, Mrs. Muirhead said the doctor told her there were other people more sick than she was who were unable to get a bed in the hospital.

All Monday occupants of the lower apartment heard no sound from above. The woman's employer phoned and asked about her. One of the occupants of the building, climbed up on a back verandah looked into the kitchen and saw the woman lying there.

The police were called and they had to break down the kitchen door to get to her. She was dead and Dr. Herbert N. Young, coroner, said she had been dead some hours.

Waddell Speaks At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS)— Mayor Hugh Waddell of Peterborough was guest speaker at the Monday noon luncheon of the Rotary club here.

The Peterborough mayor was introduced by councillor George H. Free, wh told a little of Mr. Waddell's background. First elected to municipal office in 1945, Mr. Waddell was re-elected in 1947 and 1949 and elected by acclamation in 1951 and 1952.

Mr Waddell spoke on the problems of civic government, and the costs connected with administrating public services. The speaker brought Librarian Bill Graff, who showed a film on how civic government was first brought into being and developed in a small English community.

Mayor Waddell said municipal levies in Peterborough today, were two-and-a-half times what they were in 1939. He said the biggest problem was how to get the most value for the money the council had to spend.

He urged Rotarians to take a keen interest in their council and in community affairs, and said he thought it a good idea for the local Rotary club to invite the members of council to dinner, as guests of the club. A discussion could be held at these meetings and in this way problems could be discussed intelligently, with everyone on friendly terms. This would lead to a better understanding of the problems to the building of a better community, he said.

President F. G. DeCarrol thanked the speaker.

The final day of Roseneath Fair will be on Saturday which is a new idea.

Urge Bylaw Enforced On Dilapidated Homes

"What about the bylaw we passed last year dealing with dilapidated buildings?" Ald. S. J. Black enquired at the board of works meeting Monday night. "One of the buildings mentioned was at the southeast corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets."

City Solicitor Huycke confirmed Ald. Black's reference. "The amendment to the building by-law put this matter up to the building inspector. If he wants to condemn that house and tear it down he can go ahead."

With that instrument in the council's hands, Ald. H. T. Rehill said, it should proceed to enforce it. It also pointed at the McGlynn house on Rutherford Ave. Ald. Rehill's motion was seconded by Ald. Black.

Ald. Dewart enquired about the details of procedure.

City Engineer Chalmers said the building inspector had to be of the opinion that the building was in a dangerous condition to life or limb, or on the other hand a fire hazard.

The retiring president, Mrs. James L. Timlin, presided over the first part of the meeting spent in revising the domestic portion of the prize list.

The members all stood in memory of the late Mrs. Ira Lowe, for many years an outstanding exhibitor at Roseneath Fair.

It was decided that president and secretary will hold office continuously for two years.

Tried To Free Two Prisoners

TORONTO (CP)—Col. G Hedley Basher, Ontario's deputy minister of reform institutions, said Monday an attempt was made Sunday night to release two dangerous prisoners from Hamilton's Barton street jail. Two shots were fired at a guard but the attempt failed.

"It was not an attempted jail break, but an attempted jail delivery," said Col. Basher.

Col. Basher did not identify the prisoners.

In Hamilton the Barton Street jail officials took extra precautions Monday night to avert a new attempt to release the two prisoners, wanted by Buffalo police on charges of murder and robbery.

City police Monday night augmented jail guards, and police cruisers kept circling the area.

Find Nazi's Body Buried Near Mill

TAMPICO, Mex. (AP) — Police said today they still had not solved the mysterious death of Oswald Frank, former German panzer division officer whose almost decomposed body was found covered with brush near the sugar mill where he worked.

Frank's body was found Monday. He had been missing for six days.

His employer said the 42-year-old German was a strict disciplinarian and had made many enemies among employees. Police theorized one of these might be responsible.

Frank came to Mexico several years ago to work as an engineer.

Bus Strike Unsettled

NEW YORK (CP) — New York's 27-day-old bus strike is still under way today. Principals are still arguing over the CIO Transport Workers Union demands for a 40-hour work week with pay increases. Eight companies are affected.

Back Resolution On Fish Limits, Longer Seasons

COBOURG (ENS) —Northumberland and Durham Counties' Council endorsed the resolution of the Rice Lake Tourist Association that opening day of bass and maskinonge be changed to June 20 from July 1.

The association's resolution, already backed by Hamilton and Alnwick townships, also asked for minimum size limits of 15 inches for pickerel, 12 for bass and 32 for maskinonge. Present limits are 13 for pickerel, 10 for bass and 30 for lunge.

Grants totalling $3,000 were approved by the finance committee for agricultural purposes. These were: $500 for the plowman's banquet; $1,000 to the Ontario Plowman's Association; $400 to the local plowman's association (left to the April session), $300 to junior farmers in each county, and the statutory grant of $500 to the agricultural office.

Other grants recommended totalled $750. Annual grant to the Salvation Army was $250, cut $250 from last year, and $1,000 to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. After reaching council, the CNIB grant was cut in half.

The committee also recommended endorsation of a CNIB resolution asking that pensions for the blind be increased to 50.

The committee also recommended acknowledgment of a $3,000 bequest from the late John C. Hayden. Several salary increases were recommended, and the committee suggested no action be taken on the request of the St. John Ambulance Brigade for a grant.

Agricultural committee endorsed resolutions from other county councils urging the banning of imported vegetable oils for dairy products.

Township Men Join Pigeon Club

Peterborough Pigeon Club secured some out-of-town members this week—Reg. Hayes, Lakefield, Jim Howard, Bridgenorth, and Harold Minion of Douro. City members enrolled so far are Len Cooper, Emile Lamore, Bill Snowden, Hugh Chown, Bob Hewitt, and Ivan Ellicott.

In order to foster the sport of pigeon racing, any of the above members are anxious to hear from others who are interested in the hobby. They need not own homer pigeons, members say.

Since a great number of Ontario clubs already use Peterborough as a starting point for racing, the city club men feel that they can be of service to them. It will also create more interest locally.

To Call For Tenders On City Equipment

City Engineer Chalmers was authorized by the board of works last night to call for tenders for three pieces of departmental equipment.

One of them is the trailer type of oil distributor which was destroyed in the fire last fall at the board's garage building on Townsend St.

The others were: a 1½-ton dump truck on which the 1935 model will be turned in, and a half-ton pickup truck, in the purchase of which it is expected there will also be a trade-in.

Payment will be provided from insurance on the oil distributor and also from the equipment depreciation fund.

The authorizing motion by Ald. A. B. Burrows was seconded by Ald. N. Graham.

Restoring the Townsend St. storage building to use was mentioned to the board by City Engineer Chalmers who said he needed the space. He was asked to proceed with plans, and the estimate of cost is to be referred to the property committee for inclusion in the budget. That motion by Ald. Beggs was seconded by Ald. Graham.

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (AP) — Reporters called the office of Dr. John W. Yost, health officer, Monday to check on the local wave of influenza. They were told Dr. Yost was home—ill with the flu.

Boys' Work Bd. Agriculture Rotary Subjects

The Peterborough Boys' Work Board, and, the organization of the Department of Agriculture, were topics of two addresses at the Rotary club luncheon meeting Monday.

Robert Peebles outlined the organization of the Boys' Work Board in this city, and explained the projects the board has undertaken.

"This is strictly a church movement," Mr. Peebles said. "We are working with boys between the ages of nine and 17 years with the co-operation of 15 churches in Peterborough. Each of these churches is represented by three members on the board."

One of the board's major projects now underway is an organized church hockey league consisting of 23 teams. Approximately 350 boys play hockey in this league. Mr. Peebles explained that the board also plans similar programs in baseball, basketball and football.

Other board projects are boys' parliament, mid - week boys' groups, leadership training courses and camps.

"This is a big job and we need help," Mr. Peebles concluded. "Just remember that the youth of today is the church of tomorrow."

The story of the Department of Agriculture was told by Kenneth Best, assistant representative of the department in Peterborough County.

"Our department was established in 1907 to serve as a liaison between the research men and the farmers," Mr. Best said. "At that time the farmers found themselves in stiff competition. Collectively they were doing a big business but they had no bargaining powers. And they had no facilities for research to better their position."

The speaker explained that with organization of the department, representatives were appointed who brought research and farming closer together.

Now there are representatives in each of the counties in Ontario, and the majority have assistant representatives as well. The assistants carry on most of the junior farmer work.

The speaker explained that the various junior farmer clubs are used to introduce modern farming methods.

"The major problem in farming today is getting started," Mr. Best said. "The young farmer needs a minimum of $40,000 to get established. The result is that they can't get started and the country is losing the young farmers that it needs.

"This problem hasn't been solved yet, but some solution will have to be reached in the next few years," the speaker concluded.

Mr. Peebles was introduced by the Rev. Henry Cotton of St. Andrew's United Church, and Mr. Best by Frank Paterson. Both speakers were thanked by the Rev. A. A. Mathews, of George St. United Church.

Asks Resignation

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—President Carlos Ibanez asked Monday night for the resignation from the cabinet of Edecio Torreblanca, leader of the independent forces that sparked Ibanez to his smashing election victory last September. The government announced gave no reason for the president's request nor did it say whether the minister complied.

"... the willingness to find a way"

A man who started a new business a few years ago recently wrote to pay tribute to the bank's part in helping to make it a success:

"We were fortunate in having, as our banker, a man who could combine with experience the willingness to find a way that called not for experience alone but for imagination as well."

The chartered banks are forever alert to the fresh problems, the changing needs of their customers. At all times, in all your banking problems, you can depend on your local bank to bring experience and imagination to the task of helping you to "find a way".

Umbrella Government For Toronto

For better or worse, Toronto has become big and sprawling. "Greater" Toronto, a label not a legal entity, now includes Toronto the Good, Toronto the Bad, villages, towns and townships. In many attempts to bring legislative order out of the confusion, through annexation, threats of amalgamation, tentative agreements, grants for specific purposes from the city to the suburbs and from the suburbs to the city, neither Toronto nor Greater Toronto has been satisfied. Now the Ontario Municipal Board has recommended a new scheme which is neither outright amalgamation nor full independence.

* * *

In the twenties and thirties Toronto resisted moves to annex suburban areas. Toronto was then the centre of industry and housing. It benefitted from industrial taxes to support its schools and services. If it annexed outlying areas Toronto taxpayers would be helping to pay for new schools, streets and services and to bring existing ones up to Toronto standards. Then Toronto preferred to let the surburbs look after themselves and pay their own bills.

* * *

This was short-sighted, as later events have shown. Now both industry and residents are moving out of Toronto proper, into the suburbs. They are leaving gaps in revenue-production. The suburbs are drawing the tax-paying home-owners and the factories on which they can levy. Yet Toronto is still saddled with very costly services, street maintenance and transportation. Four hundred thousand Torontonians earn their money in Greater Toronto and are not Toronto taxpayers; they come in from or work in the suburbs.

* * *

Under the plan now recommended by the Municipal Board after a year of study, the thirteen municipalities within Greater Toronto would set up a kind of umbrella government which would control most of their activities—fire and police being the chief exceptions. A metropolitan council would be created, consisting of four members from Toronto, four from the suburbs and a chairman to be named by the Ontario Government. The metropolitan commission would have exclusive control of water, education, assessment, sewage, transportation, highways, housing, parks, planning. Little power would be left to the separate units which apparently would continue to have their elected councils for purely local purposes. The metropolitan commission would set the tax rate and have exclusive right to issue debentures, for both general and local purposes.

* * *

The Municipal Board's proposal is a plan. It will not automatically become a reality. Special legislation will be required. Before this, a great deal of private and public discussion will be heard. The first Toronto response to the plan has been cautiously favourable. It has many areas for disagreement and fumbling, but on the whole it seems the most sensible proposal yet made to find a solution to the muddle in which sprawling Toronto now is, and one most likely of acceptance. In some respects it resembles London's way of managing its civic life, with a central London County Council and separate Boroughs within it—Westminster, the City and so on. We shall see what comes of the Toronto plan.

Loss Of An Empress

Ships have names and feminine personalities. It is not unnatural that they become characters, loved, laughed at or gossiped about. When they go to the scrap heap or the bottom of the sea, they are missed; when the life burns out of them, as with the Empress of Canada in the harbour of Liverpool yesterday, a personal dismay is felt by many tens of thousands who voyaged with her.

The Empress had grown respectable in a comfortable sort of way in the North Atlantic passenger service. Gone were her days as the drunken Duchess of Richmond pitching and tossing on her flat bottom. Somehow one did not throw the accusation at the old lady when she became dowager Empress of Canada—the name was changed after the war—even though she kept the same keel. Gone, too, were her days as troop-carries, disguised in service grey. The old lady was to wear her tiara proudly this summer, taking pilgrims to London to see the young Queen. But this crowning honour was denied her. She now lies a charred hulk in foul harbour water, her great days ended in a dishonorable fire.

Trade Winds Directed To President Eisenhower

Mr. L. B. Pearson has a habit of sounding off at unofficial places with so much force that there are healthy echoes in Washington and London and business places thereabout. We remember that his remarks about Canada not playing Little Sir Echo to Uncle Sam were delivered in a speech outside Parliament and had a salutary effect in Washington—judging from the minor rage of some Americans and the tut-tutting of some Canadian Conservatives. Last week Mr. Pearson "rapped" (in the rapt phrase of headlines) trade barriers, when he was speaking to the Dominion Marine Association and the Lake Carriers' Association at the inland Seigniory Club. It was a joint Canadian-American meeting, so his words will barge across the border.

Mr. Pearson stated a truism when he said that U.S. trade policies "will largely determine the economic well-being and political stability of all (democratic) countries." He repeated a Canadian offer to share in any measures to make international trade easier.

Canadians and their Government have been uneasy about American shut-out trade policies recently. The embargoes against Canadian meats and dairy products are an example. Canadian manufactured goods have a hard time getting across the border. And, more remotely, but of as intimate concern to Canada, have been tariff barriers in the guise of dumping laws and protection to American producers put up against European products. If European countries, Britain, for instance, cannot trade easily with the U.S. and sell their goods there, where will they get the dollars to buy Canadian goods? That, bluntly, is a chief reason why Canada wants American trade barriers lowered or removed. Canada fattens on trade; it is an essential part—a third—of her bread and butter.

Mr. Pearson's speech followed close on the heels of President Eisenhower's inauguration. It was undoubtedly a calculated timing. By airing these views forcefully now, before the new American Cabinet is fully composed and before its policies are laid down, Canada may hope to have a slight influence on the American trade program. During President Eisenhower's election campaign there were disturbing criticisms of the American role of good internationalist. "America-firsters" and isolationists had a pretty free fling and even President Eisenhower's electioneering gave them aid and comfort.

It would be crippling to Canada and to the rest of the western world, if the U.S. turned in on itself, and began to put up walls to keep the rest of the world out. However, the new President's inaugural address was reassuring.

"No free people," the President said, "can for long cling to any privilege or enjoy any safety in economic solitude. For all our material might, even we need markets in the world for the surpluses of our farms and of our factories. Equally, we need for these same farms and factories vitally needed materials and products from distant lands . . .

"Recognizing economic health as an indispensable basis of military strength and the free world's peace, we shall strive to foster everywhere, and to practise ourselves, policies that encourage productivity and profitable trade. For the impoverishment of any single people in the world means danger to the well-being of all other peoples."

In becoming President, Eisenhower has not forsworn his international name, his friendship and concern for the outer western world. Mr. Pearson's words have come at a good time, to inform, if it should need the information about Canada's attitude, the new Administration's international mind.

An Unobtrusive Good Work

We are impressed by the unobtrusive good work which is done by the Canadian Writers' Foundation, Incorporated, a body which has its modest being in Ottawa, but which works on a national scale. Its task is to secure gifts from interested people, and to distribute grants to Canadian writers who are in need, and have no other source of assistance. In many countries there is a government appropriation for this work, but in Canada it is done by private subscription.

A recent statement of subscriptions and disbursements has reached us, and we think it is impressive. Few of the subscriptions are large, and the total sum realized is not a great one; consequently the disbursements have had to be small, but we know that they have made a great difference in the lives of the recipients.

The writers of a nation make a special contribution to its growth and spirit. In Canada writers do not make large sums of money, even when they are fortunate and become well known. Some of them, therefore, find themselves in want which they cannot escape, and which they have no longer any means of alleviating. It is to these that the Canadian Writers' Foundation gives its attention. If any of our readers are interested in its work, and wish to contribute to its funds, we shall be glad to give them further information by private correspondence.

Bolivia's Tin Nationalized

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON

BOLIVIA is one of the most backward countries in the American hemisphere. Outside its few cities there are almost no paved roads, and railway communications are antiquated and inadequate, so that economic and social development is painfully slow. It has been further impeded by the fact that in a little over a century of independent existence Bolivia has averaged more than one revolution a year.

◇ ◇ ◇

YET THIS COUNTRY, the vast majority of whose inhabitants are illiterate Quechua—or Aymara— speaking Indians, has recently nationalized the tin mines on which the country's economy depends. The decision to take this hazardous step was taken by President Paz Estenssoro, who, as an economist, would have preferred to go more gradually, under pressure from his powerful and ambitious Minister of Mines, Juan Lechin.

◇ ◇ ◇

JUAN LECHIN holds a position among the Indian mineworkers comparable to that long held by Mr. John L. Lewis among the coalminers of the United States, but with an enormous advantage over the latter. Last year's revolution in Bolivia to reinstate the National Revolutionary Movement (which gained an electoral victory in 1951 but was prevented from taking office by a military putsch) has won largely by Indian mineworkers, fighting against the armed forces of the nation. The miners, and the citizens of La Paz (the seat of Government) were armed with dynamite and with fire-arms captured from the Army and others allegedly supplied by Peron's Argentina. These arms are still in their hands, and Juan Lechin has no hesitation in using them, or the threat of them, to force his wishes on the President. This was shown when the President authorized the La Paz newspaper "La Razon," owned by one of the "tin barons," to resume publication, and Juan Lechin's "workers' militia" forcibly prevented the paper from appearing.

◇ ◇ ◇

UNDER THESE CIRCUMSTANCES, the President, who had assured the Press and the mining companies that the nationalisation of the mines would be carried out over an extended period, was forced to reverse his stand and to take over the operation of the mines formerly owned by the three big companies, Patino, Hochschild and Aramayo, all partially foreign-owned although technically Bolivian companies. The reason given was that these companies sent all their profits abroad instead of reinvesting them in the country. This charge has a considerable basis in fact, but the ironical result of nationalisation has been that Aramayo, the company which did make use of its profits in Bolivia, has been the one to suffer most.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE BOLIVIAN GOVERNMENT has asked the foreign technicians employed by these companies to remain, but the great majority has declined the invitation, partly because they feel they may be in actual physical danger (though up to now the Indian miners have shown no personal animosity towards individual foreigners) and partly because they are afraid the Bolivian Government will not be in a position to pay their salaries. This leaves the Bolivian mining industry, like the oil industry in Persia with a serious shortage of trained staff. Bolivia does possess technicians, but she has too few of them; although she has enough mining engineers to keep up a reasonable rate of extraction, she is seriously short of metallurgists. Furthermore, the engineers have always had to act also as personnel or administrative officers, since in order to keep some control of the individualistically-inclined miners, the signature of a company officer must accompany every request for medical treatment, travelling facilities, credit at company stores, and so on. Thus the unfortunate Bolivian engineer, apart from now having to do three other men's work as well as his own, must also act in loco parentis to four times as many Indians.

◇ ◇ ◇

ONE FACTOR, nevertheless, gives rise to guarded long-term optimism. Bolivians, whether of Spanish or indigenous descent, show considerable aptitude for things mechanical. An example is the notable efficiency of the Bolivian national airline, Lloyd Aereo Boliviano, whose air-crews are entirely Bolivian (though the company makes use of some of the maintenance facilities of the North American Panagra airways). A British metallurgist recently returned from Bolivia expressed to me his admiration of the intelligent suggestions for improvements in efficiency put up to him by his Indian subordinates, though he admitted that the Indians in general, while utterly reliable in carrying out any routine operation once learnt, tended to become confused and baffled if switched to another job. That, of course, may well be a question of inadequate education rather than an innate national characteristic.

◇ ◇ ◇

A MORE SERIOUS PROBLEM the nationalised industry will have to face is the loss of the valuable contacts and agencies maintained by the three big companies in New York, Montreal, London, Brussels and elsewhere, services which must presumably be taken over by inexperienced consular officials. Another snag will certainly be the lack of co-operation (and that is putting it mildly) of "big business" interest in general and tin interests in particular.

◇ ◇ ◇

NEIGHBOURING CHILE, though a far more highly-advanced and stable country and not so dependent on the export of a single commodity, nevertheless faces a similar problem in contemplating the nationalisation of her copper mines. These are at present largely owned by United States firms, which, by virtue of agreements with the Chilean Government, are almost a law unto themselves. From the point of view of internal economy and efficiency, Chile would benefit from their nationalisation, but if this were carried out, the United States could make it very difficult for Chile to sell the copper abroad, and, as one Chilean remarked, "Our copper isn't like Argentine meat— we can't eat it; we have to sell it."

Chileans point out with some bitterness that when the United States companies allowed Chile to sell a percentage of her copper in Europe at a "world price" lower than that charged to the U. S., the companies then promptly undersold the Chileans in the same market— with Chilean copper. As a result, Chile is now, despite her Government's political convictions, looking for markets behind the Iron Curtain.

AFRAID OF THE PLUNGE

Letters To The Editor

GOSPEL FOR PETERBOROUGH.

Sir: I do think if Peterborough would read verse 31 to 36 found in the 10th chapter of St. Luke's gospel in our Bible, perhaps the next forlorn person coming their way would be given a penny and shelter not the jail or jail fare.

ELLEN CRAWFORD,
Lakefield.

GOOD NAME OF RESERVE ARMY.

Sir: Your editorial of Jan. 20th, "Colonel George's Double Pay" contains the statement that, "No great furore is likely to result."

Unfortunately for the good name of the Reserve Army, no doubt that is correct. The issue having no political significance, little kudos would accure at this stage when more weighty matters are at stake.

However, thinking people, particularly the ex-service types can draw conclusions, and certainly about the responsibility of all members for the amendment to the House of Commons Act.

The exposure shows the assidious attention to the regulations exemplified in this case by the M. P., cum Colonel. No doubt, all officers and other ranks in his regiment had similar claims to pay and allowances in excess of the maximum number of days provided by regulation for local and camp training.

May it be remarked, sir, that the press report in the same issue of your newspaper, indicates that no praise was accorded the training officer of this regiment by its O. C., when making his vindicatory speech in the House of Commons.

It can be imagined by those who know, what training problems were surmounted in New Brunswick while the O. C. attended to the interior economy of the regiment in Ottawa.

Yours sincerely,
G. M.

YEAR AFTER YEAR.

Sir: Through the medium of your columns a fourth interested rate-payer of Douro No. 1 would like to express a few new opinions. The first duty of School Area trustees, it seems to me, is to see that the various schools have qualified, experienced, successful teachers. There are not nearly enough such teachers to be gotten so some schools must naturally take the partially-trained and inexperienced ones. But why should it be the same schools year after year?

According to reports from the Normal schools most of the graduates are hired in April, hence an Area Board which starts to look for a teacher in June is likely to be out of luck.

Is it too much to ask the Board to act early?

Again, when advertisements have been inserted in several newspapers, and applications come in they should be answered at once. If applications haven't come in within a week of the first insertion they will not likely come at all, so the teachers who have applied should be contacted at once. If this is done there will not be suspicions of suppressed applications. If no meeting is held for several weeks naturally the teachers are hired elsewhere.

Almost all rural teachers have discipline problems under the modern system of no corporal punishment. A great many people feel the system is a failure. Meanwhile, it causes jaded nerves for the teachers and show-off, spoilt children in the schools.

Thanking you for space,
RATEPAYER (No. 4).

MORE ABOUT SCHOOL AREA 1, DOURO.

Sir: If "Another Interested Ratepayer" will again read my letter of Jan. 16, 1953, he or she will find that I asked no questions other than the two following "How can we expect them to cope with situations with which even experienced qualified teachers have difficulty?" I asked this question, because we, the ratepayers, were astounded to see a High School student hired in a school where strict discipline was definitely needed. I asked this second question, "Would a hospital board hire an unqualified nurse to save $200.00 or even $300.00 a year." (I used the word unqualified, I thought it sounded better than incompetent) because it was reported that to save $300.00, a High School student was hired in preference to an available qualified teacher. That indeed "Another Interested Ratepayer" is false economy and we do not need an authoritative source to supply the answers to these questions; a child could answer them correctly.

I am sorry if I erred in one of my statements "due to wrong information." Information right or wrong is so hard to get in our school area, so it was with deep satisfaction that I read the information that there were more than two applications from qualified teachers. The ratepayers were under the impression that the Board received but two. The fact that we were not entirely convinced really started this delightful controversy conducted through the courtesy of our good paper, The Peterborough Examiner.

I am very sorry our inspector's name was drawn into this controversy. We are all aware that he is justified in granting that High School students be permitted (and this only when qualified teachers are not available) to supply during this shortage of teachers; a shortage which, having reached the acute stage, makes such a concession imperative. I do know this highly respected gentleman trusted in the good judgement, honesty, common sense and discretion of our School Board to place those students properly. A trust which due to prejudice and family ties has been sadly betrayed in School Area No. 1 Douro. If our inspectors was consulted at all on the placing of High School students in this particular Area, I'm sure his advice has been totally disregarded.

I will not quote the third paragraph in "Another Interested Ratepayer's" letter. Such a paragraph is too low to merit a quotation.

If we must get personal I will say this, that with the exception of "Another Interested Ratepayer" and possibly one member of the School Board, who, I will hazard a guess, was not too far distant when that same letter was written; this community of ours is proud and happy to have as one of its members, a woman, who is a wonderful wife and mother and an excellent teacher as well. A woman who proved to us during a teaching year, that she can follow a career and look after a family more efficiently and successfully than most of us can do one of these jobs.

If you are honestly "Another Interested Ratepayer" then you must be a parent. As a parent, aren't you just a little ashamed of yourself on seeing your letter published? If you are not a parent then I could stretch a point, and say I understand your utter lack of good taste in composing such a paragraph. Parent or no, my message is to you, and I believe this message expresses the sentiments of our whole community, with the aforementioned exceptions. Ah! "Another Interested Ratepayer" how cheap can you get?

I quote from another part of "Another Interested Ratepayer" letter. "Unfortunately they had accepted other schools by the time their applications were acknowledged from the Area." Unfortunate indeed, but why the delay in our Area? I am sure "Another Interested ratepayer", by now you see your excuses in their true light. I have a suitable word for them, borrowed from my sons vocabulary and it is "lame-brained."

I do agree with "Another Interested Ratepayer" that teachers must have the co-operation of parents in order to have the proper discipline at school. Every teacher, authentic or not, has a right to demand this co-operation. It is an obligation that we the parents must never, never toss lightly to one side. I will add that guardians too have this very same obligation. "Another Interested Ratepayer" forgot to mention this.

To use a time worn asuage, " You can fool some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." Members of the School Board in School area No. 1 Douro for 1952-1953, would be wise to keep that little phrase ever fresh in their minds.

So many, many readers have said that they suspect one of our Board members is masquerading under the nom de plume, "Another Interested Ratepayer." Oh Horrors! a veritable wolf in lamb's clothing! If their suspicions be correct; when you unmask, dear Mr. Wolf, kindly tell the other members we would be happy to read their opinions, as you mentioned in your letter. Anytime! Anytime! Stick your necks out— the long suffering silent public will be ready with our verbal axes.

My sincere thanks to the Peterborough Examiner for printing so readily and honestly our humble opinions. Papers such as this do much to prevent our communities public systems from smacking too strongly of Stalin flavour.

Sincerely,
AN INTERESTED RATEPAYER.

SPEAKS FOR BUS DRIVERS.

Sir: I read a letter in your paper a little over a week ago of which seem to appear periodically giving the city bus drivers a ride and these letters the drivers are not allowed to answer though I can tell you if they could you would get some swell replies.

I was a bus driver for over 9 years and the company had to let me go as the Insurance Co. did not consider me a capable driver and would not insure me.

I had three accidents in 1952 of which I am sure were no fault of mine and the people who were involved in these accidents know this also, though I think they did receive money from the Insurance Co. that cost me my job.

I am now going to beef myself and maybe give a little satisfaction to the other bus drivers.

To start with a driver has four miles on each trip which he has twenty minutes to cover taking on and letting off passengers, selling tickets, making change and giving out transfers, he must also watch the road and other drivers of which I can say there are some dandies in Peterborough. I am sure over half of them have never read the Ontario traffic regulations; most of these drivers seem to think a bus driver just tries to be a smart guy; my advice to him is to stop and think how much time a bus driver has to spare in twenty minutes and that he is handling a vehicle weighing 11 ton without passengers.

Now myself I have only driven since 1919 and in this time I had 11 years tractor trailer driving on the highway and 3 years in the army as transport corporal and staff driver, and my 9 years bus driving in Peterborough.

The people of Peterborough could co-operate and give a little help to their driver, the lady passengers by getting their shopping done and home before the 5 o'clock factory rush starts, leaving more room for the factory worker trying to get home, and another help would be to read the sign in the front of the bus on fares and know if you have to pay for juniors and not thinking the driver a crab because he charges you. After all it is his job and he is paid for it.

Sincerely,
AN EX. BUS DRIVER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed. Then said they unto him. What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?

Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent. They said therefore unto him, What sign shewest thou then, that we may see, and believe thee? what dost thou work? Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven. For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world . . . He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him. As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: for he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever. (John 6: 27-33, 56,-58.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Hearken unto me, ye men of understanding: far be it from God, that he should do wickedness; and from the Almighty, that he should commit iniquity. For the work of a man shall he render unto him, and cause every man to find according to his ways . . . For his eyes are upon the ways of man, and he seeth all his goings.

There is no darkness, nor shadow of death, where the workers of iniquity may hide themselves. (Job 34: 10, 11, 12, 21, 22.)

A man was playing golf recently and he was having a hard time of it. He was new to the game and at the end of the first nine holes his score was already up over one hundred. As he trudged wearily to the tenth tee, he yelled for his lagging caddy to hurry up with the golf bag. After slicing his ball badly he had to yell again for the caddy to hurry with the clubs. As the small boy limped up to him the golfer exploded, his irritation with his score descending on the caddy like a cloud.

"You must be the worst caddy in the world," he exclaimed.

"Hardly," sneered the tired boy. "That would be too much of a coincidence!"

Motion-Picture Evidence Of Trafficking In Drugs

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP last year chased cigaret smugglers, got motion-picture evidence of illegal trafficking in narcotics and identified a missing woman after a survey of dental records.

These features of RCMP work are described in the annual report of the federal force under the heading "interesting cases." But the report, cut this year to about a third its normal size, contained no references to the work of police dogs, or of the force's marine and air sections or to the force's work in the northland.

Commissioner L. H. Nicholson said it was hoped to give more attention to these sections of the force in future reports.

The chase of the cigaret smugglers occurred near St. Nicholas Station, Que. Two cars were chased by Mounties, one overturned and another escaped. In the overturned vehicle police found 192,000 smuggled American cigarets. As a result of information gained by police subsequent seizures of cigarets totalling more than 500,000 were made, the second car was found and seized, and eight men were charged and convicted.

The drug case involved three men and a woman arrested at Winnipeg by the RCMP following a lengthy investigation of their activities. Two autos also were seized and a feature of the case was the introduction of motion pictures at the preliminary hearing "showing the movements of the accused at various times during the investigation including the actual deliveries."

All were convicted though the case went to the Supreme Court of Canada on a point of law.

The missing woman was Mrs. William Robert Brown of Galce Bay, N.S., who disappeared with her husband while on a trip in Nova Scotia in 1948. Their abandoned car was found on the outskirts of Stewiacke, N.S., but there was no evidence of foul play.

Two and a half years later the partly decomposed body of a woman was taken from the Shubenacadie river, about 11 miles from the point where the car had been located. Ordinary identification was impossible and the RCMP set about a survey of dental offices in Nova Scotia, finally locating a dentist who recognized his work and identified the body as that of Mrs. Brown.

No trace of Mr. Brown has been found to date.

Drew Criticizes Broadcast Text About Report

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, asked Commons Speaker Ross Macdonald and the government Monday to consider the text of a CBC broadcast made Sunday by Michael Barkway, Ottawa correspondent for The Financial Post.

Mr. Drew said he believes the broadcast, dealing with the controversial Currie report, "constitutes one of the most astouding breaches of the rights and privileges of members of this House."

He said Mr. Barkway had stated that the Currie report, dealing with irregularities in the armed forces was "so imprecise as to have been false."

PASSES JUDGMENT

"This man, over the government-owned system, is taking it upon himself to pass judgment in regard to something that is before honorable members of this House for decision," said Mr. Drew. "That is certainly an infringement of the right and duties of members of this House."

Speaker Macdonald said he would consider Mr. Drew's remarks.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said the government does not attempt to dictate to the CBC what will be broadcast. The best evidence of that was some of the things Mr. Drew himself had said in broadcasts.

Rita Hayworth Gets "No-Money" Divorce

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Screen star Rita Hayworth got a "no-money" working girl divorce Monday from the fabulously rich Moslem prince, Aly Khan.

Then the actress sped back to Hollywood to begin dance rehearsals for a new movie.

Appearing in court with the couple's three-year-old princess daughter, Yasmin, for whom Rita once had asked a $3,000,000 settlement from Aly, the actress swore she intended to make Nevada her home indefinitely.

"I have no comment whatsoever," she told reporters as she left District judge A. J. Maestretti's courtroom.

Rita and Aly were married in France in May, 1949, after he had pursued her halfway around the world while she still was the wife of Orson Wells.

Dr. W. T. Mustard, chairman of the medical advisory board of the chapter, said many persons who need treatment are not getting it simply because there is no record of them.

It is planned to earmark $9,500 to initiate the survey which will take at least three years. The survey will likely begin in Eastern Ontario.

Whetung, Lakefield public school representative.

Mr. McIlmoyle, 1952 chairman, expressed his appreciation of the co-operation given him by the members during his term of office. Miss Grace A. Yonge was reappointed secretary-treasurer.

It was decided that the board should join the Ontario Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association at a fee of $10.00.

A bylaw for borrowing the sum of $3,000, passed at a special meeting in December, was rescinded. Replacing it will be a bylaw enabling the board to borrow up to $25,000 for the payment of current operating costs, until the current year's taxes and legislative grants have been received. The money needed will be borrowed from the Royal Bank of Canada on the promissory note of the board, payable not later than December 31, 1953, and bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum.

The chairman and treasurer of the board were authorized to sign the said note.

Find Lubricating Oil Cause Of Trouble

LONDON (Reuters) — There's nothing haywire about the stratocruiser's engine, aviation experts here announced Monday night.

The "cramps" that grounded Britain's fleet of trans-Atlantic stratocruisers were caused by thinning down the lubricating oil too much.

U.S. and British mechanical wizards have been toiling day and night to solve the mysterious "seizing up" of engines that caused BOAC to ground its fleet of 10 60-seater luxury ships last week.

The airliners will be back on their regular runs in a few days, BOAC said.

Margarine, Dynamite Found In Parked Car

MONTREAL (CP)—Police Monday questioned a 46-year-old man whose parked car was found to contain margarine, dynamite and detonating caps.

Police said the car, which was seized, contained five 24-pound boxes of margarine, possession of which is banned in Quebec province, and four boxes of dynamite and eight detonating caps. The car was found outside a house on a north-end street.

City police, who investigated the parked car on a tip, turned the case over to provincial police, who seized the car and its contents.

Woman 81, Has Busy Life As Actress

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What is left for a woman who is widowed at 62?

"All I could look forward to was a life of dinner parties and teas," says Mrs. Gertrude Hoffman. "So I decided to be an actress."

That was almost 20 years ago. At 81, Mrs. Hoffman is still leading a busy life as a film actress.

For 38 years, she was happily married to Ralph Hoffman, a naturalist who was killed during an expedition to the Channel Islands off the California coast. Her three children had grown and left home, and she couldn't face an inactive life in Santa Barbara.

So Mrs. Hoffman came to Hollywood, only to face the heartbreak of most film newcomers.

MADE ROUNDS

"For nine months, I made the rounds of the studios," she said.

"I would get furious when a snip of a boy with his feet on a desk would say, 'nothing today, Gertrude,'"

Finally she landed a part in a film at RKO. From then on she earned a comfortable living with her portrayals of grande dames, although one of her most noted roles was a lifer in the prison film, "Caged."

At 81, Mrs. Hoffman has started a new career—TV. She has been playing a leading role in the Gale Storm—Charlie Farrell series, "My Little Margie."

In a recent chapter, she and Gale were crashing Hollywood. Mrs. Hoffman was dressed in a clown's outfit with a putty nose, and the pair had to race down a studio street and jump on a motor scooter.

"I find it stimulating to be active," said Mrs. Hoffman.

Tourist Outfitters Wearing New Caps

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Ontario tourist outfitters here for the 25th convention of the Northern Ontario Outfitters Association have given up wearing the distinctive coonskin caps they sported in other years, resident Len Hughes of North Bay told reporters why Monday.

"We were passing off a Kentucky creation of Daniel Boone's as Canadian," he confessed. "We wouldn't go on that way."

But so far they haven't been able to find anything considered 100-percent Canadian in the way of headgear. Some delegates are wearing Scottish tam-o-shanters while others favor fur caps.

Practically everyone, however, is wearing a plaid shirt.

When secretary-manager Ted Thrust of Chapleau showed up at a Sunday night meeting in a white shirt—"because it was Sunday," he said later—fellow delegates tore it off his back and snipped off his necktie.

Triple Links Edge Vics 4-3 In Kingston Stick To Second Place

KINGSTON—(Special)—Leading throughout, Doug Mortimer's junior Triple Links edged the Kingston Vics 4-3 in the Community Memorial Centre Monday night to keep pace in the running for a second-place playoff berth. Although the Vics were supported by 550 fans, the Kingston lads failed to come through as the IOOF took the lead 2-0 in the first, kept ahead 3-1 in the second and staved off a last-minute rally by the Vics in the third for the victory.

Wilson Reid, with two assists, led the playmakers in a duel marked by tight defensive strategy. Dick Cherry and Bob Vallier each had a goal and an assist, an achievement equalled by Coyle of the visitors. Eleven minor penalties were inflicted by Referee Louis Lecompte and six of them were allotted to the Links.

Play was fast from the start, but the defenders held the upper hand until Bud McDougall, aided by Jerry Frizzelle, hit the Kingston webbing at 6:40. Two minutes later Gary Kearns soloed for the second counter and Vics responded by rushing to the attack at every opportunity. The Links, however, met this challenge quicky and although Roger Wilson was penalized at the 10:54 mark and Frizzelle was banished 14 seconds before Wilson returned, Vics were turned back empty-handed during the remainder of the period.

CLOSE CHECKING

The close checking continued without a letup until at 9:58 in the second period Gord Coyle scored without assistance. The Links, rowever, were hard pressed from that point until the rest interval and were, perhaps, fortunate to escape with only one goal scored against them. MacNeil clicked at 17:11 after having attacked in conjunction with Cherry and Vallier. Penalties served by Ken Floyd and Pettitt did not greatly affect the fight trend of play.

The Links clung so tenaciously to their two-goal advantage that it wasn't until 17:11 that Cherry shot Vics back into the running. By a coincidence a MacNeil counter in the second period had also been racked up at the 17:11 mark. The cheering that followed Cherry's feat had hardly subsided, however, before Clare Ferguson, aided appropriately enough by Bill Twist and Coyle, shot the winning tally at 17:55.

Vics replied by applying heavy pressure, but it wasn't until 19:28 that Vallier, aided by Reid, got the final counter. Coach Max Jackson then replaced goalkeeper Bob Senior with an extra forward and during those last few exciting seconds Vics missed several promising chances to force a deadlock.

Six of the eleven penalties were crowded into that last period when the tension was a bit trying on the nerves. The offenders were Rea, Bob Senior, and Don Senior of the Vics, and Twist, Coyle, and Dick McCracken of the Links. Bob Senior's sentence was served by Les Ullman.

Central defeated Queen Elizabeth 6-3 in a senior school hockey game yesterday at Civic Arena. Dinsdale scored two and aided on one for the winners, while Grills had a goal and two assists. Gray had a goal and an assist, McInroy and Robbins a goal each, and Robinson and Sorrie an assist. For the losers, Tighe tallied twice, Lloyd scored one, while Lyons had two assists, and Whitnell one. Welsh, Tighe and Lymburner were best for the Queens; as Tetlock, Armstrong and Barclay showed up well for Central. Teams:

QE—Welsh, Whitnell, Hicks, Harrison, Lloyd, Lyons, Tighe, Lymburner, Perry, Taylor, McConkey.

Central—Sorrie, Simpson, McInroy, Gray, Tetlock, Biggs, Robbins, Lustic, Robinson, Dinsdale, Armstrong, Grills, Aulbrook, Barclay, Pollock, Menzies.

Referee, G. Murray.

YUKON ERIC, above, the mighty 274-pound Alaska lumberjack, will try to stop the rampaging victory charge of the Red Mask, the scarlet-clad mystery matman, in the main wrestling bout at the Brock Arena on Wednesday night. The Red Mask with the crunching step-over leg-lock specialty is a dangerous, powerful matman but he'll have to be more than that to withstand the onslaughts of the northerner with the massive 56-inch chest. Man Mountain Dean Jr., the 350-pound Tennessee titan, will meet Frank Taylor of Toledo, in the semi-final. The first bout will be Bill Stack against Don Beitleman, a newcomer.

WER'E READY, say Petes' Don Floyd, goalie Ray Harding, and defenceman Roy Armstrong, as they meet Kingston's McGregor coming around the Petes' net. Floyd, sliding along the ice, swept McGregor's pass-out aside and out of danger. The Petes at this point were outplaying and outscoring Kingston 4-0, but despite that healthy lead Jim Ellis' team went down to a 9-6 defeat in the crucial game. Harding, diving across (above), was given very little protection by his defence in the second and third periods.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Keene Holds Off Rally To Triumph

Playing good hockey throughout, Keene manged to weather a Warsaw rally in the third period Monday night for a 7-3 victory in the East Peterborough League.

Keene jumped to an early lead on goals by Colby, Kempt, Bethune in the first period, while Warsaw replied with a single by Evans. Burns and Brown tallied once each in the second period to send Keene up 5-1. Then in the third Warsaw's Patterson performed the hat-trick but to no avail, as Keene's Bethune and Davidson preserved the lead.

Lineups:

Keene — Goal, Mackness; defence, Kimball, Houle; centre, Whalen; wings, Davidson, Colby; alternates, Locke, Burns, Steenburgh, Kempt, Bethune, McFarlane, Brown, McCarthy.

Warsaw—Goal, Bill Payne; defence, Crowe, Darling; centre, Patterson; wings, Evans, Millen; alternates, G. Payne, Barrie, Fair, Watts, Clements, Hamilton, Boyle, Smith.

Jury Unable To Agree In Basketball Case

NEW YORK (AP)—The perjury trial of William Spivey, one-time all-America basketball great from the University of Kentucky, ended early today with the jury unable to agree whether he had a role in the big college sports scandal of two years ago.

The jury of eight men and four women, after deliberating more than 10½ hours, reported itself deadlocked and then was dismissed by Judge Saul S. Streit of general sessions court. The trial began Jan. 14.

While defence lawyers announced they would ask for dismissal of the indictment, there was no indication what district attorney Frank S. Hogan had in mind concerning a possible new trial.

Spivey, seven-foot centre who was the top scoring ace of the crack University of Kentucky team in 1950-51, issued a statement through his lawyers saying he was "disappointed" that the jury did not return a verdict, but was "satisfied" that a majority of the jurors were for acquittal.

It was learned that the panel had deadlocked at nine-to-three for acquittal.

Mooney To Assist Jockey Club Director

TORONTO (CP)—John J. Mooney of Toronto, well-known Canadian racing official, has been appointed assistant to managing director George C. Hendrie of the Ontario Jockey Club, it was announced today.

He now is assistant manager of Oaklawn Park, Hot Springs, Ark. He will assume his new duties about March 15. In the last year, the OJC has absorbed the Hamilton Jockey Club, the Niagara Racing Association, the Belleville Driving Association at Niagara Falls and the Thorncliffe Park Racing and Breeding Association.

Mooney comes from a family long identified with Canadian racing. His grandfather is James Heffering, horseman, breeder and president of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Associations until that organization was disbanded three years ago. His father is the celebrated J. D. Mooney, who rode Black Gold to victory for Howard Oots in the 1924 renewal of the Kentucky Derby.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Being humans we all make mistakes. Newspapers errors perhaps are more noticeable than those made by others— though the percentage of miscues in print is very small when one considers the vast number of words knocked off hurriedly each day to meet deadlines. But we make the odd mistake, and so do the printers and proof-readers. The other day we had a district story of a hockey game played before 300 fans. It came out in the paper as 30 fans— which makes quite a difference, eh? One time we wrote something about running over the bridge, but somewhere alone the line the "g" was left out of the word. And so it goes. You can't seem to win.

A London, Ont., writer recently remarked on a sad typographical error. In an account of a soldier back from war, he was described as a "bottle-scarred veteran." Naturally he demanded a correction, so the revised phrase came out this way: "A battle-scared veteran." We suppose he gave up then and returned to the front where it seemed comparatively safer. But everyone makes his share of bobbles. One we notice frequently is the fact that so many folks writing letters to the paper, attacking someone, fail to sign their names, despite repeated warnings that such missives won't be published. Had one the other day from "Norwood and Hastings' hockey fans." It wasn't signed, so just couldn't publish it.

Oshawa In The I-C?

* * * * * *

An item from the St. Thomas paper says Oshawa's chances of getting into the Intercounty Baseball League this year are pretty good. It'll be decided early next month. John Harris has been trying for years to get his import-packed Motor City team into this classy senior (really a minor pro setup) circuit. Strongest opposition last year came from London and St. Thomas over the long hikes. This may be overcome by playing double-headers to cut down on trips. Niagara Falls haven't applied again to the I-C loop. We had hopes that Oshawa might return to the COBL, but that seems out at the moment. Secretary Jack McNamara says the Petes will hold an early re-organization ball meeting to see what's what.

Official opening of the new Apsley rink, called the Apsley Community Centre, is slated for this coming Saturday night. Premier Leslie Frost is expected to do the honours, assisted by Warden Ernie Leeson and the reeve of Burleigh-Anstruther, Norm Wilson. Lo, a large crowd of folks from the northern area will be on hand. The village has an entry this year in the good East Peterborough Hockey League, which also embraces Warsaw, Keene and Hiawatha. We've often visited Apsley, a thriving spot some 40 miles due north of here, and found a fine community spirit there. The new arena was built largely through that attitude with timber and labor donated. It is a place of which Apsley and district folk may well be proud.

Simply Faded Away.

Golly, that was hard to take last even at Civic. Sporting a 4-0 lead till late in the first period, the Petes faded right away and the scrappy Kingston crew came on to capture a 9-6 senior "B" hockey win. Hard to put the finger on what happened, but Coach Jim Ellis figured the players just weren't tearing in and back fast enough against a good, opportunist outfit. Actually, the Petes should have had two or three more goals in the first period and one or two more in the second— but close doesn't count. Kingston got 'em and our side didn't. The Petes tried hard enough but couldn't seem to click the last half of a fast, clean tilt. Kingston got rolling like well-oiled machinery and made few mistakes the last half. That was it.

* * * * * *

They didn't have Walt Gerow, but tricky little Ken Partis proved a skating Solomon, wise in the ways of parking the burnt biscuit in the oven. He scored three and aided on four more for a big night. George McGregor wasn't far behind. That loss leaves the local squad two and a half games back of Belleville and three and a half behind Kingston. Schedule ends in less than four weeks, so the Petes' chances of latching onto a playoff berth are dwindling day by day. They have a toughie in Belleville on Friday, and had better not drop that one. After that, they have Belleville here twice and Kingston once, each. So time is rapidly running out for them.

Have Better Team

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts, Grey Cup champions last season, will be an "improved" football team, coach Frank Clair said Monday night.

Hastings Dumps Lakefield 11-6

Building up a two-goal lead in the first period and never relinquishing it, Hastings, coached by Ned Vitarelli, handed Lakefield an 11-6 defeat in a TVL game in Lakefield Monday night.

Lakefield jumped to a 3-0 lead on goals by Knox, Fawcett and Birch. Vitarelli and Bell made the score 3-2, then Lakefield went up to four on Fawcett's second tally. Then Hastings took over, Stevenson making it 4-3 at the 17-minute mark, D. West tying the score four-all at the 19-minute mark and then Hastings took the lead with two quick goals by J. Cupoli and G. Fennell in the last minute.

That last-minute surge in the first quarter by Hastings was carried over into the second period. Vitarelli, Cupoli and West rapped in three while Lakefield's reply was a goal by Cam Wasson.

The teams went through the paces in the third with Hastings well out in front. Meanwhile, Cupoli and Bell added to Hastings' score. Again Lakefield was held to one goal by Tom Birch.

Kingston Beats The Petes In 9-6 Senior "B" Fray With Partis In On Seven

Spotting the Petes an early 4-0 lead, Kingston Goodyears battled back here last night to emerge victorious by a 9-6 score over the Petes before more than a thousand fans in a fast, clean OHA senior "B" fray. The Petes led 4-1 in the first period but it was 5-all going into the third, and the K's had a margin on play then to earn the decision as the locals faded during the last half of the game. The win hoisted Kingston into undisputed possession of third place and left the Petes in the cellar, with their chances of making a playoff berth dwindling. They play in Belleville on Friday. Doug Hunter was not in the lineup, sitting out an auotomatic suspension for a match penalty in the previous game.

A CLEAN GAME

It was a speedy, quite clean contest before a fair-sized crowd. The Petes drew four of the six minor penalties passed out by Referee Maurice Walsh, of Toronto. The Ellis squad looked much superior in the first period and might well have scored two or three more goals. However, the Goodyears battled back hard and clicked well on passing plays in the second stanza to sew it up. They were again superior in the third, two quickies by their second line settling matters with less than five minutes to go.

Tricky Ken Partis had a big night for the visitors to score three goals and assist on four more. He was dynamite in the last two heats. Linemate George McGregor was hot, too, as he rifled one home and helped on four others. Jack White hit the mark twice, singleton going to Ted Nicholson, Joe Watts and Don Murray. Jack McKeown chalked up two assists, while White and Murray had one each. They played good fast positional hockey and checked well, besides getting first-class goaltending.

Chum Fryia was leading lamplighter for the losers with two tallies, one a smart solo effort. Freddy Mortimer, Gus Leonard, Toodie Greenlaw and Bert Hill scored one each. Leonard and Keith Montgomery had two assists each, Collins and Greenlaw getting one apiece. While all the Petes looked good for the first half of the game, none of them showed up too well in the latter stages as they faded before the visitors ' hustle. Ray Harding hadn't too much help on most of the winners' markers.

Each period opened with a fast goal in less than a minute, and then the sides settled down to fast, hard but clean hockey. A penalty to McGregor for hooking in the first frame cost Kingston two goals. Good checking by the Hill line held the K's out when Armstrong and then Wasson drew penalties early in the second. Montgomery's high-sticking sentence in the third cost the Petes a goal. Bert Hill got a picture goal in this frame when he checked a man, recovered and blasted the rubber home. Teams:

Kingston: Goal, Johnston; defence, Stewart and Nicholson; centre, Murray; wings, McKeown and Tinkess, alternates, Partis, White, McGregor, Bender, MacKeigan, Watts and Londry.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Montgomery and Armstrong; centre, Leonard; wings, Fryia and Greenlaw; alternates, Collins, Floyd, Mortimer, Hill, Crowley, Mason, Legrow and Wasson.

Referee, M. Walsh; linesman, E. Woodcock.

Summary

First Period

Petes—Fryia (Leonard) ..... :32

ONE-MAN GANG — Kenny Partis, tricky Kingston forward, proved a one-man gang in leading the K's to a 9-6 senior "B" puck win over the Petes here last night. Partis scored three goals and helped on four more in a fine effort for the visitors.

Chick Chalmers Back In Hospital

UELPH (CP)—Chick Chalmers, Guelph Biltmore forward, is back in hospital again with a head injury suffered when he hit the boards in a recent practice.

Loss of Chalmers was the latest blow to the injury-ridden Biltmores, currently fighting a losing battle for a playoff spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Chalmers, who had just returned to action after convalescing from a skull fracture last December, apparently aggravated the injury and was taken to hospital in a semi-conscious condition.

Also in hospital is forward George Whyte, who suffered an eye injury when struck by a puck in a game last Friday against Toronto Marlboros.

In a neighboring bed is goaltender Doug Lessor, recovering from an appendectomy.

Recovering from a broken wrist is Ron Murphy, the Bilts' leading point-maker until his injury two weeks ago.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Painting, music and theatrical art, particularly the first two, would seem to be a far cry from the rough-and-tumble hurly-burly of hockey. And in a sense, the gulf between them is as wide as the Grand Canyon. Yet, all four are, in a sense, tied up in a package.

Mostly, when sports scribes take their typewriters in hand to deal with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, they dig deeply into the book of synonyms to find a variety of terms that will embrace acid criticism, and biting sarcasm, directed at the C.A.H.A. and its methods. Strangely, it's seldom that any good word is spoken for this body, possibly because the "A" in the title standing for Amateur has become something of a byword, the amateurs remaining in hockey, beyond school age, being as rare as the dodo bird.

But the C.A.H.A. is quietly doing a first-rate job for struggling young Canadians in a field quite apart from hockey. This is in the form of C.A.H.A. scholarships, promoted by the Canada Foundation, and awarded annually since 1949 to provide advanced study abroad for young Canadian painters, composers and theatre students. Competition for the awards is on a national basis, and this year seventy-five applications were received from students in eight of the provinces. Since the beginning of the awards thirteen scholars have been aided in their studies in England, Scotland, France, Italy and the United States.

It is something of a coincidence that, in the present year, one of the winners was an athlete of note, who mixes long-distance running with musical ambitions. This is Paul Collins, who received his basic musical training at Nova Scotia's Acadia University and followed this with advanced study in musical composition at the Julliard School of Music, New York and Yale University. He has earned his education mainly by working at odd jobs and through several scholarships.

Collins is well known in sport circles, having been a member of Canada's marathon team at the 1952 Olympics in Helskini and at the British Empire Games in New Zealand in 1950. The C.A.H.A. scholarship to assist the financing of advanced studies at the faculty of music in Edinburgh University will apply to Collins, rated by many expert observers as the best long-distance runner in Canada today. Perhaps he is the only athlete who combined sport and musical ambitions who ever made an Olympic team from Canada.

As a continuing indication of its interest in well balanced Canadian citizenship, the C.A.H.A. has authorized a renewal of its scholarship assistance to advanced students of drama, painting and musical composition. Scholarships ranging in value from $500 to $2,000, with an aggregate value of $4,000, are offered. And so, out of the winter-long battling on the ice rinks from coast to coast, come the funds to aid annually, four young Canadians whose ambitions are far removed from sport in any of its varied forms.

Sullivan Keeps Near Top In AHL Scoring

NEW YORK (AP)—Lorne Ferguson of Hershey maintained his scoring leadership in the American Hockey League today.

He took over the top spot a week ago by a single point and built his lead to four points this week with a total of 17 goals and 33 assists worth 50 points.

George Sullivan, a Hershey teammate who was pushing Ferguson for the lead, moved up to Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League but still held a share of second position in the AHL race with 46 points. He was joined at that figure by Ike Hildebrand of Cleveland.

Hildebrand stayed on top in the goal-getting department with 26, an increase of one for the week.

Sullivan's 36 assists were high with Ferguson second at 33.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh still led the goalies with an average of 2.46. He has given up 101 goals in 41 games while scoring two shutouts. The sensation of the league, however, is Jacques Plante, Buffalo newcomer who has yielded only 17 goals in his first nine games. Plante has not played in enough games to count among the leaders.

2 Tennis Stars See Future At Stake

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Sedgman and Jack Kramer said Monday their futures as top-drawing professional tennis stars are at stake in their series of North American tennis matches.

They told reporters that as the top stars of the present tour neither can afford to end up the loser since the winner becomes the top attraction of the next tour while the loser either has to revert to a secondary role or bow out as a touring pro.

Kramer, promotor of the present tour which also includes Australia's Ken McGregor and Pancho Segura of Ecuador said the public won't come to see the same stars in a second tour even if the first series of matches are close.

"The winner can go on to make thousands of dollars in another tour against the newest amateur star who turns pro," said Kramer. "That is why both Sedgman and myself tried to beat each other every time we play. Each of us wants to be the winner at the end."

Maple Leafs Have 7 Men Eligible For Rookie Award

MONTREAL—(CP) — Montreal Canadiens are the only National Hockey League team this season without a candidate for the Calder Memorial Trophy. A list released today by the NHL shows Toronto Maple Leafs with seven eligible — more than any other club — for the rookie award, which goes annually to the player selected by a panel of 18 hockey writers and broadcasters as the "most proficient in his first year of competition." A $1,000 NHL bonus goes with the trophy.

New York Rangers are next with five candidates, Boston Bruins have four, Detroit Red Wings three and Chicago Black Hawks one.

Toronto players have won the cup four times—more than anyone else—since it was first presented in 1943 in memory of Frank Calder, late NHL president. Gaye Stewart took it the first season, Gus Bodnar in 1943-44, goalie Frank McCool in 1944-45 and Howie Meeker in 1946-47.

New York, through Edgar Laprade in 1945-46 and Pentti Lund in 1948-49, has taken it twice. Jim McFadden carried it off for Detroit in 1947-48 and goalie Terry Sawchuk in 1950-51. Another goalie, Jack Gelineau, won the trophy for Boston in 1949-50.

GEOFFRION WINNER

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, the only Montreal player to win the cup, took it last season.

Basic rules governing the eligibility of new players as candidates are:

1. No candidate shall have played in more than 20 regular NHL games in any previous season.
2. Try-outs of three games or less in any season or seasons whether as a professional or amateur are ignored.
3. Playoff participation is not counted for any purpose.
4. Participation in more than three NHL games in two or more seasons disqualifies the candidate.

The eligibles:

New York—Lorne Worsley, Harry Howell, Dean Prentice, Neil Strain, Aldo Guidolin.

Toronto—George Armstrong, Gordon Hannigan, Ron Stewart, Bob Hassard, Leo Boivin, Tim Horton, Eric Nesterenko.

Boston—Jerry Toppazzini, Bob Armstrong, Warren Godfrey, Leo Labine.

Detroit—Jim Hay, Marcel Bonin, Lou Jankowski.

Chicago—Pete Conacher

Maroons Blank Weary Tabbies In 6-0 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons moved two points closer to a playoff berth in the ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Monday night, with the luckless Hamilton Tigers providing the impetus.

The tired Tabbies, who have won only one game this season, dropped two points farther into the cellar. The victory moved Chatham to within two points of fifth-place Sarnia.

Joe Carveth led Chatham's attack with two goals and two assists. George Edwards scored twice and Ed Didone and Bill Cupolo tallied the other two.

In addition to his shutout, Maroon goalie Dick Piatowski earned himself a penalty for slashing.

OVERTIME WIN

In the Northern Ontario Senior A southern group, North Bay Trappers scored a 5-4 overtime win against Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds to move within two points of the second-place Greyhounds.

Don Hogan scored the overtime goal—his third of the night—and George Gosselin got the other two. Lorne Watters scored three for the Hounds and Terry Biecchi fired the other.

Ken Watson's Curling

WANT TO BE A CHAMPION?

Gary Thode and his rink from Saskatoon Technical Collegiate didn't win two consecutive Canadian School curling championships by mere luck. They were specially coached and trained to do just that.

A chance conversation last spring in Montreal with Mr. Ken Moir, a teacher, and the Thode rink mentor at the same school illustrated this fact vividly. From the many boys at his school who wanted to join his special curling class, he selected those who:

(1) Had good muscular co-ordination.

(2) Were at least 75% in their school marks.

(3) Were willing to sacrifice all other sports during the winter season.

(4) Did not smoke or wanted to curl badly enough to give up smoking.

(5) Had no girl friends demanding attention during weekly practice sessions.

(6) Would arrange their study hours so that they would not clash when ice was available for practice.

(7) Were not noisy or boisterous by nature. (Ken Moir claims the noisy youth wilts when real pressure is on in a close game).

Examine the qualities above and you will find perquisites for success in any field of endeavour — intelligence, physical wellbeing, self-discipline, self-sacrifice, concentration, determination, inner self-confidence.

Quite demanding as a coach, is Moir, but look at his results — so muc hsuccess that his boys won major trophies at the Saskatoon bonspiel and scared the living daylights out of the rinks they played against in the final round-robin of the Nipawin automobile bonspiel. Think it over, fellows! You can achieve anything if you want it badly enough.

Bob Solinger Sets Sizzling Scoring Pace

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bob Solinger, a failure in two previous big-league hockey tries, appears a shoo-in for another chance if he keeps up his sensational current pace.

Solinger, left-winger for the Calder Cup champion Pittsburgh Hornets, is the hottest stickman in the American Hockey League. In the last four games, he's scored nine goals and six assists, twice pulling the hat-trick and another time tallying twice.

The 26-year-old forward's scoring splurge has helped lift the Hornets from third place to the top of the league by a single point over Cleveland Barons.

BEST LEFT WING

Coach King Clancy calls Solinger the best left wing in the AHL. "He's a natural," says Clancy. "Wish we had five more like him."

Solinger broke into big-league hockey with Toronto Maple Leafs in the 1951-52 season. He didn't see much action and last month the 180-pound ace was told to report to the Hornets. His heart sagged and he was ready to throw in the sponge. Hadn't a doctor once told him to give up hockey?

A flying puck during a scrimmage in 1942 hit him in the left eye, blinding him for a couple of months. His physician told him a hard check might force the eye out of the socket if he continued to play. It still isn't in proper focus.

But Solinger made up his mind he'd give it another whirl and the results speak for themselves. Since his return to the Hornets, he's scored 16 goals and 14 assists in 19 games.

"Being shipped back to the Hornets was a big blow," says Solinger. "Everybody wants to be on top. Maybe I'll get another chance. Anyway I want to play hockey and that's what I'm doing. In Toronto all I did was warm the bench."

Curious Folk Watch Davey

CHICAGO (AP)—The curious gathered in the upper cocktail lounge at Tam O'Shanter Country Club at 1 p.m.

An hour later, when welterweight Chuck Davey appeared for his sparring session, there were 75 or 100 men, women and children seated at the ringside.

The adults, a few sipping highballs, were parked in chairs that had been arranged in rows, facing the ring as if it were a stage. The numerous children roamed around.

This was the scene when Davey and his entourage entered.

Meanwhile, a noise on a public address system announced that the man in the ring was "undefeated Chuck Davey who is in training to meet welterweight champion Kid Gavilan in Chicago Stadium Feb. 11. . . There will be no smoking. . . The usual Sunday movies for children will be shown in the lounge at 3 p.m. following Davey's workouts."

Davey looked sharp and fast in seven rounds against three sparring partners.

Held By Red Agents

VIENNA (AP) — Police said Monday night an Austrian fashion expert was caught by Soviet agents in the Russian-occupied town of Moedling on Vienna's outskirts Saturday. The victim was identified as Anselm Jakob Grant, 40, professor at a Vienna fashion school. He was reported to be a friend of Gustav Grimm, wartime resistance leader who was arrested by the Russians in Vienna last June.

Red Wings Slide Alarmingly In Last Lap Play

MONTREAL—(CP)—With the National Hockey League race just about at the two-thirds mark, the pace-setting Detroit Red Wings are showing alarming signs of moulting. They salvaged only a tie in three games last week, worst performance of any team in the league. The biggest shock for the watchers in Detroit's Olympia Stadium came when the Red Wings were ruffled 8-2 by New York Rangers. Montreal Canadiens profited most during the week. In four games they had two wins and a tie and sliced Detroit's lead to a single point.

Whatever the team malady, the Red Wings weren't all affected individually. The league's official statistics, released today, show that Detroit's Gordie Howe added two goals and two assists to bring his point-scoring total to 57, 12 more than Wally Hergesheimer of New York Rangers and tops in the league. The gap was only nine points last week, but Hergy is still in second place with 45.

Howe has 31 goals compared to Hergesheimer's 21, next best. Howe's 26 assists are only one behind the league-leading 27 piled up by his teammate, Alex Delvecchio.

THIRD PLACE

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Canadiens picked up four goals during the week and moved into a third-place tie with Detroit's Ted Lindsay, who scored two goals. Each has 44 points.

Paul Ronty of Rangers and Metro Prystai of Detroit continue to hold fifth and sixth places, although Prystai went pointless and has 35 to 39 for Ronty, who added three points during the week.

Delvecchio, with 34 points, went into seventh place.

Four assists for Bert Olmstead of Canadiens lifted him from a 10th-place tie to a tie for eighth with Toronto's injured Ted Kennedy, each with 31 points.

Two Chicago players, Gerry Couture and Jimmy McFadden, came bounding up from an 18th place tie to join the top 10. They are tied for 10th spot, at 29 points, with teammate George Gee. Couture, a Montreal cast-off, collected four goals and one assist and McFadden three goals and two assists.

The goalies' standings were practically unchanged. Detroit's Terry Sawchuck had 2.09, still the best goals-against mark, but a week ago it was 1.92.

LOST GROUND

Jerry McNeil had a chance to take over from Sawchuck but lost ground when Chicago beat Canadiens 5-1. McNeil's average is 2.15—against 2.14 a week ago—and he leads the league in shutouts with seven.

Averages of the other goalies were improved, except that of Al Rollins of Chicago whose mark is unchanged at 2.66. Harry Lumley of the Leafs has a 2.49 average; Jim Henry of Boston 2.51 and Lorne Worsley of Rangers, who has played more games than Chuck Rayner and takes over the billing, has 3.18.

Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings is still the most penalized player in the league. Ted has served 94 minutes, more than a game and a half. Toronto is the most penalized club with 587 minutes.

Fourth Line, Millbrook Win In Bush League

MILLBROOK (ENS) — Bethany tried all the way in their Friday night Bush League engagement with Fourth Line, but faded before the sustained speed of the Cavanites who staged an 11-3 scoring spree. Walling, McDowell and Allen Hutchison clicked for 10 goals on a 4-4-2 split, with Fallis picking up the odd one on an assist from Friar. Brown for Bethany got one in the first period to keep things even for the initial 20 minutes, and Sinclair and Burn added one each in the later periods.

The teams:

Bethany — Goal, Jackson; defence, Burn, Edmonds; forwards, Gillis, Brown, Pomeroy; alternates, Sinclair, McGill, Sarginson, Fallis.

Fourth Line — Goal, Hubbeard; defence, Thompson, E. Hutchison; forwards, A. Hutchison, McDowell, Walling; alternates, Kennedy, Olan, Friar, Greenly, Fallis.

Referees—Wood, Jewison.

In the second go, Millbrook chalked up a 6-4 win at the expense of Bailieboro. Despite the fact that the mercury was climbing and the ice fading fast away, the teams staged a rugged, fast-stepping affray. Things got under way with a bang when Cook scored after six seconds of play, and Lunn, with Ginn, slammed home the equalizer from the next face-off. Lowery teamed up with G. Smith in a neat scoring effort and Kinsmen bagged one. Sidey cut the margin with some help from Cook and Carruthers and minutes later Ginn put Millbrook two up. Halligan finished the first period scoring when he drilled one past "Crew-cut" Smith. In the second Lunn from Wright opened the scoring and Carruthers kept Bailieboro in the hunt with an unassisted counter. Smith and Lowery, both playing greatly improved hockey, teamed up for another Millbrook marker.

The teams:

Bailieboro — Goal, Johnston; defence, Jewison, Hogg; forwards, Sidey, Cook, Carruthers; alternates, Halstead, Clement, Halligan, Gray, Harris.

Millbrook — Goal, Smith; defence, Edmonds Ague; forwards, Wright, Lunn, Ginn; alternates, Olan, Palmer, Smith, Powell, Kent, Lowery, Guthrie, Kinsman.

Referees—McDowell, Walling.

TOO MUCH TRAVEL

CHICAGO (CP)—Bill Tobin, general manager of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, says the Hawks have to travel too far and too fast.

Tobin says he plans to complain to NHL officials about a schedule that requires the Hawks to play in Montreal on a Saturday night and in Chicago on Sunday. It took the Hawks 12 hours to make the trip last weekend, starting only a few minutes after their game with Montreal Canadiens.

"We leave Montreal at 11 p.m., arrive in Toronto at 6:30 a.m., fly out of there at 7:15 a.m. and arrive in Chicago at 11 a.m.," Tobin said Monday.

St. Peter's Seniors, Juniors Both Win Cage Fixtures Over Pt. Perry Quintets

For the second time within a week, St. Peter's High junior and senior basketball quintettes Monday night handed Port Perry High a double setback, this time in Port Perry. Coach Johnny Lynch's senior Saints edged the Ports 58-52 while the junior Saints slipped past the Port lads 36-27.

Ab Ryan took over scoring duties on the small court from Doug Galvin and enabled the Saints to hold a 12-10 score at the end of the first quarter. Then the seniors surged ahead for the game lead in the second quarter on points by Fred Legros and Ryan, for a half-time score of 32-19.

L. Dobbinson, Lawrence and Warner paced the Ports for a comeback in the third quarter as they edged up slowly to within six points of the Saints, 41-35 at three-quarters. Galvin, with four field baskets in the fourth, plus points by Jack Richardson and Ryan, preserved the Saints' lead for the victory.

SANK 23 POINTS

Ryan edged the Port's Lawrence for scoring honors by two points, sinking 23. Legros and Galvin for the Saints, and Dobbinson, for the Ports, each had 13.

The junior Saints relied upon a strong first half and a fourth quarter drive to edge past the junior Port quintet.

Dave Quinlan led the Saints with 11 points in the first quarter as the Saints surged ahead 14-5. The Ports' Lawrence drapped in three baskets in the second to bring them closer at the half 18-13, but again Quinlan managed to score enough to keep the Saints ahead.

Killen, Finn and Board maintained the Saints' lead in the third quarter as the Saints were kept closely checked. Again the Ports managed to outscore the Saints but they couldn't overcome that slight lead.

Then in the ourth Killen and Quinlan combined to crush any Port hope of victory as they scored 10 between them.

Quinlan's 21 points was the game's high while Port Perry's best was Lawrence with 16.

Lineups:

3 Witnesses Fail To Identify Walter Pavlukoff

VANCOUVER (CP) — Walter Pavlukoff Monday was committed for trial on a charge of murdering bank manager Sydney Petrie five years ago.

At a preliminary hearing in police court, Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson ruled there was sufficient evidence to commit the 39-year-old man to trial in the spring assizes.

Earlier three witnesses failed to identify Pavlukoff as Petrie's slayer.

However, Mrs. Ivan MacGregor, a customer in the bank at the time of the shooting, said Pavlukoff was the gunman. She is the wife of a city detective.

Bank clerk Patricia Knight and customer John H. Stewart said they did not recognize Pavlukoff. Cashier R. E. Sowden said the accused "resembled" the gunman.

They appeared at the preliminary hearing of Pavlukoff, charged with killing Petrie in a Bank of Commerce branch here in August, 1947.

Pavlukoff was captured in a Toronto suburb earlier this month after a five-year search.

TRAVELLED BY FREIGHT

Detective Arthur Stewart, who escorted him here to face trial, testified that Pavlukoff told him he had crossed the country clad only in a shirt, trousers and rubber boots.

"He told me he had taken a freight to . . . Calgary," Stewart said. "He told me he crossed the Prairies to a point in a pulp logging neighborhood in Ontario."

Stewart said Pavlukoff had told him that he had worked from time to time at logging camps and sawmills in Ontario.

Mayors Associ. Seek Action

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Letters seeking action on previous requests for financial assistance for municipalities have been sent to Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost by the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves, it was announced Monday.

Reeve Barry E. Atkinson of nearby Sandwich East, president of the association, said the letters were mailed Monday. Previous letters were sent to the Prime Minister and to Mr. Frost last November.

The latest letter to Mr. St. Laurent asked what action the government had taken on the earlier requests.

DISCUSS TAX LEVY

In November the association asked the government to give municipalities the right to levy taxes on all federal and provincial properties and asked the federal and provincial governments to assume costs of welfare services.

The letter to Mr. Frost asked the province to make additional annual grants to municipalities to help defray costs of social and welfare services.

TV For Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plans for an immediate start on a $1,000,000 television studio and transmitter in the Vancouver area were announced Monday by the CBC. Kenneth Cable, CBC regional director, said he hopes the first television broadcast will be beamed out sometime this year.

24 Cars On Freight Derailed In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) —Twenty-four cars of a 40-car westbound Canadian National Railways freight train were derailed near Albreda, B.C., 87 miles west of Jasper, the CNR said here Monday.

Earlier in the day three cars of a CNR freight were buried under a 75-foot-deep mud and rock slide 19 miles north of Boston Bar, B.C.

No one was injured in either accident.

Laurier Protege Senator David Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Senator Louis Athanase David, 70, a leading figure in Quebec politics for more than 20 years and a member of the Senate since 1940, died in hospital here Monday.

Exact cause of death was not known.

A Liberal, he was a protege of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, one-time prime minister.

Born in Montreal, he was the son of Senator Laurent Olivier David, a life-long friend of Sir Wilfrid.

Called to the bar in 1905, he was created a King's counsel 10 years later.

ELECTED IN 1916

Senator David was first elected to the Quebec Legislature in the general election of 1916. He was re-elected five times before he retired in 1936, several months before the administration of Premier L. A. Taschereau, re-organized under Adelard Godbout, was soundly defeated by the Union Nationale party under Maurice Duplessis.

He ran again and was elected in 1939 and was appointed to the Senate in 1940. He also served for some time as provincial secretary, a post he was appointed to in 1919 by the then premier, Sir Lomer Gouin.

PATRON OF ARTS

A patron of the arts, music devotee and accomplished writer, Senator David gave special attention to promotion of what he called the "intellectual capital" of French-speaking Canadians. He instituted the annual David prize for which English- and French-speaking writers competed for grants awarded by the provincial government.

He was largely instrumental in establishing rural health units throughout the province.

His death leaves 21 vacancies in the Senate. The Liberals now hold 73 seats in the 102-seat upper house and the Progressive Conservatives eight.

Smuggled Fur Coats Man Fined $200

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Peter Curran, 22, who told police he was a "female impersonator" at a local nightclub, was fined $200 Monday after he pleaded guilty to smuggling two fur coats across the international border from Detroit to Windsor.

He said the coat described as mink was not mink but muskrat and that he bought it in Detroit for $70. Police said a local furrier who examined the coat said it was mink and was valued at about $700.

Curran said he bought the other coat, a Persian lamb valued at $200, second-hand.

Curran said he needed the coats because he was building up a wardrobe for his act.

Declares Russ Subs Operating Near Korea

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—RCN Commander Richard M Steele, DSC, said Monday night submarines presumably built in Russian shipyards are known to be operating in Korean waters patrolled by United Nations ships.

Addressing the New Brunswick branch of the Naval Officers' Association of Canada, the 37-year-old naval commander said an estimated 40 or 50 submarines are lurking in east and west coast Korean waters, but so far they have held their fire.

Cmdr. Steele brought HMCS Nootka back to Canada last month after a year's duty in the Far East.

U.K. Works On Rockets

LONDON (AP)—Britain is going all out in successful development of guided rockets "travelling at several times the speed of sound," the House of Commons was told Monday. Supply Minister Duncan Sandys said work on guided rockets as both defensive and offensive weapons has been intensified and "further encouraging progress has been achieved."

Hydro Worker Killed

HAMILTON (CP)—A 23-year-old hydro lineman, Robert Weir, was electrocuted Monday when he touched a live wire carrying 4,000 volts while climbing a hydro pole on Parkdale avenue.

Rapist Gets 8 Years

SARNIA (CP)—George Robert Cox, 29, of Sarnia, was sentenced to eight years Monday on a charge of raping a 16-year-old district girl at nearby Woodrowe Beach last Sept. 3. He will appeal.

Octogenarian Gassed

TORONTO (CP)—Harry Perkins, 81, was suffocated by illuminating gas Monday in the kitchen of his home. Firemen said he died because he had no sense of smell and couldn't detect the gas escaping from a hot water heater.

Order Inquest In Freak Death Of Car Driver

EGANVILLE (CP)—An inquest was ordered Monday into the death of Azora Noel, 25, who bled to death early Sunday following a freak accident.

Noel escaped injury when a car in which he was riding rolled down an eight-foot embankment Saturday night. But as he climbed up the embankment, he slipped and fell back on the car where a main blood vessel was punctured in his wrist.

He was taken to a nearby farmhouse and his wrist was bandaged. He fell asleep on a couch and apparently bled to death during the night.

Level Crossing Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons gave first reading Monday to a bill to make it compulsory to eliminate level crossings from any new railway construction.

The measure was introduced by George Murray (L—Cariboo).

VAN FLEET'S SUCCESSOR—President Dwight Eisenhower confers with Lt.-Gen. Matthew D. Taylor, who has been named to succeed Gen. James Van Fleet as Eighth Army Commander in Korea. Gen. Taylor has been serving as the army's deputy chief of staff for operations and administration since August, 1951.

Played With Lombardo

NEW YORK (CP) — Francis Henry, 48, a native of London, Ont., formerly a member of Guy Lombardo's dance band, died Sunday in hospital. The song "Little Girl" was one of his early hits.

Red Found Suicide

MONTREAL (CP)—The death of Paul Eleniuk, 53-year-old Communist found hanged in his room Friday night, was suicide, a coroner's jury decided Monday.

Man Testifies At Trial About Beating

TORONTO (CP)—Dennis Cox, 28, knew something was amiss when he was pulled out of bed, kicked and beaten, he told a jury Monday at the manslaughter trial of Pietr Stankiewicz, 28.

The charge arose out of the death of Robert Beattie, 36, of Windsor after he was kicked and beaten in a Toronto rooming house last Aug. 28.

Cox testified that while he was being kicked, the lights went on and two policemen interrupted the beating he was getting from Stankiewicz and another man.

Cox then learned that Beattie had been taken to hospital.

He said he understood his assailants were complaining about the theft of a wallet during a drinking party earlier they all had attended.

The case is continuing.

Wed Four Years Ago Woman 98, Dies

BRUSHTON, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth McGee, 98, wed four years ago to a man aged 37, died Sunday.

Mrs. McGee, who had been ill for about a year, died at the tenant farm her husband operates near this village along the Canadian border.

They were married May 26, 1948, three months after Mrs. McGee's first husband died at 98. It was the first marriage for McGee.

Driver Convicted

TORONTO (CP)—George Thomas Miller, 19, of suburban Long Branch, was found guilty of manslaughter Monday. Police said he had been drinking when his car crashed into a wall at suburban Mimico Nov. 2, killing a passenger, Wayne Burmaster. He will be sentenced Feb. 6.

No Sign Of Typhus

OTTAWA (CP)—A cook employed by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., Ltd., at Thurso, Que., originally believed to be suffering from typhus, has been found to be suffering from food-poisoning, the company reported Monday.

Cafeteria Strike May Shut Aircraft Plant

TORONTO (CP)—A threatened strike by cafeteria workers at the Avro Aircraft plant at nearby Malton may close the entire plant.

The Hotel and Restaurant Employees (AFL) has asked for conciliation in its differences over union security with Commercial Caterers, who operate four cafeterias at the plant. There are more than 12,000 workers at Avro.

E. Schofield, international representative of the union, says the union is prepared to strike and picket the plant unless it receives the same type of union security as that enjoyed by plant workers, members of the International Machinists Union (AFL).

The threat of a shutdown lies in the possibility that members of the machinists union would respect the restaurant union's picket lines.

"OPERATION ALUMINUM"

KITIMAT ...half way

The first stage of the big aluminum development at Kitimat — 400 miles north of Vancouver — is moving ahead on schedule. KENNEY DAM is finished and water is rising in the 350-square-mile lake it is creating. The ten-mile TUNNEL, with a drop sixteen times that of Niagara Falls, is now driven about one-half of the way through the mountain toward the half-completed KEMANO POWER-HOUSE. Rock miners, working under a mile-high mountain, are carving out a cavern three city blocks long, preparing the way for the installation of three 150,000 h.p. generators. TRANSMISSION LINE work is well advanced; the fifty miles of right-of-way between Kemano and Kitimat has been cleared and many of the 250 towers erected. The SMELTER is steadily rising in the cleared forest site. Target date for the first pour of aluminum is spring, 1954. Operation Aluminum in British Columbia is on schedule!

PERIBONKA ...nearing completion

The new CHUTE DU DIABLE powerhouse on the Peribonka River, in the Saguenay district, is in full operation. Its five 55,000 h.p. generators are now feeding power to Alcan's smelters in the Saguenay valley. CHUTE-A-LA-SAVANNE, downstream from Chute du Diable, is also rapidly approaching the day when all five of its generators will add 270,000 h.p. to the Saguenay power network. ISLE MALIGNE smelter addition is now in production and its full capacity is available for civilian and defense needs. In 1953, Alcan's four smelters in the Province of Quebec will produce over 1 billion pounds of aluminum ingot for the markets of the free world.

In the fifty-two years since the first Canadian aluminum plant opened at Shawinigan Falls, Canada's aluminum industry has grown to be the second largest in the world; and Canada now exports more aluminum than any other country.

Still the need grows, both at home and abroad, for this light, strong, modern metal of many uses. And Aluminum Company of Canada is putting man-power, and money, and engineering brains, and imagination into the job of keeping up with the demand.

Aluminum is "packaged power". The electricity needed to produce one ton of aluminum would light the average home for nearly a generation. By making use of Canada's abundant, low-cost power, this Canadian enterprise has created employment and income for tens of thousands: for the men who build and operate the dams and powerhouses, the docks and smelters and power lines it needs; and for the more than one thousand independent Canadian companies who turn aluminum into countless forms important to industry and our own daily living.

Council Asked To Back City Ambulance

A request to the council that the ambulance services operated from four funeral homes be assumed by the city was relayed by the board of works Monday night to the finance committee.

The proposal from the owners of the private ambulances suggested an alternative that the council appoint someone in their place to provide this necessary service. It was received from the Comstock, Bellegherp, Nesbitt and Kaye funeral homes.

Ald. P. J. Anglesey, presiding for the first time as chairman of the board of works, said that the operation of the ambulances at present did not begin to pay the cost. The proprietors were subject to public criticism. The only adequate system, Ald. Anglesey said, required a 24-hour service, available at all times, and the private institutions could not provide it. He remarked that the council might consider the granting of an ambulance franchise as adopted in Oshawa and some other cities.

Mayor Waddell's motion recommending that the question be discussed in finance committee was seconded by Ald. Graham. In the meantime, City Clerk Outram is asked to obtain information about the ambulance practice in other cities the size of Peterborough.

Mrs. G. K. Fraser Re-elected Horticultural Society Head

The Peterborough Horticultural Society held its annual meeting at the YWCA Monday night. The main item on the agenda for the evening was the election of the new officers. Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls was again returned to office as president. On the executive with her, are C. H. Bacon, first vice-president; D. J. Emery, second vice-president; and secretary-treasurer, W. C. Wilks.

Still holding their offices on the board of directors for 1952-53 are: Mrs. Clara Baker, Mrs. W. Gracie, A. Lee, K. Long, and Mrs. S. Stephens. Elected to the Board of Directors for 1953-54 are: Mrs. K. Millard, Mrs. Amy Curtis, Ken Johnston, Gordon Lupton, L. Smith, the immediate past-president is J. A. Smith.

YOUNG EXECUTIVES

The president, Mrs. Fraser opened the 92nd annual meeting of the Peterborough Horticultural Society and thanked the members of last year's executive for all their helpful co-operation. She reported that this year's executive was the youngest to hold office in the history of the Society.

In 1952 there was a decrease in the membership, but she had every hope that it would grow to a much bigger club than ever before. The new year offered new challenges and better prospects and she said she and the executive would deal with them to the best of their ability. She hoped that in the new year there would be more entries at the Canadian National Exhibition, since they had obtained more room for their displays.

Mrs. Fraser read the financial report for 1952 and asked that it be passed. Grants for the year 1952, $451; membership fees, $368.; admission fees, $480.; total receipts came to $1,724.29. Expenditures for the year 1952 came to 1,625.03, and the bank balance to date $99.26.

The secretary-treasurer, W. C. Wilks showed the club's appreciation of all the work and effort Mrs. Fraser had put into the society by presenting her with a spray of spring flowers.

While the nominations were in session, Mr. Stroyan Leith held the chair.

D. J. Emery, vice-president, conducted a draw, and awarded the first prize of $20. to E. A. Brown, second prize of $10. to Mrs. J. Meaker and third prize of $5. to Mrs. Johnston who was the only one present to receive her prize. The awards were given out in voucher form to be used in buying some type of horticultural equipment.

Len Titterington who spent the summer in England showed colored slides of many of the beautiful parks and gardens in England.

There was a light lunch served afterwards by the women of the committee.

Reeve Of Smith Favors Paving Buckhorn Road

County council's discussion on the possibility of paving the Buckhorn Road this year continues to be a matter of top interest to Smith township residents.

Commenting on this subject, Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith told the Examiner that he wished to correct any misunderstanding on his personal views.

"I'm 100 per cent behind the idea of issuing debentures to pay for the paving of the Buckhorn Road," he said. "And I'd like to see it done all at one time, not a mile or so this year, a few more miles next year, and so on."

Reeve Fitzgerald is not only reeve of the township through which the 12½-mile road runs, but he also lives by the road and knows the facts through personal experience.

"My proposal in county council was not to pave half of the road this year and the rest later. What I wanted was to finance it, say, half by debentures and half out of current expenditures. Rather than see it paved in bits and pieces I would prefer to see the whole cost (estimated at nearly $70,000) met by debentures."

COMPROMISE

Reeve Fitzgerald said he thought a compromise solution was best: do the job half by debentures and half out of the year's budget. So that this cost could be met by the ratepayers, he seconded the motion of Reeve Roland Tedford of Douro to keep the county road rate at eight mills. Instead, it passed at seven and a half, a reduction of half a mill from 1952.

"Cost of maintenance this past year was more than $16,000," said Reeve Fitzgerald. "Why, over a four or five year period this amounts to the same cost as a completely paved road."

He said that Smith township would continue to press for a mulch top to be laid on it.

"More than 5,000 cubic yards of gravel were put on it last year. It's now in good shape for paving. In another two or three years the gravel will have gone and it will be a more expensive job."

May Investigate Rules Of Election

Peterborough's electoral restriction requiring voters to mark their ballots for at least four aldermanic candidates is to be investigated as a preliminary to any eventual alternative action by the council. That was the recommendation of the board of works Monday night after considering a labor resolution urging the council to rescind the special enactment to which objection is taken as interfering with the free choice of the electors. A motion by Aldermen William Beggs and Arthur Burrows proposed that City Clerk Outram and City Solicitor Huycke prepare a bylaw to be submitted to the people at the municipal elections.

An amendment by Alderman Miller and Harold Rehill changed that approach to the question. It asks that the clerk and solicitor to enquire into the circumstances by which the "must vote for four" rule was originally adopted and put into effect. Their report is intended to provide the council with the background of the regulation which labor regards as in intrusion on the municipal suffrage. The amendement carried.

PARKING METER REVENUE

The communication from Henry Nokes, secretary of the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council, also suggested that the revenue from parking meters should be used to acquire additional parking space instead of being desposited in general treasury.

Replying to a query from within the board, City Clerk Outram recalled that in 1918 the council secured a private bill of the Legislature providing for the two-year term for five aldermen, and the special feature injecting the compulsory element of voting for four aldermanic candidates with the option of voting for five.

Ald. J. A. Dewart commented that there was nothing mandatory applying to the election of members of the Board of Education.

Ald. Miller suggested that before a bylaw was prepared for reference to the people the council should try to get some information about the circumstances in which the private bill of 1918 was obtained, and what prompted it.

"We'll probably arrive at the bylaw finally," said Ald. Miller, "but in the meantime we could get this report from Mr. Outram and Mr. Huycke."

The other resolution relating to the council's use of the parking meter revenue was referred to the property committee in a motion by Mayor Hugh Waddell and Ald. Stan Longhurst.

FIND RIGHT SPACE

"If we find the right parking areas, I don't think there is any doubt about the council getting the money to pay for the space," Ald. Rehill said. . If the council adopted a policy of spending the revenue on off-street parking lots, it could have a very considerable parking area in a period of 10 years.

"I don't think it makes any difference where the money comes from," said Ald. Miller. "I know that the City Clerk was authorized to enquire into additional land for parking space."

Workers Get 3 Hours' Pay For 1 Worked

Half-Forgotten Clause Provides Extra For "Emergency Work"

Three hours' pay for one hour's work! That largess was somewhat difficult for members of the board of works to swallow on Monday night.

This little three-for-one formula in the agreement of the civic employees' association with the council was accepted and approved by the board. The incident was reported by City Engineer Chalmers. It related to a detail of overtime work.

On January 6, some board employees were called out at 6 a.m. instead of 7. They were paid 1½ times the regular rate and claimed an extra hour's pay for that time.

Customary provision for overtime in working agreements, Ald. W. J. Beggs remarked.

"Pay three times for one hour's work," said Ald. Miller. "I don't see how I could go for that."

"It seems to be according to the council's agreement," said Ald. Gordon Farquharson, "and as if they are entitled to it."

Ald. P J. Anglesey, presiding, read the pertinent clause. "The city has to honor its agreements," said Ald. J. A. Dewart.

The text of the clause is: "Article seven: All time worked by an employee in excess of the hours scheduled for such employees in any one day shall be deemed overtime, and for such time worked employees shall be paid one and one-half times the regular hourly rate.

"Any employee called into work before or after his regular scheduled work day shall be guaranteed a minimum of two hours' pay at one and one-half times his regular hourly rate. No employee shall be laid off during his regular working schedule to equalize any overtime he may have worked.

"To qualify for overtime pay an employee must have accumulated in any one work week more than 45 hours work to his credit, in order to receive overtime pay during that week, unless he has been laid off for any period during the said week."

COUNCIL STUDIES CONTRACT

That clarified the board's position and the employees' claim, and it was recalled that the agreement had been deliberated before the council entered into it.

As Ald. Beggs said it was an extra allowance in pay applying to the emergency nature of the call. The men were brought out before the regular hour of beginning work. And it would also apply, for instance, if men went home at the end of the day and were suddenly called back when they got there.

A motion approved the fulfilling of the contract with the civic employees, in other words, ratifying three hours' pay for one hour's work.

Rambling Reporter

JUST AS A DUTY

On the board of works file last night there was a circular-letter from the Ontario Good Roads Association about their convention. Ald. P. J. Anglesey, chairman, asked of the city engineer: "Do you attend their conventions, Mr. Chalmers?" And the Chalmers answer was: "Not if I can help it." He said he did attend two years ago.

Name Pitchford Chairman 1953 Committee

Arthur Pitchford, was elected chairman of the Advisory Vocation Committee of the Board of Education, held Monday evening in the city hall.

Chief business of the meeting was preparation of the Commitee's estimates for 1953. The budget was completed, and forwarded to finance committee of the Board of Education.

ADULT EDUCATION

Gratifying reports were presented, covering all adult education night classes held during the past year. Enrollment in the business classes was noted as very satisfactory. Registration in both the industrial and home economics sections also kept pace with totals for the year previous. It was estimated some 1,400 persons were enrolled under the committee's program. Persons dropping classes averaged about the same as in 1952.

The committee also passed estimates for new equipment required for machine shop to be established at South Central school.

The report on commercial night classes listed an enrollment last years of 265. Majority of these were beginners in typewriting classes.

COST ACCOUNTING

A falling off in the newly instituted cost accounting classes represented a reduction of 50 in enrollment. It was considered inadvisable to open elementary and cost accounting classes this year, in view of the fact only seven and five registrations, respectively, were received for the school year 1952-53.

B. W. Switzer, vice principal of the Night School, in reporting to the committee on home economics and industrial departments, stated "the overall picture is considerably better than average".

In auto mechanics alone, it was reported no less than 81 per cent. completed the course in the IA group, and 89.5 per cent. in the IIB group. Machine design and machine technology also showed a high percentage of young men completing the course.

Conservation In Douro May Stop Flood

City To Approach Township Council To Seek Solution

The co-operation of Douro township council may be sought by the city in a long term plan of conservation to help arrest the flow of water, which eventually reaches the course of the old Ashburnham creek, was mentioned at the meeting of the board of works Monday night.

This idea stems from the M. E. Ketcheson proposal to the city council that some means should be adopted to relieve the freshet threat to the neighborhood east of Armour Road.

Ald. J. A. Dewart said that possibly Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, might be able to provide some leadership in association with Douro authorities in absorbing and halting water by conservation methods before it could approach the northeast entrance to the city.

Practical conservation includes the planting of trees to hold water where it falls as well as melting snow. If checks could be placed on the Douro creek, they would prevent to a large extent the threat of spring freshet flooding.

City Engineer Chalmers told the board that a culvert similar to the enclosing of the old Park St. drain would cost approximately $28 to $30 a foot.

The creek watershed is dry all summer, Ald. Harold Rehill remarked.

"It reaches back into Douro for six miles," said City Engineer Chalmers. "We might get some help in practical conservation from the township and from farmers in that area."

City Engineer said there had been no flood volume in the last five years. However, surface water does flow into the creek bed.

"I haven't seen it crossing Armour Road yet," Ald. W. J. Beggs said, but in his opinion the creek presented a continuing problem.

The board decided to leave the creek question with Mr. Chalmers for a further report as to what might be done in permanently effective drainage.

Naguib Lists 4 Freedoms On Anniversary Of Riots

By HAIG NICHOLSON

CAIRO (Reuters)—A year ago Monday it was "Black Saturday" in Cairo, and mobs stormed through the city murdering and looting.

Prime Minister Naguib stood Monday before a huge, attentive crowd in Liberty Square and—borrowing a leaf from the book of Franklin D. Roosevelt—proclaimed his own "four freedoms."

"The major victory to which we aspire is liberty from tyranny of the usurper and freedom from fear, poverty and ignorance."

The late President Roosevelt in an address to the U.S. Congress in 1941 proclaimed the four freedoms as: Freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear.

Naguib, who seized power six months ago again sounded the theme of the four-day liberation rally celebrations—British troops must get out of Egypt.

MUST LIBERATE VALLEY

"The dignity of our country demands that we liberate the Nile valley from every foreign soldier," he said.

Speaking in Arabic, then in English, Naguib said that a year ago "the only way people knew how to express themselves, either in joy or distress, was in destruction."

Now, he added, "you have shown discipline and how to control your emotions."

While everything was rosy in Liberty Square, the government was taking no chances in the Canal zone, manned by unwanted British troops. No processions were allowed there.

And the British Army put all Egyptian towns out of bounds to its soldiers, just in case.

Fine New Schools

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glofcheskie, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a short while I was relieved of my pain and was soon on the job again."

Don't suffer from Rheumatic or Arthritic pain. Take Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine to bring quick relief from such pain. Only 65c, $1.35 at druggists. T-848

PUSHING THROUGH—Bulldozers push over 70-foot trees during the building of the Warrer Lake road, running west from Timmins. The extended road will reach to the Canadian National Railway transcontinental line at Kukatusk. Eventually is intended to continue to Chapleau, about 65 miles to the west, to make direct contact with the road from Sault Ste. Marie. Territory through which the new road is being built is of the same formation as surface structure of the gold mines in the rich Porcupine area.

Iroquois Tribe Seeks Share

MONTREAL (CP)—White man—especially Vermont white man—beware. Iroquois Indians of nearby Caughnawaga reservation think land between Lake Champlain and Connecticut river theirs by paleface law. They want plenty money for land—more than $1,000,000.

To the background beat of tribal drums, more than 300 representatives of the Iroquois in French-speaking Canada looked back across border hills Sunday night to the lakes and streams of wooded eVrmont 150 years ago and lands where they claim their ancestors hunted and was theirs by law, both Indian and white man's.

They came in traditional head dresses and splendor, in working clothes and heavy boots, to powwow to hear their lawyer, 84-year-old Ronald E. Stevens of White River Junction, Vt., explain the latest moves to obtain more than $1,000,000 from Vermont Legislature for their former hunting grounds. Vermont Legislature has agreed to hear their case in March.

HAS SEEN MAP

Mr. Stevens said he had seen a map of Vermont dating back to the early 1700s showing Iroquoisia and Indian hunting grounds

He told them it did not matter whether they had once been given a note of compensation, if it could be proved the land was theirs, and called on all Indians whose parents or grandparents had ever mentioned anything about the claim to get in touch with him.

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—The stork had quite a load when it visited the farm of Raymond Churchill in the Goodwater district. A cross-bred Holstein-Shorthorn cow, which two years ago had twin calves, this time yielded triplet calves.

Brantford Voters Have 2 Money Bylaws

BRANTFORD (C)—Voters here will decide March 16 on two money bylaws for expansion of Brantford General Hospital which may cost $2,000,000 and $1,000,000 for the Sisters of St. Joseph for construction of a 100-bed hospital

The board of governors of Brantford General Hospital asked authority to modernize the present building and to add 120 beds. The bylaw deals with financing this program.

The Sisters of St Joseph have offered to provide a hospital for the city and surrounding municipalities.

Committee Of 26 Will Organize

OTTAWA (CP)—A new phase of the parliamentary row over the Currie report starts today

The 26-man Commons committee on defence expenditures is to meet to organize for the battles ahead.

It is expected to name Col. David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) chairman for another year and to make arrangements to call as a witness George S. Currie, Montreal accountant, whose name is attached to the most controversial report Parliament has tackled in recent years.

It is the report on the army works services which describes a "general breakdown" in control of that army branch, an indifference to administration, serious security flaws and other weaknesses

The House agreed last week to send the report to the committee for further study and recommendations, climaxing days of hot debate.

Bigger Things Ahead For Canada

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Big though her post-war expansion has been, Canada is just getting warmed up for bigger things ahead, a senior government official said today.

Maj.-Gen. H. A. Young, deputy minister of resources and development, said there are sound reasons for believing Canada stands on the threshold of an industrial growth "such as the United States experienced in the period from 1861 to 1929."

The search for new minerals is throwing back North America's last frontier in the northland and men are beginning to realize that this bleak area is not nearly as inaccessible as they had thought, Gen. Young said in a speech prepared for delivery to the London Rotary Club. Roads, rails, aircraft and ships were opening up the north at an increasing rate.

He enumerated the vast projects now unfolding across Canada and the growth of her trade and production.

"Some of the most significant undertakings are still in the preproduction stage while others have as yet realized only a part of their potential. What we are doing now is to a considerable extent just laying the foundations for future expansion."

Police Catch Woman Bandit

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Police said a young woman they described as "despondent" held up a branch office of the Manufacturers and Traders Trust Company Monday but was captured moments later in a nearby house.

Detective Sgt. R. M. Dougherty said the woman fled from the bank with $3,000 after pulling a 25-calibre automatic pistol on the assistant manager and a teller.

Detective Chief William T. Fitzgibbons identified the woman as Dorothy Mary Platt, 24. She was held without charge.

Another woman passing by the bank saw the woman come out of the building and followed her to a house about a block way, the officers said. She was picked up there, they added.

The money was recovered, they said.

Raise Poll Tax To $10 In Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP) — City council Monday night voted to retain the poll tax and to increase it from $7.50 to $10.

Tax collector Clarence Cox termed the tax unfair. While some pay it, he said, others manage to avoid it.

The poll tax is levied on residents between 21 and 61 who don't own taxable property in the city.

Italians Making Big Bid For Share Of Passengers

By JOHN TRACY

ROME (CP)—The Italians, who once held the mythical blue ribbon of the Atlantic, are again making a bid for a share of the North America - Mediterannean passenger traffic with fast ships and a hotel splendide atmosphere.

Ravaged by wartime losses that cut [illegible] tonnage from 3,500,000 to 300,000, Italy's shipping reached its post-war high-water mark early this year when the Andrea Doria made her maiden trans-Atlantic voyage from Genoa to New York.

When the Andrea Doria's 30,000-ton sister-ship is launched at Genoa this spring, Italy will have 4,000,000 tons of shipping. That figure is small compared with Britain's nearly 20,000,000 tons and too small for dollar-short Italy, which has to bring in nearly half her imports in ships of other countries.

HELD NEAR-MONOPOLY

Before the war Italy, with the super-liners Rex and Conte di Savoia, held a near-monopoly of the North America-Mediterranean passenger trade. The 53,000-ton Rex held the Atlantic speed record from 1933 to 1935 with her 28-knot crossing from Gibraltar to New York.

SOUTHERN ROUTE

Now with new ships Italy is back in the Atlantic passenger business with the object of exploiting the southern run from New York to the Mediterranean where even January weather is balmy. The 25-knot Andrea Doria and her projected sister-ship will make the New York-Italy express run in 8½ days.

The Italians employed more than a score of artists and architects to give the Andrea Doria the atmosphere of a great floating hotel. Officials are planning a competition for artists to carry out the decoration of the sister-ship which probably will be named Cristofero Columbo.

BIG DOLLAR EARNERS

Both ships, together with the 25-year-old Saturnia and Vulcania, are regarded as big dollar earners for Italy.

Senator Paolo Cappa, minister of merchant marine, told a touring group of Canadian and United States newspaper men about Italy's objective in the Atlantic passenger trade:

"Our mercantile marine can't refuse to recognize the right of life to its competitors but only wants to maintain its share of traffic and eventually exploit any increase which might result in the next few years through the improvement of the economic conditions of the world."

Senator Cappa indicated that with the North American service under the Italian flag on a "stable basis," Italy will turn to the question of modernizing its tonnage on other world routes, but she will avoid any attempt to build superliners such as Britain's 80,000-ton Queen Mary or the 50,000-ton American liner, United States.

Look To Canada To Assume Role Of Mediator In World Wheat Agreement

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada may assume the role of mediator in an attempt to break the price deadlock hampering negotiations for a new international wheat agreement.

The final act in the big battle over wheat prices unfolds in Washington Jan. 30. Forty-six countries, including Canada, will gather in a last effort to reach agreement on a new pact.

While importing countries have resisted price advances, Canada, the United States and other exporters have called for jumps to meet higher production costs and rises in the cost of living.

Canada has given no indication of the price she wants, but the United States has suggested a new ceiling of $2.50 (U.S.) a bushel for No. 1 northern, a rise of 70 cents a bushel from the current ceiling of $1.80.

HIGH FOR IMPORTERS

There is certainty in Ottawa that no importer will agree to such a big jump. The Canadian delegation, to be led by M. W Sharp, assistant deputy minister of trade, likely will seek to have the U.S. tone down its suggested rise.

If negotiations break down—and the outlook is still gloomy—it will mark the end of a brief peacetime era in which world wheat prices were pretty well determined and fixed by the major buyers and sellers even before the crop was rady for harvest and sale.

It will mean a return to an era of sharp competition among exporters for the world's wheat markets; of price fluctuations which may not be altogether to the liking of the farmer; and perhaps the revival of the bi-lateral wheat pacts, such as the Anglo-Canadian agreement of 1946-50.

The Washington conference will be significant not only for the wheat producer but also for the consumer. The price of wheat goes a long way in determining bread prices.

For four years now, the international wheat agreement price has been fixed at a maximum of $1.80 a bushel (U.S.) for No. 1 northern, with the floor dropping 10 cents a bushel each year to a minimum, this year, of $1.20.

HELD AT CEILING

Not once since the agreement began has the price slipped from the ceiling. But the current pact, which Canada helped initiate, expires next July 31.

The exporting countries—Canada, the U.S., Australia and France (which has only minimum amounts of wheat to export)—all want more money. Argentina, another big wheat exporter, is not a pact member.

The 42 importing countries, led by the United Kingdom, the biggest buyer, have resisted all calls for price boosts and nature is on their side.

There's a lot of wheat in Norh America. Both Canada and the U.S. had bumper crops last fall. Canada's crop reached a peak of 688,000,000 bushels.

HOWE IS CONFIDENT

But Canada's trade minister, C. D. Howe, has expressed confidence in the future, even without a pact. The market has been buoyant.

"We can, of course, get along without such an agreement and its renewal can by no means be taken for granted," he said in a Toronto speech last October.

"But I think that it would be a good thing for Canada, and good for the world generally, if a satisfactory extension could be arranged."

Mr. Sharp says he believes the Washington bargaining will be "tough and hard." But the countries want to avoid wide price fluctuations. And that was one point in favor of a new agreement.

Grey Cup Semi-Final Seems Assured

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It appears that a Grey Cup semi-final alternating between the West and the East is in the bag. The three big senior football circuits in Canada are for it.

Brainchild of the Big Four Football Union, the semi-final has been given the unofficial endorsation of the Western Conference and the Ontario Rugby Football Union. The ORFU is the breeding ground of Canadian football players and its champion would play the West this year and the Big Four in 1954.

Unless some unexpected opposition to the proposal is voiced at the Canadian Rugby Union's annual meeting in Edmonton in March, the semi-final can be considered a shoo-in.

Typical of the general feeling was the comment of Harold Bailey of Toronto, secretary of the ORFU. "The suggestion has a great deal of merit," he said. "There would be plenty of interest in such a game, and I think it would spur the West's interest in the ORFU.

WILL DRAW WELL

"Just offhand, I'd say a semi-final in the West will draw well enough to make the trip financially worthwhile. It will certainly be given serious consideration at our annual meeting Feb 24."

The presidents of two western clubs saw other advantages in the plan. Ken Montgomery of Edmonton Eskimos and Karl Slocomb of Winnipeg Blue Bombers both said the semi-final might help solve the problem of keeping the western champions in shape during the long layoff between the western final and the Grey Cup game.

"If the West couldn't beat the ORFU they would have no business contending for Grey Cup honors anyway," Slocomb added.

INDICATES SUPPORT

Norm Perry of Sarnia, first vice-president of the CRU, said he hoped the plan would have the backing of the western league, indicating he would support the suggestion at the CRU annual meeting.

Sam Shefsky, president of Toronto Balmy Beach, said the ORFU is the backbone of the sport in developing Canadian players, and for this reason should not be left out of the Grey Cup picture. He thought the game would be well attended out West.

An official of Windsor Royals said the game was a good idea providing it was played in the West or the ORFU team's home park, and not in Varsity Stadium in Toronto.

Hugh (Red) Douglas, coach of Sarnia Imperials, 1952 ORFU champions, said his team was willing to go along with the idea.

If the Big Four suggestion is approved by the CRU the first game probably would be played this year in the West.

3-Way Hair Style

Nothing can give you a brand-new look so effectively as a new hair style. You don't however, want to have something tricky done to your head that you'll tire of quickly. A New York hair stylist has the answer to this.

This stylist's new creation will stay new because it's three styles in one. He calls it "Coiffriety." The same settting combed in three different ways results in as many different hair styles.

This stylist cuts hair to a five-inch length on the crown and tapers it off to a three-inch length around the nape of the neck and the forehead. One basic setting of two rows of pin curls can then be combed into three versions.

The first combing leaves the setting very much intact. A smooth crown is surrounded by a double border of sculptured curls.

You can brush it straight back without a part for the currently fashionable off-the-face hair style and brush the curls into a casual fluff at the back.

For an evening chignon, brush your hair sleekly to the center back, anchor it there and twirl ringlets about your fingers in vertical rows.

You can't take full advantage of this or any hair style unless your hair is in good condition, sparkling with life and soft manageability.

Hot oil treaments—with castor or almond oil for good penetration or one of the excellent lanolinized hair creams—can be given before each shampoo for a time. Some of the preparations are intended for after-shampoo use. Take advantage also of cream rinses for pouring over your hair following a shampoo.

NO MATTER what style is being promoted, the shirtwaist dress goes on—season after season, year after year. Silk rep, in dusty pink with narrow black and shocking pink stripes, is the fabric used for a pretty shirtwaist dress, the stripes used chevron fashion on the bodice, vertically for the skirt.

THESE KNITTING gloves lend a delicate air on hand but are practical as well as pretty. They're completely washable, dry quickly. The nylon knit (above left) has rows of tiny red and black dots that are screened onto white background. Nylon boucle knits (above) have diamond pattern on back, fitted wrist and crocheted-effect cuff. Trim fit of these nylon knits (left) is achieved through use of elasticized cuffs. Lacy cotton string gloves (right) have hand-knitted look at budget price. These have transparent fingers and double cuff, will hold their shape indefinitely.

Cauliflower "Cast" With Rice, Cheese In Glamor Dish

Here is a rice and cauliflower casserole which may be "cast" as a leading star or as a supporting player at lunch or dinner. Happily, only one "set" is necessary for this feature production since the rice and cauliflower are quickly prepared, cooked and served in one and the same dish.

What a glamorous "gown" of cheese this inexpensively sumptuous oven dish wears to the table! Slices of yellow cheese laid over the cooked rice and cauliflower become hot, bubbly and oh-so-good, during a performance under the broiler. Then this "eating hit" is ready to "knock 'em in the aisles" with its easy—tempting—enticing flavor.

INGREDIENTS: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; ½ small clove garlic, minced; 2 tablespoons finely diced onion; 3 teaspoons salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; 2 teaspoons steak sauce; 1 small head cauliflower (1 pound); 1 cup uncooked rice; 2½ cups water; ¼ pound thinly sliced cheese; paprika.

METHOD: In a 2-quart cooking-serving casserole, place the butter or margarine, garlic, onion, salt, pepper and steak sauce. Wash the cauliflower. Trim off most of the leaves around the head of cauliflower but leave some of the more tender ones. This adds taste and color to the finished dish. Cut the cauliflower into six pieces and stand these pieces in the centre of the baking dish. Pour the rice around the cauliflower. Add the water. Be certain all of the rice is covered with water. Cover the baking dish and place in a 350° F. oven for 50 minutes or rice and cauliflower are tender. Uncover and lay the over the top of the cauliflower. Sprinkle with paprika. Place under moderate heat in the broiler and broil until the cheese melts and becomes bubbly. Serve immediately.

This recipe makes six servings.

Would Allow Women Beauty Cost Deductions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two tax consultants today proposed that working girls be permitted to deduct their beauty costs from their income for U. S. tax purposes, just like professional glamor girls do.

It's just as important for secretaries, clerks and other women working for wages to look pretty on the job as it is for the girls of movies, stage, radio and television, argued the consultants.

The tax experts are Glenn Graves and Hugh McMahon, who were employed for years in the San Francisco office of the internal revenue bureau.

In letters to senators and congressmen, they also proposed that commuters be permitted to deduct from their gross income their fares for travelling to and from work because nowadays it isn't always possible to find housing close to one's job.

St. Luke's Reports '52

The 77th annual vestry meeting of the parish of St. Luke's Anglican Church, in Ashburnham, was held in the parish hall Monday evening.

The rector, Canon W. J. Gilling was in the chair and opened the meeting with prayer. Miss Lahring Parsons was appointed vestry clerk.

The church warden's financial report showed the parish had a successful year in things material. Harry Willis was elected peoples' warden to succeed Gordon White. Donald Worboy continues as rector's warden.

John Gemmell was elected chairman of the sidesmen. Lay members of the synod were Dr. G. R. Langley, R. G. Maniece, and Ross Greenly. Gordon White was named envelope secretary, replacing Roland Krant.

The advisory board is to be made up of church wardens and lay delegates to the synod along with the presidents of all active parochial organizations, and the rector's appointees.

Auditors were S. J. Pammett, Ken Campbell, and William King Jr. The report of all parish organizations showed an increase in numbers, and a stronger financial position.

It is expected the new church organ will be installed by Easter. Only a small part of the money remains uncollected. It was the wish of the vestry meeting that the organ be a memorial to the men of the church who were killed in both World Wars. A plaque listing their names is to be mounted on the organ.

In his report, Canon Gilling said "the carrying out of the rules of life will mean that in each locality or parish, there will be a living centre of Christian faith, Christian witness and Christian fellowship." He reported an increase in church attendance during the year.

Fashion Flashes

WISE PICKING, when buying for winter resort wear, discloses many items that should be perfect for spring wear at home. One such is a jacket and dress of pale gray silk surah with an abstract print in red and black. The dress has a softly extended neckline and features pleats on either side of the skirt centre. the jacket has vertical pockets.

✧ ✧ ✧

A LUXURY that lasts and lasts, is a good ribbon-knit dress. A simple sheath of nubby nylon with wool yarn is knit with an overlay of silk organdie ribbon to give a new, deep-textured surface. Short sleeves have deep, pointed cuffs and the small collar opens to a shallow V.

✧ ✧ ✧

BACK AGAIN is the dress with fringed touches. A sheer wool dress in light tobacco brown, has black wool fringe forming tiers on its flared skirt. The fringe also marks the side closing of the snug bodice.

Last Service Held at Cavan

CAVAN (ENS)—A large congregation attended at St. John's Anglican Church, Ida, on Sunday morning as a farewell tribute to the Rev. A. A. Chote, who leaves early this week for his new charge at Richmond Hill.

Walter Dyer assisted with the service.

The choir, accompanied by Miss Jean Lough, led in the singing of the hymns. Mr. Chote based his sermon on the early apostolic church. He said the New Testament church owed its strength to its strong individual Christian supporters. He spoke of the important place Sunday school work has in teaching our children to worship and give individual service which later bears fruit in the work of the church.

Another thing, he said, which helped to strengthen the early church was criticism; constructive criticism. Taken in the right spirit it can be a great source of strength to the church.

Secularism, he said, was one of the chief things which would weaken any church.

As a closing thought, he urged them to keep their sights raised above the horizon.

Communion was administered at conclusion.

Mr. Chote thanked wardens and all workers in the different organizations of the church for their splendid support during his three years ministry there. He asked them to stand by their new rector as they had stood by him.

DOUBLE COFFEE PLEASURE
...but not double cost
1 YOU ENJOY fuller, richer flavor in coffee "creamed" with Carnation Evaporated Milk. That's because Carnation is double concentrated . . . homogenized . . . specially heat refined. It's heavy as cream. Naturally it makes coffee taste rich and delicious.
2 YOU SAVE MONEY. Though Carnation makes coffee taste so much better — though millions prefer it to cream in coffee — Carnation costs only half as much as cream.
MORE CANADIANS USE CARNATION IN COFFEE THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

DOROTHY DIX

Unmarried Man of 30 Can Be Caught

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 20, considered attractive, and hold a good office job. Recently, I met a man 10 years older than I am. He is distinguished, well dressed, has a fine, well-paying position, does a lot of travelling and, in short, lives the sort of life I always dreamed of sharing with some one. He seems to be interested in me. I want to know what I should do to continue to hold his interest, and eventually have him propose. I think this may be difficult as his life as a bachelor seems to satisfy him. Should I be casual, or let him know I care.

L. V.

DON'T CHANGE TACTICS

ANSWER: An unmarried man of 30 is not necessarily a confirmed bachelor, so don't give up hope. A man that age who has bypassed the altar may be a bit more cautious than a youth of 21, but he can be caught. Sounds cold-blooded, but since a proposal is what you want, that's what we'll try to get you. Don't rush the man and don't let him know you're seriously interested. Once a man realizes hse's being chased he gets worried and becomes evasive. Continue the tactics that attracted him in the first place, a sudden change of pace is also an error.

Before you embark seriously on this man hunt, are you sure he's the mate for you? Don't let the lure of glamorous places blind you to your real feelings. If you love the man, you'd love him regardless of what he had or where he went. If you are convinced that's the way you feel about him, go ahead!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widower in my alte 50's, interested in a woman of the same age. Her husband died this past year and I know she is lonely. I would like to propose to her, and I know we would be fine companions in our old age, but am wondering if it's too soon to ask her?

C. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: By all means, ask the lady. Then consult your pastor as to the length of time that should elapse before you make public announcement of your intentions.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Although I am 15, I'm not allowed to date because mother didn't go on dates until she was 18. My family also fears that if I go out with boys my grades will drop. This is ridiculous since they are far better than averege and I know they will stay up.

S. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I wonder if mother was perfectly happy about being made to wait until she was 18 before she had a date. For a young mother she certainly has forgotten her youth very quickly. However, if that's her stand, you can't rebel against it. You should be allowed to attend school affairs. Perhaps one of your teachers could talk to Mom about it and see if a change of mind couldn't be effected.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 13 years old and in the eighth grade. I am interested in dramatics and would like to know where I could study after school.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: When you get into high school, you may be able to join the Dramatics Club, which probably is coached by a capable teacher of dramatics. If that doesn't work out, look up a school in your telephone book. I'm sure a city the size of the one you live in has a Dramatic or Theatre Arts School.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: The man I go with is seven years older than I am. He takes me out only once a week, and takes another girl out on week ends and holidays. I love him very much, but I am not sure of his love for me. He says he loves me and that if I really care for him I should be satisfied with one day a week.

WORRIED EDNA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You may be absolutely sure, Edna, that the man neither loves you nor ever will. If he cares for anyone, it's the week-end girl. After all, she gets preferred dating. Stop being fooled by his specious arugments and realize that when a man loves a girl she's the one he wants to see and with whom he wants to be. Split dating is a sure indication of divided affection.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two sisters, 18 and 19, both in love with the same man. He dates both of us. We are both sure he is the only one for us, and though he has never said he loved either one of us, and doesn't know how we feel, we would like to know how we can make him decide between us.

MIXED UP

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You sound more like a pair of pre-teen-agers than girls approaching their 20's. Of course, neither one of you is really in love with the young man, but if you enjoy his company, and get a thrill, as you apparently do, from the suspense of waiting for him to choose, continue dating him until he meets someone else —which he is sure to do.

DREAM KITCHEN — Countess Alexander makes coffee in her "dream" kitchen, complete with gadgets British women see only in movies and exhibitions. The $9,000 worth of household devices sent from the women of Canada as a parting gift to the wife of the former governor-general—who now is Britain's defence minister—have been installed in their home at Englefield Green, Surrey. The Alexanders are understood to be deeply appreciative of the gift, which gives them a kitchen probably without equal in Britain.

BREAKFAST NOOK—This is the sink layout with breakfast nook at right in the Englefield Green, Surrey, home of Earl and Countess Alexander. A parting gift from the women of Canada to Countess Alexander, wife of the former governor-general, was $9,000 worth of household devices. Two rooms had to be used to accommodate all the equipment. A towel warmer is at the left end of the sink cupboard. Above the sink is a decorative fixture with concealed lighting, brightened by Lady Alexander's own china.

UTILITY ROOM—Connected to the kitchen proper in the British home of Earl and Countess Alexander is a utility room holding the deep freeze, washing machine, clothes drier, ironing boards and heated linen cupboards. There also is a sewing-machine table that can be moved to any position. The household devices were a parting gift from the women of Canada to the wife of the former governor-general. The gift gives them a kitchen probably without equal in Britain, a country whose household standards are generally lower than in Canada and the United States.

'Dream' Kitchen Installed For Countess Alexander

ENGLEFIELD, GREEN, Eng. (CP) —Countess Alexander's "dream" kitchen, complete with the kind of gadgets British women usually see only in movies and exhibitions, has finally been installed.

Two rooms had to be used to accommodate the $9,000 worth of household devices sent from Canada as a parting gift to the wife of the former governor-general who now is Britain's defence minister.

The equipment includes an electric stove, water heater, food mixer, refrigerator, deep freeze, toaster, exhauster fan, automatic dishwasher, automatic washing machine, clothes drier, coffee maker and electric steam iron.

The color scheme in the kitchen proper is off-white walls, white splash boards, red working-top tables, turquoise blue cupboards, red leather seats in the breakfast nook, red-and-white curtains and a stainless steel sink.

The floor is of squares made of narrow strips of plywood, providing a surface which requires less maintenance than a rubber floor.

UTILITY ROOM

Connected to the kitchen proper is an utility room holding the deep freeze, washing machine, clothes drier, ironing boards and heated linen cupboards. There is also a sewing-machine table that can be moved to any position.

Above the sink in the main room is a decorative fixture with concealed lighting, brightened by Lady Alexander's own china. Above the stove is an adjustable hood to trap cooking odors.

The Alexanders are understood to be deeply appreciative of the gift, which gives them a kitchen probably without equal in Britain, a country whose household standards are generally lower than in Canada and the United States.

Lady Alexander told a reporter recently she was "bowled over" by the generosity of Canadian women.

Jewish Council In Sound Position Social Work Wide

TORONTO (CP)—The National Council of Jewish Women of Canada is in a sound financial position for the first time in its history, Mrs. Harold Lorie, Toronto, the organization's president, reported Monday.

She told the seventh biennial conference that it has a membership of 5,000, a large increase over that of two years ago.

Sections are interested in many phases of social welfare in which Dr. Reva Gerstein has given professional leadership, said the national president. Scholarships, sponsorhip, of summer camps, rest homes, pre-natal classes, recreational youth programs, friendship clubs for new Canadians, and Golden Age clubs for senior citizens are among the activities.

Sections have provided funds to assist in establishment of community centres, cerebral palsy clinics, rehabilitation centres, schools for retarded children. Service to new Canadians has been going on for 50 years among members who have undertaken the new responsibility of integrating Jewish newcomers into the Canadian way of life.

Of Interest to Women

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Fish Foods Economical

When it comes right down to practising economy why doesn't some-body come up with a kind word for fish?

You girls are sure buying canned fish for the shelves at the grocery store were cleared right off in the canned fish section when we were shopping too late on Saturday afternoon.

Fresh fish fillets are more economical per pound than equal their weight in most meats. Besides, fish provides other elements we need to round out our careful nutrition program.

Remember to serve fish once per week at least to give your meals the tempting variety and the lift we all crave this month.

CREAMED CRAB OR TUNA

One 6½-oz. can crabmeat (or tuna), 2 tablespoons each butter or margarine and flour, ½ teaspoon salt 1, cup milk (or 1 cup water and ¼ cup skim milk powder), 1 hard-cooked egg sliced ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley. Melt butter with the flour in top of double boiler and when mixed smooth add salt and milk stirring until thick: Add sliced egg. Cook the celery in 1 tablespoon butter until it is just soft but not at all brown and add them. Just before serving time add the crab and parsley and Worcestershire and heat through. Around the edge of a small platter arrange triangles of toast. Transfer the creamed tuna to centre, and if desired garnish with a few wedges of tomato

SALMONBURGERS

While these were designed to serve between bun halves with slice of tomato or Spanish onion or strip of bacon, any good cook can plainly see they would make an ideal dinner if accompanied by scalloped tomatoes and baked potatoes.

To 1 1-lb. can pink or red Salmon, including the bones and juice, add 2 cups soft breadcrumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon grated onion and 2 well beaten eggs Form into patties and chill in refrigerator if you have time. This allows the salmon juice to soak the crumbs. Panfry in butter or margarine or bacon fat until golden on both sides and cooked through.

I know that some of you are shaking your heads and mumbling that fish leaves too pungent a memory of it in the kitchen after dinner but

Seven Rinks Survive First Day Of Competition

By HERB MARTIN

Three Peterborough Rinks, two Lakefield rinks and one each from Hamilton Victorias and Bobcaygeon survived the first day's play in the women's annual Warne trophy bonspiel. So close were the scores of those seven rinks that to pick a probable winner is impossible. The finals are being played today.

The bonspiel which started about 10 a.m. Monday featured above-average play which drew a large gallery. There were several games which went into overtime for a decision.

Photographers Put On Interesting Show

Peterborough Camera Club's annual exhibition in the Public Library gallery is quite large and well worth looking at. In addition to the work of members, three commercial studios are exhibiting, and there is a score of photographs from the Woodstock camera club.

The most notable new contribution is the work of Harry Cherney. His photographs are interesting for their subjects— London, Paris, and Peterborough camera views— and for the quality of design. In this regard his "Weathered Pattern" of old stone, his vivid angle on the interior of the Wren dome of St. Paul's Cathedral, his bouquinistes along the Seine, and the portrait study called "Pause" interest the eye and mind.

Old favourites in new photographic studies are E. W. Glover (flowering maple and other work), C. Selby Rickards (Vermont views), Syd Bond (stars on George Street), Ray Titterington (pattern of pillared arcade). Others of equal interest are: N. D. Seaton; George De Long, Bob Williamson (line of trees), Eleanor Glover, Arthur Jenkinson, W. H. Staffen, Allan Humphrey (rope), Peter Astle (Merionethshire view), Rusaw, Barney Scarlett.

The exhibtion comes down on Saturday.

The Woodstock entries do not put the Peterborough photographers in the shade.— T. J. A.

FISH COOKED IN PARCHMENT

Solves the aftermath smell problem.

Wipe 2 lbs. fresh or frozen fish fillets. Sprinkle with salt and 1 tablespoon each chopped onion and celery. Wrap the fish in dampened parchment paper and tie. Drop into kettle of rapidly boiling water. A trivet or metal ring on bottom prevents parchments sticking. Boil allowing 15 minutes per inch of thickness for fresh fish; 30 minutes for frozen fillets that have been allowed to thaw. When you transfer the fish to a hot latter reserve the liquid in the parchment and the bits of vegetables. Make the following sauce:

Drawn Butter Sauce (for boiled fish): Make the liquid from the parchment paper up to 1 cup. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in top of double boiler. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Then stir in the liquid until thick. If desired add 1 or 2 teaspoons lemon juice and 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley. Pour over fish on platter and sprinkle generously with paprika.

BAKED STUFFED LAKE TROUT (serves 6)

Wipe 2 fillets lake trout (weighing approximately 1 lb. each). Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt and place one of them on greased baking dish. Mix together 3 cups soft breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon crumbled thyme or poultry seasoning, 2 tablespoons each minced onion and green pickle relish, 2 to 4 tablespoons melted butter. Arrange stuffing over fish fillet, cover with remaining fillet, brush top with soft butter and hold in place with 2 or 3 toothpicks. Cover. Bake in hot oven of 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes, then remove cover and bake 5 minutes longer to brown top. Do not overcook or fish will be dry. Try top fillet at bottom sides of thickest part. It will flake and is opaque when baked through. Transfer to hot platter and garnish with lemon wedges. This is a great favorite.

No Exceptions

ORLAND, Calif. (AP) — Henry L. Gross is serving 125 days in the county jail for drunk driving. He was sentenced by his son-in-law, Municipal Judge James O. Kirby, after pleading guilty. "I have a public duty to perform," said Kirby. "If I start making exceptions, I might as well resign my office."

Court Dismisses Impaired Charge

A charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol against Donald McCracken of Lakefield Park was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today.

The charge arose out of an accident which occurred in Lakefield shortly after seven o'clock on Christmas Eve, when a half-ton truck, driven by McCracken, ran into the rear of a car owned by Robert Knox, Lakefield, parked opposite the Lakefield Hotel. It was driven ahead by the impact before it came to rest by a railway embankment.

OPP Constable John Gray, who investigated, said that, when he saw the accused, shortly after the accident occurred, he staggered, his speech was thick and he smelled of alcohol.

BLINDED BY LIGHTS

McCracken testified that he was blinded by lights of approaching traffic and failed to see the parked car. He said he scraped his knees and suffered facial abrasions and a laceration of the tongue as a result of the accident. He had had a couple of small drinks earlier in the afternoon but denied that his ability was impaired at the time of the accident.

Defense counsel W. C. Grant argued that his client's condition at the time was a result of injuries caused by the accident which dulled his senses. He contended that McCracken's tongue laceration had thickened his speech and the shock had made him unsteady.

Under cross-questioning, Chief Constable Leslie Foster of Lakefield said that the illumination at the scene of the accident was "not very good, It's very dark there," he said. He said that tire marks indicated that the Knox car was three feet on the paved portion of the roadway when it was parked.

Doctor Reports Pope Now 'Much Improved'

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope was reported "much improved" today from the attack of influenza and bronchial pneumonia which has kept him in bed since last Thursday.

The 76-year-old Pontiff's temperature "has gone down to normal," his doctor reported. The Pope's condition during the week-end had caused grave concern in the Vatican.

U.S. Athletic Union Launches $500,000 Drive To Boost Sports

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States Amateur Athletic Union launched a $500,000 fund drive Monday to enlarge the country's sports program with the battle cry: "We must beat Russia."

The drive starts Feb. 14 and will be raised by public subscription.

"Russia subsidizes her athletes," said Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who heads a 70-man committee assigned to fatten AAU coffers. "She subsidizes her athletes with proletarian methods. She has millions training daily while working for the government.

"To meet this challenge we must make our country sports conscious, must reach out to get 5,000,000, yes, 10,000,000 more young men and women under athletic training.

"We must continue to beat Russia. Other countries are watching us. They must see our youths as an example of American manhood."

GREATEST SUCCESS

It was through their success in gymnastics mostly that the Russians pressed the U.S. for the unofficial team championships of the Olympic Games at Helsinki last summer. After trailing most of the way, the U.S. rallied on the final week-end to gain an over-all edge of 610 points to 553½. Points are awarded for six places—10 for first, five for second, four for third and so on.

The fund drive was termed a creditable project by James Worrall of Toronto, president of the Canadian AAU who added that the Canadian organization does not contemplate any such campaign.

"We wish them success in their campaign for funds to increase participation in the Olympics," he said.

He said the American AAU controlled most sports in the Olympics whereas in Canada the AAU has jurisdiction over only a few. More than a dozen organizations would have to combine efforts if any such drive were held in Canada.

WRONG IDEA

Ken Yost, secretary of the Canadian AAU, said at Winnipeg "certainly money should be raised to help Canadian amateur sports, but I don't think the money should be raised with the idea of beating Russia."

"After all, there are certain fundamentals. It's the game for the game's sake that counts," he added.

Professor Bob Osborne, past-president of the AAU, said in Vancouver he favors a fund drive in Canada to promote amateur athletics but doesn't want it on a "political basis."

He said he supported the American group's drive but "not its motives."

In Montreal, Maj. John Davies, treasurer of the AAU in Canada, said he was all for the idea, but believed the drive "would be just as successful without hinting that it was one country they were against."

Sellout Crowd Attends Funeral Of Mike Jacobs

NEW YORK (AP)—Mike Jacobs would have liked it that way. The old promoter turned 'em away in his final show.

There were few things Uncle Mike liked more than a sellout. He had one Monday as some of the great, near great and plain guys and dolls in boxing and sports paid a final tribute at funeral services for the 72-year-old former promoter and ticket broker at the Riverside Memorial Chapel. Interment was at Washington cemetery in Brooklyn.

The 330-capacity chapel was filled and scores more stood in the hallways to listen to the Reformed Jewish service and a Masonic service.

HAD HEART ATTACK

Jacobs, who ruled a fistic empire until he suffered a stroke six years ago, died of a heart attack in Miami last Saturday.

He sold out his boxing interests to the International Boxing Club 3½ years ago.

Joe Louis was a pallbearer. The old Brown Bomber rocketed to fame under the promotional guidance of the shrewd Jacobs.

OTHERS PRESENT

Jersey Joe Walcott and Primo Carnera, another pair of former heavyweight kings—Mike loved the big guys—were present. So were Bob Olin, the one-time light heavyweight king and Johnny Dundee, the old featherweight champion.

There were sports editors, boxing writers, sports announcers, and executives; Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club who was Jacobs' old publicity man; John Reed Kilpatrick and Ned Irish, executives of Madison Square Garden, showcase of many of Jacobs' premier presentations, and others.

Plan To Amend Succession Duties

QUEBEC (CP)— The Quebec government today gave notice on the legislative assembly order paper that it plans to introduce legislation to amend the Quebec succession duties. Details were not immediately available.

It also will introduce bills amending the Education Act and dealing with jurisdiction of courts of the district of Roberval, in northeastern Quebec.

Malan Introduces Public Safety Bill

CAPETOWN (Reuters)— A "public safety bill," designed to give Prime Minister Daniel Malan's government greater powers to deal with civil disturbance in South Africa, was introduced in Parliament Monday night.

The government has said it wants the new powers to deal more efficiently with disturbances like the native riots which flared last year in Port Elizabeth, Kimberley and East London.

However, opponents of the law contend the law is aimed at strengthening the government's hand in dealing with the native passive resistance to Malan's racial-segregation laws.

ESSENTIAL POINTS

Essential points of the new law are:

1. The governor-general will be able to declare a state of emergency in the whole union or any part of it if he feels public safety is threatened and ordinary law is inadequate to deal with the situation.

2. Different regulations can be made for different areas and for different classes of people. This means one set of rules could apply to whites, with a different set for Africans.

3. Emergency regulations will supersede existing acts of Parliament that may conflict with them. There are a few exceptions, such as election qualification laws.

4. Penalties for infringement of emergency regulations may include confiscation of property.

May Investigate

Mr. Outram recalled that last year some negotiations had been directed at a King St. property, but there was no final answer from the owners.

For the present, the property committee has been asked to consider the Labor resolution. Sentiment of the board of works appeared to be largely on the side of the present practice of putting the meter collections into the city treasury as a credit in the annual budget, and as a means of countering somewhat the tax rate.

"I think we should say that the money is being well used to relieve the taxes, and that if we get suitable land for parking we can also get the money to pay for it," said Ald. Miller.

A motion by Alderman Beggs and Graham directed that a letter be sent to the Peterborough Trades and Labour Council (AFL) explaining the use the council is making of the meter revenue and informing them that the matter they mentioned is being given attention.

Angry Settlers Demand Gov't Action

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Angry white settlers 1,500 strong marched on Government House Monday with demands for stronger measures against the terrorist Mau Mau and attempted to storm the building.

Aroused by the quadruple murder Saturday night of a British farmer, his doctor wife, small son and a servant, irate planters who were all for breaking down the door were only restrained by their self-appointed leaders.

They were finally calmed by word from the governor, Sir Evelyn Baring, that he had agreed to their main demands.

The governor refused to come out and tell the settlers personally what measures he proposed to suppress the secret anti-white society of tribesmen, called Mau Mau (Hidden Ones) which has vowed to drive the white man from Kenya.

TENSION RELIEVED

The tension was relieved only when Michael Blundell, leader of the elected members of the Kenya legislature, announced that the governor has conceded the planters' two chief demands, an overall command to combat the terrorists and a closer association of the white settlers with executive decisions.

Blundell was a members of a delegation chosen Sunday night at a protest meeting of elected white members of the legislature, to visit the governor and had just come from a conference with him.

Fire Prevention Program Paying Off For Forests

TORONTO (CP)—C. B. Davis of Toronto, vice-president of Abitibi Power and Paper Co., Ltd., said today a fire prevention program conducted by the government and the woods industry is paying off by reducing the number and severity of forest fires.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Ontario Forest Industries Association, he said the forest fire loss in 1952 was lowest on record. The total area burned was 12,382 acres, 90,000 acres less than in 1951.

The OFIA membership is composed of sawmill operators, pulp and paper producers and independent exporters. Its members hold cutting rights on 70 per cent of the forest land under lease from the federal government in Ontario. These companies ordinarily employ 21,000 men during the logging season.

PAYING OFF

"There is no doubt that in cooperation with the department of lands and forests the work being done by various companies in fire prevention, organizing fire crews and other education efforts is paying off," Mr. Davis said.

He said the new Crown Timber Act, to be proclaimed shortly, is a "forward step in enlightened legislation and will be of material assistance to the forest industry." The act is an amalgamation of eight different acts under which Ontario's forests have been administered in the past.

R. N. Johnston, chief of the forestry department's research division, said there is a need for more experimentation to determine the best logging methods from a conservation standpoint.

WELL ADVANCED

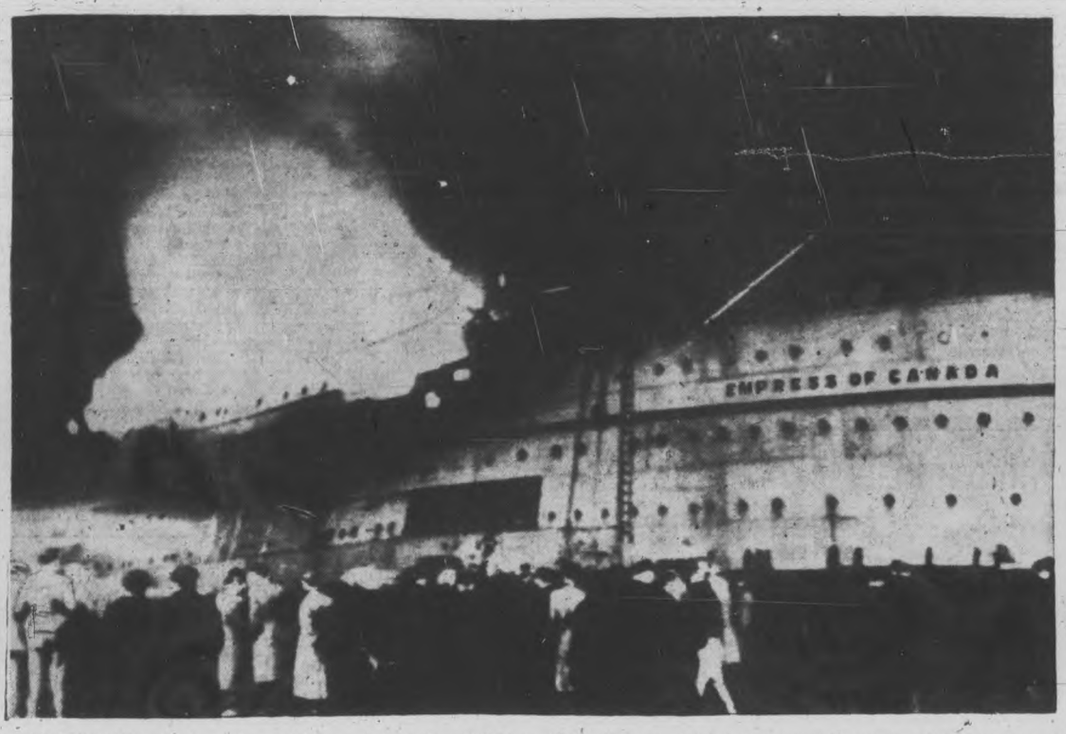
Mr. Johnston said the government's studies of forest regrowth following certain types of cutting and burning is well advanced, and their findings now should be applied to actual logging operations for further tests.

Malcolm Cochran of Port Arthur, president of Canadian Hammermill Limited, was elected association president. He was unable to attend the meeting because of illness.

Mr. Davis and J. W. McNutt of Timagami, general manager of William Milne and Sons, Limited, were elected vice-presidents.

Expect School Enrolment To Be Doubled

OTTAWA (CP) — Enrolment in secondary schools in all provinces except Quebec is expected to double in the next 13 years, the bureau of statistics reported Monday.



The bureau based its estimate on the number of births, post-war immigration and the increasing proportion of children remaining in school beyond the compulsory age.

The number of students in secondary schools last year is estimated at between 298,300 and 305,200 compared with 296,900 in 1951. This year the enrolment is expected to be between 305,200 and 313,800 increasing to between 333,000 and 345,900 in 1955, between 438,800 and 464,900 in 1960 and between 569,000 and 611,500 in 1964.

HIGHER BIRTH RATE

The bureau said this rise will be principally due to the higher birth rate during and since the Second World War. However, other factors also contribute.

Introduction of family allowances in 1945 has been instrumental in improving attendance and in keeping pupils in school to the legal age limit. Other factors include the building of more composite schools and other high school in rural areas, provision of more technical schools and courses, the wave of post - war immigration and increased school transportation facilities at public expense.

FLAMES BELCH from the midship section of the 20,235-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada after she caught fire in Gladstone docks, Liverpool, England, Sunday. Some 200 grimy firemen from Liverpool and district played powerful hoses on the stricken vessel for more than eight hours before she settled in the water at dockside and heeled over. Possible sabotage is being investigated.

Empress Loss One Of Biggest For Company

MONTREAL (CP)—The destruction by fire of the 20,000-ton Empress of Canada was one of the biggest losses ever suffered by Canadian Pacific Steamships, company officials said Monday.

They recalled the sinking 10 years ago of its namesake the original Empress of Canada, torpedoed off the West African coast in March, 1943.

Other passenger ship losses suffered by the company included:

1933—Empress of Ireland, sunk off Father Point, Que., following a collision with a coaling vessel.

1940—The Beaverford and the Beaverburn, sunk by enemy action; Empress of Britain, 42,000 tons, former trans-Atlantic flagship, by enemy action.

1941—Beaverdale and Beaverbrae, by enemy action.

OTHER LOSSES

1942—Duchess of Athol, by enemy action in South Atlantic; Empress of Asia, Singapore, by enemy action; Princess Marguerite, by enemy action.

1943—Empress of Canada and Duchess of York, by enemy action.

1944—Beaverhill, in a marine accident at Saint John, N.B.

1945—Empress of Russia, by fire in dry-dock, at Barrow-in-Furness, England.

In the First World War 16 company ships were sunk—12 by enemy action—out of a fleet of 37.

A company official said the list did not include wartime losses of freighters under admiralty orders which were sometimes chartered to other companies.

Scientists Hope Vaccine Will Protect Against Polio

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Scientists now have a vaccine which they have good reason to believe will protect humans against polio, ending the dread scourge of a crippling and killing virus.

The proof of the pudding will come through tests on many children, probably to be run this year.

This is the main substance of a report Monday night by Dr. Harry M. Weaver, research director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

This vaccine is one pay-off of $18,000,000 devoted to research by the March of Dimes funds since 1938. It looks like the best practical answer yet to the challenge of polio.

MAKE OWN ANTI-BODIES

It has stimulated a few humans, and many monkeys and chimpanzees, to make their own anti-bodies or disease-fighters against all three types of polio virus. The monkeys, in fact, went scot-free even when given lethal doses of polio virus after the vaccination.

The acid test for this vaccine still lies ahead—the tests on thousands of children. Even if it works, the vaccine will not be generally available this year, not until some questions are answered about how good it is and how long its protective effect lasts.

But it is certain that this vaccine is safe, that it can't cause polio in children or adults who get the shots. For it is made out of viruses killed by chemical treatment, with formalin or formaldehyde, so that the viruses cannot damage human nerves.

And it is certain that the vaccine could protect against all three types of viruses that can cause human polio. It took three solid years of work, costing $1,370,000, to learn that there are only three such viruses—named the Brunhilde, Lansing and Leon strains—which are dangerous. This vaccine contains all three types.

Medical research also has learned how to make these viruses in practically unlimited quantities, Dr. Weaver reported.

Australia Celebrates 165th Anniversary Of Founding Of First Colony

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australia celebrated the 165th anniversary Monday of the foundation of the first British colony in the country.

Capt. Arthur Philip landed with less than 1,000 persons at Sydney on Jan. 26, 1788, and Monday Australians celebrated the event with a public holiday featuring sports and festive parties. Capt. Philip's original settlement at Sydney was made up of convicts, soldiers, marines and sailors.

But what was designed to be a penal settlement has become a pioneer in social reforms such as compulsory free education, workers' compensation, and old age pensions. The population has grown to 8,700,000 and the colony which for several years was on the verge of starvation has become a great food exporter.

Australia's advances have been made in the face of enormous difficulties since Australia is an arid country. Of it's 2,944,000 square miles, 37.6 per cent has an average annual rainfall of less than 10 inches. A further 30.8 per cent of the area receives under 20 inches yearly.

It is, therefore, a notable achievement that 110,000,000 sheep and 15,000,000 cattle are successfully pastured and around 200,0000,000 bushels of wheat are harvested yearly.

Since the middle of the 19th century. Australia's prosperity depended on the export of wool, for sheep thrive on the hot, semi-arid southern central parts of the continent.

The industry began in 1797 when a few Merino sheep were imported from the Cape of Good Hope, but sheep-raising really beagin in 1805. Since then studmasters have developed a Merino breed to conform with Australian conditions and provide heavier fleece and fine quality wool.

Today Australia produces more than a third (1,000,000,000 pounds weight greasy) of the total world production of apparel wool and 85 per cent of the world supply of Merino wool.

GOLD DISCOVERED

The transporting of convicts was abolished in 1850 just as gold was discovered. This discovery led to a rapid increase in population—400,000 in 1850 to 1,145,000 in 1860—and an enormous increase in wealth.

Between 1850 and 1860 gold production was 25,000,000 ounces. In the next 30 years another 45,000,000 ounces was produced. New discoveries in West Australia resulted in gaining 84,000,000 ounces between 1890 and 1920. Production since has averaged 1,000,000 ounces yearly.

By 1900 six separate self-governing states existed and federation came about in 1901 when the population was 3,800,000. One consequence of federation was that the Victorian protectionists' policy became Australia-wide and secondary industry started to develop behind tariff protection.

Secondary industry thrived during the First World War and in the post-war boom of the 1920s, during which Australia borrowed extensively abroad. Then came the depression and a catastrophic decline in the prices of wool, wheat and dairy produce which left Australia short of export funds to pay for essential imports and to service overseas debt.

SECONDARY INDUSTRY

After the depression Australia embarked on a deliberate policy of encouraging secondary industry with the object of diversifying its economy. Secondary industry shot ahead during the Second World War and during the post-war period of shortages until by the time the Korean war started, Australia possessed an industry structure mature enough to be able to manufacture motor-cars.

But the rapid expansion had been accompanied by high costs and a decline in primary industries. In 1951 a flood of imports priced local goods out of the market. Simultaneously, the wool market collapsed. Australia suffered severe balance - of - payments - difficulties resulting in the imposition March, 1952, of drastic import restrictions.

Strategy Board Created By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strategy board for the cold war was created by President Eisenhower Monday to study techniques in "the struggle for the minds and wills of men."

The President named eight men for the project, and instructed them to report to him by June 30.

A White House announcement said: "The committee will survey and evaluate the government's information and related policies and activities with particular reference to international relations and the national security."

It is a "psychological strategy board," James C. Hagerty, the White House press secretary, told reporters.

CANCELS APPOINTMENT

Eisenhower, fighting a slight cold, cancelled all but one appointment today. He planned to attend a reception for 160 diplomatic representatives and their wives. Apart from that, he did not expect to leave his study where he is working on his state of the union message which he will present to Congress next Monday.

In appointing the strategy board, Eisenhower implemented one part of a plan of operations for the cold war that he outlined during his election campaign. Speaking in San Francisco Oct. 8, he said:

"In cold war, we do not use an arsenal of arms and armaments. Rather, we use all means short of war to lead men to believe in the values that will preserve peace and freedom. . ."

Members of the new group receive no salaries.

Have Epidemic Of Measles

CHATHAM (CP) — An epidemic of measles which is sweeping through this area has sent scores of children to bed. Three youngsters have died as a result of complications following the disease.

Dr. Wilson Lee, a children's specialist here, said the number of measles cases in the city and Kent county constituted an epidemic. He added:

"The fact that three children have died from complications after measles would indicate that the virus is a very virulent one.

"There is certainly more than a mere seasonal increase in the disease. Compared to other years, it's quite a big epidemic. I can't give you exact figures, but the principals of the schools will confirm that a lot of their pupils are away with measles."

2 IN ONE FAMILY

Two children of a family of six died within nine days of complications developing from measles, Dr. W. H. Jonstone, medical officer of health for Chatham reported.

They are Peter Joseph Crummer, 4, who died Jan. 15, and his one-year-old brother, Paul, who died Jan. 24. A third child of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Crummer is also suffering from measles.

Earlier this month Suzanne Bourdeau, 6, also died after she had measles and developed meningitis.

One Chatham doctor said he had made nearly 60 house calls in the last three days. In many cases the children were suffering from measles and in others the parents were being careful.

In London, doctors at the Victoria Hospital said the elder Crummer brother was suffering from measles, upper respiratory trouble and mumps when admitted. The younger boy had measles and "probably was developing mumps" when admitted, officials said.

NONE IN LONDON

Dr. C. A. Harris, London medical health officer, said there are no cases of measles in London.

In Toronto, Dr. L. A. Prequegnat, MOH, said there has been one death from measles in Toronto this year. A two-year-old boy died in hospital Friday. He developed pneumonia and a lung abscess after recovering from an acute stage of the disease.

Dams Damaging Some Property

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Dams erected on the French river have caused considerable damage to property in that area and are playing havoc with the conservation program, Bob Giles of Gibwood said Monday.

He told the 25th annual convention of the Northern Ontario Outfitters Association that if the federal government goes on operating as it now is 50 per cent of the French river tourist trade will be put out of business. Mr. Giles added that there is a $100,000 lawsuit pending against the government.

Flood conditions in the Lake Nipissing area are caused by political pressure and mismanagement, he said.

Delegates to the three-day convention heard an appeal for more supervision of commercial fishing. Views expressed included one that commercial fishing would be more beneficial to anglers and camp owners if the operations of commercial fishermen removed coarse fish and helped balance the lakes.

Earlier Len Hughes of North Bay, president of the association, urged an open 15-day moose season in Northwestern Ontario and a drive to exterminate the wolf.

He said moose in the Sudbury and Geraldton areas are suffering from liver fluke and the hunting of old bulls in particular would reduce the spread of the disease.

The possibility of outfitters being included in the Provincial Loan Act was discussed and a committee of three was appointed to see Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Dennis Stone of the travel and publicity department addressed delegates on the inspection and grading of outfitters camps. He said the department, through inspection, suggestion and classification, can help "sell" them as it now is doing through publicity.

Greater Federal Aid For Education. CCF Plea

OTTAWA (CP) — A CCF request for greater federal aid to education drew both support and criticism Monday in the Commons.

In what has become an almost annual resolution, R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon) urged that the federal government provide the financial assistance necessary to assure equal opportunity of education to all Canadians.

He won support from Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members, but Liberals, led by Justice Minister Garson, attacked the proposal.

The resolution was still being debated at the adjournment hour. It may not come up again this session if the Commons today adopts a government motion to give its business precedence over that of private members on Mondays and Wednesdays.

UP TO PROVINCES

In the education debate, Mr. Garson said the provinces now are financially able to do more for education. Under tax agreements with the federal government, the provinces had compiled surpluses of more than $660,000,000 in the last five years.

No one wanted federal interference in the field of education. Finance Minister Abbott could not write a cheque for primary education and then not make some check on how the money was spent.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the federal government should bring the provinces and municipalities together to discuss the matter. He suggested tax fields should be reallocated to provide provinces and municipalities with the revenues needed to carry out their responsibilities.

CAN'T CARRY BURDEN

Mr. Drew, former premier and minister of education in Ontario, said municipalities can no longer carry the "crushing" burden of health and education.

F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) said the government was hiding behind a "specious argument" in saying it does not wish to enter a field reserved for the provinces. The government had already set a precedent by giving health grants to the provinces. There was no reason why exactly the same thing could not be done in the education field.

George Nowlan PC-Annapolis-Kings) said the government could aid universities and needy students by inaugurating a system of national scholarships as recommended by the Massey commission on arts and science.

Find Annual Statements From U.S. Firms Encouraging

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Annual statements of United States corporations for 1952 are beginning to show and, so far, are encouraging.

Sam Dawson of The Associated Press, reviewing the early picture, says:

"Reports of 24 corporations, in various industries, and both giant and tiny, show that in the 12 months period they had combined earnings running 10.5 per cent ahead of the previous fiscal year.

"Taken together, the 24 had profits of $594,145,390, against $537,687,303 in the previous fiscal year."

Dawson adds that statements by many company executives show that they think the momentum of better reports is carrying over into the present year.

He cautions, however, that the big gusher of annual statements is yet to come, and could change the picture entirely.

The University of Toronto's department of university extension, in co-operation with the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada, is offering for a second time a correspondence course in "how to invest your money."

The course was first given at the fall session and enrolments were received from many parts of Canada, and from Britain, the United States, Mexico and Hawaii. Virtually all the professions, many business men and many trades were represented—including a geologist in the Yukon and a housewife in Quebec.

Purpose of the course, says the university's announcement, is "to extend, among the general public, knowledge and understanding of investment principles and procedures."

It was a worrying time . . . when it should have been a happy one. The stork was flying our way, but we didn't have the money needed to welcome our new baby. After going over our finances for the umpteenth time, we decided there was nothing for it but to cash our bonds. There had been too many 'surprise' expenses.

Luckily for us, our B of M manager had other ideas. "Here's a real chance for you to save, and you're missing it," he smiled.

"Save? At a time like this?" we nearly shouted.

"It's not as hard as you think," he said, ". . . quite a few of my customers do it.

"First, you have to plan yourself a budget . . . You need a road map, if you're to know where you're going with your money. Here's a little booklet called 'Personal Planning'. Read it carefully. It shows you how to work out your own way of getting ahead, financially—and how to save regularly from now on."

"But how can we save in our present pickle?" I asked him.

"Borrow against your bonds," he said. "You've got a steady job. After all, if you cash your bonds now, you'll have the money you need, but you won't have any savings left. If you use your bonds to borrow, you get them back by paying off your loan instalments. In other words, you're saving your savings. This is one of the times when borrowing is really saving."

Our story has a happy ending, because our financial worries went out of the window before the stork flew in. Yes, our baby had a happy welcome. We paid back the loan. Now, we still have our bonds, we're living on a budget suited to our needs and aims, AND we're saving regularly.

Saving is the only way to move ahead of your worries, and stay ahead. And—sometimes—borrowing at the B of M is the best way to save. Find out how to save despite today's high prices. Ask for your copy of "Personal Planning" at your neighborhood B of M branch. It's yours for the asking.

Rev. A. A. Chote Leaves For New Parish

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The Rev. Arthur A. Chote preached his farewell sermon to a large congregation which filled St. Thomas' Anglican Church on Sunday evening. Many from the other churches of the village and the surrounding country and towns were present.

In his final message, Mr. Chote reminded his parishioners that there had never been such opportunity for the church as there was today. People, tired after trying material things and not having found solutions for their problems, were turning again to the church Unity was all essential, and there must be a strong motive power. The early church grew strong through opposition. The opposition today, while more subtle, was just as real. It consisted of secularism, apathy, pursuit of the almighty dollar and pleasure. He exhorted the congregation to "go all the way out" for Christ, for then only could they know the power of the early church. Then only could they find "the peace that passeth understanding, joy unspeakable here and in the hereafter." Walter Dyer, lay reader, assisted with the opening prayers.

On Tuesday of this week, Mr. Chote leaves with Mrs. Chote and Paul to make their home in Richmond Hill.

SUCCESSFUL PASTORATE

During the three years he has served as rector of the parish of Cavan, his work has met with conspicuous success. Congregations have increased. All three churches of the parish, St. John's, Ida, Christ Church, Bailieboro, and St. Thomas', Millbrook, have been completely redecorated. In each of the three churches contributions have more than doubled. Mr. Chote was responsible in a large degree for the success of the training school in rural sociology for Anglican theological students held in the parish last spring.

He has taken an active part in the life of the community. He acted as chairman of the midget hockey association of the Millbrook-Cavan district, and he sponsored basketball in the Armouries for the boys of the village. When the Millbrook Home and School Association was formed, he was elected a member of the executive on which he has served ever since.

Mr. Chote gave religious instruction in the local high school and in Cavan, Whitfields and Matchett's public schools. Recently, when high school students were given the subject "The Most Unforgettable Character I Have Met" for an essay, with one exception the class wrote on Mr. Chote.

Mrs. Chote has been active in the women's organizations and has done excellent work as the leader of the junior WA.

Mr. Chote was born in Toronto and attended school and university there. His interest in social work led to a special two-year course. For a time, he was associated with the Big Brother movement in Toronto, and was well known in sport circles and Toronto YMCA work. He is a member of the John Ross Robertson Masonic Lodge.

In university and afterwards, Mr. Chote was a noted athlete and played with Toronto senior leagues.

When war broke out he enlisted in the Toronto Scottish Regiment, 1st Battalion, in January, 1940, but soon transferred to the RCAF. After coming up through the ranks, he was commissioned in 1942, and finally retired at the end of the war with the rank of Squadron Leader in charge of flying navigation for No. 1 Air Command.

In token of notable war service, Mr. Chote was awarded the King's Commendation "for valuable services in the air" on the 1945 King's honor list. All in all, he had over 2,000 flying hours, many of which were in combat.

Coming back to civilian life, Mr. Chote returned to university to begin theological studies at Wycliffe College, Toronto. After being appointed to St. John's, Port Whitby, he continued with post-graduate studies. In January of 1950, he came to Millbrook to serve as rector of the parish of Cavan.

REV. A. A. CHOTE

Superintendent Quits Institution

John Butterworth and his wife, Edith, have resigned as superintendent and matron of the Old People's Home, Lakefield.

In a letter to county council they said they were resigning for "personal" reasons, not because of dissatisfaction.

"Our reasons for leaving are personal," said Mr. Butterworth, "and have no reflection on the position . . . I might add that the staff who assisted us in 1952 was very satisfactory."

Mr. and Mrs. Butterworth have been superintendent and matron for two years. They succeeded Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Howden.

The county council Old People's Home committee have been given authority to call for applications. The Butterworths said they were prepared to stay on the job until May 1. By that time, they assume, a new superintendent and matron will have been chosen.

Council Joins Protest Aimed At Margarine

Margarine and other vegetable oils—used as substitutes for dairy products— are the No. 1 peeve of dairy farmers these days.

County council have endorsed resolutions from three other counties condemning the importation and sale of these vegetable oils.

Deputy-Reeve David McIntyre described vegetable oils as "a serious threat to our dairy industries."

"Did you ever think what would happen if the dairy cow disappeared from Ontario?" asked Mr. McIntyre. He said that cattle are necessary for the conservation of the soil.

Reeve Dick Stewart of Otonabee township said the intention of these resolutions from the farming communities in Ontario was not to ban the manufacture of margarine but to prevent the importation of oils from foreign countries.

Similar resolutions were received from the counties of Waterloo, Peel and Oxford.

FORWARD COPIES.

Copies of the Peterborough County resolution are to be forwarded to both the federal and provincial ministers of agriculture, the Hon. Harold Scott, MPP, and Gordon K. Fraser, MP.

Councillors got a chuckle from a comment by Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood village.

"We always use butter ourselves at home," said Mr. Ferguson, "but I've seen lots of farmers coming into the store and buying margarine."

"They sell their cream and then buy margarine," said Reeve W. E. Griffith of Belmont-Methuen, also in a jocular vein.

County Pays $22,846 For Indigents

Peterborough county's share of the loss on indigent county patients during 1952 was $22,846.34, an increase of $533 over 1952.

Though the cost was up there was a drop of 1,446 in the number of days hospitalization spent by patients who couldn't pay.

Here are the statistics:

St. Josephs.—In 1951 a grant of $6,528.50—2,374 indigent patient days at $2.75 a day. In 1952 a grant of $7 584.50—1,379 indigent patient days at $5.50 a day.

Civic Hospital.—In 1951 a grant of $15,785—2,255 indigent patient days at $7 a day. In 1952 a grant of $15,261.84—1,804 indigent patient days at $8.46 a day.

The $5.50 at St. Joseph's and the $8.46 at Civic are the difference per day between the cost of caring for non-paying patients and the revenue to the two hospitals from the county statutory grant and the government grants.

GRANT OF $3.50

At Civic the average daily cost for all patients in 1952 was estimated at $16.42. Average cost of looking after indigents was $14.75 or $1.67 less. The statutory grant from the county is $3.50; the govfro mthe county is $3.50; the government grant on public ward patients is $1.76; and the government grant on indigents is $1.03—making a total of $6.29 paid on indigents. The difference of $8.46 per patient per day was the special grant, amounting to $15,-261.84, that had to be made up by county council.

At St. Joseph's the average daily cost for indigent patients was $11.05. The statutory grant from the county was $3.50 and the provincial grant was $2.05 (not the same as Civic's $2.79 because of bed occupancy and other factors), leaving a daily loss on indigent patients of $5.50. The loss of $5.50 per patient day on 1,379 days was made up by the grant of $7,584.50.

Raising Earthworms Became Big Business To U. Graduate

HAMILTON (CP)—The lowly earthworm is beginning to turn—into big business.

Nick Christopher, graduate of McMaster University, has hired two students to care for his current batch of 6,000,000 wrigglers. And the McMaster students, basketball players Ernie Darragh and Lorne Wrigglesworth, are making enough money at it to pay their way through college.

Nick will sell the worms to fishermen in a patented earthworm container. Nick says his device won't tip over, the worms can be removed easily, and it reduces the trouble of getting at the worm can in a crowded boat.

STARTED SLOWLY

An insurance salesman, Nick started in the worm business in a small way with only about 10,000 wrigglers. These he collected the hard way, by hand, in nightly forays on Hamilton golf courses, prowling the grass with a flashlight.

As long as the worms are healthy production possibilities are almost limitless, he says.

He recently purchased a greenhouse, installed an oil furnace and a sprinkling system to keep his products fat and healthy
